or better yet call our local Rep!
Susan Taub
542-3392 after 2.
Also DAT, GMAT, GRE, SAT, OCAT
VAT, National Medical Boards
Our 38th Year
Stanley H. KAPLAN
EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION
SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938
Branches in major US cities

Vision
Showcase
(formerly House of Vision)
Kent Whalen - Licensed Optician
We are Specialists in:
- Fashion Eyewear
- Contact Lenses
- Emergency Replacements
- Free Adjustments Anytime
- We Clean & Polish contact lenses on the premises.
We also carry fashion styles by Diane Von Furstenberg & Oscar Dela Renta
Mt. Farms Mall, Hadley 584-8324

WMUA NEWS

Tonite- 804-804 804-808 C.C.- 8pm.

First meeting

If your interested in NEWS, and want to become part of the news NEWS, then you might learn something by coming to the first WMUA NEWS meeeting of the NEW semester. ALL members old and NEW should attend. Women and Third World members are greatly encouraged to attend.

University of massachusetts arts council
presents
Quartetto
Italiano
The program will consist of QUARTET IN C MAJOR, OPUS 76, No. 3 ("Emperor") by Haydn, THREE PIECES FOR STRING QUARTET (1914) by Stravinsky, CONCERTINO FOR STRING QUARTET (1920) by Stravinsky and QUARTET IN D MINOR, D. 810 ("Death and the Maiden") by Schubert.
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets now on sale! $5, 4, 3. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

Black Affairs

Young - high hopes for S.A.

UNITED NATIONS [UPI] — Andrew Young, the first black American ambassador to the United Nations, recently said the United States will play a supporting role in negotiations to solve southern Africa's racial problems peacefully.

Young presented his credentials to Secretary General Kurt Waldheim as the U.S. permanent representative to the U.N. on the eve of a trip to Africa.

"I am prepared only to go, to listen to the front line presidents and see exactly what their views are and come back to the Secretary of State and the President," he told reporters.

"It is very difficult for the United States to assume responsibility for the problems in Africa," Young said in his first formal appearance at U.N. headquarters.

"We are sensitive to these problems. We are very concerned about those problems. I think our role will be a supporting role."

Young said he did not think Britain's peace talks between the Rhodesian white regime and black nationalist groups "have been irretrievably broken down, and I have some ideas about what might be done."

The ex-congressman from Georgia, one of the early backers of President Carter's campaign for the White House, conferred at length with Waldheim a few hours before the Secretary General's departure for the Middle East.

Young said he had "compared notes" with Waldheim about their respective trips. "We both are leaving with high hopes," he said, "but we are very well aware of the difficulties that are facing each of us... I am confident that around the world now there is seemingly an understanding that nobody profits when tensions are allowed to continue to drift."

Young said he would visit London briefly enroute to Africa to meet with British U.N. Ambassador Ivor Richard, chief negotiator in the deadlocked Rhodesia talks.

United Nations: Upon arrival at the United Nations, new U.S. Ambassador to the U.N., Andrew Young. At left is Sinan Korle, Protocol Chief of the U.N. (UPI photo)

Announcements

Afro-Am church music

The first music produced by blacks in the United States was chants combining English and African words and melodies to encourage the workers and to synchronize the activities of labor. This music was African and not American. The first true Afro-American music was that which accompanied religious worship, and therefore serves as the source for not only all black American music, but also as a direct history of the Afro-American experience. In order to provide a much-needed background to jazz, soul and gospel music of today, the Music Department offers a new course called Afro-Am Church Music, Music 290D.

Focusing on the history, analysis and sociological aspects of this music and its influence, the course will begin with a short review of religion and music in West Africa in the 17th and 18th centuries and proceed through the music of the major religious denominations in the black community. Special attention will be given to the music of the several Methodist, Baptist and Holiness congregations, with some emphasis on such groups as Spiritualist congregations, Black Muslims and Black Jews.

The course is to be taught by Horace Clarence Boyer, Assistant Professor of Music, and will meet on Monday-Wednesday-Friday at 1:25 in Fine Arts Center, Room 155. Music 290D, offers three hours credit (schedule number 499887). Course requirements include reading, listening and two short examinations.

For further information, contact Professor Boyer at the Music Department, 5-2227 or 5-2279.

Afro-Am presents

The film, The Seven Samauria more commonly known as the Magnificent Seven, will be shown this Thursday in the basement of New Africa. It will begin at 7:00. The admission is free.

Course offerings

Course offerings:
OHI 190A-AF-Am 385 (Tu-Thur) 3 credits
Course Title: Afrikan Men and Women in the United States
Teachers: Nkrumah L. Olinga, Anika Olinga

The purpose of this course will be for Afrikan men and women to begin to work out their problems and contradictions. We will study the relationship between Afrikan men and women from the past to the present. We will look at historical events which have had an effect on the development of Afrikan women and men in the United States, and their relationships with each other. Current political, economic, and cultural events will be discussed in order to shed light on their effect on communication between Afrikan men and women. A special emphasis will be placed on the participants in the class to develop strategies on campus and in their home communities to resolve problems and develop strengths.

Bracey on 'Air'

John Bracey, Chairman of the Afro-Am Dept. and guests will present a historical analysis of "Roots" to be aired over WMUA on the radio show "What it is today" at 12:20-3:00 p.m. "What it is" is a production of BMCP.

Black Affairs continues on Page 6.

SUMMER JOBS
FOR SOPHMORES
SEE see page 15 for details

HATCH
ALBATROSS
IS COMING

Black Affairs

Important hearing this Friday to decide Earl Brown retrial

For people attending the Earl Brown hearing on Friday, at the Northampton Superior Courts, there will be a special message showing the future direction of the Brown-Gether's case. First, the denial of the motion would only transcend the notion that the courts are not willing to deal with justice. But instead wanting to imprison innocent people behind the legal language. Secondly, the granting of the motion would immediately express what the system is all about. The fact that the system would say, they made a mistake would open the eyes of people who remain ignorant to this day.

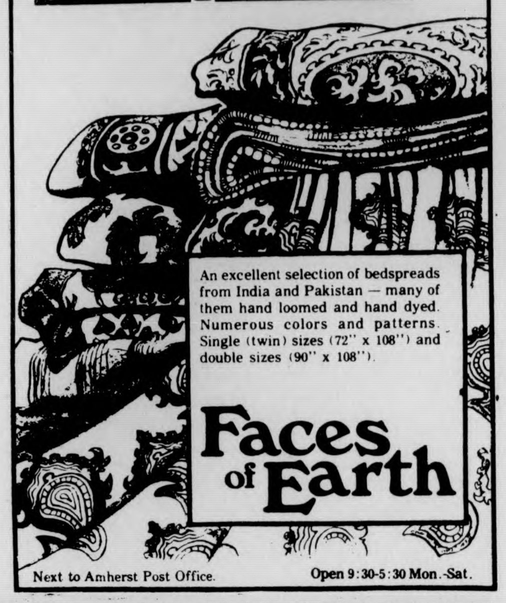
The hearing on Friday will be the most informative hearing for the people in the Pioneer Valley, since the October '75 trial. For the first time the witnesses for the state will be cross-examined by the defense attorney. In this hearing Jerome Farrell will explain why his defense was poor. Lastly, Trooper Thomas Ford will have to answer to the illegal search and seizure he performs on Earl Brown. In this light should Tamburello deny the motion for a new trial hearing, we have a few contradictions. If Rosenberg can successfully show that Attorney Farrel failure to provide an adequate defense caused the wrong verdict to be rendered, then there is reason to believe that the validity of this argument is strong enough to call for a retrial. In the same sphere, should Attorney Rosenberg prove that the eyewitnesses were mistaken in their identification, then this would provide sufficient grounds for a new trial. In the last area, the search and seizure aspect is very important. It stems from the picture identification being the stimulus for the search procedure. The police assume that Debra Cooke had picked out a suspect on August 8, 1974. At this time she was told that the picture was an early view of Robert Brown from Cambridge, Mass. A week later, another picture was viewed, Debra Cooke again picked a picture. But this one was of Robert Earl Brown of Elmira, New York. It was not until October 21, 1975, when it was discovered that Debra Cooke had picked pictures of different individuals as being the same person. Judge Tamburello neglections of these facts would ultimately express his sense of justice. Because on the one hand he would still support the idea of the Work Release plan. While on the other side, he would overlook facts that clearly prove the three areas (identification by pictures, search and seizures, and ineffective counsel) to be a sham.

The denial of the motion on Friday has some strong implications that would only show what the justice in court is all about. These implications would have further difficulties for the court system if the motion was accepted. First, the court would admit that they have been wrong on one person. This automatically would imply questions relaying to Craemen. Secondly, Judge Tamburello would clearly imply that his blind ruling has set a dangerous precedent in Western Mass. where the Northampton system has continuously trapped and distorted the meaning of justice. The system has perpetuated this for a long time, but is it willing to say I made a mistake. Finally, for victory to be assessed, someone must lose. The embarrassment of losing would fall on the judicial system, state witnesses, and the people who have been fooled by the word "justice."

Your attendance at this hearing would be much appreciated, due to its importance.

Tired of dorm living?
Chi Omega
a modern sorority offers a pleasant alternative with all the benefits of living at home, friendly atmosphere, homecooked meals, conducive atmosphere for study, easy access to campus by bus.
Come visit us at Frat. Sor. Park. Call Mary or Laurie for more info. 256-6868.

Bedspreads



An excellent selection of bedspreads from India and Pakistan — many of them hand loomed and hand dyed. Numerous colors and patterns. Single (twin) sizes (72" x 108") and double sizes (90" x 108").
Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office.
Open 9:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.

Black Americans visit FESTAC

LAGOS, Nigeria [UPI] — Hundreds of Nigerians turned up at Lagos airport yesterday to welcome another contingent of black American actors and musicians come to perform at FESTAC, the month-long festival of black culture.

Seven theater groups and three dance troupes were among those in the party. Pop idols Stevie Wonder and Isaac Hayes are expected to arrive later in the week.

Andrew Young, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, also is scheduled to attend the festival during his tour of black Africa.

The crowds also said goodbye to 200 Americans who have spent the past two weeks performing and debating at the cultural jamboree.

Percival Borde, associate professor of theater at the State University of New York, said before leaving that such an event had "worked wonders" in uniting black people.

"It was the black man's finest hour of re-examination," he said.

Another participant who returned home was Ron Karenga, professor of Afro-American studies at San Diego University, who took part in a symposium on black civilization and education.

Technical Students
Want summer, free lance, independent employment, higher money for your skills, send for Free brochure describing The Contract Engineering Handbook a necessity for all technical students.
MUTUAL PUBLICATIONS
102 Charles Street
Boston, Mass. 02114

The Brothers of
SIGMA EPSILON PHI
invite all university men to an OPEN RUSH on Wednesday, February 2 - 8:00
Thursday February 3 - 7:30
Tired of the dorms? Our living situation offers the individual the chance to expand himself and to grow both socially and academically. Come meet the men of the best fraternity on Campus. . . "SIG EP"
Refreshments
For Rides or Information
call 545-0070
Chestnut ΣΦΕ Triangle East Pleasant N. Pleasant

Appearing
Tonight
Feb 2 Wed
JEAN LUC PONTY
Feb 3 Thur
VASSER CLEMENS
Feb 4 & 5 Fri & Sat
JAMES COTTON
at
The rusty nail Inn
Rte. 47, Sunderland
665-4937

BLUEWALL
HAPPY HOUR
ALL NIGHT
Wed., Feb. 2
look for
The Great Pretenders
next Wed. Feb 9

ORIGINAL ORIENTAL ART

EXHIBITION & SALE
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall Entrance
Thur., Fri., February 3-4, 1977
9am-4pm Both Days
MARSON LTD. BALTIMORE, MARYLAND 21208

Price ceiling on natural gas

WASHINGTON [AP] — The House voted today to give President Carter emergency powers to allocate scarce supplies of natural gas, but the measure must be reconciled with a Senate-passed version before it can become law.

The House measure, which includes an amendment setting a price ceiling on gas purchased during the emergency, was approved 367 to 52.

Passage came after 40 minutes of debate under a stepped-up procedure that required a two-thirds vote of members and which forbade any further amendments.

The Senate passed its version of the emergency bill Monday night, 91 to 2.

Both measures give Carter the authority he requested last Wednesday to divert gas to areas that need it the most.

The President's proposal and the Senate version would also lift price controls on new gas purchased by pipelines through Aug. 1 to make up for shortages.

But the amendment in the House measure, by Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Texas, sets a ceiling price on gas purchased from supplies in gas producing states.

House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill said he is hopeful that a compromise can be worked out promptly to prevent sending the legislation to a House-Senate conference committee.

Efforts were launched to get the Senate to go along with the House version. O'Neill told reporters there is "no great concern as far as the White House is concerned" as to which version is approved.

Congressional leaders hoped to have the bill to the President within the next 24 hours.

Mondale returns from mission

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Vice President Walter Mondale, returning from a 22,215-mile diplomatic mission to Europe and Japan, said yesterday America's allies now have a better understanding of the new administration's foreign policy goals.

President Carter went by helicopter to nearby Andrews AFB, Md., to greet Mondale, and declared he had done "an absolutely superb job."

Mondale carried out his mission "with the same depth as if I had gone myself," Carter said.

Talking with reporters on the 15-hour return flight from Tokyo, Mondale said the meetings in Brussels, Bonn, Rome, Paris, London and Tokyo all went well and the timing of the trip — two days after he and Carter took office — was "just perfect".

"I was able to bring reassurance because Carter is an entirely new international leader for them," Mondale said. "It has been some time since a president was so new in the sense of being known in Europe."

On the return flight, Mondale told reporters he carried a message of continuity of foreign policy in such areas as U.S. commitments to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the security of Japan and the freedom of West Berlin.

He also outlined Carter's desire for "the closest possible consultation" with traditional friends and allies on matters of international concern — including global economic problems and the need to slow the pace of conventional arms sales and end nuclear proliferation.

"In many cases, they the foreign leaders, were just asking questions to reassure themselves traditional understandings would be continued," Mondale said. "In many cases, you could just see them relax."

A key subject discussed during meetings with eight foreign leaders was the coming economic summit of western industrial nations. Mondale talked with each of them about the timing, location and agenda of the summit.

Carter is reportedly hopeful of expanding the meeting to include consultations on East-West relations, the needs of developing countries and the problem of halting nuclear proliferation.

Mondale said some leaders, notably the French, expressed a reluctance to discuss these other areas in a formal setting. These are the types of concerns he will relay to Carter before a final decision is made on the summit.

Mondale told reporters he anticipated a formal announcement on the economic summit conference within the next 10 days. Initial indications were it would be in London, although Tokyo also is being considered.

Mondale said he experienced no disappointments.

MIKES
WESTVIEW
The Two Bitter
10 oz. glasses Old Milwaukee Beer 25¢
large pitchers $1.95.

Study in Guadalajara, Mexico
The GUADALAJARA SUMMER SCHOOL, a fully accredited UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA program, will offer July 1-August 12, anthropology, art, economics, bilingual education, folklore, history, political science, Spanish language and literature. Tuition and fees, $220; board and room with Mexican family, $280. Write to GUADALAJARA SUMMER SCHOOL, 1530 Gamma Apartments, University of Arizona, Tucson, Arizona 85721.

Woolco TIRE AND AUTOMOTIVE CENTERS
AUTHORIZED STATE INSPECTION STATION
We want to be your favorite store
HURRY BUY NOW
FREE AUTO SAFETY CHECK
SPECIAL PURCHASE TIRE SALE
ON DOUBLE BELTED TIRES
4 FOR $98 — Size A78-13 F.E.T. $1.75; C78-14 2.05 — ONLY $24.50 EACH
4 FOR $108 — Size D78-14 F.E.T. $2.12; E78-14 2.27; F78-14 2.43 — ONLY $27.00 EACH
4 FOR $118 — Size G78-14 F.E.T. $2.60; G78-15 2.65 — ONLY $29.50 EACH
4 FOR $128 — Size H78-14 F.E.T. $2.83; H78-15 2.87; J78-15 3.03; L78-15 3.14 — ONLY $32.00 EACH all sizes plus F.E.T. each & old tire
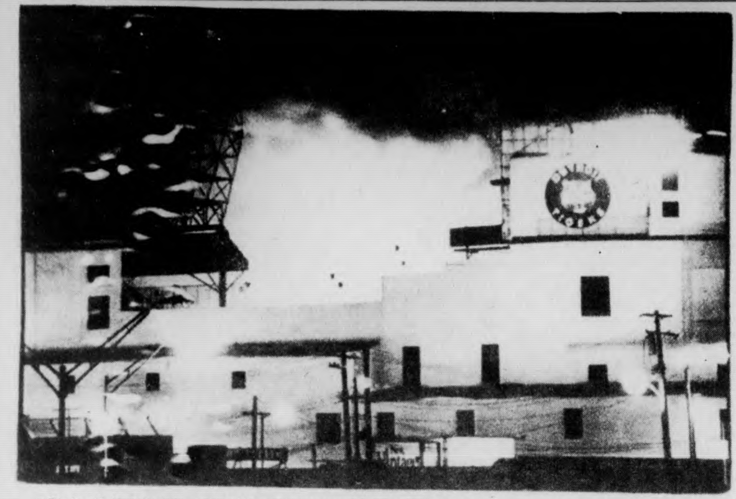
YOUR CHOICE! WHITEWALLS OR BLACKWALLS
SPECIAL BUY
SPECIAL BUY ON FIBERGLASS BELTED POLYESTER CORD TIRES
HEAVY DUTY "ROAD CHALLENGER" SHOCKS 2 FOR 18.88 Most U.S. Cars INSTALLED. If shocks fail while original purchaser owns car, free replacement including labor will be provided at original installation center.
FRONT END ALIGNMENT 8.88 All U.S. Cars • ADJUST and check caster • ADJUST and check camber • ADJUST and check toe • INCLUDES air conditioned cars. torsion bar adjustment extra, if needed
LUBE & OIL SPECIAL 5.88 • INSTALL up to 5 quarts straight weight or 10W30 name brand oil • COMPLETE chassis lubrication (fittings extra) • BRAKE fluid if needed • GEAR lubrication if needed. additional services extra
STP OIL TREATMENT 93¢ 15 oz Limit 2 Helps your oil do a better job
BOOSTER CABLES 2.97 BC408 8 ft long copper cables
CARAVAN CAR MATS 7.97 Heavy duty rubber for front or rear in assorted colors
WINDSHIELD WASHER ANTI-FREEZE & SOLVENT 88¢ One gallon
POWER 36 BATTERIES ALL SIZES, ONE PRICE Groups: 22F, 24, 24F, 42, 1, & 19L 26.88 exchange • Heavy duty construction delivers up to 296 cold cranking AMPS • Dry charged - activated at time of purchase for optimum power
CUSTOM FIT SPARK PLUG WIRES 5.97 Each For 6 or 8 cylinder U.S. cars, helps restore peak performance.
CHAMPION, AC, OR AUTOLITE PLUGS 64¢ Each Limit 8 Resistor Plugs 84¢ ea. Limit 8
YOUR CHOICE! POWER BOOSTER Boman INSTALLATION AVAILABLE PB-40 8 TRACK STEREO 27.88 ea AP-16
WOOLCO MAKES IT EASY TO SHOP: BANKAMERICARD, MASTER CHARGE, WOOLCO CARD • CONVENIENT TIME PAYMENT • CONVENIENT LAY AWAY PLAN
BUY WITH CONFIDENCE! SATISFACTION GUARANTEED! REPLACEMENT OR MONEY GLADLY REFUNDED

THE red Party playroom
PRESENTS
WEDNESDAY
SWEET PIE
202 & 21
Belchertown



Detroit firefighters battle a stubborn two-hour blaze that destroyed the press box in Tiger Stadium yesterday. Tiger general manager Jim Campbell said: "Don't worry, we'll play ball." (UPI) to the second story. The plow got to the garage, but you can't see through the windows or get out the front door."

★No record low temperatures

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

"I just wished I was still in Florida," added Pat Strang, 19, a University of Buffalo student who flew up from Tampa just before Buffalo International Airport was closed by Friday's blizzard.

The nationwide death toll from the cold wave was estimated at 75; in Buffalo alone, 12 persons died. Up to 1.5 million workers were off the job as factories, businesses and other low-priority natural gas customers were cut off and forced to close as utilities sought to conserve fuel. Schools also were shut in many areas, most to save natural gas but some because there was no fuel for heat.

Congress worked on legislation to let President Carter parcel out the scarce natural gas to the areas that need it most and would temporarily remove federal price controls from some natural gas. The Senate approved the measure on Monday and the House moved Tuesday toward passage of a slightly different version.

HUNGRY-U
Under 11 billon sold
256-0474

YOU JUST CAN'T EAT'EM THAT FAST

THE HUNGRY U 103 N. PLEASANT ST.

SPECIAL OFFER!
To introduce our individual serving of Delicious Cheesecake

2 Free Sodas
w-purchase of a large combination Pizza
Wed. 2-2, Thurs. 2-3

1 Free Soda
w-purchase of a small combination Pizza
Deliveries only
Wed. 2-2, Thurs. 2-3

JOBS AVAILABLE

Openings available for workstudy and non-workstudy jobs with the Student Organizing Project.

Many skills needed: Organizational, secretarial graphics, radio, ability to work with people, journalistic.
Room 426 Student Union,
Apply at the SOP office,

or Call 545-2415

HAS YOUR LIVING EXPERIENCE BEEN TURNING YOU UPSIDE DOWN?

Sorority Living may be just the thing to set you straight again.

SORORITY RUSH REGISTRATION DEADLINE — THUR. FEB. 3 5 P.M.
BRING APPLICATIONS TO THE GREEK AFFAIRS OFFICE
203 Hampshire House
for Questions & additional info call : 545-2711

SUMMER JOBS FOR SOPHMORES
SEE see page 15 for details

send a VALENTINE to someone / anyone!

BOY FRIEND, GIRL FRIEND, SWEETIE, ROOMMATE, PROF, COACH, ENEMY ETC.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is giving you the opportunity, for 50¢, to have your Valentine Wishes published in our paper Mon., Feb. 14th.

We are having special pages put aside for your messages. They can be witty, serious, anything you want them to be! This will be a Valentine Card your Valentine will never forget!

Come to the Collegian office by Thurs., Feb. 10th at 3:45p.m. to place your copy.

EXAMPLES:

To: Mary A.
Have a Happy Valentine Day. If cupid doesn't come around I will.
Rusty

To: Room 365 S.W.
We're looking forward to seeing you again. Happy Valentine Day!
The Girls

Bring this to us by Thurs., Feb. 10th at 3:45p.m.
LIMIT 20 WORDS

COST 50¢

Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students

TUTORS NEEDED:

MATH
SCIENCES
ENGINEERING
POLITICAL SCIENCE
SOCIOLOGY
BUSINESS
LANGUAGES
HEALTH SCIENCES
PSYCHOLOGY
STATISTICS

WHO:
The tutoring will be provided for minority undergraduates on a one-to-one and—or small group basis. The number of hours per week will depend on the demand for tutoring in your particular area.
WHEN:
The tutoring will take place during the day and—or during the evening, (depending on the schedule of the tutees and tutor).
WAGES:
The rate of pay is $2.50 to $3.00 per hour.
QUALIFICATIONS:
Mastery of subject area, previous tutoring and—or teaching experience and previous experience with minorities is desired.

APPLICATIONS, are available in New Africa House, room 215.

Oil spill sought on Cape

[UPI] — A Coast Guard aircraft was to fly over Cape Cod yesterday to look in the ocean and on shore for remnants of a 100,000 gallon oil spill from an ice-damaged fuel barge.

"If they find a suitable pool they might do more burning," Coast Guard spokesman John Bablitch said. "They'll also be checking for any possible contamination of beaches."

The Coast Guard Monday burned about 1,000 to 2,000 gallons of the No. 2 home heating fuel from the 350-foot barge Frederick Bouchard No. 65. Explosive devices were dropped onto portions of the slick.

Spokesman Richard Griggs said the burning lasted about 90 minutes, although the Coast Guard was expecting the fuel to burn "much longer."

Massachusetts Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti files suit Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Boston seeking damages from the owners of the barge for alleged "negligent operation."

The spill will "cause severe damage to the natural resources, recreational resources, waters and shores."

A spokesman for Bellotti said the state will try to recover what it paid to clean up the spill and for damages to shellfish and other wildlife.

The barge was ripped open by huge pieces of sharp ice Friday night at the southern entrance of the Cape Cod Canal, spilling some of its cargo near the picturesque resort area.

The accident could be as damaging as a 1969 spill which virtually destroyed shellfishing beds in West Falmouth, a few miles down the coast, said Sabin Lord, a spokesman for the Massachusetts Division of Water Pollution Control.

The 1969 incident involved a 700,000 gallon spill from the barge Florida and "some harvesting areas have never recovered," Lord said.

Finast SUPERMARKETS

Morton Frozen Dinners
Chic., Turkey Mtloaf, Beef Salis. Steak 3 10 oz pkgs $1
With this coupon & purchase $7.50 or more. Limit one. Valid Jan. 30 thru Feb. 5, 1977 H-939

gallon jug Clorox Bleach
Whitens, Cleans, Disinfects 49¢
With this coupon & purchase $7.50 or more. Limit one. Valid Jan. 30 thru Feb. 5, 1977 H-938

5-lb Bag Finast Sugar
Granulated Quality Value! 68¢
With this coupon & purchase $7.50 or more. Limit one. Valid Jan. 30 thru Feb. 5, 1977 H-937

Half Gallon Finast Soda
Ginger Ale, Root Beer, Cola, Orange 59¢

Welch's Tomato Juice
48 oz bottle 63¢

Del Monte Chunk Tuna
Light in oil 6½ oz can 48¢

Campbells Chicken Noodle Soup
5 10½ oz cans 95¢

Grocery Values the Finast Way!
Wortz Saltines. . . . . . . 16 oz pkg 39¢
Richmond Tomatoes. 3 16 oz cans 89¢
Finast Tea Bags. . . . . . . pkg 100 99¢
Finast Hot Cocoa Mix. . 21 oz jar 1.19
Elbow Macaroni or Thin Spaghetti Richmond Brand . 2 2-lb pkgs $1
Sutton Bay Purple Plums 29 oz can 49¢
Richmond Grape Jelly. . 32 oz jar 77¢

Finast Frozen Food Values!
½ gal Ice Cream
Richmond All Flavors ½ gal carton 79¢
Finast Cheese Pizza. . . . 15 oz pkg 99¢
Glazed Donuts Boston Bonnie . . . . . pkg 12 79¢
Green Beans Empire State French Style . . 4 9 oz pkgs 1.00
Coffee Lightener Finast Brand . 4 16 oz ctns 1.00
Banquet Cream Pies. . . 14 oz pkg 55¢
Finast Strawberries. . . . 16 oz tub 69¢

Ice Cream Special at Finast!
Hendries Ice Cream Bars pkg 12 1.09

Baked fresh the Finast Way!
English Muffins
Finast Fresh Enriched 4 pkgs 6 $1
Big Round Top Bread 3 20 oz lvs $1
Finast Fresh Donuts Plain or Sugar 2 pkgs 12 $1
Raspberry Danish. . . . . . pkg 6 99¢
Bakery Items Available Tuesday thru Saturday Only

Sunrise fresh Dairy Values!
Mrs. Filberts Quarters Margarine 2 1-lb pkgs 89¢
Cream Cheese Temptee Whipped . . . . 8 oz ctn 75¢
Cheese Kraft Singles Slices American White Colored . . . . 16 oz pkg 1.35
Cottage Cheese Finast Brand . . . . . 16 oz ctn 67¢
Breakstone Sour Cream. 16 oz ctn 69¢
Befit Yogurt Swiss Style Assorted Flavors . . 4 8 oz ctns 1.00

Finast Welcomes FOOD STAMP CUSTOMERS

Genuine Rock Cornish Hens
Frozen avg. wt. 1 lb 8 oz 49¢ lb

Fully Cooked Smoked Hams
Shank Portion (half shank 89¢ lb)
Butt Portion 89¢ lb (half butt 99¢ lb)
79¢ lb

In-Store Bake Shop!
Fresh Italian Bread . . 4 7 oz lvs 1.00
Fresh Baked Hard Rolls 6 for 59¢
Assorted Turnovers . . . 4 for 89¢
Fresh Cake Donuts Plain, Sugar Cinnamon doz 69¢
Available Only in Stores with In-Store Bake Shops

Tender Young Milk-Fed Veal!
Veal Cutlets Italian Style cut from the leg . . . . . lb 2.99
Veal Shoulder Chops. . . . lb 1.59
Veal Rib Chops. . . . . lb 1.79
Veal Loin Chops. . . . . lb 1.99

Fresh Turkey Parts!
Fresh Turkey Breast. . . . . lb 1.19
Fresh Turkey Thighs. . . . . lb 79¢
Fresh Drumsticks. . . . . . . lb 59¢
Fresh Turkey Wings. . . . . . lb 59¢
Turkey Cutlets Marvel Brand . . . . . . lb 1.99

3 Breast Qtrs w/bks, 3 Leg Qtrs w/bks, 3 Wings, 3 Necks, 3 Giblet Paks
Fresh Box-o-Chicken 39¢ lb
Fresh Chicken Breast Quarters with wing 55¢ lb
Chicken Leg Quarters with back 49¢ lb
3 half Breasts, 3 Drumsticks, 3 Wings, 3 Thighs
Fresh Best of the Fryer 59¢ lb

Shoulder Steak Boneless Beef USDA Choice lb 1.19
Shoulder Roast Boneless Beef Chuck . lb 99¢
Cube Steak (lesser amt 1.69 lb) 5 lbs or more lb 1.59
Blade Steak (lesser amt 1.59 lb) 5 lbs or more lb 1.49
Porterhouse Steak Flank-less lb 2.49
Underblade Roast Bone-less lb 1.39
Skirt Steak Beef Plate USDA Choice . . . . lb 1.49
Sliced Beef Liver Finast Brand 5 lbs or more lb 39¢
Calves Liver Store Sliced . . . . lb 89¢

Smoked Shoulder Colonial Master 4 to 6 lbs avg lb 89¢
Colonial Ham or Reigel Semi-Bnls . . . lb 1.49
Smoked Butts Colonial Water Added . lb 1.29
Ham Portions Boneless Colonial . . . lb 1.79
Ham Steaks Fully Cooked Bone-in . . . lb 1.59
Ham Steaks Colonial Semi-Bnls cry-o-vac water added lb 1.99
Smoked Hocks Water Added. . . . lb 69¢
Smoked Neck Bones. . lb 59¢
Beef Tongue Freirich Smoked. . . . lb 1.39

Large Economy Packages!
Chicken Legs lesser amounts 69¢ lb 5lbs or more 59¢ lb
Thighs Fresh Chicken lesser amounts 85¢ lb 5lbs or more 75¢ lb
Drumsticks Chicken lesser amounts 95¢ lb 5lbs or more 85¢ lb
Breasts Fresh Chicken lesser amounts 99¢ lb 5lbs or more 89¢ lb

Quality Values the Finast Way!
Ground Beef
Ground fresh many times daily! Any size Package 79¢ lb
Lean Chuck Ground Beef lesser amounts 99¢ lb 5 lbs or more 89¢ lb
Ground Round lesser amounts 1.29 lb 5 lbs or more 1.19 lb

Fresh Hen Turkeys
10-14 lbs average 59¢ lb

2 Great New Promotions at Finast ... Start Your Sets Today

EKCO ETERNA-Dior Muffin Stainless Steel TABLEWARE
FIRST WEEK January 30 thru February 5
Teaspoon Now Only 39¢ ea (with $3.00 purchase)

EKCO ETERNA Stainless Steel COOKWARE

FIRST WEEK Jan 30 thru Feb 5	1 Quart Open Saucepan	$2.99
	6 Qt. Covered Saucepan	$10.99
	2 Qt. Double Boiler (& Cover)	$10.99

(no additional purchase is required)
Prices Effective January 30 thru February 5, 1977

FIRST O'THE FRESH

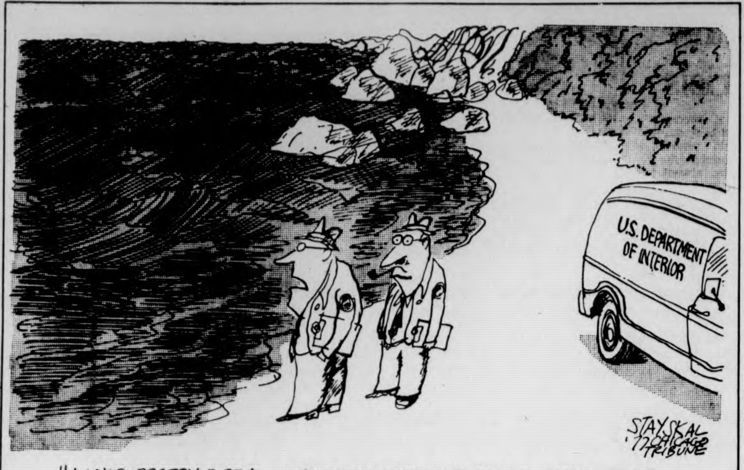
inter harvest
Fresh Iceberg Lettuce 3 large heads $1

Temple Oranges Florida Large Size 15 for $1
Grapefruit Fla. Indian River Seedless Fresh . . . . 5 for $1
Anjou Pears Fresh Western . . . 10 for 79¢
Fresh Celery Hearts. . . pkg 59¢
Potatoes Idaho U.S. No. 1 Washed for Baking . . . 5 lb bag 79¢
Fresh Yellow Onions 3 lb bag 59¢
Finast Popcorn 4 lb bag 1.29 . 2-lb bag 69¢

Philodendrons 24 inch High 6 inch pots ea 4.29
Assorted Plants Colorful 3½ inch Pots . ea 79¢
Potting Soil. . . . . 8 qt bag 99¢
Plant Pots Asstd. Colors 8 inch Plastic . . . . . . ea 89¢
Plant Hangers Rope Asstd. Colors 42 inch Length 4 for $1
Finast Bird Food. . . . . . 5-lb bag 99¢
Bird Seed Bells. . . . . . . ea 69¢

We Reserve the Right to Limit Quantities

Treat your family to Mr. Deli Values and Save the Finast Way!
Baked Ham
Virginia Style freshly sliced 1.99 lb
Cooked Ham
Domestic freshly sliced 1.99 lb
Imported Swiss Cheese. lb 1.99
Mr. Deli Bologna or Mr. Deli Liverwurst . . lb 1.09
Mr. Deli Olive Loaf. . . . . . lb 1.39
Genoa Salami or Pepperoni Carando's . . . . lb 1.99
Mr. Deli Salami Sticks. . 12 oz ea 1.49
Cheddar Cheese Vermont Sharp . . . lb 1.99
Fresh Salads Potato, Cole Slaw and Macaroni Salad . . . lb 49¢
Available Only in Finast Stores with Mr. Deli Depts
Not Responsible for Typographical Errors



"LOOKS PRETTY DIRTY... I THINK IT'S DUE FOR AN OIL CHANGE!"

commentary

Lollipops and wisdom

By STEVE KLEIN

It seems that too many people in this institution are somehow missing a chunk of life that I hold to be the very highest priority a person can believe in. A fine dichotomy existed at one point in time between the "living" and the "surviving". There are individuals whose sole purpose is to survive, to compete and to succeed, and there are those who are all too aware of the surviving elements within our society, but still hold on to a higher degree of nobility. Just merely thinking about surviving seems to be a somewhat poorer format of life than ill health.

The person who has, at least partially, made me aware of this is a local resident named Jimmy, who just so happens to be seven years old. A couple times a week Jimmy takes the time to spend a few hours with me, you could say he works for Amherst Resources helping the local university students learn a little about "living". The program is called the "little brother, little sister" program, and what it's all about is children helping out children who care enough to take the time to help out students like myself.

It started out as a basic survival tactic on my part, the rationale followed along the lines that perhaps volunteering to help out a younger child might just be that spark of "life" I felt I needed in order to be happy. My survival part of me really gets off on good grades, but my other three quarters simply needs some potent additives.

The bulk of learning came about on a stroke of genius on Jimmy's behalf. His idea was to play pinball. I, after some doing, convinced him to play "Quickdraw". While hitting the little cowboys down we discussed everything from guinea pigs to what type of work we individually felt we would enjoy, and subsequently whether or not we could survive along those lines. I truly felt Jimmy couldn't make his fortune playing pinball machines, and he felt I'd never be able to make a living playing pinball either. So there.

Granted, the liberal arts education seems to have died sometime around the turn of the decade, as seen by anyone who pre-registered for Accounting 120 or Marketing Principles and received their very own "over subscribed." But that by itself does not constitute the elimination of those "living" ideals; it more or less suggests "survival". It seems that anytime a person takes the time away from their "surviving", their chances narrow proportionately, however it doesn't work that way; as can be nobly demonstrated by Jimmy.

I'm going to suggest to the head of the sociology department that Jimmy teach a course on the subject of Lollipops and Wisdom 235. I envision Bartlett Auditorium packed with hundreds of students, all sucking lollipops, prepared to learn some of the things they don't get in their business and engineering courses. I just hope there are people still interested enough to take the time. By the way there are plenty of little children within the local area who are available to teach; if you'd like a private lesson.

Steve Klein is a Collegian Commentator.

Keep the news lines open

By PAUL LOGUE, JR.

After a long lull, the campus can unite over an issue. Money, money, money. This campus needs bucks. Level spending dictated to us from Boston actually is a budget cut when inflation is added. Thus a lay-off of employees will result to balance the budget.

We should all fight this move. Faculty, listen to your majority after the Union vote and collectively object. Students should contact their representatives and state their feelings about this drastic move. Some leaders of staff should attempt to organize some support in various circles to discuss the consequences of lay-offs, and how to prevent them.

I'm thinking back to the last budget cut, 15 per cent from the budget. The nurses marched for twenty-four hours, the Commuter Affairs Office disappeared, the dorms lost maintenance crews. Human Services were also cut, forcing a showdown between education or human services. Both lost.

Human Services sued to provide adequate aid to its recipients. This year they have been approved for a hike of $123 million. UMass is autonomous but cannot bite the hand that feeds, so to say. Public pressure is the only way. But the people can't keep quiet if the message is to be heard. Communication is our key.

In another interesting development, Sen. Kelly from Oxpatch was instrumental in the last budget cut, being the chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee in the Massachusetts Legislature.

Yet he has been alledged to have been involved in a swindle of cash, untaxable and clear profit for a hired representative. Seems awfully weird to trust this man with the power to instrument another death blow unto education.

Who will get the axe? Special programs usually give way to traditional ones. It is not a wait and see game altogether. Hints and vibrations whistle through the campus like the cold chill of the North wind. Funds will be frozen and problems will back up until something gives. People will be hurt.

So keep your ears open to the upcoming news concerning the money squeeze. It is something that directly affects us and will have consequences that will extend for years. Once a program or an office has been cut, or curtailed, it is on the brink of disaster. Keep the news lines open and talk about what it will mean for your program to lose its resources and people.

Paul Logue, Jr. is a Collegian Commentator.

letter

Thanks for the push

To the Editor:

This is a letter of thanks to the three young men who helped at least two motorists in distress Friday evening. The car in front of me stopped at a stop sign and because of the ice could not go forward. These three young men who were walking by put their grocery bags on the wet snowbanks and pushed the car until it was able to go forward. They then did the same for me, and probably for the car behind me. Unfortunately, it was impossible at the time to stop and thank them properly.

I believe I heard their names as Gary, Ernie and Rick and that they live in John Adams Tower. Please allow me, through the Collegian, to thank these men for their help on that freezing, sleeting evening and to let the University community know of the thoughtful and unselfish actions of these Southwest residents.

Lillian L. Fishman
Secretary
Dean of Students

commentary

Getting down to the roots of racism

By KEVIN KNOBLOCH

Roots. At first glance I interpreted this televised version of Alex Haley's documentary novel (which had its faults but was of slightly better quality than we are accustomed to on the tube) as a white man's self punishment. I didn't know that Haley was a black man and the story was a close account of his family history, traced all the way back to a land called Africa. I thought it might be an attempt to make me suffer for deeds done in the past, by my ancestors to the black man's ancestors.

But when I realized Haley was black and I again considered his version of history, I took a second view what Roots is all about.

This man did not present all white men as bad or evil, much like the white men once considered his black brothers. He showed many as people of compassion, driven by peer influence or misconceptions to accept the ideology and benefits of slavery. Other white people, those who truly feared and mistreated black slaves in pre-civil war America, actually believed what they were doing was not wrong. Haley himself points out that "We tend to fear the unknown," and the reaction of the white nation to an unfamiliar black race resulted in what makes up our history today.

Roots doesn't stop by retelling oral history. It is the origins (or roots) of black racism as we know it. Black was different and therefore less, incompetent, and unhuman.

Arthur Hoppe once wrote a column called Man's Black Magic which pictured the Lord and his angel in charge of earth, Gabriel, in heaven discussing "how a child of God can bring himself to harm or kill another child of God." Gabriel explained it was easy. First, man performs a magic rite that changes his enemy into something less than human, such as a pig, gook, nip or wop.... Then, his enemy is no longer a child of God, and he can maim or kill him in good conscience. For example, they would never lynch a fellow man until they have reduced him to a lower status such as a nigger or coon.

Haley illustrated how it was not human beings that the whites kidnapped from Africa in the 17th and 18th centuries, but rather spooks and niggers, the equivalent of animals. Then of course, the whole process was much less painful for all concerned, except the victims.

Haley is to be commended, as are his brothers, in keeping a culture and endangered history alive under strangling conditions. Man's biggest crime must be the enslavement of other races and his manipulation of their cultures. But, regardless of the severety of the sin, I am confident that Haley's intentions did not include having every white punish himself emotionally.

To resort to that would be a useless waste of human intelligence. The alternative is to learn from one's mistakes, and to live each new day with the freshly obtained knowledge that we all have something in common. Haley wanted to show we are all immigrants, whether by choice or not, and we are all one species.

To realize this would be the most painless of all.

Kevin Knobloch is a Collegian Commentator.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS — RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in-Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; NASSER H. EGA, Black Affairs Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; JAY A. SARET, Photo Editor; MARK A. LECCESE, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS — Christopher J. Bourne, Teresa M. Hanafin, Night Managers; Paula Strollo, Wire Editor; Lisa E. Melilli, Assistant Executive Editor; Gerard F. Rogers, Kevin C. Turcotte, Assistant News Editors; Angela P. Thomas, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Michael A. Berger, Richard W. Eckel, Assistant Sports Editors; E. Patrick McQuaid, Deborah S. Schafer, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Melanie J. Johnson, Women's Coordinator; Heidi S. Berenson, Feature Coordinator.

BUSINESS — Steve N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; Leslie Nearman, Finance Manager; Laurie Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Heath C. Wheeler, Jr., Linda Crowell, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Steven Polansky, Circulation Manager; Linda S. Vene, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Staff meeting

A mandatory meeting of Collegian editorial staffers will be held tonight at 7:30 in the office. If you can't make it, please call Bill Sundstrom or Lisa Melilli at the Collegian. Thanks.

— lisa melilli —

The real revolution

Are you a feminist? — or a women's libber? Well, then you're used to hearing different sides of the coin about the movement, so you won't mind my little innuendo here. And if you do, well then that's good, too.

Well, anyways, getting down to business... what is it that I'm going to say? Quite plainly, many people's vision of the women's movement is distorted as many people's values in this society are distorted. Of course women should have equal pay on the job as men and the same opportunities to get that job. But all of this is just surface to the "real revolution". The "real revolution" is in attitude and the worst offenders of giving women a "lower" position in society, attitude wise, are women themselves. The "real revolution" must begin with the women and attitude about themselves — as women.

We all know what it is: women avoiding all political issues except the weather, women refusing to know about insurance policies, letting the man of the house handle all the money. Simply falling to the stereotype images that electricians, football players, and rapists have made for us.. Sure it's nice to scream at the male sex as our oppressors having given us a low ranking in our society. But, come on, is that type of screaming going to get us anywhere? How about if we try hard to not fulfill these stereotypes? That's the real revolt against them.

And it goes further. We know about these two great establishments: koffeeklatches and gossip circles. Females placed against other females. The race is on to see who wears the nicest clothes, who is able to afford the most expensive perfumes and make-up, who can catch the nicest-looking and richest guy. Women laughing at themselves, dragging themselves down — what man couldn't help but laugh? Let's stop giving men something to laugh about.

There's a lot of talk about women and careers, just careers. Sure I'm for a career, but I know this isn't all there is in life. I've been lucky to have a man in my house, my father, telling me since I was born that the job isn't the most important thing in life, the most important thing in life is people, love and loving people. We all know the book, "What Makes Sammy Run." Here, a man, Budd Schulberg, tells it like it really is, that the race to success and to the top of the ladder gets one nowhere, except to the top, with no one and no other place to go.

Yet, there are women around, particularly the five feminists heading Daughters, Inc. (a women's publishing company run by women, with literature written by women), who's ambition it is to take over the capitalistic world, namely to become the largest and most powerful publishing house in the country. For this the women have given up husbands and home and claimed celibacy. All are born feminists within the Marxian school developed in the late sixties.

Nonsense!!! What gain is there in conquering the publishing business? — because once you've done it, there is nothing left. Secondly, these women are hypocrites using a system they have ridiculed in the past, capitalism, for their own personal gains. And lastly, what are these women fighting for? — or any separatists in the women's movement? — to take over society and be oppressors over men, the same type of oppressors they are fighting against?

The "real revolution," to me, is for men and women to be equal. What I object to here in Daughters, Inc.'s motivation is the further separation of the sexes. I think Elizabeth Bishop has the best attitude. Refusing to be published in a poetry anthology just for women writers, Bishop declined saying, "I personally feel our goals should be to be ranked among men, not separated from them."

I think the "real revolution" is for all women to become "strong women". "Strong women"? What's that? It's a woman who's not afraid to be aggressive, who places herself on the same level with men (not above or below) and is proud of her femininity (physically and emotionally). What's femininity? Those characteristics that make us different from men and are uniquely ours as women.

And one more thing I'd like to add to this idea of emotional separatism. "No man is an island," "People need people, people who need people are the luckiest people in the world": all those trite song titles tell exactly what reality and true happiness comes from. No woman can deny the need for some other person. For me, it's a man; for other women, perhaps it's another woman. Simply, one needs another person to be a truly fulfilled person like no job, career, and business power control can ever bring.

That isn't to say that one needs the other to be a "complete" person. You have to be complete in yourself. And, I suppose this has even more to do with the attitude and "real revolution" I'm talking about. A woman has to believe she can be complete by herself and remember that, well, this completion can only be fulfilled with a second person, someone else to share in the joys of living, as well as the hardships.

So, I've given out my homework assignment for the week. It's easy to say and I know for myself, very hard to put into practice this "attitude" which must begin within ourselves. I find the best way to this "real revolution", this equality by attitude, is to be proud of ourselves, to be proud of ourselves as women.

Lisa Melilli is Assistant Executive Editor.

'No comment'

From an interview on the CBS program, "60 Minutes":

MIKE WALLACE: If torture is necessary, you torture?

SHAH OF IRAN: Not torture in the old sense of torturing people... But there are intelligent ways of questioning now.

— richard caplan —

Massachusetts superheroes

As I was going through the comics section of last Sunday's Globe, I was wondering how certain comics would appear if they were more politically geared. it is with this in mind that I bring you:

DOCTOR DUKE VS. SPIDER MAN

Last episode, you remember, Doctor Duke (commonly known as Dukakis), was planning another evil scheme to destroy the educational system in Massachusetts. As we listen in, the dreaded Doctor Duke explains his plan to his partner in crime "Windy Widmer".

"It's much simpler than we ever thought Windy. Under the name of "Tight Budget '78", we've managed to take away raises from 75,000 state workers, we gave no pension funding to any local teachers, dealt a striking blow to human service programs and have broken the back of the Massachusetts educational system."

"Not to mention keeping property taxes sky-high and giving no cost-of-living allowance to welfare recipients."

"We're just a couple of rogues Windy."

"Nothing can stop us now, sir. By the way, what did you tell those reporters who were bugging you about the budget cuts?"

"I told them I'm waiting for a "full economy" and "expanding revenues."

"Oh that's beauttiful sir. Did anyone ask you what that meant?"

"No, thank God. They just sat there copying down everything I said. I kept telling them that the budget cuts are to avoid program expansion."

"It also avoids keeping people healthy and alive."

Suddenly, leaping in through the window came SPIDER man.

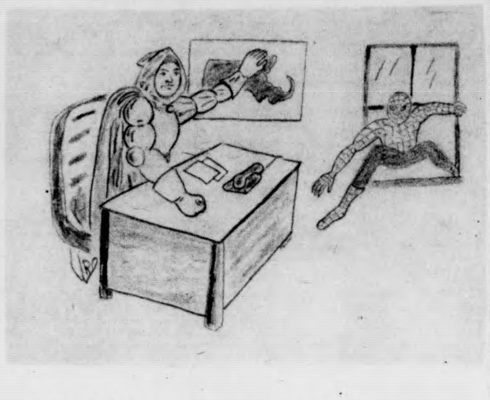
"Ah ha, Doctor Duke! I knew you'd be behind all this!"

"That's right SPIDER man and there's nothing you can do about it."

"I can expose you for what you really are!"

"Everyone knows what I am and there's nothing they can do. You see I had no choice."

"No choice?"



"Look SPIDER man. You don't think Doctor Duke likes saying no to all those people."

"He doesn't?"

"No. He'd like to say yes to every single one of them."

"I'm waiting for a "full economy" and "Expanding revenues".

"What?"

Meanwhile, at another part of town, a phone rings at a busy Amherst office.

"Hello?"

"Is this "Red tape for hire"?"

"Yes it is."

"I'd like to hire you for a job."

"Our clients must fulfill certain requirements before we take on any job."

"What are they?"

"Are you a member of a useless bureaucracy?"

"Yes."

"Do you have some problem you're trying to cover up?"

"Yes."

"Can you afford our ridicuously high price?"

"Yes."

"I think we can work something out."

Will they indeed be able to work something out? Will SPIDER man believe the crap that Doctor Duke is handing him? Is it true that UMass is the subject of a new documentary coming out called "V.D. is for free?"? I don't know.

Richard Caplan is a Colllgian Columnist.

commentary

A test for television

By DICK JANSSEN

On Saturday, January 29, 1977, comedian Freddie Prinze put a gun to his head and blew himself away. He wasn't stricken by disease, or claimed in the wreckage of an airplane .... he took his own life, with premeditation and pain.

Now the National Broadcasting Company and James Komack, executive producer of "Chico and the Man" have a touchy situation on their hands. What will be beamed out over the electronic web next Friday night at 8:30? And for that matter, the Friday after next, and even the Friday after that?

Most programming for network Prime-time (8-11 p.m. local times) is produced and taped months in advance. It is conceivable that many or all the episodes of this season's "Chico and the Man" have been completed, or are "in the can" as the jargon goes. Current production costs for a half-hour television series run anywhere from one-hundred-thousand to a quarter of a million dollars per episode.

It is therefore possible that NBC has well over a million dollars worth of "Chico and the Man" sitting in the videotape vault scheduled to be shown over the balance of the season. So why shouldn't they be aired? Because it may turn out to be the epitome of bad taste on a network already strangled in the ratings.

However these things are not without precedent. In the late 60's, Peter Duel, co-star of "Alias Smith and Jones" did away with himself in similar style. ABC decided to continue the series, and even replaced Duel at season's end. But the series was in the "action-adventure" category, with the characters facing death and destruction every week. The rationale for continuing the series had as much to do with the "brush with death" syndrome as the fact that Duel was merely an interchangeable cog in the series' machinery.

NBC faced the more recent question of what to do with old tapes of "Hollywood Squares" depicting the late Wally Cox and Charlie Weaver. After a certain period of muted respect, these tapes were once again aired. After all, these were long-time funny men who came to their honorable and logical conclusions by natural causes, after many years of making people laugh.

But Freddie wasn't an aging vaudevillian, he was 22. My age. He was so unique, the series "Chico and the Man" was built around him, not vice-versa. The role he played was comedy, but more importantly, what he stood for was hope. He died just the opposite ... in despair and desperation. It seems very hard indeed to imagine anyone sitting in front of the tube this Friday night laughing at a cult hero who found life so oppressive, he had to resort to the ultimate escape.

As a student of the medium, I found renewed faith in the system when Freddie Prinze rocketed to stardom. He proved that quality still counts. Will NBC make me lose that faith by showing that the dollar sign is the rule without exception? Hopefully no sponsor will buy time on "Chico and the Man" if NBC ultimately decides to air it. And I would hope the American public would react the same way.

Television has not only become an asset but an important supplement to our daily lives. But the critics loom larger every day. What NBC does this Friday night will have a lot to do with the way people think of television for a long time to come.

Dick Janssen is a Collegian Commentator.

NOTICES

ANTHROPOLOGY MAJORS
Don't forget the "meeting" tonight, Wed., Feb. 2-7:15 in Macher W 17 or if you can't make it, come tomorrow, Feb. 3, 4:00 p.m., Mach. W 17.

ARAB STUDENTS ORGANIZATION
Important meeting tonight at 7:00 p.m. in C.C. 903. All members must attend.

ARE YOU A FRENCH MAJOR?
Come to a short meeting to find out about changes that might affect you! Wed. Feb. 2nd at 7 p.m., 3rd floor Herter Hall.

MASTRONOMY CLUB
First meeting of the semester tonight in Hasbrouck 22 at 7. All are welcome to attend.

BRIDGE GAME
Duplicate bridge game where you can compare your play to that of others. Refreshments. Partners provided if you don't have one; beginners are welcome. Game is at 7:00 p.m. in CC 904. Last warm up before ACU-1 tournament.

BUSINESS MEETIN
The Vet's Coalition will hold its first meeting of the new semester on Wed. Feb. 2, at 5:00 p.m. at the Vet's Coalition Office Rm. 411 S.U. Bldg.

CAMPUS SCOUT
There will be a meeting tomorrow night Thurs. Feb. 3rd at 7 p.m. room 801 CC. Come for fun & surprises!

CHASSIDIC MYSTICISM
Still time to enroll in this Hillel colloq for credit. Meets today at 8 p.m. in the Chabad House.

ESCAPE TO THE SUN!
Trips for March break to Bermuda, Ft. Lauderdale, San Juan. For more information call Jane 549-0236 or 545-0527. Garber Travel Representative.

FOUND
Car keys found on Sat. 1-29-77 at Lincoln apts. Please contact Jorge 5-0371.

FOUND
Found, Thurs. nite by Whitmore — dark rimmed pair of glasses in a multi-colored wavy patterned case. Please call 549-5346.

4 DAYS
To change to or from pass-fail, add, or drop a course without record. DEADLINE: Sundown, Monday, Feb. 7. Note: If you pre-registered for a class but you never attended, you still need to file an official drop form with the Registrar. Instructors will not automatically drop you from their class rolls.

FREE PUPPY
Jugs is available! 8 mo. black-Lab-golden retriever needs place to run and be loved. Handsome, well-behaved and housetrained. Call Willy 549-3744.

GENERAL MEMBERSHIP MEETING
There will be a general membership meeting Mon. Feb. 7 at 8:00 p.m. in CC 911. Future projects and programs will be discussed. Please attend. Your ideas and support are needed.

HISPANIC CLUB MEETING
The Hispanic Club will meet Thurs. Feb. 3 in the 4th floor Herter elevator lounge. New members are always welcome! We will be discussing the events for the new semester, so come and bring your ideas!

INTERESTED IN WORKING WITH KIDS?
Northern Educational Services can help you. Work with innercity children in academic and recreational areas. For more info. call 5-0910, or 5-2092 ask for Michelle or stop in 403 S.U.B. Possible credit, transportation and materials provided.

JUDO CLUB
First meeting of the Judo club will be held Tuesday Feb. 8, 7 p.m. Boyden wrestling room. New members welcome.

JUGGLERS SHOWER TOGETHER
Tonight and every Wed. night 7:30, first floor CC. Improved nhand-eye coordination, extended concentration, controlled channeling of body energy, quickened reflexes, and good times are all direct benefits from an occasional juggle.

LATIN AMERICAN THOUGHT AND NATIONAL IDENTITY
Instructor: Mariano Trujillov. (546-9776) Tues. Thurs. Classroom 1 Mackimmie Humanity House.

LOST!
Pair of glasses on campus shuttle or near Grad. Research. Desperately needed! If found please call Nancy at 546-8050. Thank you.

PRE-VET CLUB MEETING
All Pre-Vet & Animal Science students are invited to attend our 1st mtg. Elections will be held and upcoming speakers will be discussed Thurs. night Feb. 3rd 7 p.m. Stockbridge Reading Room.

ROISTER DOISTER MEETING
The Roister Doister Drama Society will hold their first meeting of the semester today at 5:30 p.m. in CC 174. Anyone interested in working on any crews for the upcoming production "Flowers For Algernon" are urged to attend. New business will be discussed.

RUGBY CLUB MEETING
Rugby Meeting Wed. nite 2-2-77 at 158 Guessman, 7:30 p.m. Spring trip plans will be made. New members welcome.

SF MEETING
There will be a meeting of the Science Fiction Society tonight in CC 908 at 7 p.m. All members are urged to attend. New members are always welcome.

STRATEGIC GAMES CLUB
Wednesday from 3 till 12 in 803 CC Panzer Leader, D&D, Siege of Jerusalem are available at the club; all welcome.

T.M.
"The Transcendental Meditation Program and Enlightment" an introductory lecture on the TM Program sponsored by the UMass Students International Meditation Society. Tonight 8 p.m. Herter Hall Room 231. For more information 549-5335.

WATER POLO ANYONE?
Anyone, male or female, interested in playing inter-collegiate waterpolo, please call Bob at 546-4769. Pool and equipment avail. P.E..

WORKSHOP IN LITURGY
Hille colloq meets today at 3:30 p.m. in CC 114. Still time to enroll for credit.

University snow policy

The major objective of snow removal activities at times of severe storms is to make it possible to hold classes and conduct all University activities in as normal a way as possible. Since a large number of the faculty, staff and student population normally bring cars onto campus, it is important for all concerned to understand clearly what policies and procedures will be followed in the event of a severe storm that temporarily limits parking capacity on campus.

Classes and all other scheduled activities on campus will be held as usual unless a specific announcement is made to the contrary beginning at 6 a.m. and continued periodically on the day in question. Such announcements will be made on radio stations WTTT-Amherst, WHMP-Northampton, WHAI-Greenfield, WARE-Ware, WCAT-Orange, WHYN-Springfield, WFCR-Amherst, WTIC-Hartford, WACE-Springfield, WTAG-Worcester, WSPR-Springfield and WMUA-Amherst. It is important that you stay tuned to your radio for additional information in the event of a change. DO NOT CALL THE UNIVERSITY FOR THIS INFORMATION.

In order to facilitate snow removal, parking will be prohibited in the lots listed below between the hours of 1 a.m. and 7 a.m., from Dec. 1 to April 1, as provided for in the Motor Vehicle Regulations Manual approved by the Board of Trustees on August 6, 1975. In addition, as provided for in the regulations, no overnight parking will be permitted on any roadway except Thatcher Way.

Overnight parking is specifically prohibited on the Lot 50 horseshoe in Southwest and the Lot 47 roadway circling the Sylvan area. Overnight parking in the Stadium peripheral lot is restricted to the back (west) portion of the lot. Overnight parking will continue to be available in lots other than those listed below:

—Lot 62 (south of Clark Hall)
—Lot 63 (west of Worcester Dining Hall)
—Lot 40 (north of Boyden)
—Lot 25 (south of Access Road to peripheral lot and the adjacent peripheral lot)
—Lot 65 (located between Stockbridge and Engineering buildings)
—Lot 26 (west of Engineering and Physics Shop)
—Lot 31 (north and east of Engineering and Physics Shop)
—Lot 66 (north of School of Education)
—Lot 34 (south of Whitmore)
—Lot 71 (west of Whitmore)

Every effort will be made to keep the bus service operating. Snow day schedule changes will be announced on WTTT-AM and WMUA-FM. Call 545-2086 for operating schedules during snow storms.

It is strongly recommended that anyone who normally brings a car onto campus consider making use of the University bus service during periods of heavy snow storms.

SOPHOMORE JOBS
$500 for FOR 6 WEEKS IN
WESTERN KENTUCKY PLUS
ROOM, BOARD,
WORK CLOTHES,
AND TRAVEL EXPENSES.

Further Employment after Graduation Very Likely.

Call D. B. LEGG 5-2321

Town employes of Ceredo, W.Va. install flood gates after being warned by the Army of possible flooding. (UPI)

DO YOU
THINK SKIING?
You should think . . .
WHITE CAT

ANNUAL SALE
Super Savings up to 40%

Located in the Mountain Farms Mall
Rt. 9 Hadley
Open daily 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.

PRATT
& WHITNEY AIRCRAFT GROUP
REPRESENTATIVES WILL BE ON CAMPUS
FEBRUARY 9, 1977
to interview candidates
Consult your Placement Office for degree and field of study requirements

PRATT & WHITNEY
AIRCRAFT GROUP
UNITED TECHNOLOGIES

An Equal Opportunity Employer / Male & Female

With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Fab Laundry Detergent 49 oz. box 99¢
Good thru Sat., Feb. 5. Limit one box per customer 249
Grocery Dept

With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Gold Medal Flour 5 lb bag 39¢
Good thru Sat., Feb. 5. Limit one bag per customer 245
Grocery Dept

With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
FREE! Stop & Shop Frozen 5 oz. pkg. Waffles
Good thru Sat., Feb. 5. Limit one pkg. per customer 248
Frozen Dept

With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
White Cloud Toilet Tissue 4 pk.-375 sheet-2 ply rolls 49¢
Good thru Sat., Feb. 5. Limit one pkg. per customer 252
Grocery Dept

With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Red Rose Tea Bags 100 Count Box 99¢
Good thru Sat., Feb. 5. Limit one box per customer 247
Grocery Dept

With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Stop & Shop Chunk Light Tuna 6½ oz. can (packed in oil) 29¢
Good thru Sat., Feb. 5. Limit one can per customer 251
Grocery Dept

it's sneezin' season
Choose your favorite cold remedy for your family. Stock up on these specially priced cold fighters!
Cepacol 32 oz. bottle 99¢
Tylenol 100 ct. bottle $1.19
Dristan 24 ct. bottle $1.09
Vicks Formula 44 3 oz. btl. 99¢
Congespirin 36 ct. bottle 49¢
Gleem 7 oz. tube 89¢
Stop & Shop Baby Powder 24 oz. pkg. 99¢
Suave Shampoo $1.19
Green Apple, Strawberry or Apricot-28 oz. btl.

Save at your convenience not ours. That's all-week specials!
"If you see a special early in the week but can't go shopping early in the week, don't worry. At 'my' store All-Week Specials mean you can take advantage of special sale prices all week long. Monday morning through Saturday night. "We believe if an item is good enough to be a special we should have it all week long and not run out of stock, either. If we do, just ask for a "rain check", so you can get it at the special price next time you're in". "One thing I learned about 'my' store years ago is this. Everything we do is for the customer's convenience. That's you. All-Week Specials are just one reason Stop & Shop is 'my store' to more people." Ed Ferrara Store Manager grocery Many of your favorites are on sale this week.

Nabisco Ritz Crackers 16 oz pkg 79¢
5 lbs. Peanut Butter Stop & Shop 5 lb jar $2.99
Kraft Italian Dressing 8 oz btl 49¢
½ Gal. Hawaiian Punch Red ½ gal btl 79¢
Welch's Tomato Juice 48 oz. btl 69¢
Silver Floss Sauerkraut 4 16 oz cans $1
Palmolive Liquid Detergent 22 oz btl 79¢
Kleenex Facial Tissue 2 200 ct 2 ply roll $1

frozen There are more than 700 delicious foods in our freezers.
Sun Glory-5 pound bag French Fries 99¢
Celeste Pizza Cheese or Mushroom or Bambino Deluxe-10 oz. 9 oz pkg 89¢
Birds Eye Tasti Fries 20 oz pkg 59¢
Birds Eye Peas 16 oz bag 49¢
Taste O'Sea Dinners Haddock, Sole or Flounder-9 oz pkg 49¢
Perx Coffee Lightener Non Dairy 32 oz cont 49¢
Sara Lee Rings Blueberry, Raspberry, Maple Crunch or Almond-9½ oz pkg ea 89¢
Morton Donuts Jelly 11 oz or Glazed 9 oz pkg 69¢
½ Gal. Ice Cream Sun Glory ½ gal. ctn.-Asst. Flavors 89¢
Aunt Jemima Jumbo Waffles 15 oz pkg 65¢
Howard Johnson Toasties Blueberry or Corn-7½ oz pkg 39¢
Pepperidge Farm Cakes pkg 89¢
Pound Cake 10¾ oz., Carrot Pecan 14¼ oz. or Apple Walnut 14¼ oz.
Hendries Krunch Bars 27 oz pkg of 12 99¢
Hendries Fudgesicle 30 oz. pkg. of 12 89¢
100% Natural Ice Cream Stop & Shop Assorted Flavors pint 59¢

ONE OF THE STOP & SHOP COMPANIES
Stop & Shop SUPERMARKETS
It's "my store" to more people... because of all-week specials!
Shop anytime from Monday opening through Saturday closing. save at your convenience not ours. That's all-week specials!

Stop & Shop GREAT BEEF USDA CHOICE
Stop & Shop "Great Beef" Shoulder Roast Boneless Beef Chuck $1.09 lb
USDA Choice beef is naturally aged for tenderness.
Round Tip Roast Beef Round $1.39 lb.
Shoulder Beef Steak Beef Chuck $1.39 lb.
Round Tip Steak Beef Round $1.69 lb.
Fresh Pork Shoulder Picnic 69¢ lb
Fresh Pork Butts Boston Blade Roast 89¢ lb.
Fresh Ham Shank Half 89¢ lb. Rump Half 99¢ lb.
Pork Hocks Fresh 69¢ lb. Pork Feet Fresh 39¢ lb.
Fresh Pork Neck Bones 39¢ lb
Primo Italian Sausage Hot or Sweet 99¢ lb
Stop & Shop Breakfast Sausage 99¢ lb
Beef Liver Stop & Shop Skinned & Deveined Frozen 49¢ lb
Fried or broiled, with bacon or onions, it's great.
Corned Beef Brisket Stop & Shop-Point Cut 99¢ lb
Corned Beef Brisket Stop & Shop-Flat Cut $1.19 lb
Close trimmed for value and vacuum sealed to keep it juicy and flavorful self service deli

Rath Beef Weiners 1 lb. pkg. 79¢
Rath Sliced Bacon Hickory Smoked 1 lb package $1.29
Rath Piece Bacon Hickory Smoked (Sold by the piece) per lb 99¢
Pork Sausage Meat Rath 1 lb roll-frozen 59¢
Rath Canned Ham Hickory Smoked 3 lb. can $5.69
Rath Canned Ham Honey Glazed 1½ lb can $3.49
1 pound package-Stop & Shop Cold Cuts 99¢
Bologna, P&P or Spiced Luncheon
Hillshire Farms Kielbasi or Smoked Sausage per lb $1.29
Beef Bologna or Salami Hebrew National-12 oz. roll $1.39 corner deli Pick up an entire meal from the friendly folks at the Deli.

Available in stores featuring a corner deli
Stop & Shop The Corner Deli
Bologna Our own Stop & Shop Corner Deli brand. 99¢ lb
Genoa Salami Genoa Brand Artificial Casing per lb $1.99
Genoa Brand Pepperoni per lb $1.89
Old Fashioned Deli Franks Corner Deli-Natural Casing per lb $1.29
Deli Style Roast Beef Stop & Shop per lb $1.99
Stop & Shop Baked Ham qtr lb 79¢
Potato Salad Stop & Shop Reg. or Oil & Vinegar per lb 49¢
Stop & Shop Chicken Salad per lb $1.69
Stop & Shop Custards per lb 69¢ produce Good buys for your budget on sale.

McIntosh Apples "Crisp-Aire" U.S. NO. 1 2¼ inch min. 3 lb bag 79¢
California-Extra Large #72 Size Navel Oranges Sweet & delicious. 9 for $1
8 lbs. Idaho Potatoes U.S. #1 A Size $1.09 8 lb. bag
Squash Butternut 15¢ lb
Turnips Yellow 12¢ lb kitchen Good foods from Stop & Shop kitchens.

NEW Fresh-Thick Crust Cheese Pizza 11 oz. size 69¢ seafood Save on fillets, ready to cook.

Haddock Fillets frozen $1.39 lb
Red Snapper Fillets Frozen per lb. $1.09
Matlaw's Stuffed Clams or Clams Casino-11 oz. pkg. pkg ea $1.09
Taste O'Sea Fish Cakes 1 lb pkg 69¢
Fried Clams American Original 12 oz. pkg $2.29

dairy You have all week to save on our specials.
Borden-Deluxe American Cheese Food Slices White or Yellow 12 oz. pkg. 99¢
Light N'Lively Yogurt Asst. Flavors 3 8 oz cups 89¢
Cream Cheese Stop & Shop 8 oz pkg 49¢
Orange Juice Minute Maid 32 oz ctn from concentrate 39¢

bakery Just look at these specials from our bakers.
Stop & Shop Toasties Corn 6 oz. or Bran 10½ oz. 2 pkgs $1
Big Daisy Sliced White Bread 3 20 oz loaves $1
Buttercrest Bread Stop & Shop 2 22 oz. loaves 89¢
Stop & Shop Donuts Kitchen Cupboard 19 oz. pkg. of 12 89¢
Lemon or Pineapple Pie Stop & Shop 22 oz. pkg. 89¢
Coffee Cake Stop & Shop-Cinnamon Sliced-14 oz. loaf 69¢

Good thru Sat., Feb. 5. In fairness to all our customers, we reserve the right to limit sales to three packages of any item except where otherwise noted. Items offered for sale not available in case lots or to other dealers or wholesalers. Copyright 1977 by Stop & Shop Supermarkets. All rights reserved.

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

DC menu

TODAY

LUNCH — Cheeseburgers, Corned Beef Hash with Poached Egg; Basics: Vegetable a la King, Tuna Salad-Bun.

DINNER — SPECIAL DINNER: Prime Rib Roast of Beef au jus, Baked Trout-Lemon wedges; Basics: Baked Trout-Lemon Wedges, East West Lasagna.

TOMORROW

LUNCH — Macaroni and Cheese, Cold Cut Grinder; Basics: Vegetable Sukiuaki, Macaroni and Cheese.

DINNER — Baked Chicken, Grilled Reuben Sandwich; Basics: Baked Chicken, Soybean Croquettes.

Course additions

Latin American Thought and National Identity, three credits, SW 190M Sec. 2, Tuesdays and Thursdays, Mackimmie Humanity House, Southwest Residential College, Classroom I, Instructor: Mariano Trujillo V. 1 p.m.

The course introduces the student to the philosophical period in Latin America following the turn of the century and in general post-independence from Spain and Portugal.

The peoples of the Latin American continent were faced with creating a nation after the battles of independence were fought and won. Their efforts to produce a practical and effective individual and collective identity have ramifications for "nation building". Latin Americans have continued this healthy practice of periodically redefining this sense of individual and collective identity.

As an example, the instructor will associate Latin American thought to the development of the Chicano sense of identity.

For Whites Only, The Center for Racial Understanding in Southwest is sponsoring a three-credit course entitled Dynamics of White Racism. The course meets Monday 7 to 10 p.m. to explore the issues of racism on the institutional and cultural levels as well as to help white people come to grips with individual racism. Enrollment is limited.

Sex discrimination counseling offered

Everywoman's Center is now offering counseling for sex discrimination, a unique and new form of counseling. The purpose of this counseling is to help people determine the presence of sex discrimination, to better understand their rights under the law, and to find out what steps can be taken and to provide support for those who decide to take action.

This service is especially for people who feel they may be experiencing sex discrimination. It gives them an opportunity to talk about their situation in an informal way with the counselor who is knowledgeable,

For further information, contact Mary Lou O'Neil at the center at 545-0883.

Public hearing on sex discrimination

The Student Affairs Title IX Self-Evaluation Committee will hold a public hearing to discuss issues relevant to sex discrimination on campus pertaining to the Undergraduated Admissions Office, on Wednesday, February 9, from 12-2 p.m. in room 917 of the Campus Center.

Blood donors sought for Collegian drive

Join the Collegian blood drive. Donations are being accepted at the Health Center from 5:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. today and tomorrow. Somebody may be dying for your help. Appoints can be made at the Collegian downstairs in the Campus Center any time today. For information call 256-6294. P.S. Care to sponsor a drive for your organization? Call us!

Springfield Symphony Orchestra
proudly presents the
CLEVELAND ORCHESTRA
LORIN MAAZEL, conductor
Beethoven: Overture to "Egmont"
Beethoven: Symphony No. 8
Strauss: Ein Heldenleben
MON., FEB. 7, 8:00 P.M. — SYMPHONY HALL
$3.75, $4.75, $6.50, $7.75, $12.50
to order tickets call: 733-2291

University of massachusetts arts council
S. HUROK presents
CANADA'S ROYAL WINNIPEG BALLET
FRI. & SAT., FEB. 11 & 12 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets on sale Jan. 28, $6, 5, 4. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

Bell's Pizza House

Somebody still cares about quality.
Free Delivery on Campus Sun.-Thurs.
256-8011 253-9051 65 Univ. Drive

COMING FRIDAY

From the devious mind of Alfred Hitchcock, a diabolically entertaining motion picture.
You must see it twice!
ALFRED HITCHCOCK'S
FAMILY PLOT
KAREN BLACK · BRUCE DERN · BARBARA HARRIS
WILLIAM DEVANE · Music by JOHN WILLIAMS · Screenplay by ERNEST LEHMAN
From the novel "THE RAINBIRD PATTERN" by VICTOR CANNING
PG PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED · Directed by ALFRED HITCHCOCK · A UNIVERSAL PICTURE TECHNICOLOR®
CCA 7:00, 9:15, 11; 11:30

WMUA NEWS

Tonite- 804-804 804-808 C.C.- 8pm.
First meeting

If your interested in NEWS, and want to become part of the news NEWS, then you might learn something by coming to the first WMUA NEWS meeting of the NEW semester. ALL members old and NEW should attend. Women and Third World members are greatly encouraged to attend.

YOU HAVEN'T SEEN ANYTHING UNTIL YOU'VE SEEN EVERYTHING*

"Everything you always wanted to know about sex* *BUT WERE AFRAID TO ASK"
A JACK ROLLINS-CHARLES H. JOFFE and BRODSKY/GOULD Production
WOODY ALLEN'S
"EVERYTHING YOU ALWAYS WANTED TO KNOW ABOUT SEX* *BUT WERE AFRAID TO ASK"
R United Artists
SATURDAY FEB. 5
Student Union Ballroom
6:30 8:15 10:00 11:45

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 - HADLEY MASS

THE GREATEST AFRICAN ADVENTURE EVER FILMED!
LEE MARVIN ROGER MOORE
SHOUT AT THE DEVIL
BARBARA PARKINS
PG ①
Monday Thurs 5:30, 8:00. Twi-Liter 5-5:30
Fri 4:30, 7:00, 9:30. Twi-Liter 4:00-4:30
Sat 2:00, 4:30, 7:00, 9:30. Twi-Liter 4:00-4:30
Sunday 2:00, 5:30, 8:00. Twi-Liter 5:00-5:30
Limited Seating at Twi-Liters - $1.25

IF YOU'VE GOT A TASTE FOR TERROR... TAKE CARRIE TO THE PROM.
CARRIE
R ②
Mon-Thur 6:00, 8:15. Twi-Liter 5:30-6:00
Fri 5:00, 7:15, 9:45. Twi-Liter 4:30-5:00
Sat 2:15, 5:00, 7:15, 9:45. Twi-Liter 4:30-5:00
Sun 2:15, 6:00, 8:15. Twi-Liter 5:30-6:00
Limited Seating at Twi-Liters - $1.25

"MAGNIFICENT!" Penelope Gilliatt The New Yorker
"LIV ULLMANN'S PERFORMANCE IS SHATTERING!" Jack Kroll Newsweek
INGMAR BERGMAN'S "FACE TO FACE" LIV ULLMANN
R ③
Mon-Thur 5:30, 8:00. Twi-Liter 5:00-5:30
Friday 4:30, 7:00, 9:30. Twi-Liter 4:00-4:30
Sat 2:00, 4:30, 7:00, 9:30. Twi-Liter 4:00-4:30
Sun 2:00, 5:30, 8:00. Twi-Liter 5:00-5:30

"LOVELY... A RARITY, A POETIC COMEDY THAT'S REALLY FUNNY." —Pauline Kael, New Yorker Magazine
a film by françois truffaut small change
PG ④
Mon-Thur 5:45, 8:15. Twi-Liter 5:15-5:45
Fri 4:45, 7:15, 9:45. Twi-Liter 4:14-4:45
Sat 2:15, 4:45, 7:15, 9:45. Twi-Liter 4:15-4:45
Sun 2:15, 5:45, 8:15. Twi-Liter 5:15-5:45
★ REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS... LIMITED TO SEATING ★

Summer counseling applications due

Applications for student group leaders in the Summer Counseling Program are due by 5 p.m., Feb. 7 in the Community Development Center, 123 Berkshire House.

Training sessions for the thirty selected counselors will be held during the latter part of the Spring semester and the week of May 31 through June 3. All positions require residence in an assigned residence hall and meals in the dining hall for the nine-week period. Summer Counseling positions require full-time participation. Summer school courses cannot be taken.

Meditation Society to sponsor lectures

The Students International Meditation Society (SIMS) is sponsoring a lecture program this semester to introduce students to the Transcendental Meditation program. The first lecture, entitled "The Transcendental Meditation program and Enlightenment," will be Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Herter Hall room 231. The lecture will cover the benefits of the growth of consciousness through the TM technique in the areas of mind, body, behavior, and environment.

For the almost 1,000 members of SIMS in the Five College area, a special introductory meeting for those interested in taking the 33 lesson course on the Science of Creative Intelligence will be held this Thursday, Feb. 3 at 7:30 p.m. at the local SIMS center, 327 Lincoln Ave., Amherst. The presentation will include a color video taped lecture given by maharishi Mahesh Yogi. For more information call 549-5335.

WHAT'S HAPPENING

Chamber music tonight in Fine Arts

The UMass Faculty Woodwind Quintet will present a night of traditional and contemporary chamber music at 8 p.m., Feb. 2 in the Bezanson Recital Hall of the Fine Arts Center open to the public free of charge.

Students sought to teach courses

The Alternative Learning Program is an alternative high school on campus that needs UMASS students to teach courses during the spring term. The school involves 14 students from ages 14 to 18, who come from high schools throughout Hampshire County. These students come to 151 Hills South, Monday through Friday and take classes taught by three full-time staff members and a number of UMass students. In this way, they fulfill the requirements of their high school while taking small classes in subjects that they are genuinely interested in. UMass students who teach in the program may earn credit(s) for their efforts.

The program operates from 8:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. and classes will be organized during the week of Jan. 31-Feb. 4. Many UMass students who taught in the program during the fall term found that it was their most positive educational experience. Come by 151 Hills South if you are interested.

Bike co-op meeting to be held in CC

Students interested in purchasing discount bikes and parts and access to bike repair equipment and tools should come to the organizational meeting of the Bike Co-op in Campus Center room 911 today at 4 p.m., or call John Fisher, Economic Development Coordinator at 545-0341, Ext. 6.

Film 'Puerto Rico' showing tonight

The Puerto Rican Solidarity Committee will show the Cuban film "Puerto Rico" tonight at 7:30. The film documents the history of U.S. imperialism in Puerto Rico and the resistence of the Puerto Rican people to it. The film will be in West Lecture Hall, Hampshire College. A $1 donation is requested of those who can afford it.

'Atlantis' tonight in Thompson 107

The film "ATLANTIS" will be shown tonight at 7 and 8 p.m., Thompson 104. No admission charge. The film explores the intriguing similarities between the circumstances and exciting new archaeological discoveries in the southern Aegean.

THE POINT
Thursday, Febrary 3
7, 8:30., 10 pm
S. U. B.
75¢

SPECIAL ENGAGEMENT
"MAGNIFICENT!" Penelope Gilliatt The New Yorker

INGMAR BERGMAN'S "FACE TO FACE" LIV ULLMANN
SAT-SUN DOLLAR HOUR TIL 6
MON— TUES DOLLAR NITES!
CALVIN Sat-Sun 4:40-7-9:20 Eves 7-9:20
NORTHAMPTON 584-2310

AMHERST Cinema AMITY ST. 253-5426
now "A SMALL MASTERPIECE!" Bernard Drew, Gannett News "ASTONISHING... BRILLIANTLY ACTED!" John Simon N.Y. Magazine
Starring PHILIPPE NOIRET
the CLOCKMAKER ...A MAN WHO WOULD NOT COMPROMISE.
Plus Vincent, François, Paul and the Others
Eves. VINCENT FRANCOIS 7:00 CLOCKMAKER 9:00
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES - ALL SEATS $1.00

University of massachusetts arts council presents
THE FABULOUS GIL EVANS AND HIS ORCHESTRA
Big Band Jazz of the 70's
SAT., FEB. 5 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets now on sale! $6, 5, 4. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

Clint Eastwood is
DIRTY HARRY
Thurs. Feb. 3
7,9,11 PM CCA
Plus Roadrunner cartoon

Everybody's Market Place

CLASSIFIED ADS

To place a classified ad drop by the Collegian Office between 8 30a m and 3 45p m Monday thru Friday The deadline is 3 45p m two days before your ad is to appear

The rates are
Daily 40¢ per line
Weekly 35¢ per line
Monthly 25¢ per line
(two lines on MDC form approximate one line

IF YOU CAN'T COME TO THE OFFICE. CLIP OUT AND MAIL OUR 'SPEEDY CLASSIFIED AD FORM'

FOR SALE

Lady Nordica ski boots, 6-7. $40. Call 253-5705.

Brand new used Blizzard skis, 180 cm w Look GT bindings. Asking $110. Call 253-5705.

8 trk car dk w spkrs. $40. 549-5910. Ken.

TURNTABLE — Philips GA212, ex. cond. Ret. $170, ask $125—B.O. 253-7498.

Parts for Triumph TR4 and TR4A. 256-6233.

Ebonite Clarinet, leather pads, comp rebit, real tight mellow sound. 256-0536, John.

175cm Holzner skis, 9½ Reiker boots, Spademan bindings, 48 in. poles. $45 takes all or will sell in parts. Chuck 655-3551.

FOR SALE

Rossignol Concorde 185cm w Salomon bindings. Gd. cond., asking $60. Call 253-5705.

For Sale: 2 pairs of skis — Head 360's 180cm. Excellent condition. $100.00. Head HRP's 180cm Look Nevada bindings $125.00. Nordica boots $60.00. Head poles $15.00. Call 549-2691.

Refrigerator $35. Gd. cond. 546-5156.

Rossignol Strato Nev. bind. 140cm Reichl, sz. 7, poles. Ex. for beg. 253-7108.

6 rm. house 4 yrs. old, fireplace, 2 car garage, 1 & ½ baths, lge. porch, 1 acre. Exquisite. Call after 4. 1-467-7208.

For Sale: Living room and bedroom furniture. All kinds. Must sell, leaving the area immediately. Call 549-4797.

Head 320 skis 193cm, 3 years old. Will sell cheaply or trade for skis 175-180cm. Call Mark 545-2151. Leave message.

Hi Fi speakers made in Amherst. Hi quality at prices no one can match. Also lowest prices on all brand name components. Call 253-3013. Pyramid Power.

Guitar, Yamaha F160, Flute Armstrong. Both like new. 665-2563.

Refrig., excellent cond., 5 cu. ft., $80. Small BSR McDonald stereo. B. O. 323-5131.

K2 III 195cm, used twice, $75. 549-2785.

LEATHER BOOTS — FRYE Lookalikes — never worn! 9½. Best offer. Jeff. 546-7878.

1 pr. of men's Bauer hockey skates, size 10. Call 6-8960.

Kastle GS skis, 200cm. $50. 546-4709.

TYPING

Typing — Reasonable rates — Dissertations, resumes, papers, etc. 549-6772

AUTO FOR SALE

'65 Malibu. Good. 59,000. 253-5770. $350.

1969 VW Bug. Gd. cond. $625. Call 467-9853.

1969 MGB, good cond. $1000 or best offer.

BMW, '67, 4 door, exc. cond. $1200. 256-6459.

'67 Linc. Cont. Ex. cond. $650. 253-7926.

'67 VW Sqrbk, reblt eng. Runs good, $475. '71 Vega, runs good — body shot, $200. firm. 256-8214 after 6.

'71 Datsun 510, 2 dr., stand., AM-FM. Runs well, needs some body work. 549-6537 eve.

'68 Catalina, hi mi but runs very well & reliable. Peter — Dwight 224 — 5-2304.

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

'72 Kawa H2 750, 3-1 Header. Fast. 6-9441.

INSTRUCTION

Beg. Hatha Yoga for women. Ind. or small groups. Call eves. Hana 253-5698.

ROOMMATE WANTED

Quiet, non-smok., female, own room, $115. mo. Brit. Manor. 253-3140 eves. before 10.

Roommate wanted to share room in Brdyw. Apt. $70 a mo., sec. dep. 549-0160.

Roommate — 2 bdrm., own room, $125 inc. util., sec. dep., d-d, w-d, modern. 549-1741 or 549-1352. Share w female, senior. Lease 8-31-77. A cond.

F. or M to share lg. b room. 5 min walk to campus. 253-5298.

Mature female roommate wanted to share expenses. Call 253-2657.

F roommate wanted. Own bedroom, air cond., pool. $70—mo. Call after 5. 256-6059.

FOR RENT

Belchertown — 3 room cottage — stove, refrig., $150—mth., private. 583-8734 evenings.

Furnished Apts. avail. Feb. 1. 4 mos. lease. 1½, 2, 2½ rms. A.C., parking, pool, quiet area. From $190. mo. inc. all utils. Amherst Motel & Apts., Rte. 9, opp. Zayre's.

2 bdrm. lakefront cottage. Blchtn. Wooded area, screened porch. $230+. 323-7335.

One bdrm. in house. Avail. Feb. 1 near bus line in N. Amherst. F pref. 549-4712.

1 bdrm., all utilities. University Park Apts. $175. 256-0119. Sublet to Aug. 31.

In Lev., woodsy, cheap heat, with 3 others. $95+. 549-0021.

PERSONALS

Below The Salt, fine arts weekly magazine supplement to the Daily Collegian, is looking for talented people to contribute. Art, music, theatre, dance, poetry, books, film, food, politics, fiction, all types of writing, wanted. Commentaries, criticisms, features and reviews. Call us at 545-3500 or come to 113 Campus Center.

Astrology: Humanistic charts & readings. Member American Congress of Astrologers. Louis Neubel, 549-6425.

LETS TOUCH...Experienced foil and saber fencer looking for a.m., p.m., weekend partners. Duke Simoneau, 405 Brown House, 546-5727.

Happy Birthday Michael Reardon.

KJS — Don't be bummed. It is only the beginning. Love EBF.

TRAVEL

Europe '77. No frills, student, teacher, charter flights — Global Travel, 521 5th Ave., N. Y., N. Y. 10017. 212-379-3532. Group rates.

LOST

Lost — Gold pocket watch, low $, hi personal value. $20 reward. 256-6757.

$25 reward for the return of our shaggy standard (large) white poodle, lost near East Pleasant Street in Amherst, Jan. 28. We miss her very much. 594-6034.

Lost — pr. red, white & blue Aris ski gloves, Fri. nite, Hatch. Reward. 546-7924.

HELP WANTED

Work in a sorority. Free meals, good home cooking. Call 253-9066.

Long hours, no pay, but lots of good feelings. Join the staff of Below The Salt, the fine arts—real world weekly supplement to the Daily Collegian. Express yourself. Features, reviews, fiction, poetry, art, commentary — we're looking for it all. Call us at 545-3500 or drop by our office in 113 Campus Center anytime.

P. time job selling jewelry. 256-8746.

Small sorority needs pot washer, dining room houseboys. Call 549-1587.

The Below The Salt arts weekly is looking for your poetry. Let us see your creativity? Come on down Monday nite or leave your stuff in the Poetry Box, Coll. Off., 1st floor C.C.

Men! Women! Jobs on ships! American. Foreign. No exp. required. Exc. pay. Worldwide Travel. Summer job or career. Send $3 for info: SEAFAX, Dept. F-2, Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362.

TO SUBLET

F to lease 1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. unit till May, bus rt., $135 inc. all. 665-3044 eves.

ENTERTAINMENT

Sex Is Back! Woody Allen's outrageous "Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Sex But Were Afraid To Ask!", Saturday, Feb. 5, 4 showings. 6:30, 8:15, 10:00, 11:45 in S.U.B. !1.00.

SERVICES

Guitar Lessons. Experienced, reliable teacher. Theory included if desired. Student rates available. 665-3024.

We sew & do alterations. Free delivery & estimates. Experienced. 549-6407.

Auto Repair & maint. Fair & honest work; cheap rates. Saab 96 A specialty & VW's & Corvair's. Paul. 253-2215; Rich 256-8934.

Tutor in English and Writing, any level. M.A., 6 years experience. 586-2785.

ENGINEERING STUDENTS

High quality, new drafting compass sets. Prived bel cost. Call Carl 546-4102.

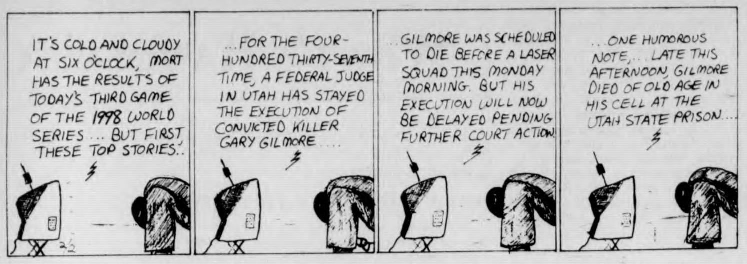
AUDIO

Quality audio components — over 130 lines including high—end; good advice, reasonable prices. Call Peter 665-2920.

CALCULATORS

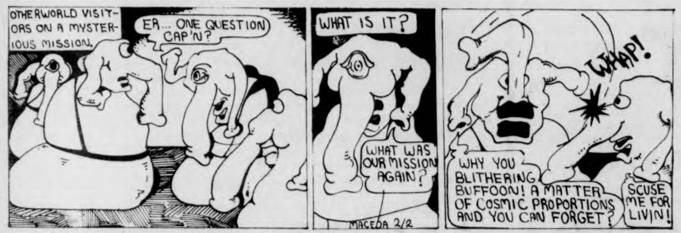
College Calculators has low prices! All T. I. warr by me for 1 yr. SR 52 $199.95; SR 56 $84.95 ($10 rebate off this pr.); SR 40 $34.95, bus anal $34.95 — All HP's avail. HP 67 $389.95. Call and check our PR's. Call Bob Or Linda 549-1316!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

What Next? by Dick Janssen



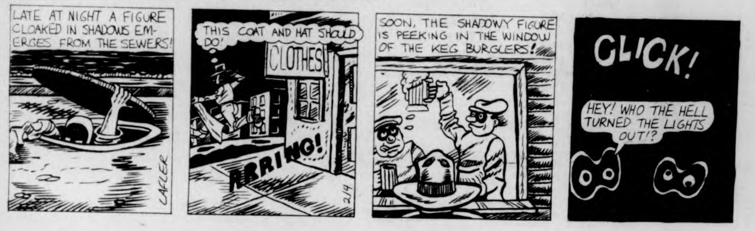
IT'S COLD AND CLOUDY AT SIX O'CLOCK, MORT HAS THE RESULTS OF TODAY'S THIRD GAME OF THE 1998 WORLD SERIES ... BUT FIRST THESE TOP STORIES.
...FOR THE FOUR-HUNDRED THIRTY-SEVENTH TIME, A FEDERAL JUDGE IN UTAH HAS STAYED THE EXECUTION OF CONVICTED KILLER GARY GILMORE....
...GILMORE WAS SCHEDULED TO DIE BEFORE A LASER SQUAD THIS MONDAY MORNING. BUT HIS EXECUTION WILL NOW BE DELAYED PENDING FURTHER COURT ACTION.
...ONE HUMOROUS NOTE,... LATE THIS AFTERNOON, GILMORE DIED OF OLD AGE IN HIS CELL AT THE UTAH STATE PRISON...
2/2

U.Mutations by Marty Maceda



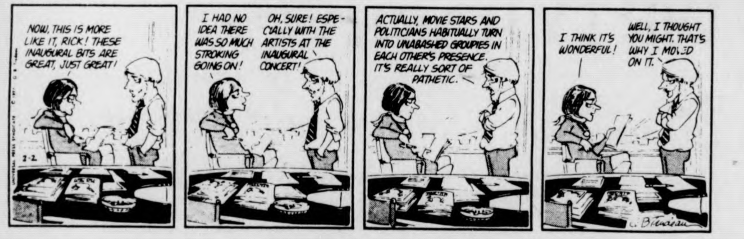
OTHERWORLD VISITORS ON A MYSTERIOUS MISSION.
ER... ONE QUESTION CAP'N?
WHAT IS IT?
WHAT WAS OUR MISSION AGAIN?
WHAP!
WHY YOU BLITHERING BUFFOON! A MATTER OF COSMIC PROPORTIONS AND YOU CAN FORGET?
SCUSE ME FOR LIVIN!
MACEDA 2/2

Aluminum Ghost by Steve Lafler



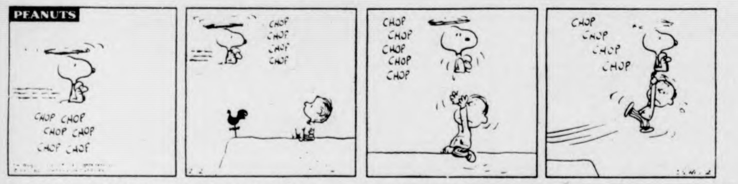
LATE AT NIGHT A FIGURE CLOAKED IN SHADOWS EMERGES FROM THE SEWERS!
LAFLER
THIS COAT AND HAT SHOULD DO!
CLOTHES
RRRING!
2/4
SOON, THE SHADOWY FIGURE IS PEEKING IN THE WINDOW OF THE KEG BURGLERS!
CLICK!
HEY! WHO THE HELL TURNED THE LIGHTS OUT!?

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

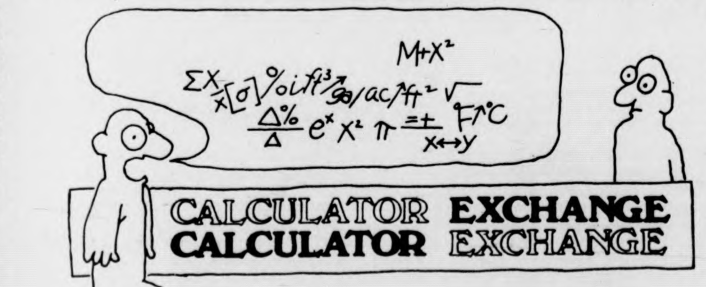


NOW, THIS IS MORE LIKE IT, RICK! THESE INAUGURAL BITS ARE GREAT, JUST GREAT!
2-2
I HAD NO IDEA THERE WAS SO MUCH STROKING GOING ON!
OH, SURE! ESPECIALLY WITH THE ARTISTS AT THE INAUGURAL CONCERT!
ACTUALLY, MOVIE STARS AND POLITICIANS HABITUALLY TURN INTO UNABASHED GROUPIES IN EACH OTHER'S PRESENCE. IT'S REALLY SORT OF PATHETIC.
I THINK IT'S WONDERFUL!
WELL, I THOUGHT YOU MIGHT. THAT'S WHY I MOVED ON IT.
G. Trudeau

Peanuts by Charles M. Schulz



PEANUTS
CHOP CHOP CHOP CHOP CHOP CHOP
CHOP CHOP CHOP CHOP
CHOP CHOP CHOP CHOP CHOP
CHOP CHOP CHOP CHOP



CALCULATOR EXCHANGE
CALCULATOR EXCHANGE

SELL your used calculators thru us or BUY a used calculator at great savings.

Starts Monday Feb. 7 come in for details
at the
UNIVERSITY STORE

Local Television

8:00 3 GOOD TIMES
8 40 THE BIONIC WOMAN "Deadly Ringer"
22 30 NBC MOVIE OF THE WEEK "The Adventures Of Frontier Freemont"
24 57 NOVA "The Sunspot Mystery"
32 BOSTON CELTICS BASKETBALL
8:30 3 THE JACKSONS
9:00 3 CBS WEDNESDAY NIGHT MOVIE "Cage Without A Key"
8 40 BARETTA
24 57 GREAT PERFORMANCES "Salome"
9:30 18 THE PTL CLUB
10:00 8 40 CHARLIE'S ANGELS "Dirty Business"
"The Final Chapter"
27 NEWS
56 LOVE, AMERICAN STYLE
10:30 27 THE BIG MONEY GAME
11:00 3 8 22 24 30 40 NEWS
27 MOVIE "D.O.A."
38 THE HONEYMOONERS "A Matter Of Record"
56 DARK SHADOWS
57 MARY HARTMAN, MARY HARTMAN
11:30 3 CBS LATE MOVIE "A Matter Of Wife ... And Death"
8 40 THE ROOKIES-MYSTERY OF THE WEEK
18 VOICE OF FAITH
22 30 THE JOHNNY CARSON SHOW
38 THE BOLD ONES "Angry Man"
56 NIGHT GALLERY
57 CAPTIONED ABC EVENING NEWS
12:30 18 CELEBRITY BOWLING
1:00 22 30 TOMORROW
18 THE 700 CLUB

Your Birthday

by Stella Wilder

Wednesday, February 2 — Born today, you are a highly emotional person who may have some difficulty establishing stable personal relationships. Your tendency will be to become overly dependent upon another so quickly that you don't really know the person with whom you are attempting to link your destiny. You will have to be on your guard against your own inclination to form relationships with those who can in no way help you either to come to a better understanding of yourself or to relate to the outside world in a way that is both productive and progressive. You have a great need for independence and must ultimately learn to depend more upon your own talents than upon another's influence and presence.

There are some who, not realizing the degree or the depth to which the slings and arrows of real and imagined slights can – and usually do -- penetrate your very thin layer of protective bravado, fail to understand how deeply hurt you can be by adverse criticism. These are the people who never hesitate to speak ill of you to your face, though they would be hard put to accept it were you to speak ill of them to theirs. Your forgiving nature allows you to go back again for more of the same, no matter how much you have been hurt; your sympathetic nature enables you to understand why others should hurt you in the first place.

* * *

Thursday, February 3

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Personal warmth makes up for a great deal today. Don't be surprised should you find yourself the center of attention at evening.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Difficulty with loved ones where your career is concerned may cause you sadness early in the day. Keep a long-held promise in the afternoon.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Keep yourself in readiness for a top spot on the employment scene. This is a good time for proving your willingness to cooperate.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Adverse reactions to your suggestions may cause you to harbor self-doubt today. Make an effort to regain confidence in yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — If you are too free with your money during morning hours, you may find yourself on the "needy" list by day's end.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Your marked aptitude for remembering names and faces comes in handy this morning. Energy is required to meet the grade during the afternoon and evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Take care that simple interest in not misinterpreted as an attempt to force your will upon another. Act according to your own conscience.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Your disregard for the conventional things of life could land you in considerable trouble today. Be on your guard against a setback.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Cultivate a more tolerant appearance. You need to be able to make others feel free to speak in front of you -- all the time!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Your keen interest in another's business should encourage a friend to strike out alone. Even so, refuse to be responsible.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Pride may make it hard for you to admit defeat. On the other hand, such an admission brings you the help you so sorely need.

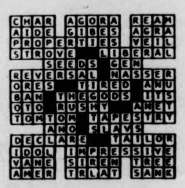
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — A windfall in the form of opportunites for gain arises more than once today. Keep ready to act on a moment's notice.

Copyright 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Today's Crossword

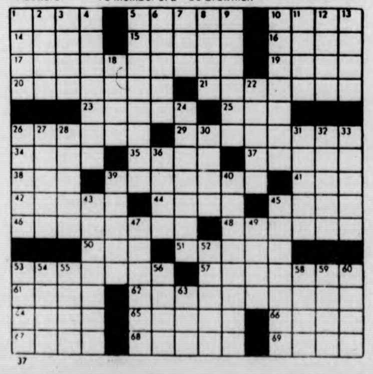
UNITED Feature Syndicate

Tuesday's Puzzle Solved



ACROSS
1 "Buttons and ----"
5 Moved furtively Archaic
10 Computer food
14 Least positive integer
15 Strained food
16 Lengthy, in time
17 Doctor's prescription
19 Surety bond
20 Introduction
21 Eminently
23 Excess tissue
25 "I smell a ---!"
26 Saint ------: Early archbishop
29 Shaded walks
34 Animal
35 One who is opposed
37 Heath genus
38 Japanese coin
39 Bonded
41 Deranged person: Slang
42 Celtic language
44 Letters
45 Musician ---- Fountain
46 Dummy's partner
48 Made fun of
50 Presidential nickname
51 Moves briskly
53 Former
57 Gathers up
61 ---- ball
62 Commend to favor
64 Singer ---- Murray
65 Be frugal
66 Egg-shaped
67 Bring up
68 Become aware of
69 Feminine name

DOWN
1 Hit
2 Unusual person: Slang
3 Broad
4 Become rigid
5 Astronaut
6 Stringed instruments
7 Jackie's late husband
8 Gaseous element
9 Ontario town
10 Member of a college team
11 Street urchin
12 ---- end: Conclusion
13 Unite formally
18 Convene
22 Broken
24 Beret makers
26 Extremely bitter
27 Black: French
28 Of audible sound
30 Stone: suffix
31 Eats
32 Astute
33 Surfeited
36 Importance
39 Brownish color
40 Evaluate
43 Move like a snake
45 Ardor
47 Negligent
49 Part of Q.E.D
52 Mountain pools
53 Persian poet
54 Not one
55 Heating vessel
56 Being: Sp.
58 Accumulate goods
59 And elsewhere 2 words
60 Dupe: Slang
63 Alcoholic beverage



Miller departs to 'mile high' city

DENVER [UPI] — Robert "Red" Miller, who was chiefly responsible for Denver's worst defeat of the 1976 NFL season as offensive coach of the New England Patriots, yesterday was named head coach of the Broncos, replacing John Ralston.

Fred Gehrke, Bronco general manager, said the selection of Miller was based on the 17 year pro football veteran's credentials, which included a three-year stint as Denver's offensive line coach during the early sixties.

"He has excellent credentials," said Gehrke. "In our opinion, he is one of most qualified people in the business. His credentials as an offensive football coach are outstanding, and we feel he is the strong type of a coach who can put together a championship program."

Miller, 49, who engineered the Patriots' 38-18 win over Denver last November, was named to the coaching job one day after Ralston resigned under a terms of a "mutual agreement" with team owners.

Ralston, who this past season led the Broncos to their winningest season in the club's 17-year history, a 9-5 mark, said he decided to quit because of a personal conflict with Gehrke.

Miller said he believed the Broncos already were a good team and with "the addition of a few players could become an outstanding team.

"I think it's to my advantage to move into a situation like this one," Miller said. "We don't have to start from the bottom because we're coming in with a winning team."

Miller said he expected the full support of Bronco players and divisive wounds which led to demands for Ralston's resignation last December, would be healed.

"I think we're all going to be in this together," he said. "I believe in unity from the top to the bottom. We want a hard hitting football team, one that we can all be proud of."

Miller said he would keep on Denver's four defensive coaches and that he also would serve as the team's offensive coach.

THE PUB
WEDNESDAY
PUB MUG NIGHT
9-1
25¢ BEERS
WITH Jim Plunkett
*SING-A-LONG *CONTESTS

BUY YOUR PUB MUG FOR 25¢ BEERS ON WEDNESDAY NIGHTS and FRIDAY HAPPY HOURS!

EATING & DRINKING
AMHERST

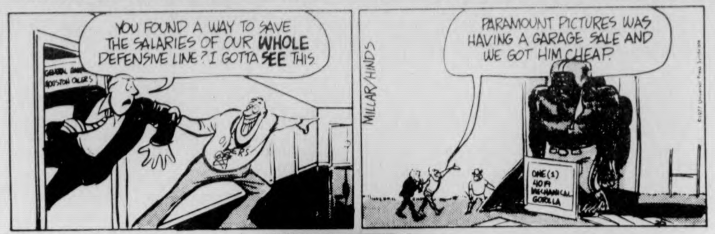
MID-WINTER SALE
JAN. 21 - FEB. 5
SELECTED ITEMS THROUGHOUT THE STORE.
EXAMPLES:

Parkas	up to 25% off
Wool-rich Wool Shirts	up to 40% off
Back Packs	up to 50% off
Tents	up to 50% off
Hiking Boots	up to 20% off

Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY, INC.
PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON, MASS.
9-5:30 Weekdays — 9-5:00 Saturday

TANK McNAMARA

by Jeff Millar & Bill Hinds



YOU FOUND A WAY TO SAVE THE SALARIES OF OUR WHOLE DEFENSIVE LINE? I GOTTA SEE THIS GENERAL MANAGER HOUSTON OILERS
MILLAR/HINDS
PARAMOUNT PICTURES WAS HAVING A GARAGE SALE AND WE GOT HIM CHEAP.
ONE (1) 40 FT MECHANICAL GORILLA

Orr status in doubt

TORONTO [UPI] — Lawyer Alan Eagleson yesterday branded "silly and totally unrelated to the facts" reports that Chicago Black Hawks superstar Bobby Orr would quit playing hockey because of an impending sixth operation on his knee.

He acknowledged, however, that new swelling and pain in the defenseman's left knee made it possible Orr would be sidelined for the rest of this season if another operation to remove bone chips was ordered by Orr's doctor.

Orr, 28, went to Florida Tuesday for a 10-day vacation and would meet with Dr. John Palmer of Toronto when he returns, Eagleson said.

"Orr's knee hasn't been responding well to treatment, and Dr. Palmer suggested the vacation," Eagleson said.

"But Bobby Orr is not at this stage considering retirement from hockey. Dr. Palmer doesn't know if he (Orr) has one day, one year or 10 years left to play."

In a copyright story Tuesday, the Toronto Globe and Mail said Orr had played his last NHL game and would retire after another operation. Eagleson said the story was "more than premature, it was silly and totally unrelated to the facts."

Orr, voted most valuable player in the 1976 Team Canada competition against the USSR, has played in only 20 of Chicago's 51 games this season. He joined the Black Hawks in June after signing a contract for a reported $3 million.

Eagleson said Orr was not receiving his salary from the Hawks "at our request."

"He won't come back (to the team) if he thinks he won't be able to play in a way that will help the Black Hawks."

After Orr leaves the game, doctors may replace portions of the battered knee with plastic so that Orr "will be able to do everything except play hockey or a fast game of tennis," Eagleson said.

Daredevil, Evil Knievel lies in his hospital bed recuperating from injuries he received in a fall. The motorcycle maniac had been rehearsing for his CBS prime time special when the incident occurred. (UPI)

UMass Sports Scoop

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

VARSITY WOMEN'S BASKETBALL — UMass 68 — Northeastern — 47
WOMEN'S JV BASKETBALL — UMASS — 48 — Northeastern — 40
MEN'S VARSITY GYMNASTICS — UMass 183.75 — Dartmouth — 152.15
HOCKEY JV — R.P.I. — 9 — UMass — 2

TODAY

MEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL — vs. Boston College Home 8:00
MEN'S JV BASKETBALL — vs. Westover AFB HOme 6:00
VARSITY HOCKEY — vs. North Adams State Home 8:00
MEN'S VARSITY SWIMMING — vs. Tufts Away 4:00

THE NATIONAL THEATRE COMPANY
presents

Feelin' GOOD

A Joyous, Hand-Clapping Review

Place: Student Union Ballroom

Date: Friday, February 4, 1977

Time: 8:00 p.m.

FREE ADMISSION

sponsored by
Campus Center Program Council

JV icemen buried early outclassed by RPI; 9-2

By SUSAN FAY
Collegian Staff

The UMass junior varsity hockey team was outscored (9-2), outshot (52-28), outskated and outclassed last night in a game played before a minute crowd at Orr Rink.

The only way to describe last night's game is to say the Minutemen were playing over their heads. RPI jumped off to a quick lead, scoring its first five goals before the first period was 10 minutes old. They slowed down somewhat in the second, only scoring one goal, but finished with three more in the third.

Coach Russ Kidd described RPI as "a big-fast team made up of mostly Canadians," and his description held true, as they displayed superior stickhandling and skating ability. During one UMass first period power play, RPI kept the Minutemen pinned in their own zone and gave the impression UMass was shorthanded.

The only bright spots for the Minutemen were their two goals: Doug Aylward's early in the second period, and Bob Gould's unassisted shot with eight seconds left in the game. After Aylward's goal the Minutemen woke up and, in a span of three minutes, peppered RPI goalie Elliot with four shots. The UMass goaltending must also be mentioned: the combined efforts of Paul McCann and Tim Haggarty made 43 saves. Another bright spot was when RPI had a two-man advantage in the third period and UMass managed to escape without being scored upon.

Although not quite as physical as the last game (18 penalties in the Minutemen's December loss to RPI to last night's 13), the game did have its moments. There were several minor pushing and shoving matches, but all was kept under control.

In all fairness, UMass was hardly prepared for a tough outing with the likes of RPI. Having had only one game since December 15, and one hour of ice time to prepare for this game, the Minutemen could not be expected to play any better than they did. Hopefully, they will be in better shape for their Saturday contest at Williams College.

Mermen travel to Jumbo poolside

By MARK MARCHAND
Collegian Staff

Currently sporting a 2-2 record over the season thus far, the Minutemen swimmers will be travelling to Boston today to swim against the Jumbos of Tufts University at 4:00.

The Tufts swimmers, coached by Donald Megerle, have had a perfect season so far as they remain undefeated with a 5-0 record.

"We have a good possibility to finish the season with a 9-1 record" said coach Megerle whose swimmers lost to UMass last year.

His team boasts some excellent swimmers, freestyler Steve Cobert, backstrokers Pete Coassin and I.M. swimmer Dave Landstedt. "I don't expect the same result as last year as I don't think we'll lose to UMass," stated Megerle.

The MInutemen swimmers, coached by Bei Melamed, are just coming off a heartbreaking loss last Wednesday to Amherst College. Although there were many fine individual efforts in the meet including Russ Yarworth's record-breaking performance in the 200 yard freestyle.

The UMass swimmers appear to be improving their times with each successive meet and are getting some good efforts from some of the younger members of the team. Included among these is freshman diver Dan Conley whose diving performance against Amherst College surprised a lot of people including Amherst's coach Hank Dunbar. Conley has a lot of time ahead of him and can be expected to do great deeds as his career at UMass prpgresses.

It won't be a runaway meet, but it's going to be very tough for UMass to upend Tufts, however the spirit of the mermen is such that one should be prepared for a possible upset.

★ UMass at Cage

CONT. FROM PAGE 20

According to Gaudette, the Eagles love to run and the success of the team is built around its big men. At 6-7, Mike Lunday and Rick Kuhn man the forward positions, while 6-9, 205 lb., Bob Bennefield controls the pivot position.

Kuhn, a 23-year old sophomore who pitched in he Cincinnati Reds farm system, is described as a five-on the floor type, while Bennefield is scouted as an excellent rebounder, a shot-blocker, and can score with a turnaround jumper. Coming off the bench to complement Kuhn and Lunday is Tom Meggers and Michael Bowie, a 6-6 sophomore.

The top shooter for the Eagles is 6-3 guard Ernie Cobb who scored 25 points against Villanova. He is a consistent 18 p.p.g. shooter and is complimented by 6-2 Jim Sweeney with a 47 per cent shooting average.

"If we are going to win this game, we have to control the boards and stop them from running," said Gaudette. "If we rebound the same way we did the first time we played them, we'll win."

Notices

WOMEN'S LACROSSE — There will be an important meeting for anyone interested in playing women's lacrosse this spring. The meeting will take place tonight at 6:30 in NOPE lounge. Topics will include eligibility, physicals, and this seasons schedule. Interested candidates must attend.

WMUA — The UMass Minutemen return to the Curry Hicks Cage for the first time since the 18th of December, and look forward to a big crowd. However if you can't attend you can still listen to all of the action by tuning your FM dial to 91.1 as WMUA's Dave Strader and Bob Pauquette bring you all the play by play.

We're going to give you one emphatic statement about the future of the computer industry and the future of your career.

APPLY!

If you have a degree in Electrical Engineering, Computer Science, or Business, contact your placement office for further details. Digital Equipment Corporation is an equal opportunity employer, m f.

digital digital equipment corporation

FAT BELLY DELI
MON.—TUES.
HOT DOGS 3 for $1
WED. & THURS.
STUFFED CABBAGE
2 for $1
Plus other Deli Specials
2000 N. King St.
NORTHAMPTON
Hamp Plaza Next to Food Mart
584-1614

CHEQUERS
Wednesday is Mich Nite
Happy Hour never stops!
4→closing
Cheese and Crackers early hot dogs and sauerkraut late
COME AND ENJOY!

VETERANS

TIRED OF WHAT YOU THOUGHT WAS THE GOOD LIFE WHEN YOU GOT OUT? IF YOU ARE PURSUING A DEGREE IN ENGINEERING, MATH, PHYSICS, COMPUTERS, OR BUSINESS, OPPORTUNITIES ABOUND FOR YOU AS AN AIR FORCE OFFICER.

COMPARE:
- AIR FORCE VS. CIVILIAN PAY

CHECK OUT:
- MASTER'S DEGREES AT AIR FORCE EXPENSE
- $100.00 A MONTH SUBSISTENCE ALLOWANCE
- MANAGERIAL OPPORTUNITIES

CONTACT
MAJOR RICHARDSON

DICKINSON HALL CALL 5-2437

We are about to promise you the world !!

Jon Doak, Lambda Chi Alpha Director of expansion, will be talking with men interested in starting an entirely new fraternity on the UMass campus from 9am. thru 5pm. on Feb. 2, 3, and 4th in room 902 of the Campus Center. For information, contact Mr. Doak in room 520 of the CC. or Ed Bowe in the Greek Affairs Office at 545-2711.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA FRATERNITY
–a Sharing Experience

Morrier paces gymwomen past tri-meet opponents

By LAURA BASSETT
Collegian Staff

As expected, the women's gymnastics team had very little trouble winning its tri-meet with Salem State and Bridgewater. The gymwomen amassed 119 points to 90 for Salem State and 73 points for Bridgewater.

"We were definitely the superior team even though we only put four performers on the floor and in the vaulting," commented Coach Virginia Evans.

Sophomore Cheryl Morrier recorded a personal best in the all around competition. In her first meet as an all event performer this season Morrier totaled 30.40 points. Morrier's best event was vaulting where she received an 8.90 mark. Her weakest event was the uneven parallel bars where she was awarded only a 6.0 mark, but her 8.43 floor routine, and her 7.05 beam routine compensated for the weakness.

Junior Keely O'Rourke, the Minutewomen's other all around performer did not face as well. Her strongest event was the floor exercise where she earned a 7.26 score. Her four event total was 25.69, for a 6.40 event average.

Sophomore Julie Myers was lauded by Evans for her beam and floor routines. Myers placed first with a 8.60 floor routine and first in the beam exercise with 8.30.

Jean Anderson did a "decent" job on the floor and earned an 8.40 score. Anderson also worked well on her regular event, the bars, and received an 8.13 mark. Evans expects still more from Anderson in coming meets.

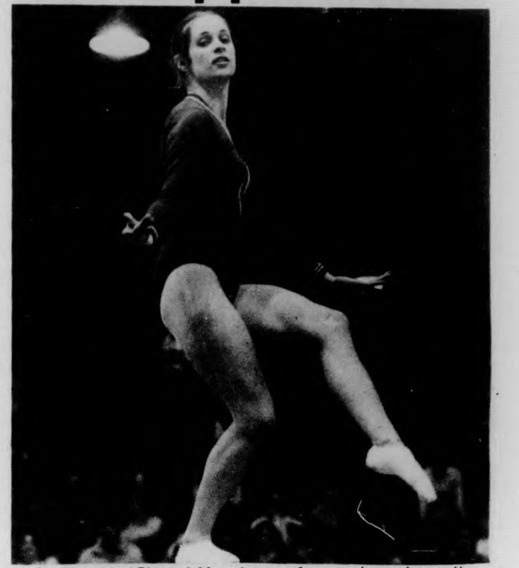
Three other gymwomen, Barbara Burmeister, Laurie Knapp and Martha Lest all encountered major problems but Evans was optimistic about their performance.

"Barbara has been off for a while but with some hard work she could be contributing in three events," said Evans.

"Laurie and Martha were a little rough but they both show promise," Evans went on to say.

Knapp did complete a front aerial during her beam routine before suffering a fall. She has the distinction of being the only member on the team to execute the superior trick.

The gymwomen now travel to Canisius for a tri-meet on Saturday where the competition is expected to be tougher.



Sophomore Cheryl Morrier performs strongly on the balance beam as the gymwomen upped their record to 2-1 against Salem State. (Staff photo by Rob Carlin)

Gymmen bounce by determined Dartmouth

By LAURA BASSETT
Collegian Staff

The men's gymnastics team proved that its 51 day "rest" from scheduled competition did not hurt them as they soundly defeated Dartmouth College 183.75 to 152.15, last night at Hanover, N.H.

"The meet was a good experience. We got to experiment with some different things," commented UMass coach Dick Swetman.

Sophomore Frank Cohen was an example of the success of the experimentation. Cohen scored his personal high in the all around competition. His strongest performances came on the rings and in vaulting where he received scores of 7.90 and 7.75, respectively. Cohen's other scores were 7.45 on the floor, 6.90 on parallel bars, 6.65 on high bar and a 4.15 on the side horse. Cohen's all around score was 40.80.

There were some other strong performances for the Minutemen. Angelo Scuderi received scores of 8.75 in vaulting, 8.45 on rings, 8.35 on parallel bars and 8.00 on high bar. Paul Marks had some problems during the meet but recovered to receive an 8.55 on the floor and an 8.50 for his sidehorse effort. Steve Nunno also had a good vaulting effort at the meet and scored an 8.75. Freshman Tom Thompson also received praise from Swetman for his 7.45 high bar performance.

Swetman was impressed with the spirit and attitude of his team during the Dartmouth meet. The 3-2 gymmen are now warmed up and will be truly tested when they face a strong Syracuse team at home on Saturday.

OPEN BOWLING
Monday thru Saturday
4:00-10:30
Boyden Ten Pin Lanes
50 cents a string
(Men's and women's leagues now being formed)

Open Rush
AT
Kappa Sigma
Wed. Feb. 2
8:00 P.M.
Come and meet the brotherhood
70 Butterfield Terrace across from the Newman Center

Poor Richards
Wednesday
50¢ Drinks all night
Thursday: "White Lightning"
all gin, rum, rum,
vodka & tequila
85¢

THE TRY-SKIING PACKAGE $9.85
A simple starter kit that includes everything you need – skiis, boots, poles, beginner's slope lift ticket and a two-hour ski lesson with an experienced Mt. Tom instructor. Our Try Skiing Package is for beginners only and is available Saturday and Sunday nights starting at 7:00 p.m. and Monday and Tuesday mornings starting at 9:30 a.m. (Not available during holiday periods). Skiing is Fun. This package is easy and cheap.
Make this your winter to try skiing!
For Further Info Please Give Us A Call
Mt. TOM
Ski Area Holyoke
when you're up for some fun!
Rte. 5
Tel. 536-0416
Listen for the latest Mt. Tom Ski Reports daily on WHYN-AM, Monday thru Saturday at 7:45 a.m.

SAVE-ON-TIRES, INC. ROUTE 9, HADLEY 3 MILES FROM NORTHAMPTON 3 MILES FROM AMHERST
OPEN MON., TUES., WED., THURS. & FRI. 9-5:30, SAT. 9-4
FIRESTONE - MICHELIN - LEE - GENERAL - ARMSTRONG
PHONE: 586-2544 — PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS
TIRES CASH 'N-CARRY Wholesale to the Public
If you need tires — before you buy elsewhere, see our prices that can't be beat!
MAJOR BRANDS — FIRST QUALITY
POLYESTER CORD Famous names withheld because of our low price at request of Mfg.

SIZE	SALE PRICE	F.E. TAX
A78x13	18.95	1.75
C78x13	20.95	2.01
C78x14	20.95	2.05
E78x14	21.95	2.27
F78x14	23.95	2.43
G78x14	24.95	2.60
H78x14	26.95	2.83
560x15	19.95	1.67
600x15	20.95	1.72
F78x15	22.95	2.50
G78x15	25.95	2.65
H78x15	27.95	2.87
L78x15	29.95	3.14

WHITE WALLS - $2.00 MORE

Michelin — We sell ALL SIZES AT 25% DISCOUNT

SNOWTIRE CLEARANCE
We still have snow tires at super end of season savings.

SAVE-ON-TIRES, INC. RTE. 9, HADLEY
Cash and Carry or BankAmericard Master Charge 586-2544 HOURS: Mon.-Fri. 9 to 5:30 Sat. 9 to 4:00 MILE WEST ON THE SAME SIDE OF RTE. 9 FROM HADLEY DRIVE IN THEATRE

Hoopwomen tally sixth straight

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

BOSTON — Last night's UMass-Northeastern women's basketball game was at times sloppy, lethargic, and totally out-of-sync with the way the Minutewomen have been playing this season.

But for the last 15 minutes of the first half, UMass had the Midas touch back once again, while the Huskies were doing abolutely nothing right.

As it turned out, UMass won its sixth straight by defeating Northeastern, 68-47, in a game played here, but the way the Minutewomen did it was unbelievably bizaare.

After trailing, 11-4, with four and a half minutes gone in the contest, UMass outscored its host by the whopping total of 41-11 for the rest of the first half to leave the court ahead, 45-22, at the midway point of the game.

The Minutewomen began their awesome spurt on a Jo Balletta layup, and ended it with two Grace Martinelli free throws. In the interim, UMass reeled off strings of eight, three, 14, five, eight, and three unanswered points.

After the first 20 minutes, the Minutemen could probably be excused for the sleepwalk they pulled off in the second half, when they were outscored by their foes, 25-23. But by then, of course, the outcome was no longer in doubt.

The sloppy play showed itself in 26 Minutewomen turnovers. However, their hosts committed six more, which was an awful big reason for the first half UMass rampage.

The 11-4 deficit prompted UMass coach Mary Ann Ozdarski to call time out, and her charges reorganized themselves with a vengeance. The Minutewomen effectively employed a full-court trap press, which caused Huskie turnover upon turnover.

The Minutewomen were able to capitalize on the miscues with some sharp play by everyone on the court.

The eleven UMass players spread their scoring out fairly evenly among themselves. Top banana on the point brigade was Sue Peters, with 12 and three assists. Following close on her heels were Maura Supinski, who scored 10, and Nancy O'Neil, with nine.

But everyone made it into the scoring column, thanks to Ozdarski's continued success with her shuttle system. She always kept a fresh supply of players on the court, again wearing down the opposition. In this case, Northeastern.

Although Lu-Ann Fletcher did not have one of her more productive scoring nights (only six points), she led UMass in rebounding with 10. Her Minutewomen center counterpart, Ginny Peebles, collected six, as did Supinski and O'Neil.

The Minutewomen outrebounded their smaller rivals by the somewhat surprisingly slim margin of 46-38. The Huskies were aggressive on the boards, perhaps to compensate for their off shooting night.

Although it was by no means a stellar win, save for the first half splurge, it upped the Minutewomen's seasonal record to 8-2 at the midway mark of the campaign.

UMass is on the verge of entering a stretch of tough games, including one tomorrow against arch rival Springfield College. Following that encounter, UMass is slated to take on Brown, Bridgewater State, and Brooklyn College in the space of a week.

UMASS (68) — O'Neil 4-1-9; Fletcher 1-4-6; Basile 1-0-2; Henry 2-0-4; Peter 6-0-12; Supinski 4-2-10; Balletta 3-2-8; Peebles 1-1-3; McHugh 1-2-4; Martinelli 2-2-6; Carey 1-2-4. TOTALS: 26-16-68.

NORTHEASTERN (47) — Peterson 2-0-4; Fitts 5-5-11; Luttz 4-0-8; Dizio 3-1-7; Paylor 1-0-2; Usseglio 1-2-4; Lynch 1-0-2; Sterite 0-0-0; Edwards 1-0-2; Brown 2-0-4 TOTALS: 20-7-47.

Collegian Sports

Minutemen come home; square off against Eagles

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

For Coach Jack Leaman and the UMass Minutemen, it will be a case of good old Curry Hicks "home cooking" as the hoopmen entertain arch rival Boson College tonight, at 8:00 p.m.

The game will mark the Minutemen's first appearance at the Cage since December 18 when UMass beat Fordham University, 89-77.

The Minutemen, with a season record of 9-6, face a rigorous schedule this week as they host B.C. tonight, travel to West Virginia on Friday, Pittsburgh on Sunday, and then return home next Tuesday to play Harvard.

"We're looking forward to playing at home tonight," said Leaman. We haven't been at the Cage for a long time and I and the players feel the Cage crowd and atmosphere will help us to play better basketball."

Leaman said the tiring schedule for the next two weeks should not bother the players as he noted that many are looking forward to ECBL games with West Virginia, Pittsburgh, and Rutgers.

For tonight's game, both Leaman and assistant coach Fan Gaudette are cautiously optimistic. "We've beaten B.C. before (94-71), but believe me, they are a tough, tough team," Gaudette said.

Leaman agrees with Gaudette by saying although the Eagles are sporting a team record of 6-11, they have played extremely tough opposition. B.C. lost to ECBL league leader Villanova, 89-85 and lost to number two ranked in New England Holy Cross, 86-80. In addition they have played well in losses to Syracuse, 67-54, and Providence, 77-67.

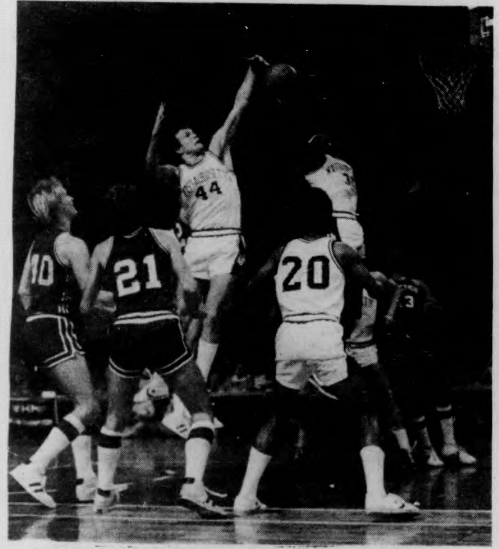
If we don't watch it, they could give us a real tough ballgame," said Leaman. "They definitely have a lot of ability."

Two years ago, Boston College, rated as the top team in New England, made a visit to the Cage and lost to the Minutemen, 80-72 before a jammed-pack Cage crowd. At that time, the Eagle personnel consisted of Boston-born players like Bill Carrington, Will Morrison, and Bill Collins. The Eagles were winning and everything looked "peaches and cream" for Eagle coach Bob Zuffelato.

But things have drastically changed for the Chestnut Hill crew. Carrington, Morrison, and Collins have all graduated and Zuffelato has resigned effective at the end of this season.

Zuffelato has entirely rebuilt the Eagle squad, recruiting three college transfers and three freshmen.

TURN TO PAGE 18



UMass's Jim Town (44) and Mike Pyatt (30) are expected to grab the all-important rebounds tonight, at 8:00, as the Boston College Eagles invade Curry Hicks Cage. (Staff photo by Rob Carlin)

Pucksters await Hamilton

By FRAN SYPEK
Collegian Staff

After watching his team lose against Williams College last week, UMass hockey coach Jack Canniff was a worried man. Worried because his team's next opponent was Hamilton, the team above UMass in the Division II East standings.

"I don't know how we'll do against Hamilton," Canniff said. "They're a better team than Williams, but with a hot goalie, anything can happen."

Fortunately for Canniff and the puckmen, Dana Redmond was again at his best in goal as he turned aside 47 Hamilton shots in the Minutemen's 3-2 come-from-behind overtime victory. In the losing effort against Williams, the senior goaltender from Bedford had 50 saves. So in his last two games, Redmond has stopped 97 out of 103 shots.

"He's the best goalie in Division II right now," said Canniff after the Hamilton game.

Redmond will be in the net tonight for the Minutemen when they host North Adams State at 8:00 at Orr Rink. North Adams is right behind the Minutemen in the East Division.

"They're a pretty well disciplined team," Canniff commented. "They played Army (number one in Division II) down in West Point recently and only lost 6-4."

So tonight's game should be a good one as both teams are trying to move up in the standings. A win by the Minutemen would boost their record to 7-4-1 and would move them ahead of Hamilton in the division.

UMass would like nothing better than that because it was Hamilton which beat it out for the final playoff spot last season, despite finishing behind them. The deciding factor for the final spot was apparently the fact that Hamilton beat UMass, 10-0, when they met a year ago.

Center John Peters and defenseman Chris Lamby will miss tonight's game for the Minutemen. Peters, who has been trying to play despite a bad shoulder, is definitely out of action tonight. Lamby was given a game misconduct against Hamilton, which means an automatic one-game suspension.

"With Peters out, one of the White's will move over to center," said Canniff. "Ron Valicenti, who stepped in and played a fine game against Hamilton, will again take Lamby's place on defense," the coach added.

Rich Eckel

Foul-line drama starring Hanson

It was a situation all basketball players dream about — the opportunity to be classified a hero.

Precious seconds remain on the clock, the crowd is roaring in anticipation,, and suddenly you throw an impossible heave through the twine — at the buzzer to win the game for Old Chumpy High.

For Tony Hanson (no. 42) of the UConn basketball team the situation the Springfield Civic Center. Almost!

Four seconds remained in regulation time — the scoreboard read UMass 65 UConn 63, and Tony Hanson held the ball. Only the situation didn't call for a desperation heave, or a long arching jump shot.

This scene required the supremely talented senior to calmly stand before 6138 anxious zealots and sink the game-tying free throws to force the contest into overtime.

Easy enough, right! After all, a free throw is the third easiest shot in the game, next to a dunk and a layup. And with his team's best player at the charity stripe, UConn coach Dee Rowe had to be looking ahead to an overtime period.

Yet, on the front end of his one-and-one situation, Hanson's shot scraped the rim and rolled off into the hands of an elated Minuteman.

Wait a minute. That's not how the dreams suppose to end. Ah yes, glad someone agreed. Fortunately, for Hanson and his teammates, the officials had some idea of how a dream was suppose to end.

Whistles blew, a violation had been detected, UMass forward Mike Pyatt had entered the lane too soon and obviously distracted our leading man. Hanson and his teammates would be awarded a second chance to act the script out correctly. Questionable call you say. No way! Just two guys who obviously have a good sense for drama.

While UMass head coach Jack Leaman looked on incredulously, Hanson gratefully accepted the ball and sunk his free throw. UMass 65 — UConn 64. A duplicate of the previous toss and barring any last second heroics from the Minutemen, and Tony Hanson would be the hero. With little over a minute remaining UConn trailed by 10 points and was seemingly out of the contest. It had been a miracle rally, largely aided by the carelessness of UMass, and now Hanson was about to drive the stake through the Minutemen's heart, a devastating blow.

But it was not to be. Hanson's dream turned into a nightmare as he watched Jim Town control the rebound of his missed shot and run out the clock. Tony Hanson was the goat!

After the game, one expected the talk to center around that crucial missed foul shot. Yet, when words were spoken about Tony Hanson, they were words of admiration instead of degradation. For barring any unforeseen circumstances, this would be the last time Tony Hanson faced UMass.

The talented 6'4" senior has taunted, harrassed, and sometimes embarrassed the Minutemen over the past four seasons. Ever since leaving Holy Cross high school in Waterbury, Conn., as a H.S. All-American, Hanson has made his presence known throughout New England college basketball circles. His presence had been especially hard felt by UMass, whom he seemingly thrived against.

Since Hanson's arrival at the Storrs campus, the Huskies have pulled their basketball program out of the depths of mediocrity, and transformed it into a winner. His hard baseline drives and twisting off balance jumpers have been the downfall of many an opponent. And although a relatively small forward, he made his presence known underneath the boards, both offensively and defensively.

Last month versus URI, in his 100th game as a Huskie, Hanson set the all-time UConn scoring record as he passed Wes Bialoskunias' mark of 1673 points.

Those UConn fans filing out of the Civic Center last Saturday were disappointed, but not dejected. They know that by season's end Hanson will have redeemed himself in another arena. Fortunately, for UMass fans, in his last game against the Minutemen Tony Hanson came up short.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVI, ISSUE 78 THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1977
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

Below The Salt

Trustees reject Dukakis' request

By MARY BROWN
Collegian Staff

BOSTON — While members of the UMass Board of Trustees say the Amherst campus will probably not see a new sports facility to house its basketball and hockey teams for some time to come, yesterday it voted down a request from Gov. Michael S. Dukakis to reduce the size of planned gymnasium-rink-pool facility for the Boston campus.

Dukakis, in a Jan. 21 letter to the board, asked them to eliminate a swimming pool and hockey rink for the Columbia Point campus due to the state's financial problems.

Sec. of Educational Affairs Paul Parks, also a board member, asked for a vote on the governor's request. After an hour-and-a-half discussion, it was defeated 22-4.

Erline Shearer, a board member who grew up in Columbia Point, said that a new facility was needed not only for intramural activity at the campus, but also for community use.

The college currently has a small pool, which Boston Chancellor Carlo Golino estimates can hold 50 people, and a small gymnasium. The new facility's cost is estimated at $9.5 million. There are about 7500 students attending UMass-Boston.

UMass President Robert C. Wood said there are no current plans for building a facility for intercollegiate teams at the Amherst campus.

He said there has been "considerable interest" among the alumni to build such a facility, but no plans have yet been made.

Amherst Student Trustee Paul M. Cronin said the chances are "very slim" that a sports facility could be built here in the near future.

Because of the state's economy, there is little hope for a large capital outlay for a new gym or rink, he said. The University would probably not float bonds to support construction because it would increase the debt of the University and could result in an increase of fees, he said.

Cronin said the only real chance the Amherst campus has to get a sports facility built is through an endowment or from the Alumni Association.

Alumni Stadium was financed by bonds.

In other action, the board approved a series of collective bargaining agreements with unions for several groups of service employees.

The board also voted to allow their Executive Committee to allocate cost-of-living increases to faculty, staff and other employees consistent with other state employee increases, as soon as the upcoming faculty union election is over.

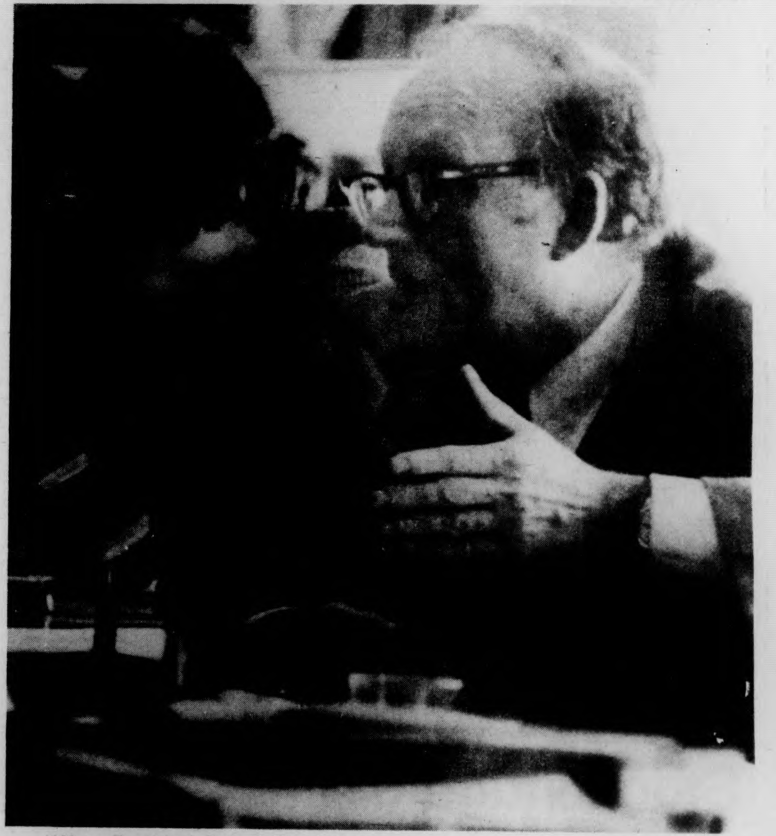
The election is scheduled for Feb. 8 and 9.

Gov. Dukakis has agreed to transfer $32 million to University accounts to cover both the union increases and cost-of living increases to all employees.

About $2.8 million is earmarked for the Amherst campus.

Dukakis has said he will give this money to the University for the current year, but in the next fiscal year the funds to maintain these increases and meet the approval contracts will absorb about $6 million from the University budget.

Wood said the governor's current proposal for level funding in fiscal 1978 will mean a $6 million cut from the budget before inflation.



UMass President Robert Wood discusses the UMass-Boston sports complex. (Staff photo by Chris Bourne)

Inside

Reporter's Line

Is prayer fashionable on campus...again? Nicki Aronson takes a look at the recent upsurge of religion on campus. See story page 3.

Bromery issues a statement on bus insurance; SGA treasurer is still critical. See story page 2.

Wire Line

President Carter gave the first of his "fireside chats" to the nation last night. The story is on Page 5.

The president of a New York consulting firm says he paid $10,000 to a Massachusetts official. See Page 4.

The East German army is on alert due to fears of dissident unrest. More details on Page 5.

Weather

This weather story's very old.
Cloudy, chance of snow and cold.

SATF monies tabbed priority

By ROBERT DAVIDSON
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate last night set its priorities for the distribution of Student Activities Tax Fund (SATF) monies during the fiscal year 1978.

The SATF is the activity fee paid by all undergraduate students used to provide student services.

The senate's priorities for distribution of SATF monies for fiscal year 1978 are governance groups, student services, media groups, community services, co-op groups, academic groups, sports groups and political groups.

Organizations eligible to receive SATF monies were divided into 10 different categories by the Senate's budget committee and presented to the senate last night.

After much debate about the budget committee's categorizations, Senator Kevin Muldoon moved the senate become a committee of the whole. This motion was passed and enabled the entire senate to act as the budget committee.

The senate was involved in heated debate throughout the duration of the meeting. It was decided to suspend two categories and recategorize the groups into the eight remaining categories.

The categories which were suspended were cultural groups and racial groups. The cultural category consisted of Hellenic America, Sociedade Luso Brasileira, the Women's Cultural Center and Roister Doisters which were transferred to the student services category and Resources Judaica. Resources Judaica was transferred to the community services category.

The racial category consisted of Ahora, The Chinese Student Club, the Bilingual Collegiate Program, the Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students, the Third World Woman's Center, the Afro American club and the Asian American club, all of which were transferred to the student services category.

According to Bryan Harvey, the senate's acting director of communications, the senate usually does not alter the work of the budget committee.

"This is the first time in I don't know how long that the senate is taking an active interest in the SATF budget in its early stages. They have to make a lot of hard decisions but it means that the budget committee has the support of the senate; it's a much more open process," said Harvey.

Henry Ragin, the senate's state legislative liaison, addressed the senate concerning the University's budget cuts for fiscal year 1978.

"I don't think that people realize fully the effect of these budget cuts," said Ragin.

According to Ragin, many professors have left UMass in the past few years in search of "greener pastures" because of the financial problems of the University and that many course cancellations are directly due to past cuts in the University's budget.

Ragin said he thinks it is time for Gov. Michael S. Dukakis to decide if public higher education in Massachusetts will be of high quality or "second rate." Ragin suggested that Dukakis would opt for "second rate" public higher education.

The former student Government Association co-president said he hopes the senate will vote to lobby against the budget cuts at the state legislature in Boston and that he would help to coordinate such a lobbying action.

SEE PHOTO PAGE 2

Brian Delima, Speaker of the Undergraduate Student Senate, debates the SATF budget priorities at last nights Senate Meeting. (Staff photo by Jesus Nova)

Campus bus insurance a mystery

By BRAD GOVERNMAN
Collegian Staff

A memorandum by Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery received by Thomas Kerrins, treasurer of the Undergraduate Student Senate, maintains the University's position that everything possible was done to obtain liability insurance on the campus bus service for 1977.

The bus service was deactivated during the intersession because liability insurance for the buses was not obtained by the University at that time.

According to Gerald J. Grady, University coordinator of community relations, Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs Robert L. Woodbury was to appear at last night's Undergraduate Student Senate meeting to make a formal statement concerning the bus insurance. However, when contacted at his home last night, Woodbury could not recall speaking to Grady on the matter and said that no one had invited him to participate in such a meeting.

Kerrins said he was disappointed with the information provided by Bromery's memorandum and insisted that several questions remained unanswered.

The memo stated that the University was "advised by our agent that the policy would not be renewed."

In response, Kerrins said, "What kind of insurance agency waits until November to inform their client that they will not be able to cover them next year; a client they've been working with for three years?"

Kerrins also questioned the competence of the Treasurer's office, which is responsible for securing the insurance.

"We question the competence of an office which wasn't on top of the situation enough to realize sooner that ttey weren't going to be insured by the same carrier."

"Discontinuation of the bus service during intersession could have been avoided had bids for the insurance been sent out sooner than Nov. 24," he added.

The final paragraph of the memo explained that a proposal was being developed by the University to place insurance business in an earlier fiscal period "so that we hopefully will not encounter the same difficulties in acquiring insurance," the memo said.

TM centers on mind and body

By ALAN SHEPARD
Collegian Staff

"Almost a million people in the United States use this technique." said Carl Stone, chairperson of the Amherst Transcendental Meditation Center.

The Transcendental Meditation Program (TM) has been around for quite awhile, but has enjoyed a giant popularity boost in the past few years.

The program is run by Students International Meditation Society (SIMS), and is taught by students who have gone through the program and a six month teacher training course.

"It's just a matter of changing those misconceptions that have existed throughout history. Beliefs like you have to change your lifestyle and eat nothing but yogurt and raw rice. It is not based on that, rather it's on how your mind and body function," Stone said.

Practicing TM involves taking 20 minutes twice a day to sit down, relax and inwardly repeat a mantra. Everyone taking part in the TM program is given a personal mantra, an ancient word given specifically to the participant.

The amount of research that has been done on the TM program is impressive. Data showing stress level reductions and quickened reactions in meditators is an example of the research that has been completed. This in-depth research is what basically sets TM apart from other programs.

Cindy Lampner, a student and member of SIMS said, "What we can say is that the Transcendental Meditation technique affords us maximum growth. More of our full potential begins to become unfolded. It's not bringing in anything from the outside, but just unfolding what's there as quickly as possible. We're just improving our ability to use whatever is in the environment. If we can improve ourselves, then whatever we're going to put our attention on will prosper."

During meditation, Stone said, the thinking activity settles down to what is known as the state of least expectation. To experience one's self is to have the full awareness of consciousness, one begins to identify where one's basis of life is. As that stability increases, once you have that basis, your ability to adapt to situations and your flexibility improves and your growing process gets easier because you have a root.

Stone pointed out an analogy a friend of his made. "Consciousness you can envision as a spotlight in a dark room. When you turn on the light, that's turning on consciousness. At first it's dim, and you can't appreciate the objects very well. You know there is something there, you see it, but you're used to functioning that way with that amount of light. Then, when that light begins to be turned up, you begin to see the definitions of those objects more clearly. It's easier to get around the room because there's more light. Turning up the light is what the Transcendental Meditation process does, it is just a technique for stimulating your growth of consciousness like a catalyst. In the growth of awareness, one begins to be able to deal with all these situations better."

"There is an incompleteness in all our lives, and we're always trying to fill that," Stone said. Many TM practicers say their daily meditating routine is filling that void.

Sounds and lights to invade the SUB

By KATHY MOORE
Collegian Staff

If you like to hustle, bump, twist, jitterbug, or even bunnyhop, then you should disco down and check out Jack Flash's "Everybody's Everything" Sunday night in the Student Union Ballroom.

Everybody's Everything is the largest travelling sound and light show in the country designed to satisfy a wide variety of musical tastes. This multi-media set-up is comprised of an entire self-contained, quadrophonic discotheque, including color organs, strobes, and 16 millimeter projecters for special effects.

Jack Flash, alias Jack Hackett, will be bringing several thousand albums and singles and playing requests throughout the entire non-stop performance from 9:00 p.m. until 1:00 a.m. The event is designed to serve as a concert where the audience is able to dance as well as choose the music they want to hear.

UMass, like most schools, doesn't have the budget to bring continual big-name acts to campus without overcharging the students. The Greeks and members of the Program Council are co-sponsoring the act as an alternative to a live band which would cost more and be less diverse in musical variety.

Tickets are currently on sale outside the Hatch in the Campus Center and will be sold at the door. Admission is $1.

Stockbridge discusses homecoming

By MARTHA KIMBALL
Collegian Staff

The Stockbridge Homecoming Weekend, school-wide Senate-sponsored activities for this semester and the Stockbridge Service Award were among topics discussed at the Stockbridge Student Senate meeting last night.

The Homecoming Weekend, sponsored by the Stockbridge Alumni Association, is arranged in conjunction with the Bay State Livestock Classic April 22, 23 and 24.

Highlighting the agenda will be guest speaker Fredrick Winthrop, Mass. commissioner Agriculture, at a banquet for both students and alumni that Saturday night.

A series of five lectures by various Stockbridge faculty is scheduled for Saturday, including Dr. William Rosenau, professor in the Plant and Soil Sciences department, and Dr. Fletcher on Food Technology.

Two tours are arranged for the weekend, one to South Deerfield with Dr. Robert T. Duby, professor of Animal Science, and the other to the Belchertown Orchards, a UMass Experiment Station, conducted by Professor James F. Anderson and student John McClain.

Cheryl Sylvester stated that Carlyn Appleton, Brian Kelly and herself have been working with the Alumni Association in "hope of making it a tremendous success".

"The Association wants to bring back the alumni as a whole to Stockbridge with much participation from the present student body. They want to see more and more cooperation between the Alumni Association and the students." Sylvester said.

Applications for the Stockbridge Service Award Grant are available in the senate office, Student Union, Room 432. These awards are not based on financial need, but on service a student has given to the school. Dr. William Rosenau will chair the selection committee which decides to whom and how the $1100 grant will be divided.

Brian Kelly, senate president, explained the awards as being a "formal thank you", and urges all interested students to apply. Applications must be in the Senate Office no later than February 15th.

Various activities for Stockbridge students that could be partly financed by the senate including night skiing at one of the local ski areas, weekend activities, cross country ski trips and a coffeehouse were discussed.

TODAY'S STAFF
Issue Editor Bill Edelstein

Copy Desk	Dottie Clark
Sports Layout	Mike Smolens
Head Darkroom Tech	Dale Griswold
Photo Staff	Jesus Nova, Andy Bernstein
Wire Layout	Cliff Skibinsky
Ad Layout	Albert Calvert

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

	Semester	Year
Off-campus delivery	$9	$15
On-campus delivery	$5	$ 9
Newsstand price	$.10
Faculty staff	$.05

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst and additional mailing in Ware, Mass. 01082. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Correction

"Soldier Blue" will not be shown in the Student Union Ballroom Friday night as was listed in Tuesday's Collegian calendar. Instead, the National Theater Company will present "Feelin' Good."

Keeping the faith a campus comeback

By NIKKI ARONSON
Collegian Staff

Praying is again among students. Over the years young people seemed to have left the religious fold in search of alternative ideals and beliefs. Recently, however, a surge of renewed faith has emerged on campus.

What has caused this religious renaissance?

Have student needs changed that radically since the Revolutionary Sixties?

Pastor Granfeld of the Episcopal meeting house near campus said, "The increase in religious interest is not because of hard times as it is a matter of fashion. In the mid-sixties it was unfashionable to admit to religious interest, but there is a basic need for belief that all humans have."

Granfeld explained that religion is "like brief fashions in a cold climate, people begin to realize those fashions are impractical, they need more. People need to express themselves, and they need a change."

For the estimated 850 Episcopalian students here, the Ark is the answer to many needs. The Ark is a house with a small chapel as well as recreational facilities. Students meet on Sunday for communion and late supper. To meet needs and social demands, the Canterbury Club was recently created by the Ark members. The club consists of 20 students who include basketball and volleyball among their social activities.

Students are not necessarily returning to the religious doctrines taught to them in childhood. William Sunstrom, director of the Campus Crusade for Christ, feels that although most students come from religious backgrounds, "they leave most of that behind after high school."

Rather than interesting students to come and seek the organization's services, members go out recruiting on campus. "If we approach people and say 'you should go to the church,' it would serve only as a turn-off," said Sunstrom, "Rather, we encourage each individual to decide what is right for them."

Students are returning to religion with a selfless devotion that is expressed by the contribution of time and effort. Up until recently the Newman Club, a Catholic organization, had 30 non-paying members. Last September the number of student members increased to over 100 due-paying members.

Reverend Leo A. LeClero said, "There is a renewed interest in questions of faith, God, and Christ. I think there is an increase in attendance at UMass, but no statistics are available at this time. At the University there are approximately 3000 Catholic students. Approximately 3000 students attend weekend masses here at the Newman Center."

In addition to masses and three prayer groups, the Center offers social attractions such as coffeeshops, dances, and retreats. Like other religious organizations on campus, counseling is provided.

"Perhaps people have not found inner stability through traditional ways of searching, they have not been fulfilled," said Rev. Michael W. Twardzik, of the Newman Center, "so those people are exploring Christianity and other Western values to obtain that inner peace. Some people I have talked with have experienced a religious conversion, which draws them back to established churches."

An estimated 3000 Jewish students attend UMass. 250 are paying members of Hillel, with hundreds more taking advantage of the wide diversity of events offered in the way of Sunday lectures over brunch, concerts and movies. Hillel introduced colloques about four years ago in response to the intellectual and cultural needs of the Jewish student body.

Regular Friday night participation is about 50, while over 400 Jewish students attend the Rosh Hashonah and Yom Kippur services. Student run services sometimes "run by the book" and other times adopt a more creative nature.

Strictly social aspects are played down for the most part at Hillel, where on an average day some 100 persons circulate in and out of the Student Union office.

Hillel feels people are looking for roots... for support. The organization has done much to provide all the encouragement they can to help students with defining their life styles. A Jewish Womens' support group has recently been created.

Dean Dwight Allen, faculty advisor of the Bahai Club, sees an increasing number of people coming back to religion as well as a growing interest in the Bahai faith. Membership of the club is 50-100. The faith believes in "the Oneness of God, the Oneness of Religion and the Oneness of Mankind," holds their meetings in dormitories and the Campus Center. The club does sponsor social events, including a reception for Bahai member Dizzy Gillespie, their direction is more towards establishing a "common fellowship".

The Newman Center's namesake peers down to returning parishioners from his stained-glass window. (Staff photo by Judy Howard)

Conference aims to help women

By D. A. CLARK
Collegian Staff

The New England Learning Center for Women in Transition (NELCWIT) will hold a conference Saturday, Feb. 12 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. dealing with the problems of women in transition.

According to Jefri L. Provost, NELCWIT planning board member, various agencies throughout western Massachusetts such the Childrens' Protective Services, womens' centers, and residential centers have been invited to share information with women going through major changes in their lives such as divorce, child and wife abuse, and careers.

Workshops will also be held on sex stereotyping and the funding of a regional network for NELCWIT. Speakers from the Amherst Transition House and the Elizabeth Stone House will be present.

There will be a registration of $2.50 to cover the cost of a guide book to resource and agency services for women in transition in western Massachusetts.

NELCWIT has been operating for one year in Greenfield. The Center is in the process of obtaining funds for a residential service center in New Salem for women and children who could live there any where from 24 hours to six months, depending on need. This service, said Provost, will allow women to get away from the situations they are in and offers counseling.

NELCWIT is working on a massive outreach program to educate the police and the courts to problems of women in the community. They will try to accomplish this by holding benefits, writing articles, public speaking, and workshops.

The Greenfield office provides counseling, emergency intake and support groups. "It deals mainly with emergency crisis," she said.

NELCWIT is planning a workshop for International Women's Week and holding a benefit on Thursday, Feb. 17 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the tenth floor of the Campus Center. Men are invited to the conference and benefit.

Earl Brown

Just a reminder: Buses will leave from the New Africa House and the horseshoe behind Hampden Dining Commons at 8:45 tomorrow morning to attend Earl Brown's hearing for a motion for a new trial. The hearing in Northampton County Courthouse begins at 9:30 a.m.

Winter shadows Clyde

CRAZYQUILT, Maine [AP] — Blinking in the morning sunlight, Claude the Groundhog predicted Wednesday that there's plenty of rip-snorting, button - up - your - overcoat winter yet to come.

"Cool, man, cool," quipped Crazyquilt's ace forecaster as he faced a throng of reporters, photographers and weather experts from throughout the country.

"Yes, folks, I've seen my shadow. And you all know what that means. There'll be at least six more weeks of winter. And not the easy, fun kind of winter, either."

It's a well-established tradition that if Claude sees his shadow on Groundhog Day, Feb. 2, a long and severe winter is certain to follow. If there's no shadow, look for an early spring.

Claude churned his way out of a snowbank at exactly 7:43 a.m. Some reporters had been on the scene since 6:30, despite the two degrees below zero reading on the big thermometer at Joe's General Store.

Sprorting a knit cap and wearing a new fur coat, Claude grinned at the television cameras and remarked:

"I knew it was going to happen. All my calibrations pointed to a cold but sunny morning on Feb. 2. That shadow of mine just had to be there. My seismography, barometers, anemometers and other electronic devices all bear out my contention. February will be a bruiser. Keep those snow shovels handy!"

The buck-toothed weather prophet spoke with assurance. For five years now, he had been an expert in meteorological trends. And he was the only son of Clem the Groundhog, who for 24 years before him had catapulted this sleepy Maine minitown into prominence.

When asked about the energy crisis, Claude stroked his whiskers and cautioned against panic.

"Personally, I don't have a problem. There's plenty of wood in Crazyquilt and I've got a lightweight chainsaw that's terrific. We're rich in forests and we can use wood for fuel."

Claude said the present winter is "part of a complex weather cycle that occurs every decade, but from now on we can brace ourselves for longer and colder winters. It's not the coming of the ice age, but darned near it."

Wednesday's forecast may have been routine for Claude, but it was chaotic for some who stood in the subzero cold. One columnist from Arizona was being treated for exposure at Joe's store, where the only words that left his lips were "never again."

Claude the Groundhog rose early for his yearly forecast. (UPI)

Tu B'Shvat signals beginning of spring

By ELISE GOLDMAN
Collegian Staff

WINTER IS OVER! At least in Israel.

The start of the spring season in the Middle East officially begins this Thursday with the Jewish holiday of Tu B'Shuat. This holiday signifies the end of the heavy rain season and the beginning of the agricultural season.

Customary of this holiday is the donation of trees to be planted by the Jewish National Fund (JNF). This organization was created to allow people outside Israel to become involved and have a tree planted in their name. This organization helped Israel reduce its vast marshlands and desert areas to create new land worthy of inhabitation and agriculture.

Members of Hillel, a Jewish youth organization at UMass, will be in the Campus Center concourse next Monday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoons allowing UMass students to share in the holiday spirit.

Frederick J. Schuster, chairperson of the Hillel counsel said, "Our goal is to sell 100 trees which will be planted in a park dedicated to Soviet Jewry. Each tree cost three dollars and a certificate will be awarded in honor of the tree being planted."

The Hillel organization is cooperating with JNF and thousands of other colleges in this yearly support for Israel.

Blood drive

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian today moves into its last day of this week's blood drive. You can sign up in the Collegian business office.

The blood donor center is on the ground floor of the University Health Services. For further information call Fred Shea or Howie Verstein at 256-6294. Donors are critically needed and your support would be appreciated.

NY firm's president testifies he paid $10,000 to Mass official

BOSTON [AP] — An intermediary solicited a $10,000 political contribution from a New York consulting firm on behalf of an elected official in 1972, the president of the firm testified yesterday.

Gerald McKee, president of McKee-Berger-Mansueto, said $10,000 was paid to the unidentified intermediary, a non-elected public official, on May 23, 1972, after threats the firm's business with the state would be damaged otherwise.

The testimony came in the political corruption trial of Senate Majority Leader Joseph J. C. DiCarlo, D-Revere, and Asst. Senate Minority Leader Ronald C. MacKenzie, R-Burlington.

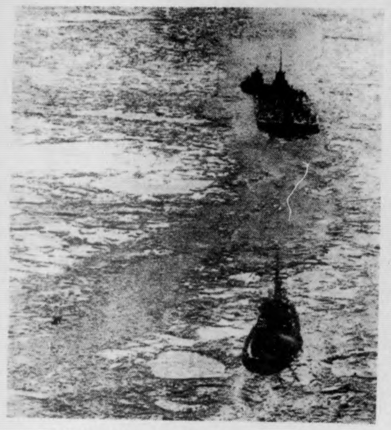
They are accused of shaking down the firm for $40,000 in 1971 and 1972 in exchange for a favorable legislative committee report.

Upon redirect examination by Asst. U.S. Atty. Edward J. Lee, the witness testified his company had not offered to donate the money before the alleged threats to harm the firm's multimillion-dollar contract with the state.

McKee testified that unidentified third parties also solicited $27,000 in campaign contributions from the firm in 1970 and 1972.

McKee said none of the money for political contributions went to DiCarlo or MacKenzie. He was not asked to identify who received the money and did not.

McKee said the money was paid for fear the firm would lose its contract to supervise construction of the University of Massachusetts' Boston campus.



BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass. — A Coast Guard ice breaker clears a path in the south part of the bay near Cleveland Ledge Light in order to make a safe, ice-free passage for a tug and barge on their way through the ice-filled bay en route to Boston.

Congress urged to double public works

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Congress was urged yesterday to double President Carter's proposed $2 billion outlay for public service jobs in light of layoffs and other effects of deep-freeze weather across most of the nation.

Mayor Pete Flaherty of Pittsburgh, testifying before a House public works subcommittee, expressed belief that Carter's economic stimulus formula "will be nullified by the current frigid weather conditions and energy shortages."

"Action must be taken immediately to get funds pumped into the economy before we are hit by a weather and energy-induced recession later this year," said Flaherty, testifying on behalf of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Sens. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and Donald Riegle, D-Mich. made a similar plea to a Senate public works panel.

Humphrey said, "Weather has done more to cripple America than anything the Soviet Union has thought up. It is an outrage that the Ohio River locked in ice should be stopped."

"We've got to move on this and move on it quickly," said Riegle.

Both the subcommittees, being asked to up the ante to $4 billion, are scheduled to begin drafting their versions of public works legislation early next week.

Flaherty told the House panel the energy shortage has caused the layoff of 500,000 workers in Pennsylvania alone, and some manufacturers do not expect to resume operations until warm weather.

AROUND NEW ENGLAND

Officials support oil clean-up fund

BOSTON [UPI] — About a dozen legislators and the state's top environmental officials Wednesday supported a bill to set up a Massachusetts oil spill cleanup fund in the wake of two major recent oil spills.

"It is absolutely criminal that this state is as vulnerable as it is to oil spills," said Rep. Terrence P. McCarthy, I-Oak Bluffs. "We cannot leave ourselves at the mercy of the federal government and the oil companies."

McCarthy, who represents the island of Martha's Vineyard which was threatened by a 7.6 million-gallon oil spill of the tanker Argo Merchant in December, spoke at a hearing of the legislature's Government Regulations Committee.

He supported an annual bill setting up a coastal and inland waterways fund which would be built up to $10 million over a period of years by placing a one cent per barrel levy on oil imported to the state.

Dukakis' office is 'uncomfortably warm'

BOSTON [AP] — Gov. Michael S. Dukakis wants state buildings to drop room temperature to 65 degrees, but he's been thwarted to his own office.

Dukakis and his staff complained yesterday that they are uncomfortably warm. State House building superintendent George Luciano said there's nothing that can be done, despite Dukakis' executive order signed Tuesday — requiring the 65-degree reading in state facilities.

The State House steam heating system lack central control, Luciano said. There is no way to regulate thermostat readings throughout the main building, its two wings and annex.

As a result, he said, some rooms are chilly and some are warm. The only way to regulate the temperature is to turn off the heating system.

Time running out for Indian artifacts

PALMER, Mass. [AP] — Archaeologists have until June 10 to examine a site where ancient Indian artifacts have been found, then — under a compromise agreement — construction workers take over and start building a $25 million sewage treatment plant.

The Massachusetts Historical Commission had demanded a postponement of construction to give scientists more time to study the land.

Officials of Belchertown, Monson and Palmer objected, fearing loss of a $17 million federal grant if construction were not started by this summer.

Cold weather brings back the woodburning stove

BOSTON [UPI] — When the Arab oil embargo hit the Northeast four years ago, New Englanders rushed to the woods, chainsaws in hand.

There followed a woodburning stove craze; a wood-buying craze; a fireplace conversion craze and other fuel fads.

But they didn't last long. When the oil flowed again, chainsaws were put away and cast iron stoves were left to rust.

But this winter, with the colder than normal temperatures and attending heavy snows and with the threat of fuel shortages, the woodburning ethic has been revived.

In Rhode Island nearly 1,500 permits were issued to residents to cut free firewood in state management areas from Dec. 6 to Jan. 31. Each person with a permit could take up to two cords of wood without charge.

Rhode Island's permit program has been running since the embargo of 1973. But many cutting wood this winter are not necessarily poor or needy.

"I think a majority of the people who were cutting really weren't in economic straits. They discovered a new winter activity other than the football games on TV. In some instances it became a family affair," said Charles Bolwell, deputy chief of the Division of Forest Environment.

"Many of them came driving up in their Cadillacs to get permits."

In Hartford, state forester Bob Garrepy said about 300 cords of wood were sold annually from state-owned lands before the 1973 oil embargo, but sales have soared since then.

This year, Garrepy said, more than 9,000 cords of wood will be sold by the end of winter.

But many commercial woodsellers have no more wood left to sell.

Ted Lenda, of Dunbarton, N.H., is among those sold out.

"We were sold out two months ago. We usually have wood year around because we do land clearing. The market was such this summer and fall that we sold out of the wood that would normally last through the winter," he said.

Bad climate may drive out business

BOSTON [UPI] — A Boston businessman Wednesday said industrial relocations out of Massachusetts were being caused by the business climate in the state.

"We are concerned about Massachusetts willingness and ability to continue to accommodate the kind of high technology growth that companies such as Data General represents," Edson DeCastro, founder and president of Data General Corp., in Southboro, told a civic club.

"At best, the state appears geared for industrial contraction, not for growth," he said. DeCastro said his company's experience with Maine, New Hampshire, California and North Carolina, has been "encouraging." These states are geared to meet the needs of growing industries to satisfy economic growth and new jobs, he said.

Massachusetts' "enormous expenditures for social welfare, unemployment compensation and the environment are choking the state's existing industrial base and discouraging the start up of new industry or transfer of other industry into this state," he said.

"Industry is regularly threatened in Massachusetts with negative or at best skeptical public atitudes."

While most of the nation is caught in the grip of an Arctic cold wave, Scott Eaton of Kennebunkport, Maine, warms up by surfing at Fortunes Rock Beach here. Eaton, and a half dozen others, regularly suit up in wet suits and surf area beaches. With air temps no higher than 20 degrees and water temps around the 40 degree mark, you have to be one of the hearty breed to be a surfer in these brutal conditions.

What's happening

A film made by Plymouth Plantation dealing with a 1640's legal case between the plantation and the Narragansett Nation will be shown in the Campus Center 168-170 tonight at 7:30, by Earl Mills, Jr. of the Wampanoag Nation.

A $.50 donation is asked for the benefit of the Mashpee Legal Defense Fund.

Carter gets gas bill

WASHINGTON [AP] — Congress granted President Carter emergency powers Wednesday to divert natural gas to states where supplies have been depleted by an unusually bitter winter.

The bill, Carter's first legislative proposal, was approved by the House Wednesday afternoon and sent to the President for his signature. The Senate approved the measure earlier in the day.

The action gave Carter a chance to sign the legislation into law before his scheduled "fireside chat" to the nation yesterday.

Although the bill was compromise between versions passed in each chamber earlier in the week, it provides the President with nearly everything he sought.

3 days

to change to or from pass—fail, add, or drop a course without record.

DEADLINE: Sundown, Monday, Feb. 7

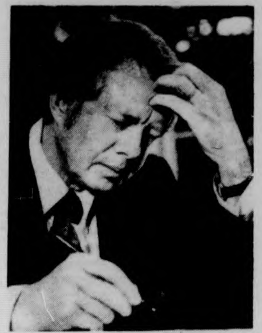
Note: If you pre-registered for a class but never attended, you still need to file an official drop form with the Registrar. Instructors will not automatically drop you from their class rolls.

CASIAC

E-20-26 Machmer Hall

THE BIGGEST
little market in the area
Welcomes college students.
Fresh quality meats — Seafood — Lobsters, Steaming Clams, Scallops — Deli Counter — Beer and Wine.
John & Rudy's Supermarket
Jct. Rtes. 116 & 47, Sunderland
Open till 8 Fridays 665-2010

MIAMI
from $99*
ROUND TRIP JET FLIGHTS
All programs completely bonded and government approved. No groups to join, now open to you individually. 35-day advanced purchase required. Spend less for the air, spend more when you're there! For SPECIAL rates, contact:
Spring Break March 21st-28th
CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
Campus Center 3rd level
Univ. of Mass 545-0500



President Jimmy Carter pauses to reflect as he works on the fireside chat which he gave to the nation last night. Carter called on the nation to invoke the spirit that held it together during the Second World War.

Carter appeals for support

WASHINGTON [UPI] — President Carter appealed yesterday for a revival of the fighting moral spirit that unified America in World War II, and promised with such backing — "I can be a good president."

In the first of his "fireside chats," Carter made a direct, televised report to the nation on his main policy goals and set the inspirational tone of his presidency by calling for dedication, sacrifice and unity.

Warning there will be no quick-fixes for such national ailments as the energy shortage and economic stagnation, he recalled, "during World War II, we faced a terrible crisis — but the challenge of fighting against fascism drew us together...

"I believe we are ready for that same spirit again — to plan ahead, work together and use common sense. Not because of war, but because we realize that we must act together to solve our problems, and because we are ready to trust one another..."

"If we are a united nation, then I can be a good president," Carter declared. "But I will need your help to do it."

Seated before a lighted firplace in the White House residential library, he warned Americans the road back to economic and social health will require "dedication, perhaps even some sacrifice" — and made pointed reference to the fact that, in his administration, the symbolic sacrifice starts at the top.

"Government officials can't be sensitive to your problems if we are living like royalty here in Washington," he said, and noted he has ended such "expensive and unnecessary luxuries" as the traditional limousine service enjoyed by top bureaucrats.

Before Carter spoke, Republican National Chairman William Brock sent telegrams to the three networks demanding equal time "as a matter of elemental fairness."

At the outset, Carter described his talk as "one of several steps I will take to keep in close touch with the people of our country and to let you know informally about our plans for the coming months."

It was his own, populist-style version of the broadcast "fireside chats" that Franklin D. Roosevelt originated — in his own fatherly, patrician style — at the end of his first week in office in 1933 when the Great Depression was breeding panic and despair.

Brown orders slowdown in cruise missile production

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown yesterday reversed Ford administration policy by ordering a slowdown in development of the sea-going model of the cruise missile.

Defense officials, however, said Brown has approved full scale development of a land attack version.

The officials said Brown has indicated he wants a better demonstration of the antiship missile's over-the-horizon capability. It was one of the new secretary's first moves to reverse a decision of the former administration.

The cruise missile is basically a small pilotless jet plane that could be fitted with a nuclear warhead. The missile, along with the Soviet Backfire bomber, has been a point of controversy on which a new strategic arms limitation agreement has stalled.

The officials said Brown reversed a Jan. 14 decision of a review committee of senior Pentagon officials to go ahead with full scale engineering development of a cruise missile that could be launched from ships and submarines against other ships.

"A COCKEYED MASTERPIECE!"
—Joseph Morgenstern, Newsweek
20th Century Fox presents
MASH
An Ingo Preminger Production
Color by DE LUXE® Panavision® R
CCA
Sat., Feb. 5
7 - 9:15 - 11:30
$1.00

E. German alert prompted by fear of dissident unrest

BERLIN [AP] — Fear of widespread dissident unrest or other disturbances apparently has prompted an alert of East Germany's armed forces, Western reports said yesterday.

West German newspaper accounts said that in addition to putting regular forces on increased alert, Communist authorities also issued a military mobilization order affecting East German men under 35.

There was no official comment from East Germany.

A spokesman for a West Berlin agency specializing in East German affairs said: "We have learned that the National People's army has been put on increased alert and that furloughs from some units were cancelled."

The spokesman added, however, that the agency was unaware of any special orders for the call-up of additional men in East Germany.

An allied military spokesman said "we are aware of the mobilization reports but we have not confirmed them." He said U.S., British and French garrisons in West Berlin had not been put on special alert.

In West Germany, the national newspaper Die Welt said allied observers from Berlin, Bonn and Brussels, where the Atlantic alliance is headquartered, were watching the developments in East Germany with "great interest."

The newspaper said the East German call-up orders were addressed to military reservists under 35.

Die Welt and the West Berlin newspaper BZ both reported East German army engineer units had been brought together in the Gross-Glienicks area south of West Berlin.

According to Die Welt, political observers had not excluded the possibility the East German security steps were being taken because of increased dissidence in both neighboring Poland and Czechoslovakia, as well as East Germany itself.

Dissident activity has increased within recent months in East Germany, where the government last November stripped protest singer Wolf Biermann of his citizenship and exiled him to the West.

East German authorities reportedly hold at least a dozen dissidents without charges and Prof. Robert Havemann, a noted physicist and leading dissident, is under house arrest.

Dissident-related developments today elsewhere in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union included:

— In Prague the official Czechoslovak government news agency CTK announced it was filing slander charges against human rights activist Ludvik Vaculik for purportedly claiming the agency had reproduced nude pictures of him.

— The Czechoslovak party newspaper Rude Pravo indicated officials were ending their public campaign against signers of a human rights document known as Charter 77. "We said what we intended to say and now for the future we shall speak primarily through creative new deeds, new constructive achievements," the newspaper said.

Give Away Price$!
Levi's®
SAVE UP TO 70%.
PANATELLA CORDUROYS From Only $11.99 REG. TO $20
Levi's® for Gals
SLACKS & CORDS From Only $8.99 REG. TO $20.00
Levi's®
Pre-Washed-Flair BLUE JEANS
& JEANS CORDS STRAIGHT OR FLAIR ONLY: $13.95
MENS & WOMENS Shirts & Sweaters 40~70% OFF! SPECIAL GROUP
WEAR-HOUSE
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

$1 Off WITH THIS AD ON
All Decorated Full Sheet & ½ Sheet Cakes for Any Occasion.
through March 31
Before the Midnight Munchies come visit us at the
Oven Bake Shop
Next to Spirit Haus
338 College St., Amherst
Tel. 256-0284
Special After - Dinner Snacks
Pastry Beef Pies
Pastry Pork Pies
Eclairs & Brownies
Napoleans
Cookies
Cream Puffs
Pies
Coffee, Tea, Cocoa

Tax tips

Form more complicated, but don't despair

GROSS INCOME
—Adjustments
ADJUSTED GROSS INCOME
—Deductions
—Exemptions
TAXABLE INCOME (go to table)
TAX LIABILITY
—Tax withheld in '76
—Certain Credits
ADDITIONAL TAX DUE
-or-
(REFUND)

Above is the general procedure for calculating tax liability.

By D. BODINIZZO
Special to the Collegian

This is the first of a weekly 10-part series designed to assist you in preparing your 1976 Federal and State Income Tax returns. Your federal return should be mailed to the Internal Revenue Service office in your district no later than midnight, April 15, 1977. For residents of the six New England states, this address is: 310 Lowell Street, Andover, Ma. 01812.

Changes in the tax laws since last year have been voluminous. The Tax Reform Act of 1976 was an attempt at simplification of the filing ordeal, however, you will probably conclude differently when you sit down to prepare your return. But don't despair. While an ever-increasing number of taxpayers are turning to attorneys, accountants and commercial outfits to ease the paperwork burden, the average citizen is capable of preparing his own return. Plan to set aside a weekend afternoon, and be sure to follow meticulously the instructions which accompany the tax return. Proceed line by line and, when you have finished, don't forget to make a copy of the return for your records. Don't overlook the signature, either!

Who Must File?

Generally, you must file a Federal Income Tax return if your gross income is equal to or greater than $2,450 ($3,200 for a person 65 or older). If you are married and file a joint return, the magic number is $36,000. (Add $750 to that for each spouse 65 or older.) Even if you are not required to file a return, it may benefit you to do so if you had income tax withheld from your pay. Note that this refers to income tax withheld, not F.I.C.A. Social Security contributions are theoretically salted away for you until you reach retirement age. If you are a low-income worker who maintained a household for your child during 1976, you may also qualify for a special credit (to be discussed in a later article by filing a return.

Which Forms to Use

Most individuals file form 1040 with one or more schedules; however, you can, in most instances, use the Short Form 1040A if 1) all of your 1976 income was from wages and not more than $400 of dividends and $400 of interest, and 2) you do not itemize deducations or make adjustments to gross income. The IRS has mailed forms and instructions to taxpayers, but additional ones are available at local IRS offices and at banks. Your 1976 employers are required to send you (Form W-2) statements of earnings and taxes withheld, by Jan. 31, 1977. If you have not received your W-2's, contact your employer. Statements of interest and dividends (Form 1099) should also have been sent to you if those earnings exceeded $10.

Basic Tax Computation

The 1976 Tax Reduction Act eliminated 12 tax tables and sections of the tax rate schedules, replacing them with one comprehensive tax table. It is estimated that 90 per cent of all taxpayers, those with taxable incomes not exceeding $20,000, will use the new tax table to determine their tax liabilities. This year, everyone must compute his or her deductions and exemptions to arrive at taxable income.

university of massachusetts arts council

S. HUROK presents

CANADA'S ROYAL WINNIPEG BALLET

FRI. & SAT., FEB. 11 & 12 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

Tickets on sale Jan. 28, $6, 5, 4. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.

F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

POSITIONS OPEN

The Student Government is currently accepting applications for the position of

Director of Communications

and the position of

Affirmative Action Officer

Applicants should have some experience in their respective fields, and must be undergraduates. More information and application forms are available in the Student Senate Office, 420 Student Union.

The SGA is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

HATCH

ALBATROSS

First Time Ever
at the Hatch

Feb. 3, 4, 5

Doors open at 8 p.m.

Cover $1.00 Thurs./$1.50 Fri., Sat.

THE PUB

THURSDAY

★ NEW FOR 1977 ★

DOUBLE TIME

8:30 - 11:00

MOST DRINKS & BEER TWO FOR ONE !!

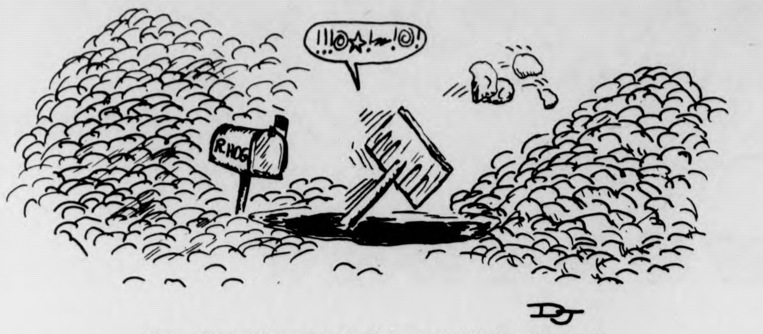
SUNDAY

THE EXCALIBURG
2 for 1 all day Sunday Noon - 9 PM
Buy one - Get one FREE

★ FIVE OUNCES OF 100% PURE BEEF ON A BULKIE ROLL WITH LETTUCE, SLICED TOMATOES, COLE SLAW AND FRESH IDAHO FRENCH FRIES

Sunday GOODTIME HOUR 4-8
QUART PITCHER OF BEER $1.00

EATING AND DRINKING
AMHERST



Item: Groundhogs in Buffalo are still digging out... not expected to see their shadows for at least anotherweek....

letters

Mission supporters praised

To the Editor:

I would like to personally thank the residents of John Adams dormitory for responding to the needs of the poor in a fishing town of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia. A very young and struggling Franciscan mission has begun to work among the people there in helping supply food and shelter to any who are in need of it. Special encouragement has been given to the youth of the area.

The monks, who initiated this work, simply moved into the poorest end of town and gave whatever was given to them to those who needed it more than they. In a radical way they live the Gospel of Christ through their reckless love of God and their neighbor. I can testify to this as a resident of John Adams myself who visited there for a few days during intersession. However, their work begun a few months ago is now threatened to close because of lack of financial support.

Thanks to the generous response of my brothers and sisters of John Adams, who volunteered personal donations, over $80 is being forwarded to Yarmouth. It is probably not enough to keep the Brothers going in itself, although it will be put to good use, but more than that it is a sign of true appreciation for the work being done there. This is especially meaningful to me when it is much easier to sink back in our own comforts and securities, forgetting those less fortunate than ourselves.

If anyone is interested in further information on this community to help in the work, donations, etc. please write: Community of St. Francis, Holy Cross Friary, 4 Forbes St., Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, Canada.

Vinny Gatto

An art, not a profession

To the Editor:

The following is an open letter to Larry Roberts, President, Massachusetts Society of Professors.

Larry, Larry, quite contrary,
How does your "profession" grow?

Why not, Larry? Why not recognize that some of the more perceptive of good teachers recognize that teaching is a very demanding craft and, at times, a beautiful, delicate art and not a profession?

Why not, Larry? Why not realize that voting for an organization affiliated with the NEA for representation at the bargaining table is analogous to choosing the brontosaurus as the most successful of the animals in the 20th century?

Why not, Larry? Why not come out of your moss-lined "professional" closet, toss away your attache case and take up the lunch bucket as a good member of the working class should?

Why not, Larry? Why not invite a representative of the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO (or, better yet, the Brotherhood of Teamsters) to meet with your membership and discuss some realities about unionization and collective bargaining as they ought to be on the Amherst campus?

Why not, Larry?

John M. Adams

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts · Amherst MA [illegible]

BOARD OF EDITORS — RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in-Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; NASSER H. EGA, Black Affairs Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; JAY A. SARET, Photo Editor; MARK A. LECCESE, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS — Christopher J. Bourne, Teresa M. Hanafin, Night Managers; Paula Strollo, Wire Editor; Lisa E. Melilli, Assistant Executive Editor; Gerard F. Rogers, Kevin C. Turcotte, Assistant News Editors; Angela P. Thomas, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Michael A. Berger, Richard W. Eckel, Assistant Sports Editors; E. Patrick McQuaid, Deborah S. Schafer, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Melanie J. Johnson, Women's Coordinator; Heidi S. Berenson, Feature Coordinator.

BUSINESS — Steve N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; Leslie Nearman, Finance Manager; Laurie Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Heath C. Wheeler, Jr., Linda Crowell, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Steven Polansky, Circulation Manager; Linda S. Vene, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

commentary

Nothing but the best

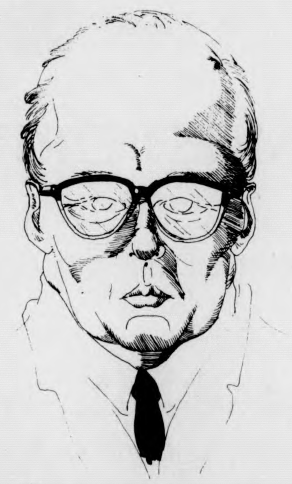
By DUKE SIMONEAU

Chancellor Randolph Bromery recently came into the news (outside of these pages) by refusing the post of Under Secretary of the Interior in the Carter Administration. In his statement rejecting the Washington social swirl, Bromery said that he had work to do here. His major project, would be to eliminate excessive spending and price hikes.

Unfortunately, his boss doesn't appear to share his views on waste. Dr. Wood, whom most students wouldn't recognize in an identification survey, spends an extra quarter of a million of our dollars every year for his own comfort and convenience.

Dr. Wood cannot be found on any of the four UMass campuses. His plush suite of offices is the entire 14th and 15th floors of One Washington Mall in downtown Boston. According to the Boston Globe, this suite rents for $250,000 a year.

Why does our illustrious prez need such a facility? I'm sure arrangements could be made for a comfortable niche for him on one of the four fiefdoms in his realm. If he wants to be in Boston, as opposed to here at UMass' flagship campus, he could work out of the new UMass Columbia Point. If being downtown is so important to him, UMass has a campus just a few blocks from his current palace. Granted the neighbors don't include Boston's banking community, but the price tag is considerably less. Maybe we could interest the good doctor in a more cultural setting — like the UMass Med. School in Worcester.



Granted that $250,000 wouldn't make much of a dent in reducing UMass-Amherst's almost $69 million budget. In fact, if the sum was divided evenly among all four UMasses, it would only relieve Chancellor Bromery's financial worries by less than 1-10th of one per cent. But I think he'd find something to do with $62,500. If he can't, I can.

Duke Simoneau is a Collegian Commentator.

foreign scene

Daoud's release: Sold out again

By BRUCE SMITH

Three weeks ago, the terrorist Abu Daoud, who was the 2nd most wanted man by Interpol for four years, was arrested in France. The French government held Daoud for one day and then released him without a trial, and without extraditing him to either Germany or Israel. The French government offered their apologies to the world, while supplying Daoud with a first class ticket to Algeria and freedom.

The French government's act of releasing the terrorist Abu Daoud is an act of cowardice. How could France even contemplate the release of the man who planned the Munich Olympic Massacre? Evidently, France doesn't think that the Olympic Massacre was that bad of a crime. After all, only Israeli's were murdered, and France honors Arab oil, not Jewish blood.

The state and the people of Israel, and Jews everywhere have again been sold out.

The release of Abu Daoud by France must have made Arab terrorists laugh with delight. Their leader, Abu Daoud, was released without any kidnappings, murders, or hostages. All they had to do was warn France.

The French people must be hanging their heads in shame at what their government did. President Giscard D'estang has shown his true colors. Befriend the Arabs for oil, despite any moral implications involved. It's a strange coincidence indeed, that the day after Daoud's release, France announced that it was selling 1.6 billion dollars worth of fighter bombers to Egypt. To top it all, France even had the audacity to lodge a formal complaint with the U.S. over our criticism of the release.

Rather than just getting disgusted over the French move, we can take actions showing our response and our anger over the French governments release of a wanted terrorist, and their obvious disrespect for Jewish lives.

If France wants to throw its hat in the ring with the Arabs, so be it. Jewish people should stop patronizing French products. The American Jewish community should boycott trips to France. The American Jewish community should boycott trips to France. The American Jewish community should boycott all French products as a signal to France that we will not tolerate such lack of concern. Let those who drink French wine know that they raise a toast to terrorism. France will feel the sting of our economic dissapproval. The government might not even care, but we still won't be supporting with our money a government who has shown that Israel and Jewish people are expendible a liability in the face of Arab oil.

Bruce Smith is a Collegian Commentator.

william a. mills

Child's innocence

Editor's Note: William A. Mills, a UMass junior, is interning at the Taos Pueblo Day School in Taos, New Mexico. He will be contributing columns to the Collegian regularly. The columns are an account of his experiences in New Mexico.

TAOS, New Mexico — Children are blessed with a splendid innocence; blessed with a pure humility; blessed with an abounding imagination; blessed with an insatiable curiosity. Bless the children.

Native American children are truly blessed — blessed with all of these enviable characteristics. Certainly, these children are not always this gifted. But their less desirable behavior, as is the case for most children, is usually the reflection of an adult's behavior.

Teaching at the Taos Elementary School on a Pueblo reservation offers me the opportunity to witness children in their worlds of happiness and in their times of tribulations. But their episodes of bitter trial and frustration are like moments in their hours and days of bliss.

The most difficult duty of a teacher, I found, is to scold a tiny third grader for whatever reason. Large brown serious eyes pop out of their incongruently, childlike large heads in humble reproof of their misdeed. One seven-year-old boy, staring firmly back into my eyes during a scolding, promptly asked after my spiel, "Why do you have blue eyes?"

Life to children, as it probably should be to all, is as simple and sweet as a piece of bubble gum. The world at times can explode in front of you; other times it can expand and grow in love.

To some children, however, especially to Paco, a fourth grade part-Native-American-part-Spanish boy, life is not so simple and not so loving. The world to Paco is not real. Just as a college professor theorizes in the classroom, Paco dreams in his daily activities. The professor's theories will probably never be tested or set in motion. Likewise, Paco's dreams will probably remain fantasies.

The world to Paco is one of airplanes and dinosaurs. Everything revolves around dinosaurs and airplanes, according to the bespectacled Paco. Why these two objects — one a bygone monster of the pre-historic world, the other a man-made monster of the modern world?

Maybe because Paco is caught in the middle of two worlds — not necessarily the pre-historic and modern worlds. Any two worlds. His family refuses to leave one world out of cultural pride, and in another, he sees a world forcing its values and "conveniences" on him and his family.

Paco is confused.

Paco is bewildered.

At night, Paco builds the family fire which heats his adobe home. The fire also serves as his reading light. During the day, Paco studies math with film projectors, games, audio aids and overhead projectors. He thanks the BIA for these aids, yet he hears his parents rank Uncle Sam. "Why?" he asks.

Paco attends school in one world, eats supper in another, and most likely dreams in another. And we ask why Paco is confused, why he is behind the "normal student", why he acts differently from others "like" him.

Paco is searching for himself.

Paco is like a lost lamb, a stray sheep. But he doesn't have a shepherd to help him find himself. He doesn't have a shepherd to bring him out of the darkness (or the bright light). He doesn't have a shepherd to lead him out of the mire, the thicks.

Paco may and may not find himself.

Some say Paco will be better off when he finds himself.

I ask if Paco will be better off forever lost.

That is, lost in his OWN world — never again stuck between two others.

Paco will be happiest in his own world — a world as simple as a piece of bubble gum.

William A. Mills is a Collegian Columnist.

martha newcomb

Alcoholism is alive

No statistics, no preaching. Alcoholism is alive and well, and thriving in the least expected places. Alcoholism is found in the bodies of your friends and relatives more often than in that of your town derelict. But you're not surprised to hear that; you've seen all the ads on tv and billboards.

No one sets out to become an alocholic. The disease is much too subtle to let anyone contract it easily. It is also sinister in that many a good, even great, time is had by the victim before he or she is enveloped in the clutches of the disease.

Alcoholism holds it to its credit that it not only affects its victim, but often more severely the people that are close to the victim. This severity spans the entire spectrum of the emotional realm; from disappointment to fear.

Last year, a fellow on my corridot had to do a speech on alcoholism. He asked a few of us if we knew anything about it. About ten students, spanning a wide range of social and economic status, sat and talked about it in the hall. There was not a one that didn't have a "drinking problem" (alcoholism is a horrible word), in their immediate family; aunts or uncles, etc. included.

The scope of this realization was astounding. Why is this situation so common?

I have gone as an observer or sometimes donut eater, to quite a few Alcoholics Anonymous meetings. Each meeting was characteristically filled by many different kinds of people. I've heard American Indians, priests, housewives and all kinds of professional people speak on their personal alcoholism. Some made me cry; some thoroughly disgusted me.

I like to have a few beers on Friday afternoons and I found it very hard to even comprehend (never mind understand) how an innocuous glass of "the brew" could ruin lives. And I'm not exaggerating; alcohol can ruin lives. I've seen it.

Alcoholism's favorite trick is catching someone off-guard. It sneaks up right in between all the parties and stays with its victim until death do they part. Not your ideal relationship. I learned at AA meetings that even though an alcoholic has not had a drink in ten years, he or she is still an alcoholic. There is no cure. It's simple; if an alcoholic drinks, sooner or later he or she is going to die (or kill someone) as a direct result of it.

I am not for prohibition. I'm for awareness and for help for the victims of the disease. And remember, the victims aren't just the drinkers.

There ARE people on this campus that can help if things have gone too far; but that's the funny thing about alcoholism, it's so hard to know when things are going too far when the victim seems to be having such a good time. Try not to let it happen to you.

Martha Newcomb is a Collegian Columnist.

jan van tol

World without a cause

"At this very moment, the most frightful horrors are taking place in every corner of the world. People are being crushed, slashed, disembowelled, mangled; their dead bodies rot and their eyes decay with the rest. Screams of pain and fear go pulsing through the air at the rate of eleven hundred feet per second. After travelling for three seconds, they are perfectly inaudible. These are distressing facts; but do we enjoy life any the less because of them? Most certainly we do not. We feel sympathy, no doubt; we represent to ourselves imaginatively the sufferings of nations and individuals, and we deplore them. But, after all, what are sympathy and imagination? Precious little, unless the person for whom we feel sympathy happens to be closely involved in our affection; and even then they don't go very far. And a good thing too; for if one had an imagination vivid enough and a sympathy sufficiently sensitive really to comprehend and to feel the sufferings of other people, one would never have a moment's peace of mind..."

Aldous Huxley

Working for a cause, doing good things — in short, pretending to benefit others — has long been thought to be noble if effective, or at least sincere as long as the intention was good. And woe to those who deride sincere efforts...

Last semester, ace reporter Rick Gureghian commented that everyone at UMass has a cause — and that UMass causes are worthless. That wasn't quite fair; there is actually an occasional cause around here worthy of support. And besides actual substance, causes in general serve a valuable societal end in that they are an outlet for all sorts of altruists and seekers after martyrdom. Just imagine how frustrated doers of good deeds would become if there were no way of demonstrating to others how benevolent they could be!

So we don't question the usefulness of causes; however, the notion of a sincere crusader puzzles us, since it seems to contain an internal contradiction. That is, consider what would happen if the goals of every good cause imaginable were achieved. Many latterday Samaritans would believe such a state to be the next best thing to Nirvana. But we're not so sure. If every crusader were to finish his crusade, some people would be out of work, and many more would lose a hobby. Perhaps a few examples would illustrate how dreadful it would be if there were no more good deeds left to be done, no more dragons to slay.

Where would all the missionaries go if the whole world were converted? The only comfort we used to take from long sermons was that if the minister did a really good job (naturally the longer the sermon, the better the results), he would soon be out of work and we wouldn't have to go to church anymore. Suppose it actually happens though? What could be done with the poor fellows, other than putting them on secular welfare? And where would we be without sin!?

Wouldn't it be awful if the United States became a socialist nation? If that really happened, a lot of people on this campus would have to join the ski club or go square-dancing for their jollies. About the only good thing to come from such a misfortune would be Susan Saxe's pardon. But what would all the protestors do? Or the merchants of rhetoric? If Charles Bagli and Joel Weissman of the Student Revolutionary Brigade, UMass squad, no longer had to "keep on fighting all the capitalist attacks, including the murderous death penalty", we would no longer be able to read their, ah, carminative columns since the capitalist conspiracy would no longer exist. And of course the SDS, SLA, Black Panthers, Yippies, and the Republican Party would be unneeded in a socialist state. But surely a world without them is unthinkable!?

How monstrous it would be if women really got equal rights! Betty Friedan would become just another pretty face. What's more, women would still have to do half the housework while no longer being able to squawk about it. Even worse, there'd be no more need for Women's Centers since women would no longer feel compelled to tell each other how oppressed they are.

Suppose Gethers and Brown were actually released. That would be very nice for them, but most of campus would no longer have anything to keep itself occupied with. With the University community so relatively unified behind them, would it really be beneficial for the campus if they were now freed? Of course not. Solidarity only comes with a cause.

No, given all the drawbacks resulting from successfully fought crusades, we're forced to conclude that those fighting for causes don't actually want to win. Not only would they lose their raison d'etre if they won, but life's chief pleasure would be eliminated. For it must be (if those of the feminist persuasion would excuse the expression) that half the excitement is in the chase. Why else would the same people here on campus be constantly involved with some cause if it did not bring them a thrill of one sort or another? Could it be that crusaders just like other men, are merely pleasure-seeking animals?

As a final note, some readers will no doubt accuse us of being excessively cynical. Indeed Nummo News already has. But no, we're not cynics; perhaps we've only been exposed to game theory too long, which should indicate just how seriously this and other columns ought to be taken. For if we really meant to treat things like altruism in a cynical game theory manner, we'd have to assume that UMass students were rational, and that is clearly not the case....

Jan Van Tol is a Collegian Columnist.

Notices

ALL UNIVERSITY WOMEN

The sisters of Lambda Delta Phi invite you to a Treasure Hunt on Thurs., Feb. 3 at 7:30 p.m. at 389 N. Pleasant St. Call us for more info or rides. 5-0939.

B.D.I.C.

Second semester sophomores interested in designing an interdepartmental major through BDIC should stop by Goodell 416. Academic counselors are available to discuss your ideas.

BOWLING TEAM TRYOUTS

Any amateur undergrad interested in trying out to fill in spots on both the Men's and Women's teams contact Paul 5-6139 or Karen 256-6887. Rolloffs will be Thurs., Feb. 3 at 4.

BROWN BAG THEOLOGY

Anyone is welcome to bring brown bag lunch Friday from 12-1 for an informal rap on any theological issue concerning anyone. Offered by the ecumenical UCF Team Ministry for all members of the UMass community, in 422 SU. Bev'g provided.

COIN CLUB

First meeting tonight. Members and interested persons encouraged to attend. Elections and semester activities to be discussed. 7:30-10 p.m. CC 901.

DYNAMICS OF WHITE RACISM 190M

The Center for Racial Understanding is sponsoring a course entitled "Dynamics of White Racism" to meet Mon., 7-10. The course explores institutional, cultural and personal racism.

ENVI SCI UNDERGRADS

All Envi Sci students are invited to attend an important organizational meeting regarding the new Resource Center, the dept's curriculum, dept. and courses in general and a meeting and party at a later date. The first meeting will be held Wed., Feb. 9, 7:30 p.m., Marshall Lab. Please be there.

FINANCIAL AID AVAILABLE

The Financial Aid Office still has some grant and loan money available for awards for the Spring term. Undergraduate and graduate students who are pursuing degrees at the University and who can demonstrate financial need are eligible. Application forms may be obtained in Whitmore 243 before Feb. 15.

FINANCIAL AID OFFICE CLOSING EVERY WEDNESDAY

Beginning Feb. 9, the Financial Aid Office will be closed every Wed. during the spring semester for processing financial aid applications.

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S WEEK

Publicity Committee needs help! Meet in HR apt. Van Meter No. tonight 9:15 p.m. Childcare needs help! 9:30 a.m. this morning in Commuter Collective 4th floor SU.

ISRAELI DANCE CO.

Very short (no dancing) meeting tonight 6:45 in Cape Cod Lounge.

ISRAELI FOLK DANCE TROUPE

Will meet tonight at 6:45 in the Cape Cod Lounge. New members welcome. Any problems call Lisa 549-5868 or Art 549-6152.

LOST

I lost a set of 5-University keys Monday afternoon, Jan. 31, between Hasbrouck and the infirmary or on the bus to town. If anyone has any info, please contact Debbie at 545-2238 during the day. Thank-you.

LOST EYEGLASSES

Men's, light tan, soft case, brown frames, lost Tues., Feb. 1 at 12:30 p.m. between Fernold and Herter. Contact Charles, 545-2619 or 235-9414.

MASS PIRG

Introductory meeting. Project briefings on consumer protection, energy and the environment. 7 p.m. in CC 174.

MEETING OF DRAMA GROUP

A drama group for people of little or no experience is being formed as a joint Hillel-English Dept. colloquium offering. Anyone interested should contact the Hillel office in SU 302 (545-2526) or Stan Lloyd at 546-5703.

NEWMAN CLUB MEETING

The Newman Club will have its first general meeting of the semester this Sunday, Feb. 6 at 8 p.m. Plans for the semester will be discussed and Fr. Leclerc will talk on man-woman relationships. All are welcome.

NORTHEAST AFFAIRS

The first meeting of the Northeast Area Government will be held tonight in Dwight House Lounge at 6:15. Come and share your ideas.

OMBUDSMAN'S OFFICE RELOCATED

The Ombudsman's Office has moved to the 8th floor of the Campus Center, Rm 821. The telephone number remains the same (545-0867).

R.A. POSITION

Grayson House has two R.A. positions open. Applications are available from the Head of Residence and are due Thurs., Feb. 10. Interviews will be held Sat. and Sun., Feb. 12 and 13. Grayson is an affirmative action employer.

'75 YEARBOOKS WANTED

The Alumni Office needs yearbooks. Call 5-2317 or drop by Memorial Hall. Price negotiable.

STUDENT NURSING ORGANIZATION MEETING

Meeting in Campus Center downstairs from Concourse in Rm. 168-70 Feb. 3, noon to 2 p.m.

UNION STEREO CO-OP

First meeting of the semester is Mon., Feb. 7 in CC Rm. 166, 7:30 p.m. This is a very important meeting. All members should attend.

WORK-STUDY

The BDIC Program has three work-study openings on its office staff. Although BDIC students on w-s will be given preference, all qualifying students with office experience are urged to apply. Ask for Joan or Bob in 416 Goodell.

Library schedule

January 24, 1977 — May 22, 1977

Sunday, Jan. 30 - Saturday, March 19†	Mon.-Thur.	8 a.m. to midnight
	Friday	8 a.m. to 10 p.m.
	Saturday	10 a.m. to 6 p.m.
	Sunday	10 a.m. to midnight
Sunday, March 20	Mon.-Thur.	10 a.m. to 6 p.m.
Monday, March 21 - Friday, March 25	Friday	8 a.m. to 6 p.m.
Saturday, March 26	Saturday	10 a.m. to 6 p.m.
Sunday, March 27 - Saturday, Apr. 23†	Sunday	8 a.m. to midnight
		8 a.m. to 10 p.m.
		10 a.m. to 6 p.m.
		10 a.m. to midnight

DC Menu

TODAY

LUNCH — Macaroni and Cheese, Cold Cut Grinder; Basics: Vegetable Sukiyaki, Macaroni and Cheese.

DINNER — Baked Chicken, Grilled Reuben Sandwich; Basics: Baked Chicken, Soybean Croquettes.

TOMORROW

LUNCH — Fish Burger, Turkey Divan; Basics: Mixed Bean Casserole, Fish Burger.

DINNER — Cubed Steak, Baked Fish-Crumb Sauce; Basics: Fried Shrimp-Hot Sauce, Lentil Patties.

The Point
in Color & Animated Music by Harry Nilsson
Narrated by Dustin Hoffman
Thursday, Feb. 3
7, 8:30, 10 p.m.
S.U.B. 75¢

SPECIAL ENGAGEMENT
"MAGNIFICENT!" Penelope Gilliatt The New Yorker
INGMAR BERGMAN'S "FACE TO FACE" LIV ULLMANN
SAT-SUN DOLLAR HOUR TIL 6
MON— TUES DOLLAR NITES!
CALVIN Sat-Sun 4:40-7-9:20 Eves 7-9:20
NORTHAMPTON 584-2310

Valentine's Day
Monday, Feb. 14
Hallmark Cards
A.J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer and Stationer
45 S. Pleasant St.
Amherst

Springfield Symphony Orchestra
proudly presents the
CLEVELAND ORCHESTRA
LORIN MAAZEL, conductor
Beethoven: Overture to "Egmont"
Beethoven: Symphony No. 8
Strauss: Ein Heldenleben
MON., FEB. 7, 8:00 P.M. — SYMPHONY HALL
$3.75, $4.75, $6.50, $7.75, $12.50
to order tickets call: 733-2291

AMHERST Cinema AMITY ST. 253-5426
now "A SMALL MASTERPIECE!" Bernard Drew, Gannett News "ASTONISHING... BRILLIANTLY ACTED!" John Simon N.Y. Magazine
Starring PHILIPPE NOIRET
the CLOCKMAKER ...A MAN WHO WOULD NOT COMPROMISE.
Plus Vincent, Francois, Paul and the Others
Eves: VINCENT FRANCOIS 7:00 CLOCKMAKER 9:00
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY MASS
THE GREATEST AFRICAN ADVENTURE EVER FILMED! LEE MARVIN ROGER MOORE SHOUT AT THE DEVIL ... BARBARA PARKINS PG
1 Thurs. 5:30, 8:00, Twi-Liter 5:00-5:30. Fri. 4:30, 7:00, 9:30, Twi-Liter 4:00-4:30.
IF YOU'VE GOT A TASTE FOR TERROR TAKE CARRIE TO THE PROM CARRIE R
2 Thurs. 6:00, 8:15, Twi-Liter 5:30-6:00. Fri. 5:00, 7:19, 9:45, Twi-Liter 4:30-5:00.
Limited Seating at Twi-Liters $1.25
"MAGNIFICENT!" Penelope Gilliatt The New Yorker "LIV ULLMANN'S PERFORMANCE IS SHATTERING!" Jack Kroll Newsweek INGMAR BERGMAN'S "FACE TO FACE" LIV ULLMANN R
3 Thurs. 5:30, 8:00, Twi-Liter 5:00-5:30. Fri. 4:30, 7:00, 9:30, Twi-Liter 4:00-4:30.
"LOVELY... A RARITY, A POETIC COMEDY THAT'S REALLY FUNNY." —Pauline Kael New Yorker Magazine a film by françois truffaut small change PG
4 Thurs. 5:45, 8:15, Twi-Liter 5:15-5:45. Fri. 4:45, 7:15, 9:45, Twi-Liter 4:15-4:45.
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI LITE SHOW TICKETS... LIMITED TO SEATING

PERFORMING ARTS DIVISION
DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC AND DANCE
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
AMHERST, MASS.

Special Registration for Music Lessons and Classes

January 31 through February 4, 1977 in Old Chapel Room 13
Afternoons from 3:00 to 5:00 P.M.
ALL INSTRUCTION BEGINS THE WEEK OF FEBRUARY 7, 1977.

EVENING CLASSES

GROUP FLUTE: Mondays, 5:30-6:30. A class designed for beginning to intermediate flautists. Instructor: Joanne Tanner. Rm 150 FAC.

GROUP COMPOSITION: A class designed for beginning or elementary composers. Students must have a command of the fundamentals of music. Instructor: Christopher Hills. For information call 253-5983.

VOICE TECHNIQUE CLASS: Wed. 7:30-9:00 p.m. Basic fundamentals of voice production for beginners. Instructor: Susan Huetteman. Rm 150 FAC. TUITION: $48.75 for 13 ninety min. classes.

GROUP PIANO I: Adult level. Class instruction for beginning piano students. Each member of the class is provided with an electronic piano with individual earphones. Instructor: Adrienne Teraspulsky. Mondays, 5:15 p.m.

GROUP PIANO II: Adult level. A continuation of Piano I or students with prior keyboard experience. Instructor: Adrienne Teraspulsky. Wed. 5:15.

GROUP PIANO I: 7th and 8th grade level. Class instruction for beginners. Mondays, 4:00 p.m. Instructor: Adrienne Teraspulsky.

TUITION FOR ALL OF THE ABOVE CLASSES IS $32.50 FOR 13 ONE HOUR CLASSES.

INTRODUCTION TO MUSIC THEORY: Thur. 8:00-9:00 p.m. A course in the fundamentals of music including ear-training, sight-singing and basic harmony. Instructor: Dr. Al Huetteman. TUITION: $26.00 for 13 one-hour classes.

SIGHT-SINGING: Thur. 7:00-8:00 p.m. A beginning course to learn to read and sing music at first sight. Instructor: Dr. Al Huetteman. TUITION: $26.00 for 13 one-hour classes.

QUAD INSTRUCTION — PIANO: 4 students for 90 min. lessons. By. arr. Instructor: Katherine Stencel. TUITION: $78.00 for 13 lessons, plus $5.00 reg. fee.

QUAD INSTRUCTION—VOICE: 4 students for 1 hr. lesson. By arr. Instructor: Susan Huetteman. TUITION: $62.00 for 13 one hr. lessons, plus $5.00 reg. fee.

SMALL ENSEMBLES

WOODWIND QUINTET: Intermediate to advanced level. Persons interested contact Linda Smith at 545-0048 before Feb. 4. TUITION: $50 for 13 one hr. rehearsals plus $5.00 reg. fee.

SAXOPHONE QUARTET: Intermediate to advanced level. Persons interested contact Linda Smith at 545-0048 before Feb. 4. TUITION: $62.00 for 13 one hr. rehearsals plus $5.00 reg. fee.

DANCE CLASSES

BALLET: A class designed for adults with little or no previous dance training. Instructor: Elsje Sturtevant. TUITION: $36.00 for eight 90 minute lessons. Tuesdays, 6:30-8:00 p.m. Rm 11N.P.E.

MODERN DANCE: A class designed for adults with little or no previous dance training. Instructor: Amy Swanson. TUITION: $36.00 for eight 90 minute lessons. Thur. 6:30-8:00 p.m. Rm 11 North Phys. Ed.

PRIVATE INSTRUCTION

COMPOSITION
VOICE
PIANO GUITAR
BASSOON
FLUTE
OBOE
CLARINET
HORN
TRUMPET TROMBONE
TUBA
SAXOPHONE
PERCUSSION
VIOLIN
VIOLA
CELLO
STRING BASS

ACCOMPANIST: Individuals or groups may hire a piano accompanist at the rate of $6.00 per half hour. By arrangement.

Instruction offered by the Performing Arts Division Faculty, Department of Music and Dance Faculty, and Department Graduate Students.

Private instruction fees: $7.00, $6.00, $5.00 per one half hour lesson, plus a $5.00 registration fee. Registrants should be prepared to pay the $5.00 reg. fee plus the fee for the first 6 lessons at the time of registration.

One credit hour may be earned through the Division of Continuing Education for each of the above offerings for an additional $20.00.

We reserve the right to cancel classes and quads that do not have sufficient enrollment.

FOR INFORMATION: Call (413)545-0337. The office is located in Old Chapel, room 13. Although there are special registration days held during the year, students may register for private lessons at any time. Office hours: Tue. 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. and Thur. 3:30 to 5:00 p.m. Our secretary is Ginger Culpepper.

OPEN BOWLING
Monday thru Saturday
4:00-10:30
Boyden Ten Pin Lanes
50 cents a string
(Men's and women's leagues now being formed)

Local Color

Winnipeg Ballet at F.A.C.

Canada's Royal Winnipeg Ballet, one of the most spectacular dance companies performing today, will present two evening performances at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall Feb. 11 and 12.

Sponsored by the University Art Council as part of its 1976-77 Concert Dance Series, he company will offer a different program each night beginning at 8.

Tickets are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office and at all Ticketron Outlets. Prices are $4, $5 and $6 for the general public; half price for UMass students; and $1 discount for senior citizens and other students. For further ticket information, call the Box Office, 545-2511.

Amherst H.S. play tonight

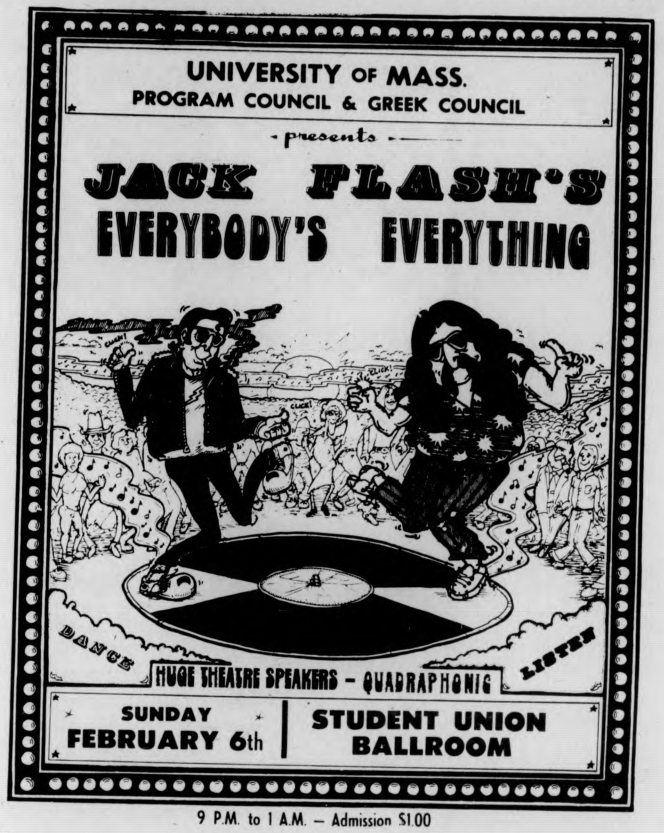
"Marathon '33," a play written by June Havoc, will be performed by Amherst Regional High School students on Feb. 3, 4 and 5, at 8:15 p.m. at the ARHS Auditorium. "Marathon '33" creates the characters and atmosphere of the depression dance marathons.

Dance students perform tonight

The UMass Department of Music and Dance today and tomorrow is celebrating their first Dance Concert entirely produced, directed, choreographed and performed by students.

The program includes "Octagonal Wheelization," an abstract piece based on life cycles, and Mike Oldfield's popular "Tubular Bells."

The concert begins at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium, Stockbridge Hall. Ticket prices are $2.50 general, $1.50 students and $.75 for children. Tickets are available at the main office of the North P.E. Building.



UNIVERSITY OF MASS.
PROGRAM COUNCIL & GREEK COUNCIL
- presents -
JACK FLASH'S
EVERYBODY'S EVERYTHING
DANCE
LISTEN
HUGE THEATRE SPEAKERS — QUADRAPHONIC
SUNDAY FEBRUARY 6th
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
9 P.M. to 1 A.M. — Admission $1.00

POOR RICHARDS
Thursday
WHITE LIGHTNING NITE
All Gin, Rum, Vodka & Tequeila 85¢
Sunday
HAPPY HOUR
All Night

Everybody's Market Place

CLASSIFIED ADS

To place a classified ad drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m and 3:45p.m Monday thru Friday

The deadline is 3:45p.m two days before your ad is to appear.

The rates are
Daily 40 per line
Weekly 35' per line
Monthly 25 per line
(two lines on MDC form approximate one line

IF YOU CAN'T COME TO THE OFFICE CLIP OUT AND MAIL OUR SPEEDY CLASSIFIED AD FORM

FOR SALE

8trk car dk w spkrs. $40. 549-5910 Ken

TURNTABLE — Philips GA212, ex. cond. Ret. $170, ask $125 B.O. 253-7498.

Parts for Triumph TR4 and TR4A 256-6233.

Ebonite Clarinet, leather pads, comp rebit, real tight mellow sound. 256-6536, John.

175cm Holzner skis, 9½ Reiker boots, Spademan bindings, 48 in poles. $45 takes all or will sell in parts. Chuck 655-3551.

Skis — Head 720 203cms, Nevada binding. Good condition. Henke boots, size 9. Fair condition. Best offer. Jon 549-6425.

Folk Guitar, Harmony. Good for beginning students. Good condition. Best offer. Jon 549-6425.

FOR SALE

1 pr. of men's Bauer hockey skates, size 10. Call 6-8960.

Kastle GS skis, 200cm. $50. 546-4709.

Refrigerator $35. Gd. cond. 546-5156.

Rossignol Strato Nev. bind. 140cm Reichl, sz. 7, poles. Ex. for beg. 253-7108.

6 rm. house 4 yrs. old, fireplace, 2 car garage, 1 & ½ baths, lge. porch, 1 acre. Exquisite. Call after 4. 1-467-7208.

For Sale: 2 pairs of skis — Head 360's 180cm. Excellent condition. $100.00. Head HRP's 180cm Look Nevada bindings $125.00. Nordica boots $60.00. Head poles $15.00. Call 549-2691.

For Sale: Living room and bedroom furniture. All kinds. Must sell, leaving the area immediately. Call 549-4797.

Head 320 skis 193cm, 3 years old. Will sell cheaply or trade for skis 175-180cm. Call Mark 545-2151. Leave message.

Hi Fi speakers made in Amherst. Hi quality at prices no one can match. Also lowest prices on all brand name components. Call 253-3013. Pyramid Power.

Guitar, Yamaha F160, Flute Armstrong. Both like new. 665-2563.

Refrig., excellent cond., 5 cu. ft., $80. Small BSR McDonald stereo. B.O. 323-5131.

K2 III 195cm, used twice, $75. 549-2785.

LEATHER BOOTS — FRYE Lookalikes — never worn! 9½. Best offer. Jeff. 546-7878.

AUTO FOR SALE

1969 VW Bug. Gd. cond. $625. Call 467-9853.

1969 MGB. good cond. $1000 or best offer. Tel. 549-11[illegible]1.

BMW, '67, 4 door, exc. cond. $1200. 256-6459.

AUTO FOR SALE

'67 VW Sqrbk, rebit eng. Runs good, $475. '71 Vega, runs good — body shot, $200. firm. 256-8214 after 6.

'71 Datsun 510, 2 dr., stand., AM-FM. Runs well, needs some body work. 549-6537 eve.

'68 Catalina, hi mi but runs very well & reliable. Peter — Dwight 224 — 5-2304.

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

'72 Kawa H2 750, 3-1 Header. Fast. 6-9441.

INSTRUCTION

Beg. Hatha Yoga for women. Ind. or small groups. Call eves. Hana 253-5698.

ROOMMATE WANTED

Quiet, non-smok., female, own room, $115. mo. Brit. Manor. 253-3140 eves. before 10.

Rmmate Amherst Apt. 1 mi. from UMass. No lease. Own rm., bus. $100 incl. utils. Call 549-6013.

Female for S. Amh. house. $88+. 253-7727.

One bedroom in lg. Co-op house, $85 incl. utilities. Private and secluded in Sunderland. Bus stop close by, scenic view, wood and oil heat. Feb. to May with opt. for summer. 665-4854. Michael.

Room in Co-op House, Mar. 1, F. Belchtwn. 323-5058.

Roommate — 2 bdrm., own room, $125 inc util., sec. dep., d-d, w-d modern. 549-1741 or 549-1352. Share w-female, senior. Lease 8-31-77. A cond.

F. or M to share lg. b room, 5 min. walk to campus. 253-5298.

Mature female roommate wanted to share expenses. Call 253-2657.

F roommate wanted. Own bedroom, air cond., pool. $70—mo. Call after 5. 256-6059.

FOR RENT

Belchertown — 3 room cottage — stove, refrig., $150—mth., private 583-8734 evenings.

Furnished Apts. avail. Feb. 1. 4 mos. lease. 1½, 2, 2½ rms. A.C., parking, pool, quiet area. From $190. mo. inc. all utils. Amherst Motel & Apts., Rte. 9, opp. Zayre's.

To sublet 2 bdrm. apt. $175+. Bus rt. Sunderland. Call 665-3842 after 4.

Sublet Riverglade 2 bdrm., heat, AC incl. On busline. Very reasonable. 253-2777.

In Lev., woodsy, cheap heat, with 3 others. $95+. 549-0021.

PERSONALS

Below The Salt, fine arts weekly magazine supplement to the Daily Collegian, is looking for talented people to contribute. Art, music, theatre, dance, poetry, books, film, food, politics, fiction, all types of writing, wanted. Commentaries, criticisms, features and reviews. Call us at 545-3500 or come to 113 Campus Center.

University Women: Close to campus sorority is taking boarders. Great food. Call Liz or Dawn at 253-9215.

LETS TOUCH...Experienced foil and saber fencer looking for a.m., p.m., weekend partners. Duke Simoneau, 405 Brown House, 546-5727.

WANTED

Used stationary exercise bike. Good condition. 772-6184 collect after 5 p.m.

TYPING

Typing — Reasonable rates — Dissertations, resumes, papers, etc. 549-6772.

LOST

Lost — Gold pocket watch, low $, hi personal value. $20 reward. 256-6757.

Lost — pr. red, white & blue Aris ski gloves, Fri. nite, Hatch. Reward. 546-7924.

HELP WANTED

Work in a sorority. Free meals, good home cooking. Call 253-9066.

Alan Goldberg Tennis Pro needs assistant pro for part time summer employment. Teaching exp. required. Call nites 253-3683.

Bus driver training appls. will be accepted on Feb. 7 at 7 p.m. in CC, rm. 101 from the first 100 qualified. You must be a univ. degree candidate student with at least 3 semesters left, over 18 yrs. of age, hold a Mass. No. 3 lic., and willing to train on weekends.

P. time job selling jewelry. 256-8746.

Small sorority needs pot washer, dining room houseboys. Call 549-1587.

The Below The Salt arts weekly is looking for your poetry. Let us see your creativity? Come on down Monday nite or leave your stuff in the Poetry Box, Coll. Off., 1st floor C.C.

Men! Women! Jobs on ships! American. Foreign. No exp. required. Exc. pay. Worldwide Travel. Summer job or career. Send $3 for info: SEAFAX, Dept. F-2, Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362.

TO SUBLET

F to lease 1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. unit till May, bus rt., $135 inc. all. 665-3044 eves.

ENTERTAINMENT

Sex Is Back! Woody Allen's outrageous "Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Sex But Were Afraid To Ask!", Saturday, Feb. 5, 4 showings 6:30, 8:15, 10:00, 11:45 in S.U.B. $1.00.

SERVICES

Guitar Lessons. Experienced, reliable teacher. Theory included if desired. Student rates available. 665-3024.

TRAVEL

Europe '77. No frills, student, teacher, charter flights — Global Travel, 521 5th Ave., N. Y., N. Y. 10017. 212-379-3532. Group rates.

ENGINEERING STUDENTS

High quality, new drafting compass sets. Prived bel cost. Call Carl 546-4102.

AUDIO

Quality audio components — over 130 lines including high—end, good advice, reasonable prices. Call Peter 665-2920.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators has low prices! All T. I. warr by me for 1 yr. SR-52 $199.95; SR-56 $84.95 ($10 rebate off this pr.); SR-40 $34.95, bus anal $34.95 — All HP's avail. HP-67 $389.95. Call and check our PR's. Call Bob Or Linda 549-1316!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

WHAT'S HAPPENING

Television producer to give T.V. preview

Paul Wilkes, television documentary producer and author, will visit campus today to preview tapes of his new documentary series, "six American Families," to be shown during April on PBS.

Wilkes is author of "Trying Out the Dream;" "A Year in the Life of An American Family."

At two public sessions Wilkes will show television tapes and contrast his work as a researcher, and writer for a book and as a reporter, director and producer for television.

The sessions, open to all students and faculty, will be at 11:15 a.m. and 1 p.m. in Campus Center 101.

Wilkes will also meet students at an informal get-together in the Top of the Campus lounge between 5 and 6 p.m.

Berkshire House to sponsor workshops

Data for your future ... or Finding Information in a Career Resource Center

The Community Development Center Career Library Room 115 Berkshire House is sponsoring a series of workshops to highlight career resources. Each Thursday at 3 p.m. a career field will be displayed. A short presentation of ways to find information about the field in the occupational vertical file, in the governmental file, and in the 1976-1977 graduate school catalogs from the 50 states and Canada will be shown. Following this there will be time to browse or listen to the summarized audio-cassettes on that field.

Today's workshop will feature art careers. To begin the program a feature film "USArt: The Gift of Ourselves" will be shown at 3:30 in Berkshire House room 318. This film is the winnter of the 1976 Gold Camera Award and the Golden Eagle Award. Major works of American artists, the music of native America, and historical movie footage and TV kinescope have been combined to produce this acclaimed film. It depicts the history of our nation and its artists will all their energy and diversity. Painters, poets, musicians, and authors are all featured.

Collective film series presents first movie

The second season of the Commuter Collective's Progressive Film Series promises excellent films for the campus and Valley community. The series begins tonight at 8 and 9:45 p.m. with "Salt of the Earth," a beautiful, inspiring film about the strength of striking miners and their families.

The film series includes 14 films, all to be shown on Thursday nights. Three of the films will play in the Student Union Ballroom: "Modern Times," on Feb. 10, "Underground," on March 17, and "Hearts and Minds," on May 12. The remainder of the films will be shown in Herter 231.

There will be two showings of every film, at 8 and 9:45 p.m., with the exception of "The History Book," Feb. 17, which will be shown at 7:30 and 10 p.m. The Commuter Collective will collect a $1.00 admission fee for each film.

This semester, the collective is offering a series ticket for all fourteen films at half-price, $7. These are available at the Commuter Collective office in the Student Union Building room 404. Any profits from the film series will be used in the regular program support work of commuters. Certain films are earmarked ahead of time to support complementary groups on campus.

Several of the films in the series cannot be seen on the commercial market, often this film series represents a one-shot opportunity for people in this area. Every film has been chosen for its excellence in cinematography and for its meaningful content.

Positions available for upcoming play

Interested in working on the Roister Doisters' production of "Flowers for Algernon?" The show will be produced at Bowker Auditorium, Stockbridge Hall, at 8 p.m., on Feb. 11 to 13 and also on Feb. 18 to 19.

Positions available on the following crews (as of Tuesday): box office, costume, lights, properties and stage. Experience is not necessary; we will train you. If you are interested in being on one of these crews and did not attend last night's meeting, please contact: Karl Allen at 253-9722 or Bridget Feeley at 549-2805.

Irwin Silber to give talk on Puerto Rico

Irwin Silber, executive editor of the Guardian newspaper and national board member of the Puerto Rican Solidarity Committee, will speak tomorrow on "Puerto Rico and International Solidarity" in Campus Center rooms 904-908 at 2 p.m. All are invited to find out about the role of the United States in Puerto Rico and how solidarity with the independent struggle there can be built inside the United States.

Gay Alliance meets for its first meeting

The People's Gay Alliance will hold its first meeting of the semester tonight at 8 in Campus Center room 904.

State Rep. Collins speaks at University

State Rep. James G. Collins, D-Amherst, will speak to the College Democrats of UMass tonight at 7:30 in Campus Center room 803. All are welcome. For information call 6-8863.

V.A. reminder of tax return benefits

As the nation's taxpayers ponder the new federal income tax returns, the Veterans Administration reminds recipients of veterans benefits that these payments generally are exempt from taxation.

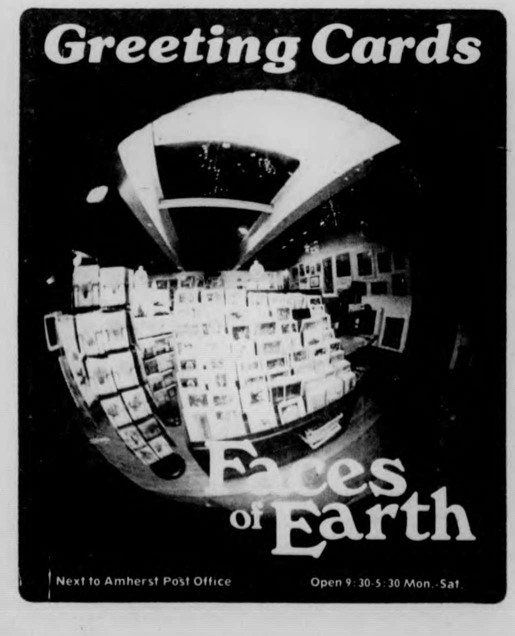
Major tax-exempt VA benefits are compensation, pension and educational assistance. The latter includes subsistence payments to vocational rehabilitation trainees. These monthly payments need not be reported on Federal income tax returns.

Also exempt are VA grants to military service-disabled veterans for specially adapted homes and automobiles and clothing allowances paid to service-disabled veterans whose usage of prosthetic or orthopedic appliances result in undue wear and tear on clothing.

Dividends and proceeds from government life insurance policies are exempt from Federal income tax, but the proceeds are subject o Federal estate tax.

Interest accrued on government life insurance dividends left on deposit or credit with the VA is not exempt and must be reported on federal income tax returns.

Greeting Cards



Next to Amherst Post Office Open 9:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat

Martini & Rossi
92.6 PROOF GIN HALF GALLON
Why pay $17.49? 10.99

Martini & Rossi
VODKA
HALF GALLON 90.4 Proof WHY PAY $17.49 10.99

d'amour's BIG Y
WINES & LIQUORS AT LOW PRICES!
3 convenient locations ... all next to BIG 'Y'
• HAMP PLAZA
• FAIRVIEW
• BRECKWOOD

INCREDIBLE LOW PRICES AT YOUR BIG 'Y' LIQUORS!
COME SEE OUR LOW PRICES... COME SEE OUR QUALITY!!

Martini & Rossi ASTI-SPUMANTE 4.99
26oz Btl. WHY PAY $6.25?

WINDSOR Canadian 80 Proof HALF GALLON WHY PAY $13.49? 9.69

MICHELOB BEER 24 12 oz. non return bottles
WHY PAY $8.99? 6.59

Half Gallon CUTTY SARK SCOTCH 86 Proof 14.39 WHY PAY $18.49?

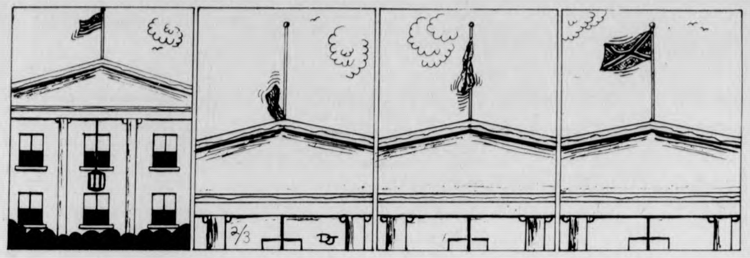
Heineken's Light & Dark BEER 6-PACK 2.99 WHY PAY $3.99?

FLEISCHMANN'S Preferred Whiskey HALF GALLON 90 PROOF 9.49 WHY PAY $12.59?

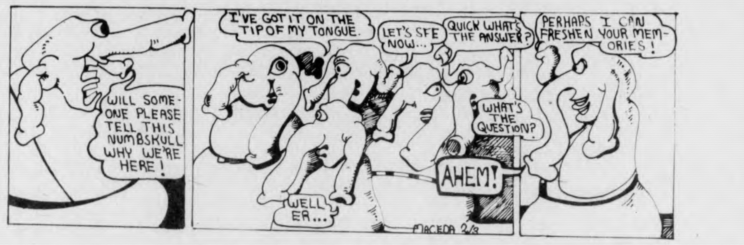
D'AMOUR Flavored BRANDIES 70 Proof...QUART 4.99 Why pay $6.29?

DRAGONE Lambrusco SOFT RED WINE WHY PAY $1.99? 1.39 24oz Bot.

What Next? by Dick Janssen

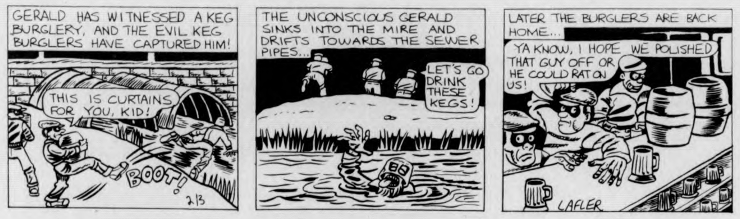


U.Mutations by Marty Maceda



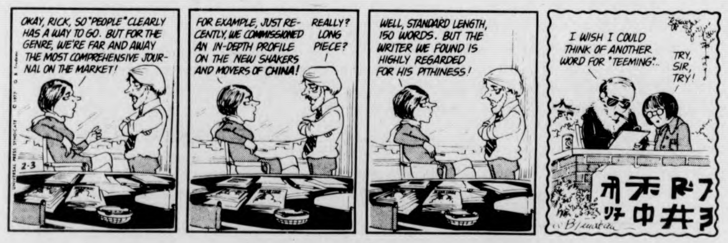
WILL SOMEONE PLEASE TELL THIS NUMBSKULL WHY WE'RE HERE!
I'VE GOT IT ON THE TIP OF MY TONGUE.
LET'S SEE NOW...
QUICK WHAT'S THE ANSWER?
WHAT'S THE QUESTION?
WELL ER...
AHEM!
PERHAPS I CAN FRESHEN YOUR MEMORIES!
MACEDA 2/3

Aluminum Ghost by Steve Lafler



GERALD HAS WITNESSED A KEG BURGLERY, AND THE EVIL KEG BURGLERS HAVE CAPTURED HIM!
THIS IS CURTAINS FOR YOU, KID!
BOOT!
2/3
THE UNCONSCIOUS GERALD SINKS INTO THE MIRE AND DRIFTS TOWARDS THE SEWER PIPES...
LET'S GO DRINK THESE KEGS!
LATER THE BURGLERS ARE BACK HOME...
YA KNOW, I HOPE WE POLISHED THAT GUY OFF OR HE COULD RAT ON US!
LAFLER

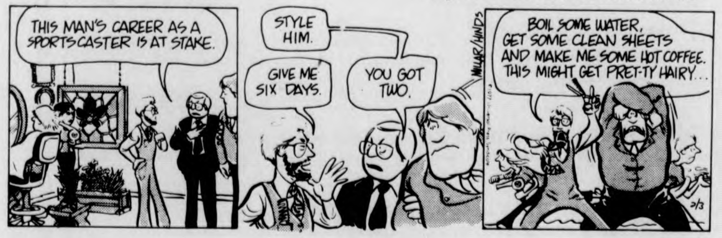
Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau



OKAY, RICK, SO "PEOPLE" CLEARLY HAS A WAY TO GO. BUT FOR THE GENRE, WE'RE FAR AND AWAY THE MOST COMPREHENSIVE JOURNAL ON THE MARKET!
FOR EXAMPLE, JUST RECENTLY, WE COMMISSIONED AN IN-DEPTH PROFILE ON THE NEW SHAKERS AND MOVERS OF CHINA!
REALLY? LONG PIECE?
WELL, STANDARD LENGTH, 150 WORDS. BUT THE WRITER WE FOUND IS HIGHLY REGARDED FOR HIS PITHINESS!
I WISH I COULD THINK OF ANOTHER WORD FOR "TEEMING"...
TRY, SIR, TRY!
2-3

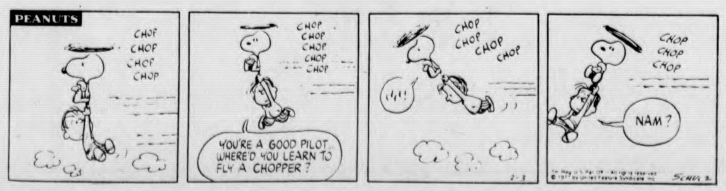
TANK McNAMARA

by Jeff Millar & Bill Hinds



THIS MAN'S CAREER AS A SPORTSCASTER IS AT STAKE.
STYLE HIM.
GIVE ME SIX DAYS.
YOU GOT TWO.
MILLAR/HINDS
BOIL SOME WATER, GET SOME CLEAN SHEETS AND MAKE ME SOME HOT COFFEE. THIS MIGHT GET PRET-TY HAIRY...
2/3

Peanuts by Charles M. Schulz



Local Television

8:00 3 THE WALTONS
8 40 WELCOME BACK, KOTTER
22 30 THE FANTASTIC JOURNEY "Vortex"
24 CONNECTICUT HERITAGE
27 MOVIE "The Deep Six"
56 MOVIE "The Thomas Crown Affair"
57 MASTERPIECE THEATRE
8:30 8 40 WHAT'S HAPPENING
24 THE FOURTH ESTATE
9:00 3 TEN WHO DARED "Alexander Von Humboldt"
8 40 BARNEY MILLER "The Abduction"
18 POP GOES THE COUNTRY
24 57 VISIONS "El Corrido"
9:30 8 40 THE TONY RANDALL SHOW "Case: Democracy vs. Tyranny"
18 THE PTL CLUB
22 30 NBC MOVIE OF THE WEEK "Yesterday's Child"
10:00 3 BARNABY JONES
8 40 THE STREETS OF SAN FRANCISCO
27 NEWS
56 LOVE AMERICAN STYLE
10:15 38 MOVIE "Blue Print For Murder"
10:30 24 CONNECTICUT PROFILES
27 THE ELDER AMERICAN
57 JEANNE WOLF WITH ... NORMAN LEAR
11:00 3 8 22 24 30 40 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS
27 MOVIE "Colossus Of Rhodes"
56 DARK SHADOWS
57 MARY HARTMAN, MARY HARTMAN
11:30 3 CBS LATE MOVIE "Kojak: Down A Long And Lonely River"

Your Birthday

by Stella Wilder

Thursday, February 3 — Born today, you are one of those highly independent individuals who has more difficulty relinquishing liberty than anything else that may be required of one in daily life. You are a meticulous person, one who loves order, tranquility, progression, and logic. Neat in appearance, you women born on this day may echo within the tidiness without. You men, on the other hand, may appear at times disorderly in dress and conduct, and at the same time be in a somewhat chaotic state within -- in spite of a love of order and peace. The important thing to remember in attempting to "read" the character of one born on this day is that the love of peace and quiet does not necessarily carry with it the ability to achieve peace and quiet.

Your demanding nature may make it difficult for others to live with you peaceably. The very exactness you expect of others may make it impossible for your domestic life to be tranquil; thus through your own expectations, you may cause the downfall of your own family situation. If you are careful about the rights of others, if you are tolerant of other people's idiosyncracies -- as you would insist they be of yours -- then you may be able to carry good relations on for years; otherwise, you can consider all relationships to be of a purely temporary nature.

You have a tendency to cry on other people's shoulders --without, however, extending to them the privilege of crying on yours.

* * *

Friday, February 4

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Sentimentality may be a very dangerous thing today. It will be easy to be either too emotionally upset or overly unresponsive.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — If you are enterprising as well as ambitious, you should be able to attain long-standing goals before day's end.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Practicality is the difference between success and failure. Your ability at organization gains you a new friend today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Ask for help from a relative or close friend and you will get it -- if you are both tactful and enthusiastic about your project.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — A visit from a stranger may prove gainful in the long run. Attain an early success through your own efforts, however.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — A bit of dash, a lot of verve: these make the day one of interest and excitement. Direct your attention toward new goals at evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Property settlements disturb your peace of mind this morning. Afternoon hours bring a new sense of tranquility.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Your plans should meet with approval from higher ups today. Make your points with enthusiasm; otherwise they may fall flat.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Your sympathetic nature makes it easy for you to understand another's problems. However, don't allow yourself to be taken advantage of.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — A sarcastic reply to a serious question may cause you to lose a friend -- or to come very close to it. Remain calm throughout the day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — A doubtful association with one of dubious reputation leads to difficulty in making up your mind today. Reassess the situation.

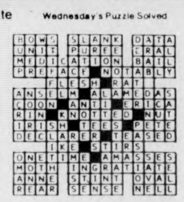
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — An unappreciative audience this morning should not keep you from doing your best this afternoon. Evening hours bring new joy.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc

Today's Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Wednesday's Puzzle Solved



ACROSS
1 Expend carelessly
6 ----- Peter Saint Peter
11 Frightful old woman
14 Role player
15 Type size
16 Turning point
17 Or ----- Approximately
19 Be under the weather
20 Three-masted schooner
21 Crossword puzzle unit
22 Sparing words
24 Out on ----
26 Lists of candidates
27 The "F" of "T.G.I.F."
30 Hold together firmly
32 Mervyn ----- Movie VIP
33 Took pleasure in 34 Small lump
37 Son of Seth
38 Sulked
39 Italian coin
40 Achieved by effort
41 Less in diameter
42 Burn the ends of
43 Proved lacking
45 Songbird
46 Expressed approval
48 Respiratory organ
49 Hebrew law giver
50 Disable
52 Commune near Padua
56 Adjective suffix
57 Carried
60 Dined
61 Of the ear
62 Literary work
63 Blood-like
64 Strike
65 ----- Range Idaho mountains

DOWN
1 Utility company's unit
2 Feel sympathy
3 Ending with young or old
4 Wind storms
5 Before
6 Wooden shoe
7 Russian name
8 Fabric
9 Giant immortal
10 Cuddled
11 Giving courage to 12 Get ----- out of 13 Destructive winds
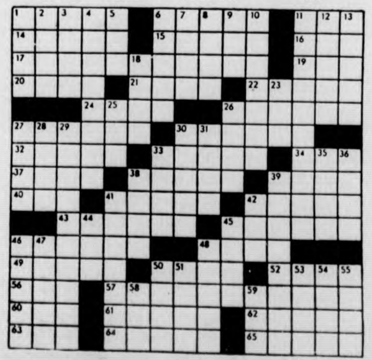
18 Farthest from the hole
23 Attention
25 Kind of window
26 Radiate
27 Hastened
28 Controversial Custer aide
29 Stingy
30 Contended
31 Completely finished
33 Solitary
35 Impel
36 Boxer Max ----
38 Moderate in degree
39 Women's garments
41 Celebrations
42 Offense
44 Malt liquor
45 Cesspool
46 Blot
47 ---- Carlo
48 Thread
50 Sea Prefix
51 Univ subj
53 Editor's word
54 Indian of Mexico
55 Paradise
58 Sugar product
59 Optical Abbr



UMass sports scoop

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

MEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL — UMass 85 Boston College 69
MEN'S JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL — UMass 90 Westover AFB 54
VARSITY HOCKEY — North Adams 7 UMass 1
MEN'S VARSITY SWIMMING — Tufts 64 UMass 49

TODAY

WOMEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL — vs. Springfield Away 8:00
WOMEN'S JUNIOR VARSSITY BASKETBALL — vs. Springfield Away 6:00

TOMORROW

VARSITY HOCKEY — vs. Merrimack Home 8:00

Merwomen shine; two quad winners

By JIM GLEASON
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's swim team decisively defeated Bridgewater State Tuesday night in an away meet, 85-37.

UMass coach Eve Atkinson said it was an "excellent team effort" and was very satisfied with the performance. In the 14 events, UMass captured first place in 12.

The team boasted two quad winners, Deb Schwartz and Theresa Totin, and two double winners, Rachel Mack and Lise Hembrough.

Schwartz won the 100-yard individual medley in 1:07.5, the 50-yard breast stroke in 35.2, and the 100-yard butterfly in 1:05.8. Schwartz, along with Totin, Mack, and Mary Ellen Butler, made a time of 4:28.0 in the 400-yard medley relay which qualifies them for the Easterns to be held at the U. of Delaware on March 4-5.

Totin further helped the team by winning the 50-yard butterfly in 29.2, the 200 yard backstroke in 2:28.0, and the 200 yard breast stroke. Her time, 2:41.2 for the breast stroke, met the Eastern Time Standard which also qualifies her for the Easterns.

Atkinson was especially pleased that the adverse conditions at Bridgewater did not deter the swimmers. She said that the air temperature was 17 degrees colder than the minimum allowed, a high chlorine content, and only one timer (instead of the regulated three) per lane.

Mack, besides being a part of the winning 400-yard relay, posted a fine time of 33.0 which won the 50-yard backstroke.

The other double winner, Hembrough, picked up first place in the 100-yard freestyle and the 400-yard freestyle with times of 1:00.5 and 4:11.0, respectively.

Single winners included Butler in the 400-yard medley relay; and Alix Denhartog, Lynn Lutz, and Roxanne Balducci for their part in the 400-yard freestyle relay which they won in a time of 4:11.0.

Suzy Strobel was a single winner in the one-meter diving competition with a score of 172.55 points.

The win raised the swimmer's record to 5-4 with their next meet at So. Connecticut on Saturday at 2:00. It will be a real "challenging meet," according to Atkinson.

★ Mohawks win

CONT. FROM PAGE 16

scoring with a goal at 15:40.

BLUELINE BANTER: Things do not look too promising for the Minutemen this weekend as they face Merrimack on Friday and Division I Vermont on Saturday in back-to-back home contests. "We'll just have to take one game at a time," said Canniff ... The Minutemen will be trying to break a jinx of a sort on Saturday. Last season they were 0-5 against Division I teams.

North Adams State 7 UMass 1

First Period — NO scoring.

Second Period — NA; Sheehan (Donahue, Rand), 11:13. 2. NA; McDonald (Zanetti, Monahan), 12:43. 3. NA; Haegel, (Rand, Zanetti), 14:29. 4. UM; Bill White, (Bob White, Flagg), 7:31.

Third Period — 5, NA; Zanett, (unassisted), 7:05. 6. Sheehan, (Rand), 7:18, 7. NA; Sheehan, (Rand, Haegle), 7:52. 8. NA; Sheldon, (Kelley, Donahue), 15:40.

Shots on goal — UMass 15-7-17-39. North Adams 12-15-11-38

Goalies. UMass-Redmond. North Adams-Mastrioanni.

ENGINEERING & COMPUTER STUDENTS
AIR FORCE VS. CIVILIAN PAY

A RECENT REPORT OF THE U.S. SENATE APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE PEGS THE TOTAL COMPENSATION OF THE NEW OFFICER AT $13,600 ANNUALLY TO START WHEN PAY AND BENEFITS ARE CALCULATED. THAT FIGURE SURGES TO $24,100 IN 4 SHORT YEARS.

COMPARE:
- AIR FORCE VS. CIVILIAN PAY

CHECK OUT:
- EXCELLENT ON-CAMPUS SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM
- MASTER'S DEGREES AT AIR FORCE EXPENSE
- $100.00 A MONTH SUBSISTENCE ALLOWANCE

CONTACT
MAJOR RICHARDSON 5-2437

★ Minutemen take control

CONT. FROM PAGE 16

jumper on a fast-break while scoring four points.

"Our reserves kept their poise and did a lot of little things for us while they were in there. I hope it keeps up against West Virginia and Pittsburgh this weekend," Leaman said.

UMass (85) — Johnson 1-3-5, Claiborne 2-8-12, Morrison 2-0-4, Eldridge 3-2-8, Pyatt 5-3-13, Dennerlein 2-0-4, Maguire 1-0-2, Town 9-4-22, Donoghue 6-0-12, Kuhlhaas 1-1-3. Totals: 32-21-85

BC (69) — O'Brien 0-0-0, Jurgens 0-0-0, Cobb 3-4-10, Bowie 0-0-0, Lunday 0-0-0, Benton 1-0-2, Meggers 2-0-4, Roth 6-3-15, Sweeney, 2-0-4, Kuhn 8-2-18, Bennefield 7-0-14, Shirley 1-0-2, Totals: 30-9-69.

Getting To The Point

Magnetic Cartridges

	List	Low Price	Stylii	List	Low Price
Pickering
P—AC	$17.95	$9.70	PDO7C	$14.00	$9.00
SE-1	49.50	20.00	D AT 2	17.50	10.00
XV-15-200E	49.95	25.00	D ATE 4	20.00	14.00
XV-15-400E	54.95	29.00	D SE-1	21.00	14.00
XV-15-625E	64.95	40.00	D IV ATE	30.00	20.00
Shure Bros.			D 625 E	34.95	24.00
M75EJ	49.95	19.00	N75EC	16.00	14.00
M91ED	59.95	22.00	N91ED	27.05	19.00
V15 Type III	85.00	72.00	VN35 Type III		31.00
Grado Labs
FCR+	25.00	8.00	FCR—S	14.50	7.00
F3+	49.50	18.00	F3—S	25.50	12.00
Micro Acoustics
2002-E	115.00	81.00	R2002-E	42.50	34.00
Empire Scientific
4000—D1	85.00	39.00	D4000	40.00	28.00

Systems for the Week

JVC JR-S600 AM-FM "JUMBO" Receiver
110 Watts per channel RMS into 8 ohms from 20HZ-20KHZ at less than 0.1% THD-Phono overload 250 mv (RMS) 1.7 UV FM sensitivity - FM noise reduction system plus 5-Band Graphic (Sea) Equalizer.
Sugg. Retail $750.

EPI 200 Passive Radiator Loudspeaker System
1" EPI Air Spring Tweeter for excellent Highs 8" Long Throw Woofer Coupled to a massive 12 inch Passive Radiator that produces low frequencies with astonishing accuracy and gusto.
Sugg. Retail $450. pr

Thorens TD 145 C Semi-Automatic Turntable
Especially rugged synchronous motor drive system is coupled to the massive non-ferrous platter via belt to better isolate the tone arm from acoustic feedback standing waves and motor rumble. Super sophisticated Thorens built arm lists at end of disc. Fitted with an Empire 4000 D/1 Cartridge.
Sugg. Retail $385

Total System List $1585
Low Price $1080.00 delivered

JVC JR-S100 AM FM Stereo Receiver
20 watts RMS per channel into 8 ohms at no more than 0.8% THD. 2.2 uv FM sensitivity FVR great performance.
Sugg. Retail $200

EPI Model 100V "Linear Sound" Bookshelf Speaker System
8 inch long throw woofer for deep tight bass and the famous "air spring tweeter" for incredible realism.
Sugg. List $200

Philips GA 427 Belt Drive Semi-Automatic Turntable
Complete with walnut base, dust cover and Empire 4000 D/1 cartridge
List $185

Total System List $605.
Low Price $449. delivered

Home of the Widget 5000 Hornblaster

586-2552 TECH 549-2610

We fix anything we sell in our own service department.

259 Triangle Street - Amherst
OPEN TIL 9, Sat. TIL 5

your BANKAMERICARD welcome

JV hoop bombs Westover

By RICH ECKEL
Collegian Staff

The UMass JV basketball team scored 25 unanswered points within a 12:58 span in the second half last night and went on to post a convincing 90-54 victory over Westover Air Force Base at the Cage.

The game, which started 25 minutes late due to Westover's transportation problems, had a strikingly different look from the last meeting between the two clubs.

In its first game of the season, UMass drubbed an undermanned Westover squad 109-35 as the visiting team dressed only seven players. The situation was reversed last night, however, as the Minutemen journeyed onto the court with just seven players and it appeared the tables had now been turned.

After his team's drubbing, Westover coach Mike McNichols promised a better showing and for a while last night his promise looked good.

With eight minutes remaining in the first half, the score was knotted at 22, but from that point on the Minutemen took command. Three quick hoops from guard Willie Morgan and forwards Tom McDonough and Irv McKnight propelled the Minutemen into a six point lead — an advantage which they would never squander.

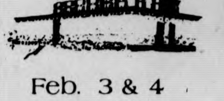
"We started off slow tonight," said UMass coach Ray Ricketts. "It was tought to get the squad up after the 25 minute delay. We weren't even sure they were going to show up."

The tempo of the game picked up late in the first half as the Minutemen began to assert themselves. UMass ended the half by running in 11 straight points and entered the locker room with a 52-36 lead.

A balanced scoring attack and some stubborn defense (Westover shot 36 per cent) led to a lopsided second half which saw the Minutemen outscore their opponents 38-18.

Six Minutemen tallied double figures with forward Wayne Malcolm leading the attack on eight for 15 shooting and 18 points. Opposite forward Andre Fruneaux countered with 13 pts., and center McKnight added 17 for the front court trio.

The backcourt of Willie Morgan and Bob Berman added 26 points.



RAHAR'S
FOOD DRINK LODGING

Feb. 3 & 4
BOB & DEBBIE EATON
9-1 a.m.

OPEN
11-1 DAILY — 12-1 SUNDAY

7 Old South St., Northampton
Across from Peter Pan Bus Terminal

Spirit Liquor Store Haus

Open Daily till 11 p.m.
Amherst Largest Full Service Liquor Store

THIS WEEK'S SPECIALS

Falstaff 12 oz. cans $5.25 a case
Tuborg Gold 12 oz. cans $5.69 a case
Riunite Lambrusco & Bianco $2.29 5th
Early Times Bourbon $5.99 a qt.
Inglenook Magnum Wines $3.69 2 5 of a gallon
KORBEL California Wines Pinot Noir & Caberne Saulignon Reg. $3.99 Sale Price $2.89 5th
KEGS
Imported Beer of the Week Hofbrau $3.75 six pack

Large assortment of kegs.
We have over 90 brands of imported beer
(Mix your own variety six pack)
338 College St. Rt. 9 Amherst 253-5384
Not responsible for typographical errors.

MIKE'S
WESTVIEW

Appearing Friday nite
February 4

The Bill Carson Show

Authentic Irish folksinger
right from the old sod!

UMass-Springfield: Something special

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's basketball team may play bigger opponents, better opponents, and more talented opponents; but no opponent is more bitter a rival than Springfield College.

And the Minutewomen will have a chance to vent their animosity toward their arch enemy tonight in an 8:00 game at the Springfield College Fieldhouse.

UMass and Springfield have been at each other's throats in the world of women's sports for a number of years. Part of it is due to the fact that the two schools are so geographically close, but there is another, more fundamental reason: Springfield's reputation.

Perhaps Minutewoman Nancy O'Neil put it best.

"We have always been incredible rivals with Springfield," she said. "They have the reputation of being THE phys ed school in the East."

However, that distinction is fast losing its gloss due to the emergence of the UMass phys ed and athletic programs. But people still see the name Chiefs and think of athletic superiority, so naturally UMass has to knock off Springfield to assert itself in the eyes of traditionalists.

Last year, the Minutewomen did just that. They defeated the Chiefs, 62-55, for their first win ever over Springfield. But that game, unlike tonight's, was played in Curry Hicks Cage.

Anyway, this season the Chiefs are off to a fast start. Their record stands at 4-1, and the lone loss was to Providence. Included among their wins are decisions over Northeastern, Central Connecticut, and UConn.

Springfield's leading scorer is junior forward Mary Regan, who hits at a 15.6 points per game average. Her frontcourt mate, sophomore Laurie Smith, is next at an even 14 points per outing.

Freshman guard Laurie Clark and senior backcourter Sherry Sanborn round out the list of Springfield double-digit scorers. They pop in 13.7 and 10.1 points a game, respectively.

But the Harvey Shapiro-coached Chiefs have a definite height problem. Their tallest players are Smith and center Wendy Anderson, who stand 5'10". For once, UMass will be looking down instead of up.

The pivot position is another Springfield sore spot. According to a Chiefs player, neither Anderson nor Diane Wood and Cindy Lapointe, the other two centers, are dominating performers. As a result, Shapiro starts any one of the three on a given night.

The 8-2 Minutewomen, meanwhile, are shooting for their seventh straight win, which would tie a team record for most consecutive victories.

UMass is also entering the meat of its schedule. After tonight, the Minutewomen must play Brown on Saturday, Bridgewater State on Tuesday, Brooklyn College next Thursday, and Fitchburg State next Saturday. Talk about a hectic week.

Also Springfield is Springfield, and whenever UMass plays the Chiefs, anything is liable to happen. So throw the records out, and just sit back and expect one humdinger of a game.

JV hoopwomen seek third; on the road to face Chiefs

By MEL WEBSTER
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's junior varsity basketball team will be seeking its third straight victory without a loss when it takes on the Springfield College JV's tonight at Springfield.

The junior Minutewomen won their second straight, 48-40, over the Northeastern JV's at Boston Tuesday night. The game was sloppily played, due to a 45-day layoff since UMass' last game.

"We maintained our poise against a tight Northeastern press," coach Pam Rietschel said. This poise, coupled with 20 points from Beth O'Connell, led the Minutewomen to victory. The remainder of the scoring was balanced among eight players.

The Minutewomen held a six point lead at the half, 24-18, containing the Northeastern running offense. The Huskies tied the game early in the second half, and the game remained close until the seven-minute mark when Mass pulled away for the win.

Coach Rietschel said that Pat Decaire controlled the ball well in the final minutes. She added that the layoff hurt the team, but that the defense and passing improved in the second half.

Performing Arts Division
Dept. of Music and Dance
University of Mass.—Amherst
in association with the Division of Continuing Education

Registration for Spring Semester: Jan. 31 through Feb. 4, 1977 in Old Chapel room 13, afternoons from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m.

Private instruction in voice, piano and most orchestral instruments. Fees: $7, $6, and $5 per ½ hr. lesson.

Quad instruction in piano and voice. Fees: $4 per hour lesson.

Class instruction in music theory, sight-singing, composition, piano, flute, voice, ballet and modern dance. Fees: $26, $32.50 and $36 for 13 one hour classes.

Ensembles: Woodwind Quintet and saxaphone quartet. Fees: $50 and $62. Accompanist $6 per half hour.

Registration fee: $5.00 per semester for private lessons, quads and ensembles.

Contact: Performing Arts Division, Dept. of Music and Dance. UMass—Amherst (413)545-0337.

Sports

Minutemen dissect screaming Eagles

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

Maybe it was because of the estimated 4,000 fans who jammed Curry Hicks Cage last night and took out their frustrations on rival Boston College. Perhaps credit the convincing blowout to the total cohesion of the team during the pre-game introductions. Some might even point to the enthusiastic reactions of Alex Eldridge and Derick Claiborne, on and off the court.

But what will probably stick out in many people's mind about last night's 85-69 UMass basketball win will be the technical foul called on Eagles' coach Bob Zuffelato which ultimately had a lot to do in causing Boston College's defeat.

With 10:37 left in the game and Boston College training, 55-47, referee Malaise called a traveling violence on UMass guard Brad Johnson. Referee McIntyre overruled Malaise and called a blocking foul on BC guard Mike Shirey.

Zuffelato, who will be retiring at the end of the season, jumped off the bench and virtually exploded at McIntyre. McIntyre let Zuffelato converse with him for an estimated four seconds before he called a technical foul on the Eagles coach.

Johnson hit both foul shots and was followed to the free throw line by Claiborne, who likewise sank both technical foul shots. Following the free throws, UMass was awarded the ball at half court and proceeded to work a set-up offensive play to Johnson who calmly swished a jumper.

UMass opened up the lead to 61-47 and was never headed afterwards.

"That call was an abortion call," said a dejected Zuffelato. "It was a bush call which took us completely out of the game after we fought back to come within eight points."

Zuffelato said that referee McIntyre was out of position to make the call and felt that Johnson had originally traveled with the ball before the foul was called.

Johnson felt the foul was justified because of the contact made while he was attempting to drive on BC guard Shirey.

"It was definitely a blocking foul," said Johnson. "I started to drive and Shirey tripped me."

BC guard Shirey was unavailable for comment.

The technical foul, although a major reason for the UMass win, should not overshadow the excellent performance turned in by UMass forward Jim Town and guards Eldridge and Claiborne on their defensive work on BC's highly-touted guard, Ernie Cobb.

Town, who is leading the now 10-6 Minutemen in rebounds and points, continued to dominate the team with a first half 7-11 shooting display. The 6-7 senior, hitting mostly outside jumpers, grabbed nine rebounds in the first half. He finished the game with 22 points, grabbed a team-leading 12 rebounds, and blocked three shots.

"Everything just came together for me tonight," said Town. "My timing and rhythm went so smoothly and everything seemed to go in for me tonight.

Eldridge and Claiborne, delighting the crowd in a mixture of fast break basketball, slick passing, and comments to the referees, also shut off Eagle guards John O'Brien, Cobb, and Jim Sweeney, allowing them a game total of 14 points.

Cobb, a previous 18 ppg shooter, was granted only 10 points, with four of them coming after the game was no longer in doubt. Meanwhile, Eldridge and Claiborne clicked for eight and 12 points respectively while grabbing a total of seven rebounds and handing out seven assists.

"The key to shutting off Cobb was our maintaining our poise and balance on him. He likes to fake and spin. But Derick and I forced him to take some off-balance shots and he just had a cold night," said Eldridge.

Although UMass had a half time lead of 40-27, all was not rosy for the Minutemen. During the first half, UMass was continuously beaten on the offensive boards, causing BC to sometimes have three or four chances at scoring. Only a woeful 13-42, 30 per cent shooting average by the Eagle team prevented BC from being much closer to the Minutemen. BC outrebounded UMass in the first half, 27-24.

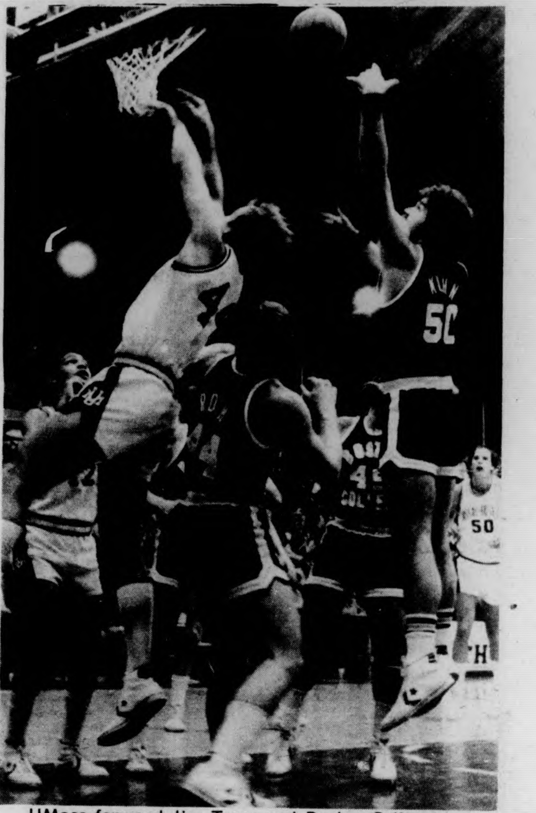
"Our rebounding was just terrible during the first half," said UMass center Mark Donoghue, who scored 12 points and grabbed a game total of six rebounds.

The Eagles outrebounded UMass the entire game, 55-49, but the game was won in the shooting percentages. For the game UMass shot 49 percent while B.C. shot 34 per cent. From the free throw line, UMass converted 72 per cent while the Eagles connected on 56 per cent of its tosses.

"The lead and the game was never in doubt," said UMass coach Jack Leaman. We were a little bit too hot-doggish at times and we should have converted more of our fast-break opportunities but I was generally pleased with the victory."

Leaman said he was especially happy with the play of the reserves, namely Bill Morrison, Chuck Steveskey, and Brad Johnson. Morrison brought the crowd to its feet with a rejection of an Eagle

TURN TO PAGE 14



UMass forward Jim Town and Boston College forward Rick Kuhn fight for a rebound during last night's Minutemen win. (Staff photo by Dale Griswold).

Puckmen ambushed by North Adams six

By FRAN SYPEK
Collegian Staff

The UMass hockey team picked an inopportune time to come up with a subpar performance, as North Adams State bombed the puckmen, 7-1, in a game played last night at Orr Rink.

Jack Sheehan paced the visitors with a three - goal - hat - trick. The other North Adams goals were scored by Jerry McDonald, Eric Haegele, Bob Zanetti and Mark Sheldon. Billy White had the lone UMass tally.

"When you can't produce more than one goal on your own home ice, you don't deserve to win the game," said UMass coach Jack Canniff. "We missed our opportunities to get on the scoreboard and that itself makes a big difference in the game."

The Minutemen actually outplayed North Adams in the first period, but neither team could muster a goal. Nick Carney, Brian Sullivan and Frank Pycko all had chances, but goalie Gary Mastrioanni stopped their point-blank shots.

Sheehan opened the scoring with a power play goal at 11:13 of the second period. Just over a minute later, McDonald fired a shot past a screened Dana Redmond. Haegele put the visitors put the visitors up by three with a goal at 14:29.

"When you give a team like that a couple of goals and don't score any yourself, then they begin to believe that they can beat you," noted assistant coach Russ Kidd.

UMass got on the board at 7:31 of the second stanza when Billy White scored a shorthanded goal. White took Lincoln Flagg's clearing pass and skated up ice on a two-on-one break with his brother Bobby, who gave the puck right back to him to complete the scoring play.

But then the roof caved in during the third period when North Adams scored three goals in a span of 47 seconds. Bob Zanetti put a 25-foot slap shot past Redmond for an unassisted goal at 7:05. Thirteen seconds later on a face off in the UMass end, Dave Rand got the draw back to Sheehan, who rifled a shot into the goal. If that wasn't enough, Sheehan added another one at 7:52 to complete his hat trick.

Doug Janik replaced Redmond in goal after that offensive outburst.

"We really fell apart at that point," said Canniff. "There was no sense in leaving Dana in there. We weren't playing well in front of him."

Mark Sheldon finished the

TURN TO PAGE 14

Bill Edelstein

Shoveling off to Buffalo

For the past two months, numbing blasts of freezing air have been plaguing the midwestern, southern and eastern parts of America and the left temporal lobe of my cranium. Sure, we've read about the cold spell; its effects and its magnitude, but no one has yet come up with a satisfactory explanation for the chilly state of affairs.

With reporters' blood running through my veins (and congressional sub-committees' blood just a step behind rushing up my arteries), I was finally overcome by the urge to find out the truth.

Why, indeed, is this weather lingering in the United States? How did it get here? Can I take the Sunderland bus to North Amherst and still make it back for an eight o'clock lab?

With these questions in mind, I forced on ten pairs of thermals, nine smelly sweatsocks and eight maids-a-milking, and set out for upstate New York and a comfortable little glacier named Buffalo.

After about a mile and a half, I walked past a stalled car. A man and woman sat motionless in the front seat. Affixed to the auto's tail-end was a bumper sticker which eulogized "We visited the Polar Caves". A hundred feet from this grim sight there was a dog frozen to a fire hydrant.

Quickening my pace, I followed a short-cut which pointed me due west. Coming upon a quaint farmhouse, I peered inside and saw six young children playing ice hockey in the kitchen. They were using the stove as the goal and a petrified parakeet as the puck.

Two miles later I felt the cold starting to get to me. My nose, which had been dripping since I stepped outside, had stopped. It was frozen solid. I dropped my jaw to breathe and found my tongue stuck to the roof of my mouth. Even my uvula was not responding to practice uves.

With nary a minute to spare, a beat-up snowmobile came limping down route 202. Frantically, I waved my arms and chattered my teeth. The snowmobile pulled over and what looked like a moron got out.

"Going to Buffalo?" I asked.

"Sure, hop in," came the reply. "But there's not much room in here; you may have to ditch those maids-a-milking."

Not wanting to abandon anyone under such dire circumstances, I left the maids under the supervision of the nine smelly sweatsocks. As we pulled away, I had to fight back tears at the sight of the maids-a-milking and the smelly sweatsocks forlornly standing by the roadside. A scant day and a half later we hit Buffalo.

The huge bisons snorted in pain and ran to bury their heads in the nearest snowbank. Up ahead a sign read, "Welcome to our disaster area."

I wanted to do a little sightseeing, but the beasts were beginning to take their skulls out of the snow. Ducking into the first building above the ice, I barely managed to bolt the door as the herd thundered past.

I noticed the intense cold immediately, and suddenly realized that in this edifice was the source of the rash of frigid weather which was immobilizing our nation. Stumbling past a row of lockers, I ran down a narrow corridor. At the end of this passageway was a door marked simply, "Janitor". The sounds of an overtaxed motor and a wrench striking metal were coming from behind the barrier. I forced open the door and flurry of snow blew out at me.

A little man dragged himself out from underneath a huge wheeled vehicle. "Hi there!" he screamed above the noise. "Ya bring my cheese danish and black coffee?"

I stared for a moment, in disbelief. "That's a zamboni," I said.

"Three-fifteen!" cried the little man. "Though I must confess, it stopped running last Friday."

This time I yelled, "That's an ice-making machine!"

"Sure is."

"Well, why is it making all that ice?"

"I dunno," came the reply. "Been that way since it saw pictures of the Martian polar icecap. I think it's in heat.

Below The Salt

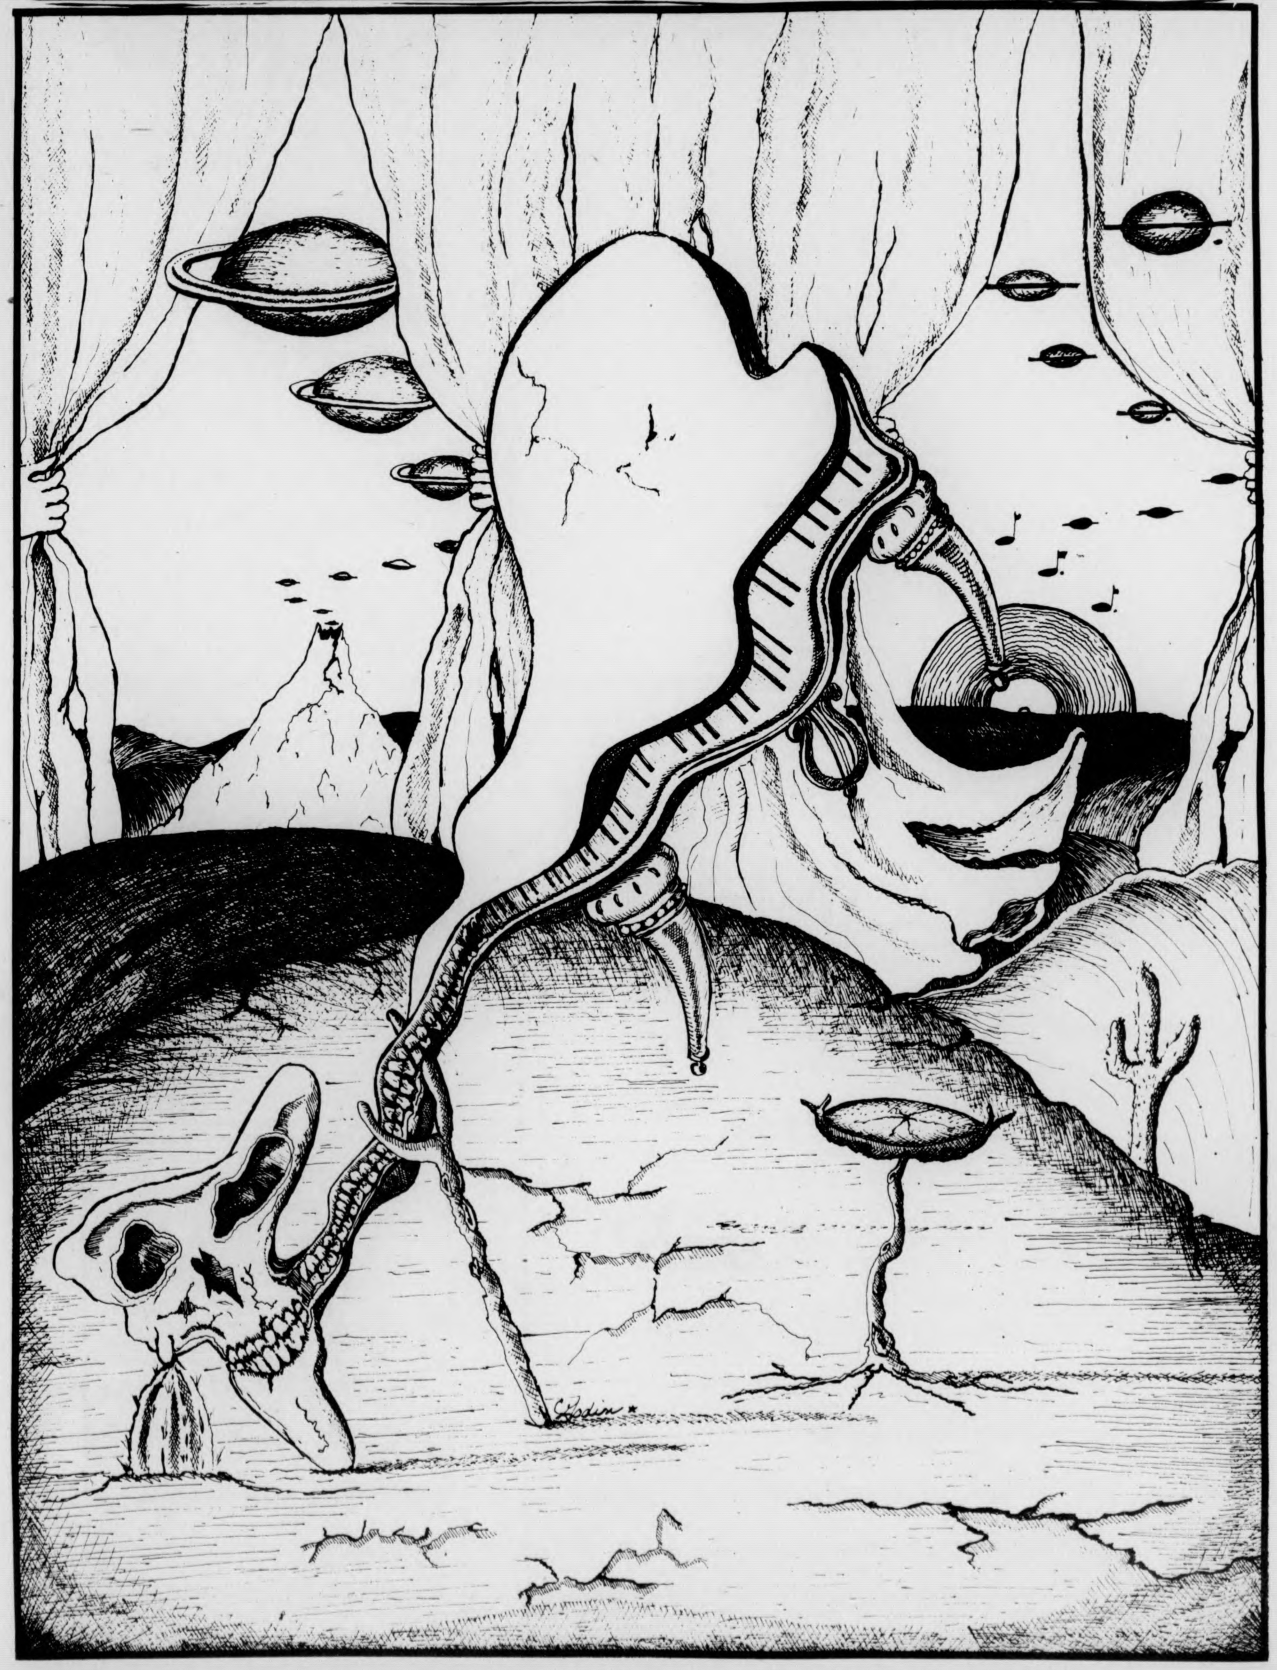
weekly fine arts magazine

supplement to the Collegian

Vol V

Issue 2

Surrealistic Sounds



Poetry

FROZEN SOULS

Frozen souls embark upon a wintry voyage called "prison within."
They sail stoicly through seas of sorrow and strife passively prolonging their purposeless existence.

Blind to beauty, numb to feeling, bitter to passions,
they remain immobile, unyielding;
condemning contentment, concealing compassion,
—crying for comfort.
Forsaken lives fixed in frigidity, forever!

Distance

As we look across the void
that separates us,
are we building any bridges or simply noticing the distance.

Richard Caplan

Crossing Nantucket Sound With Cheryl 1975

Underway... away from the land too well surveyed
by competence and clocks, undulating with the tide,
a whirling freedom of the wind.
Wispy sunbeams dance upon the hand
holding the rail;
eyes vaguely recalling people, walking on a dock
far behind.
Further...
a current holds you.

Breezes grapple heroically
to possess a stroller listing on the deck.
Astern
beyond the rail suspended
a gull rides the wind—
outstretched wings;
one eye fixed upon the ferry,
cordial...
your eyes on the gray gull,
or on nothing at all.
peaceful...
a current holding you.

Rich Pioli

DEADLINE!!

Today is the last day to sign up for
"Sorority Rush"

Rush registration and applications will be accepted at the Greek Affairs Office
203 Hampshire House
until 5 p.m.

Below The Salt
weekly fine arts magazine

Volume V Issue 2

EDITOR
Mark A. Leccese

ASSISTANT EDITOR
E. Patrick McQuaid

ASSISTANT EDITOR
Debbie Schafer

THE SALT MINDS:

MUSIC David Santos
Jack Cahill
THEATRE James F. Sawyer
DANCE Leila Bruno
ART Stacy Belkind
POETRY John Zieman
FOOD Alice E. Horner
DINING Lauren Traub

Cover illustration by Cheryl Godin

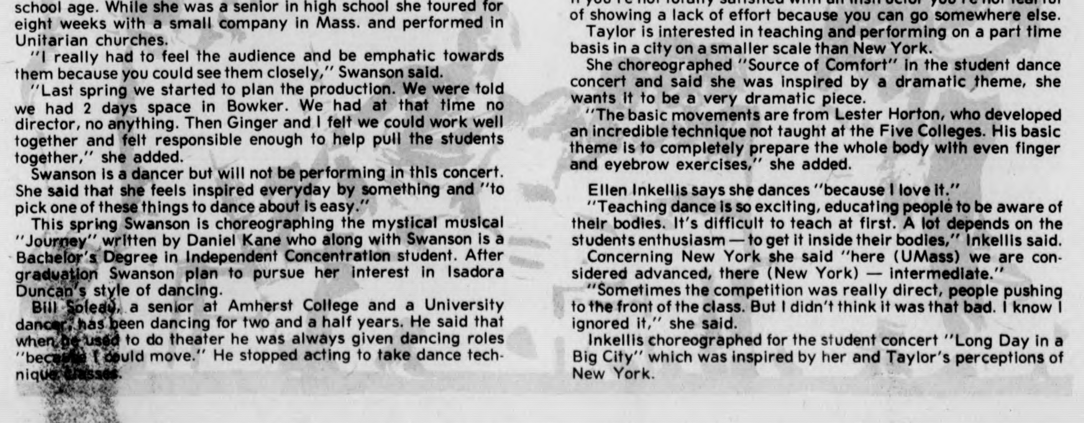
MUSIC: It all begins on page eight

Every publication of Below the Salt has many unseen contributers and unsung heroes. Those who participate directly in both content and form are listed above, but behind the scenes of Below the Salt there is an endless list of contributers without who's imput this weekly magazine would not be possible. They are too many to list; we acknowledge them here and extend our gratitude.

The University Dancers: Diligence and Dedication

D. Schafer photos

By Ann Murphy



"When you learn about your body you learn so much about your mind and control, through disciplining your mind," said Ginger Gaunt, artistic director for the student dance concert.

"Why do I like to dance? I have always been a physical type person. I've always studied other people's movements and can tell a lot about a person from their movements," she added.

Gaunt and Amy Swanson are both artistic directors for the University student dance concert to be held tonight and Friday night. They have worked since the beginning of the semester organizing the event and rehearsing with the dancers.

"We've worked for the whole semester. We cut from 18 pieces and built them up to 12 pieces that we're all proud of. The faculty have given us an enormous amount of help. We all feel grateful that they've given us this opportunity to show what we've learned from them and that we are inspired by them," said Swanson.

The piece that Gaunt choreographed for the concert is her first. She started to develop it last spring and completed it last semester. She said that choreographing "is a whole lot more than what you just see in your head. I'll be really happy when this dance is over so I can start something new."

Gaunt said that her choreography was more or less inspired from music. "Music helps to get pictures in your head. It comes from within then I develop it," she commented.

Amy Swanson started dancing when she was of junior high school age. While she was a senior in high school she toured for eight weeks with a small company in Mass. and performed in Unitarian churches.

"I really had to feel the audience and be emphatic towards them because you could see them closely," Swanson said.

"Last spring we started to plan the production. We were told we had 2 days space in Bowker. We had at that time no director, no anything. Then Ginger and I felt we could work well together and felt responsible enough to help pull the students together," she added.

Swanson is a dancer but will not be performing in this concert. She said that she feels inspired everyday by something and "to pick one of these things to dance about is easy."

This spring Swanson is choreographing the mystical musical "Journey" written by Daniel Kane who along with Swanson is a Bachelor's Degree in Independent Concentration student. After graduation Swanson plan to pursue her interest in Isadora Duncan's style of dancing.

Bill Soleau, a senior at Amherst College and a University dancer, has been dancing for two and a half years. He said that when he used to do theater he was always given dancing roles "because I could move." He stopped acting to take dance technique classes.

"Since the last two and a half years I've been dancing six to eight hours every day. I have decided this is what I want to do."

Amherst presently has no dance department, so Soleau took technique courses at UMass.

"I got into working with faculty members and got interested in choreography myself." he said.

"Music influences me a lot. I see movement in music. I see images and transform them into dance medium. Acting also helps create movement." he added.

Soleau plans to go to New York City after graduation for about a year to take lessons and then to audition for a modern dance company.

Two senior dance concentration students Michelle Taylor and Ellen Inkellis interned in New York City last semester. They took classes from Thelma Hill of the Clarke Center, Milton Myers of the Alvin Ailey Company, and Basil Johnson of the Jeffrey Company, to name a few.

"New York, since it is center of dance has, every caliber of dancer. Certain studios are more competitive by nature. The companies associated with performing groups such as Alvin Ailey are classic examples of competitiveness," Taylor said.

She added that dancers were more serious in New York about dance. She said that there are so many teachers in New York that if you're not totally satisfied with an instructor you're not fearful of showing a lack of effort because you can go somewhere else.

Taylor is interested in teaching and performing on a part time basis in a city on a smaller scale than New York.

She choreographed "Source of Comfort" in the student dance concert and said she was inspired by a dramatic theme, she wants it to be a very dramatic piece.

"The basic movements are from Lester Horton, who developed an incredible technique not taught at the Five Colleges. His basic theme is to completely prepare the whole body with even finger and eyebrow exercises," she added.

Ellen Inkellis says she dances "because I love it."

"Teaching dance is so exciting, educating people to be aware of their bodies. It's difficult to teach at first. A lot depends on the students enthusiasm — to get it inside their bodies," Inkellis said.

Concerning New York she said "here (UMass) we are considered advanced, there (New York) — intermediate."

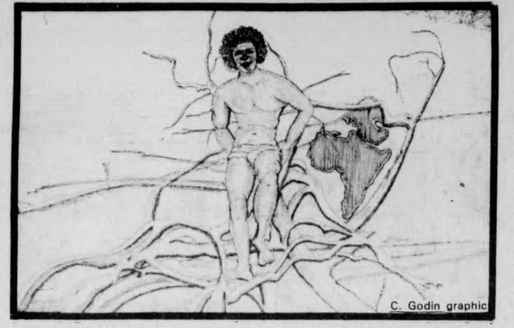
"Sometimes the competition was really direct, people pushing to the front of the class. But I didn't think it was that bad. I know I ignored it," she said.

Inkellis choreographed for the student concert "Long Day in a Big City" which was inspired by her and Taylor's perceptions of New York.

VIDEO

by Greg Tarlin

Haley's Roots



C. Godin graphic

'Roots'. I think it safe to say that every person on this campus has at least heard of 'Roots'. 'Roots' is, of course, an ABC Television program, a production of such magnitude that it was given the enormous task of holding an audience for eight consecutive nights, a feat previously required only of the Olympic Games. And, although the final Nielson Ratings are not yet out, it seems to have garnered an impressive audience.

Much has been written of 'Roots' (probably too much), but I feel it raises some questions not yet explored. While the media people have been concerned with the show's quality, its message, its writer, and the history of his research, I feel that the affect on the viewer it may or may not have has been largely ignored. And although the program will supposedly be of great benefit to our social consciousness, I am not completely convinced.

For instance, how will 'Roots' affect its black viewers? I am not black. I can only attempt to hypothesize. It would seem that a black watching 'Roots' would feel much like a Jew watching Nazi films, or an American Indian viewing westerns. Though pride and sympathy would be present, I feel the prevalent emotion would be one of anger. That atrocities of this sort could be perpetrated not just on fellow human beings, but on one's ancestors would be, at least for me, difficult to watch objectively. So, on the one hand, 'Roots' is a work of extraordinary scope and proportion, a work that finally lays bare the horror of slavery, and gives life to the history of black Americans, a history that has for far too long been hidden. On the other hand, 'Roots' is reopening the festering wounds of an outraged people that we have, for the past century, made at least some attempts at healing, however miniscule. In other words, is 'Roots' a step forward or a step backward? I feel, and hope that it is forward, but I am not at all certain. (Possibly some response from black viewers of 'Roots' would clarify).

One other problem I find with 'Roots' is its portrayal of whites. I have not seen every episode but I have seen more than half, and not once have I seen a decent and respectable white person. I am told, however, that Saturday's episode featured a white chicken stealer turned overseer who is at least human. The only white person I saw who treated blacks with even a semblance of kindness was the drunkard owner of Chicken George (Chuck Conners). The captain of the ship was a weakling who, while sickened by the slaves' treatment, did nothing to stop it. The other whites were invariably rapists, sadists, drunkards, adulterers and cowards. This may well have been the rule, but where are the exceptions. The overseer, George Johnson, is one. Surely there were others. No people in history (even the Nazis) have been so uniformly cruel.

This is a minor point but, I think, a valid one. Because of it the production is more powerful but is, to this viewer, less convincing.

THE NATIONAL THEATRE COMPANY
presents

Feelin' GOOD

Place:
Student Union Ballroom

Date:
Friday, February 4, 1977

Time:
8:00 p.m.

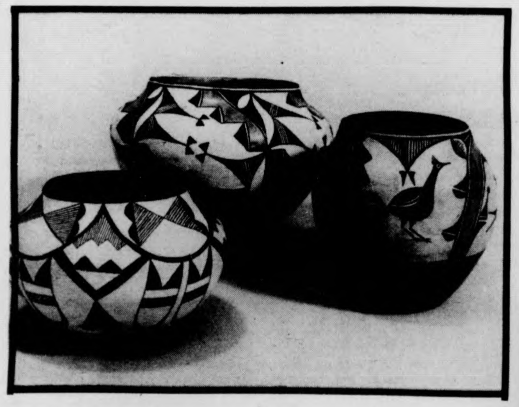
FREE ADMISSION

A Joyous, Hand-Clapping Review

sponsored by
Campus Center Program Council

Art

Southwest American Indian Pottery
Herter Art Gallery, UMass.
Running through February 12th



By Alice E. Horner

Relief from the snow: Herter Art Gallery is running an exhibit of American Indian pottery from the sand and tumbleweed of the South west. Janice McDonough (class of '76) did a beautiful job installing the show, setting each piece off to advantage against a white background and in relatively solitary splendor. Beside about fifty pots, colorful handwoven Navajo rugs provide textured contrast to the sensual, ceramic smoothness.

The Southwest region is well represented with pieces from the Rio Grande Pueblo villages of Acoma, Zia and Picuris and from the Hopi and Zuni pueblos to the west. The pottery was acquired by the University Collection in 1969 from a private collector and until now have not been publically displayed.

My only difficulty with this exhibition is that it fails to label the pieces in regards to age, location, etc. While the argument can be made for appreciation on a purely aesthetic level, I feel that this approach does the native artists a disservice.

Afterall, we are but the products of our educational backgrounds. We know the history of France and Italy well enough not to need historical periods, the role of the artist, mediums of expression and the like explained to us. On the other hand, few of us have ever studied the precontact history of the United States and have little sense of who the native artists were and how they set about their creative business.

The appreciation of the amazing symmetry and delicacy of these bowls, jugs and pitchers may be heightened when you realize that the potter's wheel was never used in the New World, i.e. the pots are hand built. Or that Southwest American Indian pottery represents an artistic tradition going back 1500 years, and is thus an example of both an ancient and sophisticated art style and resurgent ethnic pride. Or that American Indian potters are often women — an association being made between the creative power of females and of Mother Earth, i.e. clay. Even a map to illustrate the myriad of ethnic styles in a relatively small geographic area would have been useful.

These criticisms are not, in any way, meant to distract from the sheer physical beauty of the display but merely to suggest more informative shows in the future. At any rate, stop by Herter and check it out — you may find yourself beguiled into a warmer clime.

THURS - FRI - SAT
BLUE WALL

THEATRE

Entropy Tango

by David Ambos

TANGO
By Slawomir Mrozek
Directed by Larry Harpel
City Studio Theater

WHEN WE DEAD AWAKEN
By Henrik Ibsen
Directed by Rae Allen
StageWest

Tango, a political fantasy by Polish playwright Slawomir Mrozek, is at the City Studio Theater in Northampton through next weekend. CST's production features sensitive and creative ensemble acting by the cast of seven.

Tango was first performed in Belgrade in 1965. It opened in New York in 1968, disturbing the political naivete of the New York critics with its freedom and dramatic power. Like The Police, his farce of frustrations in the lives of men in navy blue, Mrozek's new play was equivocal in its political meaning. Mrozek concerns himself not with politics, but with the validity of unyielding ideologies. Tango demonstrates the foolishness of progress by coercion of future history; the brutal pragmatism of the protagonist's themes of death, power, and transience set in canons of self-destruction. These interludes will fade, Mrozek says, and, after a time, the tango will begin again.

The CST set is well thrown together. The "strata of cultural heritage," the junk, is all about; though, at the end, the entropy of the house is corrected, and middle-class housekeeping resumes. The actors are attired in wonderfully comfortable, man-and-moth-symbiotic costumes. The lighting is dim, warm and decadent.

Director Larry Harpel and Stage Manager Neil Lazzara set an excellent pace for the production. The individually worked-through characterizations and liberal rewriting worked well, though healthy cuts in the rather talky second act would have been welcomed. The acting ensemble worked well, although there was some difficulty in the first act; the entrances lacked confidence, and the family late-risers were unconvincing in their stupors, but, once up and all together, it was definitely a team effort.

Mike Wheatley as Stomil, the leader of the family of anti-nihilist Bohemians, is fine as the Peter Pan of revolutionaries. Anne Davis as Eleanor, his wife, tending to be a bit stiff and ornamental in the first part of the play, improved in believability as it progressed. Together, tenaciously, they preserve, through art, in Eleanor's mildly phallic sculpture and Stomil's mildly thoughtful puppet shows, the structure of formlessness, and an utterly comformist Bohemian noncomformity. In the play, art, the defier of nature, and Arthur's scientific logic, the unwilling consort of inevitability, meet in a thought battle.

Peter Sobol's Arthur is a youthful reactionary, an intellectual stranger in paradox, confused by the conflicts of integrating form and idea. He would make a clay form, and inject it with a liquid idea. This difficult role was well played by Mr. Sobol.

Eddie, the brutish, natural or primal man, was masterfully physicalized by R. J. Bentz. Bentz was wonderfully punky, both base and basic, a drinker, a philosophic hood, and bridge sharp. At the end of the play, Eddie puts a record of tango music on the turntable and asks Uncle Eugene to dance with him. Centenarian dances with simian. The tango, dance with the totalitarian leading, zebra in the arms of the tiger, begins again.

The rest of the cast was equally fine. Ala, the young girl, was played very naturally by Pam Demers. Eugene, the lively, funny uncle, was well performed by Stevan Sylvester, and Eugenia, with green vizor and sneakers, was dodderingly and delightfully done by Dolores Griel.

Thanks to good ensemble playing, and much creativity, the CST production of Tango was a living, exciting theatrical success. Tango continues in Northampton this weekend. If you like a play that is witty, thought-provoking, and powerful all at once, this is one performance you should not miss.

Resurrection

by James F. B. Sawyer

Special effects and set design were the stars of this less-than-heart-rending production of an uninspiring script by Henrik Ibsen. In her second effort this season, Director Rae Allen has shown us how directing can cause oridinarily satisfactory acting to cross the threshold of unsatisfactory melodrama, allowing normally background positions such as set designer and lighting director to shine brighter than the cast.

The "environmental" stage unit in use at StageWest has not had the chance to distinguish itself until this production. Set designer Jerry Rojo transforms this set, which is one unit, from the patio of a Norwegian spa, to an idyllic spot high on a mountain, to a hunting shack and the precipitous peaks it clings to. The transformation takes place between acts and is as complete as if an entirely different play were being produced on each set.

A dry-ice avalanche ends the play as the capping effort of its true stars.

It is unfortunate that the direction allows for this kind of switch in perspective from the action onstage being the most effective quality of the production to the inanimate players stepping forward and foremost.

Basically the play is about life as regards those things indispensible to it; interpersonal relationships, self-knowledge and perspective. It deals with loss of these things as a form of living death. As one character says, "We only

cont pg 14

Two Poems

By Janine Roberts

THE COPY PLACE

I offer you rich excerpts from my life pensively shaped on the page full of raw emotion ready to be nibbled licked gulped devoured.
You return them to me with a black—white receipt precise all in order
savoured only by the machine, fastened up in a brown paper bag.

GYPSY—O

I dance
the mad dance of a spurned child nudging, wrenching my way into the world of the giants.

Nude toes crush white crystals — chills spread my limbs linger through me to announce the chasm between flame within and frosted night.

Toes bite the edge of the raggle taggle circle of light, nibbling the perimeter wider, wider as crystalline cold cradles me.

Spotlights hold a lemon circle,
my soon to be woman form explores the rhythms of the life endower — performs the dance of supplication.

SPI CTRUM has it. It's free;
Get starting Monday. it's your's.

university of massachusetts arts council
presents

THE FABULOUS GIL EVANS AND HIS ORCHESTRA
Big Band Jazz of the 70's

SAT., FEB. 5 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

Tickets now on sale! $6, 5, 4. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.

F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

Interested in Working with Kids?
Northern Educational Services
(N·E·S·) can help you.
We work with innercity children in the areas of academics and recreation
★ possible credit
★ transportation and materials provided
★ people of all interests and majors needed
For more info
contact our office in 403 S.U·B. 545-0910
or call Nancy 546-8460
Michelle 545-0162

POTS & PLANTS
SALE!
Feb. 1-8th
on all hand-made porcelain pots
⅓ off with this ad
274 N. Pleasant St. Basement Shop
Next to Earth Shoe Bldg.
12-5:30 Daily
10-5:30 Sat.

If somebody gets drunk at your party . . .

See that the person gets home safely. Drive them yourself. Call a cab. Take their car keys. Let them sleep it off. Passengers — refuse to get into the car. Get as many others to give that person the same message as possible — don't drive. There is something you can do to prevent drunken driving.

Alcohol
Education Project
Room-to-Move and Health Education
549-2671

APPEARING
TONITE
Vassar Clemens
3-time World Champ Fiddler
FRIDAY and SATURDAY
James Cotton
at
The rusty nail Inn
Rte. 47, Sunderland
665-4937

BIG A AUTO PARTS

We've got auto parts for foreign cars.

WORLDPARTS
AUTO PARTS FOR IMPORTS

Auto parts for foreign cars – quality-made replacement parts for the most popular foreign cars in town. Worldparts are made by world famous manufacturers such as Maremont . . . Bosch . . . Lange . . . Boge . . . and more than 60 others.

When your foreign car needs repairs, have your garage or service station man call us for Worldparts. Or we can give you the name and address of a foreign car expert near you.

AMERICAN PARTS

Allied Motor Parts
319 Main Street, Amherst
256-8341

SHOP SERVICE AVAILABLE
Hours: 8-5:30 M-F, 8-5 Sat.

Dance

Intensive, In Step and In Residence

by Risa Graubard

The 5-college community is lucky enough to have with it this spring - next spring also, the Contemporary Dance System. In residence at Amherst College, the Company will be offering intensive classes for area dancers. Artistic director is Daniel Lewis with Anna Sokolow serving as resident choreographer.

CDS is a repertory company, the function of which is to perform works by different choreographers. One benefit of this type of company is that it enables the dancers to dance different types of works, thus engendering skills in different vocabularies. It also gives the audience a wider exposure than is possible with the works of a single choreographer which hopefully reaches a wider audience. Ballet companies have been based on this premise, maintaining a wider repertoire, but only recently the modern dance companies were devoted to a few choreographers with a dominant vision, such as Martha Graham, Paul Taylor, or Merce Cunningam.

Contemporary Dance System has its roots in the José Limon Company, which isn't surprising when one looks at the number of Limón and Doris Humphrey works in the repertoire. Lewis was artisitic director of the Limón Co. for the year following Limón's death, and assistant director for the six preceding years. Both Lewis and Laura Glen of CDS danced with the Limón Co. for 11 years.

"The company began as the Contemporary Dance Sextet, a communal commitment between myself and five other members of the Limón Company," remarked Danny Lewis. "We ran it between bookings. We needed an outlet for our own choreography and of course to fulfill more bookings. It was only a part-time commitment, but when José died, even before he died, I knew I wanted to devote myself to CDS."

Upon Limón's death, Lewis took over as artistic director of the José Limón Company. When they found Ruth Currier to take over, 4 years ago, CDS or Contemporary Dance System was born with Daniel Lewis as artistic director.

The residency at Amherst College serves as a respite for the company, when they can pull together and work on choreography. They can even tour - needing only 6 dancers.

Last Saturday, Sunday, and Monday nights Anna Sokolow staged a world premiere of Homage To Alexandre Scriabin. Using the music and the poetry of the great composer the evening was dedicated to Louis Horst, the teacher who introduced Sokolow to Scriabin. (Horst was for years the musical advisor of Martha Graham.)

This is not the first work that Sokolow (who teaches dance and drama at the Julliard school) has done to the music of Scriabin.

"I did 2 works at Julliard, and then, Ballade for CDS, - a quartet drawn from different preludes and poems and 3 years ago working on 'Come Travel With Dreams' I went into it even deeper. I began to think it would be wonderful to do my homage to the great composer. I read everything I could get my hands on - his life, what he felt in art." Danny Lewis suggested she do the work for CDS.

'Homage To Scriabin' is the culmination of that wish, with

cont pg 13

HOME
Sweet Home

There's no place like home and we make it easy to get there. Peter Pan and Continental Trailways offer convenient, express service to Boston, New York and many other points.

PETER PAN BUS LINES & CONTINENTAL TRAILWAYS

MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.

CONTINENTAL TRAILWAYS

For Information, Schedules and Prices, Contact: Campus Center Bus Office
Tel. 545-2006 or 549-6000

I AM NOT GOING TO LAW SCHOOL
THESE ARE THE REASONS WHY

— I did poorly on my LSAT's
— I'm bright, but my grades do not reflect it
— I was rejected by all the law schools I applied to because they only look at numbers and scores

THESE EXCUSES WON'T WORK
IF YOU ARE HIGHLY MOTIVATED

WE ACCEPT STUDENTS WHOSE PRIME STRENGTHS
ARE MOTIVATION & ACCOMPLISHMENT

Grades and scores mean less because we are training you to be a lawyer, not a law student

CALIFORNIA LAW INSTITUTE

For more information and an application write:

Mary Osborne, Dean of Admissions
School of Law
California Law Institute
2034 Alameda Padre Serra
Santa Barbara, California 93103
Telephone (805) 963-1567

BOOKS

LIFE AFTER LIFE
by Raymond A. Moody, Jr., M.D.
Bantam Books
187 pps. $1.95

By Debbie Schafer

You can find it in just about any drugstore paperback display rack, right up there with the latest Star Trek, More (or less) Joy of Sex, The Amazing New Diet Plan and just down the aisle from the National Enquirer.

Please keep an open mind when you read this book. Life After Life may surprise, amaze, or perplex you; it will undoubtedly make you think for awhile about the nature of our existence, of life and death.

Raymond Moody, linguistic philosopher and psychiatrist, raises a fundamental and universal human question in Life After Life: what is it like to die: He speculates on possible answers to that question by documenting the experiences of over one hundred people who were pronounced clinically dead and then revived. Most of the book's content is devoted to recounting the startling and often eerie near-death experiences of these people.

What is it like to die? We have all asked ourselves that question. It is an emotionally charged issue, a question with no answers that we as human beings can prove; we can only accept the idea that there is (or isn't) life after death with blind faith. Don't read Life After Life looking for absolute proof of life after death, it just isn't there. Nor is it the aim of Dr. Moody to provide that proof in his book, and he states it clearly:

"Some say that death is annihilation of consciousness; others say with equal confidence that death is the passage of the soul or mind into another dimension of reality. In what follows I do not wish in any way to dismiss either answer. I simply wish to give a report on a search which I have personally undertaken."

To say that he reports some unusual experiences would be an understatement.

Moody admits that his limited number of case studies makes it impossible to make a "statistically significant" estimate of the prevalence of the phenomenon he reports. Despite this limitation, the fact remains that there is a striking similarity in the accounts of the people who experience close calls with death. A "typical experience" is described as follows:

"A man is dying and, as he reaches the point of greatest physical distress, he hears himself pronounced dead by his doctor. He begins to hear an uncomfortable noise, a loud ringing or buzzing, and at the same time feels himself moving very rapidly through a long, dark tunnel. After this, he suddenly finds himself outside of his own physical body ... and he sees his own body from a distance, as though he is a spectator."

That is just the beginning point of the experiences of these "clinically dead" people. There is much more, including the appearance of a "being of light" and an instantaneous playback of the events of the "dead" person's life.

You may be skeptical (I certainly was) at this point, but read the entire book before you dismiss it as best selling nonsense. Dr. Moody has anticipated skepticism, and even goes so far as to include the questions he is asked frequently about his findings.

In no manner does he pretend to have solved the mystery of death and he writes that " ... I would insist that I am not under the delusion that I have 'proven' there is life after death ... So I am left, not with conclusions or evidence or proofs, but with something much less definite — feelings, questions, analogies, puzzling facts to be explained." He is an unassuming author who writes about the unbelievable in a most believable way.

In spite of this, you may argue that the research may be genuine but that the bizarre experiences may have been fabricated out of the subconscious minds of these dying people. After all, seeing your life flash before you is a common cliche of the American movie-going culture, and all of Moody's research subjects are Americans, so ...

Wrong. Dr. Moody has covered all the bases in Life After Life. How is it that his subjects gave descriptions of their experiences that were nearly identical to those described in the Tibetan Book of the Dead and the works of Emanuel Swedenborg? These are not items usually included in the modern American's literary scope, and not one of Moody's subjects was familiar with them. "How is it, we might well ask ourselves," Moody writes, "that the wisdom of Tibetan sages ... the spiritual revelations of Swedenborg all agree so well, both among themselves and with the narratives of contemporary individuals who have come as close as anyone alive to the state of death?"

Life After Life is an important book that shouldn't be ignored. It raises many questions and acknowledges the limitations of present day modes of scientific research. What is it like to die? We want to know, and this book has opened a new door toward finding the answer to that ageless question.

The Non-Traditional Student Assembly in conjunction with C.A.O.S. invite you to a . . .

GET ACQUAINTED OPEN HOUSE

LOCATION: FARLEY LODGE — UMASS CAMPUS
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 4
8 p.m. to 2 a.m.
Music
Refreshments Served
B.Y.O.B. Optional
Donation $1.00

POSITION AVAILABLE
Immediately

Graduate Assistant — Student Activities Office

Must be a full time Grad student with a two semester commitment; experience in extra-curricular activities preferred. Stipend $3,600—academic year. Apply to the Student Activities Office, 416 Student Union. Women and minorities are urged to apply.

decorating?

come see us for:
Burlap – 100% Jute
12 colors 36" wide
$1.19 yd
Felt-Squares + By the yard
72" wide, 7 colors, wool rayon
$3.98 yd.
Man Made Furs - All Colors – Weights
48-54-60-72" wide
$5.98-8.98 yd.
Cyrus Clark Decorator Fabrics ~ 36"-54" wide chintz, unglazed cotton "bird" prints featured in Family Circle. $4.49-5.98 yd.
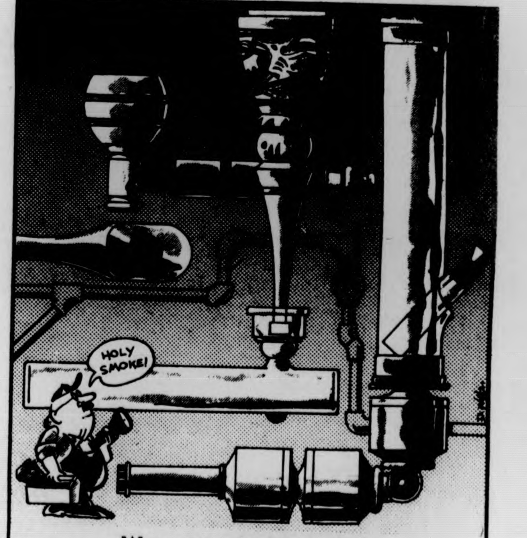
also decorator trims

natural textiles
228 triangle st., amherst
549-3853
hours: 10-6, mon.-sat.
fridays 'til 9

THE FINEST VALENTINE CARDS

American Greetings
The Fresh Idea Company . . .

University Store



We got more pipes than the New York City Water Department.

Faces of Earth

Next to the Amherst Post Office — Open 9:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.

Eno-sification

GENESIS
Wind & Wuthering
(Atoo)

DAVID BOWIE
Low
(RCA)

QUEEN
A Day At The Races
(Elektra)

by Rich Pioli & Dave Santos

If it's eloquence in a spacey setting you seek (which can be rather overly romantic genture exposing yourself to much drek) Wind and Wuthering may astound you. Always high on fantasy, Genesis have improved on much of their other problems to succeed on both musical and lyrical terms. Their music evokes the image and comprehensible lyrics invite you to float away on the sublime. A comparison with Yes may enter your mind at first but unlike that group Genesis is capable of style and substance.

The opening "Eleventh Earl of Mar, aside from providing us with one of their best musically integrated jobs on this album, follows a young boy's separation from his magical childhood into the world and war. The opening strains on Tony Bank's synthesizer invite a mysterious apprehension that this will be no ordinary trip. Phil Collin's high and fragile vocal style take away the theatrical creases long ago ingrained into the group by Peter Gabriel. His treatment of the lyrics is fluid and effective especially in relating the boy's dreams: Fly from a hillside-Beckoning the trees-a sailboat's awning-Mimicking the breeze. Reality's contradictions are also strongly displayed: Somethings never end-Eleventh Earl of Mar-Won't be going very far. And with this Genesis embark on a tour of places and images similarly laced with such sweet regret.

Tony Bank's One for the Vine presents a Wizard of Oz explanation for the appearance of messiahs and a science-fiction scheme of things. Beginning softly on grand piano and lush vocals the song builds to a sweetly controlled and percussive interlude capturing an Arabic flair. Somehow it works.

The most outstanding example of Genesis' art is Blood on the Rooftops. Classical guitar (in the Steve Howe tradition) is joined with soft mellotron to set a background for relating the frustrations of one old man who watches the static news broadcasts: Better in my day — Oh Lord-For when we got bored- we'd have a world war.

More life and depth has been given to all the performances here and the instrumental pieces are much more memorable than those from Lamb Lies Down on Broadway. All in all, a good package from Genesis looming high above the usual fare of Queen or Yes.

David Bowie has taken larger steps into the cosmos and landed back into the arms of British rock with this his thirteenth album. Although both the cover (photo from Man Who Fell) and the price ($7.98 list) could lead you to suspect this is only a soundtrack album, the inside is thoroughly new and bona fide Thin White Duke.

However, this album belongs to Brian Eno as much as to Bowie. Seven of the eleven tracks include Eno while other numbers apparently make use of his sound; surely even where he sits out it is his expertise which leads Bowie to all this new sound. And Eno fans will not be disappointed. There is much to remind you of last year's beautiful Another Green World; numbers are short for the most part boasting all the same sounds of Eno's recordings-splinter mini-moogs, synthesizers, synthetics and a total treatment in the way only Eno used to know how.

Yet somehow you get the feeling that Eno was convinced by our hero to share with him all that magic and get less credit than ever for it; remember the obvious difference in Roxy Music without him?

Aside from the two nebulous and short instrumentals which open and close the first side, there are showcased in blitzkreig manner the only substantial vocals on the album. The very short "Breaking Glass" features Carlos Alomar's whining funk riff embedded in Eno's mini-moog extrapolations while Bowie spews forth enough lines to almost complete a thought. A little fluffy I'm afraid.

The again short "What in the World" opens fast and with a strange percussion treatment manages to fill the air pockets looming under Bowie's Ziggy-like vocal.

I would like to think "Sound and Vision" begins as a tribute to Lou Reed's current output; for a few moments you can expect Lou cracking through your speaker but suddenly the song assumes its own form when Bowie slaps his synthetic strings over the lifting rhythm of guitar and percussion. Again as in so many places on this record the guitar is pushed behind the main sound (Earl Slick will be pleased, I'm sure). Since instrumentation is the focus for this album it is only proper for Bowie to pick up that dusty sax and resume his lessons, hence, a few bars appear here.

At least, "Always Crashing in the Same Car" could live as the current single in the way it fuses our good ole American rhythm and blues with all this English avant-garde improvisational electronics. Unfortunately, for the money the entire first side is interesting without any far reaching contributions. Side two has no vocals to speak of but can be considered the feature side.

"Warszawa" a Bowie-Eno collaboration is pleasant enough and readjusts the atmosphere for what is coming. "Art Decade", besides its pleasant title exposes much that sounds like out-takes from Green World which is perhaps as good as you can get with this style. Beauty and sweeping electronic interweaving unite in "Weeping Wall" where all instruments are played by Bowie including a very joyful and peaceful xylophone improvisation. In the final cut, "Subterraneans", Bowie's simple but controlled sax is extraordinarily apt at taking in the slack and landing this heavy weight safely.

An exercise into the unknown for Bowie as well as us, Low may disappoint many of last year's Station to Station fans, but fans have been disappointed before. The ever-existing positive aspect of Bowie's music is a commitment to creative innovation first and he risks everything sometimes to stand apart from the ordinary, and his own previous creations.

I used to regard Queen in the same league with Genesis, Bowie and Roxy Music, but with this new album I'm rather confused as to what league they're really in. (The Andrew Sisters would be a good start.) Obviously nobody else is mixed up because A Day At The Races and its shit hits the fan $7.98 list price methodically paces itself to a number 1 finish. Everybody seems to love it. I don't.

This is not "the modern times rock and roll" Queen so violently upheld on their debut lp. I'm not sure this is rock and roll anymore. But we should have seen it coming — even on Queen I, the band poised itself on a rickity balance between hard rock and artsy punk bravado. With the exception of Sheer Heart Attack, it has been a struggle for the band to pick and choose over the two. When they lost, it resulted in the "interesting, but I'll leave it "Queen II — wherein Queen produced an eccentric, arty lp that is argueably more production than composition.

It wasn't until A Night At The Opera, that they fused both elements towards a happy medium. "Bohemian Rhapsody" was art rock's finest sortie. Despite "Bohemian Rhapsody" being a great single from a great album, it also set the tone for A Day At The Races. A tone that is as sour as Brian May's guitar constantly going out of tune in concert.

Queen have abandoned rock and roll for all intents and purposes. What's more disturbing is that there is precious little Queen. Races is a lot of trilling, a lot of ooohs and aaahs and some grinding static. It nearly becomes a manisfestation of self-parody. Old tunes like "Seven Seas Of Rhye" contained a magical cementing of raw rock and arty injections. On Races, Queen has only come up with fragmented melodies and contrived heavy breathing exercises. It is ironic that Queen still refuse to use synthesizers because they're pretentious. Look who's talking.

Tickled Again

Taj Mahal
Music Fuh Ya'
Musica Para Tu
(Warners)

Another album from Taj Mahal, just the right remedy for winter chill. It's a comforting thought to remind myself that Taj once walked these ice covered streets too. So if he's now miles away from this area, he's shipping back so much warm music I can forgive him. I think my room warms 10 degrees when "Sailin' in to Walker's Cay" is on. Ice and cold just cannot withstand steel drums.

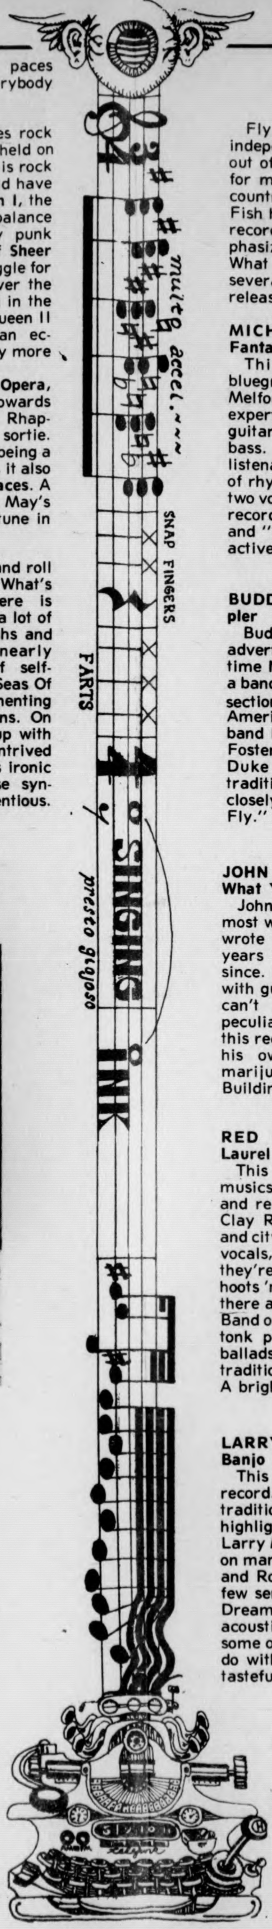
If I were to try to get very academic about Taj's work these days, I might call him an ethnologist. Like Alex Haley, Taj has worked tirelessly at discovering his roots and made millions happy sharing them with us. Music is a continuation of this rewarding relationship.

Playing with Taj is the same band that back him on much of Satisfied N Tickled Too. The only initial changes are that Taj is handling all the guitar work, which is primarily rhythmic here, and in the songwriting. Tickled had only a few songs by Taj. Five of Music's eight are by him. The songs are often a bit over instrumentalized. What should be four minutes might get a six minute treatment. The original inspiration gets lost in a lot of loose jamming where no one gets up and takes off.

So in this way, the purchaser gets cheated a bit. A few shorter, tighter tunes would lead to more on the album, and that wouldn't hurt anybody. Music is still highlighted by a couple gems. "Curry" "You Got It", and his tribute to Libby Cotton, "Freight Train" are all standouts.

This is music fuh ya. Go out an get it. Beat the chills with some of the warmest material this side of the Barbados.

Craig Roche



BLUEGRASS & COUNTRY MUSIC

by Mark Harris Levitan

Flying Fish Records is a growing independent record company operating out of Chicago. The label is the home for many traditional and progressive country and bluegrass artists. Flying Fish has a reputation for high quality recording and an outlook that emphasizes the music and not the money. What follows is a quick glimpse at several of Flying Fish Records' latest releases:

MICHAEL MELFORD: Mandolin Fantasy

This is one fine progressive bluegrass record. It focuses on Mike Melford's mandolin, but it is mixed expertly to blend, not to blot out the guitar, violin, banjo, steel guitar and bass. The result is an especially listenable album with a good selection of rhythms and moods. There are but two vocal cuts, set just right to pace the record. Best cuts are "Train, Train," and "Lost Indian." Melford is also an active Flying Fish record producer.

BUDDY SPICHER: American Sampler

Buddy Spicher gets the truth-in-advertising award. Spicher is a longtime Nashville sessions fiddler, but as a bandleader he presents a wide cross-section of music with essentially American roots. With a full country band he covers Scott Joplin, Stephen Foster, Stevie Wonder, John Denver, Duke Ellington, fiddle hornpipes, traditional country ballads, and a closely covered version of "Fly, Robin, Fly." Believe it.

JOHN HARTFORD: Nobody Knows What You Do

John Hartford may be Flying Fish's most well-known artist. Remember he wrote "Gentle On My Mind" a few years back? He's come a long way since. Hartford is incredibly talented with guitar, banjo, fiddle and lyrics. I can't begin to convey his witty, peculiar view of the world, so check this record out yourself; Hartford is in his own world of riverboats and marijuana. Best song is "In Tall Buildings," a sad story of city life.

RED CLAY RAMBLERS: Twisted Laurel

This record of traditional American musics was originally recorded in 1967, and re-released this winter. The Red Clay Ramblers mix country (mostly) and city styles with the emphasis on the vocals, which aren't lush or anything, they're real. On the record there are hoots 'n hollers, rags 'n hornpipes, and there are Dixieland influences and Big Band overtones. Throw in some honky-tonk piano and a couple of country ballads and you have a compendium of traditions with mostly southern roots. A bright, happy record.

LARRY MCNEELY: Rhapsody For Banjo

This is a bluegrass lover's dream record. The material is a mixture of traditional and progressive bluegrass, highlighted by superfast pickin' by Larry McNeely on banjo, Jethro Burns on mandolin, Charlie Collins on guitar, and Roy Husky on bass. There are a few sensitive moments, as on "Space Dream," featuring some excellent acoustic guitar. Also, you won't believe some of the things Larry McNeely can do with a banjo. This is 100 per cent tasteful music.

DOUG JERNIGAN: Roadside Rag

Let the record show that I told you so. Unless you play steel guitar or you are some fanatic-type individual, beware of this one. There's some good stuff here, but you have to wade through too much tedious and lackluster steel-heavy schlock to find it. Jernigan plays with Johnny Paycheck if you're into it.

Stompology 101,

No Prerequisite

The Complete
Lionel Hampton
1937—1941
6 Records — RCA
est. playing time: 4½ hrs.

What we have here is an awesome, almost fatal dose of the first fine flower of modern American Music. Lionel Hampton was THE pioneer innovator of the vibraphone in the same way that Charlie Christian WAS the electric guitar. Through a large number of recordings in the late thirties and early forties, both men helped create the characteristic sound of the times by using their novel instruments as a vehicle for the harmonic and rhythmic evolutions of modern music. Liberated from the breath limitations on a horn player's phrasing, they accelerated the tendency of using long chains of eighth notes, as well as different intervals, extensions and scales.

The vibraphone is set out in tones like a piano, but is played percussively with mallets like a drum. Hamp plays all three instruments, with virtuosity, so his playing has an ideal balance of the rhythmic and melodic senses. I.e., The Cat Swings like a Banshee. It is our improbable good fortune that, at the height of the Swing Era, when there were probably more brilliant musicians to choose from than at any time since, Hamp was offered carte blanche to record with anyone who was in New York or L.A. when he was. As this is before WWII, musicians still had ample common ground on which to meet in a spirit of cameraderie and the pure joy of making music together. There are divers musicians represented here from New Orleans—style to the protean harbingers of the coming Bop Apocalypse.

Even to touch on the highlights of this 95-odd tune set in ridiculous; you have to talk in terms of sessions and musicians. In general, there are very few sessions here that are less than exciting, most of those being with a later group with stable personel which lacks the stimulating jamming atmosphere of a fresh pickup group. Cut in Hollywood, they are maybe a little too laid back, a little too stoned. The rest of the stuff percolates with real New York adrenalin.

Of the 49 musicians on these 20 sessions, the following should wet your taste: Aside from handling the drums on a number of these dates, Hamp seems to have recorded with every major drummer of the period. Consider: Gene Krupa, of the Goodman band, Cozy Cole the immaculate freelance, Sonny Greer longtime of Duke Ellington, Jo Jones of Basie, Alvin Burroughs of Earl Hines, Sid Catlett — Max Roach's inspiration, Zutty Singleton of New Orleans, Nick Fatool the dixieland mover, Al Spieldock of King Cole Trio, Kaiser Marshal of Fletcher Henderson and Lee Young, Pres' brother. On reeds one has one has the rather startling likes of Buster Bailey (Charlie Parker's secret model), Johnny Hodges, Hersschel Evans — Lester Young's foil in the Basie Band — Benny Carter, Chu Berry, Ben Webster and Coleman Hawkins. Chu has some rare extended blowing space on an entire date, and when any two of these gents find themselves in front of the same microphone the sparks truly do fly.

Run your tongue for a moment over what this must sound like: Hamp on vibes, Dizzy Gillespie on trumpet, Benny Carter (Now Maria Muldaur's arranger) alto sax, Coleman Hawkins, Chu Berry and Ben Webster on tenors, Clyde Hart — brilliant but doomed first choice of the boppers—on piano, Charlie Christian on electric guitar, Milt Hinton bass, and Cozy Cole on drums. Chu leaps out with a vivid, throaty line of declaratory swing, Hawkins and Webster waste no time locking wings in a dogfight, and Diz is dropping strange, potent notes all over the joint.

The presence of Christian makes this one perhaps the most perfect Swing rhythm section ever assembled. He creates hypnotic escalator stairs of rhythm, then opens Pandora's box to release eight blithe, blinding bars of bop on an unsuspecting 1939. 1939! And you can hear Hamp grinning, sweating, chewing gum, holding the whole thing together with his impeccable filigree drive.

This is the real music of the thirties, the interplay of musicians' musicians, brought together in the benign euphorea of Lionel Hampton, with a jivy, good-natured ebbulence that the world seems no longer able to afford.

Chip in with your friends for this one and dance the ice-age away.

— Rob Chalfen

Now At Popular Prices!

by Zack Smith

DUKE ELLINGTON
FIRST QUALITY SPECIAL
$1.99
PHIL WOODS RIGHTS OF SWING
SPECIAL NOW $1.99
"Keep the Faith, Baby!"
ADAM CLAYTON POWELL'S MESSAGE TO THE WORLD
MGM
SPECIAL SALE OUR PRICE 67¢
LIGHTNIN' STRIKES LOU CHRISTIE

From Louis Armstrong and Duke Ellington, James Brown and the Elgins polkas biggest hits, the cut out bins of small records stores and large departments stores bulge.

The vinyl delights are not only there to tease you into the stores with giant ads of RECORDS — 67 cents or TOP SELLING ALBUMS 99 cents, they represent an attempt by the major lable to sell off their overstock and sleeper records.

Time was when cut outs featured albums which never sold as well as expected, or albums released with poor promotion and poorer sales. One fact was always sad reality, most of the records in the cut out bins were not worth the price asked, even when the price for twelve songs was lower than a draft beer.

For the good of the buyer, times have changed. Now the cut out bins feature records by established artists, albums which sold very well when released, many of them 'gold' when current, and now gold for the collector. Just like most second hand clothing stores, the good deal is there if you take the time to find it.

The biggest sale months of cut outs are February and March. Smaller record stores need to clear inventory which is not selling quickly, and those architectural abortions lining the highway, those impersonal dollar snatchers known as department stores always have an overstock to sell.

With the high cost of storage the major record companies have apparently decided to sell their albums at a reduced rate once the record is off the charts. In the past they would hold albums for years before re-issuing at a lower price.

What was on the charts six months ago can now be found in the cut out bins. Not all record companies release their vinyl to the cut out bins, but many do; so many, that collectors are often willing to wait six months for a disc, knowing they will hear it many times on the radio or elsewhere. With increased popularity of tape decks, many collectors tape the album and do not purchase it until it is in the bins. Economically it is a real deal. Albums which once demanded a five to six dollar price are now on sale at 67 cents, 99 cents, $1.99 or sometimes as much as $2.99.

The important fact to consider when shopping the bins is simple. If it makes the bins at one store for $1.99 it is likely available at another store for less.

One point worth considering before you wait six months to buy a record is the present popularity of an album or group. If the group is selling well the record companies rarely sell previous hit albums in the cut outs, but their are exceptions.

Before the warm spring days arrive, the entire Stax-Volt collection will be in the bins. Recent bankruptcy for Stax signals the end of a great record company, but the beginning of a what might be the second largest release of material cut out ever.

The Stax sale will be big and should draw the soul music crowd into department stores across the country, but the BIG sale of all Apple Records is sure to pull Beatle fans into record stores and department stores.

A recent article in BILLBOARD notes the sale of over one-half million overstock units of Beatle Apple Records. Along with the Beatle records, a company recently acquired over two and one half million non-Beatle units-LPs, tapes and singles. Record stores will soon have these records available, although they will not sell for as low as 67 cents, the price (probably $2.99) will be far lower than the $5.98 plus millions spent buying the records when they controlled the charts.

THE VERY BEST OF....- seem to fill the cut out bins. These selections are often a true deal, as the original master is used when possibie: but beware, know your music. Some companies release The Best of...using out take versions of a hit, often to the displeasure of the artist and surely most buyers.

A knowledge of the artist is helpful when crusin the bins. 'The Very Best of Lloyd Price' featuring six of the Lloyds' big hits of the fifties also offer some pure trash; music Lloyd would have never recorded in his prime, but the trash somehow is pressed. If your buying a record of a fifties artist and you only recognize the name and not the music, beware if it offers hits of the fifties along with songs of the seventies.

A collector of fifties music could never imagine the bad sass Lloyd Price singing 'You and Me and a Dog Named Boo' on the same album featuring his brilliant 'Personality' or 'Just Because,' but a recent release offered that strange arrangement.

Some may consider this a problem in buying at the bins, whereas others delight in the fantasy. Many collectors will purchase anything by a particular artist, and these missed matched albums are pure pleasure to the buyer.

One record store in Amherst offers the finest collection of Jazz music and blues cuts out this writer has experienced. Duke Ellington, Charlie Parker, Louis Armstrong, James Brown, Jackie Wilson, Dionne Warwicke, Ray Charles, Booker T. and so much more fill the bins. The best buys of jaxx, rock, folk and blues can be found in independent record stores; while country, showtunes, marching bands, and the greatest hits of every nationally are often the style of the larger department stores.

The bins are also gold when searching for novelty records. In the bins on Rt. 5 one can purchase 'Pope Paul VI-Live in New York' as well as an outrageous disc describing "How to Cook For Your Husband-For a Happier and Healthy Life." The wacky records often find their way in the bins, keep the faith as I'm sure LIBERACE PLAYS DISCO HITS will be there soon.

In The Bin

The following list of a few of the cut outs priced from 67 cents to $2.99 are now in the local cut out bins.

Louis Armstrong, James Brown, Contours, Bobby Darin, Elvis, Funkadelics, Godspell, Rufus Harley, Isley Brothers, Jackson 5, Lenny, Montrose, Nashville Teens, Odetta, Percels, Suzi Quantro, Max Roach, Archie Sheep, Tiny Tim, Ural and the Baltics, Bobby Vinton, Wide World of Sports sound track, Xzuma, Yardbirds and no Zappa-yet.

Four Seasons
Package Store
Discount Liquers
RUSSELL ST. HADLEY
at the Mt. Farms Mall

Schlitz BEER
12 oz. cans
$5.89
case

Karl Von Stetten Liebfraumilch
$1.79
33.8 oz. bottle

Crown Russe Vodka
$4.79
Quart

Pabst Blue Ribbon BEER
12 oz. N.R. bottles
$4.99
case

Thursday 2/3/76 to Saturday 2/5/76.
We reserve the right to limit quantities.

Just Who IS Gil Evans?

Gil Evans stays in the background. He arranges, composes, leads an orchestra, plays piano, conducts, but maintains his ever low profile while producing progressive, challenging music of totally unique character. Essentially he has been doing the same thing since 1940: the unexpected.

Next Saturday, February 5, he will bring his current ensemble to the Fine Arts Center for the purpose of making music. The newest Evans orchestra mixes electronics with some of New York's heaviest jazz players in a contemporary fusion that is truly "big band jazz of the seventies."

Composer/Conductor/Pianist
Gil Evans

As an arranger with the influential Claude Thorhill band in the forties, Gil began demonstrating the different ways a band could be made to sound. He has collaborated with Cecil Taylor, Cannonball Adderley, Steve Lacy, Phil Woods and many others over the years, always conjuring up musical settings that involve and stimulate soloist and listener. Gil's orchestrations on Miles Davis' Sketches of Spain and Miles Plus 19 are masterworks.

The present band includes trumpeter Johnny Coles and trombonist Jimmy Knepper, two Evans veterans who rank among the great players of their respective horns. Former Blood Sweat and Tears trumpeter Lew Soloff and fast rising guitarist Ryo Kawasaki are two more of the able notables, but the three to really watch are altoist Arthur Blythe, tenorist George Adams and the amazing trumpeter Hannibal. This trio is individually and collectively scorching the Apple area with unheard-of sounds. Their inclusion in the ensemble along with synthesizerist Pete Levin serves to make this event even more eventful.

Tickets are still available at the Fine Arts Center for all You Smart Folks. Same deal, go get em.

—Jack Cahill

Rampal Avec. . .

While Jean-Pierre Rampal and Robert Veyron-Lacroix may be the two most popular musicians in France, it seems their greatest fans in America are critics and musicians.

Rampal gives the critics a lot to talk about. Long ago recognized by most critics as the world's most brilliant and sublimely creative flautist, Rampal sparked new interest in his talents by recording an album with French jazz pianist Claude Bolling titled "Suite for Flute and Jazz piano."

The album is a fascinating achievement. Like Rampal's classical playing, it is sonorously linear and brilliantly executed. "Suite for Flute and Jazz Piano" was both a critical success and a record-store success.

This year, Rampal has undertaken what is perhaps the most intellectually demanding musical chore: conducting. Unable to leave his flute backstage, however, he has both performed and conducted several concerts.

When Rampal performs here in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall again this year, on Feb. 18, he will be doing what he does best; playing duets with his partner of more than twenty-five years, harpsichordist Robert Veyron-Lacroix.

They are an impressive team. Their concert at the Fine Arts Center last year, a sell-out, featured virtuoso playing on works that ranged in period from Bach to modern French composer Jacques Ibert. Rampal and Lacroix were called back for three encoures, and the final piece, a composition by Ibert, brought the audience to its feet.

The intelligence and virtuousity of a Rampal-Lacroix performance is something no one should miss. Tickets go on sale tomorrow, and are $4, $3, $2 for students. Get in line early.

— Mark Leccese

University of massachusetts arts council
presents

Quartetto Italiano

The program will consist of QUARTET IN C MAJOR, OPUS 76, No. 3 ("Emperor") by Haydn. THREE PIECES FOR STRING QUARTET (1914) by Stravinsky. CONCERTINO FOR STRING QUARTET (1920) by Stravinsky and QUARTET IN D MINOR, D. 810 ("Death and the Maiden") by Schubert.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

Tickets now on sale! $5, 4, 3. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.

F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

The Generals Place
Army-Navy Store

Nylon and Canvas Packs – $3.49
Cotton Turtlenecks – $4.98
Fatigue Pants – Green, Navy or Tan $8.95
Painter's Pants – Blue and White $10.95
Overalls – Blue and White $14.95
Gerber Folding Hunting Knives – from $20.00

35 E. Pleasant St., Amherst 549-6166
(Next to Minuteman Cleaners)

Nominations Are Open to fill vacancies in the Student Senate

There are currently vacancies in the following constituencies:

Greenough
John Adams Upper
Cashin
Coolidge Lower
Hamlin
Leach
Mary Lyons
Thatcher
Thoreau
Cance
Wheeler
Crampton
Coolidge Upper
*Commuters
Elected at large

Dickinson
Baker
*Greek Area
Pierpont
J.Q.A. Lower
J.Q.A. Middle
J.Q.A. Upper
Van Meter North
Knowlton
Washington Middle
Brown
Gorman
*Third World

Nomination papers are available in the Student Senate Office, 420 Student Union.

Valentines Day Special

Gaze Into The Past, Present and Future
Have Your Fortune Read With Any Purchase Or A Slight Charge

Saturday, February 12 &
Monday, February 14

10 a.m.-6 p.m.

love at first sight
549-0700
Carriage Shops, Amherst

CAMPUS CENTER/STUDENT UNION

SPACE

ALLOCATIONS

Applications are now available for all persons interested in applying for space for 1977-78. All groups wishing to renew or change space for next year must apply. Forms are available at the Board of Governors office, 817 Campus Center, and must be returned no later than Tuesday, February 22, 1977.

The CC—SU Board of Governors is an Equal Opportunity—Affirmative Action organization.

We are about to promise you the world !!

Jon Doak, Lambda Chi Alpha Director of expansion, will be talking with men interested in starting an entirely new fraternity on the UMass campus from 9am. thru 5pm. on Feb. 2, 3, and 4th in room 902 of the Campus Center. For information, contact Mr. Doak in room 520 of the CC. or Ed Bowe in the Greek Affairs Office at 545-2711.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA FRATERNITY
-a Sharing Experience

' 'I Saw Him on the Radio'

LEO SAYER
Endless Flight
(Warners)

This is an immensely enjoyable album. It is also as positive and abrupt about face from his prior release, Another Year, as could be hoped for. By now you should know Leo Sayer as the owner of that quirky tune, "You Make Me Feel Like Dancing." While that song has established him in the public ear after four albums, there is much more to Endless Flight than a one hit single.

Producer Richard Perry's uncanny knack for picking the right performer to produce, and his choice in material aids Sayer's own talents. Thus their selection ranges from Sayer's own contributions — like "Dancing" and the bright opener, "Hold on To My Love"; — to chestnuts like the Supremes' "Reflections" done here with as much energy and verve as the original. Leo also has chosen Andrew Gold's despairing "Endless Flight" and Danny O'Keefe's "Magdalena" two affecting songs that neatly balance the almost inevitable joy and adolescently saccharine twists to his singing.

It has taken the diminutive Mr. Sayer a while to leap in into the mainstream of popular music. He began by writing and co-writing songs for the Who's Roger Daltrey's first solo album, and progressed through three earlier albums as he gave evidence to his ability to write pop music. That wide middle of the road for music, the AM airwaves, was almost his after his first hit, "Long Tall Glasses." Now it surely is safe and secure spot for Sayer. And if he ain't gonna pen the next Sgt. Peppers of our times, he is writing infectious and happy light music. Music to set you dancing and smiling, and that is no mean feat.

—Craig Roche

Bootsy's Rubber Band
Ahh...The Name is Bootsy, Baby
(Warners)

George Clinton should be seriously entertaining the thought of changing the Parlifunkalic Thing slogan to Parlifunkabooty Thing. Why? Well friends, the name is Bootsy! The ex-Parlifunkadelic bassman is now on the same maggot plane as Clinton. It also cuts to shreds the Rubber Band's first lp, Stretching Out. This record makes it look exceedingly tame.

When Bootsy left the mothership, he-along with Clinton designed the Rubber Band as a cartoon version of the Parliments and the Funkadelics. And it has succeeded rather well-maybe Walt Disney funk or whatever! Bootsy refers to himself as "Casper-not the friendly ghost" and offers a "friendly boo" to us. He's also a pervert.

While being hystericallly funny at times, Bootsy has provided us with the first hard core porno record. In "What's A Telephone Bill?", he offers these sentiments— "you might call me an obscene phone call". I won't even bother to explain what "The Pinocchio Theory" is about—you probably can guess.

Parlifunkadelic fans will have no problems getting into this album—it is magnificent. Most of the tunes were penned by Clinton, Bootsy and various Funkadelic guitatists. Headphones are essential to pick up all the little dirty lines. A notebook is indeed necessary to write down all maggot-trivia. Contribute "Your Rump To The Bump, er Funk"! Casper was never like this, but then again, there's never been anything like Parlifunkadelic either.

—Dave Santos

CLINT EASTWOOD IS

DIRTY HARRY

THURSDAY FEB. 3
7,9,11 PM
CCA

PLUS
ROADRUNNER
CARTOON

● Scriabin

cont from 6

the dancers, actors, and actresses all former students of Sokolow. Using two concert pianists - Justin Blasdale and Andrew Rangell - the music is interpreted sensitively. Tom Demastri and Nita Angeletti recite the poetry of Scriabin and the dancers render the drama through their bodies. The lighting by Edward Effron is superb - a dusky twilight, and the costumes by Robert Yoddice lent themselves admirably.

Ms. Sokolow is a choreographer of the old school, or those dancers and dance-goers brought up on off-hand pedestrian movement and quirky "post-modern dance" the movement seemed overly stylised and dramatic. But seen in the light of Sokolow's earlier famous work "Rooms" and the Graham dramatic era "Homage To Scriabin" stands up very well.

Rumour Spreads!

Graham Parker
Heat Treatment
(Mercury)

Records and bands like this are at the heart of rock and roll. Graham Parker's bio reads like a script from an Elvis Presley movie of 1958, or Elvis' own story. Parker's job before he hit the road in a band was as a gas station attendant in England. He placed ads in British trade papers for a band, assembled same from Ducks Deluxe and Brinsley Schwarz, two acts that broke up, and released an album called Howlin Wind in 1976. That record caught a lot of ears that belonged to critics, and much like Springsteen's initial efforts, Parker and the Rumour became critic's darlings.

That doesn't pay well, however. Heat Treatment should start things rolling for this band in 1977. Look England needs the money and Graham Parker and the Rumour are working to earn it.

The Rumour, behind Parker, play as if they had never heard most music that's been out for the past ten years. Like the 'minimalists' in New York, most of the music is built around simple chords and tunes. It is the power of Parker's Throaty, Van Morrison-like voice, as he sings that'll get you first. Comparisons to the Stones of old days are valid also. The lyrics and music are as elemental as the themes Parker writes of, It's earthy, Anglo R&B, aimed at your butt as much as your brain.

Brinsley Schwarz and Bob Andrews, a member of Schwarz's, former band, form the base to the Rumour. Their guitar and keyboard work is supplemented by the third guitarist, Martin Belmont. Steve Goulding on drums and Andrew Bodnar on bass, aided by a horn section get the album off to a burning start by opening with the title cut. You will hear echoes of Them and the Stones in all Parker does, and if you are listening closely you may wonder if some of his poses are tongue in cheek. These poses, the mucho and swagger, could well be real, for surely one of the last bastions of male chauvinism lies in working class England.

Parker is more than a rockin' Andy Capp, however. His mating music to lyric makes for that. Thus "Hotel Chambermaid" and "That's What They All Say" have rough, punchy music to complement their venom and anger. "Turned Up Too Late" is a gentle reggae beat and a probing feeler of a relationship.

Graham Parker is a rising star in 1977, this should be a good year for his band and him. Heai the record and see the band if you get the chance, you won't be dissapointed.

Craig Roche

JIM HALL
Commitment
(A&M)

Speaking of his new album, guitarist Jim Hall says, "we didn't want just another slick jazz record." To Mr. Hall I say, "you got it toyota."

All the supporting musicians are personal friends of Hall, who at 46 has played with many of the greats. Ron Carter's bass, as always, stands out as well as up. Tommy Flanagan on piano, and Art Farmer on Fluglehorn do plenty more than back-up" Hall's melodic electric guitar.

He is considered one of the more innovative guitarists, and here he continues to add to the art by playing his new steel string acoustic guitar on two of the eight songs. Its clean sound is an interesting change from the mellow sound he is associated with.

Three of the songs are transcribed on the record jacket, a practice other record companies would be wise to follow. It makes the record a bargain for guitarists who don't particularly care for the music, but who want to learn some new songs. Where else can you play a few tunes with Ron Carter?

All these features don't add up to a great album, but they do contribute to a unique one by one of the finest guitarists around.

—Jim Gagne

storewide sale!
2 days only
fri. & sat. feb.4/5*
...up to 50% OFF!

Stretched Wall Hangings in 100's of Fabrics
A Rare Opportunity to save on Yarn & Fabric!
...Save on:
Bernat, Brunswick, Ingeer, Candide, Lopi, & weaving yarns; Crompton corduroys & velveteens, Mettsovaara Stromma, Pendleton wool Flannels, cottons, knits, selected patterns & notions...
& so much more!
Fri. till 9 P.M.
All Sales Final.

the shop for busy hands

EARTHWARES
103 N. PLEASANT/AMHERST 256 8810

TAKE AN ADDITIONAL

20% off

Our Already Unbelievable LOW PRICES

Sale

COATS - JACKETS
DRESSES - PANT SUITS
& JUMPSUITS ONLY

Thurs., Fri. & Sat., FEBRUARY 3, 4 & 5!

Coupon
U.M.C.
20% OFF
ALL WOMEN'S COATS, JACKETS,
DRESSES & PANT SUITS ONLY
With this coupon • Thru Feb. 5, 1977

It's our special way of saying "thanks" for shopping...

Wear it Well

'HAMP PLAZA
NORTHAMPTON
Next to Caldor's

Store Hours:
MONDAY-SATURDAY, 10 A.M. - 9 P.M.

SKI
BERKSHIRE
EAST

LIVE ENTERTAINMENT
Fri. & Sat. Nights
and Sun. Afternoon

Night Skiing $5
Tues.-Sat. 4:30-10:00 p.m.
½ Price Tuesday Night
Couples Night Sat. $5 per couple
College Night Thurs. & Fri.
½ Price with I.D.

COUPON
$1.00 Off Regular Prices
Week Days $7, Weekend Days $9.50
Nights $5
MASS. LARGEST SKI AREA
Only 40 miles away

Tired of dorm living?
Chi Omega
a modern sorority offers a pleasant alternative with all the benefits of living at home, friendly atmosphere, homecooked meals, conducive atmosphere for study, easy access to campus by bus.
Come visit us at Frat. Sor. Park. Call Mary or Laurie for more info. 256-6868.

Amherst Auto Parts
Used car parts
Junk Car?
We pay $10 and up.
Replace Glass
Buy and Sell Cars
Located ½ mile past the Rusty Scupper on Rt. 9, behind Amherst landfill.
Phone 256-6409

JOBS AVAILABLE
Openings available for workstudy and non-workstudy jobs with the Student Organizing Project.
Many skills needed: Organizational, secretarial graphics, radio, ability to work with people, journalistic.
Room 426 Student Union,
Apply at the SOP office,
or Call 545-2415

IT'S RED DOT TIME!
WE GOTTA CLEAR FOR INVENTORY
— any record with a red dot just $3.59
People like: Bonnie Raitt Joni Mitchell
Seals and Crofts Z.Z. Top ("Tejas")
Plus Deals Like: Wings over America $7.99
Taj Mahal's "Music 'Fuh Ya" $4.19
Gary Wright's "A Light of Shine" $4.19
Elton John's "Blue Moves" $7.99
Come see our clearance on CB gear and our new Craig Car Units

the Sound room
186 Main St., Northampton • 584-4478
mon-wed 10-6; thur-fri 10-9; sat 10-5
44 Elliot St., Brattleboro, Vt.
mon-thur 9:30-5:30; fri 9:30-8:30; sat 9:30-4:30 and... oh yeah– SONY IS COMING!

A Bore Is Starred (Again)

By John Matthew

Barbara, Barbara; "A Bore Is Starred?" This was one N. Y. critic's impression of Barbara Streisand's latest film, "A Star Is Born." The film, despite opening to love-hate reviews is certainly not hurting for audiences. ($21 M in B.O. gross so far, $85M final estimates)

Streisand lovers are out to see Barbara's latest relationship with Barbara, produced by Barbara, music supervised by Barbara, and Barbara clothed by Barbara. Is modesty the worst form of conceit?

Barbara brings us an updated "Funny Girl" as Babs goes from rags to riches while her lover (Kris) does the skid scene. We've seen Barbara do it all before yet "Star" remains a highly entertaining film. She took the best in music (Streisand, Kristofferson, Loggins, Russell) and film (Streisand, Kristofferson, Surtees) attempting to create a high calibre product.

Unfortunately her persence intimidated certain film talents on the project. Yet to not appreciate the talent in this film is to overlook its strongest point. The film is great if you take it like Mexican food, eat it up but don't think to much about it. Kris is great as John Norman, John Norman, and the techinical credits are superb. If only Babs could get over seeing her name in lights.

FILM

Oscars Anyone?..Robert DeNiro is rumored to have the inside track for the Best Actor award for his performance in 'Taxi Driver.' The new DeNiro pic, 'New York, New York', co-starring Liza Minnelli, again teams star Bob with longtime friend-director Martin 'Taxi Driver' Scorsese. The big band drama will break in June and should establish both director and star as the hottest properties in pictures. Will you still be talking to me?

They Sure Don't Make' em Like They Used To...Yet the year-end releases are doing heavy biz making 1976 the second biggest year in the industry's history. The outlook for '77 is even brighter.

Rich Man, Rich Man...Robert Redford, 1976's male "World Film Favorite," picked up a record $200K per day for his ten day stint in Joe Levine's $23M war epic, 'A Bridge To Far.' His outlook for '77 is even brighter.

• Ibsen

cont from 5

know what's wrong with our lives...when we dead awaken."

Admittedly, some of the trite lines in the play were not so when they were written. Ibsen wrote for his contemporaries. But Allen's directing could have smoothed over some of these linguistic rough spots. As it stands, these rough spots have been allowed to grow into pinnacles with nothing of value at the top.

But this shortcoming can't quite prevent the message of Ibsen's script from coming across; that life, once bereft of its quest for fulfillment of dreams and ideals, is really death. Once we have dreamed, we must try to fulfill that dream, or die.

As professional theatre, StageWest's production of When We Dead Awaken does not satisfy. Perhaps this is due to the high expectations which this theatre group has come to be expected to meet. Maybe their next production will live up to StageWest's habitually excellent capabilities.

MID-WINTER SALE
JAN. 21 - FEB. 5
SELECTED ITEMS THROUGHOUT THE STORE.
EXAMPLES:

Parkas	up to 25% off
Wool-rich Wool Shirts	up to 40% off
Back Packs	up to 50% off
Tents	up to 50% off
Hiking Boots	up to 20% off

Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY, INC.
PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON, MASS.
9-5:30 Weekdays — 9-5:00 Saturday

Crafts

The Fine Art of Furniture Making

Powell and Tierney Woodworkers in Hatfield

by Stacy Belkind

The displacement of manual labor by machines has dramatically increased through the centuries. We are sadly reminded more often than not that almost everything we use has been produced by machinery. We live in an age of prefabrication and mechanization where machines demand the assistance of the human hand to start and stop their activity.

The pride in workmanship that guided the skilled laborer over the centuries has been replaced by the tedious drones that produce the same piece over and over again. Maybe some day if machines get real smart and people real dumb, machines will automatically start up at 9:00, take lunch and coffee breaks, and then call it a day at 5:00.

"They don't make 'em like they use to" is a sad reality. We have become content to own cheaply and mass produced junk. There are some people however, that find this sort of existence much too easy.

I was very fortunate to visit a woodwork shop in Hatfield where seven students along with their instructor David Powell still use the tools and techniques of centuries ago. It was very interesting to talk with them about their reasons for going into woodworking and what direction their skills might take them.

What impressed me most about the Hatfield interns was the unanimous excitement and enjoyment from working with wood. According to John Wiant with regard to the shop, "There is no place that I'd rather be." Wiant attended college for a few years and was seriously thinking about becoming a philosophy teacher. It was through John Tierney of Boston University Artisanry Program that Wiant learned of David Powell's instruction in woodworking at Hatfield.

Wiant has thus combined his love for woodworking and education by transmitting his ideas through the medium of wood. He informed me that his instructor, "Envisions the shop as the first two years of a seven to eight year learning process. He would like us to study with three or four woodworkers." The reason for this is because there are different techniques and styles to become familiar with and this wider range of exposure is beneficial.

David Powell and John Tierney are responsible for the creation of the woodworking program at Hatfield. Powell says that he was "Gently eased towards woodworking at the age of sixteen by my father." His father is a master bookbinder who recently repaired the internationally famous Book of Kells.

An Englishman, Powell studied with David Pye at the Royal School of Design in London. He spent the seven years prior to the formation of the Hatfield program doing woodworking in Brattleboro, Vermont. The intern program was initiated in order to enable people to pursue their interests in working with wood.

While talking with Kristina Madsen, I watched her work on a binder's type case that she is making for a book binder. Madsen was the first intern in the program and she is pleased that six others have joined ranks with her. She told me that she had been interested in woodworking for quite some time and after learning about the program she decided to pursue her interests in Hatfield.

Anne Meyerson stressed the precision needed when building with wood. She informed me that her first experience with woodworking began at the shop with an exercise in planing an octagonal cutting board followed by exercises in dove-tailing which is a joint used in fastening wooden boxes.

These exercises emphasized the accuracy that is essential in woodworking. Powell would design a piece which enabled his students to concentrate on technique. A woodworker must learn what goes into the construction of a piece before learning about design.

One is never proficient to the point of not being able to learn something new about design or construction. Peter Superty who owns and operates a woodwork shop in Brattleboro, Vermont has come to study in Hatfield.

Superty is self-taught and had his first formal training this past summer at Penland in North Carolina where he studied "the finer aspects of woodworking." It is the designing of the work that Superty finds most exciting and so he has taken the year off from his shop to develop his designing techniques.

Both Neal Barkon and Paul Marks attended Boston University's Summer Artisanry program where they learned of the Hatfield woodworking intern program. It was Barkons first experience in formal woodwork instruction. He began building while living in the Poconos in Pennsylvania after which he began building furniture.

Marks decided to go into furniture building during his senior year of High School. He spent the following summer at Rhode Island School of Design followed by a year of working.

We spoke about the relationship of design and construction in the building of a piece. Accordint to Marks, "When you design something, you have to take the construction into consideration. You have to design a piece around construction that you know."

There is always risk involved as to whether or not a piece will work, but the risk factor diminishes with more construction knowledge. Marks stresses the need for careful consideration of a certain material in designing a piece.

"Granted you can use wood for design, but will wood play out the design as well as another material? It might be better to use metal or plastic. You can manipulate the wood to say different things but it still remains wood, not a new material."

We discussed what makes one work aesthetically pleasing and another unsuccessful. Marks believes that a work is composed of different ideas and fragments that are translated into a solid piece. The quality of the work depends on the successful interaction and fluidity of the shapes involved. Not only is the physical material important, but the negative space as well.

Peter Glass summed up the pervading atmosphere of the Hatfield woodworkers when he told me that it is the self incentive and independence that he finds so rewarding in his work. It is the idea of working with his hands that Glass finds so attractive.

As I sit typing this article my eyes wander to the table beneath the typewriter and are forced back to the typewriter keys that are almost as monotonous as the table it rests on.

Even the chair I sit on reeks of a million other chairs identical in shape and design. One of these days I'm going to do this desk a favor. Before it gets too warm outside.

QUONSET
Something New in Dining Out!!
Low Budget
Family Menu
featuring
Chef John
Dinner Served
5-9
Tues. thru Fri.
For student groups of 4 and up
10 per cent discount
Restaurant
Hadley, Mass.
Exit 20, I-91, Rt. 9
Reservations
1-253-9214

Photo Lab I
Mountain Farms Mall
Hadley 584-4403

Stand-Up Frame
with Color Enlargement
5x7 $1.99
from any color negative or slide.

Color Prints
up to 20 exposures
$3.49 per roll
Offer ends Feb. 20, 1977

$1.00 Off
Passports and
Job Application
Photos
FAST SERVICE

New and Used
CAMERAS
Bought and Sold

YOU HAVEN'T SEEN ANYTHING
UNTIL YOU'VE SEEN
EVERYTHING *

"Everything you always wanted to know about sex* *BUT WERE AFRAID TO ASK"

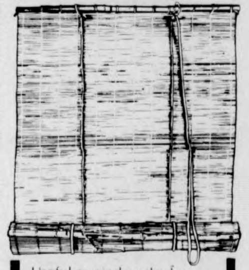
A JACK ROLLINS-CHARLES H. JOFFE
and BRODSKY/GOULD Production
WOODY ALLEN'S
"EVERYTHING YOU ALWAYS WANTED TO KNOW ABOUT SEX*
*BUT WERE AFRAID TO ASK"
R
United Artists

Saturday
Feb. 5

Student
Union
Ballroom

6:30, 8:15, 10:00 & 11:45

Roll-Up
Bamboo
Shades



Useful as window shades, doorway curtains, or room dividers. Each shade contains 550 individual bamboo sticks, completely assembled with hooks for hanging.

2' x 6' - $4.95	5' x 6' - $12.95
2½' x 6' - $5.95	6' x 6' - $14.95
3' x 6' - $7.50	4' x 6' - $9.95
3½' x 6' - $8.50	8' x 6' - $21.95

10% Discount On Purchase Of 3 Or More Shades

Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
OPEN 9:30-5:30 mon.-sat.

Perverse Pleasures and Pursuits Preview

Thur 3

An exhibit of paintings by JOAN ASQUITH is currently at Herter Hall Art Gallery. The show is a group of abstract works which combine organic shapes with transparent areas of color. Her recent paintings have more subtle passages of color and form, which convey a strong emotional feeling of nature. The exhibit can be seen through tomorrow at Herter.

Produced and performed by students, they've literally bent over backwards to bring you the University Student Dance Concert in Bowker Auditorium. Tonite, Friday and Saturday at 8:00 p.m. Tickets are $1.50 for students. A definite must.

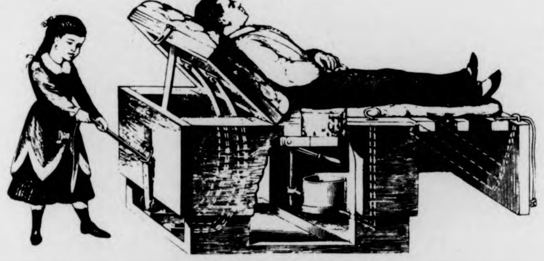
An art gallery talk at the Smith College Museum of Art, by Linda Muehling, museum intern. Talk begins at 1:00 p.m.

Classic cartoon film, The Point, tonite in the Student Union Ballroom at 7:00, 8:30 and 10:00 p.m. Sponsored by Crabtree House.

At Smith College McConnell Hall, tonight, a controversial film from the silent era, D. W. Griffith's The Birth of a Nation at 7:30 p.m. Don't miss it.

See the Smith College Theatre production of Ladyhouse Blues at 8:00 p.m. in the Hallie Flanagan Studio Theatre. Admission is only $1.00. For more info call the box office at 584-2700, ext. 840.

Sponsored by the UMass Commuter Collective, Salt of the Earth is showing in Herter 227 at 8:00 and 10:00 p.m. A film worth seeing.



Clint Eastwood fans, here is your chance to see Dirty Harry again. Tonite at 7:00, 9:00 and 11:00 in the C.C.A. Only a dollar.

Want to act? Auditions today for Toys in the Attic by Lillian Hellman. In the Laboratory Theatre, Mount Holyoke College.

Fri 4

Starts today and runs until March 20, an exhibit of 75 photographs from the Smith College Museum of art collection. The exhibit is designed to give the viewer a sampling of photography's evolution over the past one hundred and fifty years. Masters of the medium including Edward Weston, Imogene Cunningham and Ansel Adams on display. A must see at the Smith Art Museum.

You won't want to miss Alfred Hitchcock's Family Plot tonite at 7:00, 9:15 and 11:30 p.m. Sponsored by Chadbourne House, in the C.C.A. for a dollar.

See Murder on the Orient Express at the Main Lecture Hall, Franklin Patterson Hall at Hampshire College. Being shown at 7:00 and 9:15, it's a good deal for only a buck.

Another film, Soldier Blue, showing at Mahar at 7:00, 9:15 and 11:30 p.m.

See it for free, Feelin' Good — a joyous, handclapping revue presented by the National Theatre Company. Playing in the S.U.B. at 8:00 p.m.

Gilbert and Sullivan fans won't want to miss Patience or Bunthornes Bride at Chapin Auditorium, Mount Holyoke College. Saturday and Sunday also.

A film starring Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire, Top Hat, tonite at McConnell Hall, Smith College. Admission $1.00, 7:30 and 9:30 p.m.

At Amherst College you can see Drying Up, a dramatic arts thesis production written and directed by Jeffry S. Deutsch. In the Fayeweather Theater at Amherst College, another bargain for only a dollar. Saturday and Sunday too.

Sat 5

No one knows what to expect, and we don't either but we know it will be merveilleusa! The Gil Evans Orchestra at 8:00 p.m. in the concert hall, Fine Arts Center. Sponsored by the UMass Fine Arts Council.

Auditions for the spring dance concert at Mount Holyoke. All five college people invited to participate — 9 a.m. to noon in Kendall Studio I, Mount Holyoke.

Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Woody Allen and His Androgynous Sheep Buddies (i.e. Sex) — Student Union Ballroom, 6:30, 8:15, 10:00 and 11:45, sponsored by Patterson House.

M+A+S+H — the movie made in preparation for the TV series. C.C.A., 7:00, 9:15, 11:30 p.m., sponsored by Hillel.

Arthur Penn's highly praised dark detective tale Night Moves, starring Gene Hackman at Smith's Sage Hall. 7:30 and 9:30, admission — one dolluh.

Freeeeee Music recital at Buckeley Recital Hall, Music Center, Amherst College. Featured are pianist Kourken Daglian and violinist Joseph Edelberg.

Sun 6

Videeo visuals at the Student Union Art Gallery — "Video Kitchen" and "Prime Time" thru Feb. 10.

Aspiring dramatists, audition, for "Machinal" by Sophie Treadwell today at 10 a.m. In the T.V. Studio, Theatre Building at Smith College.

Drying Up, for details check Friday listing.

Ladyhouse Blues, see Friday.

Patience, see Friday.

Visual delights and audio pleasures abound in "Everybody's Everything". Jack Flash quadrasonic Sound and Light Show. Happening in the S.U.B. at 9:00 p.m., admission $1.00.

Mon 7

You won't want to miss Gone With The Wind, showing in Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke. An incredible bargain, only 75c to see this cinema classic.

Jorg Demus, artist in residence at Amherst College, begins a series recitals.

Tues 8

If your travels take you to Hampshire College tonight you'll want to see Triumph of the Will at 7:30 p.m. in the Franklin Patterson Hall.

Gone With The Wind — see Monday listing.

Jorg Demus plays Schumann in a recital at Buckley Recital Hall, Amherst College.

A film to benefit those arrested while December's Puffton Village eviction, I Was, I Am, I Will Be, at 7:30 p.m. in the main lecture hall, Hampshire College.

Wed 9

Paul Parks, commissioner for higher education in Massachusetts, speaks on "Alternative in Organization and Reorganization of Public Higher Education in Massachusetts." Should be interesting, today at 4 p.m., C.C.A.

Don't miss Truffaut's The Wild Child tonight in the Main Lecture Hall, Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire College. Only a dollar, get there before it sells out.

Gone With The Wind — see Monday listing.

We try to make our weekly listing as complete as possible but we're only human and sometimes omissions do occur. If you have an event for our listing, please submit a brief (two sentences) typewritten notice to "Below the Salt Weekly Listing," 113 Campus Center (or call us at 545-3500).

COME GROW WITH US.

Come grow with us—see yourself, your community life, your career opportunities and skills grow at the Division of Continuing Education, UMass/Amherst. If you are not concerned with academic credit, the Credit-Free Workshop Program makes it possible for you to explore old or new areas of interest at hours that are convenient. New Communities in Action Workshops are inexpensive and offer both theoretical and practical knowledge to promote citizen effectiveness within community organizations. On February 4, mail registration ends and you may then enroll on a space-available basis by coming to the Records Office in the lobby of Hills House, UMass/Amherst, during regular office hours as well as early evenings, Monday through Friday, and Saturday from 10 to 1. Write to Credit-Free Workshops, P. O. Box 835, Amherst, MA 01002 or phone (413)545-3653 for a free catalog containing complete workshop descriptions and additional information about educational options.

cej

SPRING 1977 CREDIT-FREE WORKSHOPS

Basic Calligraphy; Basic Drawing; Cartoon Art; Colonial Restoration/Interior Decorating; Crewel; Weaving; Gravestone Rubbing; Painting/Enamels; Patchwork; Pottery; Print Collecting; Problems in Non-Representational Painting; Puppetry; Upholstery; How to Get Published; Performing Arts and Booking Seminar; Women and the Arts; Community Arts Day; Ballet, Beginning and Intermediate; Creative Movement; Dance Exercise; Hatha Yoga; Modern Dance, Intermediate; Tap-Dancing; Acupuncture Massage; Natural Macrobiotic Cooking; Herbal Medicine; Seaweeds and Foods of the Future; Conversational English for Foreign Students; Conversational Language: French, German, Italian, Spanish, Greek; Jazz-Rock Guitar; Fiddle/Violin Workshop; Basic Folk Guitar; Folk-Rag Guitar, Intermediate; Persuasive Writing Workshop; Reading and Writing the New Gothic; Sign Language and Finger Spelling, Beginning and Advanced; Spanish-English Translation; Writing for Magazines; Writing for Self-Enrichment; Writing for Life; Hang Gliding; Technical Rock Climbing, Introductory and Intermediate; Tennis, Beginning and Intermedaite; Career Desicion-Making; Conflict Resolution; Creative Anaysis; Dreams and Dream Interpretation; Improving Interpersonal Relationships; Self-Defeat and Self-Realization; Siddha Yoga/Meditation; Tarot; Darkroom Procedures; Photography, Basic and Intermediate; Photography for Artists and Craftspeople; 35mm Camera Workshop; Care and Feeding of House-plants; Landscaping and Grounds Maintenance; Terrarium/Bottle Garden Construction; Williamsburg-Style Colonial Arrangements; Acting Workshops. Technical Theater; Theatrical Lighting, Basic and Advanced; Animal Management for the Self-Sufficient Farm; Astrology; Auto Mechanics; Seminar in Massachusetts Special Education Law; Developing Consulting Skills; Math Learning Skills; Real Estate; The People Side of Management, (6 CEU's).

THE DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION,
UMASS/AMHERST

PUBLISH!

On April 7 Below the Salt will publish an entire issue of FICTION, POETRY,
AND OUTWRITE
UNTRUTHS!
SUBMIT! or forever
hold your piece.

UNITED TRANSMISSION
EXCHANGE, INC.

ALL MAKE CAR AND
TRUCK TRANSMISSIONS REPAIRED REBUILT
EXCHANGED
KING STREET NORTHAMPTON
584-6790

The UMass grapplers will go head-to-head against the Massachusetts Maritime Academy at the Boyden auxiliary gym tomorrow night at 7. (Staff photo by Rob Carlin)

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
VOLUME CVI, ISSUE 79
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1977
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

Gethers reveals defense plans

Last night, former UMass student Craemen Gethers met with the press at Norfolk State Prison, to discuss those strategies he feels will "prove my innocence."

Gethers, convicted last summer of armed robbery of the McDonalds on Rte. 9 in Hadley, is currently serving an 8 to 12 year sentence at the Massachusetts Correctional Institute in Walpole, Mass.

Gethers spoke quietly under the ever watchful eyes of guards in the visitor's room, and expressed to reporters the need "to see just how much support I have to work with."

He has given out instructions to the defense committee here and different key groups in the state that have devised plans for his defense.

Gethers sees the primary role of support groups in the realm of funding. Plans are being formulated that will create a second defense committee on the UMass campus in Boston. The committee will spread out across the state as well as the immediate area to raise monies for Gethers' defense.

Another area of concentration was seen as publicity. Working with the defense committees will be organizations such as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Ecumenical Baptist Church (EBC). Rev. Charles Stith, attending the Norfolk conference and representing the statewide EBC feels "the issues of Craemen Gethers case need to be told to what he refers to as "heavyweights." Rev. Stith outlined tentative plans that will present the Gethers' case to the Governors Council.

Gethers hopes to have groups circulate petitions on both UMass campuses that call for a pardon. Expected numbers of signatures obtained for the petitions were estimated to be "about 10,000 easily."

The organizations working with Gethers will also be requesting people to show their support on an alternative petition for a commutation of sentence.

Name of National organization leaders, as well as campus sympathizers such as the Student Revolutionary Brigade were whispered to reporters, while fellow inmates occasionally offered additional information.

Rev. Stith speculated about the success of state and national exposure. "I will be in touch with specific persons at television Channels 5 and 7. Information in the form circulars are being distributed through the mail.

For Gethers the past two years have been a legal ordeal. "I find that the lawyers I have had representing me have not sufficiently fulfilled my needs," he said.

Gethers feels that lawyers are not "going as far as I want them to with the case." Although optimistic about his present attorney, Gethers has felt he has "had to assume the role of a dictator with his four successive lawyers, in that I have to tell them just what I want them to do." Gethers himself has chosen the four successive lawyers that have represented him through two trials.

A motion is being prepared for transfer to Hampshire Correctional Institute in Northampton. Meanwhile, Craemen Gethers waits and watches from Norfolk State Prison for the support that will lead him back to the unbrideled pursuit of an education that he enjoyed before his conviction and above all else, freedom.

UMass to host Olympics for special kids

By THERESA M. HANAFIN
Collegian Staff

For Joey, the excitement has been building for about two months now. Tomorrow is going to be a big day — the culmination of weeks of practicing how to shoot and dribble a basketball. He'll be traveling to UMass for the first time. There will be flags, and entertainment, and prizes.

It's going to be hard to sleep tonight thinking about it all. Because for Joey, a mentally retarded man, the Special Olympics at UMass tomorrow are something worth getting excited about.

Joey could be one of more than 100 mentally retarded children and adults who will gather in Boyden Gymnasium tomorrow morning from 9:00 to noon for the Special Olympics Run-Shoot-Dribble Tournament.

Special Olympics is a nationwide program of sports training and athletic competition for mentally retarded children and adults. It is unique in that it provides for competitors at all levels of ability by assigning them to "competition divisions" based on both age and actual performance. Even athletes in the lowest division may advance all the way to the international finals.

The creator and sponsor of Special Olympics nationally and internationally is the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation. The program is operated by Special Olympics, Inc. — a non-profit, charitable organization.

According to organizers, the purpose of Special Olympics is to contribute to the physical, social and psychological development of the mentally retarded. Through positive successful experiences in sports, they gain confidence and self-imagery and build a self-image associated with success rather than failure.

And that is what is "special" about these Olympics — nobody loses. Every participant will get a certificate in remembrance of the day.

Except for that, organizers say they are trying to make everything else as close to the real thing as possible. That includes opening and closing ceremonies, flags, the playing of the national anthem, the utilization of a priest for an opening prayer and ribbons for the top three finishers. Then there are some extras, such as movies and musical entertainment by an accordian player.

The tournament sponsored by Hampshire and Hampden Counties is for any person developmentally disabled eight years and older. There will be four areas for scoring, with a possible total of 100 points.

The Free Throw Shooting will take place from the foul line, and each participant will have five shots for six points each.

Field Goal Shooting will take place from six different spots around the key and are worth five points each.

Then the competition gets a bit tougher.

Dribbling for time involves the entrant dribbling a basketball from half-court around two cones and then shooting. Thirty seconds is used as a base in scoring this event. The amount of time it takes for the person to dribble around the cones to the basket is subtracted from 30 and that is given as the score.

If the person then scores a basket, he-she gets five more points. The Bonus Goal Shot is worth 10 points and is taken from various spots around the court depending on the person's age and ability.

The event is scheduled to include persons from Hampshire and Hampden Counties and part of Worcester County, and others from elsewhere in the state.

Stephen R. Santa Fe, coordinator of the Special Olympics for Belchertown State School, said the physical activity and social interaction the participants will receive is very important.

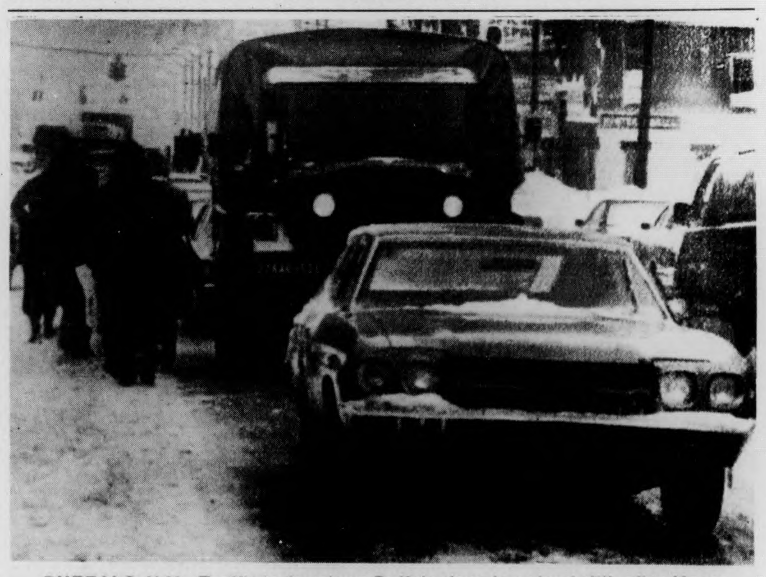
"We've been practicing at Belchertown for the meet for the past two months and are really looking forward to it," he said, "Our entrants are pretty excited about the whole thing."

He stressed, however, that the encouragement from the audience and spectators is probably the most important thing for the participants.

"When they hear cheering and clapping and general approval it will bring a lot of joy to the people in the meet," he said.

He also said volunteers are still needed to help with the whole tournament, if they don't mind getting over to Boyden by 8:30 tomorrow morning.

Think of the people like Joey. The excitement has been building for a long time.



BUFFALO, N.Y.: Traffic in downtown Buffalo slows to a stand-still, after Mayor Stanley Makowski lifted the driving ban on all non-essential vehicles. Snow and heavy traffic caused major snarls throughout the metropolitan area. Makowski announced that the ban will be reinstated effective 12:01 Friday. (UPI)

Inside

Reporter's Line

Reporter Kevin Turcotte has spoken with UMass student Roger Sturgis about the practices of Amherst Towing. See Page 3.

The Stork has arrived! Black Affairs proudly introduces LUTHER. See Pages 4 and 5.

Wire Line

Military Marxists attempt to overthrow Ethiopian regime. See Page 9.

New natural gas supply combats cold. See Page 6.

Smokey the Bear offers free firewood. See Page 6.

Legislation introduced in Maine to ban aerosol sprays. See Page 7.

Weather

Whaddaya think?

Speaker details life with typical family

By ARNOLD WARSHAW
Collegian Staff

After spending extensive amounts of time with seven American families, Paul Wilkes said yesterday that "parents expect too much of their kids; they have expectations beyond comprehension."

Wilkes was on campus as a guest of the Journalistic Studies program, and spoke to different groups about his experiences researching and writing his book, Trying out the Dream; A Year in the life of An American Family, and his upcoming television documentary series, Six American Families.

Wilkes' book is an account of a year he spent with a family during 1971 and 1972. He chose what he thought was a typical family, and lived with them for four out of seven days of the week.

"I was just like one of the family," Wilkes said, "I took out the garbage and washed the dishes..."

At times, he needed to take notes but he didn't want to do it in front of the family and ruin the atmosphere, so he ran to the bathroom.

"They thought I had weak kidneys," Wilkes said.

Though he was close to the family, he avoided actually getting "involved" in family matters. "I didn't want to influence them," Wilkes said.

After completing his book, Wilkes was contacted by Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. about doing the documentary series. Wilkes was host, writer and associate producer for it. The series observes in separate segments, the lives of six American families which are different from each other, but with each is typical in its own way. The series will be aired on Public Broadcasting and Westinghouse stations beginning April 4th.

Wilkes said that the families acted very natural even with the cameras around.

"After two or three days, people really do relax, they trust us", said Wilkes. "The camera becomes a very natural presence in their life; they hate to see us go."

Wilkes feels that the families he stayed with agreed to let themselves by intruded upon because most people feel that their lives are basically boring, and this is their one chance for "a day in the sun."

When they watch the series, people will hopefully identify with the families.

"I'd like people to say, 'I do that all the time'," said Wilkes.

Paul Wilkes

Dukakis to appear on UMass campus

By BRAD GOVERMAN
Collegian Staff

Governor Michael S. Dukakis will appear on the UMass campus within the month to get "a feeling of the University" and to also speak with students and press about this year's University budget.

According to State House Representative James G. Collins, D-Amherst, who spoke last night before the College Democrats Club, "The governor wants to come to UMass and we will provide him with a program so that hopefully he will get a feeling of the University and walk away feeling a deep commitment to it."

Collins spoke to the twenty odd members attending the meeting about the gravity of the governor's $68 million budget proposal, a figure equal to last year's, without including inflation and cost of living increases. Collins is pushing for a budget of $76 million which he refers to as a "growth in quality budget."

"If the budget proposed by the governor is enacted it will destroy the quality of our public higher education. Six hundred people will be laid off, one third to one half of those being faculty. We will be operating a University of 25,000 students with a budget suited for 15,000 students," Collins said.

He stressed that students and parents of students should speak with their legislators during the spring break and tell them exactly how they feel about the quality of education they are receiving.

Collins explained that this year the fiscal situation of the state is different than the past two years. He said that the fiscal crisis of the past two years required state educational budget cuts and a raise in taxes in order to meet the financial demands of more important social needs and human services.

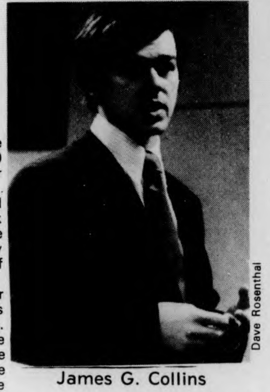
"But this year the budget is better and more monies are coming into the state. New spending policies and new priorities should be set to deal with this money," Collins said.

"The state should increase meeting human needs but they should bear in mind that education is also an essential human need and one that should be met," Collins said.

Collins pointed out that employment is the top priority in the state this year and that education is one of the biggest employers in western Massachusetts employing over 5000 people.

"A 600 employee lay-off would be devastating in this area," Collins said.

Collins suggested that students work through area governments and other student organizations to promote awareness of the budget situation.



Dave Rosenthal

James G. Collins

Indress named CC finance boss

By JEAN CONLEY
Collegian Staff

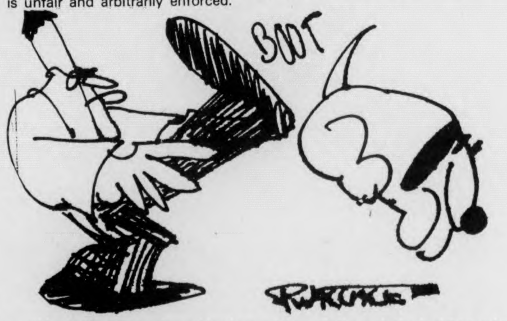
The long search for a new Financial Manager for the Campus Center has finally ended.

Mohammed Idress, currently business manager at William Patterson College in New Jersey, will assume duties on Valentine's Day (Feb. 14) for alternate weeks until the end of March when he will assume full duties it was announced at last night's Board of Governor's (BOG) meeting.

Idress, a Pakistani national, holds an M.B.A. in accounting and is currently working for his Ph.D. in the same field.

So far the only contract agreement between Idress and the Campus Center Management has been verbal, but he is expected to sign official papers today at the Campus Center (CC).

In other business, dogs and food, man's and women's best friends, were the subjects of hot debate at the meeting. The current CC pet policy was contended by a student at the University who feels that the current policy is unfair and arbitrarily enforced.



"My dog is on a leash, and I only want to walk through the building with him. There should be a leash law", according to James Staub, the student contending the present policy.

Staub has brought his complaint before the board several times, but the board and CC management have decided each time that no animals should be allowed in the building. A leash law was wanted and tried in the past, according to CC head of Building Operations Dudley Bridges, but the law "did not work", he said.

"It is a state law that you cannot have an animal in an area that serves food", he said, and the University has no grounds to contend that policy.

The policy stated at the time of Staub's complaint, however, that "no animal could loiter" in the food service area. Staub contended that his dog was not loitering, but rather walking along with Staub on its leash when Staub was apprehended by the CC dog catcher. The Board amended the policy to delete the word "loiter."

Members from Hillel, an interfaith group on campus, approached the Board to make an exception in their Kitchen Catering policy. The policy now states that catering will be done by Food Services when possible. But Hillel wants exception to the policy, arguing that the food served must be kosher and prepared under the direction of a rabbi, and that money should not be charged for the Hillel brunches held every other Sunday in the Commonwealth room. Representatives argued that Food Services would lose any revenue from the group because they do not purchase Food Service food anyway.

The group was given a waiver until the policy is decided upon by the Board.

Dean William F. Field, acting Director of the CC announced at the meeting that members of the four colleges in the area are "excited" about obtaining Top of the Campus, Inc. (TOC) admittance into the Bluewall, Hatch and Top of the Campus Lounge. Field said that allowing members of the five-college community to get TOC stickers may help out the bars "when business is slow."

Lastly, the Board announced that request applications for office space in the Campus Center-Student Union complex have been mailed out to all groups requesting space. Any new group wanting space in the complex can pick up an application at the BOG office on the eighth floor of the CC.

N'East booze license back

By ED PORTER
Collegian Staff

In their first meeting of the semester, Northeast Area Government (NEAG) announced that their liquor license suspension has ended.

NEAG lost their liquor license last March after a policeman was assaulted at the Fate concert last February 13 at Worcester Dining Commons.

Sandy Anderson, from residential recourse managment, explained to the meeting that five cents of every rent dollar paid by Northeast residents is in a trust fund to be used for "physical improvements" on the dorms. Anderson called on the area government for student input and ideas to decide on how the money is to be used.

In other business, Hamlin resident Mitchell Toloczko proposed that this semester's coffee houses be held in Hamlin. He stated that the coffee houses would be "much more efficient if left in Hamlin". He requested $375 from area government to fund five coffee houses this semester.

Toloczko's proposals were met with many objections. NEAG finally decided to try to cut down on expenses incurred, but allotted Hamlin $75 to run their first coffee house.

Nominations for secretary of NEAG were opened by Savas Danos, NEAG vice president.- Nominations will be held open until next week.

Area government announced that the Northeast area weight room, located in Johnson, should be ready for all residents by the end of February. Work is also being done for an area pottery room, to be located in Dwight basement.

In other business, a pulse survey committee, dealing with student feelings, was formed. An election reform committee was organized, to deal with holding elections earlier in the semester. Quad day and the spring semi-formal, to be held Saturday, April 23, were also discussed.

TODAY'S STAFF

STARRING
Peter B. Wallace as Issue Editor

Debbie Walters	Day Layout
Jill Clay	Wirewoman
Rob Carlin	Head photo Priest
Steve Parrot, Dave Rosenthal	Photo Phunkies
Ellyn Faber	Ad Layout
Phil Milstein	Don't leave my name out

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

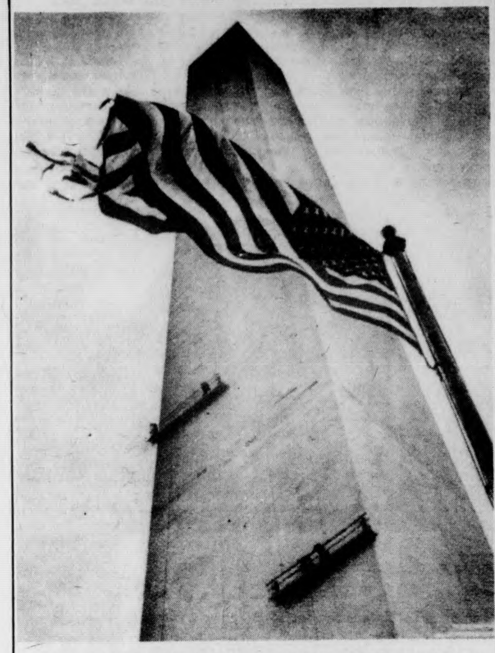
	Semester	Year
Off-campus delivery	$9	$15
On-campus delivery	$5	$ 9
Newsstand price	$.10
Faculty staff	$.05

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst and additional mailing in Ware, Mass. 01082. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Moving up in the world



WASHINGTON: Workmen on scaffolds begin the task of caulking the Washington Monument. With four men working, the job will take about four months, and will cost about $90,000. (UPI photo)

Student submits plans for SGA towing service

By KEVIN TURCOTTE
Collegian Staff

Plans for a Student Government Association (SGA) towing service were submitted for consideration Feb. 2 to the Undergraduate Student Senate.

The service, expected to cost $59,000 is also expected to accumulate $65,000 income in its first year.

The plans, which were submitted by Roger Sturgis, a junior political science major, had been submitted by another student to the senate in Oct. '75.

"The administration was open to it but it was shot down in the senate for political reasons," said Sturgis.

Sturgis recently wrote a critical commentary appearing in the Collegian concerning Amherst Towing.

While at odds with Amherst Towing, Sturgis does recognize the need for a towing service on campus.

"I think that most of the students would rather be paying the tow fee back to the University than paying it to an independent tow service that exists solely on our fines," said Sturgis.

While no concrete rates have been set, Sturgis estimated, "10 dollars for towing and $1 a day for storage. You could pay with a check too, if you had the right identification."

Amherst Towing has been the only towing agency to submit a bid to the University recently because the rest of the tow trucks in the area are owned by gas stations and the owners figure that business at their stations would go down if they started towing.

"No one else wants to take the task of screwing the students," said Sturgis.

Amherst Towing rates are $15 for towing and $3 for storage.

"State regulations set the rates at $12 maximum for police-ordered towing and the maximum for storage at $2.25, which would be a total of $14.25," said Sturgis.

"They've been doing it for at least two years," Sturgis said.

Sturgis said he started thinking about towing when his own car was towed by Amherst Towing on Dec. 1, 1976.

"They jimmied my lock and broke my door. They just stuck some tool in there and pried it open." Sturgis alleged.

Sturgis cited similar cases of alleged damage from people who contacted him because of his Collegian commentary.

As a result of what Sturgis said he feels are widespread grievances, he would "prefer the University re-evaluate their relationship with Amherst Towing."

Sturgis has already filed a class action suit for $18,000 to $36,000 based on overcharges made by Amherst Towing.

This suit, according to Jim Starr, staff attorney for Legal Services, is still in the research stage and nothing definite has arisen yet.

"It's not definite there will be a suit at this time. We hope to avoid that because it uses a lot of resources unnecessarily," Starr said.

"We'd prefer to work it out in the University if that's at all possible," said Starr.

Amherst Towing's license was suspended for 14 days over intersession by the Commercial Motor Vehicle Division of the Department of Public Utilities.

"It's pending appeal, so it hasn't gone into effect yet," said Sturgis.

Amherst Towing, when contacted, had no comment.

Amherst TOWING
24 HR. SERVICE

Amherst Towing may have competition from a student-run towing service in the near future. (Staff photo by Steve Parrott)

Feminist education discussed during women's conference

By FIFI BALL
Collegian Staff

"The aim of the association is to provide and encourage non-sexist, non-racist, feminist education in traditional and non-traditional areas of education," read the front of the flyers advertising the Founding Conference of the National Women's Studies Association (NWSA) held January 13-16, at the University of San Francisco.

Catherine Portuges, Coordinator of the Women's Studies Program here at UMass, and member of the Comparative Literature faculty, was a member of the committee that planned the conference.

The purpose of the conference was to draw up a charter for the NWSA, said Portuges. The charter, essentially a governing document, would include the purpose and goals, membership and dues, the program, and affiliated publications.

The conference was attended by over 500 delegates from all over the country involved in "a variety of educational settings — post-secondary Women's Studies Programs, Women's Centers, Women's Re-Entry Programs, Women's Prison Projects, Centers for Research on Women, elementary and secondary schools, and vocational projects for Women, among others ... ", read the pre-convention flyer.

Portuges taught a workshop at the conference on the development of Women's Studies programs in four-year colleges and universities. The conference included, besides plenary meetings, a number of panel presentations, and over 40 workshops.

Other workshops included: "Feminizing the Traditional Curriculum", "Development of Women's Studies in Alternative Settings", "Working Through Your Consortium to Promote Women's Studies", and "Moral and Legal Assistance to Women in Danger of Losing Their Jobs".

"Our program is one of the strongest in the country," said Portuges. The Women's Studies Program here is one of fifteen in the country being reviewed for a federal report. The report, due out at the end of February, is being done by the Women's Education Equity Program, an organization working for educational opportunities for women in the country. They are trying to assess "the impact of Women's Studies on the mainstream of the curriculums of colleges and universities," said Portuges.

Portuges received her doctorage from UCLA, then taught for three years in the French Department at Smith College in Northampton, before coming to UMass. She said the Women's Studies Program here at UMass is more highly regarded outside of the state than within. She thinks this is true of the attitude towards public schools in Massachusetts in general, because that state has so many private institutions, therefore doesn't support its public schools.

The Women's Studies Program at UMass, currently in its third experimental year, is being reviewed by the Academic Matters Council of the Faculty Senate. The outcome of this review will determine the future shape of the program; whether it remains an offshoot of the Bachenor's Degree with Individual Concentrated Program (BDIC) or becomes an autonomous program.

Portuges said the relationship with the rest of the five-college community will probably remain the same regardless of the outcome. None of the other five colleges have Women's Studies Programs, but all have related courses listed in the guide to Women's Studies courses put out by the Women's Studies Program at UMass.

Currently the program at UMass, which has a broad-based, high quality curriculum offers both a degree, through BDIC, and a certificate; the equivalent of a minor.

For more information about the Women's Studies Program, call 545-1922.

Bromery defends bus halt before faculty senate

By MARY ELLEN LOWNEY
and MARK KINDY
Collegian Staff

Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery told faculty members yesterday, "I am convinced that I made the right decision" by discontinuing the campus bus service during intersession.

Bromery took responsibility for halting bus service for the first three weeks in January due to lack of liability insurance.

In other action at yesterday's Faculty Senate meeting, a vote was taken to fill two Faculty Senate seats on the Board of Trustees, and the highlights of Wednesday's Board of Trustees meeting were reviewed.

Bromery said that many Massachusetts bus companies are not insured and risk being sued if an accident occurs, forcing them out of business. "UMass bus service cannot go out of business," he said.

After sending out two bids with no results, Bromery said he turned the matter over to the treasurer's office. Realizing it would be two weeks before the buses were insured, Bromery "took the buses off the streets rather than take the risk of a driver and 50 people."

The return of bus service on the day before classes resumed last month was, according to Bromery, "coincidental."

To prevent this situation from occurring in the future, Bromery suggested moving the purchase of insurance into the fiscal year cycle, renewable in July rather than December. He also brought up the possibility of insuring the buses under the same agency that insures most of the buildings at UMass, thereby lowering the cost considerably.

Also at the meeting, three faculty senate members were nominated to fill two vacancies as associate delegates to the Board of Trustees. Howard Brogan, from the English dept., Alice Friedman, from the Nursing dept. and Sidney Sufrin, from the School of Business Administration, were the nominees.

Terry Burke, secretary of the senate, said the results of the vote taken yesterday will be released this afternoon.

Reviewing Wednesday's Board of Trustees meeting, Bromery said Governor Michael S. Dukakis' proposal for level funding in fiscal year 1978 would cause "irreparable damage" to UMass. The proposal is about $6 million less than what Bromery maintains is needed to keep up with cost of living increases.

Bromery said he wants to contact UMass alumni and parents of students for support, and to convince them that high-quality, low-cost education is important to the state. He said he welcomes "any kind of support" to affect the final decision on the governor's proposal for level funding.

Black Affairs

James Ray alone in King's assassination?

WASHINGTON [AP] — After a 10-month review, a team of Justice Department lawyers has concluded that James Earl Ray acted alone in the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, informed department sources said Tuesday.

The lawyers rejected theories that Ray was only a cog in a conspiracy to assassinate the Nobel Prize-winning civil rights leader, the sources said.

The team of lawyers from the department's Office of Professional Responsibility delivered its report to former Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi shortly before he left office Jan. 20.

The department plans to make public a "sanitized version" of the report, deleting names of informers and other sensitive material, the sources said.

But the public release has been delayed because department officials want to avoid the appearance of trying to influence the House of Representatives in its debate about launching a lengthy and costly new investigation of the murders of King and President John F. Kennedy.

When the House completes its action, the department will release its own report.

King was shot to death on a motel balcony in Memphis in April, 1968.

Ray pleaded guilty to King's murder. But he told the court he did not agree with statements by the prosecution and his own attorney that there was no conspiracy in the case.

Ray now is serving a 99-year prison sentence in Tennessee.

HUD reverses decision

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. [UPI] — Seventy federally subsidized family housing units will be constructed in Springfield following the Department of Housing and Urban Development's reversal of a stand against building such units in the city's predominantly Hispanic North End secion.

HUD originally ruled such housing could not be built in areas without a racial mix. But after a meeting with federal officials in Boston Tuesday, Mayor William C. Sullivan announced the city won approval for construction of 35 family units in the North End and 35 more units in other portions of the city.

The city had backed the North End project because of the lack of construction in the area in recent years.

"We asked HUD that the city be allowed to determine its own priorities," Sullivan said.

Air Force take-over fails

KHARTOUM, The Sudan [UPI] — Troops loyal to President Jaafar Numeiry have crushed a rebellion by air force troops trying to seize the strategic Juba airport in southern Sudan, the official Sudanese news agency said Thursday.

"Eight soldiers who refused to cooperate with the conspirators were murdered," the agency said. "They also killed two foreigners working on development projects in the southern province."

The report gave no names or nationalities of the slain foreigners.

Police reportedly arrested 18 rebels, "six of them with their machine guns," and launched a massive hunt for 22 others.

Numeiry, who survived the third coup attempt against his regime less than eight months ago, had no comment from his headquarters here in the capital, 700 miles north of Juba.

The southern Sudan has been the battleground of an independence struggle for more than 20 years, with fighting between Africans of the region against the northern Arabs who rule the country of 17 million people.

Numeiry recently accused Ethiopia of arming and training 5,000 Sudanese refugees to move against the Sudan and threatened to take strong measures against Addis Ababa, where the Marxist military regime was battling a coup attempt of its own Thursday.

Numeiry said that the coup attempt in Khartoum last July, in which Sudanese troops defeated an attack by mercenaries as Numeiry returned from a visit to the United States, was financed and planned by Libya.

The news agency's terse report of the rebellion said "at around 2 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 2, some elements of the air force tried to take over Juba airport.

"Troops of the First Garrison, supported by the police and the masses of the people, confronted the abortive conspiracy aimed against our national unity," the agency said. "All units of our people's army at Juba, supported by the security forces. foiled the conspiracy swiftly and crushed the conspirators and traitors and enemies of the revolution."

Juba is in the southern inland province of Equatoria, separated from the remainder of the country by the north-flowing waters of the White Nile. The town of about 100,000 people is the fourth largest in Sudan, which is roughly the size of Alaska, Texas and California combined.

KHARTOUM, The Sudan: Troops loyal to President Jaafar Numeiry ('71 photo) smashed a rebellion by air force troops trying to seize the strategic Juba Airport in southern Sudan, the Sudanese news agency said. (UPI photo)

Young supports nationalists

ZANZIBAR [UPI] — New U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young said Thursday he could "almost guarantee" Congress will repeal the controversial Byrd amendment which permits U.S. imports of Rhodesian chrome.

Young, speaking shortly after his arrival of this former slave trading center on the first stop of a fact-finding trip to black Africa for President Carter, also said he did not "really care what whites in Africa think" of his support for black nationalist movements.

Young was questioned closely on the controversial Byrd amendment which allows the United States to import chrome from the white regime in Rhodesia despite U.N. sanctions.

The diplomat and former U.S. congressman from Georgia said he could "almost guarantee" repeal of the amendment "within 30 to 60 days" because of a changed climate in the United States.

Young said he felt that "there must be African solutions to African problems."

"I hope you don't expect too much" from the visit, Young said. "But I hope you get a hell of a lot."

Thoughts:

Study first before taking on the weekend.

I am a Trip

I am
a Trip
Up and down the Nile
I am
a Trip
Crossing the Sahara
Resting only a while
I am
a Trip
From my ancestors
To my child
I am
a Trip
Carrying messages to my Brothers
Running for miles
I am
a Trip
From the northern tip of my continent
To the southern most tip
My way of life
Is a triP trIP tRIP....
I am
a Trip
From AFRICA to amerikkka
Floating on the high seas
I am
a Trip
Surviving the Middle Passage
Despite suicide, murder, and disease
I am
a Trip
Being sold like cattle
Bringing into my life a brand new battle
I am
a Trip
Along amerikkka's Atlantic coast
Experiencing dehumanizing acts
None of which to boast
I am
a Trip
When I decided I wanted to be free
Leaving the south heading north
Risking my life for true liberty
I am
a Trip
Building your land to the richest on earth
Still you deny me the right to birth
Even the right to personal worth
I am
a Trip
Fighting in every damn war you had Cause Freedom was something I wanted
Something that had to be had
I am
a Trip
When I found beauty in Black
Began to organize my people to leave
And you jailed me before I could get back
I am
a Trip
When my mind was put in print
When I asserted my energies to find the direction
In which my people must be sent
I am
a Trip
Chicago, Watts, Harlem, Detroit
When I broke up glass and kicked your ass
When I robbed and stole just to make you feel
The things that make me real
I am
a Trip
When the man put me on ice
When I educated myself and began to control the dice
When the nation of Islam came to my aid
When I went to Mecca, my foundation, I laid
I am
a Trip
When I went from Montgomery to Memphis
Because of my love for you
When I started the journey following a path of abuse
Because I wanted for you a freedom that was true
I am
a Trip
Blues, Gospel, Jazz, Soul
When I make music of my life
To let you know my problems and strife
When I break it down and say man I want to be free
When I do what I do best to try and make you see
I am
a Trip
When I get fucked up smokin' that dope
When I shoot that shit in my arm
Believing all the time I ain't doin' no harm
That's a Fucked Up Trip
My life
Is a Trip
Cause
I want freedom
For you and me
And I ain't got no idea
Of tomorrow, where I might be Wherever it is
It's gonna be a trip
Today, Tomorrow, Forever
My Life is a TRIP
TRIp
TRip
Trip
trip
PIRT
TRIP.....

(Reprinted from The Black Collegian)

OPEN AT RUSH
BKΦ
THE BROTHERHOOD OF BETA KAPPA PHI FRATERNITY INVITES ALL U-MASS. MEN TO AN OPEN RUSH ON:
* MONDAY FEB. 7
* TUESDAY FEB. 8 } AT 8:00 P.M.
* WEDNESDAY FEB. 9
AND
* SUNDAY FEB. 13 — AT 7:00 P.M.
REFRESHMENTS!!
COME OVER, MEET THE BROTHERS, AND SEE ALL THE ADVANTAGES U-MASS GREEK LIFE CAN OFFER AT
BETA KAPPA PHI 388 NORTH PLEASANT ST. (LARGE WHITE BRICK HOUSE) * CALL: 545-0210 -0211

MINUTEMAN BASKETBALL
TONIGHT — 7:50 at West Virginia
SUNDAY — 1:5C at Pittsburg
Join Dave Strader & Bob Paquette
LIVE on WMUA 91.1 FM

Black Affairs

Announcements

Conference

On February 5, 1977 there will be a meeting of Minority Student Organizations of Massachusetts Colleges and Universities at Worcester State College, Worcester, Massachusetts. The event will be hosted by the Third World Alliance of Massachusetts Institutions of Higher Education. The conference is planned to run from 11:30 a.m. till 5 p.m. The discussion will view the following issues:

A. Meaning, goals, and potential of the Third World Alliance.

B. Task groups to prepare the constitution

C. Appointment of officers, elections processes and leadership.

At the close of the meeting a dinner will be served. We ask interested individuals to submit their names to the Black Mass Communications Office located at 415A in the Student Union Building (545-2426).

••••••••••••••••••••••••

Today is Earl Brown's hearing for a new motion. Show support for the brother by any and every way possible.

Dinner

The Third World Women Center is holding a pot luck dinner for all Third World Women at UMass on Saturday, February 5 from 2:00 p.m. until 6:00 p.m. at New Africa in the Lumumba Hut. Pot Luck simply means everyone who comes should bring a dish that is easiest and most economical for you to prepare. But even if you can't manage to bring a dish, don't let it stop you from coming for everyone is welcome!

FEELING GOOD!

By ANGELA THOMAS
Asst. Black Affairs Editor

The weekend is here, and expectations are usually high about this time as people wonder what they should or should not get into.

The options vary for this weekend. One may decide to party hearty "The French Way," or opt to sit back in a movie theatre and along with Rolls Royce, sing the theme song from the movie, "Car Wash."

There is something else happening this weekend that I suggest all to turn out for. It's the play "Feeling Good," guaranteed by the National Theatre to make you feel good.

"Feeling Good" traces historically the black man's impact on American music. The play opens with the black church and through sketches and narration, takes you through minstral shows, jazz, black vaudeville, black broadway, right up to Harlem's Apollo Theatre.

"Feeling Good" is sponsored by the Campus Center Program Council and can be seen tonight in the Student Union Ballroom at 8:00 p.m. Admission is free.

LUTHER

By ANGELA THOMAS
Asst. Black Affairs Editor

It is finally over! Luther has arrived. The longed for, hoped for, and worked for dream has become a reality at Black Affairs. Luther is a black comic strip that deals with life as seen through the eyes of a child and his friends. What is special about Luther is the fact that Luther is a black comic strip that is all about being black, while at the same time living in a society that is not.

Let us know how you feel about our new edition. Address letters to Black Affairs of The Daily Collegian, 101 Campus Center Building.

LUTHER By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

MY DADDY WANTS TO KNOW IF YOUR UNCLE CHECKED OUT THE JOB HE TOLD HIM ABOUT, HARDCORE!
1-26
THE ELEVATOR OPERATOR JOB?
YES!
NAW, LUTHER, HE SAID HE'S TOO OLD NOW...
BRANDON JR
...TO START AT THE BOTTOM AND WORK UP!
©1977 LOS ANGELES TIMES

LUTHER is written and drawn by Brumsic Brandon Jr. Born in Washington, D.C., he attended New York University and worked as a technical illustrator after serving in the Army. He gave birth to LUTHER while in a hospital recuperating from a back operation. In addition to his chores on LUTHER, he is Mr. B.B. on a New York inner-city television program where he is both a performer and artist.

(Photo courtesy of Brumsic Brandon Jr.)

"'M·A·S·H' IS THE BEST AMERICAN WAR COMEDY SINCE SOUND CAME IN!" Pauline Kael New Yorker $1.00
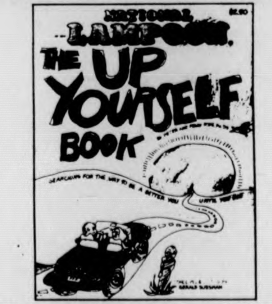
SAT. FEB. 5 CCA
7 - 9:15 - 11:30
M·A·S·H An Ingo Preminger Production
Starring DONALD SUTHERLAND ELLIOTT GOULD TOM SKERRITT
Co-Starring SALLY KELLERMAN ROBERT DUVALL JO ANN PFLUG RENE AUBERJONOIS
Produced by INGO PREMINGER Directed by ROBERT ALTMAN Screenplay by RING LARDNER, Jr.
From a novel by RICHARD HOOKER Music by JOHNNY MANDEL
Color by DE LUXE® PANAVISION®
R RESTRICTED
ORIGINAL SOUNDTRACK RECORDING ON COLUMBIA RECORDS

MIKE'S WESTVIEW
Appearing Tonight
February 4
The Bill Carson Show
Authentic Irish folksinger
right from the old sod!



At last!
The National Lampoon tells you how to live your life.
The Up Yourself Book—a guide to self-realization that crosses the last frontier of human potential.
A National Lampoon special edition. All new material. $2.50 at your newsstand or bookstore. Deluxe edition, $2.95. Or send check or money order to: The National Lampoon, 635 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022

Natural gas supplies ease energy deficiency

By The Associated Press

A new winter storm dropped snow on several areas in the Midwest and East yesterday, as extra supplies of natural gas began moving toward the region to ease the energy crunch caused by the cold.

The worst of the frigid weather seemed over in some areas, but the aftereffects lingered. Officials said plant closings and layoffs, now involving up to two million persons, could last until spring.

Federal authorities worked to allocate natural gas according to where it was needed most, following enactment of emergency energy legislation. The gas started flowing even before the bill's signing, but it moves at only 15 miles an hour.

The industrial cutbacks, caused by the curtailment of natural gas to businesses, will not be eased by the extra fuel since that will be used to supply high-priority customers such as homes and hospitals.

The new storm was the result of a cold front from the Great Lakes into the middle Mississippi Valley, Pittsburgh; International Falls, Minn.; Cleveland and Youngstown, Ohio, and Fort Wayne, Ind., got an inch of snow Thursday morning. There also was light snow or warning of flurries along the East Coast.

In Buffalo, N.Y., which was shut down by a blizzard a week ago, the easing of one emergency brought the beginning of another.

A ban imposed Tuesday on nonessential driving was lifted Wednesday night and motorists created massive traffic jams Thursday morning.

"People seem awfully reluctant to set up car pools," said John Meyer of the Police Traffic Division. "They could contribute by making personal sacrifices, but they're not doing it."

The city picked up another two inches of snow overnight, but most retail outlets that had been closed all week reopened Thursday.

Mayor Stanley M. Makowski said he lifted the driving ban because of the cost of lost business. "I simply weighed the inconvenience to snow removal efforts against potential losses to individuals and business people," he said.

National Fuel Gas Corp. said it had begun receiving an extra 30 million cubic feet of natural gas daily from Texas for Buffalo and may get more. "We're in good shape," said Louis R. Reif, the company president. But he said no decision had been made about ending curtailment to business and industry. The extra gas is designed to make up for synthetic gas lost due to the breakdown on Tuesday of a plant at a nearby oil refinery.

US Forest Service OK's free firewood

WASHINGTON [AP] — Smokey Bear says it's okay to take firewood from his national forests so long as you burn it in your own stove or fireplace.

If you live near one of the nation's 154 national forests, free firewood may be available to help ward off the winter chills and save our precious natural gas and oil.

The U.S. Forest Service says anyone can have the free wood as long as he or she checks first with local forest officials and gets a permit. Owen T. Jamison of the Agriculture Department agency said the permits are free and are available from district ranger offices at each national forest.

Generally, he said, only dead wood is allowed to be removed, although undesirable trees may be marked for removal in some areas.

Jamison said the free wood policy extends to all the national forests but that some forests may not have the wood in accessible areas. Thus, he said, people should check before counting on free wood.

"It's been a continuing program and a very popular one since the other energy crisis" in 1973-1974, Jamison told a reporter. "We consider it more than just a fuelwood thing, too. It's a real form of recreation."

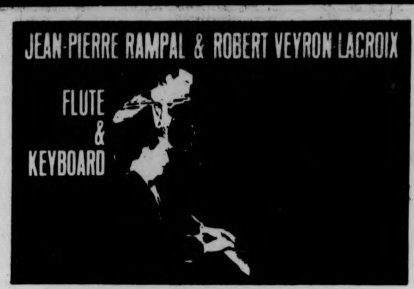
Most commonly, he said, people fill up trunks of cars with the wood and some use pickup trucks or campers. The wood is free only to those who intend to use it themselves.

"One problem now is that they're getting wood back from the roads so far that it's not as handy as it was," Jamison said.

About one-third of the national forests are located in the eastern half of the country. The eastern national forests, many of them relatively small, total about 20 million acres.

The remaining national forests, more than 100, are in the West and cover a total of about 168 million acres.

JEAN-PIERRE RAMPAL & ROBERT VEYRON-LACROIX
FLUTE & KEYBOARD



FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 18
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL 8 PM

Tickets now on sale. $6, 5, 4. UM-A $4, 3, 2. Other students and senior citizens $5, 4, 3.

F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

PRESENTED BY THE FINE ARTS CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS-AMHERST

THE NATIONAL THEATRE COMPANY
presents

Feelin' GOOD

Place: Student Union Ballroom
Date: Friday, February 4, 1977
Time: 8:00 p.m.
FREE ADMISSION
A Joyous, Hand-Clapping Review
sponsored by Campus Center Program Council

HUNGRY-U

FREE DELIVERY
OF THE BEST PIZZAS IN TOWN!
103 N. PLEASANT ST.

256-0474
or 256-0473

1 FREE SODA
with purchase of a Small Combination Pizza.
Deliveries only Fri. 2-4—Tues. 2-8

2 FREE SODAS
with purchase of a Large Pizza.
Deliveries only Fri. 2-4—Tues. 2-8

UNBELIEVABLE SAVINGS
CALCULATORS, STEREOS

Enclose payment in full with order, or remit 20% with order, balance C.O.D.
PLEASE CHECK BOX FOR ITEM ORDERED
ADD $3.00 FOR HANDLING AND SHIPPING

Fast Delivery Guaranteed
with certified check only
Pa. residents add 6% sales tax
personal checks will delay orders

Texas Instruments electronic calculators

	WAS	SALE
☐ SR-52	$300	$186.95
☐ PC-100	$295	$149.95
☐ SR-56	$180	$ 84.95
☐ SR-51 II	$ 80	$ 52.95
☐ SR-40	$ 50	$ 33.97
☐ TI-5050M	$130	$ 92.95
☐ TI-5040	$150	$109.95

HEWLETT PACKARD

MODEL	WAS	SALE
HP-21	$100	$ 69.95
HP-22	$165	$109.95
HP-25	$145	$126.95
HP-25C	$200	$175.95
HP-27	$200	$153.95
HP-67	$450	$389.95
HP-97	$750	$649.95

Above prices include A/C Adaptor/Charger, Carrying Case, and full one year factory warranty.

STEREO RECEIVERS
PIONEER

	REG	SALE
SX-1250	$900	$584
SX-1050	$700	$469
SX-950	$600	$402
SX-850	$500	$347
SX-750	$400	$279
SX-650	$300	$213
SX-550	$250	$178
SX-450	$200	$149

SEND FOR FREE CATALOGUE
PHONE ORDERS ACCEPTED ONLY WITH CREDIT CARDS
814-237-5990
(Add 3% for Credit Card Orders)
master charge BANKAMERICARD

RECEIVERS Add 4% for Handling and Shipping
STEREO WAREHOUSE
307 W. BEAVER AVE., STATE COLLEGE, PA. 16801

Aerosol ban proposed

AUGUSTA, Maine [UPI] — Legislation to outlaw aerosol sprays in Maine after Jan. 1, 1979, has been introduced by Rep. Thomas R. Perkins, R-Blue Hill.

If enacted, Maine would be the third state in the nation to outlaw the spray containers, following the lead of Oregon and Michigan.

"I'm a merchant and I think merchants ought to take a leadership role in thise issue," Perkins, a retail pharmacist, said.

"I've put in a two-year time lapse to allow businesses and distributors to deplete their stocks."

The Blue Hill lawmaker said he wants the pressure to be put on the national manufacturers to stop producing these aerosols.

Perkins said there is substantial evidence that inhalation of aerosol sprays is a significant health hazard, as well as scientific data which indicate chlorofluorocarbons used in aerosol sprays are depleting the ozone layer in the earth's atmosphere.

AUGUSTA, Maine: Rep. Thomas R. Perkins examines potentially harmful contents of aerosol cans. Perkins wants a statewide ban on spray cans. (UPI)

Former governor testifies in DiCarlo conspiracy trial

BOSTON [AP] — A former Massachusetts governor testified yesterday he spent hours trying to influence top state officials for a client whose multi-million dollar state contract was being investigated by a special legislative committee.

However, Endicott Peabody, Democratic governor in 1963 and 1964, denied trying to influence the appointment of legislators to the special committee in 1971.

Peabody testified at the political corruption trial of Senate Majority Leader Joseph J.C. DiCarlo, D-Revere, and Asst. Senate Minority Leader Ronald C. MacKenzie, R-Burlington.

They were accused in an eight-count indictment of shaking down a New York consulting firm for $10,000 in exchange for a favorable report from that special legislative committee.

Peabody, chewing on the stem of his eyeglasses, told the U.S. District Court jury he contacted the speaker of the House and president of the Senate as well as DiCarlo and other legislators.

The overtures were made on behalf of McKee-Berger-Mansueto, the New York consulting firm whose controversial contract to supervise construction of the University of Massachusetts Boston campus in late 1969 was investigated in 1971. Peabody was the firm's lawyer.

The former governor also testified he contacted officials who helped make the decision to award the contract to the New York firm.

Bedspreads

An excellent selection of bedspreads from India and Pakistan — many of them hand loomed and hand dyed. Numerous colors and patterns. Single (twin) sizes (72" x 108") and double sizes (90" x 108").

Faces of Earth

Next to Amherst Post Office. Open 9:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.

Give Away Price$!
Levi's
SAVE UP TO 70%.
PANATELLA CORDUROYS
From Only $11.99
REG. TO $20
Levi's for Gals
SLACKS & CORDS
From Only $8.99
REG. TO $20.00
Levi's
Pre-Washed-Flair BLUE JEANS
& JEANS & CORDS STRAIGHT OR FLAIR
ONLY: $13.95
MENS & WOMENS Shirts & Sweaters 40~70% OFF!
SPECIAL GROUP
WEAR-HOUSE
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

2 days

to change to or from pass—fail, add, or drop a course without record.

DEADLINE: Sundown, Monday, Feb. 7

Note: If you pre-registered for a class but never attended, you still need to file an official drop form with the Registrar. Instructors will not automatically drop you from their class rolls.

CASIAC
E-20-26 Machmer Hall

SALE

30% off...

...an inventory sale on the finest selection of hand-crafted items we've ever carried: Gold and Silver jewelry, fine leathers and accessories, blown glass and pottery...All at a remarkable 30% off...For one week only: FEBRUARY 5 thru FEBRUARY 12.

The Leather Shed
199 north pleasant street amherst mass 01002

Picariello jury deliberates

PORTLAND, Maine — A U.S. District Court jury began deliberations yesterday in the trial of Richard Picariello, charged with two counts of interstate transportation of explosives.

The jury deliberations began after Judge Edward T. Gignoux delivered a charge which instructed the jury they could find Picariello guilty of either or both of the two courts.

The jury of eight men and four women was instructed to deliberate until a dinner break at 6 p.m. If a verdict was not reached before then, Gignoux said an evening deliberation session could go as late as 10 p.m.

In his summation earlier in the day, defense attorney Lewis Gurwitz urged the jury to disregard the testimony of Joseph Aceto, 24, the government's chief witness.

Aceto was arrested July 4, 1976, in Danvers, Mass. He agreed to testify for the government in exchange for a light sentence and a new identity.

Testimony from law enforcement officials during the trial identified Aceto as a one time police informer. A letter introduced as evidence from a county sheriff to the warden of Maine SKTATE Prison also identified Aceto as an informer.

Aceto, while testifying against Picariello, denied he had ever acted as an informer for police. Gurwitz told the jury Aceto had lied on the stand and his testimony should be disregarded.

"I submit to you that Mr. Aceto lied to you from the stand," Gurwitz said. "It's not worthy of any belief. Nothing he said from that stand can be believed."

Gurwitz also said the charges against Picariello resulted at least in part from a desire on the part of police and the FBI to get Picariello off the streets.

"It's the police state mentality that makes police on the street think that citizens are their enemies," Gurwitz said. "We know that the government has not always conducted itself in a way we would demand."

The police, Gurwitz said, "have to protect the rights and freedoms of all the people, not just some of the people."

U.S. Atrorney Peter Mills, in his summation, said the trial had nothing to do with the FBI or other police officers.

"It's not a trial of the Portland police department, the Maine correctional system, the Maine state police and especially not a trial of the FBI," he said. "It seems to me a great deal of the thrust of the defense has been against the FBI."

"The defense tried to influence you against your country," Mills said. "I'm against that type of trial. I believe in the United States and I believe in the FBI."

One count against Picariello charged that he, Aceto and two other men drove from Portland to Massachusetts on July 1 with the intent of bombing a National Guard truck in Boston's Dorchester section, an airplane at Logan International Airport in Boston and a courthouse in Newburyport, Mass.

Gurwitz had stipulated, or agreed, that those bombings did in fact take place.

The second count alleged that Picariello, Aceto and Edward Gullion drove to Massachusetts July 3 intending to bomb the A&P regional headquarters in Boston and the Polaroid Corp. headquarters in Cambridge, Mass.

POSITION AVAILABLE

Immediately

Graduate Assistant — Student Activities Office

Must be a full time Grad student with a two semester commitment; experience in extracurricular activities preferred. Stipend $3,600—academic year. Apply to the Student Activities Office, 416 Student Union. Women and minorities are urged to apply.

dvp

COMING

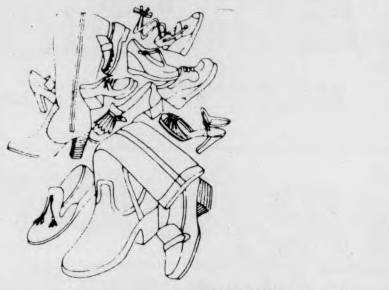
Dr. William Nolen

Thurs., Feb. 10
8:00
Thomp 102

SALE

special $10.00 rack

many name brands
Fred Braun
SRO
Carber
Zodiac
Sbicca
& more



the SHOE•BIN

OPEN FRI P M

187 N. Pleasant St., Amherst

HATCH

ALBATROSS

First Time Ever
at the Hatch

Feb. 3, 4, 5

Doors open at 8 p.m.

Cover $1.00 Thurs./$1.50 Fri., Sat.

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store

Open Daily till 11 p.m.
Amherst Largest Full Service Liquor Store

THIS WEEK'S SPECIALS

Falstaff 12 oz. cans $5.25 a case
Tuborg Gold case of 12 oz. cans $5.69
Riunite Lambrusco & Bianco $2.29 5th
Early Times Bourbon $5.99 a qt.
Inglenook Magnum Wines $3.69 two-fifths of a gallon
KORBEL California Wines Pinotnoir, Caber Saulignon Reg. $3.99 5th Sale price $2.89 5th
KEGS
Imported Beer of the Week Hofbrau German Beer $3.75 six pack

Large assortment of kegs.
We have over 90 brands of imported beer
(Mix your own variety six pack)
338 College St. Rt. 9 Amherst 253-5384
Not responsible for typographical errors.

Marxist regime crushes coup

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia [UPI] — The Marxist military regime yesterday rushed a bloody coup attempt from within its own ranks and executed the seven ringleaders, including Ethiopia's figurehead chief of State, Addis Ababa radio reported.

An announcement said strongman Lt. Col. Mengistu Haile Mariam, who had led the revolt which overthrew Emperor Haile Selassie in September, 1974, was safe.

The radio said figurehead chief of state Brig. Tefari Benti and six other rebel members of the ruling military government were executed following a bloody battle around the Grand Palace.

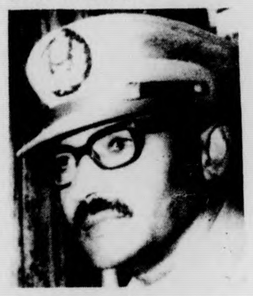
Benti, a taciturn professional officer in his late 40s, was the second figurehead chief of state to be killed since the military leaders who overthrew Emperor Haile Sellassie, the Lion of Judah, and ended an empire dating to the reign of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba.

The announcement said all seven had been members of the secret antiregime Ethiopian Peoples Revolutionary Party EPRP and said they had been plotting to eliminate members of the political bureau, an elite organization within the military and loyal to Mengistu.

The announcement also accused those executed of belonging to the banned Ethiopian Democratic Union, an organization composed of leading members of the former imperial regime.

Benti had been regarded as a moderate in the inner circle of the ruling junta, known as the Dergue, with Mengistu characterized a radical who wanted to push Ethiopia further along a Marxist course, improving ties with the Soviet Union and China at the expense of the United States.

The government immediately imposed a curfew on the capital and army troops loyal to the ruling regime and Mengistu patrolled the streets in U.S.-built armored personnel carriers.



ETHIOPIA — The Marxist military regime crushed an attempted coup and executed seven of its leaders, including Chief of State Benti. (UPI)

University Dr. CHEQUERS Amherst

OPENERS

TODAY'S HOMEMADE SOUP .70
CROCK OF ONION SOUP WITH CHEESE CROUTON .90
HOT BAKED STUFFED CLAMS [each] .40

SIDE ORDERS

FRENCH FRIES .40 & .75
COLE SLAW .35

TODAY'S SPECIALS

CLOSERS

CHOCOLATE BAVARIAN CREAM PIE .85
CREAM CHEESE CAKE .85
PECAN PIE with Whipped Cream .75
APPLE PIE .75 with Aged Cheddar .90

MAIN COURSES

All Entrees Served with Choice of Potato, Vegetable, Rolls & Butter

BONELESS BREAST OF CHICKEN 3.95
(Cordon Bleu)
A Whole Chicken Breast Stuffed with Swiss Cheese and Ham, Sauteed and Topped with Our Own Sauce

VEAL PARMIGIANA 3.95
Tender Veal Filet Sauteed in Butter, Then Topped with Tomato Sauce, Parmesan Cheese and Mozarella, Baked and Served with Ziti and a Sauce of Garlic Butter and Herbs

SCALLOPS AU GRATIN 3.95
En Casserole with a Zesty Cheese Sauce

LONDON BROIL 4.95
Sliced Thin and Broiled Rare Unless You Tell Us Otherwise. Choice of Natural Juice or Bordelaise Sauce

SCROD 3.95
Fresh Boston Filet, Baked, Served with Lemon Butter

NEW YORK SIRLOIN 6.95
A Hefty Steak We Cut from Choice Strips

SHRIMP SCAMPI 5.95
Sauteed with Butter, Garlic & White Wine then Baked Till Done for Full Flavor

VEAL SCALLOPINE 3.95
Sauteed & Sauced with Mushrooms, Shallots & Marsala Wine

SAUTEED SIRLOIN TIPS 4.95
Served en Casserole with Our Own Rich Wine Sauce

BAKED STUFFED SHRIMP 5.95
Tender Shrimp with Seasoned Stuffing

SALAD WITH THE ABOVE ENTREES .75

OTHER BEVERAGES

COFFEE .30 SANKA .35
TEA .25 MILK .40

LIGHTER SIDE

OMELETTES

OUR SPECIALTY 2.25
With a Flavor of Quiche Lorraine

MUSHROOM 1.75
Fresh Sauteed Mushrooms

SARAH 2.00
Cheese, Tomato, Mushrooms

CHEESE 1.75
Your Choice of Swiss or Cheddar

SPANISH 1.75
With a Zesty Sauce

JOSEPH 2.00
Spinach, Swiss

Or . . . Mix Your Own. Just add .25 for each extra ingredient.

Omelettes served with Lettuce, Sliced Tomatoes and French Fries

GREENS & THINGS

CHEQUERS CHEF SALAD
Julienne of Turkey, Ham, Cheese, Crisp Greens, Sliced Egg and Tomatoes Choice of Dressing
1.95

TOSSED GARDEN SALAD
Your Choice of Dressing
.90

ROAST BEEF PLATE
Lean Rare Roast Beef Served with Cottage Cheese, Lettuce and Sliced Tomatoes
2.25

BROILED HAMBURG PLATE
Char Broiled Hamburg, with Cottage Cheese, Lettuce and Sliced Tomatoes
1.85

SEAFOOD PLATTER SPECIAL
3.95
A Combination of Tender Scallops, Shrimp and Fresh Scrod Served with French Fries, Cole Slaw, Tartar Sauce, Bread and Butter. We Serve It Baked en Casserole with Our Own Lemon Butter Stuffing

SANDWICH BOARD

CHEQUERS BURGER 1.95
6 Ounces of Chopped Beef Served on Bulky or Onion Roll with Sliced Tomato on Lettuce and French Fries (With Cheese 2.25)

HOT ROAST BEEF 2.50
Rare Beef Served Open-Faced on Toast with French Fries

CHEQUERS CLUB 2.75
Bacon, Lettuce, Tomato and Sliced Breast of Turkey, Toasted Served with Pickle and French Fries

OPEN SIRLOIN STEAK SANDWICH 3.50
Petite Aged Sirloin Served Open on Toast with Lettuce, Sliced Tomatoes and French Fries

HOT TURKEY 2.50
Sliced Breast of Turkey Served Open-Faced with French Fries

GRILLED REUBEN 2.50
Corned Beef, Swiss Cheese, Russian Dressing, Topped with Sauerkraut and Served with French Fries

OPEN TUNA FISH SALAD 2.50
Served on Open-Faced Onion Roll with Melted Swiss Cheese

OPEN CHICKEN SALAD 2.50
Served on Open-Faced Onion Roll with Melted Swiss Cheese

DELI SANDWICHES

ROAST BEEF 1.95
CORNED BEEF 1.95
SLICED BREAST OF TURKEY 1.95
SHAVED HAM 1.95
WITH SWISS 2.25
A Hearty Portion of Shaved Meat Served on Choice of Bread, Bulky or Onion Roll, Cole Slaw, Pickle and Potato Chips

JUNIOR STUFF

HAMBURG, FRIES & COKE
OR RAVIOLI PLATTER & COKE
1.00

— letters

Title IX self-evaluation hearings

To the Editor:

Throughout the year, the Student Affairs Title IX Self-Evaluation Committee has been conducting a series of open hearings as part of the overall self-evaluation of Title IX, for departments within Student Affairs. The self-evaluation process is designed to determine whether, where and how sex discrimination occurs.

Title IX states that, "No person shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any education program or activity receiving federal financial assistance...".

The hearings are particularly valuable parts of the self-evaluation process since they offer all concerned individuals the opportunity to be heard. Without information from the community regarding perceptions and actual experiences of sex discrimination, the Self-Evaluation Committee cannot completely discern whether the department in question is discriminatory. Information gathered at these hearings will be used to help formulate the committee's recommendations and report.

As yet, student participation in these hearings has been minimal. We strongly urge students to consider participating in as many of these hearings as possible. If you are unable to attend, written comments may be anonymously submitted to: Lisa Grant, 345 Whitmore.

The next public hearing, concerning the status of the Undergraduate Admissions Office, will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 9, from noon to 2 p.m., in room 917 of the Campus Center. All staff and faculty as well as students are encouraged to attend. Look for further notices in the Collegian for the date and location of all up-coming hearings.

Lisa Grant
for the Student Affairs Title IX Self-evaluation Committee

ATA not resting

To the Editor:

In the Collegian front page article [2-1-77] it was incorrectly reported that the Amherst Tenants Associations was "taking a...rest" from the activities-struggles that they had been engaged in the past fall. From the work we are cooperating in with the ATA [radio programs, educationals on tenants rights at apartment complexes, agitation for smoke detectors in all dwelling units, just to name a few] we have found that their energies are anything but exhausted!

Because one of the main goals of the ATA is to work toward the implementation of adequate and affordable housing in Amherst it is necessary for them to continually evaluate and criticize the various strategies they have to employ for the different projects. Criticism of this type is healthy and should not be misconstrued by the Collegian as an indication that the ATA is resting!

Joanne Levenson -
Off Campus Housing

Women and economic survival

To the Editor:

Lisa Melilli's reference to Daughters Press in her commentary "The Real Revolution" was inaccurate, superficial, and irresponsible. Daughters, Inc., serves the purpose of bringing women's literature to the community, specifically the women's community. This is appreciated greatly by the serious reader.

It is doubtful that any other press in the country would have printed Rita Mae Brown's novel, Rubyfruit Jungle, yet it has sold over 70,000 copies. This novel has succeeded in bringing to us a sensitive portrayal of a lesbian's experiences in a homophobic culture. If that is what Melilli refers to as "personal gain", then Goddess grant that more women struggle for personal gain! The women involved in the press are not "hypocrites". They are quite aware of what they are doing, and make it known to those interested or concerned with the facts. Among other things, they are providing jobs for women. Does Ms. Melilli deny the need for economic survival? The value of the literature produced by the press is undeniable.

Finally, women have access to accurate revelations about growing up and surviving as women in a misogynist society. Obviously, Melilli did not research her opinions. Instead, she produced a column that no newspaper should waste space on. Does the Collegian maintain a policy of providing the University with inaccuracies in print? Or do you just have a policy of hiring irresponsible people?

Leslie Terrill

To Ms. Terrell:

Thank you for your letter and your criticism, although obviously I do not agree with your points. What I have against Daughters, Inc. as I had written in my column is their politics and in a broader sense, the politics of the separatist faction of the feminist movement. I do not deny the need for economic survival nor the need for publishing Rubyfruit Jungle, which is a book I am familiar with.

Disagreeing with one's politics has nothing to do with researching opinions. Opinions cannot be researched, only facts and upon facts are opinions based. I am sorry you disagree with my opinions, but that is your right as it is my right to publish my own.

Lisa Melilli

We're going to tell you where to go

To the Editor:

"We're Going To Tell You Where To Go"

Lewis Carroll

Perhaps you have noticed a poster around campus or on the 5-college bus that not only tells you "where to go" but what number to call. The publicity for the 5-college phone is out, but few really know much about the organization behind it.

During the late 60's, the Five College Student Coordinating Board [FCSCB] came into existence in an effort to coordinate information from each of the five colleges and make it available to area students. The Board can tell you "where to go" for academic, cultural and recreational opportunities in the Valley. The Board, comprised of representatives from each of the five colleges, is run by students and funded solely with student monies.

Here at UMass the Board has set up an information table in the Student Government Office in the basement of Seelye Hall. Five College course information and transportation schedules are available there as well as the daily and-or weekly bulletins from each of the five colleges in the Valley. In addition, the Board has set up a 5-college Ride Board just outside the Student Government Office. It posts rides offered and sought by area students. The information table set up outside the Registrar's Office the week prior to registration is also a result of the Board's efforts. There, students can find out about course offerings at the other colleges in the Valley, as well as the procedures and forms for registration in these courses.

Information can also be obtained by calling the 5-college phone, 545-FIVE. The 5-college phone is but another way in which the Board hopes to serve the five college community. Students calling the 5-college number can find out what's happening in the Valley. Organizations can have their up-coming events publicized over the phone by sending a printed or typed copy of the announcement to: Student Activities Office; Student Union 416; UMass; Attention: 5-College Phone. The information on the phone is updated each weekday.

This month the Five College Student Coordinating Board is having a campaign for new members. We are looking for representatives with new ideas and energy. If you have any questions or suggestions feel free to contact any of the Board's representatives here at UMass.

Kim Coleman
Mary Donatelli
Lloyd Searle
Sally Pinigis
Lois Carroll
Victoria Geibel
Suzanne Hoffman

commentary

For whom the budget tolls

By JON HITE

Two years ago, when the newly elected Governor, Michael Dukakis, submitted his budget to the legislature, he angered a great many people. Welfare recipients, little kids on AFDC, state employees and students, all took the governors meat cleaver right on the neck. That budget removed 40,000 welfare recipients from the rolls and would have all but closed most of the public higher educational institutions in the state.

There were demonstrations, attempted takeovers of office buildings threatened strikes and a large influx of mail addressed: State House, Boston MA. 02108. And while the letters of protest were much more personal and certainly less dramatic then the others, the letters did the most good. They did the most good because inside the State House, where protests really count, Representative A and Representative B were running around denying to each other that the people outside demonstrating were their constituents. And as Richard Nixon's denial of Watergate has shown; if you lie to yourself long enough, you begin to believe the lie.

I was Speaker of the Student Senate that spring and summer and we sent out two letters, one to your parents and one to you. Both relayed the same message: "Write to your State Rep. and tell him-her you want more money for UMass". One day in August, I was at the State House with then President of Student Government John O'Keefe and others. I was assigned the task of talking to one Representative - neanderthal who hated even the thought of UMass.

As I was attempting to convince him that UMass was worth preserving, he reached into his desk drawer and pulled out a file folder. Inside were about 100 letters from students and parents. "You kids are going to pay for these" he said, "Just go to school and leave the politics to me. (unintelligible grunt)". Attila is no longer in the peoples employ having had his socks blown off in a vain attempt to be Congressman from the 7th district. At last report he is skippering an ice flow somewhere in the Arctic Circle.

UMass got a reasonable budget that year thanks to you and yours. This year the annual fight for the UMass budget is going to be more difficult. On the surface, the state's financial condition seems to have improved (at least there is no deficit). The circular war between the Governor, President Wood and the legislature seems to have ended. Two years ago the Governors "leadpipe" promise of "no new taxes" fell through early and most people in the State House realized this and were resigned to the fact that they would have to increase taxes. As any political science major will tell you, the anger comes from the act of raising the taxes, not from raising them any set amount. But this year there is going to be no tax increase, no way, no how.

UMass is going through a crucial period. We are up to be re-accredited next year. If your reputation in academia and the business world is going to stay the same, let alone improve, then UMass needs more money. If we are going to fill some of the faculty and physical plant jobs ready to be filled after the three year hiring freeze, then UMass needs more money. If we are going to give the classified employees the raise that the Governor approved this summer, then someone in Boston is going to have to come up with 4 million bucks. And if we are going to study in a library that has books, sleep in a dorm with the temperature above 60 degrees and have manageable classes then someone in Boston is going to have to cough up 3 million more bucks. The litany goes on.

In short, UMass needs your help. Write a letter to your State Representative and ask your parents to do the same. UMass needs your help before the bell rings a sour note to all our educations.

Jon Hite is a Collegian Commentator.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA [illegible]

BOARD OF EDITORS — RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in-Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; NASSER H. EGA, Black Affairs Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; JAY A. SARET, Photo Editor; MARK A. LECCESE, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS — Christopher J. Bourne, Teresa M. Hanafin, Night Managers; Paula Strollo, Wire Editor; Lisa E. Melilli, Assistant Executive Editor; Gerard F. Rogers, Kevin C. Turcotte, Assistant News Editors; Angela P. Thomas, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Michael A. Berger, Richard W. Eckel, Assistant Sports Editors; E. Patrick McQuaid, Deborah S. Schafer, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Melanie J. Johnson, Women's Coordinator; Heidi S. Berenson, Feature Coordinator.

BUSINESS — Steve N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; Leslie Nearman, Finance Manager; Laurie Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Heath C. Wheeler, Jr., Linda Crowell, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Leo Murphy, Doug Surette, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steve Polansky, Circulation Manager; Linda S. Vene, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

— melanie johnson

Fear and loathing revisited

Originally I had planned to write something theoretical and detached, until an article in this week's Time magazine entitled "Really Socking it to Women" distracted me.

For those of you who have not had the opportunity to see this treat, the article describes the new, "kinky" trend in advertising: sadomasochism, and in particular, the depiction of the physical abuse of women. This trend has appeared on album covers, fashion advertising, department store windows, and on billboards.

For example, the article describes a store window in a Cambridge boutique which displays the mannequin of a dead woman, tumbling out of a garbage can and with blood running out of her mouth. Men's shoes ("We'd kill for these") sit atop her head and neck. A billboard in Los Angeles proclaims "I'm black and blue from the Rolling Stones — and I love it!"

According to the Time article, these violent images have boosted sales enormously. A Los Angeles pants company named "Cheeks" increased its sales by 500 per cent last year with advertisements that showed a picture of a woman shreiking while a man paddled her "Cheeks".

The obvious question in response to these outrages is why — what has driven advertisers to exploit women, and more generally, sexuality, in such a manner? A more serious question is why do we as consumers accept such debasement?

Some individuals have proposed that these advertising ploys are a reaction to the growth of the women's movement in the recent decade, as more women enter professional schools or choose a career over or in addition to family responsibilities. Jean Kilbourne, a teacher in Cambridge, explains "the image of the abused woman is a logical extension of putting the uppity woman in her place."

Some psychiatrists believe men need an outlet for their feelings of impotence and hostility. And Alex Liberman of Conde Nast publications calls it "just an experiment... a moment of spice."

Or perhaps we can return to the designers (both men) of the advertisement for "Cheeks" pants. "We decided to develop a campaign men could really identify with. We really wanted to give it to women." Their generosity leaves me speechless.

I really can't buy these explanations on face value; for one thing, I am an eternal optimist and believe that most individuals really don't get turned on by this kind of degradation. Furthermore, these people seem to attack women for some undefined, horrible deed. Perhaps by questioning our traditional roles as wives and mothers, and thereby questioning the basic social unit for reproduction and social organization, women have frightened those individuals who cling tenaciously to the status quo.

I admit that the unknown does create some amount of anxiety and fear. However, I am more frightened and saddened by the fact that many of these individuals — those who buy the pants and records — are women.

The individuals alone do not reveal the entire scope of the problem, as their action and beliefs are interwoven with their immediate environment. We can look at this advertising trend within the broader context of violence in our daily lives: the "soft violence" (a term I never really put much worth into) of television and films, the unspoken threat of a nuclear accident or war, terrorist raids, and brutality and sexual abuse on the streets of our towns and cities.

The so-called "sexual revolution" supposedly freed us from our inhibitions about our bodies and sexual drives. This kind of exploitive advertising seems, however, to deny sexuality (particularly aggressive female sexuality) its unimpaired existence.

Sex therefore, remains a dirty word, and violence seems to sell products. Perhaps it is time to question the value of the "big sell". Juliet Mitchell, in Women's Estate, expresses a fear that increasing sexual freedom might result in women becoming commodities in themselves. In this case, we have become, unwilling accomplices to an economic venture.

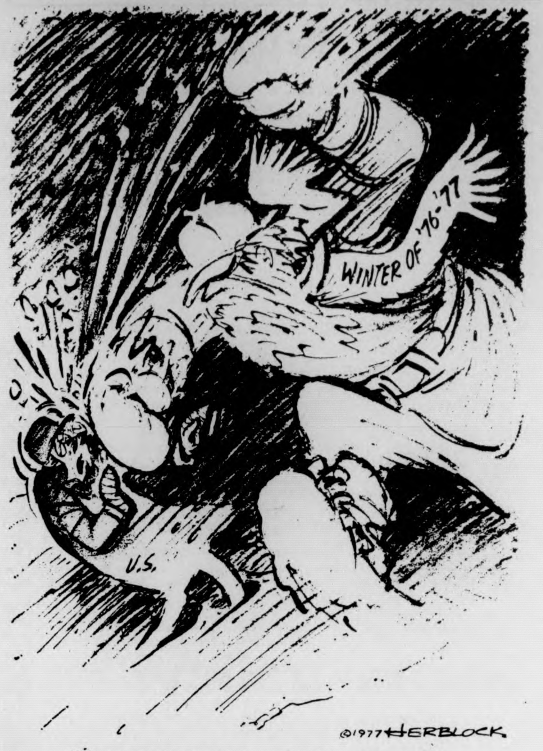
The end is not in sight, either. The article mentioned that a campaign is in the planning stages for advertisement that would portray women abusing men. Has violence become so mundane and ordinary to us? Or are we acting out frustrations and disgust for ourselves and our way of life?

In any case, I fear greatly for a society that has so little respect for the human body, and for life itself. Is a record album or clothing really more worthy than simple things like dignity and respect?

Melanie Johnson is Women's Coordinator of the Collegian.

monday:

bill sundstrom and
tyla l. michelove



"How many more rounds does this go?"

jack cahill

Those who can, do

Jimmy Valentine, Specs O'Keefe and Willie the Actor Sutton would have been great, if not ideal, students at this Massachusetts Universe City. So would Doctors Fu Manchu and Moriarty, Richard Nixon and friends, Legs Diamond and assorted members of the Gallo, Bonnano, Genovese and Capone families. What I'm getting at is the fact (not opinion) that this wild bureaucracy is teaching all of us the unprincipled principles and methods of flim-flam, hustle, huckster-shysterism and under the table wheeling and dealing. Or cheating.

From our first fresh moment on this campus, it was clear that each of us was pitted against the combined forces of Whitmore's legions in a collossal chess game. Offense: you are shut out of all your courses by computer. Defense: you forge signatures on the add form or claim senior status to get them back. In our situation, this kind of behavior is necessary and, in a twisted sense, legitimate. What UMass presents is a playground-battleground for the perfection of double-dealing. It is most likely the best training that this institution offers.

At Amherst, Smith and Mt. Holyoke, cheating is next to impossible; we're talking about high level academic education and teachers who know you and your work. Dishonesty is unethical and untenable except on very minor levels. They are Athens. We represent Sparta and the Spartan code: nothing is wrong until you are caught.

Are all of you aware just how rampant the cheating is around this campus? Or how easy it all is? I have friends (who choose to remain nameless of course) who have perpetrated the most unthinkable swindles and emerged smelling like roses. In the course of four years, they have managed to:

— Co-sign their own loans under an alias — Claimed outright lies on financial aid applications (i.e. both parents dead, car stolen and destroyed, extensive dental work bills, stereo stolen)

— Gotten out of three failing courses in the last week of the semester by producing a bogus, but impeccable letter on hospital stationary claiming intermittent insanity.

— Slide through innumerable courses that saw their presence perhaps three times all semester with better than average marks.

— Convinced the all powerful telephone company to turn their phone back on three separate times despite outstanding bills.

There are more instances than I can mention, but you get the drift. The shell game has reached the level of an art form and unlike most other majors, it has applications in the real world for its practitioners. I don't play the cynic role well, but it's clear to me that society has more to do with the creative hustle than with the "certificates of academic honesty" that Amherst students are asked to sign at the outset of their courses. Even West Point knows better now. UMass has known, consciously or not, for quite a while now and deserves some sort of unofficial recognition especially from Management and Poli Sci majors who get to apply their classroom theories every day.

I seriously think that this training is valuable. It gives all of us the basic understanding of how to wheel and deal with institutions, a thing we absolutely need to know. Some do well, some do it better, some are naturally adept. The best lesson is, in the wise words of Sebastian Baines:

"Avoid suspicion by doing the obvious."

Jack Cahill is a Collegian Columnist.

jim nollet

The common man

"If only there weren't this damned Auschwitz! Himmler got us into that mess. If it weren't for Auschwitz, we could put up a proper defense. The way it is, all our chances are blocked. Whenever our names are mentioned, everybody thinks of nothing but Auschwitz and Treblinka. It's like a reflex." — A remark attributed to Hermann Goering during the Nuremberg trials, from Spandau: The Secret Diaries. by Albert Speer.

Recently, two remarkable and seemingly dissimilar books have become best sellers. These books are Spandau: The Secret Diaries, and Roots, by Alex Haley. Albert Speer, the author of the first book, was formerly Hitler's architect and Armaments Minister. The diary was written during the 20 year imprisonment Speer received from the Nuremberg tribunal for the use of slave labor in the armaments industries. Roots, as almost everyone knows, traces the history of a black family from African and slave times to the present.

Speer was singular among the Nuremberg defendants because he pleaded guilty to the charges of the Allied Commission. Throughout the trial and in his subsequent writings, he comes across as an honest, reflective, and basically decent person. Concerning the quote which begins this column, he displayed these qualities by conceding that even though Goering had a point — the Allies also committed many war crimes — crime and guilt is not justified by balanced bookkeeping. Moreover, he added that some of the National Socialist crimes "were of a nature not to be compared to anything the other side may have done," and in any case deserved punishment.

The essential message of Spandau is that even a decent person can easily engage in heinous activities, where one's moral direction is too often the result of random circumstance. This is also one of the secondary messages of Roots. The slave owners generally fancied themselves to be good, upright people who believed in slavery because their neighbors did. Many of these people were Christians. The spirit of the times permitted them to maintain moral self-respect while behaving barbarically.

And we're no different from them. Given the right circumstances, most of us could likely become Nazis, slave owners, or even saints. For me, reading either of these books, or seeing the TV serialization of Roots is like seeing a little bit of myself. If I grew up in such times, how would it affect my state of consciousness? Would I behave any differently if placed in similar circumstances?

James Nollet is a Collegian Columnist.

Singles open house at Farley Lodge

Area Singles are invited to an open house at Farley Lodge Sunday at 8:00 p.m.

Meet new and old friends in a relaxed, informal atmosphere around the fireside. There will be dancing to records, sipping, munching and good conversation. A one dollar donation is requested.

The Amherst Singles is a non-profit organization sponsoring programs of interest to single folks with or without children.

State representative to hold office hours

State Representative James G. Collins, D-Amherst will hold office hours on Saturday from 10 a.m. until noon at Amherst Town Hall and from noon until 1 p.m. at the UMass Campus Center.

Auditions to be held for theater production

The Easthampton Community Theater Association will hold auditions for their spring production of "Arsenic and Old Lace" this Sunday, Monday and Tuesday from 6:30 to 9 p.m. in Town Hall, Main Street, Easthampton. The show will be produced on March 31, April 1, 2 and 3 in the Williston Theater, Easthampton. For further information call Rudy Bentz at 527-5430.

WHAT'S HAPPENING

Jewish art festival plans presentations

The third annual Five College Jewish Arts Festival of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations will begin its six weeks of presentations with a brunch Sunday morning, at 11 in the Gamut, Smith College. Dr. David Koffman, a former cantor and member of the Hebrew folk-rock group, the Arba Kalot (Four Voices), will perform in a "Morning of Jewish Music". The Jewish Arts Festival is a series of lectures, films, concerts, art exhibits and workshops designed to showcase aspects of the Jewish arts and the work of Jewish artists.

Disco tomorrow in Campus Center

There will be a disco on the tenth floor of the Campus Center tomorrow at 9 p.m. with sounds provided by Mackimmie Joe and K-Rock.

There will also be a slide show on cultural aspects of Cuban life. In keeping with the spirit of this occasion, Cuban, Salsa and other forms of Latin and Carribean music will be played to foster a multicultural event.

Tickets, which are $1.00, can be bought at the door.

This event is sponsored by the Western Mass. Chapter of the Venceremos Brigade.

Snow policy

The major objective of snow removal activities at times of severe storms is to make it possible to hold classes and conduct all University activities in as normal a way as possible. Since a large number of the faculty, staff and student population normally bring cars on campus, it is important for all concerned to understand clearly what policies and procedures will be followed in the event of a severe storm that temporarily limits parking capacity on campus.

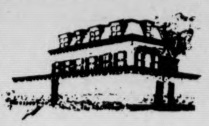
Classes and all other scheduled activities on campus will be held as usual unless a specific announcement is made to the contrary beginning at 6 a.m. and continued periodically on the day in question. Such announcements will be made on radio stations WTTT-Amherst, WHMP-Northampton, WHAI-Greenfield, WARE-Ware, WCAT-Orange, WHYN-Springfield, WFCR-Amherst, WTIC-Hartford, WACE-Springfield, WTAG-Worcester, WSPR-Springfield, and WMUA-Amherst. DO NOT CALL THE UNIVERSITY FOR THIS INFORMATION.

In order to facilitate snow removal, parking will be prohibited in the lots listed below between the hours of 1 a.m. and 7 a.m., from Dec. 1 to April 1, as provided for in the Motor Vehicle Regulations Manual approved by the Board of Trustees on August 6, 1975. In addition, as provided for in the regulations, no overnight parking will be permitted on any roadway expect Thatcher Way.

Overnight parking is specifically prohibited in the Lot 50 horseshoe in Southwest and the Lot 47 roadway circling the Sylvan area. Overnight parking in the Stadium peripheral lot is restricted to the back (west) portion of the lot. Overnight parking will continue to be available in lots other than those listed below.

—Lot 62 (south of Clark Hill)
—Lot 63 (west of Worcester Dining Hall)
—Lot 40 (north of Boyden)
—Lot 25 (south of Access Road to peripheral lot and the adjacent peripheral lot)
—Lot 65 (located between Stockbridge and Engineering buildings)
—Lot 26 (west of Engineering and Physics Shop)
—Lot 31 (north and east of Engineering and Physics Shop)
—Lot 66 (north of School of Education)
—Lot 34 (south of Whitmore)
—Lot 71 (west of Whitmore)

Every effort will be made to keep the bus service operating. Snow day schedule changes will be announced on WTTT-AM and WMUA-FM. Call 545-2086 for operating schedules during snow storms.



RAHAR'S
FOOD DRINK LODGING

Feb. 3 & 4

BOB & DEBBIE EATON

9-1 a.m.
7 Old South St., Northampton
Across from Peter Pan Bus Terminal

OPEN
11-1 DAILY — 12-1 SUNDAY

UNIVERSITY OF MASS.
PROGRAM COUNCIL & GREEK COUNCIL
presents
JACK FLASH'S
EVERYBODY'S EVERYTHING

CLICK!
CLICK!
CLICK!
DANCE
LISTEN

HUGE THEATRE SPEAKERS – QUADRAPHONIC

SUNDAY FEBRUARY 6th | STUDENT UNION BALLROOM

9 P.M. to 1 A.M. – Admission $1.00

YOU HAVEN'T SEEN ANYTHING
UNTIL YOU'VE SEEN
EVERYTHING *

"Everything you always wanted to know about sex* *BUT WERE AFRAID TO ASK"

A JACK ROLLINS-CHARLES H. JOFFE
and BRODSKY/GOULD Production
WOODY ALLEN'S
"EVERYTHING YOU ALWAYS WANTED TO KNOW ABOUT SEX*
*BUT WERE AFRAID TO ASK"
R
United Artists

Saturday
Feb. 5

Student
Union
Ballroom

6:30, 8:15, 10:00 & 11:45

QUONSET

Something New
in Dining Out!!

Low Budget
Family Menu

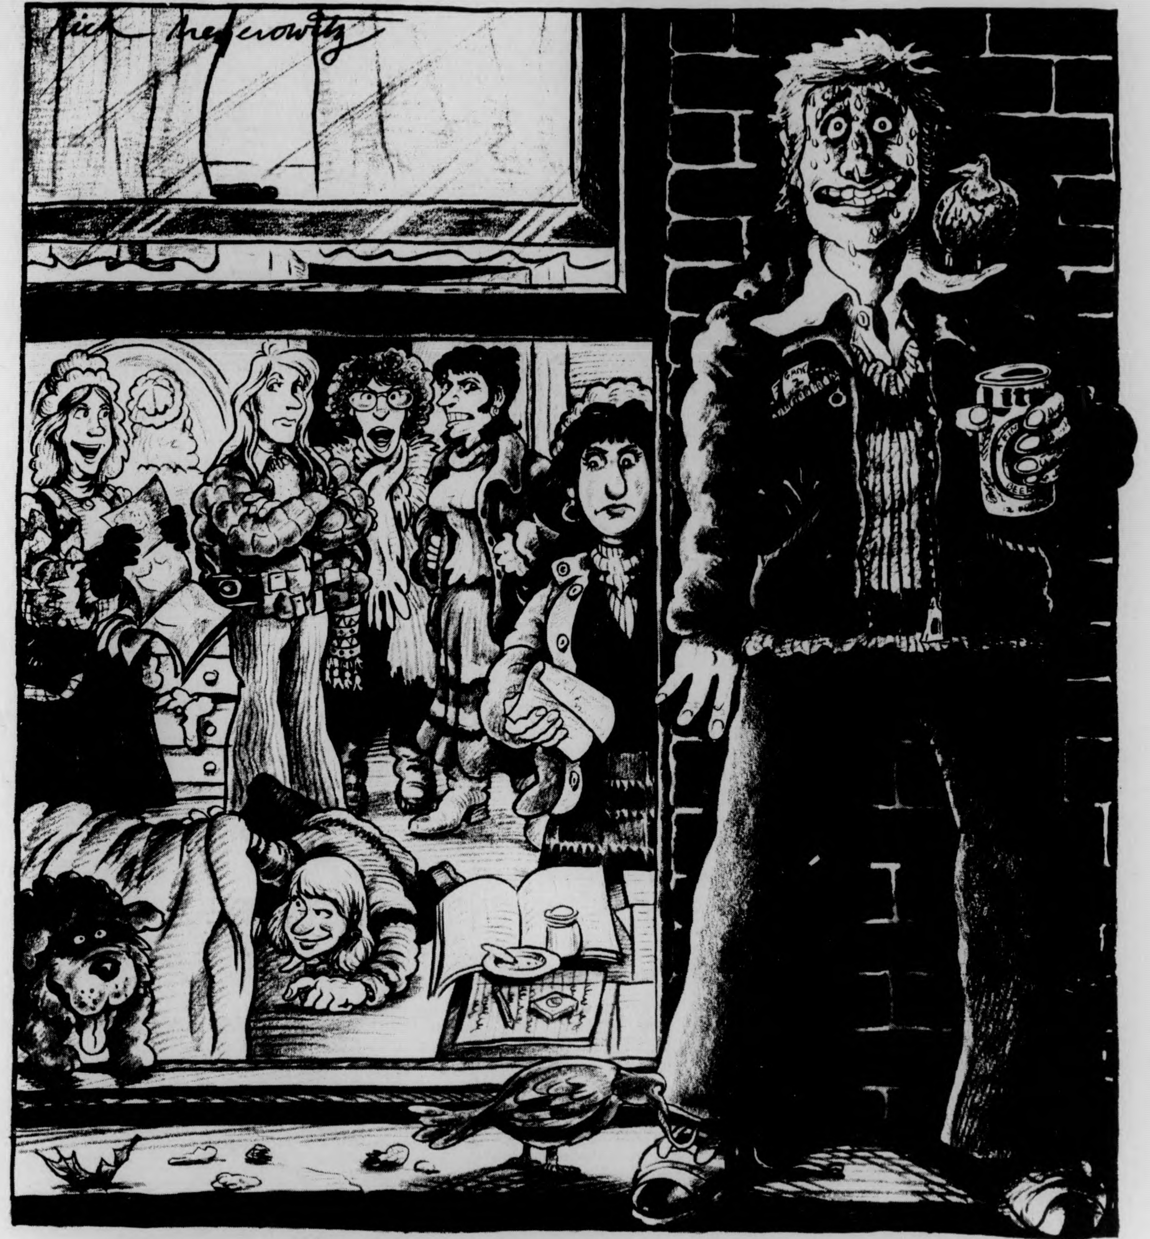
featuring
Chef John

Dinner Served
5-9
Tues. thru Fri.

For student groups
of 4 and up
10 per cent discount

Restaurant
Hadley, Mass.
Exit 20, I-91, Rt. 9

Reservati..s
1-253-921..



When you've got only 2 tickets to the big game and you forgot that you asked Cheryl, Lori, Tracy, Kelly, Sabrina and Trisha, but they didn't .....it's no time to get filled up.

Lite® Beer from Miller.
Everything you always wanted
in a beer. And less.

©1976 The Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Piano recitals at Amherst College

AMHERST – Jorg Demus, pianist, will be in residence at Amherst College from Feb. 6 to Feb. 13. He will give recitals that week on Monday, Tuesday, Friday and Saturday nights at 8:15 in Buckley Recital Hall.

Mr. Demus will also give Master Classes on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday at 2 p.m. in room 3 in The Amherst College Music Center. On Wednesday at 2 p.m. in room 3 of the Music Center, Mr. Demus will lecture on "The Last Piano Sonatos, Opera 109, 110, 111; A Performer's View." All events are open to the public without admission charge.

The program of recitals will include keyboard works by J.S. Bach, Robert Schumann, Ludwig van Beethoven, Claude Debussy, and W.A. Mozart.

Holyoke orchestra presents concert

The Holyoke College Civic Orchestra under the direction of Robert K. Goss will present a Pops Concert, cabaret style, on Sunday, Feb. 6, at 8 p.m. at the Mont Marie Auditorium, Holyoke, Mass.

The orchestra will perform works by Rossinni, Joplin, Ellington, Rogers, LeGrand and Sousa. The feature of the concert will be the performance of the Kabelefsky Concerto for Violin and Orchestra.

Tickets may be purchased at the Holyoke Community College Ticket Office located near the Forum-Auditorium in Building C, Monday through Friday during the day, or from any orchestra member. Tickets are $2.00 each.

Painting exhibition at Smith museum

Local Color

The first museum exhibition of the work of Joseph Whiting Stock, the 19th-century folk painter from Springfield, Mass, will open at the Smith College Museum of Art today. Thirty-eight oil paintings and four miniatures, ranging in date from 1838 to 1855, are included in the exhibition, which will be on view until March 20. A fully-illustrated catalog will accompany the exhibition.

A small group of Stock's paintings was shown at a New York dealer's gallery in 1939, but the present exhibition is the first attempt to bring together a substantial number of the nearly 90 works which have now been catalogued as his by Juliette Tomlinson, the editor of "The Paintings and The Journal of Joseph Whiting Stock," recently published by Wesleyan University Press.

DC menu

TODAY

LUNCH – Fish Burger, Turkey Divan; Basics: Mixed Bean Casserole, Fish Burger.

DINNER – Cubed Steak, Baked Fish-Crumb Sauce; Basics: Fried Shrimp-Hot Sauce, Lentil Patties.

TOMORROW

BRUNCH – Scrambled Eggs, Bacon, Chili Con Carne, Deli Ham Sandwich on Rye Bread.

DINNER – Spaghetti-Meat Sauce, Fried Fish with Tarter Sauce.

SUNDAY

BRUNCH – Scrambled Eggs, Sausages, Corned Beef Stuffed Peppers, Cold Roast Beef Sandwich.

DINNER – Fried Chicken, Squash Bake.

Appearing
Friday & Saturday
JAMES COTTON
at
The rusty nail Inn
Rte. 47, Sunderland
665-4937

AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST. 253-5426
now
"A SMALL MASTERPIECE!" - Bernard Drew, Gannett News
"ASTONISHING... BRILLIANTLY ACTED!" John Simon, N.Y. Magazine
Starring PHILIPPE NOIRET
the CLOCKMAKER
...A MAN WHO WOULD NOT COMPROMISE.
Plus
Vincent, Francois, Paul and the Others
Eves: VINCENT FRANCOIS 7:00 CLOCKMAKER 9:00
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

Springfield Symphony Orchestra
proudly presents the
CLEVELAND ORCHESTRA
LORIN MAAZEL, conductor
Beethoven: Overture to "Egmont"
Beethoven: Symphony No. 8
Strauss: Ein Heldenleben
MON., FEB. 7, 8:00 P.M. – SYMPHONY HALL
$3.75, $4.75, $6.50, $7.75, $12.50
to order tickets call: 733-2291

university of massachusetts arts council
S. HUROK presents
CANADA'S ROYAL WINNIPEG BALLET
FRI. & SAT., FEB. 11 & 12 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets on sale Jan. 28, $6, 5, 4. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

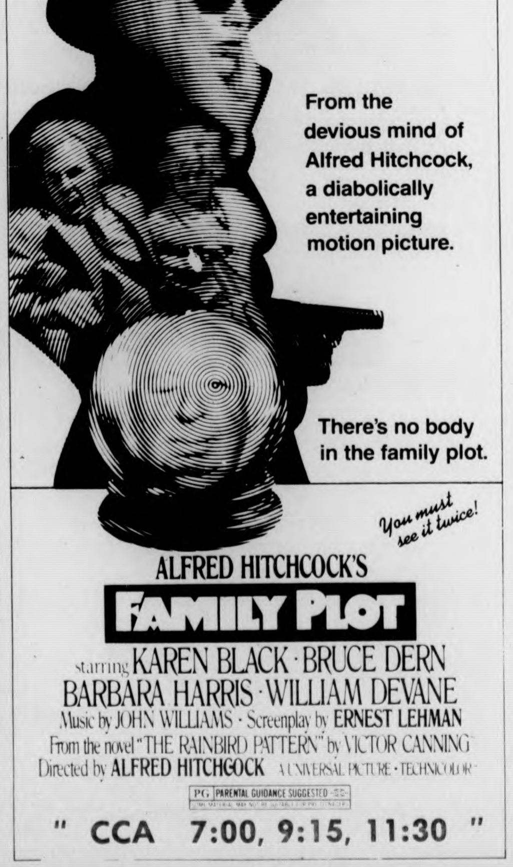
university of massachusetts arts council
presents
THE FABULOUS GIL EVANS AND HIS ORCHESTRA
Big Band Jazz of the 70's
SAT., FEB. 5 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets now on sale! $6, 5, 4. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

Hungry as a Bear ?
But on a Light Budget ?
Enjoy these super specials :

no. 1	no. 2	no. 3
1 Egg Toast Home-Fries Coffee Juice	3 Eggs Toast 3 Bacon Home-Fries	2 Eggs Toast Juice Coffee
$.99	$1.29	$.83

— Luncheon Specials Monday - Friday
— Fish Specials Every Friday
— Open 7 a.m. to7 p.m.
— Breakfast Anytime
Gaslite II 162 N. Pleasant St., Amherst

university of massachusetts arts council
presents
Quartetto Italiano
The program will consist of QUARTET IN C MAJOR, OPUS 76, No. 3 ("Emperor") by Haydn, THREE PIECES FOR STRING QUARTET (1914) by Stravinsky, CONCERTINO FOR STRING QUARTET (1920) by Stravinsky and QUARTET IN D MINOR, D. 810 ("Death and the Maiden") by Schubert.
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets now on sale! $5, 4, 3. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations



Tonight Only $1.00!
From the devious mind of Alfred Hitchcock, a diabolically entertaining motion picture.
There's no body in the family plot.
You must see it twice!
ALFRED HITCHCOCK'S
FAMILY PLOT
starring KAREN BLACK · BRUCE DERN
BARBARA HARRIS · WILLIAM DEVANE
Music by JOHN WILLIAMS · Screenplay by ERNEST LEHMAN
From the novel "THE RAINBIRD PATTERN" by VICTOR CANNING
Directed by ALFRED HITCHCOCK A UNIVERSAL PICTURE · TECHNICOLOR
PG PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED
" CCA 7:00, 9:15, 11:30 "

Notices

ACTIVE MEN

International Women's Week needs men's input to insure a successfully educational program. Come to the SW Men's Center in Kennedy Mon. night, 7th, at 7 p.m.

ALL PUBLIC HEALTH STUDENTS

Get involved in our department. Meet welcome. Tues., Feb. 8, 7:00, in North Lounge, Arnold House. Refreshments served.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS

There will be a meeting Tues., Feb. 8 at 7:00 p.m. in CC 903. Plans will be made for this semester. Plans include a trip to the bulk mail center in Springfield and parties. All I.E.'s urged to attend.

DRIVER TRAINING

Applications will be accepted Feb. 7 at 7 p.m. Rm 101 CC for SSTS Bus driver training. You must be a degree candidate student with at least 3 semesters until graduation. Bring your Mass. class 3 lic. and proof of class yr.

FIRST GENERAL MEETING

All Chinese students and interested persons are urged to attend a meeting on Feb. 11, Tues. at 7:00 p.m. in CC 101. Activities for this semester includes Disco, China Nite, Picnics, etc. will be discussed. A free movie will be shown.

FINANCE COMM. TO MEET

The GSS Finance Committee will hold its first meeting of the spring semester Monday, 2-7. Planning for next year's budget will begin. All interested senators and graduate students are invited.

HSMA

There will be a meeting on Monday at 7:30 in 903 CC. The guest speaker is other students. All grad undergrad majors Michael Brenan, Sales Director, from The Sheraton, Hartford, Conn.

IT IS A "FAMILY PLOT"

Alfred Hitchcock's "Family Plot" is coming tonite, Fri. 2-5 in CCA for only $1.00. 7:00, 9:15, 11:30. First time on campus.

INTERNATIONAL FOLK DANCING

Once again we remind all those interested that folk dancing is being held every Friday (that's tonight!) from 8-12 p.m. in the Cape Cod Lounge, S.U. Newcomers are always welcome. Hope to see you there!

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S WEEK

Reminder that workshop Committee will meet at noon on 10th floor CC, and Art-Theater-Poetry-Film committee will meet 10 a.m. in SOP office on Fri., Feb. 4.

JOURNEY: A MYTHICAL MUSICAL

Production meeting for Journey will be Wednesday, Feb. 9 at 4:30 p.m. at the BDIC Conference Room, Goodell Library. Production staff and anyone interested in working on the production are asked to attend.

LOST

Lost Pocketbook (brown vinyl w-long braided straps) last Thursday 1-27 between Poor Richards and Brittany Manor. Contents: wallet, identification, keys on gold chain with whistle, address book, pictures and checkbook. If any of these are found please return. Reward offered. Laurie Gunsolly 546-9389.

ORTHODOX SABBATH SERVICES

The Chabad House is the only Orthodox Synagogue in Amherst – please join us at 6:00 p.m. Friday for prayer in welcoming the sabbath and for Saturday at 10 a.m. at 30 North Hadley Rd. across from Whitmore, near S.W. dorms.

POL SCI 190A PEOPLE

Meeting to continue organization of the collective begun last semester Tues., 2-8 in room 911 Campus Center 7:30 p.m. For info Scott 584-6469 or Dave 546-6622.

PRE-MEDICAL STUDENTS ATTENTION!

All present others of the society will be leaving in June. Because of this the PMS needs interested people urgently. Please attend our meeting on Thurs., Feb. 17 at 7:00 in room 101 of the CC. Everyone is invited and urged to attend.

SAILING CLUB

The Sailing Club will have its first meeting of the semester on Tuesday, Feb. 8 at 7:00 in CC 901. We will be discussing upcoming Regattas and Sailing in Florida over spring break. All are welcome. Any questions you may call Nancy, 549-4758.

SEX AND WOODY ALLEN!

See Louise Lasser, Burt Reynolds and Gene Wilder in Woody Allen's hilarious film "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex But Were Afraid to Ask". Tomorrow night in S.U.B. at 6:30, 8:15, 10:00 and 11:45.

WHAT IS WATER POLO?

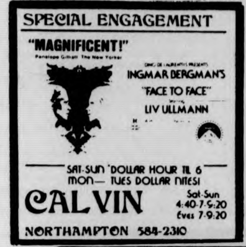
Anyone, male or female, interested in learning to play intercollegiate water polo call Bob at 546-4769. No experience necessary. Pool is available. P.E. credits available.

Film 'The Legacy' at Hampshire College

The Hampshire College Women's Center will show "The Legacy" by Karen Arthur at 8 p.m. on Sunday at the West Lecture Hall – Franklin Patterson Hall at Hampshire College.

The film is the first of four to be shown in a series titled "Films by Women" to be shown every Sunday of this month at 8 p.m. A small donation is requested to cover the cost of the films.

The series is being shown in conjunction with the Pleasant Street Theater.



SPECIAL ENGAGEMENT
"MAGNIFICENT!" Penelope Gilliatt The New Yorker
INGMAR BERGMAN'S "FACE TO FACE" LIV ULLMANN
SAT-SUN 'DOLLAR HOUR TIL 6
MON— TUES DOLLAR NITES!
CALVIN Sat-Sun 4:40-7-9:20 Eves 7-9:20
NORTHAMPTON 584-2310

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 - HADLEY, MASS
THE GREATEST AFRICAN ADVENTURE EVER FILMED!
LEE MARVIN ROGER MOORE
SHOUT AT THE DEVIL
BARBARA PARKINS
PG
① Fri 4:30, 7:00, 9:30, Twi-Liter 4:00-4:30
Sat 2:00, 4:30, 7:00, 9:30, Twi-Liter 4:00-4:30
Sunday 2:00, 5:30, 8:00, Twi-Liter 5:00-5:30
IF YOU'VE GOT A TASTE FOR TERROR... TAKE CARRIE TO THE PROM.
CARRIE
SISSY SPACEK
R
② Fri 5:00, 7:17, 9:45, Twi-Liter 4:30-5:00
Sat 2:15, 5:00, 7:15, 9:45, Twi-Liter 4:30-5:00
Sun 2:15, 6:00, 8:15 Twi-Liter 5:30-6:00
Limited Seating at Twi-Liters - $1.25
"MAGNIFICENT!" - Penelope Gilliatt The New Yorker
"LIV ULLMANN'S PERFORMANCE IS SHATTERING!" Jack Kroll Newsweek
DINO DE LAURENTIIS PRESENTS INGMAR BERGMAN'S "FACE TO FACE" LIV ULLMANN
R
③ Friday 4:30, 7:00, 9:30, Twi-Liter 4:00-4:30
Sat 2:00, 4:30, 7:00, 9:30, Twi-Liter 4:00-4:30
Sun 2:00, 5:30, 8:00, twi-Liter 5:00-5:30
"LOVELY. . .A RARITY, A POETIC COMEDY THAT'S REALLY FUNNY." –Pauline Kael, New Yorker Magazine
a film by françois truffaut small change
PG
④ Fri 4:45, 7:15, 9:45, Twi-Liter 4:15-4:45
Sat 2:15, 4:45, 7:15, 9:45, Twi-Liter 4:15-4:45
Sun 2:15, 5:45, 8:15, Twi-Liter 5:15-5:45
★ REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS... LIMITED TO SEATING ★

WORKSTUDYJOBSWORKSTUDYKJOBS
Two work study
JOBS
in the news room
at the Collegian
They involve answering phones, filing
and other duties.
One is 10 hours a week
in the afternoon,
the other is 15 hours
a week
at night
See the news editor Bernie
5-3500 from 3-5 weekdays
for more info

Everbody's Market Place

CLASSIFIED ADS

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8 30a m and 3 45p m Monday thru Friday

The deadline is 3 45p m two days before your ad is to appear

The rates are

Daily 40¢ per line

Weekly 35¢ per line

Monthly 25¢ per line

(two lines on MDC form approximate one line)

IF YOU CAN'T COME TO THE OFFICE, CLIP OUT AND MAIL OUR 'SPEEDY CLASSIFIED AD FORM'

FOR SALE

8 trk car dk w-spkrs. $40. 549-5910. Ken.

TURNTABLE — Philips GA212, ex. cond. Ret. $170, ask $125—B.O. 253-7498.

Parts for Triumph TR4 and TR4A. 256-6233.

Ebonite Clarinet, leather pads, comp rebit, real tight mellow sound. 256-0536, John.

175cm Holzner skis, 9½ Reiker boots, Spademan bindings, 48 in. poles. $45 takes all or will sell in parts. Chuck 655-3551.

Skis — Head 720 203cms, Nevada binding. Good condition. Henke boots, size 9. Fair condition. Best offer. Jon 549-6425.

Folk Guitar, Harmony. Good for beginning students. Good condition. Best offer. Jon 549-6425.

New autoharp 15 keys, carrying case incl. 549-5910 Don.

FOR SALE

1 pr. of men's Bauer hockey skates, size 10. Call 6-8960.

Kastle GS skis, 200cm. $50. 546-4709.

Refrigerator. $35. Gd. cond. 546-5156.

Rossignol Strato Nev. bind. 140cm Reichl, sz. 7, poles. Ex. for beg. 253-7108.

6 rm. house - 4 yrs. old, fireplace, 2 car garage, 1 & ½ baths, lge. porch, 1 acre. Exquisite. Call after 4. 1-467-7208.

For Sale: 2 pairs of skis — Head 360's 180cm. Excellent condition. $100.00. Head HRP's 180cm Look Nevada bindings $125.00. Nordica boots $60.00. Head poles $15.00. Call 5?7-2691.

Refrig., ex. cond. 2½, C.F. $65. 546-6772.

Refrig., excellent cond., 5 cu. ft., $80. Small BSR McDonald stereo. B. O. 323-5131.

K2 III 195cm, used twice, $75. 549-2785.

LEATHER BOOTS — FRYE Lookalikes — never worn! 9½. Best offer. Jeff. 546-7878.

Guitar, Yamaha F160, Flute Armstrong. Both like new. 665-2563.

Yamaha FG-180, Guitar $125 or B.O. Call Daniel 3-7 p.m. 253-3887.

Ficher 185 Cm look GT bindings size 11. Nordica boots used 1 season. poles inc. $100. After 5 p.m. 323-6924. Grow light 110.

Gift Idea: Have your portrait drawn. Call Dennis Delap, 256-8732.

Size 44 brown leather waist lngth, lined, barely used. $50. Call JK 549-6973.

Kowa Six 2¼ SLR with 80 mm lens and grip. $190 or best offer. Gary 256-8434.

Car cassette deck, new head. Auto-rev. Call 549-5910 ask for Don.

TO SUBLET

F to lease 1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. unit till May, bus rt., $135 inc. all. 665-3044 eves.

AUTO FOR SALE

'67 VW Sqrbk, reblt eng. Runs good, $475. '71 Vega, runs good — body shot, $200. firm. 256-8214 after 6.

'68 Catalina, hi mi but runs very well & reliable. Peter — Dwight 224 — 5-2304.

'69 VW Bug good transportation needs minor work. 586-4026.

'63 VW. Excellent condition, dependable. $295 or best offer. Gary 256-8434.

1969 MGB, good cond. $1000 or best offer. Tel. 549-1191.

BMW, '67, 4 door, exc. cond. $1200. 256-6459.

INSTRUCTION

Beg. Hatha Yoga for women. Ind. or small groups. Call eves. Hana 253-5698.

ROOMMATE WANTED

Quiet, non-smok., female, own room, $115. mo. Brit. Manor. 253-3140 eves. before 10.

Rmmate Amherst Apt. 1 mi. from UMass. No lease. Own rm., bus. $100 incl. utils. Call 549-6013.

Female for S. Amh. house. $88+. 253-7727.

Room in Co-op House, Mar. 1. F. Belchtwn. 323-5058.

Roommate — 2 bdrm., own room, $125 inc. util., sec. dep., d-d, w-d, modern. 549-1741 or 549-1352. Share w-female, senior. Lease 8-31-77. A-cond.

F, or M to share lg. b room, 5 min. walk to campus. 253-5298.

Mature female roommate wanted to share expenses. Call 253-2657.

2½ rms. 110 mo. Furn., util.inc. Cbl. tv, ac refrig, stove. 1 mile from campus 546-4177.

TYPING

Typing — Reasonable rates — Dissertations, resumes, papers, etc. 549-6772.

FOR RENT

Belchertown — 3 room cottage — stove, refrig., $150—mth., private. 583-8734 evenings.

Furnished Apts. avail. Feb. 1. 4 mos. lease. 1½, 2, 2½ rms. A.C., parking, pool, quiet area. From $190. mo. inc. all utils. Amherst Motel & Apts., Rte. 9, opp. Zayre's.

To sublet 2 bdrm. apt. $175+. Bus rt. Sunderland. Call 665-3842 after 4.

Sublet Riverglade 2 bdrm., heat, AC incl. On busline. Very reasonable. 253-2777.

In Lev., woodsy, cheap heat, with 3 others. $95+. 549-0021.

Pres. Apts. 1 bedroom avail. 3-1 $205. Util. inc. AC and DW, Bus Route 549-6096.

University Women: Close to campus sorority is taking boarders. Great food. Call Liz or Dawn at 253-9215.

LETS TOUCH...Experienced foil and saber fencer looking for a.m., p.m., weekend partners. Duke Simoneau, 405 Brown House, 546-5727.

WANTED

Used stationary exercise bike. Good condition. 772-6184 collect after 5 p.m.

HONEST FURNITURE

Good deals on bureaus, beds, chairs, sofas, lamps, threadle sewing machines, desks and things that go bump in the night. Pauls Oldtime Furniture, 57 E. Pleasant St., Amherst. 549-3603, we deliver.

REWARD OFFERED

Reward offered for return of casino klub amplifier and AKG 190E mike stolen from basement of 165 Britanny Manor. Call Jim at 549-1145.

HELP WANTED

P. time job selling jewelry. 256-8746.

Small sorority needs pot washer, dining room houseboys. Call 549-1587.

The Below The Salt arts weekly is looking for your poetry. Let us see your creativity? Come on down Monday nite or leave your stuff in the Poetry Box, Coll. Off., 1st floor C.C.

Men! Women! Jobs on ships! American. Foreign. No exp. required. Exc. pay. Worldwide Travel. Summer job or career. Send $3 for info: SEAFAX, Dept. F-2, Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362.

Work in a sorority. Free meals, good home cooking. Call 253-9066.

Alan Goldberg Tennis Pro needs assistant pro for part time summer employment. Teaching exp. required. Call nites 253-3683.

Bus driver training appls. will be accepted on Feb. 7 at 7 p.m. in CC, rm. 101 from the first 100 qualified. You must be a univ. degree candidate student with at least 3 semesters left, over 18 yrs. of age, hold a Mass. No. 3 lic., and willing to train on weekends.

Fashion 220 Beauty Consultants are trained specialists in skin care and beauty techniques. To qualify call Mon.-Fri. 12-2:30 p.m. 568-3903, 533-9331.

Person w-truck to move refrig. from UMass to Sunderlnd for $15. 665-3638 after 5.

International women's week needs people power for publicity committee and children's programming! For more info. call Irene 545-3600.

Dishwasher wanted. Free meals, call Jim at 545-2151 or 256-6815.

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Spfld. from UMass M-W-F at 11 and Tues and Thurs. at 2:30. Will share $. 736-8690 Sue.

ENTERTAINMENT

J.B. Records presents: "Sunrise" Fri., Feb. 4 Castaways, Sat. & Sun. Feb. 5 and 6 The Steak Out.

Sex Is Back! Woody Allen's outrageous "Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Sex But Were Afraid To Ask!", Saturday, Feb. 5, 4 showings. 6:30, 8:15, 10:00, 11:45 in S.U.B. !1.00.

LOST

Lost — Gold pocket watch, low $, hi personal value. $20 reward. 256-6757.

Men's glasses, tan case. Tues. 2-1, bet. Fernold and Hert. Call Charles 545-2619, 253-9414. Reward.

Lost — gold rimmed glasses in southwest area, reward. 546-8795.

Lost — pr. red, white & blue Aris ski gloves, Fri. nite, Hatch. Reward. 546-7924.

SERVICES

Guitar Lessons. Experienced, reliable teacher. Theory included if desired. Student rates available. 665-3024.

ENGINEERING STUDENTS

High quality, new drafting compass sets. Prived bel cost. Call Carl 546-4102.

AUDIO

Quality audio components — over 130 lines including high—end; good advice, reasonable prices. Call Peter 665-2920.

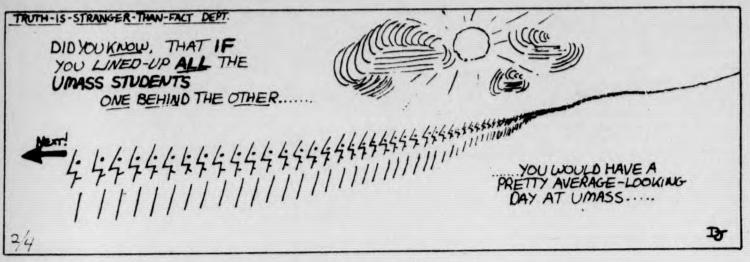
CALCULATORS

College Calculators has low prices! All T. I. warr by me for 1 yr. SR-52 $199.95; SR-56 $84.95 ($10 rebate off this pr.); SR-40 $34.95, bus anal $34.95 — All HP's avail. HP-67 $389.95. Call and check our PR's. Call Bob Or Linda 549-1316!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

TRAVEL

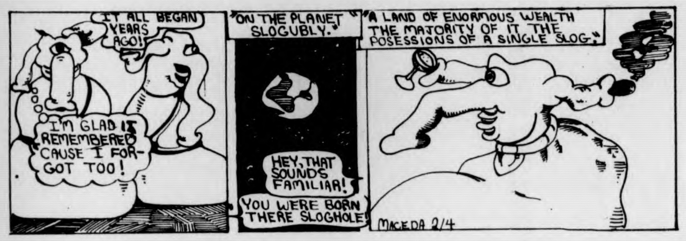
Europe '77. No frills, student, teacher, charter flights — Global Travel, 521 5th Ave., N. Y., N. Y. 10017. 212-379-3532. Group rates.

What Next? by Dick Janssen



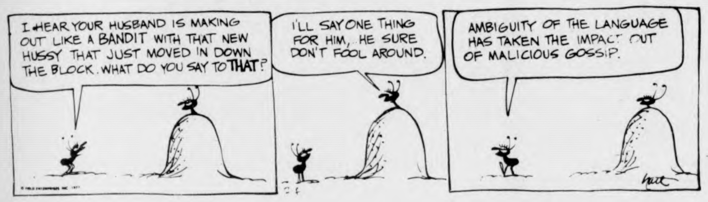
TRUTH-IS-STRANGER-THAN-FACT DEPT.
DID YOU KNOW, THAT IF YOU LINED-UP ALL THE UMASS STUDENTS ONE BEHIND THE OTHER......
NEXT!
......YOU WOULD HAVE A PRETTY AVERAGE-LOOKING DAY AT UMASS.....
2/4
DJ

U.Mutations by Marty Maceda



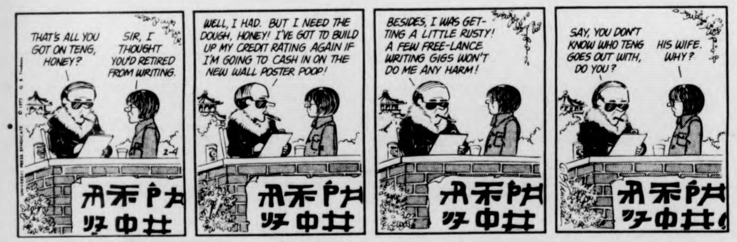
IT ALL BEGAN YEARS AGO!
I'M GLAD IT REMEMBERED CAUSE I FORGOT TOO!
"ON THE PLANET SLOGUBLY."
HEY, THAT SOUNDS FAMILIAR!
YOU WERE BORN THERE SLOGHOLE!
"A LAND OF ENORMOUS WEALTH THE MAJORITY OF IT THE POSESSIONS OF A SINGLE SLOG."
MACEDA 2/4

B.C. by Johnny Hart



I HEAR YOUR HUSBAND IS MAKING OUT LIKE A BANDIT WITH THAT NEW HUSSY THAT JUST MOVED IN DOWN THE BLOCK. WHAT DO YOU SAY TO THAT?
I'LL SAY ONE THING FOR HIM, HE SURE DON'T FOOL AROUND.
AMBIGUITY OF THE LANGUAGE HAS TAKEN THE IMPACT OUT OF MALICIOUS GOSSIP.
hart

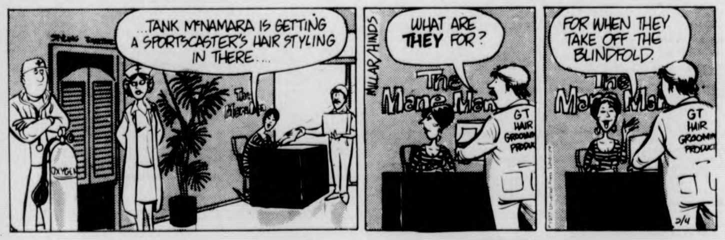
Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau



THAT'S ALL YOU GOT ON TENG, HONEY?
SIR, I THOUGHT YOU'D RETIRED FROM WRITING.
2-4
WELL, I HAD. BUT I NEED THE DOUGH, HONEY! I'VE GOT TO BUILD UP MY CREDIT RATING AGAIN IF I'M GOING TO CASH IN ON THE NEW WALL POSTER POOP!
BESIDES, I WAS GETTING A LITTLE RUSTY! A FEW FREE-LANCE WRITING GIGS WON'T DO ME ANY HARM!
SAY, YOU DON'T KNOW WHO TENG GOES OUT WITH, DO YOU?
HIS WIFE. WHY?

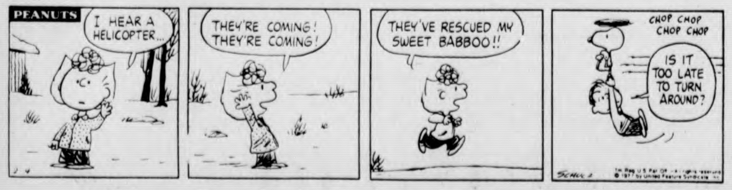
TANK McNAMARA

by Jeff Millar & Bill Hinds



...TANK McNAMARA IS GETTING A SPORTSCASTER'S HAIR STYLING IN THERE....
OXYGEN
MILLAR/HINDS
WHAT ARE THEY FOR?
The Mane Man
GT HAIR GROOMING PRODUCT
FOR WHEN THEY TAKE OFF THE BLINDFOLD.
2/4

Peanuts by Charles M. Schulz



PEANUTS
I HEAR A HELICOPTER...
THEY'RE COMING! THEY'RE COMING!
THEY'VE RESCUED MY SWEET BABBOO!!
CHOP CHOP CHOP CHOP
IS IT TOO LATE TO TURN AROUND?
SCHULZ

Local Television

8:00 3 CODE R
8 40 THE DONNY AND MARIE OSMOND SHOW
22 30 SANFORD AND SON "When John Comes Marching Home"
24 57 WASHINGTON WEEK IN REVIEW
32 38 BOSTON BRUINS HOCKEY
56 THE COMMANDERS
8:30 22 30 CHICO AND THE MAN "Chico's Padre"
24 57 WALL STREET WEEK
9:00 3 THE SONNY AND CHER SHOW
8 40 25th ANNIVERSARY OF AMERICAN BANDSTAND
18 ATHANSON'S FORUM
22 30 QUINCY "Snake Eyes"
24 57 DOCUMENTARY SHOWCASE: "Cowboys"
56 NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC SPECIAL
9:30 18 THE PTL CLUB
27 SERGEANT BILKO "Kids In Trailer"
10:00 3 EXECUTIVE SUITE
24 57 AGRONSKY AT LARGE
27 NEWS
56 LOVE, AMERICAN STYLE
10:30 24 57 AMERICANA
10:45 27 JEANNE PALMER-FINANCE
38 MOVIE "Dangerous Crossing"
11:00 3 8 22 24 30 40 NEWS
27 MOVIE "A Very Private Affair"
56 DARK SHADOWS
57 MARY HARTMAN, MARY HARTMAN
11:30 3 FRIDAY SPECTACULAR "Stalag 17"
8 GREAT EIGHT FRIGHT FLICK "The Ghost of Frankenstein"
18 DR. SCOTT ON HEBREW
22 30 THE JOHNNY CARSON SHOW

Your Birthday

by Stella Wilder

Friday, February 4 — Born today, you are by nature financially capable. You may not always be as successful financially as the next person -- but you have tremendous earning potential and possess a natural understanding of those economic principles that should, in the long run, bring you to the top of your business or profession insofar as the financial aspects are concerned. Whether you will remain financially well-off is another question, one that will ultimately be answered by the degree of your conservativeness. Should you be very conservative, you may well attain and maintain a position of considerable wealth -- and, of course, the converse is true: if you are not at all conservative, you will very likely spend all you make in relatively short order.

Your cleverness in money matters and your ability to make good investments may at times cause you difficulties in your personal relationships. There are many who will envy you your talent for making money in the first place and for putting it to good use in the next, and even those who are considered your nearest and dearest may at times envy you to the point of appearing unfriendly. You will have to consider the mood of another person before you approach him or her with any problems of yours, for it may well be that neither you nor your problems are particularly welcome at times.

Although you are not a gambler by nature, you are a speculative individual, greatly enjoying playing the market, no matter how small the stakes.

* * *

Saturday, February 5

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — A financial reverse may take you completely by surprise this morning. Make an effort to recover later in the day.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Keep a peaceful frame of mind early in the day if you hope to make the kind of gain you desire later on.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Valuable friendships must not be placed in jeopardy today. Guard against anything that smacks of disloyalty or lack of affection.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — The diligent application of talent to natural ambition may make this a day to remember for the gain it brings at evening.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Make this a day for family enterprise. A goal that encourages all family members to their best deeds should meet with approval.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — A constructive mental attitude is essential if you are to be able to meet the challenge of joint enterprise. Seek family counsel.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Hold onto your standards early in the day. There is danger of being talked into actions that would run against the grain of high principle.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Your capacity for physical labor may be tested today through household chores. Don't overdo, however, or you will regret it at evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Versatility may bring you gain early in the day; it may also bring you a confused state of mind toward day's end.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — So long as you are able to tell the true from the false, the real from the fanciful, you shouldn't make trouble for yourself today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — A late start may cause a serious setback late in the day. Make an effort to get things underway early in the morning.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Meet a setback with humor and you have the battle of the comeback half won. Children may cause some concern at evening. Be patient.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Today's Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate

ACROSS

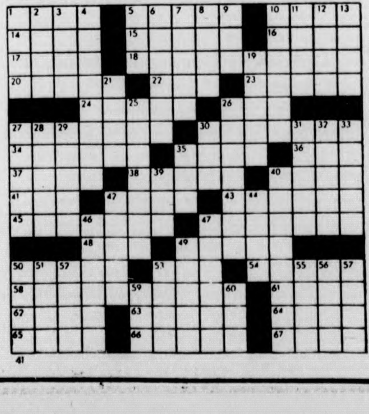
1 Chums
5 Quebec's neighbor
10 Metric unit
14 Miscellany
15 Actress Eve -----
16 Branches
17 House
18 Ontario and Michigan: 2 words
20 Encamps
22 Crew member
23 Incident
24 Seethes
26 Mike ---: '72 USC QB
27 Indian tribal chiefs
30 Bible readings
34 Reception: 2 words
35 Fix firmly in place
36 Witticism
37 Morose
38 Keepsake
40 Oriental prefix
41 Smash into
42 Pungent
43 Make ragged
45 Violent attack
47 Veracity
48 Clear
49 Indian of Ontario
50 Plastics ingredient
53 Sense of hearing
54 Strikingly unusual
58 Ability to give off energy
61 Plot of land
62 Wine's partner
63 Actress ----- Oberon
64 Image
65 Actress Anna ----
66 Balance sheet item
67 Direct with force

DOWN

1 Chicago or Toronto
2 Century plant
3 Constellation
4 Kind of dance
5 Publication: Informal
6 Freeway signs
7 Opinions
8 Close in space
9 Adjective suffix
10 English poet
11 Scratch
12 Verily
13 Atmosphere vapor
19 Lowest in rank
21 Flower part
25 Yellowish green
26 Nuclear -------
27 One born in Israel
28 School textbook
29 Friends
30 Hawaiian garland
31 Passes over
32 Musical composition
33 Plot of a play
35 Cunning
39 Without: Prefix
40 Narrowing of an orifice
42 Harms irreparably
44 Immediately
46 Having originated
47 Crash
49 Slender filaments
50 Skelton and Grange
51 Utter
52 Math term
53 Periods preceding events
55 Corruption
56 Collar type
57 ---- lease
59 "---- Dreamer"
60 Thus far

Thursday's Puzzle Solved

W	A	S	T	E		S	I	M	O	N		H	A	G
A	C	T	O	R		A	G	A	T	E		E	R	A
T	H	E	R	E	A	B	O	U	T	S		A	I	L
T	E	R	N		W	O	R	D		T	E	R	S	E
			A	B	A	T			S	L	A	T	E	S
F	R	I	D	A	Y		C	O	H	E	R	E
L	E	R	O	Y		L	O	V	E	D		N	U	B
E	N	O	S		M	O	P	E	D		L	I	R	A
W	O	N		F	I	N	E	R		S	I	N	G	E
		F	A	I	L	E	D		S	I	N	G	E	R
S	M	I	L	E	D			L	U	N	G
M	O	S	E	S		M	A	I	M		E	S	T	E
E	N	T		T	R	A	N	S	P	O	R	T	E	D
A	T	E		A	U	R	A	L		P	I	E	C	E
R	E	D		S	M	I	T	E		T	E	T	O	N



Women skiers lead league

By RICHARD MOORE
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's ski team travels to Mt. Whittier, in Ossipee, New Hampshire this weekend for a Women's Intercollegiate Ski Conference meet against conference rivals Boston University, Merrimack College, and the University of Connecticut.

The Minutewomen are leading the WISC after finishing first in last weekend's conference opening meet held at Round Top Mt. in Plymouth Union, Vermont. UMass took the two-day event by outclassing all competition in Saturday's slalom race. Nancy Hayden, Kathy Clarke, and co-captain Kathy Shinnick finished third, fifth, and sixth respectively; as UMass finished 21 seconds ahead of Merrimack, and was a whopping 45 seconds faster than arch rival BU.

"So far I'm really pleased with everything," said coach Steve Tonelli. Nancy Hayden took an overall second in Vermont, Kathy Shinnick, Kathy Clarke, and Kathy Donovan are all skiing consistently, and newcomer Barbara Reynard is showing potential."

The Minutewomen were only four seconds behind top finishing BU in Sunday's grand slalom. Hayden was three seconds slower than BU's Tracy Newlove for second place, and Donovan and Shinnick were fourth and fifth, respectively.

"B.U. is definitely our toughest competition," Tonelli said, "and last weekend's meet would have been much closer if they hadn't finished so many people way down in the slalom. I look for them to be real good in all the remaining coference meets."

The Minutewomen are a veteran squad, with Hayden, Shinnick, Clarke, and Donovan all returning from last year's WISC championship team. This year's team is rounded out by Barbara Reynard, Connie Pratt, and Nancy O'Hare.

OPEN BOWLING
Monday thru Saturday
4:00-10:30
Boyden Ten Pin Lanes
50 cents a string
(Men's and women's leagues now being formed)

Mail Order Advertisement:

Name of book: I LOVE YOUR SONGS
The author: Eric Naches Grubinger

This ad is written by the author of the book, herein promoted.
Of course, you know, dear reader,
that I am prejudiced in favor of myself -
(and so,
I pray to God,
are you).
The book presents - in free, poetic format:
my perspective of the limits of my reason:
my fantasies of God;
my two cents worth of thinking
in the field of anthropology
(I think the turning, 7 million years ago, of our ancestral, female homo-sapiens
was un-evolved, i.e.,
it was, full pun intended,
a revolution, not an evolution.
And furthermore, I think, and think I prove, that that v-turn was where those troubles started which are uniquely human.);
next are my thoughts on plants, pain, perfection, change,
destiny, death,
and learning;
then comes a chapter on the u-turn of our species, wherein you'll find a prophecy as well as evidence of our imminence of healing;
the next chapter's on reason;
then, optional, is chapter 6, about the author, containing personal descriptions and a resume;
and finally it asks: what now my love?
A briefer summary than the above,
of what "I Love Your Songs" is all about is that it is, in printed hyroglyphics on the pages, the song of love and hope I sing to you.

Now there is one dilemma:
How do we get the book from me to you?
I can not give the book to you;
I don't have that much bread.
(This ad has drained my pocketbook.)
For those of you
(dear God, I hope that there are some of you!)
who might be interested enough to help dissolve, dismiss, destroy, defeat that darn dilemma,
a coupon for the purchase of the book is humbly-hopefully attached.
I trust the price seems fair-acceptable to you.
I kept it down as low
as reasonable business practice would permit.

I would be grateful,
if you cared
to ask at any bookstore, if they have the book.
If enough ask, I trust-expect a lot of stores will have it soon for you.

This book is being sold direct to you, without the normally additional expense of distribution by distributor and publisher.
If you will buy this book,
please do it soon —
or right away.
You see, until not long ago, before I started on this book,
I had a good position - and a comparable salary in industry.
And now my resources are almost all depleted.
In any case; I've risked it,
because I will not cheat or steal for bread.
In line with that,
this book is, in addition to the outline which I gave above, my soaring, searing, searching soul's desire for all of us to heal, —
to turn towards sanity.

TO: Eli ben Josef Enterprises
249 West 18th St.
New York City, N.Y.

From: NAME ____________
ADDRESS ____________
☐ Cash
☐ Check
I am enclosing $3.00 (which includes the book's mailing costs) for I Love Your Songs

Thank you,
Sincerely,
Eric Grubinger

UMass sports scoop

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
WOMEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL — UMASS — 85 Springfield — 66
WOMEN'S JV BASKETBALL — Springfield — 77 UMass 68

TODAY
VARSITY HOCKEY — vs. Merrimack Home 8:00
MEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL — vs. West Virginia Away 8:00

TOMORROW
VARSITY WRESTLING — vs. Mass. Maritime Home 7:00
VARSITY INDOOR TRACK — vs. UNH-URI Away 12:30
VARSITY HOCKEY — vs. Vermont Home 8:00
JV HOCKEY — vs. Williams Away 1:00
VARSITY WOMEN'S BASKETBALL — vs. Brown Home 6:30
MEN'S SWIMMING — vs. Rhode Island Home 2:00
WOMEN'S SWIMMING — vs. So. Connecticut Away 2:00
MEN'S GYMNASTICS — vs. Syracuse Home 2:00
WOMEN'S GYMNASTICS — vs. Canisius Away 2:00
MEN'S SKIING — BC Slalom at Mt. Snow
WOMEN'S SKIING — Harvard Slalom at Whittier Mt.

SUNDAY
MEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL — vs. Pittsburgh Away 2:00
MEN'S SKIING — Northeastern Giant Slalom at Mt. Snow
WOMEN'S SKIING — Harvard Giant Slalom at Whittier Mt.

Emerson House presents
Soldier Blue
Starring:
Peter Straus & Candace Bergen
Friday Feb. 4th
7, 9, 11:30
Mahar Aud. 75c

★ Hockey

CONT. FROM PAGE 20

on the bench for this game. He's fourth in the Division with 3.09 GAA.

Randy Curran scored a hat trick in the last game verses UMass and leads a very potent offense.

Vermont will be a much different event. What was once a hot rivalry, has calmed down as Vermont has moved up Division I. The Catamounts are 9-9 overall and 7-7 in the ECAC and, if it gets hot down the stretch, could make the playoffs.

The skaters are down in the rivalry, 6-19-2, and Vermont added to it last year by dumping the Minutemen, 10-4.

The leading scorers for the Catamounts are Michel Lebeau (eight goals-17 assists - 25 points), Randy Koch (13-11-24), and Tom Colby (10-12-22).

The crease is guarded for Vermont by Tom McNamara who has played 44 periods and has a 4.42 goals against average.

The Minutemen's record is 7-5-1.

walker
THURS - FRI - SAT
BLUE WALL

Tracksters seek season's first victory at URI

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

The UMass' men's track team will go on the road again to try and break into the win column this weekend as they travel to Kingston, Rhode Island to battle the URI Rams and the UNH Wildcats. Meet time is 12:30.

The 0-4 tracksters are embarking on a three day stretch which will also send them into Dartmouth on Tuesday.

According to head coach Ken O'Brien, the hardest part of the Minutemen schedule has passed. "We have gone against Seton Hall and Northeastern, two of the toughest track teams in the East and this weekend we will be facing two teams that are comparable to us," said O'Brien.

The trackmen, coming off an impressive showing in the Dartmouth Invitational last Saturday will have three key men back in the lineup after various ailments. Joe Martens, anchorman in the mile relay and particant in the high jump will return after missing two meets due to a mild case of the flu.

Also returning to action will be 600 yarder Mark Healy and pole vaulter Ted Power. Healy is coming back from a hamstring pull while Power has recovered from an ankle sprain. However All-American cross country runner Mike Quinn will not see action this weekend as he has a stone bruise on his ankle.

"This is the first time in a long time we will have most of our people back in the lineup," said O'Brien. We can finally start seeing what our front line people can do."

O'Brien said that within one week most of his personnel have gotten back into some type of competitive shape and he is expecting two victories this weekend.

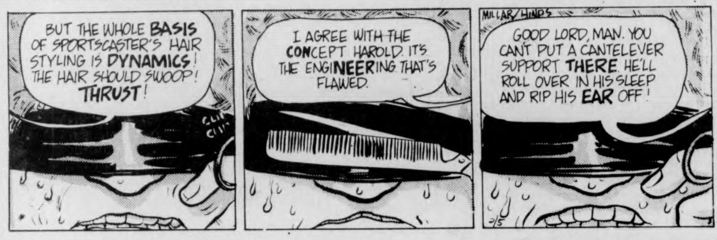
Personnel wise, the meet shapes up as a close one. According to assistant coach Arnie Morse, URI is strong in the pole vault, the dash and the hurdles. The Rams have two people who have cleared 14 ft.

"URI always has excellent polevaulters and with Gary Spencer whose done a 5.5 time in the dash and Gary Hecker in the hurdles with a time of 7.7, they have three excellent frontrunners," Morse said.

The Wildcats also have strength in the weight events, the dash, and the hurdles. Lou Perrazzo has thrown 56' in the weight toss while Hopkins has thrown 45' in the shot put. Jim Gori has run 5.5 in the dash and 7.8 in the 60 yard hurdles.

"Where we have obvious strength," said Morse, "are in the middle distances, the mile, two miles and the long jump." We should win this one."

TANK McNAMARA by Jeff Millar & Bill Hinds



BUT THE WHOLE BASIS OF SPORTSCASTER'S HAIR STYLING IS DYNAMICS! THE HAIR SHOULD SWOOP! THRUST!
I AGREE WITH THE CONCEPT HAROLD. IT'S THE ENGINEERING THAT'S FLAWED.
MILLAR/HINDS
GOOD LORD, MAN. YOU CAN'T PUT A CANTELEVER SUPPORT THERE. HE'LL ROLL OVER IN HIS SLEEP AND RIP HIS EAR OFF!
2/5

A SNOW SHOE (?)
(with a lot of "sole")

The NIKE WAFFLE TRAINER, with its knobby sole penetrates loose surfaces, provides excellent traction on snow, trails, grass, and whatever else you might tread on.

At the same time this super sole cushions against hard surfaces with its soft mid-sole and wedge.

only $27.25 at the runner'shop
15 strong ave., northampton
Mon.-Sat. 10-6
Thurs. 'til 9

Black stars inducted

NEW YORK [UPI] — John Henry Lloyd, a wide-ranging shortstop dubbed by his peers "the black Honus Wagner," and Martin Dihigo, a versatile outfielder-pitcher yesterday became the last two players elected to the baseball hall of fame by the special committee on negro leagues.

Both Lloyd and Dihigo will be inducted posthumously at the Cooperstown, N.Y. baseball shrine Aug. 8 along with Ernie Banks, the baseball writers electee, and Al Lopez, Joe Sewell and Amos Rusie, who were elected by the veterans committee. With the election of Lloyd and Dihigo, it was announced that the special negro leagues committee, formed in 1971, would now be disbanded.

"The intent was to vote into the Hall of Fame such outstanding performers in the old negro leagues, who in the opinion of the committee, would have made it anyway had they not been deprived of playing in the major leagues, "a committee spokesman said. "We are satisfied that mission has been accomplished."

Previously elected to the Hall of Fame by the negro league committee were such former black stars as Satchel Paige, Josh Gibson, Buck Leonard, Cool Papa Bell, Monte Irvin, Judy Johnson and Oscar Charleston — all of whom were deprived of playing in the major leagues prior to 1946 because of baseball's color barrier.

★ Matmen

CONT. FROM PAGE 19

varsity contest.

For the Minutemen, now 3-9 on the season, this battle with Mass. Maritime Academy, the 5th rated team in New England, is a chance to keep the winning momentum after last weekends strong showing in Albany.

Quiet confidence is the prevailing mood among the UMass grapplers. "I'm optimistic," said assistant coach Ron Peligra after yesterdays practice, "if we wrestle like we did last weekend, this ought to be a real good match."

Our medium size Heavy duty canvas tote In Various prints & colors On sale for 9.50

New Feb. Hours - Mon-Sat 10-5

16 Main St., Amherst
(3rd floor Russell Liquor building)
Kaleidoscope Handprints

PETE'S
PACKAGE STORE
144 SUMMER ST., N. AMHERST
Why fight traffic? - Easy Parking
TELEPHONE — 256-6828

Rt. 116
PETE'S
Puffers Pond
Townhouse Brandywine
Post Office
Summer Street
Sand Hill Rd.
Puffton Vil. Pres. Apts.
N. Pleasant St.
Pine St.
Crestview
E. Pleasant
U. Mass
N
U. Mass
U. Mass

First Right After Post Office
Schlitz — Budweiser Miller $1.75 six pack
Molsons $2.40 six pack
PROMPT-FREE DELIVERY
Open 84 Hrs./Wk. TO SERVE YOU!
Monday thru Saturday 9 a.m. to 11 p.m.

ARE YOU IN A RUSH?
If Not: Get Into One

Look into the reasons why 1000 people on campus are really happy with their living experience.

Forget about stereotyping and generalizing.
Find out for yourself.

SIGN UP FOR SORORITY RUSH
GREEK AFFAIRS OFFICE
203 Hampshire House
8-5 p.m.

PANHELLENIC RUSH OFFICE
169 Campus Center
9:15-3 p.m.

FINAL DEADLINE
Wednesday, Feb. 9th 5 p.m.

Gymwomen slide to Buffalo for testing tri-meet encounter

By LAURA BASSETT
Collegian Staff

The women's gymnastics team will face two obstacles during its next competition. First, the weather; the Minutewomen leave sloshy Amherst for snow bound Buffalo. Earlier in the week it was questionable whether the teams would meet.

The second obstacle will be the competition. This tri meet will be against two of the better teams in the east, Canisius and Slippery Rock. Canisius is currently ranked fifth the east and has been scoring in the low 130's. Slippery Rock is a lesser adversary but has been scoring in the 120 level this season.

"It will be tougher but I expect the team to do okay," said Evans.

Third ranked UMass will be using virtually the same line up as in the Penn State and Westchester meets. Jill Heggie, Stephanie Jones and Susan Cantwell will be three of the all around performers. Jones and Heggie finished one and two in the all around competition during the Westchester meet with strong scores of 36.85 and 36.65. Cantwell was the gymwomen's top all around competitor last year and Coach Virginia Evans expects continued solid performances from all three.

Cheryl Morrier was awarded the fourth all around position for the Canisius-Slippery Rock meet. Morrier scored a 30.40 during the most recent competition for the gymwomen against Salem State and Bridgewater. Morrier's performance coupled with the injury to regular all around performer Karen Hemberger earned her the position for the Canisius meet.

Hemberger will some action in one event however, the uneven parallel bars. She will join Jean Anderson to complete the six person squad on the bars.

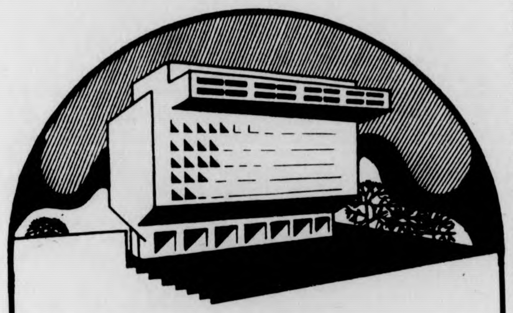
Barbara Burmeister has been added to the balance beam sixsome with Morrier's move to an all arounder. Burmeister will also vault against Canisius and Slippery Rock.

Julie Myers will work on the beam and floor coming off strong performances in the last meet. Diane Laurenson finishes off today's lineup, she will compete on the floor and in vaulting.

The gymwomen bring a 2-1 record to this trimeet. They have reached the half way point in their regular season as they build towards the Easterns and the Nationals. The competition is getting tougher. The gymnasts face fifth ranked Canisius today, fourth ranked Springfield College on the Feb. 20th in a big double dual at the Springfield Civic Center and end the season at home against number one ranked Clarion and sixth place Townson. The snow should hardly seem like an obstacle.

The Non-Traditional Student Assembly in conjunction with C.A.O.S. invite you to a...
GET ACQUAINTED OPEN HOUSE
LOCATION: FARLEY LODGE — UMASS CAMPUS
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 4
8 p.m. to 2 a.m.
Music
Refreshments Served
B.Y.O.B. Optional
Donation $1.00

Junior Susan Cantwell will need more than just a warmout in order to prepare for her routine tomorrow as the gymwomen travel to frigid Buffalo, N.Y. for an important meet. The Minutewomen will be facing top notch talent from Canisius and Slippery Rock colleges. (Staff photo by Rob Carlin)



T.O.C. presents
Bill Gable
Feb. 4 & 5 Fri. & Sat.

Grapplers prepared for clash

By BOB HASKELL
Collegian Staff

This could make the battle of Bull Run look like a Betty Crocker bake-off.

I'm talking about the head on collision between the UMass wrestling team and the grapplers from Mass. Maritime Academy which is slated to begin at 7:00 Saturday night at Boyden Gym.

Coach Dave Amato sees the match as a battle of individual match-ups.

"Dennis (Fenton) gives us the edge at heavyweight, but Maritime has two-time New England champ Leo Dunham at 190 lbs., and he's a tough one." "The rest of the matches are toss-ups," said Amato.

Larry Otsuka (134 lbs.) has been the stalwart lately for the Minutemen, wrestling consistently well in recent matches. But tomorrow Larry will have his hands full with former high school New England champion Mitch Murray of Brockton as his opposite number. Steve Jabaut, at 150 lbs. will have to contend with another high school New England champ, Mike McLarney of Chelmsford.

The key to this match, according to Amato, is momentum. "The early matches could very well determine the final results," the coach admitted, "so we're counting on Dave Daly (118 lbs.), Harry Conforti (126 lbs.) and Otsuka to get us going with some strong performances."

Coach Amato's lineup is solid except for one question mark at 142 lbs. "I haven't decided whether to go with Chris Dinnett or Keith Dixon," the coach explained, "I probably won't know for sure until near match time."

Other starters for UMass include Kevin Griffin (158 lbs.) Dana Cormier (167 lbs.), Mike Riley (177 lbs.) and Bob Spaulding (190 lbs.). Due to military exams at Mass. Maritime, there will be no junior

TURN TO PAGE 18

BERMUDA
March 18-25 or 19-26
from $199 plus tax
INCLUDES
★ ROUNDTRIP AIRFARE
★ ACCOMMODATIONS 7 NIGHTS
★ TRANSFERS
★ BEACH PARTIES
★ BARBECUES
CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
Campus Center 2nd level
Univ. of Mass 545-0500

Orangemen next foe for confident gymmen

By NICK KOTSOPOULOS
Collegian Staff

UMass men's gymnastics coach Dick Swetman feels that tomorrow afternoon's meet against Syracuse University in the Boyden Auxiliary Gym will either make or break his gymnasts season as they prepare to face their tougher teams on their schedule.

Swetman isn't really that concerned with tomorrow's meet against Syracuse, which is 0-3 in the Eastern Collegiate Gymnastics League, and averaging only 169 points each match.

"We shouldn't have any difficulties with Syracuse," he said. "They are not as strong a team as I thought they would be. However, I plan to go with my best performers in the meet and I don't intend to sit anyone out."

The Minutemen are coming off a rather easy victory over Dartmouth in a meet held earlier this week. Swetman feels that the Dartmouth meet was good experience for his team because it enables his gymnasts to experiment in their routines.

However, Swetman is very much concerned with the remainder of his team's schedule. After they face the Orangemen, the Minutemen have four very tough meets left against some of the top teams in their league.

"It's important that we have some really good performances tomorrow," Swetman said, "because that could give us the confidence we need as we head into the heart of our schedule. If we do poorly, it just may hurt us in the last four meets."

The Minutemen will go into tomorrow's meet in fairly good physical shape. The only person who will be absent from the UMass lineup will be John Forshay, who is still sidelined with a knee injury. Swetman is hopeful that Forshay will be ready for the meet against Springfield College on Feb. 26.

"Our people are up for the meet," Swetman said. "Everybody has been working hard, maybe looking forward a bit to teams like Navy, Springfield and Temple which we meet later in the month.

"The one event I think we need a little work on is on our parallel bars. That could be the one event that could really hurt us against Syracuse and future opponents."

HAHJEE'S helps your studies with many new things — as only Hahjee can do.

For you vegetarians —
Cheese Delight, Spinach Souffle and Crepe Milano
We now serve delicious Hamouse and Baba Ganuche

For you carnivors —
Rack of Lamb Shishkabab, Mousaka and many more.

Dessert —
Baklava, Persian custard, etc.

Daily 11 a.m.-11:30 p.m.
Weekends 'til 1:00
Route 9
in Hadley Call 584-9797

Women hoopsters roll on, 85-66

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

SPRINGFIELD – It wasn't that easy, but then again it wasn't that hard.

Sound contradictory? Well, maybe it is. But there's really no other way to describe the UMass women's basketball team's 85-66 win last night over Springfield College in a game played here.

The 9-2 Minutewomen are right back in action tomorrow night with a 6:30 game in Curry Hicks Cage against Brown.

UMass, while taking its seventh straight victory and thereby tying a school record, opened up a 43-32 halftime lead after building it up to as much as 15 points with 1:03 left before intermission.

But Springfield, keyed by the hot hands of Lori Clark and Laurie Smith, clawed back into the game. The Chiefs outscored the Minutewomen, 20-14, at the start of the second half to close the gap to just five points (57-52) with 14 minutes left.

However, each team made a couple of turnovers apiece before UMass poured in 12 points to Springfield's four in the next seven minutes to put this one pretty much in the bag.

Folks, the people who led UMass to the satisfying win over its bitterest rival were, without much doubt, the quintet of Sue Peters, Lu-Ann Fletcher, Maura Supinski, Nancy O'Neil, and Cheryl Carey.

Peters, who continues to simply dazzle with her ability, was the game's scorer with 24 points for the Minutewomen. Fletcher, meanwhile, played the entire second half with three fouls. Despite the liability, she still chipped in with 12 points and nine rebounds.

Supinski, the impressive freshman forward, poured in 11 points and simply dominated the boards with 13 rebounds. Her contribution was needed, since Fletcher was forced to view the proceedings from the bench during the left seven minutes of the first half.

Steady O'Neil also hit double figures with 10 points, and pulled down six carums.

And Carey did a lot of things right. She added eight points, but four of them came in the second half pullaway spurt. She also nudged herself into position for four rebounds.

For those of you who eat statistics for breakfast, here is some more nourishment: UMass outrebounded Springfield, 41-38, but the Chiefs committed five more turnovers, 22-24. Included among those giveaways were two which led to two O'Neil layins within five seconds of each other in the first half.

The Chiefs, who fell to 4-2 with the loss, got good performances from Smith, with 22 points, and Clark, who hit for 18. But usual high scoring Mary Regan played a schizophrenic sort of game. She was held to 11 points, four below her average, and sometimes could do absolutely nothing right, either scoring or ballhandling-wise.

But the Minutewomen lately can't do too much wrong.

UMASS 85: Peters 12 0 24, Fletcher 6 0 12, Supinski 5 1 11, O'Neil 5 0 2'0, Carey 4 0 8, Henry 3 0 6, Basile 4 0 8, Balletta 2 2 6, Peebles 0 0 0, McHugh 0 0 0. TOTALS 41 3 85

SPRINGFIELD (66): Smith 9 4 22, Clark 7 4 18, Regan 5 1 11, Sanborn 3 0 6, Wood 1 0 2, Hill 0 1 1, Quinlan 3 0 6. TOTALS 28 10 66

Collegian Sports

Minutemen migrate south, don't expect warm greetings

By BOB HIGGINS
Collegian Staff

Until Wednesday night, it was all fairly predictable for the UMass basketball team. A nice plane ride south, one tough game with West Virginia, and then a breeze past Pittsburgh, already 0-5 in the Eastern Collegiate Basketball League.

But Pittsburgh shocked the college basketball world Wednesday night by knocking off previously 11th-ranked Cincinnati 65-64. So now the Minutemen can look forward to the toughest weekend of the season, one that will decide UMass' place in the ECBL and just what kind of season this might be.

The Minutemen are now 10-6 overall, and 1-2 in the league. Two wins over the weekend will send them into the thick of the ECBL East standings. Two losses would send them plummeting into obscurity.

The weekend will open with a Friday night contest against West Virginia. UMass opened its season with a 89-77 loss to the Mountainers at the Springfield Civic Center in the Hall of Fame Tournament. West Virginia went on to win that tournament by knocking off a tough Syracuse squad.

The Mountaineers, 11-7 on the year and 3-3 in league action, feature a balanced scoring attack led by 6-5 guard Tony Robertson, averaging 18.2 points a game. Center Maurice Robinson (13.6), guard Bob Huggins (13.5), and 6-7 forward Russell Chapman (13.1) join Robertson in double figures.

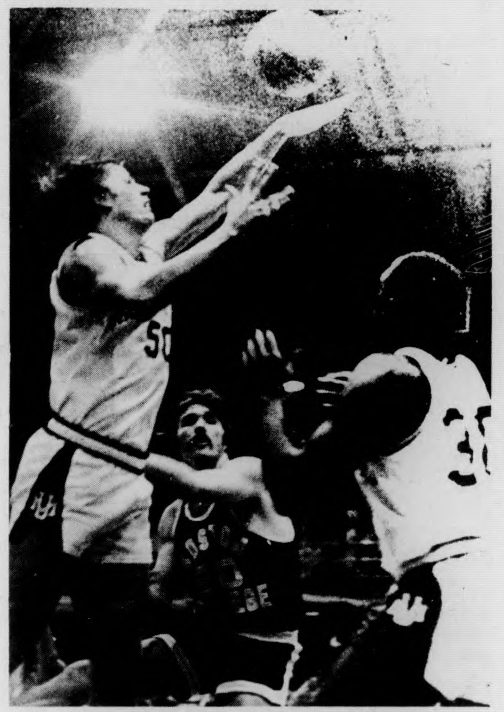
West Virginia is coming off a 70-65 win over a strong Duke team from the Atlantic Coast Conference. In the ECBL, the Mountaineers have split with Duquesne, beaten Pitt and Penn State, and lost to Villanova and George Washington.

Until Wednesday night, it had been a dreadful season for Pitt. Faced with the prospect of starting three freshmen and a formidable schedule, the Panthers quickly fell to 3-14. Among those losses were defeats at the hands of Syracuse, Southern California, and Notre Dame.

The Panthers feature just one big weapon in the person of forward Larry Harris. The 6-7 junior, among the nation's top scorers with 22.2 points a game, hit a 22-foot corner jumper at the buzzer to nip Cincinnati.

Harris is joined by the three freshmen, guard Sonny Lewis, 6-8 center-forward Michael Rice, and 6-11 center Ed Scheuermann, along with sophomore point guard Pete Strickland.

For the Minutemen, the weekend could prove the biggest test thus far for their rebounding corps. Jim Town has been carrying the load up to this point, but UMass will need better boardwork from Mark Donoghue and Mike Pyatt to combat the leapers from both West Virginia and Pittsburgh.



Mark Donahue (50) and Mike Pyatt (30) anxiously await a forthcoming rebound in action from Wednesday nights 85-69 victory over Boston College. The Minutemen will need a strong performance off the boards from both men if UMass is to do well this weekend. (Staff photo by Chris Bourne)

UMass goalie Da. . Redmond follows the puck intently during action last Wednesday night against North Adams State. (Staff photo by Andy Bernstein)

Pucksters prepared for tough homestand

By TOM CROWLEY
Collegian Staff

Coach Jack Canniff hopes the Minutemen are somewhat better mentally and physically this weekend as the UMass hockey team faces an extremely tough weekend homestand. The skaters face powerful Merrimack Friday at Orr Rink at 8:00 and Division I playoff contender Vermont Saturday at the same time and place.

"We have to play with a more positive attitude than last night (Wednesday's 7-1 loss to North Adams State)", Coach Canniff said yesterday. "We have to be right physically and mentally. Either it's there or it's not. We are not the team we showed last night at Orr Rink."

Physically, the team was down three men after a few minutes in the first period of Wednesday's game when senior defensemen Bob McCormack hurt his arm and had to leave the game. Chris Lamby missed the game because of a game misconduct from the previous game and John Peters miss it with a bruised shoulder.

Canniff isn't too sure if McCormack will play, but Lamby will be back and Peters might make an attempt to play.

Still the biggest problem with the skaters seems to be the mental one. "We should have been better with the players we had on the ice that night. We can't brood about last night's game or Merrimack will be at us," the head hockey mentor said.

The Minutemen can't be anything less than sharp for Friday night's game against Merrimack. Earlier this season, the Eastern Conference Division II leader shelled the visiting Minutemen 10-2. Their overall record is 13-8, but last year's Division II runner-up is 13-1 in the league. It has also outscored its opponents 80-30.

The Merrimack defense is solid, too, as Jim Desimon stopped the Minutemen last game and is fifth in the division with a 3.20 goals against average. Jim Moffet, who splits the net minding with DeSimon in half, will probably be

TURN TO PAGE 17

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
VOLUME CVI; ISSUE 80
MONDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1977
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA. 01003/ (413) 545-3500

Vote down faculty union urges Wood

By MARY BROWN
Collegian Staff

With faculty and professional staff set to vote on unionization this Tuesday and Wednesday, UMass President Robert C. Wood has once again appealed to the group to vote down a union in favor of the existing University governance system.

In a Friday press conference at Whitmore administration building, Wood reiterated statements he has made previously against unionization, discussed the governor's budget proposal for the University and announced that the Council for Northeast funded by a grant from the Economic Development Commission of the U.S. Dept. of Commerce, has chosen UMass to participate in the development of "white papers" for Congressional use on Northeast economic problems.

Wood told members of the press he remains skeptical that collective bargaining is an effective agent in a University situation.

Faculty and professional staff will vote February 8 and 9 between "no agent" and the Massachusetts Society of Professors (MSP), an affiliate of the Massachusetts Teacher's Association (MTA). The vote will will be taken both here and at the Boston campus, and a simple majority is required to win.

In regard to the society's affiliation with the MTA, Wood said that University faculty will "find themselves a small minority swallowed up in a sea of state and community colleges."

Wood also explained that the University trustees have authorized a cost-of-living increase which will affect all non-union University employees. However, the raise cannot take effect until the election process is completed, or the University would be in violation of labor practice laws, he said.

The faculty and staff have not received any pay increases in three years, during which time the cost of living has risen an estimated 20 per cent, he said.

Wood said that if the MSP is voted in, the University governance system will remain in effect.

In discussing Gov. Michael S. Dukakis' budget proposals, Wood said UMass cannot continue operating at its present level if the governor's level-funding budget of $108 million is passed. Wood has asked for $124 million.

He said the overall student-faculty ratio would move from 15 to 1 to 16 to 1, which could endanger the University's chances of re-accreditation next year.

At the press conference, Wood also announced the University's participation in the Council for Northeast Economic Action.

The Amherst campus faculty will be asked to provide "white papers" for Congressional use concerning economic development in the Northeast, Wood said.

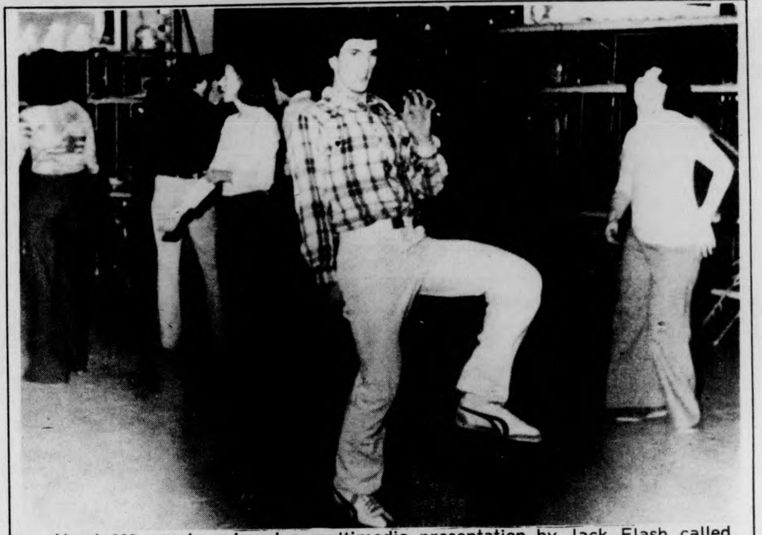
The Council, in conjunction with the UMass President's office, will discuss the amount of a six-month initial grant, to be matched by the University, to cover the costs of the work done at UMass, he said.

Linda D. Frankel, executive director of the council, Sunday said that UMass was chosen largely because of Wood's interest in urban problems, both regionally and in a national context.

Wood served as undersecretary of the Housing and Urban Development Administration during the Johnson administration.

Frankel said the council was formally established early last fall under the direction of the Secretary of Commerce.

The council will have their first meeting in Trenton, New Jersey this week.



About 200 people enjoyed a multimedia presentation by Jack Flash called Everybody's Everything, last night. (Staff photo by Chris Bourne)

Brown retrial bid sees ex-attorney take stand

By M.B. ALLEN
Collegian Staff

Earl Brown's fight for a new trial gained momentum Friday when his former attorney, Jerome Farrell, took the stand and underwent questioning to determine if he represented Brown ineffectively during Brown's second trial that ended with an armed robbery conviction.

Judge Paul A. Tamburello heard the testimony in Hampshire County Superior Court in Northampton. Brown's current attorney, David Rosenberg of Cambridge, questioned Farrell for more than five hours to determine if he had explored all the channels possible to obtain an acquittal for Brown. Ineffective counsel is automatic grounds for a new trial, so stated in the Sixth Amendment.

Rosenberg was mainly concerned with establishing that Farrell had made no effort to contact eyewitnesses other than the two who testified against Brown during his trial, Deborah Cooke and Cathy Clark. The two women were in court under subpoena on Friday, as was Trooper Ford who was also present at the scene of the crime. Judge Tamburello granted Rosenberg's request that Cooke and Clark be sequestered during Farrell and Ford's testimony.

At 5 p.m., the Judge adjourned court and set Friday morning as the continuation time of the hearing. Farrell will continue testifying, and Cooke, Clark and Ford will also take the stand. Rosenberg will try and establish that the two women cannot positively identify Brown as the person who robbed the Route 9 McDonald's during August, 1974.

Farrell appeared nervous as he defended his defense of Brown against Rosenberg's questioning. Rosenberg, besides trying to show that Farrell neglected to contact vital witnesses, also questioned him about his unusually heavy case load at the time of his preparation of Brown's case.

"I thought he was a loser," said Farrell describing his immediate reaction to Brown's case when he studied the file his partner Howard Cotter had compiled on Brown's case. Cotter defended Brown at his first trial, which was declared a mistrial. Cotter, who was Farrell's partner, can no longer practice law in Hampshire County due to his conviction of tax fraud.

It is highly unusual for one lawyer to discredit another by proving ineffective counsel, and the judge appeared to be defending Mr. Farrell at some points during the proceeding.

Judge Tamburello set 9 a.m. Friday for a continuation of the hearing.

Inside

REPORTER'S LINE

The board of trustees at Tufts has voted to proceed with plans for New England School of Veterinary Medicine. See page 2.

Work-study funds could be further supplemented by the federal government. See page 2.

Gil Evans and his Orchestra played before an enthusiastic crowd at the FAC Saturday. See page 2.

WIRE LINE

A UMass sculpture is missing from the student union.

Congress is planning its economic strategy.

An oil barge is stranded and leaking oil in the Hudson river, and Buffalo is still fighting snow flurries.

WEATHER

Yer gonna be froze from yer head to yer toze

Dukakis plans to visit UMass

By MARY BROWN
Collegian Staff

Details for Gov. Michael S. Dukakis' upcoming visit to UMass will be finalized within a week and a half and there is a "good possibility" the governor will be staying overnight in a dormitory, State Rep. James G. Collins, D-Amherst, said Friday.

Collins said the reason for the visit is to allow the governor to "as much as possible take part in the daily life of the University" in order to experience the effect of budgetary cutbacks in the last three years.

Dukakis has submitted a level-funding proposal for the University's fiscal year 1978 budget which totals $108 million. UMass President Robert C. Wood has asked for $124 million.

Collins said his office has been in contact with University officials in planning the visit, which is being designed "to minimize official treatment."

The governor will probably be attending classes, talking with students and faculty and touring the campus during his stay, Collins said.

Collins said the governor is "showing sincerity in coming and seeing if he's wrong" about the University budget proposals he has submitted to the state legislature.

Tufts to proceed with plans for NE vet school

MEDFORD, [AP] — Tufts University's board of trustees has voted to proceed with plans for a veterinary school if it can get enough support, the university announced today.

The board's vote yesterday to include a school of veterinary medicine in the university's health science program was based on a favorable recommendation from a review committee and cleared the way for organization and financing of the project.

"This is a very important step," said Dr. Thomas Murnane, chairman of the review panel. "Prior to this point we were just looking into feasibility."

The school would be headquartered at Tufts' New England Medical Center in Boston with teaching and diagnostic facilities in each of the other New England states. Classes of up to 100 are foreseen.

The board could vote sometime next year to admit the first class to the program in 1979 provided commitments to the project are obtained from at least four of the other states in the region.

The trustees also said the school must meet the approval of Massachusetts' Board of Higher Education and the American Veterinary Medical Association.

A university spokesman said Tufts will seek cooperative arrangements with state governments, New England land grant universities, the New Englad Regional Commission and the New England Conference of Governors.

The governors endorsed the proposal at their quarterly meeting last December.

"We're going to try to effect affiliations with each of the states and with private institutions" such as the Angell Memorial Hospital in Boston, the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute and the New England primate Center in Southboro, Murnane said.

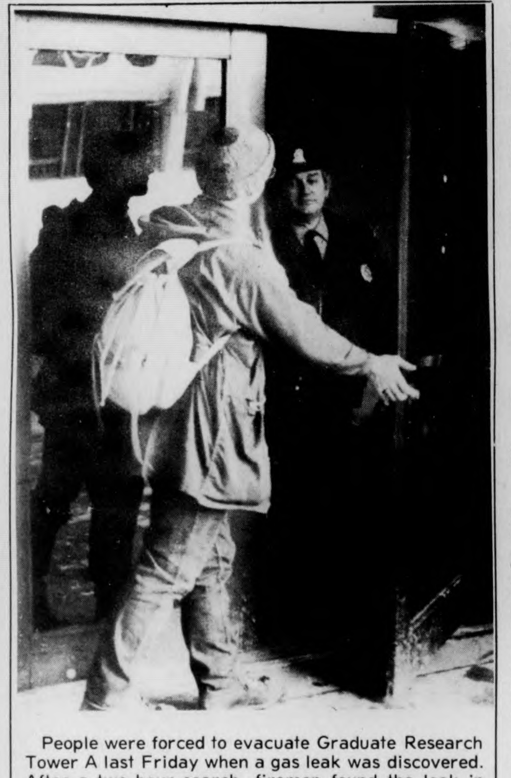
"We want to maximize our resources to develop the best veterinary program possible. There are facilities in each of the states we'd like to include in the program," said Murnane.

He said the package should ready for presentation to the trustees 'within 12 months. By then we'll make the internal decision whether or not to go ahead with the program."

Capital for the new school will be sought primarily from the federal and state governments. Private money will be sought for such things as scholarship aid and endowed faculty positions.

According to the proposals, most of the clinical facilities would be provided by the states and would be run in cooperation with the land grant universities in each state.

There are about 20 veterinary schools nationwide compared to about 114 medical schools. Students would attend the New England School under contract from their own states. New England has no veterinary school.



People were forced to evacuate Graduate Research Tower A last Friday when a gas leak was discovered. After a two hour search, firemen found the leak in room 501, a chemistry lab of Prof. Robert Holmes. There were no injuries reported. (Staff photo by Dale Griswald)

TODAY'S STAFF

Issue Editor Peter 'On Time' Wallace

Day Staff	Debbie Walters
Copy Editor	Sue MacDonald
Head Darkroom Tech	Dan Smith
Photo Phunkies	Steve Polansky, Chris Bourne
Wire Layout	Roseanne Carito
Ad Layout	Albert Calvert

And Laurie Wood as Mary Tyler Moore

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

	Semester	Year
Off-campus delivery	$9	$15
On-campus delivery	$5	$ 9
Newsstand price	$.10
Faculty staff	$.05

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst and additional mailing in Ware, Mass. 01082. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Possible increase in work-study funds

By CAROLE BRENNAN
Collegian Staff

The 1976-77 allotment of work-study money to be earned by students at UMass currently totals $2,300,000. At any point in time, says Dave Sackett, coordinator of student employment, this total may be increased.

Sackett believes that before mid semester his office will receive $200,000 more from the federal government. This is why, explains Sackett, his office is constantly dealing with appeals by students for more work-study money.

Sackett's office also works on a peripheral basis with non-work-study student employees. The Student Employment Office must clear all non-work-study jobs held by a student with any kind of a financial aid package.

The office is also the issuer of a list of regulations governing all student employment on campus.

Work-study students receive 80 per cent of their pay from the work-study money they have been awarded. The remaining 20 per cent comes from their employer.

Sackett says "A department that only has to pay 20 per cent a year (f an employee's total) salary will seldom pass you up."

Yet, Pat Cox who is in charge of all RSO group's payrolls says "The majority of people who apply for jobs are non-work-study students."

In a computer print out dated Dec. 11, there are 749 students listed as being employed by the various RSO groups. Of these only 136 students are work-study people. Approximately 50 more are listed as work-study, but their money has run out.

Every group has a budget but many choose to work on a volunteer basis.

And so, employment ads line the walls of the Student Employment Office. Most are for work study jobs, only 12 cards advertise for non-work-study positions. But there are jobs.

If the University does not use up all of the $2,300,000 it has been alloted for work-study, it will be penalized.

Any time during the year, when it is least expected, the University may receive a supplement to its funding. It is under these conditions that Dale Partyka, of the Student-Employment Office, says "I have to work like mad so the University will not be penalized next year." This would mean that less work-study money would be available to UMass students during the 1977-78 school year.

Gil Evans plays at FAC; delivers lively, varied show

By PAUL G. BLUMBERH
Collegian Staff

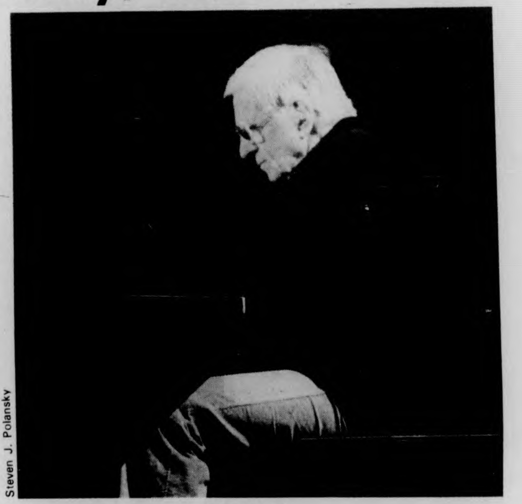
Gil Evans and his Orchestra performed at the Fine Arts Center Saturday evening for 600-700 jazz enthusiasts, big band followers and general music fans. The audience contained a wide variety of age groups, ranging from an elementary school trombonist to a father whose interests are in pre-war dance bands.

Each age group came to view Gil Evans - 1977 with a unique set of expectations: some came to hear jazz standards; others to hear the avant garde directions; still others came to hear almost anything with the Gil Evans stamp upon it. The giant of contemporary big band arrangement and orchestration remained one step in front of his audience on Saturday by, as he often does, delivering the unexpected.

Evans and his Orchestra administered a striking and original form of shock treatment which defies a single word characterization. This new dose of the Evans magic is neither jazz nor rock, but is more a combination of the two. One sure thing is that Gil and the band are a swinging, joyous unit that is essentially loose, versatile and extremely funky.

Lanky, gaunt, bespeckled Gil Evans, with a stately crop of grey hair, led his 12-piece band through several exciting and energetic compositions with the flair of a confident professional. Gil refused to over-conduct; most of his time was spent at the piano leading the band through brooding, murky introductions. Sometimes he would jump up, waving long thin arms about the air, passing signals to the band members. Most often however, Gil added a rich sense of melody, like the tinkle of steady rain on windows, to the complex textures of all the compositions.

Gil's choice of musicians was a high point in the Saturday concert. To compliment the leader's fine arranging, the band, a remarkable group of New York studio men, filled the hall with overwhelming improvisation and solid group playing. George Adams contributed very emotional and high energy saxophones; Arthur Blythe blew a forceful alto saxophone; Jimmie Knepper had a firm hold on a sonorous, melodic trombone which brought the band into the more mellow states of mind; Rye Kawasaki, a Santana-fast guitarist, put on a vigorous display of wizardry on each solo; Hannibal Peterson very nearly blew the microphone into orbit with his loud, blaring trumpet. Other band members included a steady Sue Evans on drums and percussion, Pete lavin on the spacey moog synthesizer and Robert Stewart on a smooth tuba.



Steven J. Polansky

Gil Evans

Overall, this band's performance ran a roller coaster route through jazz improvisation, far-out jazz rock, colorful blues and light rock pieces. Two of the tunes performed were Jimi Hendrix songs on which the band traveled a wild improvisational trail. A Charles Mingus composition, "Orange and Blue", gave the band an intriguing melody to stretch out on. An Evans standard, "Thoroughbred," soared to fantastic heights. Throughout the entire night, Gil would not let the surprises cease, he continually changed pace, mood and sound to present an exciting, mind-boggling collection of arrangements.

Gil Evans 1977 was a welcome burst of daring originality for UMass. Although Evans' stage activity has mellowed a bit at 65, his talent for leading contemporary music into new fusions of jazz, rock and funk has kept him in the vanguard of the sounds of today.

Guardian editor raps Puerto Rican statehood

By JERRY ROGERS
Collegian Staff

Claiming that former President Gerald R. Ford proposed statehood for Puerto Rico in an attempt to stem an increasing desire among Puerto Ricans for independence, Irwin Silber, executive editor of the Guardian, told 35 people Friday that the United States will not be able to prevent the Puerto Rican people from attaining their independence.

"The U.S. will not be able to do it (withhold a country's independence) with Puerto Rico even if it makes it a state 40 times over," Silber said.

The presentation by Silber, editor of the self described independent radical newsweekly known as the Guardian, was made in an attempt to aid the UMass Puerto Rican Solidarity Committee (PRSC). Silber is a member of the national PRSC board which oversees groups such as the one here across the country.

Silber rhetorically asked why the Puerto Rican people have not voted themselves their independence in one of the numerous national elections held since World War II. To think that Puerto Rico does not want independence while every other colony around the world has fought for its freedom since WW II is ridiculous, Silber suggested.

"It's absurd, it's absurd on the face of it," Silber claimed.

The people of Puerto Rico have simply consistently voted for the "lesser of two evils" in each selection, Silber said, explaining that massive propaganda campaigns conducted by American businesses and officials in Puerto Rico have clouded the vision of many Puerto Ricans. Even the church plays its part in the dissemination of propaganda, said Silber.

According to Silber, Puerto Rico is the subject of complete economic and governmental domination by the U.S. and independence has been made to look bad by business and government officials. He claimed that independence, however, is looking better to the Puerto Rican people each year and that Ford was worried that as soon as they see "independence as viable, they'll vote for it" and therefore suggested statehood.

The bearded, bespectacled Silber discussed the dynamics of the Puerto Rican economy in detail. Many advertisements in the Wall Street Journal and magazines that cover the economy and the business community, such as Forbes, pointed out that Puerto Rico is "committed to providing incentives" for businesses.

Puerto Rico has a "good investment climate", according to business publications because of the following reasons:

—There are no federal taxes on businesses operating in Puerto Rico. In addition, in metropolitan areas and rural areas incentives include 10 and 30 year exemptions, respectively, from local taxes. So, Silber explained, every nine or 29 years, depending upon location, a business will fold and surface under a new name, thus avoiding taxes and shifting the tax burden to the Puerto Rican people.

—Wage comparisons for three areas of industry show much lower hourly wages in Puerto Rico than in the United States. Hourly wages in the apparel industry show the U.S. average wage to be $3.33 per hour, while the Puerto Rican average is $2.18 per hour. In the chemical industry the figures are $5.65 and $3.61 and the lumber industry reveals figures of $4.46 and $2.19.

—The Puerto Rican government ("a colonial puppet regime") looks at unemployment not as a problem but as an enhancement of the "availability" of labor. Unemployment is 20 per cent, statistically, but 35 to 40 per cent in reality, Silber maintained, leaving five people for every available job.

—The Puerto Rican government allows workers being trained to be paid at less than the minimum wage and apprentices to be paid less than the standard wage for their trade while required to amass 2,000 hours of working time to be accepted as a tradesperson.

With inflation one and one-half times that of New York City, and 72 per cent of the people on food stamps, one can get a good picture of the poor Puerto Rican economy, Silber said.

Silber claimed that the U.S. has destroyed the ability of Puerto Rico to produce its own food because of industrialization and has forced the more expensive importation of food.

The Puerto Rican government is also heavily in debt to banks in the U.S. to the tune of a billion dollars, Silber explained.

The thinking that the U.S. started out with good intentions for Puerto Rico is "worse than a joke, it's part of an insidious myth," maintained Silber.

He said people "really haven't grasped" the idea that Puerto Rico is a nation with a history and culture of its own.

Paper recycling resumed by environmental group

By LINDA LINES
Collegian Staff

The Coalition for Environmental Quality (CEQ) has reinstated its paper recycling project after a two year suspension, according to Michael Fager, director of the project.

Fager said that the program was halted two years ago after a recycling barrel was set on fire and pushed into an elevator in one of the towers in Southwest. "After that, the Office of Residential Life refused to allow barrels to be placed in the dorms," he said.

The recycling bins will now be placed outside of the dorms. According to Fager, four bins are already in place in the Campus Center and Student Union, as well as behind the Graduate Research Center, Whitmore, Goodell, SBA, Morrill, and Bartlett Hall. Bins will be placed outside the residential areas in the near future, and after that, into the Dining Commons.

"We're expanding, and we need everyone's cooperation," Fager said. "The recycling project is a self-supporting RSO group, and all profits go into support of the project. Anything extra goes back to the Student Senate."

Low grade paper brings about $13 per ton, and according to Fager, UMass produces approximately 40 tons of such paper every week.

"We are asking people to separate their recyclable paper from their unrecyclable paper and bring it to one of these marked bins. Basically anything that is just paper is recyclable. What we don't want are things like plastics, styrofoam, carbon paper, aluminum foil, or waxed paper products like milk cartons," he said.

Fager also stressed the importance of not throwing cans or bottles in the bins. "Such contamination can result in a whole load of paper being rejected," he sad.

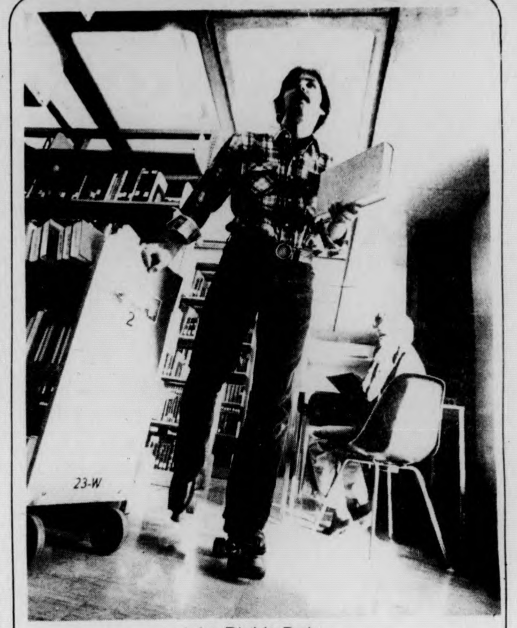
"We'd also like to encourage commuters to bring their paper on campus and place it in any of the recycling bins," he added.

Fager said that since the end of July, CEQ has processed about 31 tons of paper. "That equals 527 trees."

Carol Entin, secretary of CEQ, said, "There is a growing awareness that Americans are consuming their natural resources at an alarming rate, and it will probably become common in the future for people to have to recycle their paper. It will be easier if they start developing that habit now."

"Now the words 'Recyclable paper only' on those green bins mean something again," she said, "And we hope that everyone will make the effort to use them."

Anyone interested in the project can obtain more information by contacting Michael Fager at the Recycling Project (545-0618).



John Pickle Daly

Roller derby—work-study style

By PAUL LOGUE JR.
Collegian Staff

The UMass library, the world's tallest, now has another unique feature, — roller skating book stackers.

John, 'Pickle' Daly, a 'roll-study' student working on the eleventh and twelfth floors said, "Stacking books is a slow and boring process. I figured that it would be fun to wheel around this place, getting more books on the shelves in less time." Daly is a business major working on a degree at the School of Business Administration.

According to reports from the Chancellor's office. funds for roll-study students in fiscal '77-'78 may be cut back because of lack of state appropriations. When asked what this would do to the shelving here at the world's tallest, a high ranking official commented:

"It would put the 'roll-study' students up on blocks," he said despairingly." The whole operation would suffer if students were forced to shelve books again without roller skates. This has got to be the bottom line on cutbacks. We just can't live with it," the official lamented.

Daly feels that his idea could increase productivity at the library by 25 per cent.

"If ½ of the work-study students could get 'roll-study' funds, this place would run like a top," Daly stated. Students looking for books in Daly's section have actually found them, according to a library spokesperson. "People have stuffed the comment card box with praise for the 'roll-study' students. It is wonderful to look for a book on the shelve and find and read that very book the same day. If most of the pages are intact also, you've really hit the Jack Pot," she exuberated.

Not everyone is so lucky. Daly once remembers wheeling by a professor for three straight days." He was searching the stacks for some technical book on evolution but he just couldn't find it," Daly reflected. "It was a sorry sight! Three days on the same floor really got to him. His mind went. He started running around on all fours, barking and urinating on the shelves. I threw a harness on him and a towline to pull me around until the white coats at the infirmary came and picked him up. Poor chap," Daly sighed.

Is this what people will have to resort to in order to point out the effect of budget cuts? The State Legislature should take a long look at the budget here at the university and re-institute Roll-study. "It is the only human thing to do," Daly said as he dozed waiting for the elevator.

Gilmore T-shirts sold in CC

By DUKE SIMONEAU
Collegian Staff

Rarely does one of the Campus Center Concourse table-hawkers attract more than passing interest from wandering students. Recently, one of these cottage-entrepreneurs has not only gotten violent outbursts from passers-by, but also national media coverage.

James Bozony, a 23-year-old Masters candidate in creative writing, is the father of In Poor Taste Inc. and its only product — the Gary Gilmore Target T-Shirt. Gilmore, of course, was the Utah murderer of two who was finally executed by a firing squad after repeated attempts by his mother and the American Civil Liberties Union to block his execution. Gilmore wanted to die for his crimes.

Newsweek Magazine, the Associated Press, and CBS-TV are among the many media outlets which have interviewed Bozony in the past few weeks as he spent Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays peddling his shirts and haggling with complaining students and faculty.

The shirt is emblazoned "Gary Gilmore, Point of the Mountain, Utah, January 17, 1977" with a target over the heart, and "Let's Do It, last words" across the back. The price, says Bozony, is $5 now, but will go up to $5.95 when he starts taking mail orders through an upcoming National Lampoon advertisement.

Bozony said the purpose for marketing his brainchild was not profit, but satire. He explained his offbeat industry as "black humor."

"I'm not trying to heroize the man (Gimore)," he said. "If the State of Utah had tried, convicted and executed him in two weeks, I wouldn't be selling T-shirts. But they didn't. Only in America can a murderer make the front page of Newsweek."

Bozony said that Gilmore wasn't the flag-bearer of any cause. "He was disgusting. He was a murderer. But they (the state of Utah) saved him twice when he tried to take his own life, just to shoot him. If the intent of killing him had been to get him permanently out of society, they should've just let him die. The media, in part, made Gary Gilmore into a major production."

A member of that media, photojournalist Lawrence Schiller, is suing Bozony because he claims he has exclusive rights to Gilmore's name and last words, according to an agreement with Gilmore. Bozony laughs the suit off, saying that the whole matter is in the public domain so he has a perfect right to make and sell his shirts.

Many disagree. Although he has sold 30 shirts, Bozony faces a barrage of questions and accusations every time he sets up his stand. "You're just carrying on the whole thing," "It's sick," and other unprintable statements are thrown at Bozony, even though 15 per cent of his profits are donated to the families of Gilmore's victims.

"They assume I'm trying to glorify him," complains Bozony. "He may be something of a death-row prison hero, but personally I'm supportive of capital punishment. The whole thing is a satire of a ridiculous situation. The idea of anyone buying these is absurd. The idea of anyone wearing it is even more absurd."

He added that his best customers are groups of people, usually males. "They kid about the shirts, then one or all of them buy one." While Bozony talked with the Collegian, a young woman bought one of the Gilmore shirts. Asked why, she only smiled and said it was "for a friend."

Bozony sees a future in satire T-shirts. He says his next step, after selling the Gilmore Target shirts nationwide, is a satire T-shirt on nuclear war. The proposed design is a mushroom cloud with an epithet of "Why [illegible] Proliferate!"

Black Affairs

FEELING GOOD

By ANGELA THOMAS
Asst. Black Affairs Editor

Cast of Feeling Good, as seen during impression of Ray Charles. From left to right: Luther Fontaini, Priscilla Baskeraill, Ra Joe Darby, and Gwen Sumter. (Photo by Nummo News)

Against a background of humming and singing to old Negro spirituals, the musical, Feeling Good, began its story of the development of the black man's impact on America music.

This educational teaching process took place this past Friday at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom before an audience of about 600. The opening scene was that of a Baptist Church and its congregation during the early 1800's. The preacher was played by Ra Joe Darby who took on the character of various performers such as James Brown. The congregation was composed of Priscilla Baskeruills, also known by other character impersonations such as Lena Horne, and Sarah Vaughan. Luther Fontarni alais, the authentic darkie, Cab Calloway, and Chuck Berry. (Fontarni had the ladies in the audience smiling with delight). Gwen Sumter bought the audience to their feet as Aretha Franklin and Billie Holiday.

After various spirituals were sung, and the opening scene came to a close, the preacher (Ra Jo Darby) told the audience that he would be seen again.

The next development of black music was sketched out through the minstrel show and vaudeville acts. By narration the audience was informed how whites played on the sterotypes of blacks by use of music and dance which they themselves performed in blackface. Vaudeville was not much better for black. According to Darby, one was "damn it you do, and damn if you don't." It was just another awful way to feed oneself. The vaudeville era was later to produce an off-spring of comics such as Burt Williams, Sammy Davis Jr. and Red Fox.

Darby in his portrayal of "you are there," took the audience to the 1860's where he interviewed Lightfoot, an "authentic darkie," played by Fontarni. Lightfoot told how there were two types of songs sung by slaves. Ordinary songs such as "Tote That Barge" and "Lift That Bale," which had no significance, and songs such as Let My People Go which contained a message. Let My People Go is a song that was sung by the Israelites as they tryed to free themselves of Pharoah's rule in Egypt in order to travel to the promise land. Later sung by blacks in their cry for freedom, Lightfoot told how Egypt came to mean wherever there were slaves. When Israel was sung it was in reference to themselves, and Pharoah was the plantation owner. Other songs that depicted this sentiment were Swing Low Sweet Chariot, that refers to death and a new life, and Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child.

Ragtime was introduced at the turn of the century. Various melodies and dances were performed representing the era. Among the dances of that time was the cakewalk. Though blacks did the dance, it was actually a black satire of whites.

The 1920's, and jazz came into its own. From coast to coast it spread. Prominent entertainers performed were Fletcher Henderson, Duke Ellington and Louis Satchmo Armstrong.

Whites "discovered" another new sound in black music even though it had been around for a long time. Most know it by the Blues. Yet Billie Holiday knew it as Good Morning Heartache, which was so beautifully sung by Sumter.

Rock was the next stop. The era was ruled by people such as the likes of Little Richard. Richard paved the way and was very influential for others to come such as the Beatles.

Motown, the 60's and Diana Ross and the Supremes. Memories galore must have flooded the Ballroom as people joined in to sing Baby Love, and Stop In The Name of Love.

From Detroit to Broadway and "the great white way." The cast performed songs by black performers such as Melba Moore who had made it via Broadway, an avenue to that much desired state of stardom previously enjoyed by whites only.

The next development took the audience into the land of soul. Enter Aretha Franklin, Ray Charles, James Brown, and others. This was the last scene of the musical, but before closing Darby once again appeared as the preacher, which was the opener of Feeling Good. Saying, "I told you that I would see you again," Darby summarized the musical endeavor and told the audience that the music presented throughout the performance, originated from the black church. The black church today is still a important part of life for many blacks, and many of the singers heard today come from the black church. This is why the preacher made a reappearance, representing the influence of the church.

The musical was presented by the Campus Center Program Council. Those who viewed the musical can fill out evaluations of Feeling Good. Evaluations can be returned to the Program Council or Bill Hasson in RSO.

VIEWPOINT

[Editors Note] — Viewpoint is a column designed for our readers to express their views on various subjects. In this manner, the staff of Black Affairs hopes to establish an open line of communication between our readers and us. Viewpoint does not necessarily represent the opinion of the staff of Black Affairs. All articles must be typed.

By NKRUMAH L. OLINGA

Last week proud Afrikans were repeatedly insulted on national television in order for whites to painlessly relieve their guilt of the most "peculiar institution," chattel slavery. Mr. Alex Haley was an overt insult to his ancestors and to Afrikans today who keep Kunta Kinte's dream alive. It is obvious that Alex Haley's dream of keeping his cultural roots together was motivated by profit and not in the interest of his ancestors or Afrikans today.

Alex Haley had the bounty of going back to Afrika to trace his roots. Mr. Haley found his roots and also discovered his ancestors' Afrikan name, but he is now proud to keep his slave name, Alex Haley. The Kunta Kinte that he described in his book, Roots, Mr. Haley is a direct contradiction to. His an cestors and Kunta Kinte would be insulted by Alex Haley's behavior.

Afrikans here who support Alex Haley's position are often after the same illusions that he is after. It is sad to see today that the effects of slavery are still so much with us. In 1968, two Afrikan psychiatrists, Grier and Cobbs, described quite adequately what Alex Haley and Negroes like him suffer from. What Haley and others suffer from with that type of mentality is called "mental slavery" or "love of the oppressor". Mr. Haley would like to think that because he is a successful writer that slavery is over. He forgot that in his own book that racist senator said clearly that if one does not control his land, he is powerless and will continue to be subjugated. Malcolm X, peace be upon him, referred also to this type of sickness when he spoke of the relationship of the field nigger and the house nigger. The house nigger displays the type of behavior that Alex Haley portrays. The reason that Alex Haley is being called a house nigger is because of his conclusion that he has "made it"; therefore, all oppressed Afrikans in the United States can do the same. Haley or the house nigger has completely forgotten about the Afrikan unemployment rate; the present day form of lynching of field niggers like Cramen Gethers and Earl Brown; the disproportionate number of Afrikans in prisons, mental institutions, etc. I found Mr. Haley sick, mad, and an insult to the truth of chattel slavery.

The real story must still be told, not in the form of legitimate research mixed with fiction to make a best seller, but the painful truth of slavery. Some books of reference have been written by Frederick Douglass, W.E.B. DuBois, John Hope Franklin, and others. Afrikans will have freedom soon. It did not come after the 13th amendment. Freedom will only come after constant struggle with our oppressor.

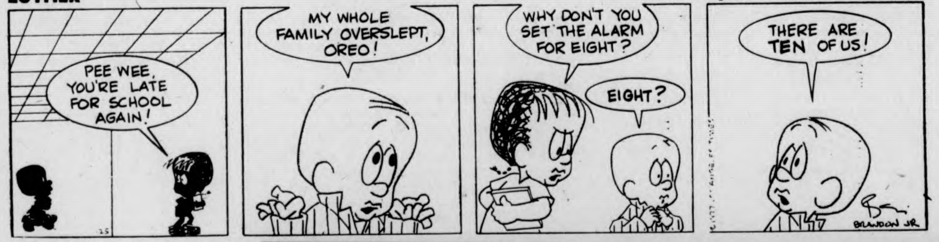
Announcements

Afro-Am Church Music 290D course is to be taught by Horace Clarence Boyer, Assistant Professor of Music, and will meet on Monday-Wednesday-Friday at 1:25 in Fine Arts Center, Room 155. Music 290D offers three hours credit (schedule number 499887). Course requirements include reading, listening and two short examinations.

For further information, contact Professor Boyer at the Music Department 5-2227 or 5-2279.

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.



PEE WEE, YOU'RE LATE FOR SCHOOL AGAIN!
MY WHOLE FAMILY OVERSLEPT, OREO!
WHY DON'T YOU SET THE ALARM FOR EIGHT?
EIGHT?
THERE ARE TEN OF US!
BRANDON JR

POSITIONS OPEN

The Student Government is currently accepting applications for the position of

Director of Communications

and the position of

Affirmative Action Officer

Applicants should have some experience in their respective fields, and must be undergraduates. More information and application forms are available in the Student Senate Office, 420 Student Union.

The SGA is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT
ASSOCIATION

SALE
special $10.00 rack
many name brands
Fred Braun
SRO
Carber
Zodiac
Sbicca
& more
the SHOE-BIN
OPEN FRI P M
187 N. Pleasant St., Amherst

Buffalo still recovering

BUFFALO, N.Y. [AP] — Mayor Stanley Makowski, the man in charge of the biggest snow-removal job in Buffalo's history, once characterized himself as a plowhorse — pulling and working "just as hard but slower and more deliberately."

Those qualities have been evident the past 10 days as Buffalo strains to recover from a paralyzing blizzard that brought the city of 400,000 to a standstill.

"It's the greatest challenge I've ever faced in my life," the soft-spoken mayor said in an interview.

Makowski has worked 18-hour days since the storm hit, as the city's chief lobbyist for state and federal help, as a guide for officials like Gov. Hugh Carey who came to see the damage, and at times simply as a friend in need to distressed constituents.

"One woman called up and got through to me by claiming to be my wife. She said she was sorry to lie but that she was trapped by the snow and wanted to know when her street would be cleared," the mayor recounted. "I told her we would see to it as soon as possible."

President Carter's declaration Saturday of the city and surrounding area as a major disaster area was a victory of sorts, bringing with it the promise of federal aid to repair ravages of the storm. And for the first time since the blizzard hit Jan. 28, the mayor appeared optimistic.

"Psychologically, the disaster designation gives the whole community an uplift because now there's a ray of hope," he said. "If we hadn't received this help, the city could have once again been in very serious financial trouble and our economy, which is suffering even in the best of weather, might have been harmed drastically."

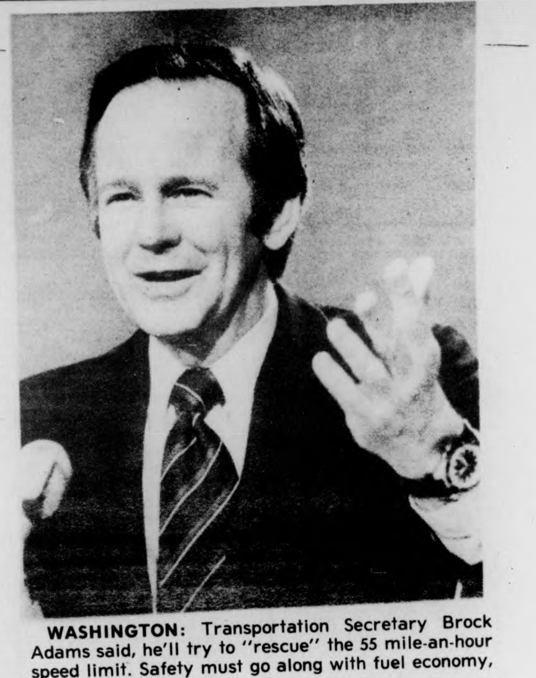
Since Makowski took over as mayor in March 1973, he has had to wrestle with a variety of problems, particularly money troubles and chronically high unemployment.

But during his term, a $16 million deficit was cut to $10 million, the unemployment rate eased some and better economic times seemed around the corner. Then along came the winter that dumped more than 14 feet of snow on Buffalo even before the big blizzard.

Despite the troubles and the inevitable criticism aimed at him, Makowski is philosophical.

"In a situation like this, where there is so much suffering, the one you usually want to get is the mayor," he said.

The lifelong Buffalo resident, who spent 13 years as a grain miller before entering city politics, said he thinks the worst is over.



WASHINGTON: Transportation Secretary Brock Adams said, he'll try to "rescue" the 55 mile-an-hour speed limit. Safety must go along with fuel economy, Adams said.

Barge leaking fuel in Hudson

NEW YORK [UPI] — The Coast Guard battled ice and cold weather yesterday in renewed efforts to refloat a barge hanging on a submerged rock ledge and leaking fuel oil into the Hudson River from a ruptured tank.

A Coast Guard spokesman said oil leaking from the mostly submerged barge, the Ethel H, stretched some 30 miles down river from the point where the vessel went aground Friday and two miles north of Bear Mountain Bridge.

The Ethel H was enroute to Roseton, N.Y., with 2.5 million gallons of No. 6 oil when the incident occurred. Officials suspected the source of the leak was a hole in one 273,000-gallon tank.

However, the Coast Guard spokesman said officials could not determine the quantity of oil lost because of the ice and the fact the barge is 75 to 80 per cent submerged.

The spokesman said about 44,000 gallons of oil were pumped Sunday morning from the Ethel H to help stabilize the barge, which was listing at a 55-60 degree angle. But the operation came to a halt when a line snapped.

Give Away Price$!
Levi's®
PANATELLA CORDUROYS
from Only $11.99
REG. TO $20
SAVE UP TO 70%.
Levi's® for Gals
SLACKS & CORDS
From Only $8.99
REG. TO $20.00
Levi's®
Pre·Washed·Flair BLUE JEANS
& JEANS CORDS STRAIGHT OR FLAIR
ONLY: $13.95
MENS & WOMENS Shirts & Sweaters 40~70% OFF!
SPECIAL GROUP
WEAR-HOUSE
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

Sculpture missing

AMHERST, Mass. [UPI] — University of Massachusetts police have renewed pleas for the return of a bear statue taken from the school's student union last November.

Officials said Thursday that the heavy, carved bear had not been recovered since it disappeared from its perch above the student union's doors. A search of a campus dormitory last semester failed to turn up any trace of the bear, authorities said.

Saul L. Chafin, assistant director of the university's department of public safety, said the university was not concerned with prosecution of persons who took the bear. The school only wants the bear back, he said.

The wood carving was a gift from the student union of Hokkaido University in Japan in 1956.

Gilbert E. Mottla, director of the university's Centre for International Agricultural Studies, said the statue was a dark brown, three-feet tall wood carving. He said it was "quite heavy" and would have required at least two persons to lift it.

"The value of the statue is inestimable. Not only was it hand-carved, but it was custom-made for the students at the University of Massachusetts. You couldn't put a price on that," Mottla said.

LAST

DAY

to change to or from pass—fail, add, or drop a course without record.

DEADLINE: Sundown, Today

Note: If you pre-registered for a class but never attended, you still need to file an official drop form with the Registrar. Instructors will not automatically drop you from their class rolls.

CASIAC

E-20-26 Machmer Hall

Performing Arts Division
Dept. of Music and Dance
University of Mass.—Amherst
in association with the Division of Continuing Education

Registration for Spring Semester: Jan. 31 through Feb. 4, 1977 in Old Chapel room 13, afternoons from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m.

Private instruction in voice, piano and most orchestral instruments. Fees: $7, $6, and $5 per ½ hr. lesson.

Quad instruction in piano and voice. Fees: $4 per hour lesson.

Class instruction in music theory, sight-singing, composition, piano, flute, voice, ballet and modern dance. Fees: $26, $32.50 and $36 for 13 one hour classes.

Ensembles: Woodwind Quintet and saxaphone quartet. Fees: $50 and $62. Accompanist $6 per half hour.

Registration fee: $5.00 per semester for private lessons, quads and ensembles.

Contact: Performing Arts Division, Dept. of Music and Dance. UMass—Amherst (413)545-0337.

Congress turns to economy

WASHINGTON [AP] — This week may provide a further clue on how Congress plans to deal with the sluggish economy — whether Americans will get an instant rebate or a long-term tax cut.

But don't expect a firm answer immediately. Because of the shape of President Carter's proposals and the number of committees involved, it likely will take Congress until the end of March to complete work on an economic-stimulus program.

The House Ways and Means Committee is continuing public hearings this week on the Carter tax plan, and the Senate Budget Committee will work on an emergency resolution that is necessary to accommodate any kind of economic stimulus.

Most congressional action will be in committee this week. A major exception is Wednesday, when the House will vote on whether to direct its Ethics Committee to investigate charges that South Korean officials bought influence by giving money to several members of Congress.

On the economy, there is evidence that Carter's "honeymoon" with the heavily Democratic Congress may be far briefer than had been anticipated. There is surprisingly sharp opposition to his two-year $31.2 billion stimulus proposal, with most of the heat directed at the plan to mail a $50 check to virtually every American.

If the rebate idea is dumped, a likely alternative would be a permanent across-the-board tax cut for individuals, although it is generally conceded this could not give the economy the quick shot-in-the-arm that the administration says is necessary.

The picture may become a little clearer on Tuesday when the Senate Budget Committee starts work on the emergency resolution that will trigger greater spending a raise less tax revenues than were anticipated when the budget was adopted last September.

Already, the House Budget Committee has recommended doubling the $1.8 billion that Carter proposed in emergency public-works and job-creation spending over the next eight months.

The committee agreed with the over-all size of the $12.8 billion tax stimulus that Carter proposed for the same period, but that does not include a recommendation on whether the money should finance a permanent tax cut or an instant, one-time rebate.

Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal and other Carter officials gave no indication that they are contemplating withdrawing the rebate proposal.

Interested in working with kids?

Northern Educational Services (N.E.S.) can help you.

We work with innercity children in the areas of academics and recreation

* possible credit
* transportation and materials provided
* people of all interests and majors needed

For more info contact our office in 403 S.U.B., 545-0910 or call Nancy 546-8460 or Michelle 545-0162.

NURSING MAJORS

You can become an Air Force Nurse on Campus through Air Force R.O.T.C.

To find out if you qualify for:

- Over $10,000 a Year to Start
- 2-Year Nurse Scholarship
- Tax-Free School Stipend of $100—month
- Flight Duty
- World Wide Travel
- Excellent Advancement Opportunities

Contact:

MAJOR RICHARDSON

5-2437

Dickinson Hall — Room 205

BOOKS

$2.00 off on all the hardbound bestsellers !!

the University Store will give you $2.00 off the jacket price of any hardbound book appearing on that week's New York Times Best Seller list -- fiction and general. A list of the eligible books will be posted next to the Best Seller section in the store. If we do not have the book you want, we will order it for you under our regular special order policies and still give you the discounted price. (Special sales void this offer.)

at the
UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center univ. of mass. amherst

send a VALENTINE to someone / anyone!

BOY FRIEND, GIRL FRIEND, SWEETIE, ROOMMATE, PROF, COACH, ENEMY ETC.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is giving you the opportunity, for 50¢, to have your Valentine Wishes published in our paper Mon., Feb. 14th.

We are having special pages put aside for your messages. They can be witty, serious, anything you want them to be! This will be a Valentine Card your Valentine will never forget!

Come to the Collegian office by Thurs., Feb. 10th at 3:45p.m. to place your copy.

EXAMPLES:

To: Mary A.
Have a Happy Valentine Day. If cupid doesn't come around I will.
Rusty

To: Room 365 S.W.
We're looking forward to seeing you again. Happy Valentine Day!
The Girls

Bring this to us by Thurs., Feb. 10th at 3:45p.m.

·······LIMIT 20 WORDS·······

____

____

____

____

COST 50¢

More Values From Meat Street, U.S.A.!

Finast SUPERMARKETS

Grocery Values the Finast Way!

Mueller's Spaghetti Regular, Thin or Vermicelli 3 1 lb pkgs $1

Nestles Quik Great Hot or Cold with Milk . . . . 2 lb ctn	1.49
Finast Lo-Cal Cola. . . . . . half gal	49¢
Fyntex Bathroom Tissue 4 roll pkg	58¢

Kraft Macaroni and Cheese Dinner Stock-up! 4 7¼ oz pkgs $1

Sunshine Hydrox Cookies 15 oz pkg	77¢
Wylers Drink Mixes. . . . . 24 oz pkg	99¢
Oxford Kosher Dills. . . . 48 oz jar	99¢

Frozen food Values from Finast!

Finast Pot Pies Chicken, Beef, Turkey, Mac. and Cheese 4 8 oz pkgs $1

Birds Eye Tasti Fries. . . . 20 oz pkg	63¢
Boil in Bag Meat Entrees Finast Brand . . . . . 4 5 oz pkgs	1.00
Ice Cream Cups Hendries . . pkg 12	1.09
Coronet Ice Cream Hoods all Natural half gal	1.59

Farm Fresh Dairy Values!

Blue Bonnet Quarters Margarine 2 1-lb pkgs 89¢

Cracker Barrel Extra Sharp Stick Cheese . 10 oz pkg	1.29
Pillsbury Buttermilk or Country Style Biscuits . . 8 8 oz pkgs	1.00
American Cheese Kraft Singles . . 3-lb pkg	3.99

Fresh from the Finast Bakery!

Big Round Top White Bread Finast Fresh 3 20 oz lvs $1

Bakery Items Available Tuesday thru Saturday Only

Beer and Wine Shoppe!

Budweiser Beer case only . . case of 24 12 oz cans	5.99
Pabst Blue Ribbon Bock Beer while supply lasts case only case of 24 12 oz N.R. btls	5.99
Donelli Lambrusco. . . . 24 oz btl	1.89
Lasalle Rosé Wine. . . . 24 oz btl	1.99
Lambrusco Wine Castel Ruboun . . 24 oz btl	2.29

Available in Finast of Hadley Only

California Navel Oranges 12 for $1

Quality Produce the Finast Way!

Eastern Potatoes U.S. No. 1 Size A 5 lb bag	59¢
Sweet Potatoes Source of Vit. C&A . 5 lbs	1.00
Apples Delicious Wash. State Red & Golden U.S. No. 1 . . 3 lbs	1.00
Avocados California . . . . . . 3 for	1.00
Fresh Papayas Tropic Fruit . . . . . ea	69¢

Flowers for Valentines Day!

Valentine Baskets with fresh cut flowers ea	2.99
Azalea Plants 5½ Inch Pots . . . . ea	4.99
African Violets 4 Inch Pots . . . . ea	1.99
Gardenia Plant 3 Inch Pots . . . . . ea	99¢
Deco Pots with Plant Starters . . . . ea	1.49

Available in Most Finast Stores

Finast Welcomes FOOD STAMP CUSTOMERS

Boneless Beef Chuck Pot Roast Tender and flavorful! USDA CHOICE 98¢ lb

Bottom Round or Shoulder Roast Boneless Beef USDA Choice USDA CHOICE 1.18 lb

Cut-up or Split 65¢ lb excellent for soup or fricassee Fresh Whole Fowl	58¢ lb
Swift Premium or Agar delicious baked! Canned Hams 5-lb can 6.99	3-lb can 4.49
Boneless USDA Choice Beef Rump Roast or Beef Top Round Roast	1.48 lb
Boneless Beef USDA Choice Top Round for London Broil	1.68 lb
Extra Lean Ground Beef (Round) 1.18 lb Fresh Ground Beef Any size package	78¢ lb

Weaver's Party Pak! Batter Dipped

Chicken Breasts or Legs & Thighs Your Choice 2.39 pkg

Save with... Large Economy Paks!

Whole Bottom Round Custom cut into ... Bottom Round Roast, Eye Round Roast, Beef Kabobs and Rump Steak for Swissing 1.48 lb

Short Ribs lesser amounts 1.08 lb Beef 4 lbs or more	98¢ lb
Chuck Steaks lesser amounts 1.28 lb Bnls. Beef 4 lbs or more	1.18 lb
Blade Steaks lesser amounts 1.48 lb Bnls. Beef 4 lbs or more	1.38 lb

Quality Meat Values from the Best Meat Men in the Business!

Beef Round Kabobs Bnls. lb	1.38
Canned Bacon Celebrity Imported . . . 1-lb can	99¢
Freirich Smoked Butts lb	1.39
Natalina Cheese Pizza 15 oz pkg	99¢
Natalina Pizza Pepperoni . 14 oz pkg	1.39
Dry Salt Bellies Lean: Great for Pork & Beans lb	89¢
Colonial Bacon Center Cut . . . lb	1.19
Fenway Bologna or Salami . . 8 oz pkg	69¢
Bogner Franks. . . . . . . 1-lb pkg	99¢
Sausage Smoked Hillshire Reg. or Beef . . . . . lb	1.29
Hillshire Hot Mettwurst lb	1.29
Kirschner Franks Natural Casing . lb	1.39
Victors Sauerkraut. . . . 2-lb pkg	39¢
Bogner Polish Rings. . lb	1.39

with pop-up timer Grade A or Finast Turkeys Hens or Toms 10 to 22 lbs 58¢ lb USDA A GRADE

Mr. Deli Favorites at Finast!

Cooked Ham Domestic-freshly sliced to your order 1.99 lb

Cooked-freshly sliced Roast Beef 1.99 lb

Imported Swiss Cheese. lb	1.99
Kosher Franks All Beef flavorful Morrison & Schiff . . . lb	99¢
Mr. Deli German Bologna lb	1.29
Carando's Dandy Loaf. . . lb	89¢
Hillshire Farms Kielbasa lb	1.39
Pastrami N.Y. Style. . . . . lb	1.39
Golden Hearth Thin-Sliced Rye or Pumpernickel Bread 1-lb lv	59¢
Mr. Deli Mustard. . . . . . . 16 oz jar	49¢

Available Only in Finast Stores with Mr. Deli Depts.

COUPON SALE...SAVE UP TO 4.16

40¢ Off the purchase of two dozen Finast Large Fresh Eggs With this coupon & purchase of $7.50 or more. Valid Feb. 6-12. Limit one H-668 Finast FN

Hi-C Fruit Drinks 3 46 oz cans 99¢ With this coupon & purchase of $7.50 or more. Valid Feb. 6-12. Limit one H-667 TX Finast FN

Ragu Sauces for Spaghetti Meat, Mushroom, Marinara, Plain Your Choice 32 oz jar 79¢ With this coupon & purchase of $7.50 or more. Valid Feb. 6-12. Limit one H-666 Finast FN

Save money all this week during Finast's Coupon Sale. Find the outstanding values in every aisle and save the Finast Way!

25¢ off With this coupon on (1) 1 lb can Maxwell House Coffee Valid Feb. 6-12 H-674 MFG

25¢ off With this coupon on (1) 16 oz pkg Capt. Crunch Cereal Valid Feb. 6-12 H-687 MFG

23¢ off With this coupon on (1) 10 lb bag Gold Medal Flour Valid Feb. 6-12 H-682 MFG

15¢ off With this coupon on (4) 3¾ oz pkg Jell-O Inst. Puddings Valid Feb. 6-12 H-688 MFG

15¢ off With this coupon on (1) 2 lb pkg Aunt Jemima Complete Pancake Mix Valid Feb. 6-12 H-684 MFG

30¢ off With this coupon on (1) 24 oz btl Aunt Jemima Syrup Valid Feb. 6-12 H-685 MFG

10¢ off With this coupon on (1) 16 oz pkg Keebler Choc. Fudge Sandwich, Pitter Patter or French Vanilla Cremes Valid Feb. 6-12 H-676 MFG

10¢ off With this coupon on (1) 1 lb pkg Blue Bonnet Soft Margarine Valid Feb. 6-12 H-681 MFG

10¢ off With this coupon on (1) 15½ oz jar Hunts Prima Salsa Spaghetti Sauces Valid Feb. 6-12 H-686 MFG

10¢ off With this coupon on (1) 1 lb loaf Finast Fresh Jewish Rye Bread Valid Feb. 6-12 H-669 FN

10¢ off With this coupon on (1) 1 lb loaf Pumpernickel Bread Finast Fresh Valid Feb. 6-12 H-670 FN

25¢ off With this coupon on (1) 72 oz pkg Top Choice Dog Food TX Valid Feb. 6-12 H-678 MFG

20¢ off With this coupon on (1) 5 lb bag Gravy Train Dog Food TX Valid Feb. 6-12 H-683 MFG

15¢ off With this coupon on (1) 22 oz can Niagara Spray Starch Valid Feb. 6-12 H-680 MFG

10¢ off With this coupon on (1) 8 oz Arm & Hammer Oven Cleaner TX Valid Feb. 6-12 H-677 MFG

25¢ off With this coupon on (1) pkg 15 Hefty Super Weight Trash Bags TX Valid Feb. 6-12 H-679 MFG

10¢ off With this coupon on (1) 1½ oz btl Ban Roll-on Deodorant Valid Feb. 6-12 H-671 FN-TX

10¢ off With this coupon on (1) pkg 5 Wilkinson Stainless Steel Blades Valid Feb. 6-12 H-672 FN-TX

10¢ off With this coupon on (1) 6½ oz ctn Cashmere Bouquet Talcum Valid Feb. 6-12 H-673 FN-TX

EKCO ETERNA Stainless Steel COOKWARE

Triple wall construction, dishwasher safe, self-storing covers. 5 Year full guarantee!

This Weeks Feature Item 7-inch Open Skillet 5.99 ea

Finast SUPERMARKETS

2 great, new promotions at Finast... Start your sets today!

EKCO ETERNA-Dior Muffin TABLEWARE

Dishwasher safe, Rust proof, Stain proof, Lovely walnut tone handle, Solid Stainless Steel. 5 year unconditional guarantee!

This Weeks Feature Item Dinner Fork with $3.00 purchase 39¢ ea

Prices effective February 6 thru February 12, 1977

We Reserve the Right to Limit Quantities

Not Responsible for Typographical Errors

commentary

Jimmy Carter for SGA President

By ROBERT P. PADULA

With elections for SGA President a month or so away, we are soon to be asked for our vote.

SGA President is a very important position. He or she is responsible for all actions of the SGA and acts as its official representative in relations between the SGA and the administration, faculty and board of trustees.

Although we may agree that this is an important position, voting is something that few of us do, especially with regard to the SGA. Thus... the president is elected by a handful of people, mainly those who are close to or involved with the student senate.

Now, I am of the opinion that this university is a microcosm of the United States. That is, the local newspaper, government, radio station, etc. are all miniature versions of their counterparts nationwide. In this respect, the SGA presidency is no exception.

In the past, the only viable candidates for the presidency were those closely involved with the government. Candidates were decided upon well in advance in smoke-filled meeting chambers... (whether in the White House or Campus Center).

To continue this parallel, presidential candidates have been more and more careful about choosing their running-mate; they realize that someone who balances out their ideological beliefs or geographic area of support, could increase their chances greatly. Also, in our most recent election, the winning candidate vowed he would put much more emphasis on the power of his running-mate, arguing that he would assist the president in every possible area.

Well, the SGA has also caught on to this idea. The winning candidates found that living in Central and Southwest living areas multiplied their votes. The argument of two heads being better than one also won favor beginning with Gavin-Ragin and resulting in an advantage which is now considered insurmountable to the single candidate.

What results, at UMass and formerly in the U.S., is a situation in which the politicians decide who we are to choose from. (Now, we all know that those nasty old politicians would be prone to choose someone who they may gain the most political favors from; not someone who would rule the government with an iron hand and put the common people at the top of the list of priorities).

Well, it seems the U.S. may have solved this problem when a farmer from Plains came from nowhere and... (you know the rest). His vow to clean up government was very convincing since he was an outsider and had no obvious personal interests as would a Washington official.

But alas, people of the University, the parallel need not stop here. We need not sit back and complain about the non-choices that have been given to us, we may instead look to someone else to save us.

Someone to save us from SGA student apathy and governmental corruption. Someone to clean up shop, to put students back to first priority and reorganize to eliminate excess.

This someone is...... JIMMY CARTER!

No, not the one from Plains, but the UMass version who is living somewhere in Southwest and was featured in last semester's Collegian.

This commentator just completed an exclusive interview with Mr. Carter, who has so far declined any SGA presidential aspirations.

However, do not fear, if J.C. can't be persuaded to save us, there must be other potential candidates out there who can!

But for now, we can only sit back and search for... emerging from the shadows, a savior with a broad smile and a lust for women.

If we don't find him.... nuts to us!

Robert P. Padula is a Collegian Commentator.

letters

Snow sculpturing alive and well

To the Editor:

Several years ago UMass students annually celebrated one of the biggest Winter Carnivals in the East. The Carnival included competing in "Winter Olympics," and Snow Sculpturing, as well as hosting tremendous rock concerts. However, students were obligated to pay class dues to support these events, which ultimately led to a near demise of the Winter Carnival.

Since it is economically unfeasible to revive Winter Carnival entirely, the Snow Sculpturing Contest remains the only celebrated tradition enjoyed annually by UMass students and the townspeople of Amherst. This year the contest will take place the week of February 24, providing there is sufficient snow. The theme is "Films of the Past and Present."

From 11:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m. on Sunday, all sculptures will be evaluated by judges selected from UMass faculty and prominent individuals of the community. All entries will be appraised in terms of originality, aesthetic and artistic quality, special effects and craftsmenship. Trophies are being donated by the Greek Council Activities Committee and will be awarded Sunday night following the judging.

For those interested in participating, applications are now available in the Student Activities Office in the Student Union. All applications must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. on Thursday, the 24th, to the Student Activities Office. If there are any questions call either Kathy Moore at 545-2152 or Sarah Williamson at 549-3600.

Kathy Moore Activities Committee
Greek Council

'Prior experience' found right here

To the Editor:

How often have you heard the trite but convenient refusal, "I'm sorry, but I'd like to hire someone with prior experience?" If once, that is enough.

This is the age old case of the chicken and the egg, which logically came first. How do I get experience without being able to get a job?

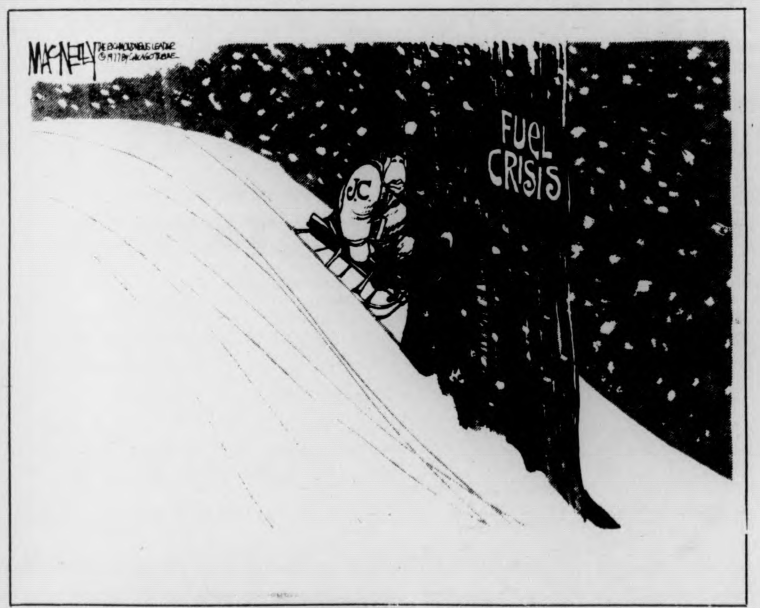
But was it enough or will it be enough to motivate yourself to supply the experience needed to fill the position you want?

How do you find this experience? It's right here on the UMASS campus. Where else can you find the opportunity to get involved in a radio station, a daily newspaper, a credit union, student government, a stereo co-op etc? This and more is available to any student willing to develop his-her own character and future opportunities by devoting part of the time you generally spend "waiting for classes" or "waiting until dinner" in doing something constructive and rewarding in the long run.

Why is it that currently the student credit union is looking for people to work as tellers and for other various functions of a banking atmosphere: Why is it the Collegian has to advertise positions available for interested students? Believe me it is not due to the stringent criteria they require. All they require is motivation and sincere willingness to share interest.

Perhaps it is time to amend the 20-80 rule which generally holds true in many situations. There is something you can do provide yourself with — "prior experience" if you want to be better prepared for the future. There is something you can do!

Paul G. Smith



Comments on courses needed

To the Editor:

Students who have completed both ExSci 290D "Nutrition and Human Performance" and one several "E" core courses offered by the Department of Food Science and Nutrition can be of great help in settling the question "close similarity" and the inappropriateness of teaching "a nutrition service E core course in another department" namely, Exercise Science. The assumption, hence the objection, is that the primary emphasis on ExSci 290D is on nutrition.

I seek student assessments. Preferably these may be written [in brief] or they may be phoned-in to Ms. Michaud in Room 210 Boyden [5-1337].

I am preparing a reply to Provost Puryear relative to an objection to ExSci 290D for E core status being raised by Dr. E. J. Francis, Head of Food Science and Nutrition Dept. Student comments will be extremely important.

Benjamin Ricci

'Roast prime rib of fat'

To the Editor:

This letter is addressed to the person who purchases the food for the Dining Commons. When we discovered that the menu for Wednesday evening was Roast Prime Rib of Beef, we were ecstatic at the thought of a decent meal. However, when we received the main course, it was less than desirable. A more appropriate title would have been "Roast Prime Rib of Fat."

We realize that preparing and serving meals for enormous numbers of students is a difficult task, but the quality of the "meat" was unsatisfactory. The dinner was unappetizing and needless to say inedible. It is our opinion that the University insists on buying poor quality food with the students money. We should have the option of withdrawing from the meal plan until there is a marked improvement in the quality of food.

Terry Kelley
Mary Constantino
Laurie Adelstein
Linda Drouillard
Sue Waldron

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Also, all letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages.

Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

All letters are subject to editing, for either content or space, according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed.

'No comment'

Jimmy Carter, speaking of his Plains, Georgia, neighbor who was evicted in 1976:

A.Z. Pittman "has been a good neighbor, and I wish he was still living there. We've had a very friendly and close relationship. He and I have jointly observed the intrusion of hooty owls into the community to attack chickens and small kitty cats."

bill sundstrom

The struggle for an education

The University should establish a policy whereby every graduate would receive a short questionnaire some five years after graduation, asking the single question, "What is the value of a UMass education?"

Well, I can imagine some of the responses now. I suppose some people will never learn anything more useful than how to take a long hit off a bong, so to speak. Others may find their training in engineering or business a background to lucrative employment. But what about the rest of us — especially the unfortunate liberal arts and sciences types who will probably end up pumping gas or peddling Big Macs?

A college education should not be designed to process and package individuals like so much American cheese by plugging them into specialized jobs or unemployment lines. Unfortunately, that is precisely the treatment one will receive at UMass if one accepts this so-called "education" passively, as many do.

An education does not just happen to you — you must go out and get it. Learning is not merely a process of absorption, but one of creation, expression, and expansion. Sitting through lectures and taking exams will accomplish none of these and will probably have the negative effect of making you tolerate whatever bullshit the real-world "professors" sling at you.

This campus and the people that go with it are a tremendous resource, but it requires effort on the student's part to mold that resource into anything of value. The faculty here, despite the governor's repeated attempts to drive them away in search of greener academic pastures, are people of diverse backgrounds and considerable knowledge. Some are able to communicate their experience and enthusiasm in the lecture hall; others are not. They will not come to you — you must find them on your own.

There are numerous non-classroom activities without which no student should consider her or his education complete. Working with other people, be it on Black Classical music or political demonstrations or both, adds an invaluable dimension to the UMass experience. Nor should one neglect one's place of residence as an opportunity to learn a little grassroots sociology.

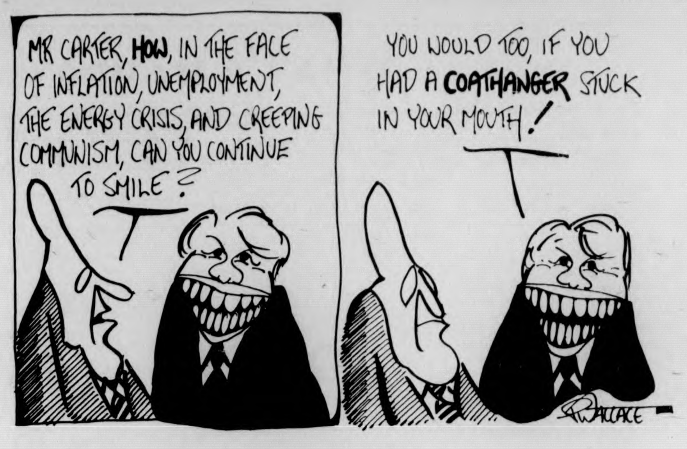
If all else fails, UMass is a marvelous place to learn how to cope with a bureaucracy and the frustrations that accompany it.

Ultimately, an education is no more and no less than growing as a person. And that can occur anywhere — it's just that one hopes the atmosphere at a university is more conducive to balanced growth than at a non-university. And that is the case at UMass if you are self-motivated.

This is not meant as a sales pitch. I'd be the last to claim that UMass provides the education it should. But what many students fail to realize is that they will be treated as just another student number on a computer tape if they don't put up a fight. Getting a real education here is a struggle — a rewarding struggle, but a struggle nonetheless.

Some say that a good instructor makes you think, but they are quite wrong. Only you can make you think. And if you don't do that for yourself, your education here will be worth no more than the paper your diploma is written on — and at least you can burn that when the oil runs out.

Bill Sundstrom is Executive Editor of the Collegian.



MR CARTER, HOW, IN THE FACE OF INFLATION, UNEMPLOYMENT, THE ENERGY CRISIS, AND CREEPING COMMUNISM, CAN YOU CONTINUE TO SMILE?
YOU WOULD TOO, IF YOU HAD A COATHANGER STUCK IN YOUR MOUTH!
WALLACE

tyla l michelove

Consuming eye

"Hey, first we have to go to Shop and Shop and pick up some stuff. Flour is 39 cents per 5-lb. bag there. And then on to Finast for the sale there. Sugar is 39 cents per 5-lb. bag at Food Mart and some other junk I want to get is cheaper there, too. So, onward, driver."

"Why do we have to go to all those places? Why don't we just go down the street, it's so much easier

-----

Ah, the plight of the shopper, our plight because not only are the students, we are consumers as well. Studies show that we spend money too freely and in the wrong ways. This is not the case for UMass alone, but for most of the people in our age group, students and non-students. But we, as students, should not be so mindless in our shopping. We have already proved that we are at least of average intelligence by getting into college in the first place.

Some of the problems we face as consumers are directly a result of modern cultural shifts. Mothers used to teach their daughters how to be good wives and mothers, so good consumer techniques were handed down. But now mothers work and have different priorities. They are more interested in seeing their children be successful instead of chained to a house all day long. Also, since the emphasis is away from the home, we (males and females) are more concerned with convenience than consumer awareness. And we are setting up disastrous shopping patterns.

Television has changed the way we shop as well. We shop for the brand names, not the sales. We are intrigued by new things and pay for the pretty package and the advertising on top of the actual price of the product.

In a time when money is tight and food prices are outrageous, something should be done to influence our spending habits. If junior high school home economic courses have not been effective, it is because they are not really taken seriously by many communities. It might be better to teach a home economics course in the senior year of high school, when kids have money of their own to spend or save. And if not there, the freshman year of college is a time when we are learning to survive academically and to add a required course in economic survival may not be a bad idea.

A course like this should include methods of food shopping; how to watch out for sales, clipping coupons, getting the best buy, meal planning and how to write out a shopping list that doesn't allow one to buy things you don't need. It should teach budgeting, dealing with landlords, shopping for quality clothing, charge cards and layaway procedures and information about consumer groups, legal aid and the Better Business Bureau.

If there is time, it wouldn't hurt to discuss the fundamentals of America's economic system and how we, as consumers, fit into the general picture. This alone would be enough incentive to employ the rest of the information as quickly as possible. We have been getting the shorter end of the stick for too long.

This kind of course would pay for itself in the long run, but in this time of budget cuts and slashed school committee funds it will probably never come to pass on any grand scale. But this will simply keep the vicious circle alive and keep the average person living from paycheck to paycheck.

Tyla L. Michelove is a Collegian Columnist.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS — RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in-Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; NASSER H. EGA, Black Affairs Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; JAY A. SARET, Photo Editor; MARK A. LECCESE, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS — Christopher J. Bourne, Teresa M. Hanafin, Night Managers; Paula Strollo, Wire Editor; Lisa E. Melilli, Assistant Executive Editor; G[illegible]d F. Rogers, Kevin C. Turcotte, Assistant News Editors; Angela P. Thomas, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Michael A. Berger, Richard W. Eckel, Assistant Sports Editors; E. Patrick McQuaid, Deborah S. Schafer, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Melanie J. Johnson, Women's Coordinator; Heidi S. Berenson, Feature Coordinator.

BUSINESS — Steve N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; Leslie Nearman, Finance Manager; Laurie Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Heath C. Wheeler, Jr., Linda Crowell, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Leo Murphy, Doug Surette, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steve Polansky, Circulation Manager: Linda S. Vene, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

commentary

A responsible death penalty

By GEORGE SOMMERS

Unfortunately, most well-meaning liberals are inclined to disfavor capital punishment on the grounds that it is primitive, barbaric, and cruel. There is more than a grain of truth to these allegations, but as always, there are two sides to the coin. Since the early sixties and coincidentally or not the abolishment of capital punishment the growth of violent crime in this nation has mushroomed.

The question which naturally arises is whether or not capital punishment would indeed serve as an effective deterrent to crime. A few years back, the African nation Ghana suffered from a rash of burglaries and thefts. The government reacted by passing a law that all those convicted of stealing would have their hands chopped off. Disgusting? Perhaps, but within two weeks, the rate of thefts dropped by an incredible ninety per cent.

Another point brought up by the anti-capital punishment forces is that it deprives the prisoner of the right to live. Invariably, though, these convicts are where they are because of their own lack of respect for the lives of their fellow citizens — people who never committed a crime in their lives.

Death is actually preferable to many on Death Row, notably Gary Gilmore. The alternative is finishing out one's years in a monotonous, tiny jail cell at great expense to the taxpayer. Life sentences may be shortened, but all too often this has the net result of releasing back into society potential murderers.

This is not to say that courts should rush to fry every criminal in America. Inevitably, that would lead to the disproportionate killing of those too poor to afford the best lawyers, notably Blacks, Hispanics, and other peoples. Rather, each case should be studied in every intricate detail. Clear cut guilt must be established. Those who kill in a moment of passion — a family fight, say — do not deserve the death penalty. Those who kill and torture for sexual gratification such as Dean Corll, mass murderers, convicts released from jail who repeat their heinous acts, and cold-blooded killers such as hit men must be killed for the health of society.

If a responsible return to the death penalty succeeds in cutting down the crime rate, even those who voice the greatest objections to capital punishment should reconsider their views. Meanwhile, some food for thought: Charles Manson — Satanist, mass murderer, and advocate of racial war, among other things — will very shortly be up for parole.

George Sommers is a Collegian Commentator

WHAT'S HAPPENING

WMUA airs talk with draft resister

Immediately following tonight's 10 p.m. news, WMUA (UMass radio, 91.1 FM) will rebroadcast an interview with draft resister Darryl Robertson, a 1969 UMass graduate who moved to Canada nearly seven years ago to avoid participation with American military forces in the Vietnam War.

Mosakowski taped the interview with Robertson on New Year's Day, three weeks before the Carter pardon was issued.

Noted Jewish figure lectures at Amherst

Arthur Waskow, noted political scientist, author, lecturer and important figure in contemporary Jewish life, will speak at Amherst College today at 4 p.m. in Chapin Lounge. His topic will be "god-wrestling: the Struggle to Walk a Jewish Path of Work, Politics, Sex and Celebration."

Biology professor to speak tonight

Biology Professor Lynn Miller will discuss how a burgeoning world population can avoid starvation in "How to Run a Green Revolution," tonight at 8 in the Main Lecture Hall of Franklin Patterson Hall.

Photo appointments can be made today

Beginning today, appointments for senior portraits may be made by seniors graduating in May or September. Call 545-2874 or go to the Campus Center ninth floor lobby to schedule your sitting. Day and evening appointments are available, but all appointments must be made in advance. All senior portraits will automatically be included in the 1977 INDEX.

S. Africa supporters hold meeting tonight

The Five College Southern Africa Support Committee will meet tonight at 8, on the first floor of the New Africa House. For information call 545-0794 or 584-3862.

OPEN AT RUSH
ΒΚΦ
THE BROTHERHOOD OF BETA KAPPA PHI FRATERNITY INVITES ALL U-MASS. MEN TO AN OPEN RUSH ON:
* MONDAY FEB. 7
* TUESDAY FEB. 8
* WEDNESDAY FEB. 9 } AT 8:00 P.M.
AND
* SUNDAY FEB. 13 – AT 7:00 P.M.
REFRESHMENTS!!
COME OVER, MEET THE BROTHERS, AND SEE ALL THE ADVANTAGES U-MASS GREEK LIFE CAN OFFER AT
BETA KAPPA PHI 388 NORTH PLEASANT ST. (LARGE WHITE BRICK HOUSE) * CALL: 545-0210 -0211

University of massachusetts arts council presents
Quartetto Italiano
The program will consist of QUARTET IN C MAJOR, OPUS 76, No. 3 ("Emperor") by Haydn, THREE PIECES FOR STRING QUARTET (1914) by Stravinsky, CONCERTINO FOR STRING QUARTET (1920) by Stravinsky and QUARTET IN D MINOR, D. 810 ("Death and the Maiden") by Schubert.
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets now on sale! $5, 4, 3. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

Используйте своё знание иностранного языка!
日本語に堪能な方を求む。
NSA speaks your language

We'd like to think that those of you who have studied Slavic or Asian languages could challenge the accuracy of the above translations. If you can, you may also qualify for a career at the National Security Agency.

Career opportunities now exist for candidates who are skilled in either Slavic, Asian or Near Eastern languages. Those selected will be able to provide a valuable service in the production of national defense intelligence.

The National Security Agency offers a variety of challenging assignments for language majors . . . translation, transcription, area research projects to name a few. Newly-hired linguists receive advanced training in their primary languages and can anticipate many years of professional growth within the NSA Language Career Development Program.

Intellectual challenge is part of NSA's language too . . . plus attractive surroundings in our suburban Maryland headquarters . . . salaries that start at the GS-7 level for BA graduates . . . and all the usual benefits of Federal employment.

United States citizenship is required.

Schedule an NSA interview through your Placement Office.

National Security Agency
Fort George G. Meade, Maryland 20755
Attn: M321

An equal opportunity employer m/f.

50% OFF
ALL JADE PLANTS
AT THE
Pots & Plants Shop
MON.-FRI., FEB. 7-12
274 N. Pleasant
Basement Shop
Near Earth Shoe Bldg.

APPEARING MON. & TUES.
Orchestra Luna
WED. & THURS.
Jonathan Edwards
plus
Clean Living
AT
The rusty nail Inn
Rte. 47, Sunderland
665-4937

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 - HADLEY MASS
THE GREATEST AFRICAN ADVENTURE EVER FILMED!
LEE MARVIN ROGER MOORE
SHOUT AT THE DEVIL
BARBARA PARKINS
PG
① Fri. 4:30,7:00,9:30. Twi-Liter 4:00-4:30
Sat. 2:00, 4:30, 7:00, 9:30. Twi-Liter 4:00-4:30
Sunday 2:00, 5:30,8:00. Twi-Liter 5:00-5:30
Limited Seating at Twi-Liters $1.25
IF YOU'VE GOT A TASTE FOR TERROR... TAKE CARRIE TO THE PROM.
CARRIE
SISSY SPACEK
R
② Fri. 5:00,7:17,9:45. Twi-Liter 4:30-5:00
Sat. 2:15,5:00,7:15,9:45. Twi-Liter 4:30-5:00
Sun 2:15,6:00,8:15 Twi-Liter 5:30-6:00
Limited Seating at Twi-Liters $1.25
"MAGNIFICENT!" – Penelope Gilliatt The New Yorker
"LIV ULLMANN'S PERFORMANCE IS SHATTERING!" Jack Kroll Newsweek
INGMAR BERGMAN'S "FACE TO FACE" starring LIV ULLMANN
R
③ Friday 4:30,7:00,9:30. Twi-Liter 4:00-4:30
Sat 2:00,4:30,7:00,9:30. Twi-Liter 4:00-4:30
Sun 2:00,5:30,8:00. Twi-Liter 5:00-5:30
"LOVELY. . .A RARITY, A POETIC COMEDY THAT'S REALLY FUNNY." –Pauline Kael, New Yorker Magazine
a film by françois truffaut small change
PG
④ Fri. 4:45,7:15,9:45. Twi-Liter 4:15-4:45
Sat 2:15,4:45,7:15,9:45. Twi-Liter 4:15-4:45
Sun 2:15,5:45,8:15. Twi-Liter 5:15-5:45
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI LITE SHOW TICKETS LIMITED TO SEATING

What IS The Boltwood Project?
The Boltwood-Belchertown Project is a Five College volunteer organization which sponsors educational, recreational and social programs at Belchertown State School and in the surrounding communities. To find out more about the project come to our INFORMATIONAL AND RECRUITMENT MEETINGS!
Orchard Hill—Central — Monday, Feb. 7, Field House Lounge, 7:00 p.m.
Sylvan & Quad — Tuesday, Feb. 8, Blue Room, Worcester Dining Commons, 7:00 p.m.
Southwest — Wednesday, Feb. 9, 19th floor Washington Tower, 7:00 p.m.
Five-College Program Selection Night — Thursday, Feb. 10, Campus Center, Room 101, 7:00 p.m.
BE A PART OF BOLTWOOD

NOTICES

AASA MEETING TONIGHT FOR ALL ASIAN AMERICAN STUDENTS

Tonight at New Africa House rm. 418. Plans for Sat. 12, Five College Disco will be concluded and discussion on the Asian American students conference will take place. Meeting time is 7:30 p.m. - 9:30 p.m.

A BEAUTIFUL POWERFUL EXPERIENCE

Classes in Kundalini Yoga as taught by Yogi Bhajan. Meetings are M-F from 4-6 p.m. Come and experience the joy of being.

ALL PUBLIC HEALTH STUDENTS

Welcome in the new semester with fellow students. Tues. 7:00 p.m., Arnold North Lounge. Lots of talk and refreshments.

ALL UNIVERSITY WOMEN

The sisters of Lambda Delta Phi invite you to join us in making ice cream sundaes and playing BINGO on Monday, Feb. 7 at 7:30 p.m. We're at 389 N. Pleasant St. Call Tina 5-0939 for info or rides.

ARE YOU SEEKING HELP?

We have a pool of experienced veterans, male and female, seeking full-time and part-time employment and odd jobs. For info contact: Veteran's Affairs Office, 545-1346.

ART WASKOW

Speaking tonight on "Godwrestling: The Struggle to Walk a Jewish Path of Work, Politics, Sex, and Celebration". 8 p.m., CC 165-9; all invited.

BEER

Smoker — UMass Vets Fraternity. Tenth floor, CC. Tonight 8 p.m.

"BEHIND THE VEILS OF CONCEALMENT"

Megilot Class Ester, Song of Songs, Lamentations, etc. 7:30 at CHABAD HOUSE. For info call 253-9040.

CHRISTIANS

Tonight 7:30 - 9:00 in CC 805. We are having our 2nd meeting. Inter-varsity Christian Fellowship is becoming very active and we want you to become a part of it. If you think Christianity is on its way out, think again and come find out that it is alive and growing.

CREATIVE WRITING COURSE OPEN

190D Intro to Creative Writing still has openings. Register at McIntire House now! Class Thurs. eve 7-10.

FINANCE COMM MEETS

The Graduate Senate Finance Committee will hold its first meeting of the semester today at 1 p.m. in the semester today at 1 p.m. in the GSS Office, CC 919. We will begin planning next year's budget. All senators and grad students are invited.

FRISBEE MEETING

The UMass Frisbee Club will be meeting today in CC 91 7 p.m. with the "ultimate frisbee team". Be there.

HSMA

There will be a meeting tonight at 7:30 in CC 903. The guest speaker is Michael Brenan, Sales Director from THE SHERATON in Hartford.

JEWISH COOKING

Learn how to make all the old time favorites. Tues. nights. Call Doug or Elliot 253-3168 for more info.

JEWISH GRAD STUDENTS

There will be a meeting of Jewish grad students at 5 p.m. Tuesday at SU 302. Social events will be planned.

LOST

Fluffy male cat lost near Riverglade Apts. Any info please call 256-6694. He is missed.

LOST

Gold Timex watch with gold band on way front Flint Lab to CC concourse on Feb. 4. Of sentimental value only. Please call Jean 546-9568.

MOVIES AND MEETING

Tomorrow at 7 p.m. in CC 101. Members of Chinese Student Club and all interested persons are urged to attend. New members are welcome and admission is free.

OFF THE HOOK

Max Hermann, author of the book TO START A NEW CIVILIZATION, will be the guest.

OUTING CLUB

Tonight at 7 p.m. in CC 804-808 the Outing Club will present a show on this winter's daring Presidential Traverse. Also, upcoming trips and meetings will be announced. All welcome!

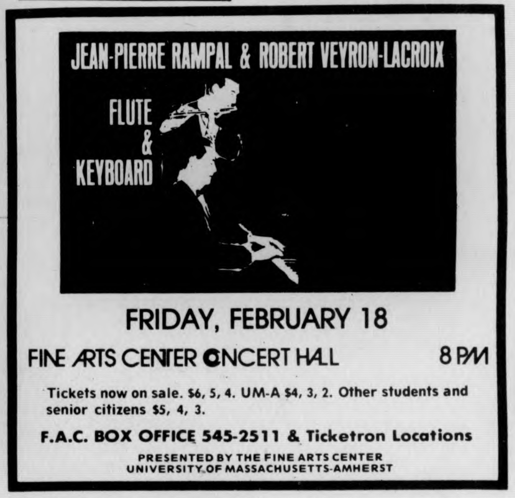
POL SCI 19 0A People

Meeting to continue organization of the collective begun last semester. Tues. (2-8) in CC 911. 7:30 p.m. For info call Scott 584-6469 or Dave 546-6622.

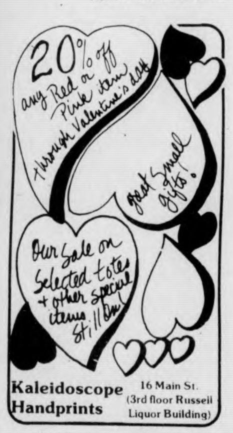
TURN TO PAGE 12

SALE
30% off...
...an inventory sale on the finest selection of hand-crafted items we've ever carried. Gold and Silver jewelry, fine leathers and accessories, blown glass and pottery. All at a remarkable 30% off. For one week only. FEBRUARY 5 thru FEBRUARY 12.
The Leather Shed
199 north pleasant street amherst mass 01002

AMHERST Cinema
Amity St. 253-5426
"FINE, PRECISE, VERY MOVING... INTRODUCES A FINE NEW DIRECTOR." –N.Y. TIMES
THE CLOCKMAKER
PHILIPPE NOIRET
BERTRAND TAVERNIER
and
"Vincent Francois, Paul & the Others"
Vincent, Francois 7:00
The Clockmaker 9:00
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00



JEAN-PIERRE RAMPAL & ROBERT VEYRON-LACROIX
FLUTE & KEYBOARD
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 18
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL 8PM
Tickets now on sale. $6, 5, 4. UM-A $4, 3, 2. Other students and senior citizens $5, 4, 3.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations
PRESENTED BY THE FINE ARTS CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS-AMHERST



20% off any Red or Pink item through Valentine's day
Best small gifts!
Our sale on Selected totes + other special items still on!
Kaleidoscope Handprints
16 Main St. (3rd floor Russell Liquor Building)

Everybody's Market Place CLASSIFIED ADS

To place a classified ad drop by the Collegian Office between 8 30a m and 3 45p m Monday thru Friday. The deadline is 3 45p m two days before your ad is to appear.

The rates are
Daily 40 per line
Weekly 35' per line
Monthly 25 per line
(two lines on MDC form approximate one line

IF YOU CAN'T COME TO THE OFFICE, CLIP OUT AND MAIL OUR SPEEDY CLASSIFIED AD FORM

FOR SALE

TURNTABLE — Philips GA212, ex. cond. Ret. $170, ask $125. B.O. 253-7498.

Parts for Triumph TR4 and TR4A. 256-6233.

Ebonite Clarinet, leather pads, comp reblt, real tight mellow sound. 256-0536, John.

175cm Holzner skis, 9½ Reiker boots, Spademan bindings, 48 in. poles. $45 takes all or will sell in parts. Chuck 655-3551.

Skis — Head 720 203cms, Nevada binding. Good condition. Henke boots, size 9. Fair condition. Best offer. Jon 549-6425.

Folk Guitar, Harmony. Good for beginning students. Good condition. Best offer. Jon 549-6425.

FOR SALE

1 pr. of men's Bauer hockey skates, size 10. Call 6-8960.

Kastle GS skis, 200cm. $50. 546-4709.

Refrig., ex. cond. 2½, C.F. $65. 546-6772.

Refrig., excellent cond., 5 cu. ft., $80. Small BSR McDonald stereo. B. O. 323-5131.

K2 III 195cm, used twice, $75. 549-2785.

Yamaha FG 180, Guitar $125 or B.O. Call Daniel 3-7 p.m. 253-3887.

Ficher 185 Cm look GT bindings size 11. Nordica boots used 1 season poles inc. $100. After 5 p.m. 323-6924. Grow light 110.

Gift Idea. Have your portrait drawn. Call Dennis Delap, 256-8732.

Size 44 brown leather waist lngth, lined, barely used. $50. Call JK 549-6973.

Kowa Six 2¼ SLR with 80 mm lens and grip. $190 or best offer. Gary 256-8434.

Car cassette deck, new head. Auto rev. Call 549-5910 ask for Don.

New autoharp 15 keys, carrying case incl. 549-5910 Don.

Never used Odyssey 200 w adapter. Ping pong game for any TV. $75 or B. O. 546-5384.

Bar, 7 ft, fully padded & 3 stools. 256-8216.

Sherwood 7200 40w per channel, dual 1228 w cart, AR2AX speakers. All excellent cond. $515. Neal, 546-4382.

For Sale: 4 fairly new (2000 miles), steel belted, radials. 165R15. Lee, 253-3527. $100.

Pentax ESII, black body, 1.4, $250; 28mm w A lens, $75; Vivitar 70-210 zoom, $150. Many acces. All for $450. Pat, 549-6799.

Twin bed. 253-7625.

AUTO FOR SALE

'67 VW Sqrbk, reblt eng. Runs good, $475. '71 Vega, runs good — body shot, $200. firm. 256-8214 after 6.

'68 Catalina, hi mi but runs very well & reliable. Peter — Dwight 224 — 5-2304.

'69 VW Bug good transportation needs minor work. 586-4026.

'63 VW. Excellent condition, dependable. $295 or best offer. Gary 256-8434.

BMW, '67, 4 door, exc. cond. $1200. 256-6459.

'68 Renault Rio. Gd. cond. 30mpg. 546-6304.

'72 Toyota Corolla, 1600, 4 dr., snow tires, very good cond. $1200. Call 586-1370 after 6 p.m.

INSTRUCTION

Beg. Hatha Yoga for women. Ind. or small groups. Call eves. Hana 253-5698.

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female for S. Amh. house. $88+ 253-7727.

Roommate — 2 bdrm., own room, $125 inc. util., sec. dep., d.d, w.d, modern. 549-1741 or 549-1352. Share w female, senior. Lease 8-31-77. A cond.

Mature female roommate wanted to share expenses. Call 253-2657

2½ rms. 110 mo. Furn., util. inc. Cbl. tv, ac refrig, stove. 1 mile from campus 546-4177.

2 people to share lg. rm. in Pelham house. 8 mi. to campus. $165 + 253-7009.

1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. apt. for lease. $125—mo., utilities inc. Call 665-4235. Sunderland (female).

Woman wanted for co op house in S. Amherst. Woods, fireplace. $80 + util. 256-8078, p.m.

FOR RENT

Belchertown — 3 room cottage — stove, refrig., $150—mth., private. 583-8734 evenings.

Furnished Apts. avail. Feb. 1. 4 mos. lease. 1½, 2, 2½ rms. A.C., parking, pool, quiet area. From $190. mo. inc. all utils. Amherst Motel & Apts., Rte. 9, opp. Zayre's.

Sublet Riverglade 2 bdrm., heat, AC incl. On busline. Very reasonable. 253-2777.

Pres. Apts. 1 bedroom avail. 3-1 $205. Util. inc. AC and DW. Bus Route 549-6096.

University Women. Close to campus sorority is taking boarders. Great food. Call Liz or Dawn at 253-9215.

TYPING

Typing — Reasonable rates — Dissertations, resumes, papers, etc. 549-6772.

WANTED

Used stationary exercise bike. Good condition. 772-6184 collect after 5 p.m.

Fencers...Experienced foil and saber fencer needs partners — a.m., p.m., weekends. Duke Simoneau 405D1. Brown house. 546-5727.

HONEST FURNITURE

Good deals on bureaus, beds, chairs, sofas, lamps, threadle sewing machines, desks and things that go bump in the night. Pauls Oldtime Furniture, 57 E. Pleasant St., Amherst. 549-3603, we deliver.

REWARD OFFERED

Reward offered for return of casino klub amplifier and AKG 190E mike stolen from basement of 165 Britanny Manor. Call Jim at 549-1145.

HELP WANTED

Small sorority needs pot washer, dining room houseboys. Call 549-1587.

The Below The Salt arts weekly is looking for your poetry. Let us see your creativity? Come on down Monday nite or leave your stuff in the Poetry Box, Coll. Off., 1st floor C.C.

Men! Women! Jobs on ships! American. Foreign. No exp. required. Exc. pay. Worldwide Travel. Summer job or career. Send $3 for info: SEAFAX, Dept. F-2, Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362.

Work in a sorority. Free meals, good home cooking. Call 253-9066.

Alan Goldberg Tennis Pro needs assistant pro for part time summer employment. Teaching exp. required. Call nites 253-3683.

Bus driver training appls. will be accepted on Feb. 7 at 7 p.m. in CC, rm. 101 from the first 100 qualified. You must be a univ. degree candidate student with at least 3 semesters left, over 18 yrs. of age, hold a Mass. No. 3 lic., and willing to train on weekends.

International women's week needs people power for publicity committee and children's programming! For more info. call Irene 545-3600.

Dishwasher wanted. Free meals, call Jim at 545-2151 or 256-6815.

Fashion 220 Beauty Consultants are trained specialists in skin care and beauty techniques. To qualify call Mon. Fri. 12-2:30 p.m. 568-3903, 533-9331.

Part time workers wanted for student auto workshop — need mechanical ability and desire to help people. Applications at SAW or 402 SUB due no later than 2-9. Equal Opportunity Employer.

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Spfld. from UMass M W F at 11 and Tues and Thurs. at 2:30. Will share $. 736-8690 Sue.

PERSONALS

Need a bun warmer? You will if you come naked to the Beaux Arts Ball, Feb. 26.

Happy Birthday, Liz Kent. Crew of 22.

Happy Birthday, Feb. 6 — Patty Zink. Crew of 22.

LOST

Men's glasses, tan case. Tues. 2-1, bet. Fernold and Hert. Call Charles 545-2619, 253-9414. Reward.

Lost gold rimmed glasses in southwest area, reward. 546-8795.

SERVICES

Guitar Lessons. Experienced, reliable teacher. Theory included if desired. Student rates available. 665-3024.

AUDIO

Quality audio components — over 130 lines including high—end; good advice, reasonable prices. Call Peter 665-2920.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators has low prices! All T. I. warr by me for 1 yr. SR-52 $199.95; SR-56 $84.95 ($10 rebate off this pr.); SR-40 $34.95, bus anal $34.95 — All HP's avail. HP-67 $389.95. Call and check our PR's. Call Bob Or Linda 549-1316!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

TRAVEL

Europe '77. No frills, student, teacher, charter flights — Global Travel, 521 5th Ave., N. Y., N. Y. 10017. 212-379-3532. Group rates.

CONT. FROM PAGE 11

PUPPY NEEDS HOME

Chester is 5 mos. old and weighs 25 lbs. He has certificates of vaccination and is free for good people! Call 549-1292.

SEX DISCRIMINATION

All students, staff and faculty are invited to attend a public hearing to examine and discuss issues relevant to sex discrimination on Campus pertaining to the Undergrad Admissions Office, on Wed., Feb. 9 from noon to 2 p.m. CC 917.

UNION STEREO CO-OP

First Business Meeting of Semester TONIGHT at 7:30 in CC 166. All Co-op members should attend.

LOST

Pocketbook. Brown vinyl with long braided straps. Lost Thurs. 1-27 between Poor Richards and Brittany Manor. If found return to Laurie Gunsollery at 6-9689. Reward.

RECYCLING MEETING

There will be a meeting at 7 p.m. tonight for all those interested in Recycling JOBS in the CEO Office, 2nd floor S.U.

RESOURCES JUDAICA

There will be a General Membership Meeting, Tues. at 8:30 p.m. in CC 805. Future projects and programs will be discussed. Newspaper also. Please attend. Your ideas and support are needed.

THANK YOU

Many thanks to the kind-hearted person who returned my red wallet on Thurs. It is much appreciated. M.J.

DC Menu

TODAY

LUNCH — Cheese Omelet, Sausage Grinder; Basics: Cheese Omelet, Vegetable Grinder.

DINNER — Chicken Stew-Biscuit, Roast Beef; Basics: Chicken Stew-Biscuit, Lentil Rice Loaf.

TOMORROW

LUNCH — Clam Roll, Meatloaf; Basics: Clam Roll, Soybean, Corn, Tomato Cass.

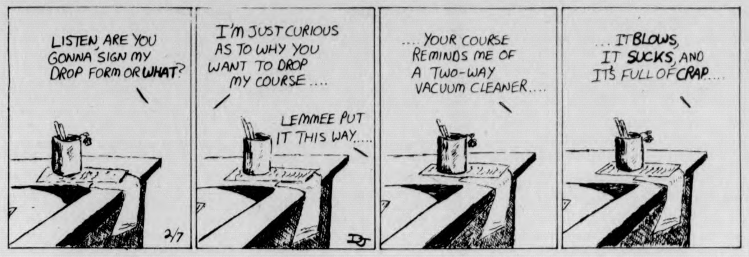
DINNER — Roast Turkey, Fried Fish; Basics: Roast Turkey, Spanish Beans.

WE DELIVER!
(on campus only)
SUN.-THURS.
CALL our new No. 549-5592
Compare our prices
For quick delivery
UNIVERSITY PIZZA
across from Southwest dorms — UMass
(We couldn't be closer . . . so you know it'll be hot!)

Valentine Cards
a great selection
American Greetings
The very special way to remember . . .
The University Store
Campus Center M - F 9am-5pm Sat 11am - 4pm

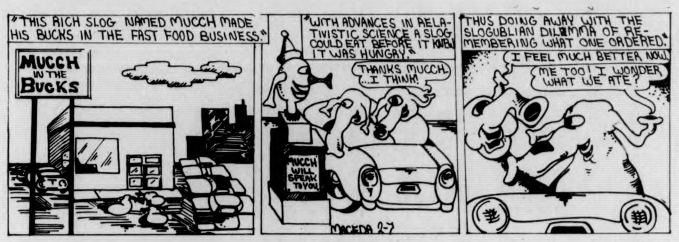
THE GREAT REVIVAL
A national trend sweeping college campuses throughout the country.
More popular than streaking and bigger than the Big Mac Attack.
DON'T TRY TO BEAT THE MAD RUSH — JOIN IT NOW.
Look into sororities, many women on campus are.
Sign up for the Sorority Rush today
Greek Affairs Office 203 Hampshire House
8-5 p.m. or the Panhellenic Rush Office
169 Campus Center 9:15-3 p.m.
FINAL DEADLINE — WED., FEB. 9th 5 p.m.

What Next? by Dick Janssen



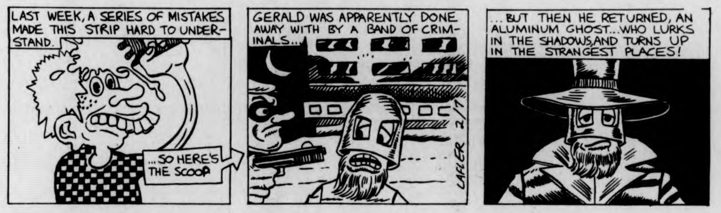
LISTEN, ARE YOU GONNA SIGN MY DROP FORM OR WHAT?
I'M JUST CURIOUS AS TO WHY YOU WANT TO DROP MY COURSE....
LEMMEE PUT IT THIS WAY.....
....YOUR COURSE REMINDS ME OF A TWO-WAY VACUUM CLEANER....
...IT BLOWS, IT SUCKS, AND IT'S FULL OF CRAP....
2/7
DJ

U.Mutations by Marty Maceda



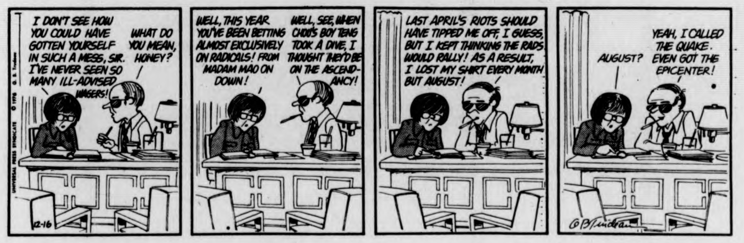
"THIS RICH SLOG NAMED MUCCH MADE HIS BUCKS IN THE FAST FOOD BUSINESS."
MUCCH IN THE BUCKS
"WITH ADVANCES IN RELATIVISTIC SCIENCE A SLOG COULD EAT BEFORE IT KNEW IT WAS HUNGRY."
THANKS MUCCH. ...I THINK!
MUCCH WILL SPEAK TO YOU
MACEDA 2-7
THUS DOING AWAY WITH THE SLOGUBLIAN DILEMMA OF REMEMBERING WHAT ONE ORDERED."
I FEEL MUCH BETTER NOW
ME TOO! I WONDER WHAT WE ATE?

Aluminum Ghost by Steve Lafler



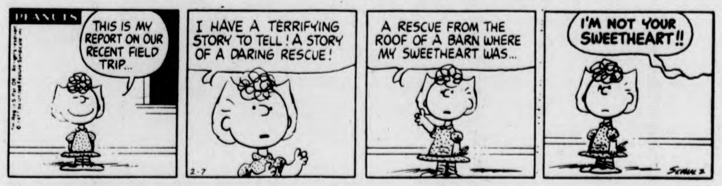
LAST WEEK, A SERIES OF MISTAKES MADE THIS STRIP HARD TO UNDERSTAND.
...SO HERE'S THE SCOOP
GERALD WAS APPARENTLY DONE AWAY WITH BY A BAND OF CRIMINALS...
LAFLER 2/7
...BUT THEN HE RETURNED, AN ALUMINUM GHOST...WHO LURKS IN THE SHADOWS, AND TURNS UP IN THE STRANGEST PLACES!

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau



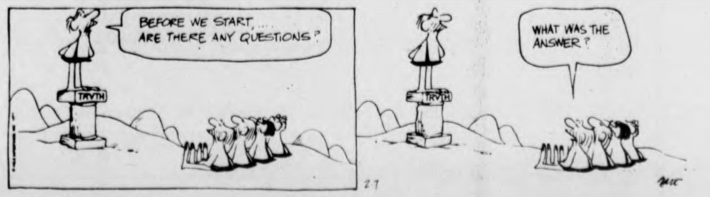
I DON'T SEE HOW YOU COULD HAVE GOTTEN YOURSELF IN SUCH A MESS, SIR. I'VE NEVER SEEN SO MANY ILL-ADVISED WAGERS!
WHAT DO YOU MEAN, HONEY?
WELL, THIS YEAR YOU'VE BEEN BETTING ALMOST EXCLUSIVELY ON RADICALS! FROM MADAM MAO ON DOWN!
WELL, SEE, WHEN CHOU'S BOY TENG TOOK A DIVE, I THOUGHT THEY'D BE ON THE ASCENDANCY!
LAST APRIL'S RIOTS SHOULD HAVE TIPPED ME OFF, I GUESS, BUT I KEPT THINKING THE RADS WOULD RALLY! AS A RESULT, I LOST MY SHIRT EVERY MONTH BUT AUGUST!
AUGUST?
YEAH, I CALLED THE QUAKE. EVEN GOT THE EPICENTER!
12-16
© 1976 G. B. Trudeau
UNIVERSAL PRESS SYNDICATE
GBTrudeau

Peanuts by Charles M. Schulz



PEANUTS
THIS IS MY REPORT ON OUR RECENT FIELD TRIP...
I HAVE A TERRIFYING STORY TO TELL! A STORY OF A DARING RESCUE!
2-7
A RESCUE FROM THE ROOF OF A BARN WHERE MY SWEETHEART WAS...
I'M NOT YOUR SWEETHEART!!
SCHULZ

B.C. by Johnny Hart



BEFORE WE START, ... ARE THERE ANY QUESTIONS?
TRUTH
WHAT WAS THE ANSWER?
2-7
hart

Local Television

8:00 3 THE JEFFERSONS
8 40 THE CAPTAIN AND TENNILLE SHOW
22 30 EMILY, EMILY
24 57 MEETING OF MINDS
32 38 NHL HOCKEY GAME
56 MOVIE "Arabesque"
8:30 3 BUSTING LOOSE
18 POP GOES THE COUNTRY
9:00 3 MAUDE
8 40 ABC MONDAY NIGHT MOVIE "How The West Was Won" Part II
24 57 THE PALLISERS
9:30 3 ALL'S FAIR
22 30 NBC MONDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES "Night Terror"
10:00 3 THE ANDROS TARGETS
24 SOUNDSTAGE
10:30 27 JOURNEY TO ADVENTURE
57 WOMAN
10:45 38 MOVIE "Laura"
11:00 3 8 22 24 30 40 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS
57 MARY HARTMAN, MARY HARTMAN
11:30 3 CBS LATE MOVIE "Kojak: The Chinatown Murders"
8 40 THE STREETS OF SAN FRANCISCO-DAN AUGUST
22 30 THE JOHNNY CARSON SHOW
56 NIGHT GALLERY
57 CAPTIONED ABC EVENING NEWS
12:00 18 DR. SCOTT ON HEBREWS
1:00 22 30 TOMORROW
1:30 3 NEWS
1:45 8 40 NEWS
2:00 22 30 NEWS

Your Birthday

by Stella Wilder

Monday, February 7 — Born today, you are one of those frank, outspoken individuals who makes friends in the same way that he makes enemies — through the power of words. You jolly along with lighthearted criticism those whom you know have a difficult time accepting criticism; you also know how to put a burr under the saddle of those who, through their own laziness or carelessness, do not produce as well or as much as they should. Demanding yet kind, insistent yet sympathetic, you would make an excellent figure of authority, for you would be able to get things done. Moreover, you would see that others got things done without simultaneously inciting them to irritation, anger, jealousy or any other defeatist kind of response to your urgings.

An innately modest person, you are inclined to wait for others to praise you rather than to blow your own horn. Yet you are generous in your praise of others, calling attention to other people's talents and ability, successes and prospects. You take a certain amount of pride and pleasure from the success of those whom you know, whether or not you have had anything to do with that success. That those others may not share your successes with the same feelings may cause you disappointment at times, but never any setback.

* * *

Tuesday, February 8

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Your alliance with another may cause considerable concern within home circles. Don't be surprised to find friends at arm's length.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — You can easily spoil another's plans and your own immediate future — unless you are willing to work in harness with other people.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Attempt to create for yourself and co-workers a happy environment; otherwise, today's work may not pan out as you had hoped.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Properly educate a newcomer to the workings of present endeavors. Don't be suspicious of strangers late in the day.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Attain your objectives early in the day and you will be able to enjoy surprising developments on the home scene at evening.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Aggression is required if you are to be able to employ the power within to achieve power without. Children keep a promise at evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Employ your own sense of justice to see that fairness is maintained in the making of decisions this morning. Afternoon hours bring a new view of things.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Learn to rely on your own judgment during morning hours and you will be able to take advantage of the situation arising during afternoon and evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Too much studying may cause you to miss out on the right moment to establish a rapport with a non-professional. Guard against isolation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Devote at least a few hours to involvements in activities that will take you out of doors. Afternoon hours bring contact with a friend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Perceptiveness is essential if you are not to be taken in by one seeking to gain the advantage due you because of special knowledge.

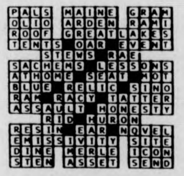
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Rely on your own best judgment when it comes to choosing a companion to share with you the benefits of a recent success.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Today's Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Friday's Puzzle Solved

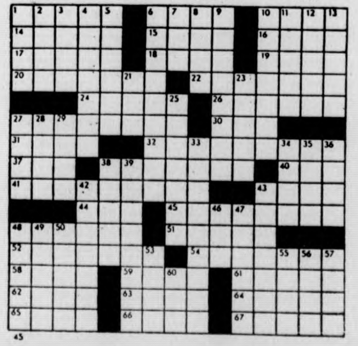


ACROSS

1 Work shoe of Europe
6 Suspension of movement
10 Outdoor game
14 Nutrition Prefix
15 Chinese isinglass
16 Great Lakes port
17 Less common
18 "Hello Dolly" character
19 Zola novel
20 Lawman
22 Puts grain in storage
24 Feminine name
26 Introduce into a text
27 Beans-spillers
30 Point
31 Area unit
32 N Amer capital 2 words
37 Sweet ---
38 Towards the center
40 French number
41 Artificial language
43 Puts in a mounting
44 Obstruction
45 Certain plane curves
48 Cunning
51 Sole of a plow
52 Certain waves
54 Corrected
58 Answer of the accused
59 Posing no difficulty
61 City of Turkey
62 Gone in time
63 Twist to the side
64 Choir member
65 Ending with off and pret
66 Request to go
67 Efface

DOWN

1 Ocean vessels Abbr
2 Irish exclamation
3 Dull person
4 Function effectively
5 Delight
6 Former Brit coin 2 words
7 Grow old
8 Bathe
9 Island off Venezuela
10 Genus of spiny shrubs
11 Scarflike vestment
12 Inner facing
13 Elaborate meal
21 "For shame!"
23 "The ----- of Kilimanjaro"
25 Sizable pieces of land
27 Ticker ----
28 Big tennis serves
29 Pitfall
33 Went by streetcar
34 Hints
35 Price of something
36 Promontory
38 Angry
39 Unidentified
42 Impart knowledge
43 Wastrel
46 Escape Slang
47 Think
48 Liberal
49 Art gallery
50 Braid of hair
53 Shoppers' mecca
55 Author-lawyer
56 Eve's grandson
57 Venture
60 --- Valley, Idaho



Swim teams take double dip

By MARK MARCHAND
Collegian Staff

For the first time in UMass athletic history, the UMass men's swim team was defeated Saturday by the University of Rhode Island.

The Minutemen were easily beaten, 70-42, at Boyden Pool in a meet that saw UMass win only five out of a possible 13 events.

The win boosted URI's record to 5-4 while dropping UMass' mark to 2-4 on the season.

Although the Minutemen lost, they had some great individual efforts, including Russ Yarworth's second record-breaking events. Yarworth, a junior, set a new record in the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 22.6 seconds, eclipsing the old record by 0.3 seconds. This wasn't enough for Yarworth, though, as he went on to garner first place in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 49.6 seconds.

Other winners for UMass included Ben Crooker in the 1,000-yard freestyle with a time of 10:53.9, Dave Boucher in the 200-yard breaststroke at a 2:19.4 clip, and Jim Antonino who placed first in the 3-meter springboard competition.

After the meet, UMass coach Bei Melamed said that he expected the loss but was optimistic about several of his younger swimmers who turned in their best times ever in their events.

By SCOTT BUNGARD
Collegian Staff

The roller-coaster season ride the UMass women's swimteam has on took a dip Saturday afternoon at Southern Connecticut. The final score read So. Conn. 80, UMass 51, and that wasn't all the bad news in store for coach Eve Atkinson and company.

The meet itself was not very close. So. Conn. was victorious in 80 per cent of the first place finishes, 31 per cent of the seconds and another 46 per cent of the total third place finishes.

Losing to Southern Connecticut lowered the UMies seasonal record once again to the .500 level, at an even 5-5.

On the positive side, several of the women swimmers performed well. Deb Schwartz was the lone double winner, capturing first place in the exhausting 500-yard freestyle heat, with a 5:41.27 time.

Joining Schwartz in the victorious 200 yard freestyle relay event were single winners Rachel Mack, Mary Ellen Butler, and Lise Hembrough. Their qualifying relay time was under the Eastern times standard of 1:49.70. Suzy Strobel was the other single event winner off the one-meter optional diving board with a fine point total of 159.

Oval team hurtin'

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

Coach Ken O'Brien must be shaking his head and wondering what he must do to get all of his top runners and jumpers in one piece for one meet. The UMass track team at least broke into the win column Saturday afternoon with a 50-33 triumph over New Hampshire. However, the Minutemen at the same time dropped a four-point decision to Rhode Island, 60-56, in dual meet competition held at URI.

The Rams of Rhode Island held a slim two-point edge heading into the final one and two-mile relays. But UMass's John Richards, Yankee Conference champion, while running the opening "leg" in the mile relay, pulled a calf muscle halfway through the race, to knock the now 1-5 Minutemen out of the mile race.

Not only is Richards out indefinitely but co-captain Ken Adamson, winner of the long jump, joined the injured list with a strained ligament. Adamson, winning the long jump at 23-2½, injured his leg on the last jump. Adamson, Richards, all-American cross country runner Mike Quinn, and the team's leading 600-yarder, Mark Healy, are all lost indefinitely.

"It's really tough when a good team loses its top personnel," said a disappointed Ken O'Brien.

O'Brien said that before the meet he was very optimistic about the health of all his players since two of his top performers, high jumper and mile relay anchorman Joe Martens and pole vaulter Ted Power, were returning to action.

OPEN AT RUSH
Β Κ Φ
THE BROTHERHOOD OF BETA KAPPA PHI FRATERNITY INVITES ALL U-MASS. MEN TO AN OPEN RUSH ON:
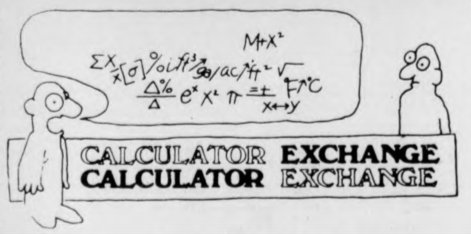
* MONDAY FEB. 7
* TUESDAY FEB. 8
* WEDNESDAY FEB. 9 AT 8:00 P.M.
AND
* SUNDAY FEB. 13 – AT 7:00 P.M.
REFRESHMENTS!!
COME OVER, MEET THE BROTHERS, AND SEE ALL THE ADVANTAGES U-MASS GREEK LIFE CAN OFFER AT
BETA KAPPA PHI 388 NORTH PLEASANT ST. (LARGE WHITE BRICK HOUSE) * CALL: 545-0210 -0211

MIAMI
from $99*
ROUND TRIP JET FLIGHTS
All programs completely bonded and government approved. . groups to join, now open to you individually. 35-day advanced purchase required. Spend less for the air, spend more when you're there! For SPECIAL rates, contact:
Spring Break March 21st-28th
CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
Campus Center 3rd level
Univ. of Mass 545-0500



M+X²
ΣX x[σ] %i ft³ 9a/ac ft² √ Δ% Δ eˣ x² π =± x↔y F↑C
CALCULATOR EXCHANGE
CALCULATOR EXCHANGE
Starts Today !
Bring your calculator in to sell or come in to buy calculators at great savings $
At the UNIVERSITY STORE
Campus Center

"WE'RE GOING TO GLORIA STEVENS FOREVER"

Lorna Halpern and her daughter, Susan, 21, exercise daily at a Gloria Stevens Figure Salon. They go to Gloria Stevens not because they had to lose weight but because, with daily exercise: "we feel so good." Susan is a senior at the University of Massachusetts, majoring in elementary education. Mother and daughter both say: "We're going to Gloria Stevens forever."
INTRODUCTORY OFFER
6 weeks for $25
*At All Participating Salons
Fun Exercise Plan ★ No Contracts to Sign
Diets Compiled Exclusively by Our Dietitian
No Disrobing ★ Individual Programming
Gloria Stevens® FIGURE SALONS
New England's Largest Franchised Weight Control System
Mountain Farms Mall Rt. 9 Hadley
CALL NOW 584-0105
Hours Mon. thru Fri. 9 to 9 Sat. 9 to 3

Orange see red in the gym

By RICH ECKEL
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's gymnastics team reached the pinnacle of its season Saturday afternoon as it totaled over 200 points for the first time and easily defeated a mediocre Syracuse squad, 200.05-175.2, at Boyden gymnasium.

The Minutemen reached their season-high total by sweeping the six individual exercises and placing one, two, three in the all-around competition. Although pleased with his team's performances, coach Dick Swetman still feels there is room for improvement.

"We have to get stronger," said Swetman. "The technique is there, but towards the end of a match we're becoming too tired. We'll be working on endurance exercises over the next couple of weeks," he added.

Angelo Scuderi captured the all-around competition as he totaled 50.85 points on the afternoon. Scuderi scored over eight in all six exercises, with his best performances being on the rings (8.75) and the parallel bars (8.60).

Teammates Paul and Steve Marks followed close behind Scuderi with overall scores of 49.10 and 48.60, respectively. The brothers combined for two of the three scores which were judged deserving of marks 9.0 or better. Steve received a 9.1 in the vaulting phase of the competition and Paul a 9.05 on the high bars. Dave Kulakoff added a 9.0 for his efforts on the pommel horse, "a real strong performance," praised Swetman.

Before the match Swetman was concerned about his team's talent in the parallel bar event, and thought it might be a deciding factor in the meet. But the Minutemen surprised him as they totaled 34-70 points in both the vault and parallel bar exercises.

Other strong performances for the Minutemen included a nice effort by Frank Cohen on the high bars, the last event of the competition. Along with his 9.1 in the vaulting exercise, Steve Marks added scores of 8.8 on the pommel horse and 7.85 on the high bar.

Brother Paul attained more consistent scores as he countered with big efforts in the floor exercise (8.40) and pommel horse (8.25).

The victory raised UMass' record to 4-2, while the loss dropped Syracuse's seasonal record to 0-4.

SPECIAL
3 for 2
Cleaning Offer
Your Garments Receive The Same High Quality Drycleaning—Only The Price Is Lower. ACT NOW
SEND 3 GARMENTS PAY FOR 2 GARMENTS GET 1 FREE!
SEND 6 GARMENTS PAY FOR 4 GET 2 CLEANED FREE
SEND 9 GARMENTS PAY FOR 6 GET 3 CLEANED FREE
(Least Expensive Garment In Order Is The Free One. All Suits Considered As One Garment.)
Braff's Royl Cleaners
103 N. Pleasant Street (across from Louis's Foods)
430 Federal St., Greenfield 130 Main St., Greenfield 256-8288

Ski now!
ALWAYS SNOW & SKIING AT Killington VERMONT
SKI REPORT. CALL TOLL FREE: (800) 451-4301
CENTRAL LODGING RESERVATIONS: (802) 422-3333
LOCATED IN EASY TO REACH CENTRAL VERMONT · US 4 & Vt 100

COLLEGE WEEK AT KILLINGTON
FEB. 14-18
30 per cent OFF day tickets and 5-day packages. College ID needed
Ski 4 mountains, 52 trails, 11 lifts

UMass sports scoop

FRIDAY'S RESULTS
VARSITY HOCKEY — Merrimack 6 UMass 2
VARSITY BASKETBALL — West Virginia 91 UMass 70

SATURDAY'S RESULTS
VARSITY HOCKEY — Vermont 4 UMass 2
VARSITY WOMEN'S BASKETBALL — UMass 82 Brown 56
VARSITY MEN'S SWIMMING — Rhode Island 72 UMass 40
VARSITY WOMEN'S SWIMMING — Southern Connecticut 80 UMass 51
VARSITY MEN'S GYMNASTICS — UMass 200.05 Syracuse 175.2
JUNIOR VARSITY HOCKEY — UMass 5 Williams 3
VARSITY WRESTLING — Postponed
VARSITY WOMEN'S GYMNASTICS — Postponed

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
VARSITY BASKETBALL — UMass 75 Pittsburgh 71

TODAY
None

★ Icemen sing blues

CONT. FROM PAGE 16

mistake of playing the man instead of the puck. Kittredge tried to take Louis Cote out of the play, but Cote's long pass bounced off the boards to Jim Duffy, who found himself in alone on Dana Redmond with Tom Colby. All Duffy had to do to tie the score was to slide the puck over to his teammate, which he did.

Randy Koch, with assists to Colby and John Glynne, gave the vistors a 3-2 lead at 3:06 of the third period.

THE AWARD WINNING
DOCTOR ZHIVAGO
starring
OMAR SHARIFF
ALEC GUINNESS
JULIE CHRISTIE
Wednesday, February 9th
Campus Center Aud. Admission $1.00

MCAT
LSAT
Our 38th Year
Classes offered in:
AMHERST!
Call or write us at
25 Huntington Ave.
Boston 02116
(617) 261-5150
or better yet call our local Rep!
Susan Taub
542-3392 after 2.
Also DAT. GMAT, GRE, SAT, OCAT VAT, National Medical Boards
Stanley H. KAPLAN
EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION
SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938
Branches in major US cities

Get your Kawasaki
ready for the
"Good Times"
this Spring.
Valley
Motorsports Inc.
348 King St.
Northampton
584-7303

STUDENTS — FACULTY
learn to
RIDE • SHOW • HUNT • EVENT
at
MOUNT HOLYOKE COLLEGE STABLES
Heated Indoor Ring
127 - Beginning Riding - M-W 4 pm, M-W 5 pm, T-Th 4 pm
227 - Intermediate Riding - M-W 10 am, T-Th 9 am
327 - Advanced Intermediate - M-W 9 am, M-W 1 pm T-Th 10 am, T-Th 2 pm
427 - Advanced Riding - (prerequisite 327) T-Th 1pm
427 - Advanced Riding - (prerequisite 427) T-Th 3 pm
342 - Elementary Dressage - (prerequisite 327 level) T-Th 11 am
Fees: 2 lessons per week $125 per semester, 3 lessons per week $175. per semester. Unlimited riding plus 3 hours instruction per week $275 per semester.
Registration: Feb. 2 & 3 at Stable, or Feb. 4 11am-3:30 pm at Kendall Hall. Classes start Feb. 7 & 8. All Fees paid in advance to Mr. Moffat, Riding Master. Master Charge accepted.
Silver Street, South Hadley - Call for info 538-2493

TUES. NITE FEB. 8th is GUSTO NITE
at
Time out

Novelty item drawn on the hour, every hour — starting at 9 p.m.-1 a.m.
ITEMS:
Schlitz Beach Mats
Large Beer Cooler
Thermo Can Holders
Large Milwaukee Wall Signs
Schlitz World Wall Signs
Knit Ski Hats
Schlitz Draft 12 oz. 30¢
37 N. PLEASANT AVE., AMHERST

Hoopmen happy with weekend trip despite big defeat

By BOB HIGGINS
Collegian Staff

PITTSBURGH — A 21-point loss and a last-second win over a 4-15 team. Hardly the definition of a successful road trip.

But for Jack Leaman and his UMass basketball squad, the many miles traveled to West Virginia and Pennsylvania this weekend were considered well worth the effort. The trip showed a lot of things about this UMass team, and Leaman hopes they're a sign of things to come.

Friday night, the Minutemen played evenly with a tough West Virginia squad before being left in the dust in the last 10 minutes for a 91-70 loss.

But yesterday, an Alex Eldridge hoop with two seconds left gave UMass a narrow 75-71 win over the University of Pittsburgh in what Leaman called "the best game" we've played all year from start to finish."

The weekend also showcased the re-emergence of Mike Pyatt as a consistent, dominant offensive force. The junior forward led the Minutemen with 19 points against West Virginia, and yesterday he put together the finest offensive showing of his career, pouring in 31 points to down the Panthers.

But it took Eldridge's late heroics to pull out yesterday's squeaker. Pitt, trailing by ten (67-57) with eight minutes left, fought back behind all-America candidate Larry Harris (25 points). A Harris jumper with 2:54 remaining tied the game at 71.

Neither team scored for the next two minutes as UMass went into a semi-stall, and suddenly Eldridge had the ball at the top of the key with 10 seconds left.

It was then that Eldridge decided to go to the hoop. "One-on-one is what I do best," said Eldridge after the game. The coach took me out earlier because he thought I was doing too much one-on-one so I figured this was my chance to show him."

Eldridge drove, spun into the lane, and put in the short jumper. Pitt called time, but threw away a length-of-the-court pass. Pyatt jumped one for the final score.

Yesterday's game also displayed some fine work from the previously unheard-from UMass bench. "We owe that game to (Bill) Morrison, (George) Dunnerlein, and (Len) Kohlhaas," said Leaman. The three entered the game with UMass down by eight, and when Eldridge, Jim Town, and Mark Donoghue all finally returned to the lineup late in the first half, the Panther lead was down to two.

Refereeing, perplexing to UMass throughout the trip, was especially strange at both ends yesterday. The Minutemen went to the foul line just eight times, while the Panthers made just three trips, and two of these for technicals.

Friday night's game turned on one player — West Virginia guard Tony Robertson. With the Mountaineers leading, 60-58, with 9:05 left, Robertson went on a tear, scoring eight of WVU's next 12 points. As Robertson heated up, the Minutemen got cold, and suddenly WVU was on top, 72-60.

"We played a good game for 30 minutes," said Leaman. "Then the mistakes came. The mistakes caused us to lose our poise."

Robertson scored just two points in the first half and 21 in the second.

"I had good shots in the first half, but they just weren't going in," said Robertson. Robertson and his teammates shot just 37 per cent from the floor in the first half.

Alex Eldridge passes off to Mark Donoghue under heavy pressure from Pitt. Eldridge's hoop with two seconds left gave the Minutemen a victory over the Panthers yesterday. (Staff photo by Jay Saret)

The Minutemen did a little better than that (43 per cent) in the first half, and took an early lead. An eight-point spurt, sparked by two Derick Clairborne (13 points) jumpers, put the Minutemen ahead 14-8.

But the Mountaineers, with guard Bob Huggins hitting for 13 first half points, quickly erased that lead, and neither team could go up by more than five until WVU's late surge.

Huggins, who finished with 20 points (including 10 of 10 from the line), laid one in just before the halftime buzzer to give his squad a 39-37 edge.

One blowout and another blown lead. But Leaman refused to dwell on the bad things. "We're starting to play some real outstanding basketball," said the coach.

"Bob Huggins is my kind of player", said Leaman. "Some of the things he does don't show up in the box score, but he can do a thousand things to beat you."

Town ("One of his worst nights, and it showed in the final score" — Leaman) hit just two of 10 against West Virginia, but did manage to grab 15 rebounds. Town was held to 12 points against Pittsburgh.

Collegian Sports

Pucksters despair; weekend is washout

By FRAN SYPEK
and TOM CROWLEY
Collegian Staff

It was another one of those frustrating weekends for the UMass hockey team as the Minutemen were beaten by Merrimack and Vermont, dropping their overall record to 6-7-1.

Merrimack came into town Friday night and defeated the puckmen for the second time this season, 6-2. The following night UMass surprised Division I Vermont by playing the Catamounts even for two periods, but two third period goals destroyed the Minutemen's chance to pull an upset, as Vermont triumphed, 4-2.

"The team played real good hockey these last two nights," said Minutemen coach Jack Canniff. "That's the kind of hockey we're capable of playing."

Merrimack College relied on a three-goal first period on goals by Murray Scudder (9:43), Frank Hanley (10:37), and a power play point drive by Jim Crouse (16:29).

Despite the final score, the game was much closer as UMass skated with the 15-1 Division II team. While outshot in the first frame, the Minutemen came on in the second period as they scored two goals and outshot the visitors, 16-10.

After a goal by Randy Curran at 3:39 of the second period, Nick Carney took a pass from Chris Lamby and beat Jim DeSimone from his left side. The score at 4:29 made it 4-1 Merrimack.

Tom Kilduff scored for the visitors 36 seconds later as his slap shot went off Dana Redmond's stick and into the net. Brian Kittredge made the score 5-2 at 10:47 of the middle period as he fired a slapshot past DeSimone's right side from about forty feet out.

The score stayed that way until the 16:59 mark of the third period when Scudder got his second goal of the game on a wrist shot from 15 feet out on the left slot.

While the final score read 6-2, it could have easily have been 5-4 or 5-5. UMass failed several times in the first period to put points on the board when it had the chance. It also blew a couple of opportunities in the second frame.

"We got our opportunities, we made our opportunities, but we just didn't finish them off," Canniff said after the game. "We should have gone to the well a few more times.

"They got a couple of goals they shouldn't have and we should have gotten a few more goals."

Besides being closer than it seemed, the game was fast and clean as UMass had only four penalties and Merrimack had two.

Saturday's game wasn't even a minute old when Mike Merchant gave UMass a 1-0 lead over Vermont. Frank Snow and Carl Burns assisted on the play at 0:49.

The Minutemen played well in the period, looking especially sharp when they were shorthanded. But with only 39 seconds left in the period, Vermont's Michael Lebeau scored a powerplay goal with assists going to Jim Duffy and Bill McAlduff.

The beginning of the second stanza was almost a carbon copy of the first one as the Snow-Merchant-Burns line combined for an early goal to give UMass a one goal lead. The trio skated down ice with the puck after the faceoff with Snow popping the puck in at 0:16.

Vermont tied the game at 2-2 at 11:23 when Minutemen defenseman Brian Kittredge made the

TURN TO PAGE 15

Rimwomen keep rolling along; breeze to eighth straight win

By JOHN LOWNEY
Collegian Staff

Saturday's UMass women's basketball game wasn't artistic, and if the Minutewomen were not playing a snow-delayed Brown team, they probably would not have fared as well as they did.

The Minutewomen did manage to develop the hot hand often enough to defeat the Bruins, 82-56, for their eighth consecutive victory. Their steady pressure defense produced several scoring outbursts, preventing Brown from reaching striking distance.

The opening minutes of the game brought to the sparse crowd the Sue Peters show. The flashy guard used her quick hands to rattle the Brown backcourt, resulting in several breakaway layups and unmolested jump shots.

Peters' amazing shooting display produced 16 points in seven minutes. She scored 10 points before Brown hit once as UMass jumped out to a quick lead. It looked like another rout.

The Minutewomen were not playing with the smooth style which has typified their top efforts this season. Coach Mary Ann Ozdarski substituted freely and the reserves looked better than the starters. Forward Maura Supinski and center Ginny Peebles dominated the inside game against their smaller opponents.

UMass gained a 13-point halftime lead for two reasons: its superior depth and greater height. Brown went with only six players while UMass was able to keep fresh people in the lineup. The Bruins never got inside, as their small forwards could do nothing against the Minutewomen combinations.

All UMass had to do in the second half was to sustain its lead. Because Nancy O'Neil and Lu-Ann Fletcher had contributed very little to the first half offense, a lead increase seemed inevitable.

It did not happen, though, as UMass could hit only a couple of baskets in the first eight minutes. Brown's equally inept offense kept the Minutewomen ahead, but their stale play was enough to scare any coach.

Finally, O'Neil (15 points) began to hit her inside shots. Lynn Johnson (14) hit twice from the outside to close the Bruins within ten. Then O'Neil and Peters went to work, turning Brown inbounds passes into ten straight points.

Now that UMass had retained some breathing room, Ozdarski inserted her supersubs. Maura Supinski (seven points, 10 rebounds) played a strong inside game while Cheryl Carey (13 points) struck from the corners.

Whenever a team "struggles" to a 26-point win, it indicates its strength. Ozdarski was not satisfied with her team's play, however.

"We were just on and off," she said. "The way we started in the first ten minutes or so, I wondered if the game was worth scheduling."

Ozdarski was impressed with her team's bench strength, as Carey, Supinski and Peebles all played key roles in the win. "They're coming," she said. "We have some much improved players now."

UMASS (82) — Basile 1-0-2, O'Neil 6-3-15, Fletcher 2-2-6, Peters 10-0-20, Henry 2-0-4, Balletta 1-0-2, Supinski 3-1-7, Carey 6-1-13, Peebles 2-0-4, McHugh 3-0-6, Martinelli 1-0-2, Hutchinson 1-0-2. Totals: 38-6-82.

BROWN (56) — Young 3-0-6, Schlaefer 2-2-6, Joyce 4-4-12, Johnson 7-0-14, Stratton 6-0-12, Beil 2-0-4. Totals: 25-6-56.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVI, ISSUE 81 TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1977
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/ Amherst, MA. 01003/ (413) 545-3500

Selectmen support budget request

By TERESA M. HANAFIN
Collegian Staff

The Amherst Board of Selectmen last night voted to draft a memorandum for their next meeting in support of the UMass budget proposal for the Amherst campus.

Citing the great economic impact the University has on the Town of Amherst, Chairperson Nancy Eddy said the possible trimming of the UMass budget by the Mass. State Legislature "probably has more effect on the economy of this region than any other single thing."

Eddy said the University was by far the largest employer in the area, employing approximately 5000 persons and returning benefits to Amherst in the form of wages.

UMass President Robert C. Wood has proposed a budget of $76,376,000 for the Amherst campus for fiscal year 1978, while Gov. Michael S. Dukakis' recommendation is for level-funding of $68,088,000 — the exact amount the University was granted in fiscal year 1977.

It was decided by the board to draft a joint legislative statement in cooperation with other towns in the area supporting the budget that has been proposed by UMass.

Eddy said the statement was necessary because of what she termed a "severe situation", with Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery projecting layoffs of 500 to 700 persons from the staff at UMass if the governor's proposal is adopted by the legislature.

In other business, the board approved one day wine and malt license for a $20 fee for Cance dormitory for a dorm party Friday night; Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity open house, also Friday night; Pi Lambda Phi fraternity "Happy House" Friday afternoon; Upsilon Mu chapter of Zeta Psi fraternity for a post-football game Saturday; and Kappa Theta fraternity of Amherst College for a charity event Feb. 19.

The board also approved one-day wine and malt licenses for a $10 fee for 12 events all concerts, at the Fine Arts Center. The dates are Friday, Saturday, Feb. 18, 27, March 11, 12, 15, 30, April 4, 19, 28, and May 10.

Granted also were one-day wine and malt licenses for six showings of the opera "Mother of Us All" at the Center, to be presented Feb. 24, 25, 26, and March 3, 4, and 5. A license was also approved for the showing of a Sunday Entertainment Play at Bowker Auditorium.

An elevated fire truck for the high-rise dormitories of Southwest was the subject of some discussion during the fiscal year 1978 Operating Budget discussions for the town. Eddy said she received a call from State Rep. James G. Collins saying the hearings were held yesterday in Boston. Eddy urged the board to come to a decision over whether to support the truck, taking into consideration the cost of the truck and the extra personnel needed to operate the vehicle.

Eddy said the University was considering putting sprinklers in the high-rises, and therefore approval of the truck would be a waste of money of the sprinklers were put in cheaper.

The Amherst Board of Selectmen voted last night to support President Wood's budget request. (Staff photo by David Olken)

Fee increase recommendation refused

By STEVE TETREAULT
Collegian Staff

The SGA Rents and Fees committee last night refused to recommend a $7 increase in the Student Activity Trust Fund (SATF) tax, and at the same time voted to ask SGA co-presidents Jay Martus and Paul Cronin to call a student referendum on the proposed increase.

Martus, who was present at the meeting, said he would be "very receptive to a referendum."

On a motion by member Steve Sundook, the committee unanimously voted to recommend that the SGA reject the SATF increase, which would bring that student fee up to $62.50 per year. The fee has not been raised for the past three years.

The SATF is the activity fee paid by all undergrads, and is used to provide student services, such as the Collegian, WMUA, and the Student Senate Bus Service.

The increase has been proposed by SGA Treasurer Thomas Kerrins, who claims that the fund will not meet last year's total, due to cost of living increases, inflation, and an estimated drop in university enrollment next year. The proposed increase was passed last week by the SGA Budget Committee, and is due before the Student Senate at this Wednesday's meeting.

However, the entire matter will be shelved if the SGA co-presidents call for a referendum.

At last night's meeting, the Rents and Fees Committee planned to challenge Kerrins this Wednesday to supply more information on the increase, specifically, the committee said it wanted to know where, if any, cuts could be made in each group that receives SATF funds in order to avoid the fee increase; and also a more complete breakdown of the seven dollar increase. The committee will also ask about unappropriated surpluses in past SATF funds.

Rents and Fees chairman, Peter D. Graham, argued against the increase, on both financial and political grounds. "If we increase this student fee, we won't have much leverage in fighting tuition increases and budget cuts on Beacon Hill. They'll laugh and say 'How can you justify our increases if you increase your fee.' "

Graham said the SATF increase proposal suffered from "a gross lack of information." Graham said he expected Kerrins to be at the meeting to defend his proposal. Kerrins, contacted by the Collegian, said he told Graham he would not attend. Graham told committee members last night that Kerrins was not present because he "is at a class."

Kerrins said he refused to attend the meeting for political reasons.

"The committee has no idea of what's inside the budget. They are voting on this out of ignorance," Kerrins said.

He said he is prepared to defend his proposal before the entire Student Senate.

Kerrins also said he was in favor of a referendum, only "if the Rents and Fees Committee go to the administration and put every other proposed fee increase on a referendum." A tuition and fee increase may raise undergraduate costs over $271 next year.

Jay Milander, SGA Budget Committee chairman, told the Collegian last night that the SATF tax must be increased. "There are some activities that you just can't cut. There are a certain amount of fixed costs." Milander said that the seven dollar increase is a maximum figure. "The way things are, though, we need at least a four dollar increase," he said.

In other matters, Martus informed the committee on the present status of check cashing on campus. He said that Campus Center cash handling (University store money for example) would be shifted from its present site next to the Post Office in the Student Union to the space at the bottom of the Campus Center escalators where the Video Project is now housed. Student check cashing would be handled strictly by the Bursar's office.

He also said that the Bursar's office is planning to relocate in Goodell this summer, and that negotiations will be underway to continue a check cashing service in that building.

University responds to plans for New England vet school

By MARTHA KIMBALL
Collegian Staff

Students and faculty here on campus are expressing delight and satisfaction regarding the decision of the Tufts University Board of Trustees to proceed with plans for the proposed New England School of Veterinary Medicine. Yet many were pessimistic about gaining financial support from UMass and the state legislature.

Over the weekend, the Tufts University Board of Trustees voted to continue the planning for the proposed New England School of Veterinary Medicine. This would be the first regional veterinary school in the nation. The present plans require commitments for state financial support of sufficient numbers of New England students in all six states. If all conditions are met, the board could vote sometime in 1978 to admit the first class the following year.

Professor Russell E. Smith, UMass pre-vet advisor, stated that he has "watched the vet school situation for over 30 years and this is the first time I have seen anything so concrete take place. I'm pleased with the idea; anyone who begins a vet school has my blessing."

Smith went on to explain, "this increases the chances for Massachusetts students to enter veterinary school threefold." Last year the ratio was 5 to 1 regarding acceptance of UMass students to vet schools, in the United States. Perhaps this regional school will lower this ratio to at least 3 to 1, which is the present ratio of students applying and being accepted to medical school.

Professor Anthony Borton, dept. of Animal Science, commented, "A New England vet school will open up many opportunities for students. There is a terrific need for such a school." He said he hopes students do not raise too many false hopes. Borton continued, "I'm very pessimistic about university and state legislation. The veterinarian profession doesn't benefit from a strong lobby, there is no organized body to apply pressure."

He added that UMass President Robert C. Wood "has not given much interest to veterinary medicine education at UMass even though there is a great need." President Wood could not be reached for comment last night.

Borton commented that the Tufts' plan calls upon state cooperation for providing facilities. "It might cost $1 ½-2 million to build the needed facilities, but the benefits would be endless," he said.

Dean John W. Denison, dean of the Stockbridge School of Agriculture, said, "It's a strong step in the right direction." Denison continued, "A study will have to be made as to how well the state universities can utilize their facilities without a lot of added cost. The taxpayer will probably look at it with blurry eyes, but I hope people will see that it's a good thing and realize its need is great."

Faculty vote today, tomorrow

The faculty vote for either the Massachusetts Society of Professors or no agent in today and tomorrow's collective bargaining run-off election will be held in Campus Center rooms 168 to 172 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The election is being supervised by the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission both here and at the UMass-Boston campus.

police beat

Man escapes unharmed after brush with assailant

By MICHAEL McHUGH
Collegian Staff

A male student was attacked by a knife-wielding assailant early Sunday morning near John Quincy Adams dormitory in Southwest.

Saul Chafin, assistant director of the UMass Department of Public Safety, said, "the student was returning home after a party when he was struck by an unknown assailant. He was subsequently kicked and shoved into the bushes. The assailant then produced a knife, whereupon the student screamed for help. A group of males came to the student's aid and the assailant fled. The student suffered a contusion of the right temple, lacerations inside the mouth, and a broken tooth. The incident is currently under investigation."

The 15th floor of the UMass library was the scene of an alleged indecent exposure on January 26.

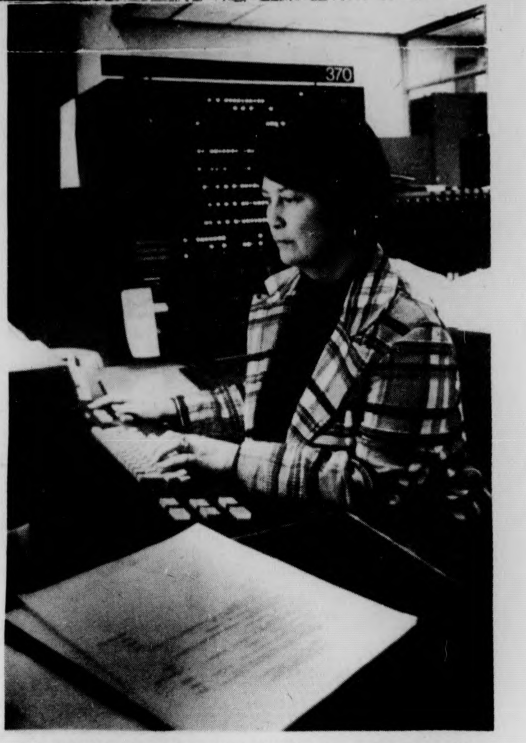
Sargent Donald Zidik of the UMass Department of Public Safety, said that Nathaniel Zinsser of Main Street, Amherst, pleaded "not guilty" to charges of indecent exposure on February 3, at Hampshire County Court House. Zidik added that Zinsser received a continuance until February 8 (today).

A gas leak in Tower A of the Graduate Research Center, necessitated the evacuation of students from the building on Friday, February 4 at 2:13 p.m.

Don Robinson of the UMass Department of Environmental Health and Safety, ordered the evacuation after determining that smell which lasted 40-minutes on the 7th floor was a natural gas leak. Berkshire Gas Company Officials were able to locate and identify the leak as a gas jet left-open in room 501. The G.R.C. was re-opened at 3:30 p.m. on the same day.

On February 4 at 1:20 a.m., a woman was picked up in the Campus Center, because she was wanted by Northampton Police on a "default warrant". Sargent Zidik explained that Maureen E. Daley of Greenfield, Mass. had apparently failed to show up on her appointed court date, which necessitated the warrant.

A one car accident on Governor's Drive on February 6 around 5:20 a.m. resulted in the arrest of James P. Phillips of 55 Grant St., East Hampton. According to Chafin, "the subject's car had gone off the road and was found to be under the influence and was subsequently arrested."



Computer operator Joan Molitoris processes add-drop forms at the Information Processing Center in Whitmore. The add-drop deadline was yesterday. (Staff photo by David Olken)

Sylvan president resigns

By JANIS B. FINSTEIN
Collegian Staff

Gail N. Syphers said last night her resignation as president of the Sylvan Area Government (SAG) "had really nothing to do with the government." Mark Machler, the area government vice president, resigned Jan. 30.

"I'm not dissatisfied with the government," Syphers said. "Basically, the main reason I left is because I'll be graduating in May and came up against other obstacles and commitments that I have. I undertook too many tasks at once."

Machler simply said he had become interested in other activities.

SAG Treasurer John Jacobs, who was elected with Syphers and Machler in September, will be organizing with Secretary Bill Shewchuck, upcoming elections to replace both people.

During a meeting Sunday, area government members voted to hold elections Feb. 16 from 4 to 8 p.m. in the lobbies of each of the three Sylvan dormitories to fill these and other vacancies in the SAG.

At this time Sylvan residents will also be voting on a referendum to determine whether the Sylvan Cultural Society, the area's Third World center, will have voting representatives in the area government.

Currently the SAG has $1,640 in unallocated funds from $11,637 it was allocated by the Undergraduate Student Senate at the beginning of this fiscal year according to Jacobs.

He added, there is "quite a bit" of money that while allocated, has not been spent. Groups funded by the SAG include WSYL radio and TV, the Cultural Society, and the area's newspaper, The Parchment.

Jacobs said SAG received $1200 at the end of last semester to pay area student employes, including the SAG president and vice president and the engineer and director of WSYL radio and TV. He said SAG members are still trying to determine how the money should be allocated and said the people holding these positions last semester will probably be paid for their services retroactively.

Before last semester, these salaries were available through a state account for student employes. The $1200 is coming from the Program Support Fund through the Northeast-Sylvan Student Affairs Office.

Reflecting on her term in office last semester, Syphers says, "The only regret I have is that things started off late. It took a while for the area to get things together."

"Because of that, perhaps not as many events came about as I would have liked to have seen," she said.

She said she also hoped more social events such as the Spring Weekend and the "traditional" Big Bad Boogie, both already being planned, would come off successfully this semester.

Central Area Gov't. director requests more vending money

By JOE QUINLAN
Collegian Staff

Area director William Taylor told the Central Area Government he would like to see student access to the Program Support Funds, since these monies are derived from the vending machines located in the dorms.

Since he inherited a debt ranging from ten to fifteen thousand dollars, Taylor wasn't sure how much money will be allocated for the PSF. However, he did speculate that up to 40 per cent of the funds will be earmarked for the academic programs in the area, while 4-5 per cent would be retained by the area administration for unforeseen crises.

Taylor proposed that the remainder of the money could be distributed among the dorms, per capita, to be spent for dorm program activity run by the students under the supervision of the heads of residents.

He also promised that security problems which had arisen from some serious vandalism at Brook House last semester would be clarified to avoid any repeat in the future.

CAG also listened to a presentation which outlined the new Area Academic Council, which would oversee the curriculum activities in Orchard Hill and Central. This committee would meet twice a month and would be responsible for a course description guide for the area, recruitment of professors, regulation of colloquia, and the sponsoring of nightly academic events with guest speakers. A motion to support the committee passed clearly.

Plans for a search committee to choose a successor to Mark Richardson, who is quitting his Artisan Resident position at Greenough, were initiated by CAG president Janice Perry. Applicants should be University undergraduates experienced with leatherwork, ceramics, photography, and other aspects of craftsmanship.

The CAG granted Richardson a $37 movie grant for an arts movie he will be showing as part of the Central Area sponsored crafts fair, to be held at the SUB March 3rd and 4th. Any students wishing to sell their crafts are asked to call Richardson at 5-2638.

Another movie guarantee was granted to Greenough for its March 4th showing of Woody Allen's "The Front."

Another motion passed to fund $310 for a weekend cross country ski trip to Breton Woods. New Hampshire.

TODAY'S STAFF

Issue Editor	Philip A. Milstein
Assistant Issue Editor	Linda Ullmann
Copy Desk	Ann Murphy
Day Layout	Linda Zoino
Photo Staff	David Olken, Jon Sher, Mark Rubin
Sports Layout	Fran Sypek, Bob Haskel
Ad Layout	Lee Ilinitch

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

	Semester	Year
Off-campus delivery	$9	$15
On campus delivery	$5	$ 9
Newsstand price	$.10
Faculty staff	$.05

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst and additional mailing in Ware, Mass. 01082. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Shuster takes over as OHAG president

By LAWRENCE HIRSHBERG
Collegian Staff

Gary Shuster took over as Orchard Hill Area Government president Sunday night, replacing Deborah Love, who is now attending Antioch College in Washington D.C.

In a letter to OHAG, Love asked for support for Shuster and called for a continuation of the battle against racism and sexism on Orchard Hill.

Shari Levitan, secretary of OHAG, said the first they heard of Love's move was at the beginning of the semester.

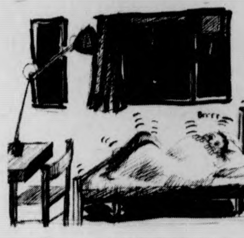
At the first OHAG meeting of the semester on Sunday night, a motion was passed allocating $25 to the campus recycling project now operating on the hill. Also passed was a motion changing the weekly meetings from Tuesday to Sunday nights.

Finishing up some business from last semester, OHAG gave the Third World Center $250 for an upcoming play being produced for Black History Week. The Third World Center had asked for $400, but upon examination it was found that $250 would be sufficient.

Also proposed, but not yet confirmed, was the help in funding International Women's Week in March. $100 was requested, but the funds will need SGA approval before they can be voted on.

ORCHARD HILL

Field House feels the cold



By LAWRENCE HIRSHBERG
Collegian Staff

Residents of Field Dormitory in Orchard Hill have complained of practically no heat since the cold weather started this semester.

Complaints have been registered with head of residence, Marion Shoettle, and directly to the Physical Plant by the students affected.

Employes of the Physical Plant have been to Field to check out the problem, but as of Monday there was still not heat in many rooms.

Residents wear hats, sweatshirts and often mittens indoors, and dressing in the morning is extremely uncomfortable.

John Hoffman, of physical plant technical staff, said that the problem is being caused by either poor heating circulation, or by students piling things on the radiators. He said that his people had indeed checked out the problem, but in many cases found rooms with open windows, or no problem at all. Also, Hoffman believes the lack of heat is isolated to rooms, not whole corridors as is often reported.

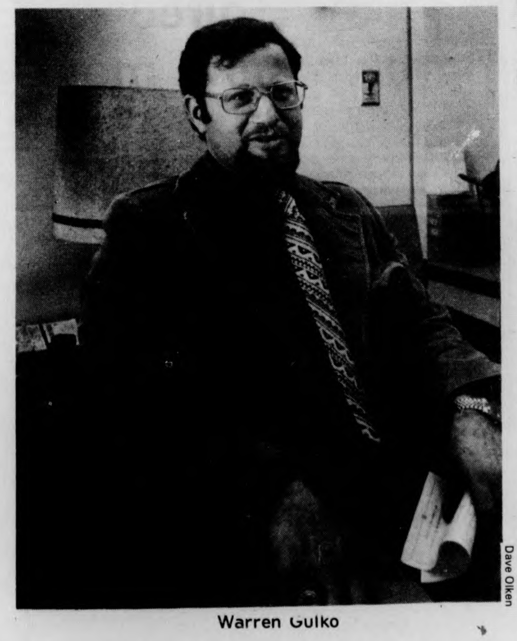
Lisa Masterson, a Field resident, said that her heat had been "broken" for the last four semesters. She was issued a space heater, which she said was "good only for foot warming." The space heater caused an electrical fire in her room last December, but only the heater was damaged, Masterson said.

John Mulrey, another Field resident, has been visited by Physical Plant crew twice, once on January 22, and again about two days later. He also has a space heater, but said, "The room is still freezing."

Masterson and Mulrey said they feel the problem should be alleviated or a refund of their money should be made. Schoettle reinforced the feeling that rent compensation should be made.

When asked how long there had been no heat, Schoettle said that the problem had been there in September, when she took over as Field head of residence. She has called physical plant many times, and said they have been good about responding.

Jill Godaire skates softly while carrying a big stick. The scene was the campus pond. (Staff photo by David Olken)



Dave Olken

Warren Gulko

UMass registration down; drop may not affect budget

By EILEEN CUSHING
Collegian Staff

Following a nationwide trend of declining university enrollments in 1976, UMass registrations for this year are down some 1500 students from 1975. However, this drop in enrollment is not expected to affect the University budget and the proposed budget cuts for next year.

Dr. Warren Gulko, budget director for UMass stated, "the recent drops in UMass enrollment will have no appreciable impact on next year's budget. The state government largely controls the budget and enrollment is not a major consideration in the budget at this time."

It is already well known that Governor Dukakis has proposed as much as $6 million in budget cuts for UMass next year. Gulko does draw some connection between the budget and enrollment figures however.

"If the cuts go through, this, in itself, may affect future enrollment at UMass," Gulko asserted. "The cuts will strike the personnel accounts at UMass. This means cutbacks everywhere in the University. There will be larger classes, fewer professors and students may be less inclined to apply here or stay here. There are few things as frustrating as trying to sign up for a course and finding it oversubscribed."

This may justify lower future enrollments at UMass, but Robert Doolan, director of admissions has a different explanation for the recent decline at UMass. Doolan cites most of the 1500-student decline as the result of a general tightening of academic standards at the University during 1975.

At this time, according to Doolan, the University began to average grades of "F" into students' cumulative averages, as well as to institute a minimum of twelve-credit work-load. With the new standard, hundreds of students found themselves on academic probation; nearly 1000 were suspended last June and 500 more were suspended in January (1977).

According to Doolan, this problem, and not a lack of applications has accounted for the drop in UMass enrollment. He estimated the number of applications for last year to be approximately the same as the previous year, with only a slight drop. By any means, Doolan can see no shortage of students for UMass next year. Although there has been a significant drop in applications by prospective freshmen, Doolan explained that there are still plenty of applications coming in at a rate of 1000 a week and that the University will have no trouble in maintaining its annually large freshmen class.

"By next year at this time," Doolan stated, "we hope to have enrollment back up to the normal level, but it's a gradual process and we're working the level upward slowly."

In trying to explain the 30 per cent decline in applications for next year, Doolan cited the increased bureaucratic hassles that a prospective student must go through. Beside filling out the original application, the student must have legally notarized proof of residency. In addition to this, UMass has instituted a mandatory application fee of $10 for Mass. residents and $25 for out-of-state students.

Tonight at The Rusty Nail

Orchestra Luna: An act to be experienced

By PHILIP MILSTEIN
Collegian Staff

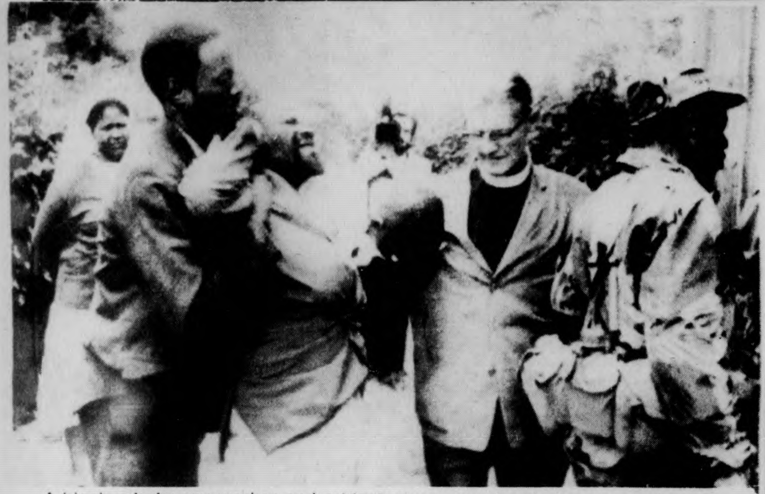
In the seven times since this summer that I've seen Orchestra Luna perform, their set has hardly changed at all yet each time I find something new to enjoy about them. I've caught their phenomenal show three times in the past nine days, yet I plan to see them again tonight at The Rusty Nail on Route 47 in Sunderland.

Classifying Orchestra Luna is futile and probably useless; explaining them is much easier: the Orchestra is your standard guitar-bass-drums combo with a keyboard added to fill out the sound, but it all comes out sounding far, far above anything standard; the Luna is also anything but standard, consisting of two males and two females who sing, talk, act and dance. To quote myself, the Luna players are either "four frustrated actors turned singers or four frustrated singers turned actors." The whole thing is very theatrical, with comic monologues, little dances and songs that actually tell stories. Each number is like a five-minute Broadway musical, and I wouldn't be surprised if that is where Orchestra Luna winds up. I don't think there are any heavy messages in Orchestra Luna's music. They are there just for fun — fun for them and especially for us.

Orchestra Luna's red, white and black energy seems to know no limits. They played two dates at The Hatch last weekend, shuttled to New York for a show at CBGB's Wednesday, and returned here for shows Sunday night, last night and tonight, yet with all their constant playing and traveling they cast no visible signs of wear. The show Sunday was as tight, energetic and powerful as it was last weekend, and I'll bet that it will be just as much so on Feb. 16, when they conclude a series of six consecutive nights in New York, playing three different clubs.

Publicity has been a problem for Orchestra Luna, but that thorn is now beginning to disappear. Most of the recent articles center on the band's lack of publicity, but writers thrive on hooks like that; it makes great copy. Orchestra Luna is also guaranteed publicity as a member of the burgeoning New York Scene, despite still claiming a base in Boston (actually Newton Highlands), where they began their collective career about three years ago. The group is especially popular at CBGB's, which is the New York Scene's most important venue. A videotape of Orchestra Luna was made at the band's performance there on New Year's Eve, and two of their songs, probably "Teenage Punk" and "Bus Station" will be included on the forthcoming album Live At CBGB's Volume II.

Sunday night Orchestra Luna set an attendance record for The Rusty Nail. Not bad for a frigid Sunday evening. With your help, tonight will be even better. I can think of no one that deserves your attention and support more. It will be for your own good to see them.



A black missionary worker and a black clergyman break down on seeing the shrouded bodies of seven white missionaries who were massacred by Rhodesian guerrillas on Sunday.

Seven missionaries killed in Rhodesian massacre

SALISBURY, Rhodesia [AP] — Seven white Roman Catholic missionaries, including four nuns, were lined up and shot in a guerrilla attack that stunned Christian church groups in Rhodesia and brought an expression of "profound grief" from Pope Paul VI.

Officials said it was the worst group killing of whites in four years of war by black guerrillas against Rhodesia's white government.

The one survivor of the shooting said three German Dominican nuns, an English Dominican nun, two Jesuit missionaries from Germany and a lay brother from Ireland were executed inside the compound of their mission school north of Salisbury on Sunday night by guerrillas who argued about who would do the shooting.

"They did not say one word about why they were doing this to us," said Father Dunstant Myerscough, an English Jesuit who said he threw himself to the ground when the guerrillas opened fire. "When one of the sisters asked what they wanted, one of them said, 'We want our country'."

Rhodesian police said they collected 111 empty cartridges from Soviet-made machine guns at the shooting scene, the Catholic Masumi mission in lush, hilly country 36 miles northeast of the Rhodesian capital.

A telegram sent by the Vatican to black Archbishop Patrick Chakaipa of Salisbury said Pope Paul "prays for peace and justice to be re-established in all regions afflicted by these atrocious crimes."

Archbishop Chakaipa called the guerrilla attack an "evil act" which made a "mockery of whatever good ideals they claim to serve."

Father Myerscough said 12 guerrillas gathered him and the seven others on a sandy road running through the mission compound, then seemed to argue about who should kill them.

"One came forward and then withdrew. Then another did the same. Eventually three came forward and the others ran off. They raised their guns and opened fire."

Another white nun, 74, had been ordered out of her room but fell when a guerrilla pushed her through the door. She said he left her behind after she told him she had arthritis and could not move quickly. "Later I heard the shooting," she said.

Father Myerscough said the intruders ignored black nuns and staff members at the mission.

John Potter, police superintendent for the area, contended the attackers were members of the outlawed Zimbabwe African National Union, a black nationalist movement, "under the alleged control of Robert Mugabe."

Mugabe is a black nationalist leader with whom Prime Minister Ian Smith has refused to negotiate a transition to black majority government in Rhodesia. Smith contends Mugabe has Soviet backing.

Twelve missionaries have been killed in Rhodesia in the last two months.

Millions laid off due to natural gas shortage

WASHINGTON [AP] — Between 1.2 million and 1.57 million persons — most of them in Ohio and New York — have been laid off their jobs because of the natural gas shortage, new federal and state reports indicate.

A report given White House energy advisor James R. Schlesinger over the weekend shows gas-shortage unemployment in at least 17 states, ranging from about 1,000 each in Mississippi and Wisconsin to an estimated 250,000 in New York and 500,000 to one million in Ohio. The report is based on estimates prepared by the Commerce Department and by state agencies.

The memo said weather forecasters anticipated some easing of the cold wave this week but warned that freezing Arctic air would probably return "for at least the following 2 to 3 weeks."

It said some states were having problems in distributing alternate fuels such as propane and light and heavy fuel oils but there was no current indication of shortages to consumers.

And it predicted that farmers may suffer some production setbacks but concluded that "no significant fertilizer shortage is expected this spring resulting from the gas shortage."

Meanwhile, the Federal Power Commission reported an additional 555 million cubic feet of gas daily has been obtained by interstate pipelines under provisions of the emergency natural gas act signed by President Carter last week.

But that additional supply represents only about one per cent of the total gas needed on a cold winter day — enough to help stave off the loss of service to homes and other top priority customers but not enough to end the shortages as long as cold weather persists.

The FPC said some 380 million cubic feet of emergency gas was already flowing, and the other 175 million had been authorized but had not yet started through the pipelines.

SUMMER JOBS
FOR SOPHMORES
SEE see page 15 for details

Interested in Working with Kids?
Northern Educational Services
(N·E·S·) can help you.
We work with innercity children in the areas of academics and recreation
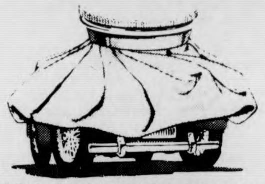
★ possible credit
★ transportation and materials provided
★ people of all interests and majors needed
For more info
contact our office in 403 S.U·B. 545-0910
or call Nancy 546-8460
Michelle 545-0162

BIG
AUTO PARTS
FOREIGN CAR OWNERS:
YOU NEED PARTS NOT HEADACHES



Why should you have to wait for replacement parts to be shipped in from long distances — or worse yet, from factories half-way around the world? That's a king-size headache. We've got a sure cure — Worldparts — auto parts for foreign cars. A full line of quality-made replacement parts for the most popular foreign cars in town. Have your garage or service station man call us. Or, if you wish, we can give you the names and addresses of foreign car experts near you when your car needs servicing.

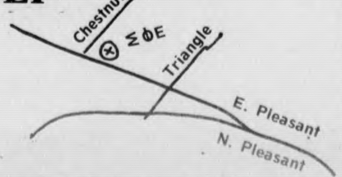
AMERICAN PARTS
Allied Motor Parts
319 Main St., Amherst
256-8341
Shop Service Available
Hours: 8-5:30 M-F, 8-5 Sat.

The Brothers of
SIGMA PHI EPSILON
invite all university men to an
Open Rush
on
Tuesday, February 8 — 7:30
Wednesday, February 9 — 7:30
Thursday, February 10 — 7:30

Tired of the dorms? Our living situation offers the individual the opportunity to expand himself both socially and academically. Come meet the men of the best fraternity on campus...

"SIG EP"

Beer
For Rides or Information
Call: 545-0070



Flu under control in Mass.

BOSTON [AP] — Despite widespread criticism of the nation's swine flu vaccination program, it has produced the first flu-free January in memory and cut seasonal absenteeism from illness by half in Massachusetts, state Public Health Department doctors said yesterday.

"I think the effect of the vaccine is a major reason for the delay of the start of the flu season," said Dr. Nicholas J. Fiumara, director of the department's Division of Communicable Diseases.

He said the department's surveillance of factory and school attendance showed absenteeism down to less than 10 per cent, compared with 20 to 25 per cent during an ordinary flu season.

Fiumara said he could remember no other flu-less January during his 37 years with the department. The 663,000 doses of flu vaccine distributed in Massachusetts during the now-halted swine flu program were three or four times higher than vaccinations in previous years.

"Most of those vaccinated were high-risk old folks," said Dr. Robert Gilfillan, chief of the department's virus laboratory.

Gilfillan and Fiumara said low temperatures also delayed the start of the flu season because people have stayed home out of public places where the disease often spreads.

"It's been so cold, people haven't congregated," Gilfillan said.

He warned warmer temperatures in the coming weeks could get people out of their houses and provoke an outbreak.

But Fiumara said there wasn't much time for an epidemic to develop because the flu season invariably ended March 15. "We have only a week and one month to go," he said.

Specimens from students who showed flu-like symptoms in February at Fontbonne Academy in Milton and Mount Hermon School in Northfield so far have tested negatively, said Gilfillan. He said tests were continuing, and blood specimens from 10 students who showed no symptoms at Mount Hermon could be compared with 10 students who did.

The national swine flu program ended after some of those vaccinated were stricken with so-called French polio, or the Guillain-Barre Syndrome.

However, Fiumara said, "We never thought Guillain-Barre Syndrome was associated with the vaccine.

Carter asks Cabinet to cut advisory groups

WASHINGTON [UPI] — President Carter, setting an austerity tone for his administration, yesterday urged Cabinet members to cut into their advisory boards and commissions "like a mower machine."

The President also said that one or two commissions or advisory groups might be valid but now the "40 to 60 that you have now," created by Cabinet members in some departments.

He told them to "move into them like a mower machine and cut them out."

Carter also said he plans to cut out the "pomp and ceremony" that have marked the red carpet South Lawn ceremonies for visiting heads of state in the past.

"During state visits ... there will not be the same number of people greeting, or the same number of trumpets sounding that has been done in the past," Carter said.

Deputy Press Secretary Rex Granum disclosed at a news briefing some of the details of the 2½ half hour Cabinet meeting, in which Carter ranged from housekeeping to policy with the Soviet Union.

Carter, according to Granum, said future administration statements in defense of human rights were not to be interpreted as "an attack on the Soviet Union."

The President said he "reserved the right to defend human rights" and that statements about Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov were "not an attack on the Soviet government."

Granum said Carter concluded the session by urging members "not to ignore their family lives in carrying out their duties."

He said Carter warned that "in their fervor" to do their jobs, "it would be a very serious mistake in the long run" to neglect their families. The President has passed the same word to his staff, Granum said.

Carter said that during his first two weeks in office he would telephone staffers late at night and find they were still in their White House offices.

The President said that he did not want "families breaking up because you felt a loyalty to me."

"There may be nights in a crisis when you'll have to spend the night on a couch here," Carter said.

Carter told his Cabinet members they would be "more useful to me and the country if you do have some recreation, get some exercise and see your children and spouses."

Carter also:

— Said he was handling disaster relief "in a conservative way," adding, "I don't want to make a boondoggle" out of disaster declarations.

— Asked Cabinet members to do away with unnecessary foreign travel unless there would be a "substantial advantage to go."

— in urging Cabinet members to cut down, Carter asked members to "send people whom you trust" to regional offices to study the size of the staffs and nature of the work.

We Scored!
Now YOU Can Score!
SHIRTS
$1.99!
These shirts are factory returns that originally sold for between $8.00 and $19.00. We have checked them carefully and they are in excellent condiiton. A BEST BUY.
Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
Open 9:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.

Impress people! Wear shirts!

"Drink provokes the desire, but takes away the performance."

That's from Shakespeare's "Macbeth." Excessive alcohol use may make you more interested in sex. But, you may find that you are less sensitive, and even temporarily impotent. Maybe responsible drinking has more meaning than you ever dreamed.

Alcohol Education Project
Room-to-Move and Health Education
549-2671

B. G. JEWELCRAFT CO.
fine silver jewelry
VALENTINE'S DAY SALE
Bring this ad in for special discount.
ON CONCOURSE LEVEL

COME GROW WITH US.

Come grow with us—see yourself, your community life, your career opportunities and skills grow at the Division of Continuing Education, UMass/Amherst. If you are not concerned with academic credit, the Credit-Free Workshop Program makes it possible for you to explore old or new areas of interest at hours that are convenient. New Communities in Action Workshops are inexpensive and offer both theoretical and practical knowledge to promote citizen effectiveness within community organizations. On February 4, mail registration ends and you may then enroll on a space-available basis by coming to the Records Office in the lobby of Hills House, UMass/Amherst, during regular office hours as well as early evenings, Monday through Friday, and Saturday from 10 to 1. Write to Credit-Free Workshops, P. O. Box 835, Amherst, MA 01002 or phone (413)545-3653 for a free catalog containing complete workshop descriptions and additional information about educational options.

ce

SPRING 1977 CREDIT-FREE WORKSHOPS

Basic Calligraphy; Basic Drawing; Cartoon Art; Colonial Restoration/Interior Decorating; Crewel; Weaving; Gravestone Rubbing; Painting/Enamels; Patchwork; Pottery; Print Collecting; Problems in Non-Representational Painting; Puppetry; Upholstery; How to Get Published; Performing Arts and Booking Seminar; Women and the Arts; Community Arts Day; Ballet, Beginning and Intermediate; Creative Movement; Dance Exercise; Hatha Yoga; Modern Dance, Intermediate; Tap-Dancing; Acupuncture Massage; Natural Macrobiotic Cooking; Herbal Medicine; Seaweeds and Foods of the Future; Conversational English for Foreign Students; Conversational Language: French, German, Italian, Spanish, Greek; Jazz-Rock Guitar; Fiddle/Violin Workshop; Basic Folk Guitar; Folk-Rag Guitar, Intermediate; Persuasive Writing Workshop; Reading and Writing the New Gothic; Sign Language and Finger Spelling, Beginning and Advanced; Spanish-English Translation; Writing for Magazines; Writing for Self-Enrichment; Writing for Life; Hang Gliding; Technical Rock Climbing, Introductory and Intermediate; Tennis, Beginning and Intermedaite; Career Desicion-Making; Conflict Resolution; Creative Anaysis; Dreams and Dream Interpretation; Improving Interpersonal Relationships; Self-Defeat and Self-Realization; Siddha Yoga/Meditation; Tarot; Darkroom Procedures; Photography, Basic and Intermediate; Photography for Artists and Craftspeople; 35mm Camera Workshop; Care and Feeding of Houseplants; Landscaping and Grounds Maintenance; Terrarium/Bottle Garden Construction; Williamsburg-Style Colonial Arrangements; Acting Workshops. Technical Theater; Theatrical Lighting, Basic and Advanced; Animal Management for the Self-Sufficient Farm; Astrology; Auto Mechanics; Seminar in Massachusetts Special Education Law; Developing Consulting Skills; Math Learning Skills; Real Estate; The People Side of Management, (6 CEU's).

THE DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION,
UMASS/AMHERST

Steelworkers choose new president

PITTSBURGH [AP] One of the most bitterly contested labor election campaigns in years ends today when the 1.4 million-member United Steelworkers chooses a successor to retiring President I.W. Abel.

Heading the administration-backed slate is Lloyd McBride, 60, a conservative union veteran pledged to the USW's moderate policies.

He faces 38-year-old Edward Sadlowski, a militant who says the union has grown soft and too willing to accommodate corporation bosses.

The election's outcome will affect not only the direction of the union but may also have major implications for the nation's economy.

The USW is the largest unit of the AFL-CIO and often sets the pattern for other unions. An abrupt shift in USW policy could have far-reaching impact in other industries.

"As the steelworkers go, so goes the labor movement; as goes the labor movement, so goes the country," Sadlowski said recently.

Under Abel, who can't run again under union rules because he is over 65, the USW has grown in membership and increased its treasury to $116 million. It also embarked on the unique Experimental Negotiating Agreement (ENA), which bans nationwide steel strikes in favor of binding arbitration of unresolved issues.

While the ENA covers only about one-third of union membership, it has become a hot election issue. Sadlowski condemns it as a sellout. McBride generally favors ENA, but stresses its experimental nature.

Both candidates predict victory. But if the past is any guide, Sadlowski must do well in the steel centers — Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Buffalo — where about one-third of the membership is concentrated.

The other two-thirds of the union, which includes such diverse occupations as mushroom farm workers and barbers, is generally considered to be pro-McBride.

The official results of the election won't be known for several weeks. But unless they are extremely close, the winner should be apparent by Thursday. Each candidate's headquarters will keep an unofficial tally of votes in the union's 5,500 locals.

TUES. NITE FEB. 8th is
GUSTO NITE
at
Time out

Novelty item drawn on the hour, every hour — starting at 9 p.m.-1 a.m.

ITEMS:
Schlitz Beach Mats
Large Beer Cooler
Thermo Can Holders
Large Milwaukee Wall Signs
Schlitz World Wall Signs
Knit Ski Hats

Schlitz Draft 12 oz. 30¢

37 N. PLEASANT AVE., AMHERST

Blue Cross and Blue Shield in debt

BOSTON [AP] — A requested 25 per cent increase in Blue Cross and Blue Shield rates for non-group subscribers will still not be enough to pay all the expenses of the debt-ridden program, insurance officials testified Monday.

Officials of Blue Cross and Blue Shield presented their case for higher rates in a hearing before the state insurance commissioner.

George E. McLean, a Blue Cross vice president, said of the proposed rates: "They are reasonable. They are not unfairly discriminatory, and they are adequate, with the qualification that they will be subsidized by group rates.

"They are not self-sustaining. We assume that they will be subsidized."

The company is asking for $9.5 million more this year from its 133,000 non-group subscribers. This amounts to a 25 per cent average increase.

Last year, the company received a 15.7 per cent rate boost.

The company attributed the increase, in part, to increase in hospital and doctor costs.

"The reason we asked for these rates at this time was so we could include the budgets submitted by the hospitals to the Rate Setting Commission," McLean said.

The company said it also needs more money because people are using their medical insurance more.

Blue Cross officials say that over the past five years, they have lost more than $18 million on non-group business.

For individuals with the most common non-group plan, the proposed increase would raise quarterly rates by $13. This means total payments every three months would be almost $66.

For more extensive coverage, the increase amounts to as much as $51 for a family plan. These rates would total $237 every three months.

BERKSHIRE EAST
5 COLLEGE NASTAR-SCHLITZ
Challenge Series Race
RACES TO BE HELD FRIDAYS AT 3:00 p.m.
SERIES TO BE HELD FEB. 11-18-25, MAR. 4-11

EAST BERKSHIRE SKI AREA CHARLEMONT MASS

Medals given out weekly. Prizes and tropies will be awarded.

COST $5⁵⁰

Includes skiing from 1:30-5:00, Nastar entry fee, and Schlitz beer from 5-7, night skiing for an additional $1.50. Race course will be set so skiers of all levels will have an enjoyable day.

Bring your skis and friends and join us every Friday for the 5 College Ski Party and Nastar Race.

$1.00 OFF OUR REGULAR PRICES WITH THIS AD.

QUONSET
Something New in Dining Out!!
Low Budget Family Menu
featuring Chef John
Dinner Served 5-9 Tues. thru Fri.
For student groups of 4 and up 10 per cent discount
Restaurant
Hadley, Mass.
Exit 20, I-91, Rt. 9
Reservations 1-253-9214

SUMMER JOBS
FOR SOPHMORES
SEE see page 15 for details

Phi Mu Delta Fraternity
invites all university women to an Open
Rush
for our Little Sisters Program
Tues., Feb. 8
8:00 p.m.
Come and meet the brotherhood
Call 545-2163 or 253-9034 for rides and info.
Located at Frat-Sorority Park
E. Pleasant St.

LIKE DR. PEPPER . . .
SO MISUNDERSTOOD
IF YOU'D TRY IT
LIKE IT YOU WOULD.

THE ONLY WAY TO REALLY FIND OUT ABOUT SORORITY LIFE IS TO VISIT THE HOUSES AND MEET SOME OF YOUR FELLOW STUDENTS.

GET INTO SORORITY RUSH TODAY AND FIND OUT ABOUT THE BEST LIVING SITUATION ON CAMPUS.

Sign up at the Greek Affairs Office 203 Hampshire 8-5 p.m.
or the Panhellenic Office
Room 169 C.C. 9:15-3 p.m.

FINAL DEADLINE — WED., FEB. 9th 5 p.m.

OPEN AT RUSH
B K Φ
THE BROTHERHOOD OF BETA KAPPA PHI FRATERNITY INVITES ALL U-MASS. MEN TO AN OPEN RUSH ON: * MONDAY FEB. 7
* TUESDAY FEB. 8
* WEDNESDAY FEB. 9 } AT 8:00 P.M.
AND
* SUNDAY FEB. 13 – AT 7:00 P.M.
REFRESHMENTS!!
COME OVER, MEET THE BROTHERS, AND SEE ALL THE ADVANTAGES U-MASS GREEK LIFE CAN OFFER AT
BETA KAPPA PHI 388 NORTH PLEASANT ST. (LARGE WHITE BRICK HOUSE)
* CALL: 545-0210 -0211

Attorneys advertise in Maine

PORTLAND, Maine [AP] — The Maine Bar Association, in a move considered to be one of the most far-reaching in the nation, has voted to allow attorneys to advertise in newspapers and magazines.

The total ban on lawyer advertising in publications which reach the public was lifted at a weekend meeting of the association on a vote of 76-29. Still banned are ads on radio and television.

The new rules permit attorneys to advertise their qualifications, and type of cases they handle, the fees they charge, and whether they will accept credit cards.

MBA President Carol O. Bradford said Saturday the new advertising rules were "more far-reaching than any other bar association to date has adopted."

The vote came after Maine Atty. Gen. Joseph E. Brennan warned the lawyers' group that the advertising ban violated the state's anti-trust laws. Brennan had threatened to sue the lawyer's group if the ban was not lifted.

Brennan said he was still not satisfied with the MBA's response because of the prohibition against radio and television ads.

But, attorney Stuart White, an anti-trust law expert, told the association that the radio-tv ban was reasonable and would withstand an anti-trust challenge.

The new rules were based on proposals drawn up by an MBA study committee, formed after court challenges were brought against professional advertising bans.

Two cases challenging lawyer advertising bans in other states are pending before the U.S. Supreme Court.

The new rules, although limiting the medium, place no restrictions on how much a lawyer can spend on advertising.

The rules state that the ads may include biographical data, public offices held by the lawyer, membership in civic organization, limitations of practice, names of clients regularly represented, credit arrangements and fees.

Bradford said the MBA will police advertising to make sure it is not deceptive or misleading.

Valentines Day Special
Gaze Into The Past, Present and Future
Have Your Fortune Read With Any Purchase
Or a Slight Charge
By Barbara Rushmore
Tara Reader
Saturday, February 12 &
Monday, February 14
10 a.m.-6 p.m.
love at first sight
549-0700
Carriage Shops, Amherst

Battle over NH nukes reaches critical stage

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission can "just kiss nuclear power goodbye" if it doesn't give the go-ahead for a nuclear plant at Seabrook, New Hampshire Public Service Co. attorney Thomas G. Dignan said yesterday.

The NRC heard three hours of testimony yesterday on whether to let the Seabrook plans go ahead or to postpone them further. It set yesterday evening as deadline for its decision.

Public Service and other power companies applied in 1973 for a nuclear plant to generate electricity at Seabrook. A nuclear licensing board approved construction permits, but an appeals board suspended the permits pending further hearing on handling of the plan's crucial cooling system.

The NRC had allowed the permits to go ahead pending yesterday's hearing.

Dignan said there was no need for further hearings on whether the plant used "open cycle" cooling involving pumping ocean water through, or "closed cycle" systems involving cooling towers. Public Service's application wanted the open cycle system and the appeals board ruling had asked for more exploration of the towers as an alternative.

"That subject was fully covered," Dignan contended yesterday. The tower system "is our second choice, and not a choice we would be happy with."

He said a substantial delay, adding costs to the plans, or a requirement to change sites, could kill the plan.

"As a matter of fact, in New England, Seabrook is the only game in town," Dignan said. Without it, he said, "Let's just kiss nuclear power goodbye."

Robert A. Backus, attorney for an environmental coalition opposing the plant, told the commission Public Service failed to examine other sites enough to make sure Seabrook was the best. The power the plant would provide is regional in scope and "the region will be dealt with" for possible sites as well, he said.

He urged a suspension of the license rather than a permit conditioned on certain requirements, because only with a suspension "will there be a meaningful look at the alternatives."

Public service "did a shoddy job of looking at the alternatives," Anthony Roisman, lawyer for the New England Coalition on Nuclear Pollution, said.

Martin Malsch, a lawyer with the NRC staff, told the commission Public Service should be allowed to continue a limited amount of digging and equipment buying at the site, even before the permit is finally decided.

"The major environmental damages already have been incurred," he said.

The reason the NRC ran up against the Environmental Protection Agency on the permit process was the environmental process started too late, Malsch said. And there was not a full evaluation of the closed cycle cooling system, he said.

The only cheaper way to see Europe is to enlist

2 months, unlimited Second Class train travel, 13 countries, $230.

Check it out. A Student-Railpass is a super deal; the best and cheapest way to see a lot of the Continent. Trains are fast, comfortable, frequent. And they speed you to the heart of cities. Stations are like small towns with everything a traveler needs. You meet fellow backpackers (Europeans, too). You can sleep on board; couchettes are bargains. Your Student-Railpass even covers some ferry steamer and motorcoach rides. Best of all with the Pass you can stay loose, park where you like, move on at whim. There's always another train you can catch.
To get a Student-Railpass you have to be a full-time student under 26. Both Student-Railpass and Eurailpass are sold here through your Travel Agent. You can't buy them in Europe.
If you've less than or more than two months, get a Eurailpass. Same idea but you ride First Class.
Available in two or three-week Passes, or one, two, or three-month Passes.
If you're not about to enlist why not plan to see Europe with a Student-Railpass.
No, you won't have to pass a physical.

Student-Railpass, Box Q
Staten Island, N.Y. 10305
Please send me free information on Europe's biggest travel bargain, Student-Railpass and Eurailpass.
Name ____________
Address ____________
City ____________ State ______ Zip ______
My Travel Agent is ____________ 192-408

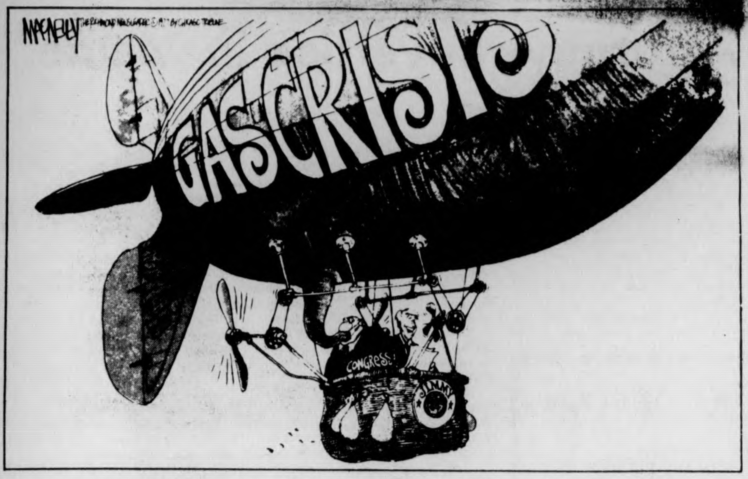
EURAILPASS
STUDENT RAILPASS
EURAIL

AUSTRIA
BELGIUM DENMARK
FRANCE
GERMANY HOLLAND
ITALY LUXEMBOURG
NORWAY PORTUGAL
SPAIN SWEDEN
SWITZERLAND
STUDENT RAILPASS



MacNELLY THE RICHMOND NEWS LEADER ©1977 BY CHICAGO TRIBUNE
GAS CRISIS
CONGRESS
JIMMY

letters

Are you getting down to the roots of racism?

To the Editor:

This letter is written in response to the commentary in Wednesday's paper [2-2] "Getting to the Roots of Racism." First of all the title of the commentary was totally misleading. To get to the roots of racism you must understand what racism is, why racism exists and how we can eliminate racism.

Racism is a manifestation of the capitalist system which requires economic, political and social inequality to survive. It is a mechanism of capitalism, used to justify and perpetuate inequality. In order to maintain the super-exploitation of Black, Puerto Rican, Asian American, Chicano, and Native American people, an ever-expanding profit level is required by capitalism. The capitalists who oppress both black and white people use Racism as a tool to keep people divided against each other rather than their common oppressor. An example of how racism is used to divide black and white people is the school system in Boston. Desegregation has been legally deemed necessary to ensure equal education. The real issue is equal, quality education for all, but because white people are educated to be racist and their actions reinforced by racist institutions, the issue becomes mis-directed. White people become threatened because they have been taught that blacks are the cause of their problems, when neither white or black people are really getting the quality education that they need. The end result is that we have done the work of our oppressors.

We live in a white racist, capitalist society that is detrimental to both black and white people. The system robs white people from their ability to form authentic relationships with black and other super-exploited people. It robs black people of their culture, heritage, pride, identity and all the rights and privileges that we as whites take for granted. The case of Earl Brown and Cramen Gethers is an example of a court system that is inherently racist. The facts are irrelevant because a white face against a black face is enough to convict. Any black person will do because we are taught that all blacks look and act alike.

This is not an isolated case. A few weeks ago FIVE black youths in Dawson, Georgia were arrested for allegedly holding up a store and killing a man. It was irrelevant that only FOUR committed the "crime". They face the electric chair for a crime they did not commit. The names, faces, and numbers are irrelevant because this system legalizes and justifies racist actions of white individuals and institutions.

Racism requires power to carry out the prejudices of the individuals and institutions of a society. White people have the power, and they have the support of the white institutions to be racists. The distaste on the part of Black and other super-exploited people for this racist system is not racism but is a reaction to the racism they have to live with every day. There is no such thing as black racism in Amerika. Black people do not hold the power to be racist.

As white people we should recognize what racism is, and how racism is destroying us and our right to live and grow in a non-exploitative, humanistic society. We must realize that we are being used as the pawns of the capitalist system which is not beneficial to us.

The criticism I must make of the t.v. version of ROOTS is that it didn't continue up to 1977. The reason why I believe it didn't was because people wanted to leave racism and its effects on both white and black people in the past. We must do more than, "live each day knowing we have something in common and that we are all one species." Black people experience many things that whites never will because of racism, and vice versa, none of which are healthy for us as human beings. What we should hold in common is recognition that we are all people, but that racism has effectively tried to destroy that fact every day. Our common struggle must be one that both black and white can share in, the anti-racist struggle. This struggle is also an anti-capitalist struggle because capitalism is at the root of racism. It is the responsibility of white people, and all people who are concerned with attaining a humanistically oriented society to work towards that end. We must strengthen the human bond between all people and heal the wounds that we have been burying for too long. We must bring out the scares that have been and continue to be inflicted by racism. We must not avoid the truth any longer.

Ask yourself, "Am I getting down to the roots of racism?" You can begin by educating yourself and others. We must examine the nature of racism as it continues to exist today, right at this university and within ourselves.

Lynn Washburn

Where will you be cashing your next check?

To the Editor:

One thing the UMass student realizes early in her or his career is that waiting in line is a fact of life. Of the many lines to choose from on campus, probably the least aggravating is the line for check cashing located in the Student Union. Here is a line in which one waits patiently and can expect to be rewarded by a smiling face and an efficiently run organization.

Now Whitmore proposes to take this line away on the grounds that the office is a fire hazard. If the present location is in any way a hazard, then by all means it should be moved, but not removed. Without the Student Union facility students [assuming they could find the time] will be forced to travel to a bank in town where they will be required to open an account, or go to Whitmore and add to the chaos for which the building is already renowned.

By making it more difficult to get money, perhaps students will be a bit more conscious of their spending habits, which will probably be reflected in the amount of business the Campus Center merchants do.

Perhaps the most important reason against the removal is the tragedy of firing all the beautiful people who manage to keep smiling regardless of how long the lines may be, and treat people as people. Whitmore could use a few lessons in this department.

Therefore, I think it's time that the University reviews its decision and move the facility down to the first floor to one of the rooms which are eternally empty anyway. And while they're at it, they should think of expanding the operation and provide check cashing on weekends when it's most needed.

It's time that we students join with the Campus Center merchants and avoid something that will benefit none, and hurt everyone. And when you're cashing your next check, think hard about where you might be doing it next, and let the tellers know you're on their side.

Robert Prybylo

commentary

Could Dukakis make the grade?

By ELIZABETH S. KENT

Yes, folks, good old Governor Michael S. Dukakis is coming to UMass. According to the newspaper, he might even be staying at a dormitory! He wants to " 'as much as possible take part in the daily life of the University' in order to experience the effect of budgetary cutbacks in the last three years." I think that Duke ought to have come to campus last week and that I should have been his guide.

Thursday night of last week, I was incredibly tired. I had worked at the printer of the Collegian from 11 p.m. Wednesday until about 4 a.m. Thursday. I went to all of my classes on Thursday, had dinner, did some homework and at 9 p.m. tried to get a little sleep before again going down to the printer. At 9:15, as I lay in the darkness of my room, I could hear Patty next door having a mock fight with Janice. Pulling some pillows over my head, I burrowed under the covers, but it was to no avail.

All of a sudden, I could hear a man's voice (I live on a female floor)! The three sounded as if they were having a grand time with shrieks and howls and the banging of doors. I had finally had enough noise and asked them to tone it down. Within thirty seconds I was back in bed and almost asleep when the phone rang. Tom, who I had met the weekend before wanted to know if I would like to see "the Woody Allen movie" Saturday night. Did he tell me which Woody Allen movie it was. Unh unh, no way! What self-respecting UMass male would tell a UMass female that he wanted to take her to see "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex, etc". I finally had to go to work.

By this point I was exhausted and only wanted to crawl back into bed for about 24 hours. I hoped that I would get off of work around 3 a.m. but fate was against me. At about 7 a.m. Friday, I was left off near my dorm. Now, we all know that UMass dorms are locked from about 2 til 7 in the morning. Not many of us are very coherent then though. I tried each of the four doors of my dorm, but my key wouldn't open one of them. I was almost ready to lay down in the snow when someone happened to leave the building. I was in luck. At 7:04 I was standing in the elevator trying to get it to go. No such luck. At 7:15 I crawled into bed determined to sleep for half an hour and get up for my 8 o'clock class.

Do you think that Duke realizes what we working UMass students go through to keep our heads above water here? Do you think that he would work two jobs to stay in school. Did he have to? Dukakis wants to cut the UMass budget and yet maintain UMass as a good state school. Who is he kidding? Does he really think that I will be able to afford going to school if the fees go up next year? He is not kidding me. If the rest of the students here can afford to go to school and not work, fine, but I don't think that the majority of us don't need to work.

We have to do something to make Duke realize what he is doing and how it will affect students here. If writing to your state representative won't work (and I don't think that it will) why not let Dukakis know when he arrives here at the Amherst campus that you don't like his proposal of level-funding for the University's fiscal year '78 budget?

By the way, I didn't make it to my 8 o'clock class. I don't think that Dukakis would have either.

Elizabeth S. Kent is a Collegian Commentator.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS — RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in-Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; NASSER H. EGA, Black Affairs Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; JAY A. SARET, Photo Editor; MARK A. LECCESE, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS — Christopher J. Bourne, Teresa M. Hanafin, Night Managers; Paula Strollo, Wire Editor; Lisa E. Melilli, Assistant Executive Editor; Gerard F. Rogers, Kevin C. Turcotte, Assistant News Editors; Angela P. Thomas, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Michael A. Berger, Richard W. Eckel, Assistant Sports Editors; E. Patrick McQuaid, Deborah S. Schafer, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Melanie J. Johnson, Women's Coordinator; Heidi S. Berenson, Feature Coordinator.

BUSINESS — Steve N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; Leslie Nearman, Finance Manager; Laurie Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Heath C. Wheeler, Jr., Linda Crowell, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Leo Murphy, Doug Surette, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steve Polansky, Circulation Manager; Linda S. Vene, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Alternative
Dining

A small sampling:
CREPÊS
CREPE BAKHARA Chicken prepared in a spicy curry sauce wrapped in crepes, salad with Hahjee's Special Dressing 3 50
CREPES STROGANOFF Tender chunks of beef and mushrooms in a stroganoff sauce wrapped in crepes served with a fresh salad topped with Hahjee's Special Dressing 3 25
HAM & ASPARAGUS CREPES Asparagus spears wrapped with ham in crepes topped with a special cheese sauce served with a fresh salad and Hahjee's Special Dressing 2 95

Appertifs
SPECIAL DRINKS OF THE HOUSE
SHARUBE SIEB Fresh Apples blended with very light cream and apple wine topped with a slice of fresh apple 1 15
SHARUBE CHOCOLATE Milk and chocolate blended with white chablis wine garnished with cinnamon 1 15
ORANGE BLOSSOM Orange juice and champagne 95

Desserts
STRAWBERRY CREPE Vanilla ice cream, strawberries wrapped in crisp crepes 1 25
PEACHES OF TEHRAN Vanilla Ice cream, peaches wrapped in crisp crepes topped with melba sauce 1 25
MASHDEE PINEAPPLE Persian wine, and pineapples with vanilla ice cream wrapped in crispy crepe 1 25
FERINI TUTIFRANGY Ferini (a Persian custard) and strawberries placed in a crisp crepe 1 25
FERINI HULO Peaches and ferini mingled together in a crispy crepe with melba sauce & Almonds 1 25

HAHJEE'S
Daily 11:00 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Weekends 'til 1:00
Route 9
in Hadley Call 584-9797

HAHJEE'S FAVORITES
SHRIMP CREOLE Tender shrimp sauteed in a wine-tomato sauce with celery served on a bed of rice with a fresh salad topped with Hahjee's Special Dressing 3 75
MOUSAKA Layers of eggplant, ground beef, potatoes in a tomato sauce topped with bubbly cheese and served with a salad with Hahjee's Special Dressing 3 25
SHISKEBAB Beef marinated in special Persian spices served with tomato, green pepper and a bed of rice and fresh salad topped with Hahjee's Special Dressing 3 90
SCAMPI Tender shrimp sauteed in wine, garlic, butter and herbs served with garlic bread and a fresh salad topped with Hahjee's Special Dressing 3 90

We also have a large selection of vegetarian dishes.

Finding morsels around town

By LAUREN J. TRAUB
Collegian Staff

Food in the Amherst area has long been unjustly maligned by people who just don't go out of their ways to explore and find the finer morsels, the plethora of potential which the Valley has to offer. Join me now for a guided gastronomique tour of some of the finest picks to be found. Preferably this journey should be undertaken in more than one sitting.

First stop could be the Top of the Campus for its side order of mushrooms, Chequer's for the warm hard rolls with whipped butter, or Hahjee's Place for garlicky Homoose with Syrian bread points. For something delectable to grab before hopping on a bus out of downtown Amherst, try a flaky croissant or soft pretzel from Susanne Naegele's bakery. Or cross over and pick up a gooey, chewy Chinese nut cake (a little one, really a cookie) at the Kim Toy Restaurant, next to the Amherst Cinema. Across Amity Street from Kim Toy, be sure to take notice of the vast and exotic imported beer selection upstairs at the Drake.

Heading toward Northampton, the Barn Door burger at McManus is "greasy and good, like a hamburger should" be. And the wine selection across Route 9 at the Finast, is just that. Most of these wines are easily affordable, and be sure to check out the weekly wine specials for super buys.

The creamy pink fruit dressing at the Jolly Bull's salad bar is one of their choicest. Entering Northampton, stop at Fitzwilly's for a hot buttered rum, and enjoy the much-needed effect of its two-way warming action during this frigid winter. Nearby Carlo of Naples will supply something to "stick to the ribs" in the form of Manicotti, or rich, creamy canolli. Another nearby Italian creation not to be missed is the pizza "with everything" at Joe's Cafe on Market Street.

Veering down Pleasant Street, a dark draft beer at Sheehan's wooden bar is the perfect refresher after a hard day. Gaze at the foggy glass mirrors behind the bar and ornate woodwork while sipping. They don't make sleazy bars as classy as this one, these days. And while we're on the subject of esthetic comforts, the fireplace with crackling fire at the new location of the St. Regis, down the street, is worth checking out.

Back on Route 9, don't miss the espresso or cappuccino at little Bonducci's, and if you're heading all the way into Florence, stop for a hot plateful of crusty corned beef hash with a poached egg on top at Flo's Diner.

Hopping around, the Goten's Japanese plum wine is the best around. In fact, you can't get it anywhere else. Louis' grocery in Amherst has a great variety of imported and specialty foods, really amazing for such a compact little store. When the weather finally becomes civilized again, test the soft creamy homemade ice cream at Just Desserts. Grasshopper and sour cream pies at the New Town Restaurant are like consuming delicately flavoured clouds, and the pecan pie with homemade whipped cream at the Mill Valley Grist Mill in So. Amherst is an apocalyptical experience. "The Oven" is the new bakery next to the Spirit Haus on College Street, so on your next packy run, why not pop in there to test out a raspberry "Revere Hat" or "real cream" cream puff.

Finally, if during these travels you should have worked up an appetite, stop into the Campus Center Coffee Shop. I've been called foolhardy by some comrades, and sternly warned by others, but I still think the coffee shop's barbecued beef sandwich is piquant and delicious. But what do I know, I used to like the chili there too... before they discontinued it.

the Stables
OPEN
6AM-8MP

THE STABLES is

The Stables

OPEN UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT
NOW OFFERING:
BREAKFAST SPECIAL —SERVED ALL DAY
juice, 2 eggs, home fries, toast, coffee 99¢ —HOMEMADE LUNCHEON SPECIALS—
—FULL CHILDRENS MENU—
—TAKE OUT SERVICE—
THE STABLES SANDWICH SHOP
OPEN 6 AM — 8 PM
Rt. 9, HADLEY 586-4305

STEAK OUT

INCLUDED WITH DINNER
Piping Hot Soup
thick and rich, made fresh daily.
Bakery Fresh Bread
golden crusted Vienna bread and hearty flavored dark rye bread.
Crisp Garden Salad
fresh-from-the-country vegetables, tasty garnishes, and The Steak Out's own selection of zesty dressings to be tossed to your own taste.
If you wish to enjoy only our soup and salad bar......$1.75

TUESDAY SPECIAL
Baked Stuffed Shrimp
$6.95
INCLUDES: BAKED POTATO AND THE PERFECT COMPLEMENT
A GLASS OF INGLENOOK CHABLIS
(OR ROSE' AND BURGUNDY
·OR A GLASS OF BEER

SUNDAY and MONDAY SPECIAL
WOULD LIKE TO "STEER" YOU

TOP SIRLOIN SPECIAL
$ 5.95
INCLUDES BAKED POTATO AND THE PERFECT COMPLEMENT
A GLASS OF INGLENOOK CHABLIS
(OR ROSE AND BURGUNDY)
OR A GLASS OF BEER

Where to eat in Amherst

The Pub

15 E. Pleasant St., Amherst

Located in downtown Amherst. Enjoy our Olde English atmosphere featuring hearty sandwiches, delicious homemade soups, and daily luncheon and dinner specials. Of course we carry a complete selection of your favorite beverages, including imported beers, on tap. So come on down and relax, have a great meal, and enjoy the finest atmosphere and entertainment available.

BEARDSLEY'S
140 Main St.
Northampton/586-2699

Beardsley's is a small restaurant honoring the traditions of French cooking. We believe in good food. It is our craft. We spend long hours searching out the highest quality fresh ingredients and preparing them to preserve and enhance their natural goodness. Such as our fresh fish of the day, broiled simply with herb butter, white wine and lemon juice. Special dishes are prepared each day and we offer fine and reasonably priced wines of California and Europe as well as several of the best imported beers on draught.
Where you eat can be as important as what you eat. In designing the decor we wanted to give magic to a special occasion and warmth to a dinner away from home. Beardsley's is as informal or formal as you wish to make it.

HOURS
Lunch
Mon.-Sat. 11:30-2:30
Dinner
Tues-Sat. 5:30-10:00
Sun. 5:00-8:30
Sunday Brunch
10:30-2:30

Steak Out

Rte. 9, Amherst

Specializing in sumptuous steak repasts, offering only the finest cuts of beef available, cooked to perfection by a staff of experienced chefs. Don't forget the salad bar, complete with a wide selection of fresh garden vegetables, and The Steak Out's own selection of fine dressings. Friday and Saturday, complete your evening with a visit to the SPEAK EASY LOUNGE, and take in the best new, live entertainment in the area.

Beardsley's

140 Main Street, Northampton, 586-2699.

A small, quaint restaurant offering continental specialities. The limited basic menu is augmented by many daily specials featuring items available with the seasons. Reasonably priced wines from California and Europe as well as several imported draught beers are offered. Beardsley's is as informal or formal as you wish to make it.

Bell's Pizza

65 University Drive, Amherst, 256-8011

Bell's Pizza House has been serving delicious specialities since October, 1968. The basic reason for its success is the care and preparation that goes into each dish made fresh for each customer. Their pizza is crisp and saucy, covered with lots of cheese. You can request any topping to suit your individual taste.

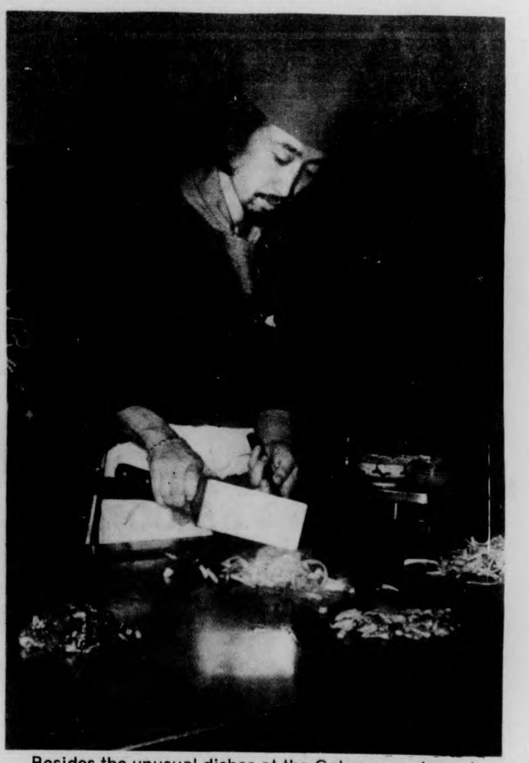
The hot oven grinders are so packed that you'll need a fork to eat them. Bell's also serves rich and zesty Italian spaghetti.

The Stables

Rte. 9, Hadley, 586-4305

During intersession, The Stables re-opened under new management. Refurbished by its new owner, Shirley Telega, The Stables now offers home-cooked meals at very affordable prices. The breakfast special, offering juice, two eggs, home fries, toast, and coffee is hard to beat at only 99 cents.

There are also daily luncheon specials, full take-out service, and a full children's menu. Come on in and be reminded what home cooking is all about.



Besides the unusual dishes at the Goten, you also get the fun of watching your meal being prepared right at your table by a Japanese chef. (Staff photo by Chris Bourne)

TRY OUR DELICIOUS DOMESTIC AND JAPANESE COCKTAILS

LUNCHEON MENU
FRIED RICE
FRIED NOODLES
TERIYAKI STEAK
TERIYAKI CHICKEN
TEMPURA
All dishes include soup, salad, rice and tea

COMPLETE DINNER
Appetizer Hibachi Shrimp
Onion Soup a la Goten of Japan
Goten Salad Bowl
Hibachi Vegetables with Mushrooms and Noodles Cooked at the Table
Rice and Green Tea
Hibachi Chicken
Sukiyaki Steak
Hibachi Sirloin Steak
Filet Mignon
Hibachi Shrimp
Japanese Style Scallops
Filet of Sole
Surf and Turf
Tempura
Dessert Ice Cream or Sherbet

SPECIAL PORTIONS for "LITTLE TIGERS"

Goten
[illegible]

Goten

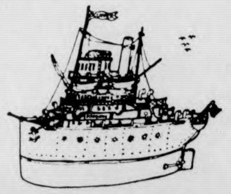
Rte. 116, Sunderland, 665-3628

The manner of preparing and serving dinner at Goten is patterned after restaurants in Tokyo and a well-known Japanese restaurant in New York. The chef, in a colorful red cap and scarf, stands behind a grill that is right at your table. Guests are seated around the grill so they can watch the dinner being prepared.

Entrees include hibachi chicken, sirloin steak, shrimp, or haddock. Other dishes include sukiyaki steak, Japanese style scallops, and filet mignon.

The terms hibachi and sukiyaki refer to the way in which the meat or fish is cut: hibachi, in chunks, or sukiyaki, in thin strips.

The food is actually American favorites prepared in the Japanese manner.



THE HAPPIEST
OF
HAPPY HOURS!

● mellow atmosphere
● quiet conversation over drinks
● leisurely dinner

An Enjoyable
Rustic Experience

our woodshed is available for banquets or special occasions. Call Ben or Jack
for more info. 256-8551

DINNERS
MON - THURS 5:30-10:00
FRI 5:30-11:00
SAT 5:00-11:00
SUN 4:00-10:00

The Rusty Scupper
ROUTE 9, 529 BELCHERTOWN ROAD

Bell's Pizza House

Bell's Pizza is using the best ingredients to create the exceptional Bell's Pizza taste.

It stands alone.
You will know why.

Free Delivery on Campus Sun.-Thurs.

256-8011 253-9051 65 Univ. Drive

Common Pleasures

By Lauren J. Traub

with acknowledgements to Babe Parent and Betsy Grose

D.C., oh D.C., to thee, we hail, you're a mystery, even, to Fergus Clydesdale.

The strangest creations we've ever seen,
Mystery Loaf, Salis-bury Soybean.
Spaghetti Divan, and Parmesan Curry.

Their ingredients would make a starving man worry.

Garbanzo Patties, or three bean delight,
what puzzling mystery awaits us tonite?
There's watery juices, there's even dessert.
To strict veggie-tarian, you may have to convert.
The atmosphere's boring, the coffee 'll kill ya.

But whether you want it, or not, they'll still bill ya.
Seaburg Newfood, and chicken stew.
The only defense is stick with it and chew.
So grab a white napkin, a fork and a tray,
and see what delight awaits you today.

THE PUB
SUNDAY
THE EXCALIBURG
Five ounces of 100% pure beef on a bulkie roll with lettuce, sliced tomatoes, cole slaw and fresh Idaho french fries.
2 for 1 all day Sunday Noon - 9 PM
Buy one - Get one FREE

Sunday GOODTIME HOUR 4-8
QUART PITCHER OF BEER $1.00
EATING AND DRINKING
AMHERST

the Hungry U Restaurant

Super Pizza Special!
Monday & Tuesday Nights
Buy a pitcher of beer and get a large pizza for ½ price.

Now serving your favorite selection of Cocktails and Alchoholic Beverages.

55 University Drive
Amherst,Mass
549-5713

Open Sun.-Thurs. 11a.m.-1a.m.
Fri.& Sat. 11a.m.-2a.m.

---

jerry rogers

Once, again... ...money

In the two weeks that have elapsed since the beginning of the semester, it has become immediately evident that, once again, money, and corresponding dose of politics will fill the news this spring.

In the past several years we have come to expect a fight with the governor and the legislature over the UMass budget to be a major activity undertaken soon after the New Year rolls 'round. In an attempt to remain true to form the esteemed Michael S. Dukakis, governor of the Commonwealth, has seized upon the idea of level funding for state agencies. In recommending the same $68.1 million for the University for fiscal 1978, that it received in fiscal 1977, the governor has ordered this institution to accept a five per cent cut in its budget. The reason for this is the legislatively mandated cost of living increase for state employees — and therefore this level funding does not even begin to deal with the possibility of increased prices.

In other money matters, the Amherst Board of Selectmen has voted a 100 per cent increase in the sewer rates it charges area users — including, logically enough, the University. This would constitute another forced cut if level funding becomes a reality.

Also, the board of trustees will be voting in April on $139 worth of fee increases that they will probably pass. Now we're beginning to get into the fiscal matters that will more directly affect you and I and the person next to you in our attempts to receive a quality education.

Even closer to home, the Undergraduate Student Senate will be voting tomorrow night on a proposal to raise the Student Activities Tax that each of us must pay. Of course, we receive free transportation, free legal services and a myriad number of other services and benefits from these monies, but, a hike is a hike.

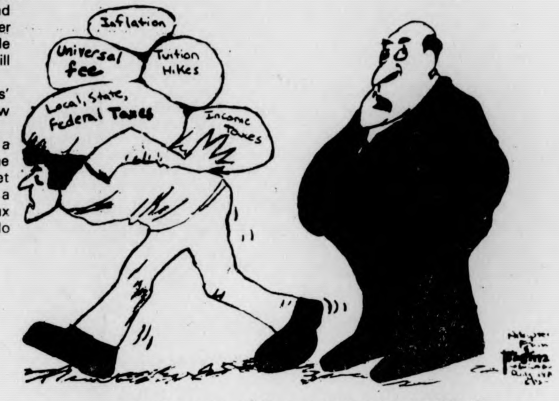
Unfortunately, as these cuts and hikes stream down upon us students are in a sad state of organization and it doesn't seem likely that we will be able to overcome our own apathy and indifference well enough to mobilize and fight the cuts and hikes with the political clout demanded for fighting entrenched politicians.

We'll have to hope that Chancellor Randolph Bromery, the trustees and President Robert Wood can overlook their differences for a while and band together to fight level funding. As for the sewer hikes, well, there doesn't seem like there's a whole lot that can be done, and what little there is will have to be done by Bromery and his cronies.

We do have the option to fight the trustees' proposed fee hikes if we use the time between now and April to prepare for the fight against them.

When it comes to the activities tax hike, I have a little more trouble justifying a fight against the proposed 7 dollar per year hike. While the budget given us by the state each year seems to be a regular tightening of the screw, the activities tax has not been hiked in a number of years, and we do get a seemingly inordinate amount of services for the tax. Senate budget figures show that even with the hike, because of cost of living increases and decreased enrollment (meaning less people paying the tax), budget cuts for Recognized Student Organizations will have to be made. The hike would allow much less severe cuts and is worthy of serious consideration.

I would only counsel student senators and their constituents to be wary of those who would speak out against the hike for purely political reasons. There will undoubtedly be people speaking against the hike for the sole reason of image polishing before this semester's senate elections. And there will be others who will vote against it because they did not receive a favor or renumeration for the work they have done on the senate. I have no standing on the proposed hike, but I hope that no senator will be swayed into voting against it simply because of the purely political arguments that will be raised by the more politically conscious yet less than honest student senators.



"IT WALKS LIKE A CITIZEN, IT TALKS LIKE A CITIZEN, IT ACTS LIKE A CITIZEN, BUT, OF COURSE, IT'S ONLY A STUDENT."

commentary

Grad students have their rights too!

By STEPHEN ORAVECZ

In light of the faculty union elections and the current budget debates, graduate students need to be concerned about their place in the university budget. Speaking of the different demands placed on available money, Larry Roberts, President of MSP, has said that the time has come for the faculty and staff to protect their own interests. The same is true of graduate students.

We should make two demands: a cost of living increase should be given to TA's, and the number of TA positions available should be increased. There are a number of reasons for seeking these increases.

First, TA's have gone without any increase in salary for five years — two years longer than faculty. With the rate of inflation, this represents a cut in pay. There is no disputing the fact that the current salary is not a decent living wage. Most TA's live a frugal existence, many relying on food stamps to make ends meet.

The argument that TA's have chosen to live frugally for a few years in exchange for greater earning potential in the future no longer carries the weight it did in the past. The current state of the economy coupled with the decrease in college enrollment makes job prospects for most graduate students very bleak.

Not only has the pay been decreased, but in many cases, the work-load has increased. One example is in the Rhetoric Program. Despite promises for smaller class sizes in the Fall, Rhetoric TA's will still be expected to teach fifty per cent more students than they did five years ago.

Few people realize that TA's in some departments have voluntarily taken fractioned appointments. They receive less than the full salary so that other graduate students can get at least a minimum of support. When public figures, such as Governor Dukakis, take voluntary pay cuts or refuse increases, there is a big fuss. Political Science and Economics graduate students merely scrape along. Cases such as this make it clear that there is a need for more TA's.

TA's and other graduate students are crucial to the operation of this university. Yet Commissioner of Higher Education Paul Parks wants to cut graduate education from UMass. When it comes time to distribute the money, graduate students are always at the bottom of the list.

Some people may wonder how it could be realistic to make such demands in the face of the current budget crisis. After all, Chancellor Bromery claims the current proposal by Dukakis could cost as many as 600 workers their jobs.

The fact remains, however, that in the past two years the Legislature has granted UMass budget increases despite the Governor's policy of level spending.

The budget for next year is still pending. The figures announced are all tentative. For example, Representative Collins only foresees 200-300 layoffs if worse comes to worst. But, judging by the pattern of the last two years, there will be more money than this year, even if it is only enough to keep up with inflation.

I don't mean that graduate students should look selfish, but while other segments of the university are keeping up with inflation, graduate students are not. We need to speak out so that "03" money will not be cut to meet other expenses.

Cuts in the number of TA's and graduate students will only increase the work load of faculty members and lower the overall quality of education at UMass.

One way to work on these issues is to attend the Graduate Student Employees Union membership meeting Thursday evening at 7:30 in Thompson Hall 620. Graduate students who are not TA's are encouraged to attend. A proposal will be presented by the steering committee on the ways to make our voices hard on these budget issues.

Stephen Oravecz
Information Coordinator, GSEU

mark wilding

On the arrival of grades

Few things in college life provide the shock comparable to the arrival of grades. The disagreeable report usually finds its way into Mommy's or Daddy's eager hands first. They rip open the envelope, certain that their prodigy, their shoo-in Nobel winner, will have walked away with academic glory, and that only his or her modesty has prevented, mention of the subject before this marvelous day.

The quality point monument tumbles out, a cardboard joy to be cherished and fondled. "Oh glorious day! Bring on the bread and wine" shout the delighted parents. "We are about to behold our child's brilliant grade average." 1.25. "What!" Suddenly their minds turn from visions of break and wine to sackcloth and ashes. Their curious and bright faces pass into dull, sallow clouds of discontent. Where once both had agreed that a new motorbike was in order for the stripling on his upcoming birthday, now they grimly entertain the likelihood of buying him a lump of coal or a button-down hair shirt.

Meanwhile the stripling is returning home from a day in the factory, cruising to the commercial screams of AM rock hooligans, a long-haired Custer riding to Little Big Horn. His worries are a comfortable few — to secure the family car, to ring up his girlfriend and ask after the health of the rabbit, problems of that sort.

At home the welcoming committee awaits calmly for their scalp. The younger warriors are positioned on either side of the dinner table while their two leaders squat at each end.

Custer is late.

They start without him.

The door bangs open and our hero strides into the dining room. Greeting everyone effusely he takes his seat. The report card serves as his place mat. He glances at it. A look of pain and sudden comprehension as he contemplates what his tuft of hair will look like over the fireplace.

Daddy calmly gathers up the report card, notes the "D" in rhetoric and equally as calmly asks our friend why it is that the family parakeet has a larger vocabulary than he does.

Custer shrugs.

Mother wails.

Daddy remarks that he, for one, can't comprehend Custer's "F" in accounting when he keeps such a strict record of the pennies owed to him by his younger brothers and sisters.

Daddy flings his comments with raw, biting gusto. Our friend is reminded of a favorite bumper sticker. "Custer wore an Arrow shirt". Daddy remarks that his son has redeemed himself in chemistry though, and points mockingly to the "CD" that sticks out like a bad onion.

He is congratulated on the "AB" in bowling.

Custer mumbles a curt thanks and excuses himself from the table.

Tomorrow he will be back in the family graces. His next Little Big Horn is at least six months off.

Mark Wilding is a Collegian Columnist.

WHAT'S HAPPENING

Camp counselors offered workshop

Steve Stanne and Doug Ruopp, both experienced in summer camp counseling, are offering a workshop for people who would like to strengthen their knowledge of natural history and get ideas for activities at summer camp.

The six-week course will cover natural history subjects including weather, geology and wildlife. Also planned are presentations on administrative logistics and on what camp directors look for in a camp counselor.

The Camp Counselors Workshop will begin tomorrow at 3 p.m., and run for six weeks. The fee is $12 for members and $15 for non-members. To register call the Hitchcock Center at 256-6006.

Rape information group to be formed

There will be a group of eight adult (18 years or over) female rape victims forming to meet on Thursday nights, 7:30 to 9:30, starting Feb. 17. This group is for women who are ready to integrate the rape experience into their lives and who feel a group in which the members help each other work through feelings and problems with social institutions (court, police, etc.) is a good way for them to do this. The group will decide where its focus will be and what direction it wishes to take. Each member must be committed to the group for the full ten weeks. For further information call Serena Lurie (of the UMass Rape Task Force) at the Everywoman's Center 545-0883 by Friday, Feb. 11.

Lesbian Union to different location

The UMass Lesbian Union has moved to Campus Center 923. With larger space, the union plans to offer more services to the Lesbian community. We are ordering new books and publications, organizing social events, providing counseling and creating a comfortable atmosphere for women to relax and meet each other.

We are having an organizational meeting tomorrow at 1 p.m. in our office.

Chile documentary shown tonight

The Amherst Tenants' Legal Defense Committee will be showing, "I Was, I Am, I Will Be," tonight at 7:30 in the Main Lecture Hall at Hampshire College.

The film is a powerful documentary made by two East German filmmakers who travelled through Chile two years ago posing as West Germans sympathetic to the junta.

Liturgy course to be offered

The Liturgy — its Biblical roots and tradition in the Roman Catholic Church, will be explored in a 10-week course at the Newman Center. Beginning tonight from 7:30 to 9 p.m., Father Michael Twardzik, associate chaplain at the Newman Center, will lead the weekly discussions.

Taped interviews with Black comm.

Tonight from 10:00 to 2 a.m. the Black Mass Communications Project will be airing taped interviews on WMUA (91.1 FM) with UMass's black community, about their views on Alex Haley's ABC-TV presentation of "Roots". Bro. Kweku Djata will host the program, Progressively Black.

WMUA holds first station meeting

WMUA will hold its first station meeting of the semester tonight at 8:00 in Campus Center 165. All WMUA station members are urged to attend.

Brazilian feminist speaks tonight

Every Tuesday night for the remainder of the semester there will be a talk on some aspect of feminism or women's studies in Herter 118 at 7:30. These talks are part of a Women's Studies Colloquium, and are open to the public. Tonight, Rosa Maria Muraro, noted Brazilian feminist, author and publisher, will speak on the feminist movement in Brazil.

Technical Students
Want summer, free lance, independent employment, higher money for your skills, send for Free brochure describing The Contract Engineering Handbook a necessity for all technical students.
MUTUAL PUBLICATIONS
102 Charles Street
Boston, Mass. 02114

SALE
30% off...
an inventory sale on the finest selection of hand-crafted items we've ever carried. Gold and Silver jewelry, fine leathers and accessories, blown glass and pottery. All at a remarkable 30% off. For one week only FEBRUARY 5 thru FEBRUARY 12.
The Leather Shed
199 north pleasant street amherst mass 01002

We need certain college majors to become Air Force lieutenants.

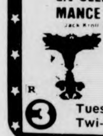
Mechanical and civil engineering major . . . aerospace and aeronautical engineering majors . . . electronics . . . computer science . . . mathematics majors. The Air Force is looking for young men and women with academic majors such as these. If you're majoring in one of these areas, you may be eligible for either the two-year or the four-year Air Force ROTC program. And to help with the college bills, two, three, and four-year scholarships are available. These scholarships pay tuition, textbooks, lab fees, and $100 tax-free dollars a month. The Air Force ROTC program leads to an Air Force commission, an excellent starting salary, challenging work (with some of the finest equipment in the world), promotions, responsibility, graduate education and much more.

Find out today about the benefits of the Air Force ROTC program. It's a great way to serve your country and to help pay for your college education.

Call Major Richardson
at 545-2437
Air Force ROTC

UNIVERSITY SUPPLIES
AT
A.J. HASTINGS
NEWSDEALER AND STATIONER
45 S PLEASANT STREET
AMHERST

THE AWARD WINNING
DOCTOR ZHIVAGO
starring
OMAR SHARIFF
ALEC GUINNESS
JULIE CHRISTIE
Wednesday, February 9th
6:30 p.m. and 10 p.m.
Campus Center Aud. Admission $1.00



MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY MASS

THE GREATEST AFRICAN ADVENTURE EVER FILMED!
LEE MARVIN ROGER MOORE
SHOUT AT THE DEVIL
BARBARA PARKINS
PG
① Tues., 5:30-8:00
Twi-Liter, 5-5:30

IF YOU'VE GOT A TASTE FOR TERROR... TAKE CARRIE TO THE PROM
CARRIE
R
② Tues., 6:00-8:15
Twi-Liter, 5:30-6

Limited Seating at Twi-Liters $1.25

"MAGNIFICENT!"
Penelope Gilliatt The New Yorker
"LIV ULLMANN'S PERFORMANCE IS SHATTERING!"
Jack Kroll Newsweek
INGMAR BERGMAN'S
"FACE TO FACE"
LIV ULLMANN
R
③ Tues., 5:30-8:00
Twi-Liter, 5:00-5:30

"LOVELY... A RARITY, A POETIC COMEDY THAT'S REALLY FUNNY."
–Pauline Kael New Yorker Magazine
a film by françois truffaut small change
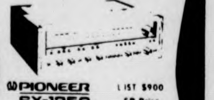
PG
④ Tues., 5:45-8:15
Twi-Liter, 5:15-5:45

★ REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS. LIMITED TO SEATING ★

Whalen Stationery
AND
Office Supply Co.
HEADQUARTERS
FOR
• Furniture
• Filing Supplies
• School Supplies
• Business Forms
Complete Zerox
Copy Center
141 MAIN ST.
NORTHAMPTON
584-3794



DISCOUNTS
On Nationally Advertised
• TURNTABLES • AMPLIFIERS
• CARTRIDGES • TAPE RECORDERS
• COMPACTS • SPEAKERS
• RECEIVERS • SYSTEMS
PIONEER SX-1250 AM/FM Stereo Receiver
LIST $900
SR Price 567.00
This is one of the many thousands of discount prices in our FREE catalog
Send for catalog today.
Our 21st Year
SOUND REPRODUCTION
College Dept.
460 CENTRAL AVENUE
East Orange, New Jersey 07018
(201) 673-0600

AT
THE PUB
TO NIGHT
MICHELOB NIGHT
12 oz. MICHELOB BOTTLES 50¢
AFTER THE GAME
LIVE ENTERTAINMENT
FEATURING
"TWO WAY STREET"
9 till 1

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton, Mass.
ONE WEEK ONLY FEB. 7-13
ANN CORIO
THIS WAS BURLESQUE
with
JERRY LESTER
also
LEE MEREDITH
The Sunshine Girl from "The Sunshine Boys"
$2.00 OFF WITH STUDENT I.D. MON-THURS & SUN

MON - THUR 8 PM SUN 7PM		FRI 8 PM SAT 6 PM 930 PM
ORCH	6.50	ORCH	8.00
LOGE	5.50	LOGE	7.00
BALC	5.00	BALC	6.50

phone 584-8435

dvp presents:
DR. WILLIAM NOLEN
author of Making of a Surgeon
on
Medicine for the Future
Thursday, February 10
8:00 p.m.
Thompson 102

DC menu

TODAY

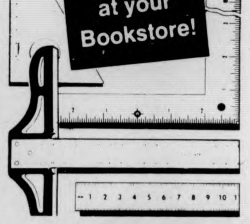
LUNCH — Clam Roll, Meatloaf; Basics: Clam Roll, Soybean Corn, Tomato Cass.

DINNER — Roast Turkey, Fried Fish; Basics: Roast Turkey, Spanish Beans.

TOMORROW

LUNCH — Hamburgers, Cheese Ravioli; Basics: Vegetable Hot Pot, Cheese Ravioli.

DINNER — Roast Pork, Braised Beef and Onions, Turkey Salad Plate; Basics: Vegetable Chow Mein, Baked Fish-Creole Sauce.



The largest selection of hard aluminum MEASURING TOOLS in the country!
FAIRGATE
STRAIGHT EDGES/T-SQUARES
METRIC RULES/L-SQUARES
CENTERING RULES
TRIANGLES/CURVE STICKS
INKING RULES
and many others...
See them at your Bookstore!

university of massachusetts arts council
presents
Quartetto Italiano
The program will consist of QUARTET IN C MAJOR, OPUS 76, No. 3 ("Emperor") by Haydn, THREE PIECES FOR STRING QUARTET (1914) by Stravinsky, CONCERTINO FOR STRING QUARTET (1920) by Stravinsky and QUARTET IN D MINOR, D. 810 ("Death and the Maiden") by Schubert.
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets now on sale! $5, 4, 3. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

JEAN-PIERRE RAMPAL & ROBERT VEYRON-LACROIX
FLUTE & KEYBOARD
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 18
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL 8 PM
Tickets now on sale. $6, 5, 4. UM-A $4, 3, 2. Other students and senior citizens $5, 4, 3.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations
PRESENTED BY THE FINE ARTS CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS-AMHERST

AMHERST Cinema
Amity St. 253-5426
"FINE, PRECISE, VERY MOVING... INTRODUCES A FINE NEW DIRECTOR."
N.Y. TIMES
THE CLOCKMAKER
PHILIPPE NOIRET
BERTRAND TAVERNIER
and
"Vincent Francois, Paul & the Others"
Vincent, Francois 7:00
The Clockmaker 9:00
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

Everybody's Market Place

CLASSIFIED ADS

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m. Monday thru Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. two days before your ad is to appear.

The rates are
Daily 40' per line
Weekly 35' per line
Monthly 25' per line
(two lines on MDC form approximate one line

IF YOU CAN'T COME TO THE OFFICE, CLIP OUT AND MAIL OUR 'SPEEDY CLASSIFIED AD FORM'

FOR SALE

TURNTABLE — Philips GA212, ex. cond. Ret. $170, ask $125—B.O. 253-7498.

Parts for Triumph TR4 and TR4A. 256-6233.

Ebonite Clarinet, leather pads, comp rebit, real tight mellow sound. 256-05_6, John.

175cm Holzner skis, 9½ Reiker boots, Spademan bindings, 48 in poles. $45 takes all or will sell in parts. Chuck 655-3551.

Yamaha FG 180, Guitar $125 or B.O. Call Daniel 3-7 p.m. 253-3887.

Typewriter — Oliveti, ex. cond. $50. Call Nancy evenings 256-8391.

1 pr. of men's Bauer hockey skates, size 10. Call 6-8960.

Twin bed. 253-7625.

FOR SALE

Kastle GS skis, 200cm. $50. 546-4709.

Refrig. ex. cond. 2½ C F. $65. 546-67[illegible]

Gift Idea: Have your portrait drawn. Call Dennis Delap, 256-8732.

Size 44 brown leather waist lngth, lined, barely used. $50. Call JK 549-6973.

Kowa Six 2¼ SLR with 80 mm lens and grip. $190 or best offer. Gary 256-8434.

Car cassette deck, new head. Auto rev. Call 549-5910 ask for Don.

New autoharp 15 keys, carrying case incl. 549-5910 Don.

Never used — Odyssey 200 w adapter. Ping pong game for any TV. $75 or B. O. 546-5384.

Bar, 7 ft, fully padded & 3 stools. 256-8216.

Sherwood 7200 — 40w per channel, dual 1228 w cart, AR2AX speakers. All excellent cond. $515. Neal, 546-4382.

For Sale: 4 fairly new (2000 miles), steel belted, radials. 165R15. Lee, 253-3527. $100.

Pentax—ESII, black body, 1.4, $250; 28mm w-A lens, $75; Vivitar 70-210 zoom, $150. Many acces. All for $450. Pat, 549-6799.

AUTO FOR SALE

'73 Subaru, pampered, Ziebart, 49,000 mi., 33 mpg. $1895. 268-7196.

'67 VW Sqrbk, reblt eng. Runs good, $475. '71 Vega, runs good — body shot, $200. firm. 256-8214 after 6.

'68 Renault Rio. Gd. cond. 30mpg. 546-6304.

BMW, '67, 4 door, exc. cond. $1200. 256-6459.

'69 VW Bug good transportation needs minor work. 586-4026.

'63 VW. Excellent condition, dependable. $295 or best offer. Gary 256-8434.

INSTRUCTION

Beg. Hatha Yoga for women. Ind. or small groups. Call eves. Hana 253-5698.

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female for S. Amh. house. $88+. 253-7727.

Roommate — 2 bdrm., own room, $125 inc. util., sec. dep., d-d, w-d, modern. 549-1741 or 549-1352. Share w female, senior. Lease 8-31-77. A cond.

Mature female roommate wanted to share expenses. Call 253-2657.

2½ rms. 110 mo. Furn., util.inc. Cbl. tv, ac refrig, stove. 1 mile from campus 546-4177.

2 people to share lg. rm. in Pelham house. 8 mi. to campus. $165+. 253-7009.

1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. apt. for lease. $125—mo., utilities inc. Call 665-4235. Sunderland (female).

Woman wanted for co-op house in S. Amherst. Woods, fireplace. $80 + util. 256-8078, p.m.

2 rooms — Montague. $85+. 772-0241, ext. 221 or 367-2375. Ask for Marian Perry.

Lg. bdrm. Brit. Manor. Non-smok. F or Fs. Own room or share. Quiet. 253-3140 eves.

F wanted for 1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. unit till May. $100. 665-3044; 545-1924. Bus rt.

FOR RENT

1 bdrm. apt. Puffton. Bus, air cond., d-wash, quiet. $205 month incl. all. 549-4596.

Beat the summer rush rentals. For a good deal and a good deal more $. Call 256-0144. P.M.

Belchertown — 3 room cottage — stove, refrig., $150—mth., private. 583-8734 evenings.

University Women: Close to campus sorority is taking boarders. Great food. Call Liz or Dawn at 253-9215.

FOR RENT

Sublet Riverglade 2 bdrm., heat, AC incl. On busline. Very reasonable. 253-2777.

TYPING

Typing — Reasonable rates — Dissertations, resumes, papers, etc. 549-6772.

WANTED

Wanted — Old abandoned cars for salvage or junk. Fair prices paid. 665-4546 after 6 p.m. A&S Salvage Inc.

Wanted: A queen or king size bed. Call 256-0144. P.M. Ask for Red.

Used stationary exercise bike. Good condition. 772-6184 collect after 5 p.m.

Fencers...Experienced foil and saber fencer needs partners — a.m., p.m., weekends. Duke Simoneau 405D1. Brown house. 546-5727.

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Spfld. from UMass M-W-F at 11 and Tues and Thurs. at 2:30. Will share $. 736-8690 Sue.

HONEST FURNITURE

Good deals on bureaus, beds, chairs, sofas, lamps, threadle sewing machines, desks and things that go bump in the night. Pauls Oldtime Furniture, 57 E. Pleasant St., Amherst. 549-3603, we deliver.

REWARD OFFERED

Reward offered for return of casino klub amplifier and AKG 190E mike stolen from basement of 165 Britanny Manor. Call Jim at 549-1145.

HELP WANTED

Part-time workers wanted for student auto workshop — need mechanical ability and desire to help people. Applications at SAW or 402 SUB due no later than 2-9. Equal Opportunity Employer.

HELP WANTED

Small sorority needs pot washer, dining room houseboys. Call 549-1587.

The Below The Salt arts weekly is looking for your poetry. Let us see your creativity? Come on down Monday nite or leave your stuff in the Poetry Box, Coll. Off., 1st floor C.C.

Men! Women! Jobs on ships! American. Foreign. No exp. required. Exc. pay. Worldwide Travel. Summer job or career. Send $3 for info: SEAFAX, Dept. F-2, Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362.

Work in a sorority. Free meals, good home cooking. Call 253-9066.

Alan Goldberg Tennis Pro needs assistant pro for part time summer employment. Teaching exp. required. Call nites 253-3683.

International women's week needs people power for publicity committee and children's programming! For more info. call Irene 545-3600.

Dishwasher wanted. Free meals, call Jim at 545-2151 or 256-6815.

Fashion 220 Beauty Consultants are trained specialists in skin care and beauty techniques. To qualify call Mon.-Fri. 12-2:30 p.m. 568-3903, 533-9331.

PERSONALS

To the woman mailing a B-day card to the Cape, from the guy cashing a check — Thanks for making my day — again!

Happy Anniversary, Les! I'll love you always. Michael.

Astrology: Humanistic charts & readings. Member American Council of Astrologers. Louis Neubel 549-6425.

To Floriculture Students: Come as your favorite bush to the Beaux Arts Ball, Feb. 26.

Lauren and Corinne — Happy Birthday. Don't celebrate too much. Do you realize that this is our last birthday together up here? Wishing you both much happiness in the coming year. Love, M.M.

LOST

Lost while walking from the vicinity of Flint Lab to the C.C. Concourse, a gold Timex watch with a gold band. Of sentimental value only. Pls. call Jean 546-9568. Thanx.

Men's glasses, tan case. Tues. 2-1, bet. Fernold and Hert. Call Charles 545-2619, 253-9414. Reward.

Lost — gold rimmed glasses in southwest area, reward. 546-8795.

Lg. black & white fluffy cat. Male, 1½ years old. Near Rvrgld. Apt. 256-6694. He is missed!

Brown pocketbook lost between Poor Richards and Brittany Manor w-keys, wallet, address book, ID's, pictures. Reward. L. Gunsolley 6-9689.

SERVICES

Guitar Lessons. Experienced, reliable teacher. Theory included if desired. Student rates available. 665-3024.

AUDIO

Quality audio components — over 130 lines including high—end, good advice, reasonable prices. Call Peter 665-2920.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators has low prices! All T. I. warr by me for 1 yr. SR-52 $199.95; SR-56 $84.95 ($10 rebate off this pr.); SR-40 $34.95, bus anal $34.95 — All HP's avail. HP-67 $389.95. Call and check our PR's. Call Bob Or Linda 549-1316!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

TRAVEL

Europe '77. No frills, student, teacher, charter flights — Global Travel, 521 5th Ave., N. Y., N. Y. 10017. 212-379-3532. Group rates.

NOTICES

ALPHA ZETA MEMBERS

The first meeting of the semester will be held Wed., Feb. 9 at 6:30 in Rm 904-908 CC. Please be prompt. We will have a guest speaker from the University Placement Office to discuss interviews, resumes, and job opportunities. It is important that all members attend.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS

There will be a meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in CC 903. Dr. Mary Barber, Director of MBA program in the School of Business at UMass, will be the speaker. All welcome.

ATTENTION COLLEGE REPUBLICANS!

The UMass College Republican Club will be holding its first meeting of the semester this evening at 7:30 in Rm 917 CC. If you're still interested in the Club, show up. If you're still interested and can't make it, call an officer.

ATTENTION HRTA MEMBERS!

An evening with SAGA. Free beer, wine and cheese tonight Feb. 8, 10th floor CC, 7-9 p.m.

ATTENTION PRE-DENTS

Very important first meeting of Pre-Dental Club Thurs., Feb. 10, 7 p.m. CC 805-809. Semester plans discussed, memberships accepted, questions answered. All welcome to sit in. We have many ideas for club activities; come and add yours.

BIBLICAL EXPLORATION

All are welcome at this search for new meanings for new times. Pete Sabey is facilitating a look at the Book of Revelation, a wild trip. Join us in 422 SU at 6:45 p.m. tonight. Stay for the 7:45 Communion only if you feel like it.

BREAD AND WINE

Simple, brief candle-light communion in the round for all who are seeking depth, joy, forgiveness, friendship: Tonight from 7:45 p.m. to about 8 or 8:10. Celebrated by Pete Babey for ecumenical UCF Team Ministry at UMass.

CHESS

The Chess Club will meet tonight at 7 p.m. in CC Rm 905.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION

Workshop for members and regular attendants tonight, starting at 5:30, CC 802, check schedule. Please come.

COFFEEHOUSE

There will be a meeting for anyone interested in helping out on the PCMC Sunday night coffeehouse series, tonight in 415 SU at 7 p.m.

CREATIVE MEDITATION COURSE

Free non-credit course emphasizing group meditation and creating a pathway of light to higher consciousness.

DVP

Very important meeting tonight at 6:30 in 904-908 CC. Vice-chair elections. Be there.

ENVI SCI UNDERGRADS

All undergrads of Envi Sci dept. are asked to attend an important organizational meeting to discuss the dept. & courses and the new Resource Center. We need over 50 per cent attendance. Please come, Wed. 7:30 p.m., Marshall Hall Lab.

FASHION COUNCIL

Win a diamond in our crossword contest sponsored by our own Mademoiselle Rep tomorrow at 6:30 in Rm 119 Skinner Hall. All are welcomed.

WEIGHT PROGRAM GRADUATES

To all students who participated in last semester's weight program run by L. Lambiase and D. Allan: An organizational meeting for the formation of a support group will be held Wed., 7 p.m. UHS rm 302.

1ST MEETING OF THE JUDGING CLUB

All those interested in competitive horse judging, come to Grinnell Arena on Thurs., at 7:30 for an organizational meeting.

GOOD HUMOUR ELEVATOR

We're back to serve Washington Tower! Every Weds. nite! Hot fudge sundaes and more starting this Weds. around 9 p.m.! Everyone welcome.

HELP WANTED

To find a blue jacket with a wallet inside missing from the Farley Lodge on Feb. 3. The name in the wallet is Alan Helfgott. If anyone finds either the wallet or the jacket, please contact the Hillel Office — S.U. 302, 5-2526.

HEYMAKERS

Just a reminder that workshop starts one week from tonight and that there will be no square dancing tonight. Please bring your dues with you next week. See you next week.

HIRING

People needed to conduct children's workshops during International Women's Week. Must be responsible, creative, and eager to work with children. Contact Lucia at 545-2145.

JOURNEY: A MYTHICAL MUSICAL

Production meeting for JOURNEY will be tomorrow, Wednesday, Feb. 9 at 4:30 p.m. at the BDIC Conference Room, Codell Library. Production staff and anyone interested in working on the production are asked to attend.

LOST

Ring lost, initials J.R. Sentimental value, reward. Please phone 665-7006 evenings.

LOST

Brown leather wallet with initials on outside, has sentimental value only to owner. Please call 549-6417. Reward.

LOST

Dark green Aspen ski jacket and keys, lost Friday night on hill behind Baker. Reward. Call 546-4766, or 546-4759.

LOST KEYS

Set of keys on small leather ring w-gold watch--brown strap attached. Please return to 416 Knowlton or CC info if found. They are of no use to anyone but me. Thank you.

MUSICIANS WANTED

To play the Washington Coffee House this Sat. Call 6-8943.

RUGBY CLUB MEETS

UMass RFC will meet Tuesday, 7:30 p.m. in rm 804 CC. Final spring season planning. ALL women and men interested in rugby are welcome!

SHAB

Student Health Advisory Board meeting tonight, Feb. 8 at 7:00 in CC 811-815. Any student that has paid the health fee can become a member. Please feel free to come.

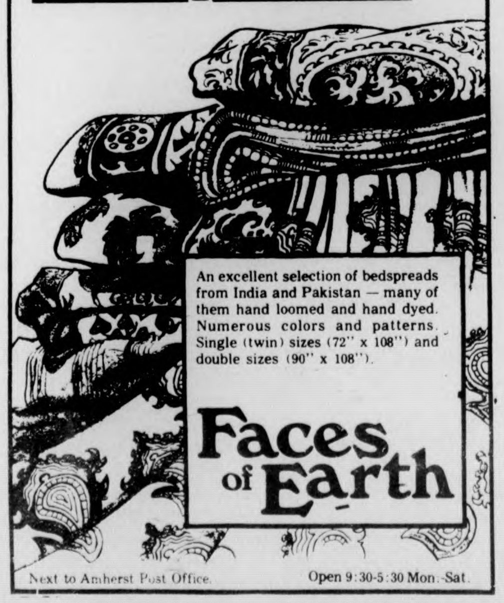
SKYDIVE

Club meeting on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in CC 905. Members and non-members are welcome.

STILL LOOKING FOR A JOB?

Arts Extension Service has a number of work-study positions open. 10-20 hours per week — all kinds of work. Barb, 5-2013, Draper Annex.

APPEARING
MON. & TUES.
Orchestra Luna
WED. & THURS.
Jonathan Edwards
plus
Clean Living
AT
The rusty nail Inn
Rte. 47, Sunderland
665-4937



Bedspreads

An excellent selection of bedspreads from India and Pakistan — many of them hand loomed and hand dyed. Numerous colors and patterns. Single (twin) sizes (72" x 108") and double sizes (90" x 108").

Faces of Earth

Next to Amherst Post Office. Open 9:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.

TIRED OF YOUR HAIR
It's time for a change.
STYLES BY DEBORAH
SPECIAL!!!
Men's Perm's with Personal
Style Cut & Dry $22.50
(for Gals too) Reg. $25.00
65 UNIVERSITY DR.
NEXT TO BELLS
TEL. 549-5610
CLOSED MONDAY

Texas Instruments
portable
electronic calculator
TI Business Analyst

Now Only
$39.95

POWERFUL FINANCIAL—BUSINESS PERFORMANCE WITH ECONOMY. Quickly and accurately solves problems involving compound interest, annuities, investment yields, and many other complex financial calculations.

BUILT-IN LINEAR REGRESSION. An internal linear regression routine aids in forecasting trends and determining a relationship between groups of data.

COST—SELL—MARGIN CALCULATIONS. Rapid, direct calculation of cost, selling price and per cent gross profit margin is ideally suited to the retail and distribution industry.

THE UNIVERSITY STORE Campus Center

TEXAS INSTRUMENTS
INCORPORATED
DALLAS TEXAS

Sunset Tours presents

College Spring Break
FLORIDA
DAYTONA BEACH
Resort Area
8 DAYS/7 NIGHTS
$199.00*
*PLUS 20% TAX & SERVICE
PRICE BASED ON QUAD OCCUPANCY

PRICE INCLUDES

- Round Trip Jet Transportation via Scheduled Flight (Eastern Airlines)
- All Meals in Flight
- 8 Days and 7 Nights at the LUXURIOUS HOLIDAY INN Directly on Beach
- Pool Party — Free Beer and Barbecue
- FULL BREAKFAST EVERY MORNING
- Baggage Handling at Airport and Hotel
- Transfers from Airport to Hotel and Return
- Services of Resident Tour Director
- Hotel Features Include Maid Service — Color T.V. — Swimming Pool, Air Conditioned Rooms with Private Bath and Shower — ALL ROOMS ARE OCEAN VIEW — Restaurant and Lounge with Nightly Entertainment, Free Cover HAPPY HOUR EVERY NIGHT ALL DRINKS HALF PRICE — Plus Live Entertainment at Pool Side upon Arrival and Departure.

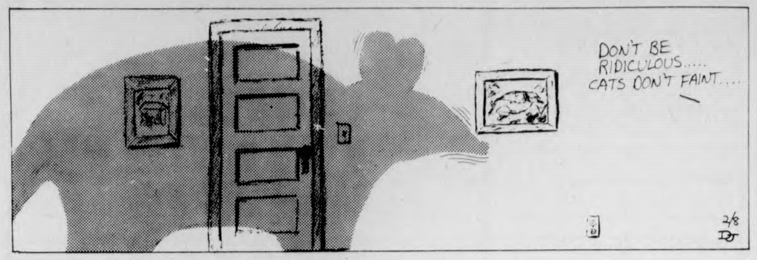
CONTACT
KATHY FINN
546-9639

OPTIONAL TOURS
( ) WALT DISNEY WORLD ( ) CYPRESS GARDENS ( ) WATER SKIING

DEPARTS BOSTON MARCH 19
ARRIVES HOME MARCH 26

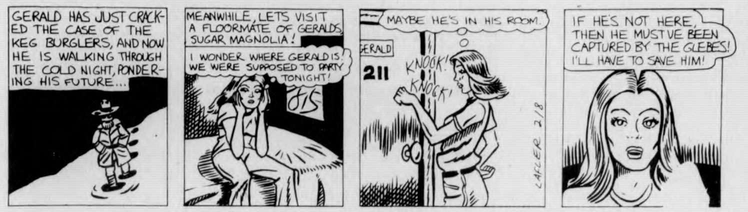
$25.00 needed to hold reservation.
Deposit is non-refundable, non-transferable.

What Next? by Dick Janssen



DON'T BE RIDICULOUS..... CATS DON'T FAINT....
2/8
DJ

Aluminum Ghost by Steve Lafler



GERALD HAS JUST CRACKED THE CASE OF THE KEG BURGLERS, AND NOW HE IS WALKING THROUGH THE COLD NIGHT, PONDERING HIS FUTURE...
MEANWHILE, LETS VISIT A FLOORMATE OF GERALDS, SUGAR MAGNOLIA!
I WONDER WHERE GERALD IS! WE WERE SUPPOSED TO PARTY TONIGHT!
MAYBE HE'S IN HIS ROOM.
GERALD 211
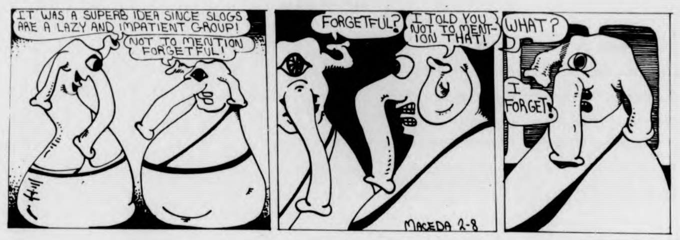
KNOCK! KNOCK!
LAFLER 2/8
IF HE'S NOT HERE, THEN HE MUST'VE BEEN CAPTURED BY THE GLEBES! I'LL HAVE TO SAVE HIM!

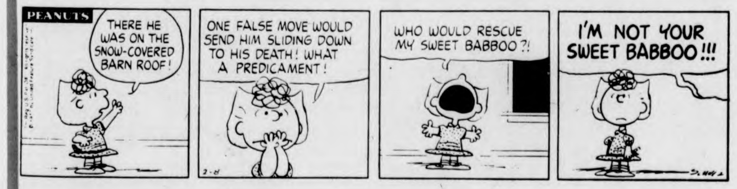
U.Mutations by Marty Maceda



IT WAS A SUPERB IDEA SINCE SLOGS ARE A LAZY AND IMPATIENT GROUP!
NOT TO MENTION FORGETFUL!
FORGETFUL?
I TOLD YOU NOT TO MENTION THAT!
WHAT?
I FORGET!
MACEDA 2-8

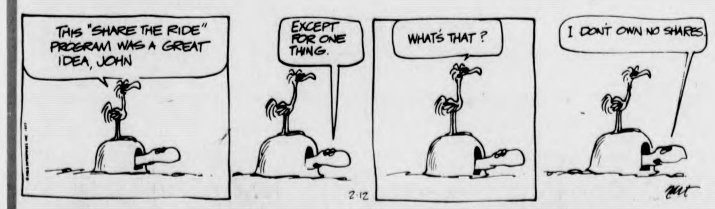
PEANUTS
by Charles M. Schultz

SPONSORED BY: STYLES BY DEBORAH
GUYS & GALS TEL. 549-5610
PERSONAL STYLE CUT $5.00



PEANUTS
THERE HE WAS ON THE SNOW-COVERED BARN ROOF!
ONE FALSE MOVE WOULD SEND HIM SLIDING DOWN TO HIS DEATH! WHAT A PREDICAMENT!
2-8
WHO WOULD RESCUE MY SWEET BABBOO?!
I'M NOT YOUR SWEET BABBOO!!!

B.C. by Johnny Hart



THIS "SHARE THE RIDE" PROGRAM WAS A GREAT IDEA, JOHN EXCEPT FOR ONE THING.
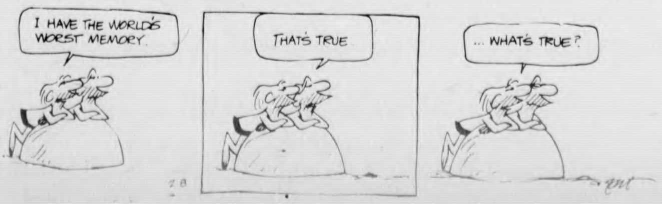
2-12
WHAT'S THAT?
I DON'T OWN NO SHARES.
hart



I HAVE THE WORLD'S WORST MEMORY.
THAT'S TRUE
... WHAT'S TRUE?
2-8
hart

LOCAL TELEVISION

8:00 3 WHO'S WHO CBS News
8 40 HAPPY DAYS "The Graduation"
22 30 BAA BAA BLACK SHEEP "The Last Mission Over Senegai"
24 57 PICCADILLY CIRCUS "The Author Of Beltraffio"
38 IRONSIDE "A Death In Academe"
8:30 8 40 LAVERNE AND SHIRLEY
18 PRACTICAL CHRISTIAN LIVING
9:00 3 M-A-S-H
8 40 RICH MAN, POOR MAN
18 NASHVILLE ON THE ROAD
22 30 POLICE WOMAN "The Killer Cowboys"
24 57 MOTHER LITTLE NETWORK
38 MOVIE "Three Coins In The Fountain"
9:30 3 ONE DAY AT A TIME
18 PTL CLUB
24 THE GOODIES
57 AMERICANA
10:00 3 KOJAK
22 30 DEAN MARTIN CELEBRITY ROAST
8 40 FAMILY "Someone's Watching"
24 WORLD IN ACTION
27 NEWS
56 LOVE, AMERICAN STYLE
57 LOWELL THOMAS REMEMBERS
10:30 24 VIDEO VISIONARIES
27 THE JOE HYDER SHOW
56 LOVE, AMERICAN STYLE
57 CONSUMER SURVIVAL KIT
11:00 3 8 22 30 40 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS
27 MOVIE "Chamber Of Horrors"
38 THE HONEYMOONERS "Mama Loves Mambo"
57 MARY HARTMAN, MARY HARTMAN
11:30 3 CBS LATE MOVIE "Hustling"

YOUR BIRTHDAY
by STELLA WILDER

Tuesday, February 8 — Born today, you are one of those innately modest individuals who makes a place for himself within any situation simply by virtue of the fact that he does not insist upon having any place at all. Without a jealous or possessive bone in your body, you are generous, sympathetic, kind and totally willing that those with whom you work or play should get the lion's share of whatever benefits accrue to mutual labor. You have no wish to clash with those who would oppose your ideas or plans; you will seek to compromise those ideas and plans in order to gain the peace you apparently need for personal happiness. So long as you don't compromise principle, all should be well.

Although you work well with others, you may not get your share of the rewards and praise. For your concern will always be more with the quality of the work than with the gains to be had from it. You take great personal satisfaction in seeing the fruits of your labor put to good use; more than that you do not ask. Indeed, you have to be urged by others to seek the increases in remuneration that are rightfully yours. Others thus may surge ahead of you in the climb up the ladder of success -- at least when the measure is a matter of dollars and cents.

You enjoy physical activity, but you are not one to display publicly your physical prowess. Whether man or woman, you prefer to keep your physical excellence to yourself -- or, at any rate, within the confines of your own family.

* * *

Wednesday, February 9

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Considerable freedom of action is necessary if you are to succeed in the several areas that present themselves today.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Employ another's knowledge to feed your own need for intellectual advancement this morning. Ask the right questions.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — A sympathetic nature is required if you are to understand what is wanted of you by one in difficulties.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Your artistic temperament leads you into an unusual circumstance. Your contacts with others are colored by new notions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Reconsider a recent decision to change your field of action. You may be asking for more trouble than you already have. Don't act hastily.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Rely on another's speed and your own judgment and you should be able to make the gains your talents suit you for.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Be sure you want what you ask for, since this may well be the day you achieve your spoken desires. Look to the elderly for advice.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — The popularity of a recent trend influences your behavior in ways you would not have thought possible in days gone by. Reconsider.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Power and aggression go hand in hand to make this an exceptional day for you on the employment scene. Know your advantage -- and employ it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — A fortunate combination of the right time and the right place make your actions today much more rewarding than you had anticipated. Enjoy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — One of your retiring nature may have a difficult time taking pleasure from the day's activities. Try to join with others in enthusiasm.

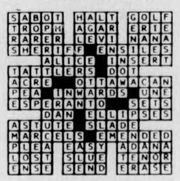
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Your dealings with friends may not get off the ground this morning. Afternoon and evening hours, however, prove fruitful indeed.

Copyright 1977 United Feature Syndicate Inc.

TODAY'S CROSSWORD

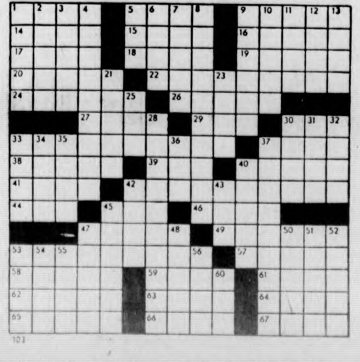
UNITED Feature Syndicate

Monday's Puzzle Solved



ACROSS
1 Suitable
5 For men only
9 Public square
14 Finnish canto
15 Show biz garment
16 Toil
17 "I wouldn't bet ----"
18 Ionia Sea gulf
19 Water body
20 Dart off
22 Good-byes
24 Flat braided cordage
26 Deserved Informal
27 "---- Bede" Eliot novel
29 --- Sparks
30 Set of governing rules
33 Old and New ----------
37 Walk through water
38 Mass community
39 Railroad timber Brit
40 Certain penalties
41 Prosecutor
42 Outstanding
44 Young animal
45 As well
46 Sand ridge
47 First courses
49 Uncovers 2 words
53 Gondoliers song
57 Roofing piece
58 Otherwise known as
59 Stone Suffix
61 Red powder of India
62 Diversion
63 Representation
64 Hard blow Slang
65 Colorado park
66 Carry away Slang
67 Abide

DOWN
1 Flagrant
2 Weight unit
3 Gibson ingredient
4 Blaster's accessory
5 As written Music
6 Sod
7 Perfume ingredient
8 ---------- minimum income
9 Did some farming
10 Fortified with spirits
11 Son in the Bible
12 Fuel
13 Sea eagles
21 Of ocean movements
23 French seasons
25 Curler's cap
28 Toronto or Chicago
30 Narrow passage
31 Asian port
32 Bridge seat
33 Chore
34 Toiletry case
35 Storage structure
36 Bill --- U S humorist
37 Stemware item
40 The end
42 Make a liquid flow
43 Wet sticky earth
45 Honors with words
47 Frighten
48 Golfer's problem
50 Wooden shoe
51 New York State city
52 Brisk
53 Diamon feature
54 Yodeler's range
55 Mob violence
56 Henry VI's college
60 Outer edge



Tonelli tunes women skiers as first-year head honcho

By RICHARD MOORE
Collegian Staff

Twenty - two - year - old Shrewsbury native Steve Tonelli spends most of his weekends skiing with seven young women. The obvious question that comes to mind is, how in the world does one guy manage that? It's all in Tonelli's line of duty as first-year coach of the UMass women's ski team.

A graduate student in the Microbiology department, Tonelli holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from UMass. As an undergrad Tonelli was captain of the UMass men's ski team his junior and senior years.

Tonelli started skiing at the age of five, and has been racing competitively since he was ten. "I've thought about entering a couple of pro meets," Tonelli said, "but I sure wouldn't want to try and make a living that way."

Dental school at Tufts University is where Tonelli said he would like to be this fall. "The competition for dental school is really tough," he said, "and I don't know if I'll get in. If not I'll probably continue my studies here at UMass in the fall."

When asked if coaching a college athletic team is too time consuming, Tonelli replied, "It's no big strain, if I wasn't coaching I'd be skiing every weekend anyway."

Tonelli said he is very happy to be coaching women's skiing. "The women require more coaching than the men," he said, "because most of them haven't been exposed to as much ski racing, and don't know some of the technical aspects of racing. I enjoy helping the women refine their skiing."

It's obvious the women on the UMass ski team know what it takes to win, as the Minutewomen are defending champions in the Women's Intercollegiate Ski Conference. "I think we get the jump on the other schools," Tonelli said, "because we ski every day in January, and they don't."

Tonelli said that he also enjoys coaching because of the women's attitude. "With the men winning is pretty much all important," he said, "and although the women are competitors, self improvement and having a good time are stressed as much as winning is in our league."

Self improvement and having a good time. Good principles for any college athlete to pursue.

university of massachusetts arts council

S. HUROK presents

CANADA'S ROYAL WINNIPEG BALLET

FRI. & SAT., FEB. 11 & 12 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

Tickets on sale Jan. 28, $6, 5, 4. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.

F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

Amherst Auto Parts
Used car parts
Junk Car?
We pay $10 and up.
Replace Glass
Buy and Sell Cars
Located ½ mile past the Rusty Scupper on Rt. 9, behind Amherst landfill.
Phone 256-6409

TEST PREP SERVICES
358 N. Pleasant St., Amherst

TPS presents you with two good reasons why we may be the answer to your test preparation needs.

Reason 5
TPS allows you to prepare for more than one exam, at the same low price.

Ask about our GRE-MCAT, GRE-LSAT or GRE-GMAT options.

Reason 6
TPS; top scoring instructors will share their techniques and exam strategy with you.

MCAT
Call or write for a schedule.
Call 549-5136 to reserve a space in our WEEKLY
FREE INTRODUCTORY CLASS
Held every Tues. evening 6:30 to 9:30

STUDENTS — FACULTY
learn to
RIDE • SHOW • HUNT • EVENT
at
MOUNT HOLYOKE COLLEGE STABLES
Heated Indoor Ring

127 - Beginning Riding - M-W 4 pm, M-W 5 pm, T-Th 4 pm
227 - Intermediate Riding - M-W 10 am, T-Th 9 am
327 - Advanced Intermediate - M-W 9 am, M-W 1 pm T-Th 10 am, T-Th 2 pm
427 - Advanced Riding - (prerequisite 327) T-Th 1pm
427 - Advanced Riding - (prerequisite 427) T-Th 3 pm
342 - Elementary Dressage - (prerequisite 327 level) T-Th 11 am

Fees: 2 lessons per week $125 per semester, 3 lessons per week $175. per semester. Unlimited riding plus 3 hours instruction per week $275 per semester.

Registration: Feb. 2 & 3 at Stable, or Feb. 4 11am-3:30 pm at Kendall Hall. Classes start Feb. 7 & 8. All Fees paid in advance to Mr. Moffat, Riding Master. Master Charge accepted.

Silver Street, South Hadley - Call for info 538-2493

PAPER
LAMP SHADES
Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
Open 9:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.

juvenile Valentine Cards
I love you

American Greetings
The Fresh Idea Company . . .
Valentine's Day — Feb. 14 — (next Monday)
the University Store
campus center
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.; Sat. 11 a.m.-4 p.m.

OPEN AT RUSH
Β Κ Φ
THE BROTHERHOOD OF BETA KAPPA PHI FRATERNITY INVITES ALL U-MASS. MEN TO AN OPEN RUSH ON: • MONDAY FEB. 7
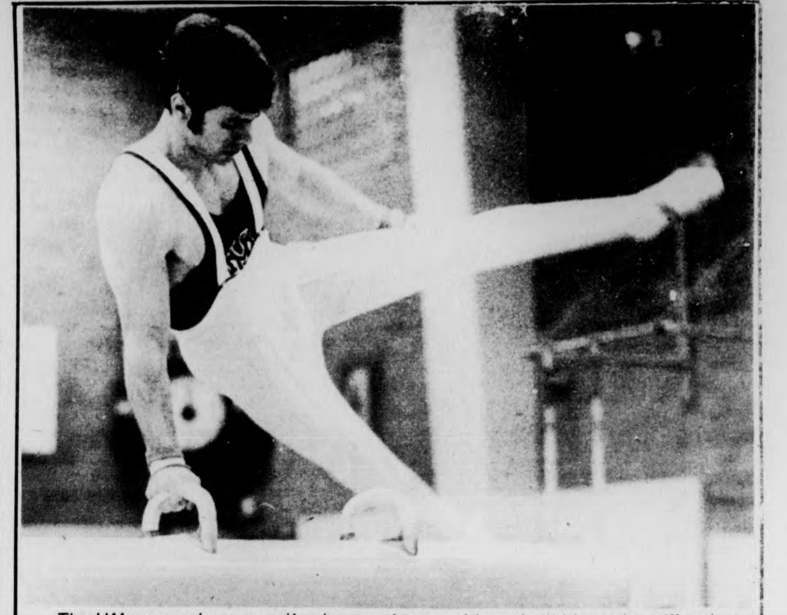
• TUESDAY FEB. 8
• WEDNESDAY FEB. 9 AT 8:00 P.M.
AND
• SUNDAY FEB. 13 — AT 7:00 P.M.
REFRESHMENTS!!
COME OVER, MEET THE BROTHERS, AND SEE ALL THE ADVANTAGES U-MASS GREEK LIFE CAN OFFER
AT
BETA KAPPA PHI 388 NORTH PLEASANT ST. (LARGE WHITE BRICK HOUSE)
* CALL: 545-0210 -0211

Poor Richards
TUESDAY
25¢ Drafts
$2.00 pitchers



The UMass men's gymnastics team, winners of two straight meets, will swing back into action this Saturday when it travels to Navy for a 2:00 meet. (Staff photo by Dave Rosenthal)

Phi Mu Delta Fraternity
invites all university men to an
Open Rush
Tues., Feb. 8 at 8:00 p.m.
Located in Frat-Sorority Park
E. Pleasant St.
Come and see what fraternity life has to offer you.
For rides and info. call: 545-2163
253-9034

UMass sports scoop

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
None

TODAY
MEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL vs. Harvard Home 8:00
MEN'S JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL vs. Dartmouth Home 6:00
WOMEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL vs. Bridgewater State Away 7:45
WOMEN'S JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL vs. Bridgewater State Away 6:00
MEN'S VARSITY INDOOR TRACK vs. Dartmouth Away 1:00
MEN'S JUNIOR VARSITY INDOOR TRACK vs. Dartmouth Away 1:00

TOMORROW
VARSITY WRESTLING vs. New Hampshire Away 7:00
VARSITY HOCKEY vs. Northeastern Away 7:00
JUNIOR VARSITY HOCKEY vs. Holyoke CC Away 9:00
MEN'S VARSITY SWIMMING vs. New Hampshire Home 7:00

Water polo anyone?

By BOB CORB
Collegian Staff

The sport of water polo is alive and flourishing at UMass. The UMass water polo club, open to both men and women, is an R.S.O. group which receives matching funds from the athletic department. The club practices year round and plays two seasons, one in the fall, the other in the spring.

Water polo is a team sport involving six field players and a goalie. Because the sport is played in water at least six feet deep, strong swimming is crucial. The object of the game is to put the ball into the goal by passing, swimming with the ball and shooting. A high degree of teamwork and unselfishness is demonstrated by a winning team.

Although water polo is a tough, highly competitive sport, the UMass team maintains an air of comradeship. We are dedicated to improving ourselves and our club in our water polo skills. We invite anyone with any interest in water polo to come down to Boyden pool any night at 6:00 and join us. The rules are simple, there are no tryouts for the team, and anyone who shows, plays.

SOPHOMORE JOBS
$500 for FOR 6 WEEKS IN
WESTERN KENTUCKY PLUS
ROOM, BOARD,
WORK CLOTHES,
AND TRAVEL EXPENSES.

Further Employment after Graduation Very Likely.

Call D. B. LEGG 5-2321

WE DELIVER!
(on campus only)
SUN.-THURS.
CALL
our new No.
549-5592
Compare our prices
For quick delivery
UNIVERSITY PIZZA
across from Southwest dorms — UMass
(We couldn't be closer . . . so you know it'll be hot!)

Minutemen face Crimson; ex-Celt Sanders at helm

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

The Harvard basketball team will be visiting Curry Hicks Cage tonight under the coaching of ex-Celtic forward Tom "Satch" Sanders, in hopes of breaking a six-year, five-game losing streak against the UMass Minutemen. Game time will be 8:00.

UMass earlier this season beat the Crimson, 69-50, and on paper it looks like another victory tonight. But UMass coach Jack Leaman is cautiously optimistic.

"They shouldn't be too tough," said Leaman. "It will all depend on how we play as a team. If we go out there and play sloppy basketball, we could get beat. Harvard is a well coached team and could take advantage of us if we are not ready."

The Harvard losing streak to Massachusetts goes back to December, 1971 when the Crimson beat the Minutemen, 80-78, at the Cage. This season, Harvard has an overall record of 4-11 and 1-5 in the Ivy League.

After a 20-day layoff due to winter intersession, Sanders' men lost to Cornell and Columbia by large scores. Earlier this season they split with these same teams. In a January 15th encounter with UConn, the Crimson came out on the losing end, 68-64.

Sanders, in his fourth year as head coach of the Crimson, has a three-year record of 31-44. He came to Harvard after having played 13 seasons with the Boston Celtics. From studying coaching under Celtics general manager Red Auerbach, the 37-year-old Sanders believes in strong team fundamental play.

"I teach fundamentals and defense," said Sanders. "I concentrate on teaching the basics of playing and letting the offense develop. The offense will come easier because that's what all players are interested in when it comes to basketball."

Harvard began the 76-77 season having lost ten lettermen from last year, including captain and third leading scorer Bill Carey. Also missing were forwards Doc Hines, Cy Booker and Mufi Hanneman. Leading scorer and center 6-9 Brian Banks and 5-11 guard Glenn Fine have taken leaves of absence are expected to return in 1977-78.

Sanders, having but four returning players with experience, is rebuilding his team. At guard, probably the strongest area of the team are senior Jeff Hill and Jonas Honick. Hill at 6-2 and Honick at 6-1 are averaging seven and 10 points a game respectively and are both known as excellent defensive and rebounding guards.

Winnemucca, Nevada's Robert Hooft, a 6-6 sophomore, plays forward-guard and is averaging eight points and five rebounds a game. "Although Hooft was benched a few times this year, he is a very quick, versatile player who can play either guard or forward. When he combines with Hill and Honick, Harvard has a very fast team," Leaman said.

At 6-8, junior Steve Irion is the team's leading scorer, averaging 13 points and seven rebounds a game. Irion is a good outside shooter from 18 feet and has an excellent jump hook shot.

The other Harvard forward is 6-5 junior Gary Ackerman who is the team's best shooter with a 56 per cent shooting average. Ackerman also is averaging seven rebounds a game.

"Harvard" said Leaman, "sets a lot of screens and picks. They like to run a lot, and have a lot of people in motion. They like to confuse a defense."

For the 11-6 Minutemen, Harvard represents the third game in five days. Leaman's men are coming off a 1-1 road trip which saw them lose by 21 to West Virginia on Friday night, but rebounded to beat Pittsburgh, 75-71, Sunday afternoon.

"I felt our team really came together and played a real good game against Pittsburgh. We played well for 32 minutes against West Virginia but then lost our poise. But we came back in the Pittsburgh game and held our own," Leaman said.

Leaman added that his team will be looking to cut down costly turnovers, improve team rebounding and have better ball-handling from the guards.

UMass forward Mike Pyatt searches for that elusive basketball. Pyatt and his mates play Harvard tonight at the Cage. (Staff photo by Jay Saret)

Rimwomen go for ninth in row; must take on undefeated foe

y JOHN LOWNEY
ollegian Staff

The UMass women's basketball eam begins a tough stretch of ames as it travels East tonight to ace undefeated Bridgewater State a 7:45 game.

The Minutewomen have always ad trouble with Bridgewater, but imilar traditionally strong op-onents have become stunned ictims this season.

Bridgewater's record speaks for self, however. It has played only ree games thus far, but they have been victories over Yankee nference teams. Bridgewater feated the same Rhode Island am which beat UMass in one of e Minutewomen's more gettable games this season. Of urse, no one will forget dgewater's shocking win over Minutewomen in the finals of year's state tournament.

Coach Regina Gross' squad urns all but two starters from a ar ago. Bridgewater is led by co-ptains Karen Baptista and Joan ward. Baptista is a quick point ard while Howard is a 5'9" ward who leads her team in oring (16 ppg) and rebounding.

Another steady performer is rmer Amherst High star Sue alas. Walas, at 5'8", is one of en seniors on the team.

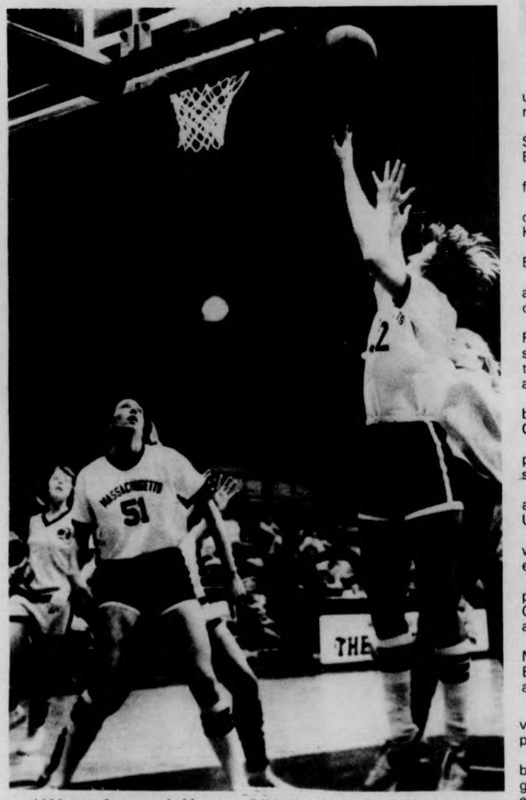
Bridgewater should match up in o areas which the Minutewomen ave dominated this year: depth d height. Coach Gross com-ented, "Our improvement over year is mainly in our depth. e've developed frontcourt players o give us more height and depth go along with our experience."

UMass coach Mary Ann Ozdarski alizes that the Minutewomen nnot overlook Bridgewater. ass has a Springfield Civic nter encounter against powerful oklyn College Thursday night a big matchup against always-ng Southern Connecticut next ek. Bridgewater is an important me in the toughest schedule Mass women's basketball has er faced.

Coach Ozdarski was obviously rmed at her team's sometimes adaisacal play Saturday night. one stretch we stole the ball r times in a row and didn't re," she said. "We need in-sity throughout the game. If we miss our layups in the easy games, we'll do it in the big games, too."

Ozdarski added that her team has to develop the "hungriness" needed for constant intense play. "It's hard when you're twenty or thirty points up," she said, "but we have to stay hungry all the time."

It is hard to imagine a team on an eight-game winning streak not being "hungry" enough, but the Minutewomen have yet to face their toughest opponents. Bridgewater State will be the first test this week, and the Minutewomen cannot afford to look past it to more highly-touted teams.



UMass forward Nancy O'Neil aims for the hoop while center Lu-Ann Fletcher (51) blocks out under the boards. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

John Lowney

Basketball freak finds joy in Cage

Basketball — a simple game, lots of people running around in their underwear, using and abusing their bodies just to put a ball in a net — right?

What did Dr. Naismith have in mind when he hung that peach basket in Springfield? Did he envision the day of Dr. J, reverse slam-dunks and Basketball Jones?

Did he ever imagine the day of Basketball Freak? Was Naismith prepared for the person who eats, sleeps and drinks basketball?

I doubt it, but Basketball Freak does exist. At UMass he exists in the cement of Southwest, the suits of Sylvan and the apple trees of Orchard Hill. He can be seen dribbling all over campus.

Last season during the height of Celtics and UMass basketball success, B-Ball Freak could not restrain himself.

In the morning he took basketball gym classes. It didn't matter if he had already taken the course ten times, or if OVERSUBSCRIBED had appeared on his schedule card. He always found time to play.

After a quick lunch of Pro-Ked burgers and fried nylon strings at the DC, Freak returned to Boyden. From the locker room the gym sounded like a stampede of elephants, but it was only basketballs — some warped, some that bounce to the ceiling, some that fall through the floor, some brown and some red, white and blue — and players of a similar variety.

Freak made his foul shot to get into the game. Suddenly, Boyden became Madison Square Garden, or Pauley Pavilion, or Curry Hicks Cage. Curry Hicks Cage?

Freak was the star, dribbling between his legs, firing behind the back passes, sinking 30-footers. But his team lost, 15-2. Freak was back on the sidelines, realizing that there is a Henry Finkel for every Dave Cowens.

Freak took his shower and rushed to the D.C. to enjoy a meal of rawhide au jus and steamed sweat bands. He had to get to the Cage early to see UMass fight for New England basketball supremacy.

This continued for weeks. B-Ball Freak saw every game at the Cage, whether it be men's or women's, varsity or JV. He spent hours every day either playing, watching, eating, sleeping or drinking basketball.

Then one night near the end of the season Freak reached his saturation point. He was watching the women play some nondescript team. The Cage was practically empty. There was no enthusiasm. Freak just fell asleep.

He slept and he slept. Freak was in a sort of basketball hibernation. Nothing could wake him up. The men were playing teams like Penn State, Boston U. and Harvard. There was not enough noise and excitement to awaken Freak from his daze.

Then one night about a week or two ago Freak heard a lot of women's voices, but they did not sound like cheerleaders. They were cheering for people with names like Sue and Lu and Nancy. What was going on?

Freak then opened his eyes. There were very few people in the stands, but the play on the court could only be described as intense. Freak was so glad to see good basketball again that he yelled and yelled. He led everyone into this frantic cheering.

The women on the court stopped playing. There really were people who cared? The stands were full? What was happening? Was it just a Basketball Freak?

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVI, ISSUE 82 WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1977

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/ Amherst, MA. 01003/ (413) 545-3500

Bursar may bounce check cashing

By JEAN CONLEY
and LAURY ROBERTS
Collegian Staff

When check cashing in the Student Union Building ends, perhaps within a month, students may also be faced with the surprise of no check cashing at the Bursar's Office in Whitmore Administration Building.

"We physically cannot handle all those students who will be coming here after the facility in the Student Union closes", according to Bursar Robert R. Mishol, "We are trying to give service to students, but it is difficult to reconcile all the check cashing."

Mishol says no decision has yet been reached on the check cashing issue, but if the service is to continue it may be limited to just one teller at the Bursar's Office "in order to be fair" to students conducting other business there.

Dean of Students William F. Field also verified that check cashing on campus could become a thing of the past, but he says he thinks Mishol is "imagining things" in saying the Bursar's Office can't handle the additional burden.

"I don't think the overflow will kill Whitmore," he said.

Assistant Campus Center Director Bud Wilkes said Tuesday he knew nothing of the suggested plan to stop check cashing in Whitmore.

The answer to the check cashing problem, according to Mishol, is to have a commercial bank on campus for all students' banking needs. The idea of a commercial bank on campus was first proposed more than a year ago, but was dropped after it met opposition with some students and the Campus Center Board of Governors, a student group, who opposed the bank largely for ideological reasons.

The tellers at the Student Union check cashing windows will not be fired, according to Field. He said two or three of the women will be needed at the central cash handling facility (not a check cashing area, the new facility will handle internal cash from RSO group functions, the Hatch, Coffeeshop and Bluewall), soon to be completed in the Campus Center.

"I am sure the other tellers will be needed at the Bursar's or somewhere in the Campus Center", Field said.

The tellers refused comment on the plans.

Wilkes maintains the tellers face danger every day at the present location.

"The place is just not safe. The tellers were held up twice at gunpoint last year, so now we have to employ an armed guard for every minute that facility is open. That gets expensive", he said.

Economics is at the heart of the whole check cashing problem. According to Budget Director Warren W. Gulko, there is $50,000 outstanding in delinquent checks cashed on campus at various times.

"The handling charge on checks barely compensates for the bogus checks," Wilkes said.

"Clearly, an alternative is to have banks cash checks; we're an educational institution", Gulko said.

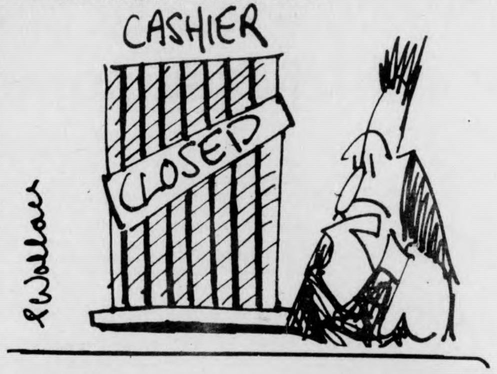
Money, or the lack of it, is also the reason for the death of the plan to relocate the present Student Union facility. The location that had been decided upon for relocation was the Reading Room across from the Bluewall, but renovation would have cost between $70,000 and $90,000. That price estimate included the cost of either more or better safes for the volume of money kept in them, required by the University's insurance.

Over 1000 students signed a petition last semester to keep the study in its present condition. But Wilkes said that petition had "nothing to do" with the decision not to relocate there.

All other locations considered were found unacceptable, either for space limitations or because they would have been too expensive to equip.

Meanwhile, the Campus Center fee will increase $15, in all likelihood, though what most feel is an essential service, will be discontinued.

"We have a responsibility to meet student support services, but everything depends on the budget", says Gulko, "There may have to be a trade off between educational services and other services.



Student reaction mixed to Activities Tax hike

By JOHN MORAN
Collegian Staff

Student reaction to the proposed $7 increase in the Student Activities Tax is very mixed, an informal telephone poll conducted by the Collegian last night revealed.

The Student Senate will consider the proposal tonight at its regular meeting.

"Seven dollars isn't too bad", said Steven Forest of room 6 Gorman in Central Area. "They should cut some of the services if they aren't necessary, of course, but I'd really have to think about it some more before I could decide," he said.

Pam Warren of 324 Mary Lyons likewise is uncertain about the proposed increase.

"I think there should be a good accounting of where the money goes," she said, "You must think of what the fee does. Nothing is black and white. Certainly nothing should be started but prices are going up."

She said she personally would not favor a cut in services.

"Disappointed," is the reaction of Carla Radosta to the increase proposal.

The Dickinson resident told the Collegian last night, "I don't know where half the money goes anyway. I don't want to see it go through."

"I don't think it's unjustified," said Scott Shrier, a resident of 1506 Washington, "I can afford the 7 bucks and I know there are those who probably can't afford it, but I don't think they should cut the services. How could I eat my lunch without the Collegian.

At its meeting Monday night the Rents and Fees Committee of the senate voted not to recommend the increase to the full senate. The increase will be presented tonight by Thomas Kerrins, Treasurer of the Student Government Association (SGA).

Students currently pay $55.50 for the SATF per year which funds various RSO groups, the Student Senate Transit Service, and other services. The fee hasn't been raised in the past three years. Some in the senate feel an increase in the tax would hurt the position of students in fighting University or trustee proposed fee increases while others said they felt a justified increase could not and should not be opposed on political grounds.

Inside

Reporter's Line

The Southwest Assembly voted $750 last night to assist International Women's Week. See Page 2.

The Dean of the School of Ed talks about the change in his school. See Page 3.

The Coffee Boycott hasn't hit UMass with full force yet. See Page 3.

Wire Line

Rhodesian guerrillas attack a second Christian missionary. Page 8.

Carter has his first press conference at the White House. Page 8.

An enraged West Point gun instructor took the president of a real estate company hostage. Page 6.

The Steelworker's Union elect new officers. Page 7.

Weather

Sunny today, highs in the forties. For us, that's a heat wave.

UMass cost close to national median

By ARNOLD WARSHAW

Collegian Staff

With all the distressing news that has been circulating about budget cuts, there is some other financial news that UMass students shouldn't find too disastrous.

According to a survey compiled by the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges (NASULGC), the median total semesterly charges (tuition, fees, and room and board), at most state schools for an undergraduate, in-state student is $1,914 for the 1976-77 year.

This cost is up $114 from the previous year.

UMass is slightly above the median with total charges of about $2100. The NASULGC school costing the most to attend is Cornell University in New York with total charges of $3700. Lincoln University in Missouri costs the least: $1230.

Three New England schools rank in the top 10 for total costs. They are: The University of New Hampshire, the University of Rhode Island, and the University of Vermont. UVM also charges more than any other school for out of state students: $4870.

At the same time median total charges also went up for out of state students, from $2,733 to $2,870.

Graduate students from NASULGC schools were also hit hard by increases. But in-state grad students were hit the hardest with a 7 and ½ per cent increase, over last year raising their tuition from $618 to $664.

The survey said that increases in tuition were the largest of any group of undergraduate charges.

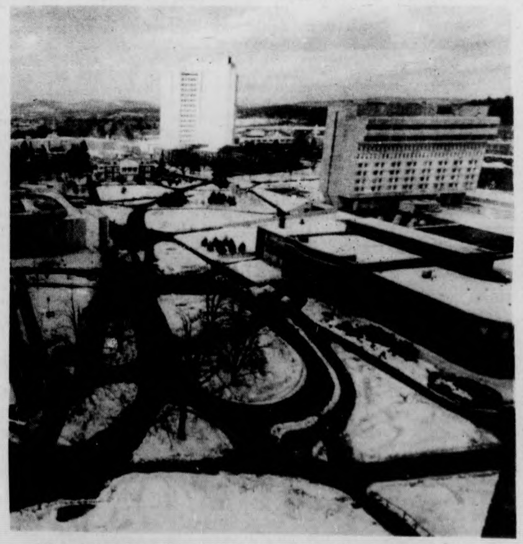
Of the 135 schools that responded to the survey, 102 gave inflation as the top reason for increases in costs.

Sixty-four of the schools indicated that they needed the additional money in order to keep up the quality of their programs.

Only 15 of the schools were able to keep student charges equal to that of the year before.

The survey noted that schools in New England and the Middle Atlantic states headed the list of those with the highest charges, while schools located outside of the

TURN TO PAGE 11



Plowed sidewalks and roads contrasting against the snow seem to resemble so many knots in a rope in this view of the campus taken from the twelfth floor of the library. (Staff photo by Daniel Smith)

President Chris Durkin makes a point last night in the Southwest Assembly at Hampden Student Center. To his left is vice-president Diana Fessenden and Monica Paranay, Secretary. Co-treasurer Bonnie Ward is on the right. (Staff photo by John Stiletto)

Service sorority continues to aid UMass community

By DUKE SIMONEAU
Collegian Staff

Many college women associate being a "sorority sister" with communal living among a cliquish bunch of frivolous partygirls. Some sororities are slowly coming out of this stereotype, but no one has never been a part of it.

Gamma Sigma Sigma (GSS) is the national public service sorority. Its 30 members don't live in a house, but in the same dorms and apartments as the great majority of us. There are no hard-sell "rushes" and "hazing" consists of the veteran sisters taking their pledges into town for breakfast one morning.

President Patti Clark described the "typical" GSS sister as being anywhere from a first semester frosh to an alumnae; rich, poor, or of any one of a number of assorted races and creeds. The common denominator, she said, is a desire to help people.

"GSS is totally public service orientated", she explained. "Sure we have parties and get-togethers, but our main purpose is to help as many people as possible." In its 13 years at UMass, GSS has sponsored such on-campus projects as Heart fund Walkathons, the Epilepsy Ice Cream Eating Contest, blood drives, and the semesterly book exchange for students.

Off-campus, they help out at the Belchertown State School, help in the Christmas Toys for Tots drive, the Amherst Fair and as many projects as their membership can support.

"We've helped a lot of people," said Patti with justifiable pride. "And the more members we have, the more we can help."

GSS sisters aren't asked for massive commitments added Clark. "We only ask that they be dependable when they do volunteer to help on a project. If they say they'll show up and don't, it messes everyone up. We don't care if they volunteer for just one project or all of them. Some sisters have flexible schedules and some have outside commitments, like jobs. You get out of it what you put into it."

Although the UMass chapter of GSS is small, they were voted "Most Outstanding in Service" for the entire nation last year. Because of that honor, the bi-annual GSS convention will be held at the Campus Center this June. Over 350 delegates from across the country will attend.

"Besides being voted 'Most Outstanding Chapter', we had two sisters tie for 'Most Outstanding Sister'," said convention chairman Lynne Miskewich. "This was based on their work on various projects."

This semester's projects include adopting grandparents at a local nursing home, helping out however possible in the infirmary's Blood Donor Center, reading for blind students(an ongoing project) and collecting canceled stamps.

"We get all the stamps we can, foreign and American," said Clark. "We turn them over to the Rolling Wheels Stamp Club and they sell them. They use the money to buy medical equipment for various hospitals."

SW Men's Center operates two programs this semester

By PAUL McCANN
Collegian Staff

The Southwest Men's Center, located in Southwest's Kennedy dorm, has a couple of new projects for the semester.

First of all, they will be participating in International Women's Week in March. They plan to have a male speaker there with a feminist orientation. In addition to that, they will be showing the film "Men's Lives" and will be having workshops specifically for men. They will offer a workshop on men's centers themselves, what they are and why they exist.

The second event that is in the works, is a men's conference. This will be a one day event. The tentative time is set for late April. The organization will be very similar to that of the women's week. Again, they will have workshops for men. Some of the topics that will be covered in these workshops are, men and health, men and children, and the gay male.

The center itself has a library. They have an assortment of books dealing with the men's movement, men and sexuality, men and their masculinity, and so on. The center also has counseling available for men. It is also expanding its colloquium schedule. They are offering 10 to 15 colloquiums on the subject of men and masculinity.

In talking with Frank Doorman and Rick Bingham, one easily becomes aware of their main objectives. Doorman said that they want men to talk to each other about their roles in society. Another goal of the center is to see men consider futures other than the restrictive ones that society presently has for them. Doorman would also like to see men relax more, show more emotion. He contends that men will be healthier as a result.

What lies in the future for the men's center?

Doorman hopes that within the next few years there will be a men's center in each section of campus and he would like to see increased interaction between the center and the local communities.

TODAY'S STAFF
Issue Editor Tom Crowley

Copy Desk	Linda Lines
Day Staff	Debbie Walters
Head Darkroom Tech	Dan Smith
Photo Staff	Nancy Bernetich, John Siletto, Geoff Cohlar
Wire Layout	Paul Blomberh
Ad Layout	Ellyn Faber
Sports Staff	John Lowney, Barbara Guiliano

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

	Semester	Year
Off-campus delivery	$9	$15
On-campus delivery	$5	$ 9
Newsstand price	$.10
Faculty staff	$.05

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst and additional mailing in Ware, Mass. 01082. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

SWA allocates funds to assist IWW

By LARRY COHEN
Collegian Staff

The Southwest Assembly (SWA) voted last night to allocate $750 to assist in the funding of International Women's Week, a campus-wide event that will feature a wide variety of workshops and lectures from March 6 to March 12.

The bill, sponsored by Irene Richards, originally called for an allocation of $1000 for the program, however, Richards accepted a motion by Vice-President Diana Fessenden to ammend the bill due to SWA's shrinking treasury.

Most of the debate on the bill centered on Richard's lack of a precise listing of where the allocation would go. According to Richards, the money would be used to fund the workshops, many of which will be held in Southwest, and the advertising for the program.

The week-long program already has the support of many campus organizations, including a $1000 allocation from the Student Senate, said Richards. While most of the money has been tentatively committed, they are still short of their projected budget of $22,000.

"As a last resort, we would go to the Women's Centers," said Richards, "but that would defeat our purpose... the success or failure does not depend on the money, but the spirit does."

Also passed last night was a proposal that SWA allocate $300 for the purpose of paying both co-treasurers, Bonnie Ward and Mike Fox, the full pay for that office. In the past, the office of treasurer had been held by one person. Ward stated that both co-treasurers put in a sufficient amount of hours to warrant full pay, and cited other examples of committee co-chairpersons being paid a full salary for their job.

In other business last night, SWA voted to table a proposal that would revise the Assembly's ban on pornographic movies in Hamden Student Center. The existing resolution was ruled unconstitutional by a three person student judiciary board last semester. President Chris Durkin encouraged SWA members to discuss the proposal with members of their dorms so that next week's vote will represent the opinion of the majority of Southwest residents.

A motion was rejected by the SWA to move the meetings into the Meeting Room of Hamden Student Center instead of the large room next to the Munchy's store where the meetings are currently held.

President Chris Durkin stated the need for the SWA to be "accessible" and said that he hoped students would feel free to observe the Assembly meetings.

The SWA voted unanimously to approve the appointment of Marea Wexlar as Chairperson of the Civil Liberties Committee. Meetings are to be Tuesdays at 7 p.m. in the SWA office.

Hitchcock guides children into woods

By CHERI LINCOLN
Collegian Staff

Seeing groups of local school children busily exploring the Amherst countryside is becoming a familiar sight. Nature walks such as these, and other types of field trips are the main activities which the Hitchcock Center for the Environment sponsors for the Amherst and Hadley school systems.

The Hitchcock Center is a non-profit, educational organization governed by a Board of Overseers. This board employs an executive director, Gordon Schimmel, and about seven staff members. There are also six volunteers to help with the field trips and five others to handle special functions and exhibits. The remaining members consist mostly of Amherst residents.

Since the center is supported by the area school committee, its members work closely with the teachers, making presentations to children in classrooms before the actual nature walks. Then they may meet with the teacher or on their own, to discuss and prepare the arrangements for the trip. In these meetings, every detail ranging from safety to the educational aspects were carefully covered.

In these outdoor classes the center stresses the need for children to discover nature for themselves, learning through their contact with the environment and natural resources. After each field trip, the teachers and children meet in the center, sharing with one another the discoveries they have made. A follow-up presentation may be made a few days later to the class by the members of the center, relating the outside environment to what they are learning in school.

Besides programs for the local children, the Hitchcock Center also has workshops and field trips for all ages, summer day camps, film programs and special exhibits. They offer workshops for teachers, thereby promoting environmental activities for educational purposes. Among their recreational activities, the hootenanny is a favorate. The hootenanny is open to all who enjoy sing-a-longs, meeting people and relaxing in the informal atmosphere of the center.

Tonight there will be a Camp Counselors Workshop at the Hitchcock Center taught by Doug Ruopp and Steve Stanne, beginning at 3 p.m. This will be the first meeting of a six week course in natural history covering topics such as weather, geology and wildlife, all learned experimentally. Ideas for activities at summer camps will be discussed along with the qualifications for prospective camp counselors. The charge for the course is $12 for members and $15 for non-members.

On February 12, from 10-11 a.m. the center is having a winter workshop for children and parents in Animal Tracking. The fee is $2 for adults and $1 for children.

A special planetarium show at Amherst College is scheduled for February 15, at 7 p.m. It will be followed by a open house and a hootenanny at the Center.

The Hitchcock Center began three years ago in an old barn in Leverett. Ethel DuBors, a former school teacher, founded the Adventure Barn as an environmental educational project in her spare time.

When DuBors resigned, Gordon Schimmel became the director of the Long Plain Nature Center which the Hitchcock Center was previously called. For the next two years, he and the other members operated out of classrooms at UMass. Last year it was renamed after Edward Hitchcock, a former Amherst College president and widely known area geologist.

The Hitchcock Center now situated on Larch Hill in Amherst was adapted from a stable, from which the name Carriage House was derived. Set back off the road in the wilderness, the house itself seems to exemplify the environmental concerns of its members.

Correction

Marion Schoettle, Field head of residence, did not say Physical Plant personnel have been good about responding to requests that something be done about the cold conditions in that dormitory as reported in yesterday's Collegian. She said that although they have sometimes responded, she has been "very dissatisfied" with the work they have done.

Brazilian historian tells of oppression

By NIKKI ARONSON
Collegian Staff

By the age of thirteen a young girl in Brazil is married to a man thirty to forty years her senior. After producing some children her life usually ends in the agonies of primitive childbirth. Her husband would marry many times because the average life expectancy of a wife was only five years.

A crowd of more than thirty persons listened last night as Rosa Maria Muraro described the four hundred year history of women in Brazil. Muraro related the development of her country and focused on the feminist perspective. Students eventually learned of the system of exploitation that led to civilization of Latin America and Brazil in particular.

"While white women were relegated to reproducing the dominant class, Indian and Negro women were impregnated by explorers to increase the working pool," Muraro said, continuing, "These women, who were slaves themselves, gave birth to mulatos. They were the first peasants in Latin America."

Muraro explained that the rampant childbearing in Brazil was practical for development but that, "Latin American machismo was born of this system, it was born of the disgust and fear of the white women." Muraro said white explorers in Latin America proved their virility by propagating many children through a succession of white wives and black mistresses.

"The Negro women played a very important part in Brazilian history," Muraro said, "She was the wet nurse to the children of white women and a prostitute of the man."

Feminism emerged in Latin America in the early twentieth century with the coming of the industrial revolution. Women comprised 54 per cent of the labor force in the 19th century, affording themselves economic independence from the dominant white male class.

A populist leader, Getulu Vargas, then took over the government from 1930-1945. Due to his liberal policies such as allowing women the right to vote and agrarian reform, he was voted into office by the poor masses. His reign ended in 1954 but his socialist ideaologies were continued through his nephew Goulari who led Brazil until a military coup in 1964.

Muraro expressed her distaste for the present capitalistic government that stands against agrarian reform and women's liberation.

The Church stands as the only institution powerful enough to challenge the rightist government.

Rosamaria Muraro (right) spoke last night on the four hundred years history of women in Latin America and Brazil in particular. She spoke at Herter Hall. (Staff photo by Nancy Bernetich)

The women's organizations affiliate with the Church for that reason although "most Brazilians are Catholic only by tradition, not in practice."

The women of all classes in Brazil fight for equality. In 1971 Muraro arranged for American feminist Betty Friedan to speak in Rio de Janiero and San Paulo. When the United Nations' sponsored International Women's Day, a conference was held in Brazil against the wishes of the Brazilian government.

While phenomena such as a 300 per cent increase in female attendance at Brazilian Universities have evolved through the combined efforts of women and leftist groups, Brazil still remains an underdeveloped country where more than 10 million children suffer from permanent brain damage caused by malnutrition.

Muraro herself has encountered anti-feminism. A publisher and scientist, Muraro has seen one of the three books she has written banned by the government.

"They condemned my book entitled 'Automation and the Future of Man' as being pornographic, and yet did not ban another called 'The Sexual Liberation of Women'," she said.

Muraro emphasized that feminism in the United States differs from the feminism of Brazil and Argentina.

"The Bamfam Corporation from the U.S. comes down to Latin America and distributes IUD's in the field. Brazil is an enormous country where many are needed to work on the land. The industrial class is, meanwhile, denied proper family planning."

Through the work of women like Muraro civil code reform now guarantees three months paid pregnancy leave for working women, and child care centers are flourishing.

Dean Fatini hopeful for reorganized School of Ed

By JUNE CORRIVEAU
Collegian Staff

"We're pulling together, and in a new period as serious professionals after seven or eight years of adversity", said the newly appointed Dean of the School of Education, Mario Fantini.

Different means of faculty organizing at the School of Ed. are being exercised with academic vigor and scholarship, Fantini said.

Opening up connections with other faculty members and sharing common problems with a responsive attitude is a need that must be met, said Fantini.

He said, "The school of education needs the responsiveness of the state as a major force in the Commonwealth, and it's our responsibility to set forth the concerns of the people in the educational field, and maintain national and international concern."

Dean Fantini, impressed by the talent and diversity at the School of Ed said "it's a time to look forward and not behind us.'.

Affirmative action, applied centrality, and excellence are broad areas of re-commitment, he said.

The needs of the commonwealth are moving towards the field of in-service education and a re-emphasizing of teacher education because a previous surplus of teachers lowered enrollments in undergraduate education by 50 per cent.

The big demand, according to Fantini, is a need for in-service teachers who have worked for ten or fifteen years, and are tenured, to respond to localities needs in education by collaboratively planning and developing programs, on a high priority level and with clearly identified needs.

He said, on the state level a high need exists for a range of positive roles for educators.

Pulling alumni together in the school of Ed in a systematic way maintaining their well being effects the entire University.

Paying more attention to future placements and a systematic evaluation of graduates and undergraduates, are needs that have to be met, Fantini said.

"We're committed to quality, and equality in the educational issues dealing with human resources," he said.

Most important, he said is the need for the University to guide us through the transition of subsequent policy in education and its accountability in systematic ways.

We find ourselves favorably impressed as we move forward, he said.

Fantini said needs of the local community and the commonwealths educational needs are of primary importance. He expressed concern, for the need to communicate teaching problems within the local community as well as across the state using the School of Ed as the focal point.

Recent graduates of the School of Ed are absorbed back into their communities, in a wide range of progams, including human resources, educational services and bi-linqual education, he said.

Meeting the needs of the commonwealth and moving forward with the expansion of in-service fields of work are the capabilities we see in the future, said Fantini.

Alternative Education: A Source Book for Parents, Teachers, Students and Administrators
Edited by MARIO D. FANTINI
Alternative Education

Dean Mario Fatini, Dean of the School of Ed, cites improved communication among the professors for the revived scholarship and vigor in the school. (Staff photo by Dan Smith)

Coffee boycott slight as habits change

By MARY ELLEN LOWNEY
Collegian Staff

The coffee boycott, endorsed by well-known politicians and business people all over the country, is an economical, rather than a political, issue at UMass. Those students drinking less coffee are doing so because they can't afford the rising prices.

In a recent Collegian interview, UMass students say they are cutting down, but on the whole can't conceive of a day without caffeine.

"I've decided to boycott," said one student, "but I don't know if I could handle none at all."

"I started drinking tea," said another, "but it doesn't have the same kick to it."

Employees from the Hatch and the Coffee Shop said they have noticed no significant change in coffee sales since the boycott began in early January. "People are drinking more tea, though," said a Coffee Shop cashier.

The coffee shortage is a result of the July, 1975 frost that killed or harmed more than half the coffee trees in Brazil, which provides about a third of the world's supply. At that time, the 1975 crop had already been harvested, but much of this year's crop was damaged or ruined.

Brazil, in an effort to save its economy, has increased export taxes on coffee from 22 cents to almost one dollar per pound in the past few months. Columbia, the world's second largest producer, now demands about $1.50 per pound in taxes.

The situation is destined to go from bad to worse. It will take until 1979 to regrow the number of trees that were killed in the frost.

Many restaurants and grocery stores offer free or less expensive tea to encourage consumers not to buy coffee, in the hopes of forcing prices down.

At UMass it is more difficult to buy tea, if anything. Tea bags at the Hatch and the Coffee Shop are kept behind the counter, making it necessary to ask for one.

The price for a cup of coffee on campus has gone up this semester from 22 cents to 27 cents for 8 ounces. Tea has gone up from 16 cents to 22 cents for the same amount.

The University Dining Commons has not yet been affected by the rising prices, according to one spokesperson. Freeze-dried coffee, which hasn't gone up significantly in price, is used at the D.C.

Off-campus students appear to be the most affected group. In Finast, Sanka is now going for $7.98 per pound. Stop & Shop sells Maxwell House at $6.91 per pound.

One student buying a jar of coffee at Finast said, "Yes, I drink less – not because of the boycott, but because of the price."

When asked if people were buying less coffee, a Finast cashier said, "No – if anything, people are buying more, sometimes four or five pounds at a time."

Other employees at Finast and Stop & Shop agreed that there was no significant change in sales of the mild stimulant.

Because it contains caffeine, coffee affects the nervous and circulatory systems, explaining the "lift" it gives. It is a mildly addictive beverage that, in excess, can cause nervousness and stomach disorders.

Coffee or caffeine has been prescribed for heart disease, migraine headaches, asthma and barbituate poisoning.

Black Affairs

VIEWPOINT

[Editors Note] — Viewpoint is a column designed for our readers to express their views on various subjects. In this manner, the staff of Black Affairs hopes to establish an open line of communication between our readers and us. Viewpoint does not necessarily represent the opinion of Black Affairs. All articles must be typed.

In Thursday's issue of the Collegian, there appeared an article in Below The Salt written by Greg Tarlin. Tarlin pointed to the possible negative effects of "Roots" upon black viewers. His feelings seemed to be one of worry that "Roots" was "reopening the festering wounds of an outraged people that we have, for the past century, made at least some attempts at healing, however miniscule."

I would like to point a few things out about his article. One cannot deny the historical brutal past of this country's treatment of blacks. Those "festering wounds of an outraged people" will never be healed in our life time. The viewing of "Roots" cannot reopen wounds or for that matter close them. Everytime a black person reads an accurate account of this country's pass treatment of blacks not found in the typical white American History 101 or 201 classes taught at white institutions, including this one, one realizes the wounds have always existed and will always be carried within one's self, beginning at birth.

The past cannot be denied nor changed. I believe that the anger stems from a show such as "Roots", comes from finding out that the truth has been hidden, covered up, ignored, and left out. Throughout my own course of studies I have found that there is much history to be read regarding my people. But one has to look hard and not in the typical mainstream classes to find it. Why is that?

Now dealing with the present, and this university, anytime a black or Third World student walks down a street and hears racial slurs or received bodily harm, (it has been known to occur) those wounds fester. When Brothers like Earl Brown and Craemen Gethers are snatched from our midst and placed before the "hand of justice" that is known to jail m[illegible] just-us, those wounds fester. When a black or Third World student walks into a white classroom and can tell by the look on the instructor's face that it is already assumed that you are not capable of the work, those wounds fester. Better yet, when class is over and the instructor hints or says that you consider dropping the course due to the difficulty level of the material, those wounds fester. So much so that one feels like one big fester.

The examples could go on and on. To Boston, Georgia, to South Africa, does not stop.

One more point, Tarlin stated that he was dismayed that he did not see a decent and respectable white person portrayed in "Roots". I'm sure that even if not shown, there were one or two decent white people back then... But as Tarlin stated in his article, that was the exception and not the rule. I'm dealing not with the exceptions, but the rule. Probably not all pioneers meant to drive Native Americans from their land, or that all Nazis hated Jews. Yet the outcome did not change. To continually show the exception rather than the rule would not have accomplished much but an easing on one's conscience.

I do not advocate that "Roots" presented an accurate account of conditions that existed back then, but it rated higher than the material taught in white American History classes.

Now what does that tell you?

A Sister

UNITED TRANSMISSION EXCHANGE INC.
All make car and truck transmissions
Repaired - Rebuilt - Exchanged
King St., Northampton
584-6790

OPEN AT RUSH
BKΦ
THE BROTHERHOOD OF BETA KAPPA PHI FRATERNITY INVITES ALL U-MASS MEN TO AN OPEN RUSH ON:
• MONDAY FEB. 7
• TUESDAY FEB. 8
• WEDNESDAY FEB. 9 AT 8:00 P.M.
AND
• SUNDAY FEB. 13 AT 7:00 P.M.
REFRESHMENTS!!
COME OVER, MEET THE BROTHERS, AND SEE ALL THE ADVANTAGES U-MASS GREEK LIFE CAN OFFER AT
BETA KAPPA PHI 388 NORTH PLEASANT ST (LARGE WHITE BRICK HOUSE) CALL: 545-0210 -0211

Warm welcome for Stevie

LAGOS, Nigeria [UPI] — American musician Stevie Wonder arrived to an enthusiastic welcome in Lagos Sunday, where he will take part in the Second World Black and African Festival of Art and Culture FESTAC.

Lagos airport security officials were unable to control hundreds of young fans who mobbed the singer, hugging and kissing him.

Wonder, blind since infancy, told reporters, "My two-week visit to Nigeria is the fulfillment of a life-long dream. I will tour parts of the country and make donations to institutions for the blind and other handicapped children and make them realize all is not lost for anybody handicapped."

Acknowledged as one of America's top popular musicians, Wonder is to perform at FESTAC, but details have not yet been given.

American groups performing Sunday where the Wajumbe troupe, People Who Bring Message. The San Francisco-based group gave a performance of dance, music and poetry portraying the history of the black man in the United States.

Another American artist who kept a capacity crowd on its feet during his performance was jazz musician Michael White. White, a clean-shaven band leader from Houston, Texas, got a rousing ovation from the audience with his instrumental jazz piece "Space Land."

White said in an interview, "FESTAC in Nigeria will surely occupy a long paragraph when the history of the black man is written. I am greatly overwhelmed with joy."

Stevie Wonder Entertainer — World famous musician and composer arrived in Lagos to take part in the 1977 activities of FESTAC.

'Roots' gets D-minus for historical accuracy

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. [UPI] — The television production of "Roots" successfully explored certain aspects of slavery, says a University of North Carolina history professor, but he would give the show a "D-Minus" for historical accuracy.

"I give 'Roots' a real plus for showing black people's yearning for freedom," said Dr. Joel Williamson, a recognized authority on black history and race relations.

But historically, he said, the television production was lacking.

"They just didn't have the history," he said. "I'm not criticizing book author Alex Haley, only the Hollywood types."

For example, Williamson said, the television show said the Nat Turner rebellion was in 1841, when it actually occured in 1831.

"In the broad sweep of life, I reckon that doesn't mean much, but it makes you wonder what else they're missing," Williamson said.

Williamson was particularly critical of the portrayal of Old George, the poor white who associated and lived with black slaves.

"I'm sure it happened now and again in the whole South, but you shouldn't think a poor white associating with, and living with, black slaves was a normal thing. On the whole, the Old South was notorious in that white, non-slaveholding whites did not hobnob with blacks."

Williamson also criticized a technical inaccuracy — the use of matches 60 years before they were invented.

Punishments depicted in the show were true to history, he said.

"They were that bad," he said. "They would cut off a foot for recurrent runaways."

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — GOTCHA' — Bobby Shavers lets go with a couple of snowballs at Bryant Barnes as the area children enjoy the "easy pack'en" snow left behind by Friday's storm. (UPI Photo)

Beat The Bustle
Join the Ski Club
Trips, Movies, Information, Discounts, Nite Skiing
Today is last day of our membership drive in the C.C. Concourse So
DO IT!

A section of the fans who turned out to watch a recent UMass game. From the expression on their faces, Alex Eldridge must have had the ball!

Black Affairs

What the X is all about

It is that time of year again where organizations on campus take interest in re-introducing themselves as a viable entity on UMass campus. The Malcolm X Center is one of these organizations that wants to take this opportunity to reacquaint itself with the UMass community at large. The Malcolm X Center, located in the Berkshire Dining Commons is the only recreational and academic center on campus. Almost 6 years in existence, the Center has provided many programs, activities, academic projects, and lectures series to the Southwest and surrounding campus and Five-College area. The Malcolm X Center is funded by the Southwest Assembly and through the Black Caucus uses these funds for these interesting and informative programs. Though the Center co-sponsored many events during the past year, the format for this year is to develop more projects generated from within the Center's walls.

As a Third World center we urge Third World students to participate in the upcoming events of the new semester and become involved with the MXC staff and patrons. This center was developed for you and we need your support, suggestions, and your presence. The Malcolm X Center is open 12 noon - 1 a.m. Mondays - Fridays and 12 noon - 9 p.m. Sundays. For more informatiion call the Center at 5-2819. There is always someone around.

Consuelo Williams

Announcement

Broadway tickets sold

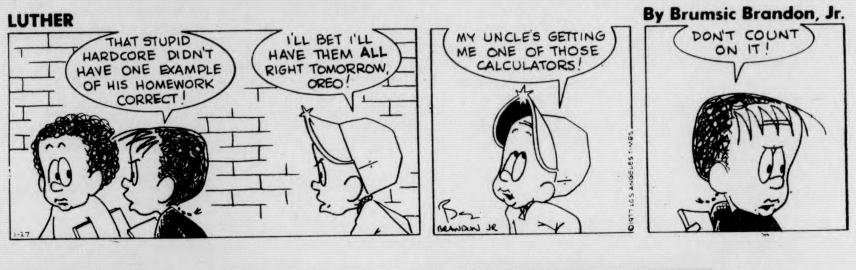
Tickets to see the play "Colored Girls" are all sold out. The trip to New York is for this coming Saturday February 12th. Buses will leave The New Africa House at 12 noon and will return by 1:00 a.m. to New Africa House.

Thoughts:

Take pride in your heritage. Celebrate Black History Week Feb. 7-13

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.



THAT STUPID HARDCORE DIDN'T HAVE ONE EXAMPLE OF HIS HOMEWORK CORRECT!
I'LL BET I'LL HAVE THEM ALL RIGHT TOMORROW, OREO!
MY UNCLE'S GETTING ME ONE OF THOSE CALCULATORS!
DON'T COUNT ON IT!
1-27
BRANDON JR
©1977 LOS ANGELES TIMES

MIKES WESTVIEW
The Two Bitter
10 oz. glasses Old Milwaukee Beer 25¢
large pitchers $1.95.

BLACK AFFAIRS NEEDS WRITERS AND POETS.
All interested students should contact Nasser Ega or Angela Thomas at the Collegian (545-3500)

Sylvan meeting

Meeting of the Sylvan Cultural Society Wednesday, Jan. 9, at 10:10 p.m. in 01 Cashin. All Third World Sylvan residents are urged to attend.

Urgent meeting

There will be a meeting for all Third World students interested in The Black News Services here at UMass. Black News Services include Nummo News, Black Affairs, and BMCP. People are needed to keep these vital organizations operating for the interest of the Third community at UMass. Please come out before it is too late.

The meeting is tonight at 7 p.m. in New Africa House. Please attend!

CAMPUS CENTER/STUDENT UNION SPACE ALLOCATIONS

Applications are now available for all persons interested in applying for space for 1977-78. All groups wishing to renew or change space for next year must apply. Forms are available at the Board of Governors office, 817 Campus Center, and must be returned no later than Tuesday, February 22, 1977.

The CC—SU Board of Governors is an Equal Opportunity—Affirmative Action organization.

Children refuse to return home

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa [AP] — More than 300 black Rhodesian students allegedly kidnaped by black guerrillas from a school last week refused to return with their parents, reporters on the scene said.

"We know our mothers were intimidated by Prime Minister Ian Smith's government to come pick us up against their will," one student who refused to go home reportedly said. "This has been confirmed by a number of parents in our private discussions with neighboring Botswana where they conferred with their children in private at the district commissioner's office.

Reporters said 333 of 384 students refused to return to Rhodesia, which is ruled by Smith's white-minority government.

The meeting was supervised by the British high commissioner in Botswana, Peter Rafter; International Red Cross representative Nicholas de Rougemont, and Burgess Carr, secretary-general of the All Africa Council of Church children had a right to decide for themselves.

What Campus Group Co-sponsors the Heart Fund Walk?

Black history week

The Third World Center of Orchard Hill is sponsoring the following events in celebration of Black History Week.

Tuesday, Feb. 8, at 8:00 p.m. Ernest Washington will speak on the Black family.

Wednesday, Feb. 9, at 9:00 p.m. Miguel Rivera will speak on Puerto Rico.

Thursday, Feb. 10, at 8:00 p.m. the film "Black Culture, Lost, Strayed or Stolen" will be shown.

To finish off the week there will be an art exhibit on Sunday, Feb. 13, from 2:00 - 6:00 p.m.

Everyone is invited. All events take place at the Third World Center (located in Dickenson House in Orchard Hill)

All events are FREE.

Smith denies charge

RHODESIA — Salisbury, Rhodesia — Prime Minister Ian Smith denies charges by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance that the white regime in Rhodesia appears determined to scuttle plans to transfer power to blacks.

INDIANAPOLIS: Tommy Kiritsis is pointing to an apartment that his brother Anthony Kiritsis has barracaded himself with a hostage. Tommy is assisting police in an effort to persuade his brother to surrender his hostage, Richard Hall, 50, a mortgage company executive. (UPI)

Proposed bill would combat oil firms

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Reps. John Seiberling, D-Ohio, and Morris Udall, D-Ariz., said yesterday they will introduce a bill with 29 co-sponsors Wednesday that would break up the big oil companies.

The divestiture proposal, similar to bills introduced in the last Congress, would prohibit any company from holding substantial interests in more than one energy source, such as oil, coal and uranium.

It would also prevent a company from operating in more than one phase of the oil and gas process, such as production, refining, transportation and retail sales.

The oil companies have always opposed such bills on grounds that making big firms into small ones would merely hinder the nation's search for new energy resources.

Udall and Seiberling said their bill would also bar the 11 biggest firms from joint ventures unless the attorney general approves and oversees the ventures "to ensure competition."

"For many years now, the power of the huge oil companies has succeeded in thwarting effective enforcement of the antitrust laws in the oil industry," they said in a joint statement.

They said the bill would restore competition to areas where it has been lacking and where antitrust laws has not been able to ensure independent oil firms a competitive footing.

"Government regulation cannot replace the marketplace and, as is dramatically illustrated by the current natural gas crisis, the large petroleum companies end up getting the price they demand," the congressmen said.

The oil divestiture bill that made most headway in the last congressional session was a "vertical" divestiture bill, which would have barred the 18 largest firms from operating in more than one phase of the industry. For example, a big producer could not also be a big retailer of gasoline.

Oil spokesmen called the idea "dismemberment" and said it would hurt the United States in its attempt to be self-sufficient in energy.

That bill squeaked through the Senate Judiciary Committee by an 8-7 vote, but went no further. The Senate never scheduled it for debate and it died when the session ended.

Air controllers hit

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia [UPI] — A public prosecutor Tuesday charged eight air traffic controllers with responsibility for the deaths of all 176 persons in September in the worst air collision in history.

An indictment against the eight men said there was "suspicion they have committed a criminal act against the general safety of people and property and are responsible."

The 22-page indictment reported damage claims from the accident have mounted to more than $17 million. No trial date was set.

The charge was handed down 45 days after an investigatory commission reported controller Gradimir Tasic forgot he gave instructions that put a Yugoslav DC9 carrying West German tourists on a collision course with a British Airways Trident 3.

Tasic, 28, has been in custody since the collision at 33,000 feet Sept. 10 near Zagreb, in western Yugoslavia.

Slabodan Tatarac, a deputy prosecutor at the Zagreb district court, said Tasic "failed to ensure regular separation of the planes, belatedly realized conflict situations and did not undertake precise measures for preventing the collision."

WORK/STUDY

Interesting Work—Study Jobs available in the Student Senate Office and the SGA Office of Communications.

Applications are available in the Senate Office, 420 S.U.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT
ASSOCIATION

Look Into Your Future

Be an Air Force Missileman

You can prepare yourself to enter this exciting field by enrolling in an Air Force ROTC program. You can select from four-year and two-year programs leading to a commission as an Air Force officer.

Also there are scholarships available, with a $100 monthly allowance, full tuition, books and lab fees paid. After college, you'll have an opportunity for a challenging job and graduate educational degrees.

If you're the type of guy who looks forward to an exciting future, look into Air Force ROTC programs that include preparation as a missile launch officer in the Air Force. Help continue the traditions that have made our country so great. Be an Air Force missileman.

Call Major Richardson at 545-2437

Air Force ROTC

Gun instructor takes company president hostage

INDIANAPOLIS [UPI] — A former West Point gun instructor, furious because his mortgage was foreclosed, took a real estate company president hostage, marched him through downtown Indianapolis with a shotgun to his head, and held off police throughout the day.

The gunman holed up with his captive in his apartment, which he said was wired with explosives.

As night fell around the apartment, surrounded by 200 policemen, authorities said they were prepared for a "long siege" to free Richard Hall, 42, and capture Anthony Kiritsis, 44.

Police said Kiritsis had bought at least 25 sticks of dynamite in recent days. They searched Kiritsis' car for explosives at the lot where it was found in downtown Indianapolis near the building that houses Hall Hottel Co., Realtors.

Police dickered with Kiritsis over his demand of immunity and being freed from a $130,000 mortgage held by Hall's company. One of the negotiating team said he believed the abduction "was his alternative plan. I really believe his real plan was to blow up the building downtown."

Kiritsis was at the real estate company yesterday morning when it opened. A bookkeeper reported he said he had to talk to Hall.

Shortly after the two men went into Hall's office "we heard somebody slammed up against the wall."

Kiritsis fastened the muzzle of a sawed-off shotgun at the base of Hall's neck with a leather strap, then secured it with a coat hanger.

He then paraded Hall through downtown Indianapolis in his shirtsleeves in 5-above-zero temperatures, holding police at bay and attracting a crowd of spectators before taking a police car he had demanded to have Hall drive him to the apartment.

"Back off or I'll blow him away. I'm not crazy... I can be a nice guy," Kiritsis warned police. Officers blocked off streets to allow the pair through.

William Hall, Hall's brother and president of Meridian Mortgage Co., said it was willing to cancel Kiritsis' debt, due March 1. But Kiritsis rejected mortgage papers when they were first slipped under the apartment door.

"It looks like we are in for a long siege," Indianapolis Deputy Police Chief James T. McAtee said. He said indications were that Kiritsis had enough food in the apartment to last four days.

Chief Eugene Gallagher pulled police snipers from their high vantage spots after reports indicated Kiritsis did have the apartment heavily wired, whether explosives were actually connected to the wires or not.

Gallagher said a bullet disrupting the wiring on sliding glass patio doors and other windows might set off enough explosives to level the X-shaped building at Crestwood Village West.

ISP Sgt. Frank M. Love, who attended nearby Ben Davis High School with Kiritsis, said he had once been a small arms instructor at the U.S. Military Academy and had handled explosives.

One of Kiritsis' brothers, James, was brought to the apartment.

Program Council Film Series

Thurs., Feb. 10
Slaughterhouse V
CCA 7, 9, 11 — $1.00
★★★★
Fri., Feb. 11
Next Stop Greenwich Village
SUB 7, 9, 11 — $1.00
★★★★
Sun. Feb. 13
Man Who Fell to Earth
SUB 7, 9:15, 11:30

MCAT
LSAT

Our 38th Year

Classes offered in:
AMHERST!
Call or write us at
25 Huntington Ave.
Boston 02116
(617) 261-5150

or better yet call our local Rep!
Susan Taub
542-3392 after 2.

Also DAT, GMAT, GRE, SAT, OCAT
VAT, National Medical Boards

Stanley H. KAPLAN
EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION
SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938
Branches in major US cities

roister doister drama society
presents

Flowers for Algernon
by
David Rogers

February 11, 12, 13, 18 & 19
8:00 p.m.
Bowker Aud.
Stockbridge Hall UMass.
Tickets on sale now at Bowker Box Office
Reservations — 545-0783 — Information

Almys
YOU'RE IMPORTANT TO US!
Mt. Farms Mall, Hadley

HALF OFF ORIGINAL PRICE
ON WOMEN'S COATS and DRESSES

Commission proposes election fund increase

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The Federal Election Commission yesterday suggested Congress consider increasing the government funds used to finance presidential elections and the amounts primary candidates can raise and spend.

Following the nation's first publicly financed presidential election, the FEC said that the current $21.8 million per candidate limit the government spends on the general election, and the $12 million contenders can raise and spend in primaries, may not be sufficient.

"The experience of the 1976 elections suggests that the Congress may wish to raise the presidential spending limitations," the FEC said in its annual legislative recommendations.

The entitlement for presidential candidates receiving full funding for the general election could be increased to $25 million, $30 million or $35 million.

The FEC also said Congress should consider raising the $2 million in public financing for the national party conventions and the $12 million limit on candidate seeking the presidential nomination. The $12 million is not paid with public funds.

The FEC did not recommend any specific new limits, but said they should be set "at a significantly high level to allow the candidates and the political parties to wage vigorous campaigns."

Among the other recommended changes in the campaign reform law were:

—State committees of a political party should be allowed to spend the greater of $25,000 or two cents for each voter on behalf of the party's presidential candidate. This would be in addition to current national spending limits.

—Local and state committees should be allowed to distribute campaign materials such as pins and bumper stickers without regard to the national limits. This would encourage grass roots participation in the election.

Appearing
Wed. & Thurs.
Jonathan
Edwards
at
The rusty nail Inn
Rte. 47, Sunderland
665-4937

US may resume the draft system

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Army Chief of Staff Bernard Rogers said yesterday the nation might have to resume the draft to offset future manpower shortages, and indicated present standby draft machinery could not meet the needs of a European war.

The general told a Senate Armed Services Committee hearing on European defenses that U.S. units are now "outgunned" in some respects, and Soviet bloc troops "directly facing NATO are, in the main, more ready than NATO defense forces."

Rogers answered questions on whether — as some members of Congress now believe — the nation will need to return to the draft system scrapped in 1973.

He did not link the potential need for a new draft with the present all volunteer active army, but with shortages of Army reserve force manpower.

Organized reserve units are 80,000 men below their peacetime manning goals, Rogers said, projecting a further shortfall of 320,000 men in the "ready" reserve manpower pool that would flesh out combat units in case of war.

"If we cannot fill these reserve components, then very serious consideration must be given to implementation of Selective Service," he said.

The two-year period that starts with the next budget, Oct. 1, he said, will be "critical" in determining whether reserve manpower needs can be met without the draft.

Rogers said NATO could have as little as 24 hours warning time in the event of any sudden Soviet bloc attack on Western Europe, "although my personal opinion is that we would have around 14 days."

He said the present standby draft system would take an estimated 110 days to get the first draftee to a training center and 210 days into a unit.

"We would prefer that it might be quicker than that," he said. "We would prefer 30 days to get him into the training command."

A proposal to set up a manpower pool of 650,000 standby draftees was waiting for the Carter administration when it took over.

Rogers said a package of proposals would be coming to Congress to solve reserve problems, "but it will be very expensive."

He gave no details, but defense sources said alternatives might include: Stepped up recruiting and a draft to fill reserve vacancies.

Poor Richards
WEDNESDAY
50¢ DRINKS ALL NIGHT

Winter is Here!

UMOC Outing Club Rentals UMOC

X-Country Skiis	$1.50/day	$5 deposit
Mountaineering Skiis	$1.00/day	$5 deposit
Snowshoes	75¢/day	$5 deposit
Winter Sleeping Bags	$1.50/day	$5 deposit
Ice Axes	75¢/day	$15 deposit
Crampons	75¢/day	$15 deposit
Mouse Boots	25¢/day

The Outing Club equipment locker is located in the Old Bellhop Room in the passageway connecting the Campus Center Garage with the Campus Center.

Hours are Mon.-Thurs. 4-7 p.m., Fri. 11 a.m.-2 p.m.

Telephone 545-2020

SOUTH CHICAGO, Ill: Armed with two six packs of beer, rebel candidate Ed Sadowski leaves his campaign headquarters and heads for home after voting in the United Steel Workers union election. (UPI)

Steelworkers' union elect new officers

PITTSBURGH [AP] — The direction of the United Steelworkers union's relations with the steel industry was put to a vote yesterday as the union's rank and file chose new officers.

Battling for the presidency of the 1.4-million-member union are Lloyd McBride, a moderate backed by the USW administration, and Edward Sadlowski, a rebel who says the only way working people will get their full share from management is by fighting for it.

In the early voting, spokesmen for both candidates said the turnout was heavy.

"We expect it to be over 600,000," said a McBride supporter.

A Sadlowski aide described interest in the election as "enormous". "It will be the biggest vote in the history of the union," he said.

A complete tally of the ballots was expected to take several days, but each candidate's staff planned to gather unofficial results, which should show a trend by Thursday.

McBride campaigned as the "responsible" union veteran, and supported the view of retiring President I.W. Abel that labor and management should create a stable relationship that would benefit both workers and industry.

Sadlowski called that attitude a "sellout" and a betrayal of the principles of unionism. Among other things, he wants to do away with the union's no-strike agreement with the steel industry.

Abel, backing McBride, said that if Sadlowski wins decisively he would resign immediately and not participate in steel negotiations set to begin next week.

Interest in the election is widespread. As the nation's largest industrial union and the most influential member of the AFL-CIO, the USW often sets the pace for other labor contracts. Control of the steelworkers could also affect the national economy through its effects on steel production and prices.

In the waning weeks of a bitter campaign, McBride repeatedly attacked Sadlowski as a stooge for outsiders intent on infiltrating the labor movement through the USW.

Sadlowski dismissed the allegations, calling them a smokescreen to divert attention from important union issues, such as membership ratification of contracts.

Both candidates had observers at as many of the 6,000 polling places as they could. The Department of Labor also had advisers in each of the union's districts.

SPECIAL
3 for 2
Cleaning Offer
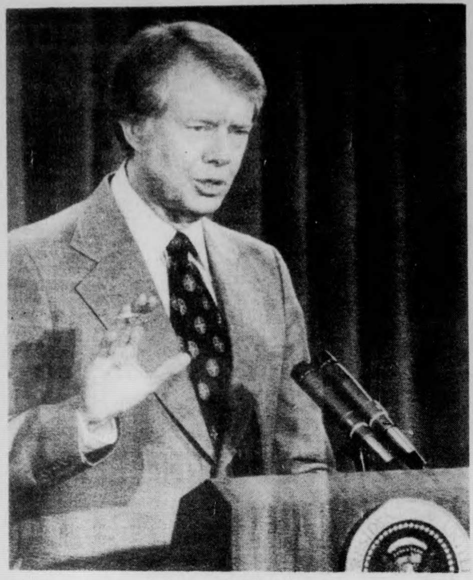
Your Garments Receive The Same High Quality Drycleaning—Only The Price Is Lower. ACT NOW
SEND 3 GARMENTS PAY FOR 2 GARMENTS GET 1 FREE!
SEND 6 GARMENTS PAY FOR 4 GET 2 CLEANED FREE
SEND 9 GARMENTS PAY FOR 6 GET 3 CLEANED FREE
(Least Expensive Garment In Order Is The Free One. All Suits Considered As One Garment.)

Braff's Royl Cleaners
103 N. Pleasant Street
(across from Louis's Foods)
430 Federal St., Greenfield 130 Main St., Greenfield 256-8288



President Carter holds his first news conference 2-8 in the Executive Office Building across from the White House. (UPI)

'Balance of power' must be maintained with Soviets

WASHINGTON [AP] — Declaring that the United States has nuclear superiority over the Soviet Union, President Carter said yesterday it is "very, very important" that both nations take fresh initiatives to restrain armaments while maintaining an over-all balance of power.

At his first White House news conference, Carter again expressed concern about Soviet treatment of dissident Russians and argued that taking Moscow to task of human rights issues should have no effect on the search for ways to curb the arms race.

The President's discussion of serious topics was laced with occasional humor as he faced reporters, and a national television-radio audience, in an auditorium next door to the White House.

Questions about the handling of arms negotiations with the Soviets dominated the session, with Carter disclosing for the first time that he has asked Moscow to abandon the deployment of hard-to-detect mobile missile launchers, used for missiles of less than intercontinental range. He also suggested each country give the other advance notice of any planned testing of intercontinental missiles.

Carter, who has consistently decried international trafficking in arms, said that a proposed sale of concussion bombs to Israel, approved during the final months of President Gerald R. Ford's administration, "concerns me very much." He said he will decide within the next week "whether to cancel that sale."

On domestic topics, Carter said:

— A long-range energy program he has promised to unveil by April 20 will "require substantial sacrifices on the part of the American people" and will bar any unjustified profits by the oil and gas industries.

— He hopes to use his veto power sparingly but if Congress made "such drastic changes" in his draft legislation aimed at stimulating the economy that "would cause me to doubt its effectiveness or viability, I would of course veto it."

Second Christian mission attacked by Rhodesian guerrillas

SALISBURY, Rhodesia [AP] — Black guerrillas burned and looted offices of a second Christian mission, the government said yesterday, while security forces searched rain-soaked bush for raiders who killed seven white missionaries Sunday.

No casualties were reported in the raid on Nyashanu mission 125 miles southeast of Salisbury near the Mozambique border. The government did not say which church operated the mission or when the attack took place. It said the attackers took about $5,400 and burned a mission workshop and office.

Three Jesuits and four Dominican nuns were lined up and shot Sunday night in an attack on St. Paul's Roman Catholic Mission in the Musami tribal area 26 miles northeast of Salisbury and about 150 miles from the Nyashanu mission.

Outlawed black guerrilla units said agents of the white government of Prime Minister Ian Smith were behind the attack, the largest group killing of whites in four years of guerrilla war aimed at black rule. The country has 270,000 whites and more than 5 million blacks.

There was no official response to the charge, but it was believed the government hoped to capture the attackers alive to refute the claims.

More conservative black nationalist leaders in Salisbury refrained from commenting on the deaths.

The Vatican daily newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said Tuesday the killings were a crime that "no civilized creature could approve." The shootings were deplored by Pope Paul on Monday and Archbishop Patrick Chakaipa, first black leader of the Church in Rhodesia, said they "made a mockery" of black nationalist ideals.

In neighboring black-ruled Zambia, the government-owned Zambia Daily Mail accused Smith's government of killing the missionaries to counter embarrassment over last week's apparent defection of 333 black students from a school in southwest Rhodesia into neighboring Botswana and the ranks of black guerrillas.

CHEQUERS
Wednesday is Mich Nite
Happy Hour never stops!
4→closing
Cheese and Crackers early
hot dogs and sauerkraut late
COME AND ENJOY!

B. G. JEWELCRAFT CO.
fine silver jewelry
VALENTINE'S DAY SALE
Bring this ad in for special discount.
ON CONCOURSE LEVEL

The Brothers of
SIGMA PHI EPSILON
invite all university men to an Open Rush
on
Tuesday, February 8 — 7:30
Wednesday, February 9 — 7:30
Thursday, February 10 — 7:30
Tired of the dorms? Our living situation offers the individual the opportunity to expand himself both socially and academically. Come meet the men of the best fraternity on campus...
"SIG EP"
Beer
For Rides or Information
Call: 545-0070

AN ODYSSEY
of
SOUND

RECORD SALE
ROCK
JAZZ
BLUES
FOLK
CLASSICAL

$1.98 to $14.98
at the
University Store
Campus Center
Univ. of Mass.

More unmarrieds living together

WASHINGTON [AP] — The number of unmarried couples living together in the United States has risen dramatically in the past six years, with the sharpest increase reported among individuals under age 45, a Census Bureau report disclosed yesterday.

For the population as a whole, the number of couples living together has doubled. But among persons under age 45, the increase has been nearly fivefold, the Census Bureau said.

The increase parallels another finding that Americans are getting married at a later age. But a Census analyst declined to speculate whether shared-living arrangements are causing couples to postpone marriage or whether later marriages are causing unmarried couples to live together.

Despite the increase in the number of unmarried couples living together, shared living arrangements constitute about 1 per cent of all households.

"Ultimately it looks like marriage as an institution is still with us," said Arthur J. Norton, chief of Census' marriage and family statistics branch.

The Census report said 1.3 million persons last year lived in two-person households shared by unrelated persons of the opposite sex. That compared to 654,000 individuals in 1970 and 484,000 in 1960.

The same report showed that the 1976 median age for an individual's first marriage was 23.8 for men and 21.3 for women, an increase of about a year over the median recorded in 1966.

The ages, however, are still below the median ages of 24.3 for men and 21.5 for women recorded at the start of World War I.

Like other reports on marital status and living arrangements in recent years, the latest also showed more couples are getting divorced. There were 75 divorced individuals for every 1,000 married persons living with their spouse last year, compared to 47 per 1,000 in 1970.

The percentage of persons aged 14 to 34 who have never married was 56.2 per cent in 1976, up from 55.2 per cent in 1975 and 54.8 per cent in 1970. Meanwhile, the percentage of persons age 35 and older who have never married dropped to 5.8 per cent in 1976, compared to 6.4 per cent in 1975 and 7.3 per cent in 1970.

What
Campus Organization
Raised Over $1000
For Charity This Year?

NEW JERSEY: Al Hutchins bores into the ice with a motorized drill on Lake Hopatcong while Joe Franze cooks lunch. People have been driving their vehicles on the lake to fish and to take short cuts across. Some cars have fallen through near the shore line, but no one has been injured yet. (UPI)

Windmills possible energy alternative

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. [UPI] — Reed Zars, like Don Quixote, dreams of windmills.

But in the dreams of the Williams College senior, the structures became the answer to demands for decreasing the costs of power for the school.

Zars says windmills could soon be providing a large portion of the college's power if Williams administrators accept a proposal he recently submitted.

The 21-year-old student spent four months examining annual wind currents and energy needs of the school. Now he says three windmills built on Berlin Pass near Petersburg, N.Y., about five miles from the northwestern Massachusetts school, could easily produce one-fifth of Williams College's energy needs.

"The pass is a very, very nice place as far as wind power is concerned — it's a fairly natural wind funnel," he says.

Zars proposes that the school build three 100-kilowatt windmills and place them on college-owned land on the pass. The windmills would have 125-foot diameter fiberglass blades and would have 100-foot high, steel-girdered superstructures.

He says by placing one windmill on each lip of the pass and another in the center of the pass, the college could take full advantage of the Taconic area's average 14 mile per hour winds.

The windmills would each cost about $100,000 and it would cost another $100,000 to run transmission lines the five miles from the wind-mills to the college, Zars says.

That $400,000 cost would produce two million kilowatts of power for the school, but he points out the windmills "would certainly pay for themselves within 10 years.

"There's a 50 per cent increase in power costs predicted by 1985 and that's perfect if you want to build windmills," he says. "With windmills, you don't have to pay anything once they're put up."

Zars says his study shows that the windmills could save $698,000 within eight years "and that's quite above what would be spent on building them.

SKI CLUB
MEETING TONITE
Trip info. & sign-up
Movie
Door Prizes
(Free Trips)
Memberships taken
Wednesday, February 9 8 p.m. Thompson 104

— Just one more day left.
— One day for what?
— One day for making the best decision of your college career.
— What decision?
The decision to get out of your rut and get into something more comfortable, congenial and meaningful.
Sign up for
Sorority Rush
and find out what it's all about.
REGISTER at the Greek Affairs Office, 203 Hampshire House 8-5 p.m. or the Panhellenic Office, Campus Center 169, 9:15-3 p.m.
Final Deadline — Wed., Feb. 9th 5 p.m.

Thursday Night
at the
PUB
The Great Rubberband

POSITIONS OPEN
The Student Government is currently accepting applications for the position of Director of Communications
and the position of
Affirmative Action Officer
Applicants should have some experience in their respective fields, and must be undergraduates. More information and application forms are available in the Student Senate Office, 420 Student Union.
The SGA is an Equal Opportunity Affirmative Action employer.
STUDENT GOVERNMENT
ASSOCIATION

NEWS IN BRIEF

Carter endorses arms negotiator

WASHINGTON [UPI] — President Carter yesterday endorsed Paul Warnke as his chief arms negotiator and predicted he would be confirmed overwhelmingly despite conservative criticism that he may not be qualified to stand up to the Russians.

An informal sounding among congressional aides and senators indicates that Warnke probably will be approved.

Carter told a news conference that Warnke had twice turned down the job but he could find no one else of his caliber. "I have complete confidence in him," the President said.

Senator urges capital punishment

BOSTON [UPI] — Saying he "thinks" it will deter murder, a state senator yesterday urged a legislative committee to endorse a bill he has cosponsored to reinstate capital punishment in Massachusetts.

"I think capital punishment will deter first degree murder. I don't know for sure, but we'll never know if it is a deterrent unless we implement it," said Sen. Arthur J. Lewis Jr., D-Boston.

"If a person kills another person he should be punished and the highest punishment is death," he added.

Lewis spoke before the Judiciary Committee in support of a capital punishment bill he has cosponsored with Rep. Michael Flaherty, D-Boston, cochairman of the committee. The House last week asked the State Supreme Court to issue an advisory opinion on the constitutionality of the measure.

'Hustler' publisher found guilty

CINCINNATI [UPI] — Hustler Magazine Publisher Larry Flynt yesterday was found guilty of pandering obscenity and engaging in organized crime and sentenced to the maximum penalties of 25 years in prison and a $11,000 fine.

Hustler Magazine Corp. also was found guilty of both charges.

Three other defendents, Flynt's brother, Jimmy, his wife, Althea, and Al Van Schaik, all magazine staffers, were found innocent of both charges.

Officials halt Ford production

WASHINGTON [UPI] — In an unprecedented order expected to have a major impact on the auto industry, federal officials today stopped production of some 1977 Ford Granadas and Mercury Monarchs because they may emit illegal amounts of carbon monoxide.

The Environmental Protection Agency said tests of cars from Ford assembly lines in Wayne, Mich., and Mahwa, N.J., showed up to eight times the legal level of carbon monoxide pollution. It said faulty carburetor design was to blame.

Halfway house rejected

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. [UPI] — A proposed halfway house for emotionally disturbed adults in the city's Forest Park area has been rejected by the City Council.

After hearing heated opposition to the plan from neighborhood residents, the council Monday night voted 5-4 against the proposal by the Mental Health Association of Greater Springfield.

Councilor Barbara J. Garvey argued in favor of the proposal, saying the fears of neighborhood residents "are real but I think they are unfounded."

Argo Merchant's cargo uncertain

BOSTON [AP] — The Coast Guard said yesterday its divers still don't know if the sunken bow of the wrecked tanker Argo Merchant is carrying an estimated 1.3 million gallons of trapped oil.

Cmdr. Barry Chambers, head of the Coast Guard's Atlantic Strike Team, said severe winter storms and rough seas have hampered efforts to investigate "a large metal chunk" believed to be the tanker bow.

MAZE BOOKS
FEATURING 3-D MAZES!
Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
Open 9:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.

Spain eases stand on Communists

MADRID, Spain [AP] — Spain's post-Franco government is considering legalizing the long-outlawed Communist party as well as establishing diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union, government sources said yesterday. Relations between Madrid and Moscow have been broken since the Spanish civil war of the 1930s.

The sources said that during a lengthy cabinet session, Premier Adolfo Suarez and his ministers discussed coupling such an "opening to the East" with changes in Spanish law which could lead to lifting curbs on Spain's Communist party.

The liberal newspaper Diario 16 predicted both moves would be approved. But it said an official announcement of resuming diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union probably would be delayed to avert a possible right-wing backlash on the eve of King Juan Carlos' visit to Rome to see Pope Paul VI. The king's visit, aimed at improving relations with the Vatican after decades of strain, will be the first by a Spanish monarch to a pontiff since 1923.

Suarez held the cabinet in lengthy session as French and Italian Communist party officials conferred in Madrid on the possibility of holding a March summit meeting of Western European Communist leaders in Spain.

At the cabinet meeting, Foreign Minister Marcelino Oreja was reported to have given a briefing on Moscow-Madrid relations. If relations are resumed, Czechoslovakia and Hungary would be the only Eastern bloc countries with which Spain has no diplomatic ties.

Technical Students
Want summer, free lance, independent employment, higher money for your skills, send for Free brochure describing The Contract Engineering Handbook a necessity for all technical students.
MUTUAL PUBLICATIONS
102 Charles Street
Boston, Mass. 02114

OPEN RUSH AT
BKΦ
THE BROTHERHOOD OF BETA KAPPA PHI FRATERNITY INVITES ALL U-MASS MEN TO AN OPEN RUSH ON:
• MONDAY FEB. 7
• TUESDAY FEB. 8
• WEDNESDAY AND FEB. 9 AT 8:00 P.M.
• SUNDAY FEB. 13 — AT 7:00 P.M.
REFRESHMENTS!!
COME OVER, MEET THE BROTHERS, AND SEE ALL THE ADVANTAGES U-MASS GREEK LIFE CAN OFFER AT
BETA KAPPA PHI 388 NORTH PLEASANT ST. (LARGE WHITE BRICK HOUSE) CALL 545-0210 -0211

Always wanted to have your ears pierced?

One Day Only
Sat., Feb. 12, 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.
You can have your ears pierced by a professional nurse with a doctor in attendance. It's done with 24-karat gold plate non-allergenic surgical stainless steel earrings.
ONLY $8.00
Includes 24 Kt. Gold Plated Surgical Earrings
10% Student Discount on other earrings
J. Cifarelli, Jeweler
Mt. Farms Mall Hadley

He's quite a man

MANSFIELD, Conn. [UPI] — Harry Hannah is living to a ripe old age and says his secret in reaching 109 is simple: "I don't go out with the boys."

"He's quite a man," says his second wife, Florence, a former teacher of arts and crafts at the state's Mansfield Training School for the retarded where her husband retired as supervisor of the storehouse in 1940.

He was all of 72 then.

He says the best thing that happened in his lifetime was the invention of the hearing aid, which allowed him to hear clearly in 1934. Scarlet fever had impaired his hearing at an early age.

To this day, he hears sounds he's not familiar with. To him, they're joyful noises. Generally, the sounds are low pitched.

"Like when the refrigerator comes on, he'll say, 'What's that?'" Mrs. Hannah said.

But he's able to identify high pitched sounds more readily. He cocks his white head and listens to a bird darting along the window sill of his little red house on Rte. 44A and is likely to say, "That's a chickadee."

"How he ever learned to talk is beyond me. His mother must have been very patient and spoke directly into his ear," she said.

WE DELIVER!
(on campus only)
SUN.-THURS.
CALL our new No. 549-5592
Compare our prices
For quick delivery
UNIVERSITY PIZZA
across from Southwest dorms — UMass
(We couldn't be closer . . . so you know it'll be hot!)

STRATFORD, Conn.: Henry Winkler, better known as "The Fonz," will give his best shot to introducing the children to the theater of William Shakespeare when he appears as Romeo in "Henry Winkler Meets William Shakespeare." The show, taped at the American Shakespeare Theater in Stratford, will be broadcast March 20th, 5-6 p.m. as a segment of "The CBS Festival of Lively Arts for Young People." (UPI)

Woolco TIRE AND AUTOMOTIVE CENTERS
We want to be your favorite store
INVENTORY SELLOUT
FULL FOUR PLY POLYESTER CORD TIRES
YOUR CHOICE: WHITEWALLS OR BLACKWALLS
WHILE STOCKS LAST
ALL AMERICAN DELUXE 78
AN All American TIRE
$22 $27
HURRY BUY NOW

SIZE	F.E.T.	SIZE	F.E.T.
A78-13	$1.74	F78-14	$2.39
D78-14	2.12	G78-14	2.55
E78-14	2.25	H78-14	2.75
560-15	1.81	F78-15	2.43
		G78-15	2.58
		H78-15	2.80

all sizes plus F.E.T. & old tire.
FREE AUTO SAFETY CHECK
• Seven Ribs For Control And Traction
• Smooth Riding Polyester Cord Plies
• A Low, Wide Profile For Today's Look
BRAKE OVERHAUL SPECIAL YOUR CHOICE 54.88
2 WHEEL DISC FRONT ONLY
• Install new disc pads
• Rebuild calipers
• Resurface rotors
• Replace brake hardware
• Repack bearings
• Bleed, flush and refill system
4 WHEEL DRUM TYPE
• Install premium linings
• Resurface drums
• Rebuild wheel cylinders
• Replace brake hardware
• Repack front wheel bearings
• Bleed, flush and refill system
MOTOR OIL 57¢ Limit 8 Qts. Quaker State or Pennzoil 10W30 motor oil.
STP GAS TREATMENT 54¢ 8 oz. Limit 2 Helps clean dirty carburetors.
500-XL GAS LINE ANTI-FREEZE 4 FOR $1.00 Limit 8 For quick starts on cold mornings
SHOCK ABSORBERS 2 FOR 12.88 Most U. S. Cars INSTALLED
• Improves handling and steering response
• Original equipment quality
POWER 60 MAINTENANCE FREE BATTERY THE BATTERY THAT NEVER NEEDS WATER 42.88 Exchange
Groups: 22F, 24, 24F, 27, 27F, 72, & 74
• Delivers up to 550 cold cranking AMPS
DELUXE CAR MATS 4.47 Choice of colors in full or twin, front or rear sizes.
ACE AIR FILTERS 1.99 Most U. S. Cars Change air filter regularly for improved engine performance.
8 TRACK TAPE PLAYER & FM STEREO RADIO Boman 69.88 CT-2200
INSTALLATION AVAILABLE
• Solid state power and fidelity
STEREO SPEAKERS SK-55 $9.97 PAIR
WOOLCO MAKES IT EASY TO SHOP
BANKAMERICARD MASTER CHARGE WOOLCO CARD
• CONVENIENT TIME-PAYMENT
• CONVENIENT LAY-AWAY PLAN
BUY WITH CONFIDENCE! SATISFACTION GUARANTEED!
REPLACEMENT OR MONEY GLADLY REFUNDED

Manchester a fountain

MANCHESTER, Vt. [AP] — If there were such things as a fountain of youth, many believed it to be in this southwestern Vermont town.

The Equinox Bottling Plant has not operated for years. But an elderly Chicago man who credits the clear spring water with saving his life still comes here annually hoping to find it restored.

It hasn't happened, but within five years, John Malack, a determined Czechoslovakian architect, claims it will.

And he says The Equinox House, which served the water proudly for more than a century, once again will lodge travelers.

It won't be easy.

★ Median

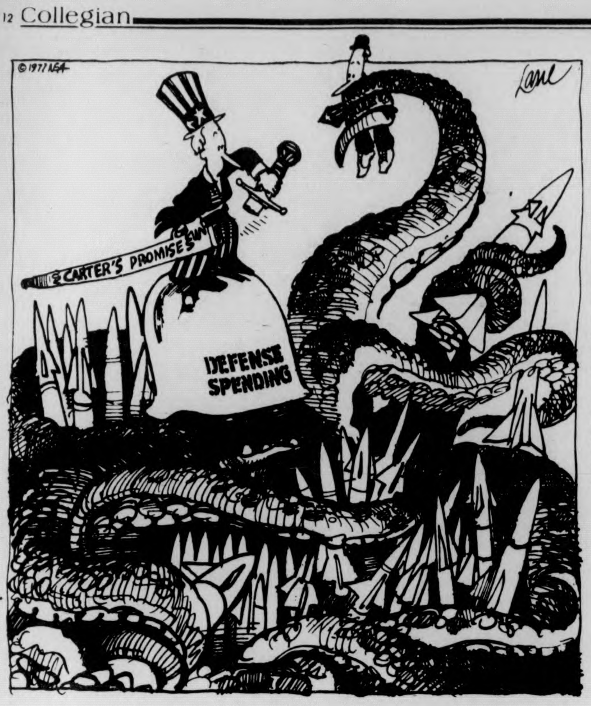
CONT. FROM PAGE 1

continental United States tended to have the lowest charges.

More often than not out of state students still tend to choose more expensive NASULGC schools.

One interesting thing to note is the rise in educational costs over the last ten years. The undergraduate, in-state tuition median for 1965-66 was $311 as compared to the present median of $630. This is an increase of 102 and ½ per cent.

SALE
30% off...
an inventory sale on the finest selection of hand-crafted items we've ever carried. Gold and Silver jewelry, fine leathers and accessories, blown glass and pottery. All at a remarkable 30% off. For one week only FEBRUARY 5 thru FEBRUARY 12.
The Leather Shed
99 north pleasant street amherst mass 01002



letters

Student-run towing is our Right

To the Editor:

I have resurrected plans for a student run tow service, originally presented in October 1975. At that time, the administration was receptive to the proposal though the Senate was apprehensive. Their concern was that by towing fellow students, the work study students who would be operating the proposed tow service would be incurring the same wrath that is now directed towards the less than revered Amherst Tow employees. This point is extremely well taken and a full understanding of it is essential if we want to pull this project off smoothly. The nine or ten students who run the service will be able to handle it. Focus on the other 22,000 of us. Give it some thought and give me a call: 323-4866.

We have an excellent opportunity to finally establish our own tow service on campus. We'll plan it, we'll run it, we'll give it our business and the profits will be spent on us. I am not certain that UMass will sever relations with Amherst Towing, nor that Amherst Towing will go out of business if they do. I'm not certain that we'll be awarded the thousands of dollars we're entitled to as a result of Amherst Towing's illegal $3.75 'surcharge'. I am certain, however, that illegally parked cars will have to be towed, and that either we do it ourselves or we put up with Amherst Towing's piracy and arrogance for the duration of our college careers. Three years means 15,000 cars. This is not the time to dream of free parking and the abolishment of tow zones and fire lanes.

Roger Sturgis

Cance: Still in the dark

To the Editor:

As we sit huddled under our one entrance light, it became obvious that our eyesight and strange seating arrangement could last no longer. We have waited patiently for two weeks for our two issued lamps, which were both damaged upon our arrival.

Please send either lamps, candles, or matches. But then again, we're from Cance. Forget the latter two.

439 Cance
Beth Carpenter
Debbie George

commentary

For whites only

By VALERIE E. YOUNG

It is not the purpose of this editorial to rehash the events of the Earl Brown, Craeman Gethers trials. Week after week the blatant injustices imposed upon these two men are outlined within these pages only to be ignored by white eyes eagerly searching out their horoscope or the comics. The fact that Black Affairs often highlights Craeman and Earl's cases does not limit the issue to being a black-affair, it is very much a white affair.

Too often I hear whites dismiss the plight of Earl Brown and Craeman Gethers as being a "Black Problem", when in reality the "problem" is a white one inherent in our white system. It is our system, we maintain and support it simply by allowing it to exist, and therefore we are responsible for its actions.

Whites frequently speak of all "we've" done (we meaning whites collectively) to uplift the Black race, of how ungrateful "they" Blacks are for all "we've" given them. Whites are so anxious to take the credit for their positive actions, to expect gratitude from Blacks and yet will not accept the responsibility for the negative actions of whites. Dick Gregory provides us with the following analogy, "If I brought my dog by your house and my dog bit your little daughter, who you gonna sue — my dog or me? Although I did not bite her, I'm responsible because the dog is mine — you're responsible for this system because its yours."

Craeman and Earl have lost time which they cannot replace because white police arrested them, white witnesses falsely identified them, white lawyers poorly defended them, and a white judge and an all white jury convicted them. It is a white problem. Craeman and Earl are merely its victims.

I can hear you all now thinking, "Wow, what can I, one white person do?" Your commitment to this case need not interfere with your life, only enrich it. If you have either one hour or one dollar to give to Earl Brown and Craeman Gethers, two men being robbed of the best years of their lives by a system which convicted them of one crime — not being white, then you've answered your own question.

Craeman's lawyer is echoeing his predessors cry of no money, no justice, the man needs your help, he needs whatever financial support you can afford him to continue the struggle to prove his innocence.

Next week tables will be set up in the Campus Center, Dining Commons, and other key locations to solicite signatures for the pardon of Craeman Gethers. If at this point you are still one of many white people who believe that two men named Craeman and Earl are involved in this issue than please stop by the table and read the fact sheet, talk to Earl Brown. I am appealing to the white community to volunteer one hour of your time to man this table, to give up the money which you would ordinarily spend on a carton of yogurt or a glass of beer, to take five minutes to learn the facts concerning Craeman and Earl's frame-up and to then sign the petition.

It is not enough to care, to pity, to "feel" supportive of these two men. You must be willing to activate the support you feel. If we as whites are not willing to challenge, to extend ourselves, to work towards a more humanistic environment for all, than who will? Volunteers are urged to call Earl Brown to schedule a time to man the tables at 545-2415. Thank you.

Valerie E. Young is a Collegian Commentator.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS — RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in-Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; NASSER H. EGA, Black Affairs Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; JAY A. SARET, Photo Editor; MARK A. LECCESE, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS — Christopher J. Bourne, Teresa M. Hanafin, Night Managers; Paula Strollo, Wire Editor; Lisa E. Melilli, Assistant Executive Editor; Gerard F. Rogers, Kevin C. Turcotte, Assistant News Editors; Angela P. Thomas, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Michael A. Berger, Richard W. Eckel, Assistant Sports Editors; E. Patrick McQuaid, Deborah S. Schafer, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Melanie J. Johnson, Women's Coordinator; Heidi S. Berenson, Feature Coordinator.

BUSINESS — Steve N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; Leslie Nearman, Finance Manager; Laurie Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Heath C. Wheeler, Jr., Linda Crowell, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Leo Murphy, Doug Surette, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steve Polansky, Circulation Manager; Linda S. Vene, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Stockbridge speaks out for all

To the Editor:

I wish to voice my opinion about one of the biggest rip-offs going down on this campus. I am one of the disillusioned freshmen Floriculture majors at Stockbridge, and though in speaking on behalf of my major, I'm sure this is happening in others.

There is quite a list of gripes, but I guess they all more or less revolve around the fact we just don't have enough professors. Can you believe the "administration" is still looking for someone to fill a position vacated three years ago? Not to mention the more recent resignations. The three professors left in my major, all excellent teachers, are so brutally overloaded it's pathetic. Teachers are being pushed into courses they've never even taught before, and we're the ones losing out!

One of my labs is so overcrowded, that they have divided it into two groups which meet every other week, which means we must cover all lab material in half the time.

There are presently thirty-nine people in my major, a major that accommodates twenty-five at max. If the cut-off number is twenty-five, then why are more and more people being admitted? This, you see, is one of the best things Stockbridge has going for it. Smaller classes provide for a better learning situation and better student-teacher communication.

We also leave for placement training this March. This is the first year that floral design has not been taught to first semester freshmen, and it will put severe limitations on the kind of work we are qualified for. The small amount of greenhouse experience we've had here barely begins to prepare us for work.

People have been sitting back and just letting things happen long enough. It's time to do something now or it will only be worse in September, when we return. Don't forget, we're paying for an education.....and we deserve our money's worth!

Petitions, letters to legislators and other officials, etc. are being sent out, so if you have any ideas, please let me know.

Maurene Golden

DVP brings Dr. Nolen for Pre-Meds

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Pre-Medical Society, I would like to publicly thank the Distinguished Visitors Program for approving, and following through on, our request to bring Dr. William Nolen to our campus this semester.

Special appreciation goes to Scott Dickinson and Tim Bartos, both members of DVP, who have worked hard to make this event a success.

Dr. Nolen, author of four books, including The Making of a Surgeon, will speak this Thursday night at 8:00 in Thompson 102.

Neil Thomas Katz
Planning Committee Chairperson
Pre-Medical Society

Letters Policy

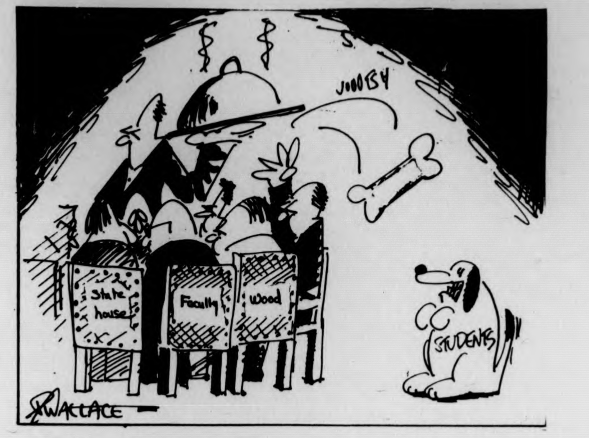
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Also, all letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages.

Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

All letters are subject to editing, for either content or space, according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed.

lisa melilli

Making of a union



About a year ago I first came into contact with this whole concept of faculty unionization, or as most faculty prefer to call it, collective bargaining. It was a meeting I had to cover, something thrown to me over the Collegian newsdesk one night and it became my beat (particular news topic a reporter is responsible for reporting on) for the next twelve months. Now I find myself with too much to do so I've shoved the beat to someone else on the news desk. I'm glad, because now I can reveal my opinion on the whole thing.

Yesterday and today, approximately 1600 faculty and staff who will be included in the union here on this campus and in Boston are voting on whether or not they favor the formation of such a union. To all you faculty who haven't voted yet or who maybe are now standing in line to vote, vote yes for the formation of a faculty union if you know what's good for you. And students? If faculty do vote for a union, you-us- are going to have to get off our duffers and get the same type of power ourselves or else we're going to lose whatever kind of voice in University matters we have at the moment (which comes close to nothing!)

I honestly can't imagine any faculty member who could possibly not want formation of a union with the state of this University as it is. For three years, faculty here and at Boston have not received a cost-of-living or merit salary increase. This past fall, Kevin Harrington informed the press that such a decision was made by members of the legislature along with presidents of state colleges including President Wood.

This situation has led one of my professors to ride a bicycle to classes from his home and another to leave for better pay at another University. Only 50 to 60 per cent of our faculty are tenured, a percentage which falls below the average of tenured professors at Universities comparable in size to UMass, according to Chancellor Randolf W. Bromery.

Affirmative action: only 275 faculty members of 1200 total employed here are women. Moreover, the Mass. Society of Professors maintained this past October from facts compiled in a graduate student's dissertation on faculty differentials that "females earned 10 per cent less than males with equal characteristics."

Furthermore, we know all too well the story of the legislature's cuts on UMass' budget. Last year ... and if that wasn't enough, Dukakis' recent "level-funding" budget proposal for fiscal 1978 promises to be another hatchet job. According to Wood and Bromery, if this proposal is accepted, the University will face near disaster. By receiving the same budget allocation as last year, Wood and Bromery tell us we can expect a 21 per cent University employe lay-off, cuts in major academic programs and broken contracts with professional faculty.

In the four semesters I've spent here as a student, I've seen how students approach the wrong power bases to attempt a voice in University matters. The power doesn't lie with Bromery or anyone else on the Amherst campus. The power doesn't lie with the Board of Trustees because their decisions are controlled entirely by the real power base of this University — Pres. Wood and the state legislature.

Faculty now have no effective input, or even communication, with these two bases. Instead, faculty have been given a faculty senate which is about as effective as the student counterpart, only more civilized. Faculty do have a grievance committee for employe complaints, but the relationship remains the same: employe to employer; child to parent.

Clearly, a collective bargaining unit will provide faculty with two important mechanisms to effect input in University decisions. First, faculty will have at their disposal the most effective means for seeing that faculty needs and viewpoints are taken seriously and considered at the State House: namely, a lobbying agent working for them on Beacon Hill. With the collective bargaining unit for faculty represented by the National Education Association, there is the benefit of being represented by the Massachusetts Teachers' Association, a highly respected lobbying agency already representing 60,000 secondary school teachers in the state.

Secondly, a faculty bargaining unit will effect equal power between Wood and the faculty: an equal effort for making a compromise, the working relationship of one adult to another.

The University of Massachusetts-Amherst is considered one of the finest in the nation, considered one of the fastest growing in the sixties when money was plentiful. The making of a University, or any educational institution for that matter, is the faculty. The quality of faculty determines the quality of the University's product — education. Obviously, if the University is to maintain its standards and its quality, it will have to maintain the quality of its faculty. (And what more important time for this issue to come to a head with reaccredidation coming up next year!)

With a union, faculty rights will be protected, and by the protection of these rights, the quality of the faculty will be maintained. Moreover, through a union, working conditions such as pay, affirmative action, and work load can be improved. By combining forces with Boston, faculty will add even greater weight to their causes.

And students? Obviously some faculty rights will conflict with student rights. With the advent of greater weight attached to the voices of the faculty, students will undoubtedly get lost in the shuffle.

So what are we to do?

Obviously, the way to get the same power for students as faculty (if they vote yes for collective bargaining) is to imitate the faculty's means. Yes. It comes in three ways.

First, the creation of an established lobbying agent. The Student Senate has already engaged a lobbying agent — Henry Ragin, no less. It's a good start and an effort which ought to be worked on in order to make it more effective in presenting student viewpoints and needs.

Second, the establishment of a union for students. It's something that's never been done before, anywhere. UMass students have been attempting it for two years now, almost three years, and have yet to arrive at anything tangible, really tangible which spells out an effective student union. But there have been good ideas. These ideas just need to be worked on more and explored by many members of the University community.

Third, is something I know no one has ever thought of. What I'm speaking of is an alliance between students here and in Boston, just as faculty have done. We need to consider the three University campuses as parts of a complete University. We're all working with the same power bases — 1 Washington Mall and Beacon Hill. We must take full advantage of this as faculty have.

If my predictions are correct, faculty will choose to have a collective bargaining unit. All power to them. But as a student, I cannot ignore nor refrain from becoming concerned about what this means to students. Students at universities which already have an established collective bargaining unit for faculty have said their rights and voice in campus matters were cut.

I think these past two semesters of apathy have to end. "UMass, get off your ass. A union for students. A union will make us stronger." They're all chants one can recall from the moratorium held two years ago and the two demonstrations at the Trustee meetings held in the last school year. Let's start doing something now, before the situation gets worse. Let's give President Wood the need for a second pair of nervous beads. Let's give him the double trouble of a union for faculty and a union for students.

Lisa Melilli is Assistant Executive Editor.

commentary

it's the end of the world

By PETER WALLACE

Immediately after returning from his inspection of frozen Pittsburgh last week, President Carter met with the Special Presidential Commission on Weather. The members of the commission had horrifying news.

Present at the high-level briefing, in addition to Carter, were Vice President Walter Mondale, and the entire National Security Council. The assembled officials listened unbelievingly as the finest minds in the nation gave their explanations for the current spell of bad weather. The Commission Chairman, Dr. Otto von Orbbb of the University of Southern California did not pull any punches in his grim weather prognosis. 'It's the end of the world', Orbbb announced.

The Presidential Weather Commission was formed in secret by direct order from President Carter approximately two weeks ago. Its purpose was to examine the cause of the recent abnormal weather, and its future implications for the welfare of the nation. Needless to say, Carter's staff was left dumbstruck by Dr. von Orbbb's comments, and the supporting observations by the rest of the commission.

Orbbb further disclosed the commission's discouraging findings did not surprise him in the least. Studies as far back as two years ago by Dr. von Orbbb had predicted the unusual cold temperatures of this winter and the end of the world. Orbbb said that his end of the world studies were supposed to have been televised by National Geographic, but at the last minute a key sponsor pulled out, claiming the show would hurt their mouthwash sales. The special was canned and replaced by a Dan August re-run.

According to Dr. von Orbbb, the end of the world takes place in several steps. The first step, said Orbbb, was the rash of earthquakes during last summer and fall. Step two is apparently happening at this very moment, extreme cold that will eventually grip the whole world. Step three, still to come, will be a plague of locust. Dr. von Orbbb expects the plague to completely cover the earth, with terrifying results.

To quote from the commission's report: ' ... nothing, not even Raid or the B-1 bomber will prevent these winged horrors from consuming every scrap of sustenance on this planet ... '

Dr. von Orbbb predicted that after this catastrophy the world would come to an end almost immediately.

The only hopeful note offered by Dr. von Orbbb and his fellow commission members was the belief that there would be an adequate supply of natural gas for the end of the world.

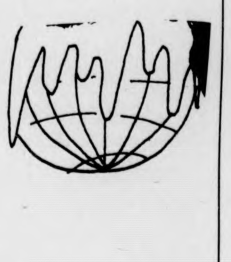
When asked what could be done to prevent the rapidly approaching doomsday Dr. von Orbbb answered, 'Nothing'.

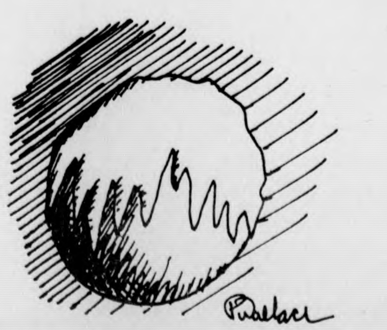
'It's an act of God', Orbbb added.

(Carter later rejected suggestions that the end of the world could be a covert operation by the CIA.)

While the nation looks forward to an uncertain end, Dr. von Orbbb's immediate future is promising. He is scheduled to appear on the Johnny Carson Show and has reportedly received a million dollar advance from the Playboy Press for his memoirs.

Peter Wallace is a Collegian Commentator.





WHAT'S HAPPENING

Commission to show conservation film

The Amherst Conservation Commission will feature the film "The Flooding River" at its regular meeting tonight at 7. The meeting will be at the Larch Hill Carriage House, 525 South Pleasant Street. At 7:45, Amherst College biology professor Lincoln Brower, producer of the film, will lead an open discussion of the potential local impact of the proposed Northfield Diversion of water from the Connecticut River to Quabbin Reservoir.

Hearing today on sex discrimination

The Student Affairs Title IX Self Evaluation Committee will hold a public hearing to discuss issues relevant to sex discrimination on campus pertaining to the Undergraduate Admissions Office today from noon to 2 p.m. in Campus Center room 917.

Winnipeg Ballet at Fine Arts Center

Canada's Royal Winnipeg Ballet will be seen in two evening performances at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall on Feb. 11 and Feb. 12 at 8 p.m. The Company will offer a different program each evening.

Tickets on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office are priced at one-half off the regular price for UMass-Amherst students; $4, 5 and 6 for the general public.

Opportunity available to attend conference

The American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education will meet March 1 to 4 at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago. This is the major meeting of those active professionally in higher education at a national level. An important part of the conference is a placement service.

The School of Education is organizing a group to attend the conference. The round trip air fare on group rate is $133. Room and board is to be arranged by each person independently. For further information about the group flight, call Don Benander at 251 Hills South (545-2155) as soon as possible.

Bob White of the Student Placement Office in Hampshire House will meet with those who are interested in attending the conference tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room on the second floor of Hampshire House. Please call Don Benander (545-2155) before then if you plan to come.

Credit union seeks members, workers

The UMass Student Federal Credit Union, now located in the Colonial Lounge in the Student Union, is experiencing growing pains. Accompanying its tremendous growth in this office comes the need for a larger staff. The credit union avails itself an opportunity for all students to get practical knowledge of the workings of a financial institution.

The credit union is a co-operative bank. All students are qualified to be members. Students can become members simply by opening a savings account. Members can apply for loans, buy American Express travelers checks, money orders, cash checks and buy food stamps all with the convenience of being on campus.

Stop in and see Anne Smith between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. if you are interested in working.

String quartet in concert at FAC

The Quartetto Italiano, considered by many to be the greatest string quartet in the world, will appear in concert at the Fine Arts Center Feb. 15.

Tickets for the concert are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office and at all Ticketron outlets. They are $5, $4 and $3 for the general public; one-half price for UMass-Amherst students, $1.00 off the regular price for other students and for Senior Citizens. The Box Office (Tel. 545-2511) is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day, Monday through Friday.

Proposals sought for NE/Sylvan colloqs

The Northeast-Sylvan Educational Programming Office is again offering students the opportunity to teach and participate in colloquia this semester. Colloquia are one credit. "Pass-No Record" courses which deal with non-traditional and diversified subjects are not generally offered through regular University departments. These colloquia are generally taught in the residence halls at night and meet for 16 to 24 hours during the semester.

We encourage any students or staff members who have special skills or knowledge to share with Northeast-Sylvan residents offer a colloquium. We will accept proposals until noon Feb. 21. Contact the Educational Program Office, 106 Johnson House, 545-0290, for a proposal form and for more info.1408-424 cindy

Contraception clinic offers info sessions

Contraception educational sessions are again being offered four times every week at the University Health Services. All students are invited to attend these information sessions whether they wish to obtain contraceptive care or not. Men are most welcome to come and no appointment is necessary. Women receiving contraception services for the first time must attend and those considering changing contraceptive methods are encouraged to come.

The educational sessions are held in Health Center room 302 on Monday and Thursday at 7 p.m. and Tuesday and Wednesday at 3 p.m. They last about one and one-half hours.

Breast self-exam instruction is available at all Contraception Clinic sessions. If anyone has problems or questions, call 549-2671.

Paul Parks to speak here today

Massachusetts Education Commissioner Paul Parks will speak here today at 4 p.m. in Engineering East Auditorium on "Alternatives in Organization and Reorganization of Public Higher Education in Massachusetts."

Index now taking photo appointments

Appointments are now being taken to have your picture included in the 1977 UMass INDEX, promised to be one of the best ever! Make your appointment now by calling 545-2874 or going to the 9th floor of the Campus Center between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Who runs
Las Vegas
Night?

WOOL
NAVY
PANTS

GENUINE
U.S. NAVY 13 BUTTON
wool bell bottom pants.
Excellent Condition
$6.50

Faces of Earth

Open 9:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.

SUMMER CAMP COUNSELOR POSITIONS

CAMP PINEECLIFFE
Established Maine Camp for Girls
Salaries $450.00 and up

Undergraduates needed for:

Arts & Crafts
Campcraft & Trips
Ceramics
Gymnastics
Nature
Drama
Music
Canoeing
Sailing
Swimming
Tennis

Graduates also needed to head
Waterfront, Arts & Crafts, and Campcraft
Interviewer of Campus
Wed. Feb. 16 1:00 P.M. to 4:00 P.M.
Contact Placement Office for Appointment

send a VALENTINE to someone / anyone!

BOY FRIEND, GIRL FRIEND, SWEETIE, ROOMMATE, PROF, COACH, ENEMY ETC.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is giving you the opportunity, for 50¢, to have your Valentine Wishes published in our paper Mon., Feb. 14th.

We are having special pages put aside for your messages. They can be witty, serious, anything you want them to be! This will be a Valentine Card your Valentine will never forget!

Come to the Collegian office by Thurs., Feb. 10th at 3:45p.m. to place your copy.

EXAMPLES:

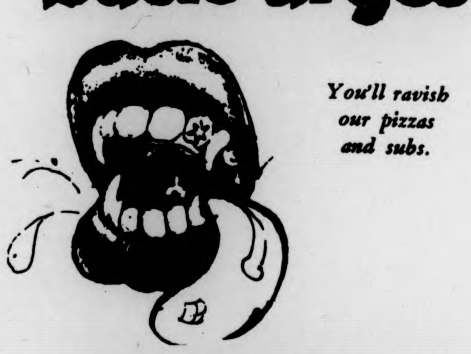
To: Mary A.
Have a Happy Valentine Day. If cupid doesn't come around I will.
Rusty

To: Room 365 S.W.
We're looking forward to seeing you again. Happy Valentine Day!
The Girls

Bring this to us by Thurs., Feb. 10th at 3:45p.m.
LIMIT 20 WORDS

COST 50¢

Satisfy your basic urges



You'll ravish our pizzas and subs.

HUNGRY-U

2 FREE SODAS
with every Large Pizza

WE DELIVER
PHONE
256-0473
$3.00 minimum

1 FREE SODA
with every Small Pizza

Offer Good Wed.-Sun., Feb. 9-13
Deliveries Only!
103 North Pleasant St.

Finast SUPERMARKETS

More Values From Meat Street, U.S.A.!

Finast Welcomes FOOD STAMP CUSTOMERS

Grocery Values the Finast Way!

Mueller's Spaghetti
Regular, Thin or Vermicelli
3 1 lb pkgs $1

Item	Note	Size	Price
Nestles Quik	Great Hot or Cold with Milk	2 lb ctn	1.49
Finast Lo-Cal Cola		half gal	49¢
Fyntex Bathroom Tissue		4 roll pkg	58¢

Kraft Macaroni and Cheese
Dinner Stock-up!
4 7¼ oz pkgs $1

Item	Note	Size	Price
Sunshine Hydrox Cookies		15 oz pkg	77¢
Wylers Drink Mixes		24 oz pkg	99¢
Oxford Kosher Dills		48 oz jar	99¢

Frozen food Values from Finast!

Finast Pot Pies
Chicken, Beef, Turkey, Mac. and Cheese
4 8 oz pkgs $1

Item	Note	Size	Price
Birds Eye Tasti Fries		20 oz pkg	63¢
Boil in Bag	Meat Entrees Finast Brand	4 5 oz pkgs	1.00
Ice Cream Cups	Hendries	pkg 12	1.09
Coronet Ice Cream	Hoods all Natural	half gal	1.59

Farm Fresh Dairy Values!

Blue Bonnet Quarters Margarine
2 1-lb pkgs 89¢

Item	Note	Size	Price
Cracker Barrel	Extra Sharp Stick Cheese	10 oz pkg	1.29
Pillsbury	Buttermilk or Country Style Biscuits	8 8 oz pkgs	1.00
American Cheese	Kraft Singles	3-lb pkg	3.99

Fresh from the Finast Bakery!

Big Round Top
White Bread Finast Fresh
3 20 oz lvs $1

Bakery Items Available Tuesday thru Saturday Only

Beer and Wine Shoppe!

Item	Note	Size	Price
Budweiser Beer	case only	case of 24 12 oz cans	5.99
Pabst	Blue Ribbon Bock Beer while supply lasts case only	case of 24 12 oz N.R. btls	5.99
Donelli Lambrusco		24 oz btl	1.89
Lasalle Rosé Wine		24 oz btl	1.99
Lambrusco Wine	Castel Ruboun	24 oz btl	2.29

Available in Finast of Hadley Only

Boneless Beef Chuck Pot Roast
Tender and flavorful!
USDA CHOICE
98¢ lb

Bottom Round or Shoulder Roast
Boneless Beef USDA Choice
USDA CHOICE
1.18 lb

Cut-up or Split 65¢ lb excellent for soup or fricassee
Fresh Whole Fowl 58¢ lb

Swift Premium or Agar delicious baked!
Canned Hams 5-lb can 6.99 3-lb can 4.49

Boneless USDA Choice Beef Rump Roast or Beef Top Round Roast 1.48 lb

Boneless Beef USDA Choice
Top Round for London Broil 1.68 lb

Extra Lean Ground Beef (Round) 1.18 lb
Fresh Ground Beef Any size package 78¢ lb

Quality Meat Values from the Best Meat Men in the Business!

Item	Note	Size	Price
Beef Round Kabobs	Bnls	lb	1.38
Canned Bacon	Celebrity Imported	1-lb can	99¢
Freirich Smoked Butts		lb	1.39
Natalina Cheese Pizza		15 oz pkg	99¢
Natalina Pizza	Pepperoni	14 oz pkg	1.39
Dry Salt Bellies	Lean Great for Pork & Beans	lb	89¢
Colonial Bacon	Center Cut	lb	1.19
Fenway Bologna	or Salami	8 oz pkg	69¢
Bogner Franks		1-lb pkg	99¢
Sausage	Smoked Hillshire Reg. or Beef	lb	1.29
Hillshire Hot Mettwurst		lb	1.29
Kirschner Franks	Natural Casing	lb	1.39
Victors Sauerkraut		2-lb pkg	39¢
Bogner Polish Rings		lb	1.39

Weaver's Party Pak! Batter Dipped
Chicken Breasts or Legs & Thighs Your Choice 2.39 pkg

Save with... Large Economy Paks!
Whole Bottom Round
Custom cut into ... Bottom Round Roast, Eye Round Roast, Beef Kabobs and Rump Steak for Swissing 1.48 lb

Short Ribs Beef 4 lbs or more 98¢ lb
lesser amounts 1.08 lb

Chuck Steaks Bnls Beef 4 lbs or more 1.18 lb
lesser amounts 1.28 lb

Blade Steaks Bnls. Beef 4 lbs or more 1.38 lb
lesser amounts 1.48 lb

Mr. Deli Favorites at Finast!

Cooked Ham
Domestic-freshly sliced to your order 1.99 lb

Cooked-freshly sliced
Roast Beef 1.99 lb

Item	Note	Size	Price
Imported Swiss Cheese		lb	1.99
Kosher Franks	All Beef flavorful Morrison & Schiff	lb	99¢
Mr. Deli German Bologna		lb	1.29
Carando's Dandy Loaf		lb	89¢
Hillshire Farms Kielbasa		lb	1.39
Pastrami N.Y. Style		lb	1.39
Golden Hearth	Thin-Sliced Rye or Pumpernickel Bread	1-lb lv	59¢
Mr. Deli Mustard		16 oz jar	49¢

Available Only in Finast Stores with Mr. Deli Depts.

with pop-up timer
Grade A or Finast Turkeys
Hens or Toms 10 to 22 lbs
USDA A GRADE
58¢ lb

COUPON SALE...SAVE UP TO 4.16

40¢ Off the purchase of two dozen Finast Large Fresh Eggs
With this coupon & purchase of $7.50 or more. Valid Feb. 6-12. Limit one H-668 FN

Hi-C Fruit Drinks 3 46 oz cans 99¢
With this coupon & purchase of $7.50 or more. Valid Feb. 6-12. Limit one H-667 TX FN

Ragu Sauces for Spaghetti
Meat, Mushroom, Marinara, Plain
Your Choice 32 oz jar 79¢
With this coupon & purchase of $7.50 or more. Valid Feb. 6-12. Limit one H-666 FN

Save money all this week during Finast's Coupon Sale. Find the outstanding values in every aisle and save the Finast Way!

- 25¢ off With this coupon on (1) 1 lb can Maxwell House Coffee Valid Feb. 6-12 H-674 MFG
- 25¢ off With this coupon on (1) 16 oz pkg Capt. Crunch Cereal Valid Feb. 6-12 H-687 MFG
- 23¢ off With this coupon on (1) 10 lb bag Gold Medal Flour Valid Feb. 6-12 H-682 MFG
- 15¢ off With this coupon on (4) 3¾ oz pkg Jell-O Inst. Puddings Valid Feb. 6-12 H-688 MFG
- 15¢ off With this coupon on (1) 2 lb pkg Aunt Jemima Complete Pancake Mix Valid Feb. 6-12 H-684 MFG
- 30¢ off With this coupon on (1) 24 oz btl Aunt Jemima Syrup Valid Feb. 6-12 H-685 MFG
- 10¢ off With this coupon on (1) 16 oz pkg Keebler Choc. Fudge Sandwich, Pitter Patter or French Vanilla Cremes Valid Feb. 6-12 H-676 MFG
- 10¢ off With this coupon on (1) 1 lb pkg Blue Bonnet Soft Margarine Valid Feb. 6-12 H-681 MFG
- 10¢ off With this coupon on (1) 15½ oz jar Hunts Prima Salsa Spaghetti Sauces Valid Feb. 6-12 H-686 MFG
- 10¢ off With this coupon on (1) 1 lb loaf Finast Fresh Jewish Rye Bread Valid Feb. 6-12 H-669 FN
- 10¢ off With this coupon on (1) 1 lb loaf Pumpernickel Bread Finast Fresh Valid Feb. 6-12 H-670 FN
- 25¢ off With this coupon on (1) 72 oz pkg Top Choice Dog Food TX Valid Feb. 6-12 H-678 MFG
- 20¢ off With this coupon on (1) 5 lb bag Gravy Train Dog Food TX Valid Feb. 6-12 H-683 MFG
- 15¢ off With this coupon on (1) 22 oz can Niagara Spray Starch Valid Feb. 6-12 H-680 MFG
- 10¢ off With this coupon on (1) 8 oz Arm & Hammer Oven Cleaner TX Valid Feb. 6-12 H-677 MFG
- 25¢ off With this coupon on (1) pkg 15 Hefty Super Weight Trash Bags TX Valid Feb. 6-12 H-679 MFG
- 10¢ off With this coupon on (1) 1½ oz btl Ban Roll-on Deodorant Valid Feb. 6-12 H-671 FN-TX
- 10¢ off With this coupon on (1) pkg 5 Wilkinson Stainless Steel Blades Valid Feb. 6-12 H-672 FN-TX
- 10¢ off With this coupon on (1) 6½ oz ctn Cashmere Bouquet Talcum Valid Feb. 6-12 H-673 FN-TX

California Navel Oranges 12 for $1

Quality Produce the Finast Way!

Item	Note	Size	Price
Eastern Potatoes	U.S. No. 1 Size A	5 lb bag	59¢
Sweet Potatoes	Source of Vit. C&A	5 lbs	1.00
Apples	Delicious Wash. State Red & Golden U.S. No. 1	3 lbs	1.00
Avocados	California	3 for	1.00
Fresh Papayas	Tropic Fruit	ea	69¢

Flowers for Valentines Day!

Item	Note	Size	Price
Valentine Baskets	with fresh cut flowers	ea	2.99
Azalea Plants	5½ Inch Pots	ea	4.99
African Violets	4 Inch Pots	ea	1.99
Gardenia Plant	3 Inch Pots	ea	99¢
Deco Pots	with Plant Starters	ea	1.49

Available in Most Finast Stores

EKCO ETERNA Stainless Steel COOKWARE
Triple wall construction, dishwasher safe, self-storing covers. 5 Year full guarantee!
This Weeks Feature Item
7-inch Open Skillet 5.99 ea

Finast SUPERMARKETS
2 great, new promotions at Finast...
Start your sets today!

EKCO ETERNA-Dior Muffin TABLEWARE
Dishwasher safe, Rust proof, Stain proof, Lovely walnut tone handle, Solid Stainless Steel. 5 year unconditional guarantee!
This Weeks Feature Item
Dinner Fork with $3.00 purchase 39¢ ea

Prices effective February 6 thru February 12, 1977
We Reserve the Right to Limit Quantities
Not Responsible for Typographical Errors

NOTICES

ARAB STUDENTS ORGANIZATION

Important meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in CC 903. We will discuss this semester's activities. Please attend.

ASTRONOMY CLUB

Meeting tonight in Hasbrouck 22 at 7. We will discuss plans of the observatory takeover.

ATTENTION ALL WRITERS

The UMass Science Fiction society is now accepting submissions of art and stories for its twin publications, Altair and Betelgeuse. Needed are stories (SF, fantasy and horror), old wave, new wave or borderline. For more information, drop by SU 434 during the day or call 6-5998 or 6-8944 after 6 p.m.

ATTENTIONAL POLITICAL SCIENCE MAJORS

There will be a meeting tonight of Pi Sigma Alpha, the Political Science Honor Society in Rm 412 Thompson at 7 p.m. New members welcome!

CAMPUS SCOUTS

Don't forget. There will be a meeting tomorrow at 10 a.m. in Rm 904 CC.

COFFEEHOUSE

Sun., Feb. 13 from 8-12 in Dickinson Dorm, 50 cents admission. Proceeds will be going to the Rape Task force. So come and enjoy good music and good friends – for a good cause.

FENCING CLUB

There will be a meeting of the UMass Fencing Club on Mon., Feb. 14 at NOPE Rm 8 at 2:15. All are welcome. If you cannot come call Sean 549-0303.

FOUND

Holyoke High school class ring. Call Dan 546-6905.

HAMLIN HOUSE OPENINGS

Hamlin House, a newly renovated male dorm in the Northeast Area has vacancies. Quiet atmosphere, close to engineering and GCR. See Mark, H.R. for details.

INDEX SENIOR PORTRAIT PROGRAM

Attention all seniors! Make your appointment now to have your senior portrait taken. Dial 545-2874 or go to the lobby of the ninth floor of the Campus Center between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.; whereupon a friendly secretary will give you further details. Note: all senior pictures will be included in the 1977 Index.

INTERESTED IN WORKING WITH KIDS

Northern Educational Services (N.E.S.) can help you. We work with kids in the areas of academics and recreation. For more info visit our office in 403 SUB or call 545-0910.

MYSTICAL JEWISH TEACHINGS

Every Wed. at 8 at the Chabad House, 30 N. Hadley R. near S.W. dorms. There will be Rabbi Israel Deren speaking on the spiritual and mystical teaching in Judaism. Call 253-9070 for more info.

PARACHUTE CLUB MEETING

First meeting of the semester tonight at 7:30 p.m. in CC 905. There's good news for a change.

SCAVENGER HUNT

22nd floor of Washington sends Lawrence J. Griffin an S.M.O. Good luck.

STAR TREK LIVES!

First meeting of the semester tonight at 7 in Rm 803 CC. All members please try to attend. New members are always welcome. No dues, just fun!

STRATEGIC GAMES CLUB

Important meeting tonight from 3-12 p.m. All please attend. New members welcome. Games available – micro armor tonight? Where is Terrible Swift Sword?

WORK-STUDY NEEDED

We need one work-study person to help with part-time internship placements. See Joe Sullivan, Office of Internships, 409 Goodell. 545-0727.

BROWN-GETHERS DEFENSE

Volunteers are urgently needed to staff petition tables for the Earl Brown-Craemen Gethers Defense campaign. Only a few hours weekly are necessary to solicit signatures and donations. The struggle of these two men for their total freedom involves all of us; for further information contact: Earl Brown, Student Organizing Project, 545-2415 or the Black Cultural Center, 545-0794.

WOMEN'S WEEK

The International Women's Week coordinating committee will meet tonight at 8:00 in Campus Center room 802.

Autopsies begun on Florida whales

MAYPORT, Fla. [UPI] – Marine scientists turned a three-mile-long stretch of cold and windy beach into a whale morgue yesterday and began performing autopsies on scores of the mammals that died when they beached themselves.

Dr. James Mead, curator of marine mammals for the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C., directed work on the carcasses of 110 pilot whales. Another 16 were reported beached at Cumberland, Ga., just north of the Florida border.

Seven of 30 whales, which had been herded alive out of Fort George Inlet into the open ocean Monday afternoon, swam ashore again Tuesday morning and perished.

With more than 50 tons of whale meat, bone and blubber laid before him, Mead was asked when the scientists might determine why the whales committed mass suicide on the beaches in recent days.

"Twenty or 30 years? All we're going to be able to do is guess," Mead replied. "We're going to be dealing with theories for a long, long time."

More than two dozen marine biologists prepared to tackle the autopsies, 12 from the Smithsonian and others from the University of Florida, Marineland of St. Augustine and other institutions. Mead said the examinations would be "kind of primitive."

"We open up the stomachs and look at all the vital organs," he explained. "We look for anything grossly wrong, like a tumor or an abcess.

"We look in the stomach to see if any food remains, check teeth to determine age and examine sexual organs to see if they were sexually mature."

Flowers for Algernon in Bowker soon

On Feb. 11, 12, 13 and on the 18th and 19th, The Roister Doister Drama Society will be presenting "Flowers for Algernon" in Bowker Auditorium.

The David Rogers play is a stage adaptation of a popular novel that is also the basis for the movie "Charly", which won Cliff Robertson an Academy Award for his performance in the title role.

The story is about mentally retarded Charlie Gordon and the artificial means used to give him the intellect of a genius. His life becomes complicated with the memories of his past and the people who love him and the people who try to exploit him.

Bowker Auditorium is in Stockbridge Hall and curtain time is 8:00 p.m for each performance. Tickets may be purchased on the C.C. Concourse on Tuesdays and Wednesdays and at the Bowker box office on Mondays, Thursdays, and Fridays. For reservations or information call 545-0783.

DC menu

TODAY

LUNCH – Hamburgers, Cheese Ravioli; Basics: Vegetable Hot Pot, Cheese Ravioli.

DINNER – Roast Pork, Braised Beef and Onions, Turkey Salad Plate; Basics: Vegetable Chow Mein, Baked Fish-Creole Sauce.

TOMORROW

LUNCH – Deli Ham Sandwich, Broccoli Cauliflower Cass.; Basics: Salmon Patties - Egg Sauce, Broccoli Cauliflower Cass.

DINNER – Chopped Beefsteak Special, Chicken Cutlet - Supreme Sauce; Basics: Soybean Souffle, Chicken Cutlet - Supreme Sauce.

TIRED OF YOUR HAIR
It's time for a change.
STYLES BY DEBORAH
SPECIAL!!!
Men's Perm's with Personal
Style Cut & Dry $22.50
(for Gals too) Reg. $25.00
65 UNIVERSITY DR.
NEXT TO BELLS
TEL. 549-5610
CLOSED MONDAY

HAVE A HEART!

Send her the FTD LoveBundle™ Bouquet for Valentine's Weekend.

Reach out and touch her with this FTD LoveBundle™ Bouquet. Your FTD Florist can send one almost anywhere by wire, the FTD way. Order early. (Most FTD Florists accept major credit cards.)

Usually available for less than $15.00*

*As an independent businessman, each FTD Member Florist sets his own prices.

FLORISTS' TRANSWORLD DELIVERY FTD SELECTED MEMBER ®

Say FTD...and be sure.

© 1977 Florists' Transworld Delivery

Five College Summer Flight

Boston-London round-trip only $325. June 14 - August 19, Pan American 707. Early sign-up urged. Contact: INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMS, 239 Whitmore,

Tel. 545-2710, for application. The only authorized Five College flight.

Read the UMass Collegian

What Campus Group is the Largest National Service Fraternity?

QUONSET

Something New in Dining Out!!

Low Budget Family Menu

featuring Chef John

Dinner Served 5-9 Tues. thru Fri.

For student groups of 4 and up 10 per cent discount

Restaurant

Hadley, Mass.
Exit 20, I-91, Rt. 9

Reservations
1-253-9214

Other People are Spending your Money!

Last year, the Student Senate spent $1.1 million of your money on the COLLEGIAN, Black Mass Communications Project, WMUA, Student Senate Transit Service, and other student services and activities.

SPEND YOUR OWN MONEY!

Nominations are now open to fill the following vacant Senate seats:

Greenough
John Adams Upper
Cashin
Coolidge Lower
Hamlin
Leach
Mary Lyons
Thatcher
Thoreau
Cance
Wheeler
Crampton
Coolidge Upper
* Commuters
Brett
Dickinson
Baker
* Greek Area
Pierpont
JQA Lower
JQA Middle
JQA Upper
Van Meter North
Knowlton
Washington Middle
Brown
Gorman
* Third World
Brooks
Van Meter South

* Elected at large

Nomination Papers are available in the Student Senate office, 420 Student Union.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

MAG PRODUCTIONS
James J. Kriegsmann

The Great Pretenders
First Time at the Campus Center

The Great Pretenders

There's NO COVER So Get There Early

Wed., Feb. 9
8 p.m.
at the
BLUEWALL

The Great Pretenders
MAG PRODUCTIONS

What Next? by Dick Janssen

B.S. stu·dent n
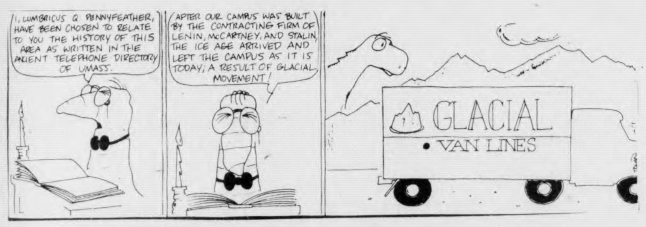
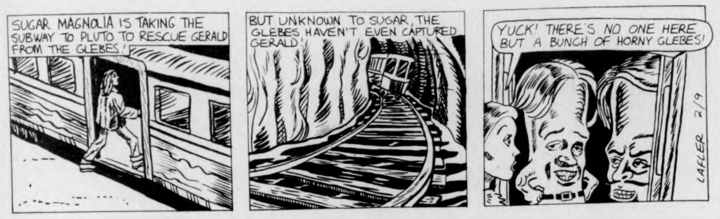
DICK'S DICTIONARY
2/9
WHAT YOU GET WHEN SOME CLOWN BACKS INTO YOUR STU.
DICK'S DICTIONARY
DJ

THE SCENT OF MAN by Peter Tolan



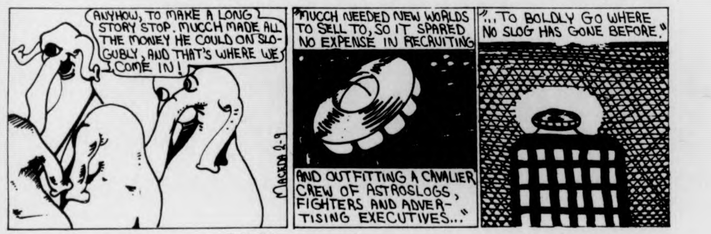
I, LUMBRICUS Q. PENNYFEATHER, HAVE BEEN CHOSEN TO RELATE TO YOU THE HISTORY OF THIS AREA AS WRITTEN IN THE ANCIENT TELEPHONE DIRECTORY OF UMASS.
AFTER OUR CAMPUS WAS BUILT BY THE CONTRACTING FIRM OF LENIN, McCARTNEY, AND STALIN, THE ICE AGE ARRIVED AND LEFT THE CAMPUS AS IT IS TODAY; A RESULT OF GLACIAL MOVEMENT!
GLACIAL • VAN LINES

Aluminum Ghost by Steve Lafler



SUGAR MAGNOLIA IS TAKING THE SUBWAY TO PLUTO TO RESCUE GERALD FROM THE GLEBES!
BUT UNKNOWN TO SUGAR, THE GLEBES HAVEN'T EVEN CAPTURED GERALD!
YUCK! THERE'S NO ONE HERE BUT A BUNCH OF HORNY GLEBES!
LAFLER 2/9

U.Mutations by Marty Maceda



ANYHOW, TO MAKE A LONG STORY STOP, MUCCH MADE ALL THE MONEY HE COULD ON SLOGUBLY, AND THAT'S WHERE WE COME IN!
MACEDA 2-9
"MUCCH NEEDED NEW WORLDS TO SELL TO, SO IT SPARED NO EXPENSE IN RECRUITING AND OUTFITTING A CAVALIER CREW OF ASTROSLOGS, FIGHTERS AND ADVERTISING EXECUTIVES..."
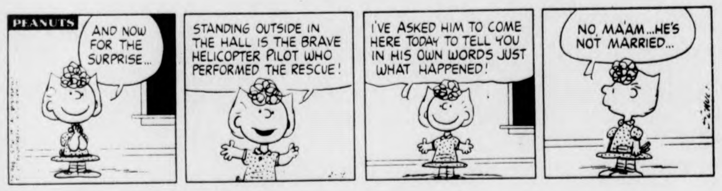
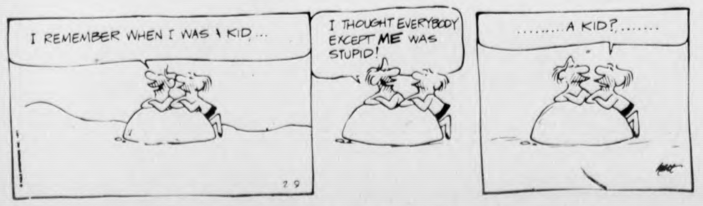
"...TO BOLDLY GO WHERE NO SLOG HAS GONE BEFORE."

Peanuts by Charles M. Schulz



PEANUTS
AND NOW FOR THE SURPRISE...
STANDING OUTSIDE IN THE HALL IS THE BRAVE HELICOPTER PILOT WHO PERFORMED THE RESCUE!
I'VE ASKED HIM TO COME HERE TODAY TO TELL YOU IN HIS OWN WORDS JUST WHAT HAPPENED!
NO, MA'AM...HE'S NOT MARRIED...

B.C. by Johnny Hart



I REMEMBER WHEN I WAS A KID...
I THOUGHT EVERYBODY EXCEPT ME WAS STUPID!
........A KID?.......
2 9
HART

Local Television

8:00 3 GOOD TIMES
8 40 THE BIONIC WOMAN
22 30 THE LIFE AND TIMES OF GRIZZLY ADAMS
24 57 NOVA "The Plastic Prison"
27 MOVIE "Hotel" Part I.
38 IRONSIDE "Friend Of Foe"
56 MOVIE "The Great Escape" Part II.

8:30 3 THE JACKSONS
9:00 3 CBS WEDNESDAY NIGHT MOVIE "Rollerball"
8 40 BARETTA "Not On Our Block"
18 WILBURN BROTHERS
22 30 CPO SHARKEY "Sunday In Tijuana"
24 57 GREAT PERFORMANCES "Berstein-Mahler"
27 NEW ENGLAND COLLEGE BASKETBALL
38 MOVIE "Snake Pit"
9:30 18 THE PTL CLUB
22 30 THE McLEAN STEVENSON SHOW
10:00 8 40 CHARLIE'S ANGELS "The Vegas Connection"
22 30 TALES OF THE UNEXPECTED
27 NEWS
56 LOVE, AMERICAN STYLE
10:30 24 57 BOOK BEAT
11:00 8 22 24 27 30 40 NEWS

38 THE HONEYMOONERS "Please Leave The Premises"
56 DARK SHADOWS
57 MARY HARTMAN, MARY HARTMAN
11:30 3 EYEWITNESS NEWS
8 40 THE ROOKIES-MYSTERY OF THE WEEK
18 VOICE OF FAITH
22 30 THE JOHNNY CARSON SHOW

Your Birthday by Stella Wilder

Wednesday, February 9 — Born today, you are one of those persons who never forgets a good turn done you by another. Though miles and years may come between you and the doer of the deed, you will repay a kindness with a kindness, a generosity with a further generosity. You take great interest in what motivates other people to good behavior, for you are not persuaded that to do good comes naturally to men; rather, you believe a person's instinct is to serve himself -- in any way he can. As you mature in your attitudes, you will be less confused by the search into human motivation; you will ultimately resolve the confusion in an acceptance of people as they are.

A highly intuitive individual where events are concerned, you should ultimately grow quite adept at actually predicting the events of the future, especially as they concern your immediate family. Loved ones are sure to come to depend upon your predictions in order to determine their own actions. You must, therefore, be very sure of the logic of your predictions as well as of their intuitive aspects. Otherwise, you could easily send loved ones off in entirely wrong directions.

There is much of the student in you. You learn quickly, taking great delight in the assimilation of new knowledge. You have a good memory, one that you can trust to stand you in good stead throughout your days, but most especially in your business dealings.

* * *

Thursday, February 10

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Take care that a thoughtless word does not have the power to destroy your plans for the future. Think before you speak.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — A social affair early in the day steals time you had planned to give over to more profitable activities.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Apply conservative principles and you will be able to employ liberalizing actions without undue harm to the present situation at home.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Useless fears may keep you from achieving what you otherwise might today. Make an effort to cast off paralyzing trepidation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — The love and respect that is yours on the home front may be missing in the outside world. Try to establish yourself as an honorable individual.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — A melancholy morning may cause you to miss out on a chance for gain that is hidden behind latter-day confusion. Join with others at evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Your idealization of a close friend may cause you to misjudge another. Don't expect everyone to behave in the same way. Allow for variation.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — In order that you succeed today in the real world, you will have to relinquish a few dreams that cannot possibly come true.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Seek to examine the quality of your affection for another. It may be that you are demanding more than you are willing to give. Be fair.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Because you have the confidence of many, you can look forward to a profitable day without the loss of any personal pride. Secrets are kept.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — A meditative mood during morning hous precludes any rash action on your part. Another's action may, however, cause you some concern.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Your enjoyment of your own company may isolate you from those who could be of great help to you at this time. Widen your view of things.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

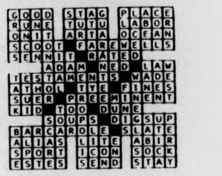
Today's Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate

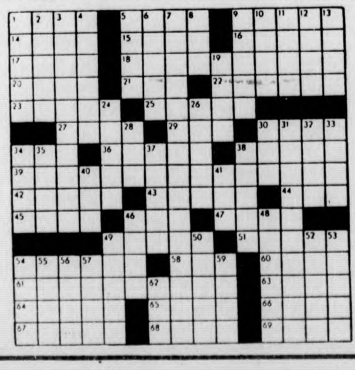
ACROSS
1 No longer current
5 The ---- Gibraltar
9 Thing that restrains
14 U.S. court ace
15 European river
16 Footballer ---- Alworth
17 Indo-Chinese tribe
18 Odors
20 Flock
21 Sawbuck
22 Military commands
23 1/120 of a piaster
25 Judicial assertions
27 Public conveyance
29 Continental realty unit
30 Loki's daughter
34 As hard --- rock
36 Championship
38 Great Lake
39 Fox-and-hounds VIP 4 words words
42 Parasitic arachnids
43 Deal with in writing
44 Athletic group Abbr.
45 Polish river
46 --- bag
47 Abrupt rush of wind
49 Make very dry
51 Buckets
54 Annul formally
58 --- o'shanter Kind of bonnet
60 Siege
61 Equal of 1000 words 2 words
63 Having been formerly
64 U.S. ski resort
65 U.S.S.R. city
66 Weedy plant
67 Adjust differently
68 Gnat, for one
69 Malamute's tow

DOWN
1 Former Turkish title
2 Vestiges
3 Tang 2 words
4 Fragile
5 A lot Informal
6 Was a crew member
7 Head injury 2 words
8 Small barrel
9 Miss Bow
10 Present
11 Quality Suffix
12 Bakery employee
13 Scottish loch
19 Set system
24 Appraises
26 Greek island
28 Eastern title
30 "What --- say?"
31 Tending to explode
32 Wish earnestly
33 Rectangular pier
34 Ordnance items Informal
35 Uttered
37 Carrier
38 Angry Dial 2 words
40 Threefold Prefix
41 Termagant
46 Face powder mineral
48 Netherlands footwear
49 Artist's medium
50 Long-eared animals
52 Profits
53 Spirited horse
54 Loud deep sound
55 Noun ending
56 ---- up Enlivens
57 Fencing sword
59 Blend gradually
62 Spinning toy

Tuesday's Puzzle Solved



GOOD STAG PLACE
RUNE TUTU LABOR
ONIT ARTA OCEAN
SCOOT FAREWELLS
SENNIT RATED
ADAM NED LAW
TESTAMENTS WADE
ATHOL TYE FINES
SUER PREEMINENT
KID TOO DUNE
SOUPS DIGSUP
BARCAROLE SLATE
ALIAS LITE ABIR
SPORT ICON SOCK
ESTES SEND STAY



With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Betty Crocker Layer Cake Mix 18½ oz. pkg. Asst. Flavors 29¢
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one pkg. per customer 256 Grocery

With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Chock Full o Nuts Instant Coffee 10 ounce jar $2.79
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one jar per customer 257 Grocery

With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Sunshine Hydrox Cookies 15 ounce pkg. 49¢
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one pkg. per customer 258 Grocery

With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Personal Size Ivory Soap 4 pk.-3.5 oz. bars 19¢
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one pkg. per customer 261 Grocery

With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
1 pound pkg. Parkay Margarine qtr. lb. sticks 29¢
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one pkg. per customer 262 Dairy

With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
FREE! Stop & Shop Butter Grade "AA" 93 score 1 lb. pkg. ¼ lb. sticks
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one pkg. per customer 273 Dairy

ONE OF THE STOP & SHOP COMPANIES Stop & Shop SUPERMARKETS
It's "my store" to more people... who shop our ads each week!
Our all week specials are planned to help you save on your food needs every week. So, shop this ad carefully. It's planned for you.

FOR VALENTINE'S DAY
Gardenia Plants $1.99 ea. 4 inch pot
African Violet Plants 4" Pot $1.99 ea.
Azalea Plants 5 inch pot Brighten up her day. $3.99 ea.
Rubber Plants 6" Pot $3.99 ea.
Tulip Plants 6 inch pot Assorted Colors $2.99 ea.

frozen You can have supper ready in minutes.
John's-Cheese or Sausage Pizza 14 oz. pkg. 79¢
Louise's Meat Ravioli 16 oz. pkg. $1.09
Tinti's Garlic Bread 2 7 oz. pkg. 89¢
Egg Plant Parmigiana Buitoni 12 oz. pkg. 79¢
Angy's Broccoli Italian Style in oil 10 oz. pkg. 49¢
Buitoni Manicotti 14 oz. pkg. 79¢
Buitoni Lasagna with meat 14 oz. pkg. 79¢
Half Gallon Stop & Shop Sherbet Assorted Flavors 89¢
Ore Ida Shoestrings Potatoes 20 oz. pkg. 59¢
Moby Dick Dinner Taste O'Sea 9 oz. pkg. 69¢
Macaroni & Cheese Howard Johnson 19 oz. pkg. 79¢
Morton Honey Buns 2 9 oz. pkg. $1

dairy Save on cheese, yogurt and more.
Stop & Shop-American Cheese Food Slices White or Yellow Ind. Wrapped-12 oz. pkg. 89¢
Kraft Swiss Cheese Sliced 8 oz. pkg. 99¢
Whipped Butter Hotel Bar Salted or Sweet 8 oz. pkg. 59¢
Colombo Yogurt Assorted Flavors 3 8 oz. cups 89¢
Mrs. Filbert's Soft Golden Margarine 2-8 oz. cups 1 lb. pkg. 59¢

bakery Made from the finest ingredients ... delicious.
English Muffins Stop & Shop Regular or Split 3 12 oz. pkgs. of 6 $1
Stop & Shop Apple Pie 22 oz. pkg. 89¢
Donuts Stop & Shop-Countrystyle Assort or Sugar 2 11½ oz. pkgs. of 6 $1
Big Daisy White Bread Sliced 3 20 oz. loaves 89¢
Frankfurt Rolls Stop & Shop 3 12 oz. pkgs. of 8 $1
New Fangled Muffins 10 oz. pkg. of 4 59¢ Stop & Shop-Corn or Bran health and beauty aids.

Efferdent Tablets 80 ct. pkg. $1.09
Right Guard Deodorant 9 oz. Aerosol Bonus Pack 99¢

Stop & Shop "White Gem" Chickens U.S. Grade "A"
White Gem MAINE CHICKEN
Whole 2½-3 lbs. Tender, succulent tasting-broader, meatier chicken-100% natural chicken with pure natural juices. 39¢ lb
Cut Up or Split "White Gem" 2½-3 lbs. 45¢ lb.
Combination Pack "White Gem" 3 split breast, 3 drum sticks, 3 thighs 79¢ lb.
"White Gem" Family Pack" 2½-3 lbs. Chicken Breast 89¢ lb
Maine-bred to ensure quality and freshness.
"White Gem" Chicken Legs Family Pack 2½-3 lbs. 69¢ lb.
"White Gem" Chicken Wings Family Pack 2½-3 lbs. 59¢ lb.
Chicken Breast Quarters "White Gem" with Wing 59¢ lb.
Chicken Leg Quarters "White Gem" with Back 55¢ lb.
"White Gem" Chicken Thighs 79¢ lb.

Stop & Shop "Great Beef" Naturally Aged
Tip Roast Beef Round $1.39 lb
Stop & Shop GREAT BEEF USDA CHOICE
Round Tip Steak Beef Round $1.69 lb.
Cooked Ham Water Added Shank Portion (Rump Portion 89¢ lb.) 79¢ lb.
Pork Shoulder Picnic COLONIAL MASTER Water Added 89¢ lb.
Pork Shoulder Roll $1.19 lb. Smoked water added corner deli Lunch time fixings at our Corner Deli.

Nepco Cold Cuts Olive, P&P, Luncheon or Mock Chicken Loaf $1.09 lb
Longacre Chicken Roll All White Meat per lb. $1.59
Alpert's Pastrami per lb. $1.39
Jarlsberg Cheese Imported From Norway per lb. $2.39
Roasted Turkey Breast Stop & Shop qtr. lb. 89¢
Stop & Shop Meat Loaf per lb. $1.39
Stop & Shop Shrimp Salad ½ lb. $1.09
Macaroni Salad lb. 59¢
Stop & Shop Ham Salad per lb. $1.69

Stop & Shop kitchen Our chef recommends ...
Cooked Chicken "White Gem" Roasted or B-B-Q Style 89¢ lb
Potato Salad Regular or Oil and Vinegar 1 lb. pkg. 49¢
Macaroni & Cheese (Feed a Crowd) Frozen 5 lb. pkg. $2.89 self service deli All week menu pleasures.

Colonial-Extra Mild Franks 1 lb. pkg. 79¢
Colonial Kielbasi Polish Style Sausage per lb. $1.29
Colonial Bacon Sliced-Center Cut 1 lb. package $1.29

California Navel Oranges 113 size 12 for $1
Golden Yellow Bananas 5 lbs. for $1
Anjou Pears 165 size 3 lbs. 99¢
Mushrooms Snow-White 12 oz. pkg. 99¢
Popping Corn Yellow 4 lb. bag 99¢

With this coupon Save 20¢ on a 32 oz. jar Hunts Prima Salsa THICK & ZESTY Regular, Mushroom, or Meat
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one jar per customer 422 Grocery

With this coupon Save 15¢ on a 6½ oz. pkg. Betty Crocker Hamburger Helper All Varieties
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one pkg. per customer 263 Grocery

With this coupon Save 15¢ on a 27¼ oz. pkg. Pillsbury Streusel Cakes 4 Varieties
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one pkg. per customer 264 Grocery

With this coupon Save 25¢ on a 25 lb. bag of Gold Medal Flour
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one bag per customer 265 Grocery

With this coupon Save 15¢ on a 32 oz. pkg. Aunt Jemima Complete Pancake Mix
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one pkg. per customer 266 Grocery

With this coupon Save 20¢ on a 24 oz. bottle Aunt Jemima Pancake Syrup
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one btl. per customer 267 Grocery

With this coupon Save 20¢ on a 16 oz. box French's Big Tate Mashed Potatoes
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one box per customer 424 Grocery

With this coupon Save 15¢ on 6-3 oz. pkgs. Jell-O Gelatin
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit 6 pkgs. per customer 268 Grocery

With this coupon Save 30¢ on a 30 ct. box Kotex Regular or Super
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one box per customer 271 Grocery

With this coupon Save 10¢ on Keebler Cookies Choc. Fudge Sandwich 16 oz., French Vanilla Cremes 16 oz., Pitter Patter 16 oz.
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one pkg. per customer 269 Grocery

With this coupon Save 50¢ on a 2 lb. package Stop & Shop Fried Chicken Frozen
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one pkg. per customer 272 Meat

With this coupon Save 25¢ on a 72 oz. pkg. Gaines Top Choice Dog Food
Good thru Sat., Feb. 12 Limit one pkg. per customer 270 Grocery

Prices effective thru Feb. 12. In fairness to all our customers, we reserve the right to limit sales to three packages of any item except where otherwise noted. Items offered for sale not available in case lots or to other retail dealers or wholesalers. © Copyright 1977 by Stop & Shop Supermarkets. All rights reserved.

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

Redmond in goal—the pressure cooker

By MIKE SMOLENS
Collegian Staff

Dana Redmond is the most pressured athlete on the UMass campus. Redmond is the goalie for the UMass hockey team and has felt more pressure doing his job in the last two weeks than some athletes feel in an entire season.

In the past five games the 21-year-old senior has faced 220 shots — an average of 44 a game. Most college teams average upwards of 30 shots a game. Does this mean that Redmond puts four periods of work into a three period game? Not quite — but almost.

Redmond has never complained about the quantity of rubber he sees and has come to expect it. In fact, he gets a little anxious if a game is several minutes old and he hasn't faced a shot.

"I like to be tested right off the bag," Redmond said Saturday after a 4-2 loss to Vermont. "If I don't get any shots early, I'll go out and handle the puck just to get the feel of it."

Redmond has been playing goal since second grade, but it wasn't until the past few weeks that he found a few words of recognition could be more difficult to handle than 40 or 50 shots a game.

After superlative performances in a 4-2 loss to Williams (50 saves) and a 3-2 win over Hamilton (46 saves) Redmond was dubbed "the best goalie in Division II" by UMass coach Jack Caniff. UMass lost its next game to a mediocre No. Adams St. 7-1. The Minutemen's lackluster performance couples with Redmond's inevitable let-up led to the embarrassing bombardment by a team UMass should have skated off the ice.

"I like a pat on the back and a little recognition now and then," Redmond said. "But when someone says you're the best it puts too much pressure on."

After the Vermont game the bespectacled Redmond, a marketing major from Bedford, hardly resembled an athlete save his Jimmy Conners styled hair and collegiate dress. His mild manner came as a surprise after viewing him in his gladiator garb guarding the UMass cage. He was at ease, the pressure was off.

It makes a difference, he said, playing an "unbeatable" like Vermont.

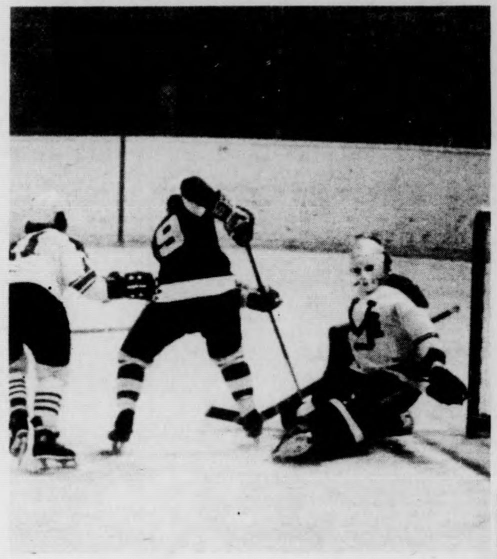
"People don't expect too much from you," said Redmond," so the pressure is off. You play better that way."

Indeed, the Minutemen nearly upset the Division I Catamounts. Backed by Redmond's strong performance, the Minutemen challenged Vermont throughout the game only to be sunk by two third period goals. Despite the loss, the inspired play boosted the team's confidence.

"After a game like that," Redmond said, "we can play with anyone."

UMass hockey has a slight inferior complex, according to Redmond, because it is neglected by the athletic department.

"It (hockey) was a class operation when I first came here," he said, "but the recent cut in hockey scholarships took away a lot of our pride."



UMass goalie Dana Redmond in action. (Staff photo by Andy Bernstein)

Women ski team tops in loop

By RICHARD MOORE
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's ski team raced to its second consecutive Women's Intercollegiate Ski Conference victory last weekend at Mt. Whittier in Ossipee, New Hampshire.

Consistent skiing by the Minutewomen overcame back-to-back slalom wins by Boston University's Tracy Newlove. BU edged UMass in Sunday's first slalom with Newlove and teammate Karen Butler finishing one-two. But the Minutewomen set up a second slalom showdown against BU as co-captain Kathy Shinnick flashed by the finish line in third place, Nancy Hayden in fourth, co-captain Kathy Donovan fifth, and Kathy Clarke tenth.

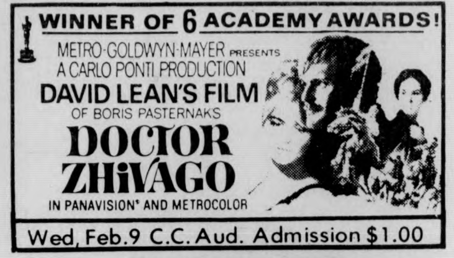
In the second and deciding slalom Newlove was again the fastest racer down the mountain, but UMass skied off with the overall meet win as Hayden came in second, Shinnick third, Donovan fourth, and Barbara Reynard fifth, in a convincing show of team strength.

"All our girls showed up real well," said UMass coach Steve Tonelli, "Newlove is flashy, but we're winning with team skiing."

In four WISC races Hayden has two second and two third places finishes, putting her second behind Newlove and in the league's individual standings. Shinnick has two third and two fifth place finishes to her credit, while Donovan has come in fourth twice and fifth once.

"Nancy and the two Kathys have been real hot," said Tonelli, "and if they can keep it up we'll keep winning."

The current WISC standings: 1) UMass 2) Boston University 3) University of Connecticut 4) Merrimack.



WINNER OF 6 ACADEMY AWARDS!
METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER PRESENTS
A CARLO PONTI PRODUCTION
DAVID LEAN'S FILM
OF BORIS PASTERNAKS
DOCTOR ZHIVAGO
IN PANAVISION® AND METROCOLOR
Wed, Feb.9 C.C. Aud. Admission $1.00

AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST. 253-5426
NOW NOW
FRANCOIS TRUFFAUT'S
THE BRIDE WORE BLACK with Jeannie Moreau
AND
MISSISSIPPI MERMAID with Catherine Deneuve & Jean-Paul Belmondo
Eves: Mermaid 7:00, Bride Wore Black 9:00
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

University of massachusetts arts council
S. HUROK presents
CANADA'S ROYAL WINNIPEG BALLET
FRI. & SAT., FEB. 11 & 12 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets on sale Jan. 28, $6, 5, 4. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

CALVIN
Northampton 584-2310
NOW . . . thru TUES.
LED ZEPPELIN
"THE SONG REMAINS THE SAME"
Weeknites 7, 9:20
Sat., Sun. 4:40, 7, 9:20
Sat., Sun. Dollar Hour til 6 p.m.
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

University of massachusetts arts council
presents
Quartetto Italiano
The program will consist of QUARTET IN C MAJOR, OPUS 76, No. 3 ("Emperor") by Haydn, THREE PIECES FOR STRING QUARTET (1914) by Stravinsky, CONCERTINO FOR STRING QUARTET (1920) by Stravinsky and QUARTET IN D MINOR, D. 810 ("Death and the Maiden") by Schubert.
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets now on sale! $5, 4, 3. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
LOVE. ACTION. COMEDY. SUSPENSE. EXCITEMENT.
Before Laurel met Hardy
Before Butch Cassidy met the Sundance Kid
Before any movie ever made you laugh or cry or fall in love
There was a handful of adventurers who made flickering pictures you could see for a nickel
NICKELODEON
RYAN O'NEAL BURT REYNOLDS TATUM O'NEAL BRIAN KEITH
PETER BOGDANOVICH'S "NICKELODEON"
PG ① Wed. 5:45, 8:00, Twi-Liter 5:15-5:45
Limited seating at Twi-Liter $1.25
If only they knew she had the power.
IF YOU'VE GOT A TASTE FOR TERROR TAKE CARRIE TO THE PROM
"CARRIE"
R HELD OVER! FINAL WEEK
② Wed. 6:00, 8:15, Twi-Liter 5:30-6:00
Limited seating at Twi-Liter $1.25
Sherlock Holmes meets Sigmund Freud
THE SEVEN-PER-CENT SOLUTION
ALAN ARKIN · VANESSA REDGRAVE · ROBERT DUVALL
and NICOL WILLIAMSON
PG ③ Wed. 5:45, 8:15, Twi-Liter 5:15-5:45
Limited seating at Twi-Liter $1.25
"ONE OF INGMAR BERGMAN'S FINEST FILMS!" —Judith Crist, Saturday Review
DINO DE LAURENTIIS PRESENTS
INGMAR BERGMAN'S
"FACE TO FACE"
Starring
LIV ULLMANN
R ④ Wed. 5:30, 8:00, Twi-Liter 5:00-5:30
Limited seating at Twi-Liter $1.25
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS... LIMITED TO SEATING

Sports Notices

WMUA — Tonight at 7 p.m., there will be a meeting for all those interested in sportscasting at WMUA. The meeting will take place in room 169 Campus Center.

INTRAMURALS — Men's and women's swimming rosters are due in today. Co-Rec bowling entries are due a week from today. Remember the $6.00 fee.

TICKETS — Tickets for the UMass basketball doubleheader are now on sale at the Boyden Ticket Office. Prices are $4.50 and $3.50 for non-students, $3.50 and $2.50 for students.

Celtics—wait until playoff time

By JACK BROWN
Collegian Staff

Commentary

Disorganized, inefficient, lethargic, mediocre — these are many of the adjectives Boston fans were using to describe the Celtics after two massacres at the hands of the Philadelphia 76ers.

True, the Celts were battered and beaten but excuses are available and certainly valid at this time. Actually, I believe the Celts should be encouraged by several aspects of recent performances.

Excuses begin with the significance of Charlie Scott's absence, which burdens the team in two major areas. Scott is an offensive scoring machine and defensively he is the quickest and tallest guard Boston has. His speed and height in the backcourt allows the Celtics to use full-court pressure regardless of the opposition ballhandler.

The second excuse available to soulsearchers is the physical condition of a rather large redhead who finally arrived at the local employ. Dave Cowens' sabbatical has ended, but being in playing condition is far removed from being in everyday good shape.

Big Red appears to be playing with all the intensity he displayed before his leave, but there are lapses of ineffectiveness, and he certainly is not yet the factor he will be in games later in the year. When Cowens is 100 per cent his value is at a paramount in the NBA.

The third and probably most relevant excuse relates to the word used by basketball coaches from Truth or Consequences, New Mexico to China, Maine. The word I'm referring to is "mesh". Cowens has played only a handful of games with Sidney Wicks and Curtis Rowe; and only three or four contests with the Celtic's new phenom, fast Freddy Saunders. This accounts for the disarray involving these key players.

The brighter side lies ahead. We all know that the season really begins in March. Provided that the Celts win a majority of their remaining games, they should be at peak level by the 'second season'. If Scott returns Boston will have more than enough speed to contend with the Philly backcourt.

Cowens will present a mobile offensive center who will give either Philadelphia pivot man fits. His sabbatical offered a chance to develop Tommy Boswell and also allowed Jim Ard to prove that he is a competent professional center.

Scott's absence has made possible the arrival of Saunders, who may just be the potent swingman the Celts have been searching for to replace Havlicek if he ever ages in this century.

By playoff time the Celtics may be seven-deep in first-rate ballplayers with a supply of benchmen who can fill significant roles. Be patient fans. We're talking about the Boston Celtics.

Remember this. In 1969 the aging and verbally berated Celtics finished fourth but became world champs. Deja vu is the feeling.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN'S
CLASSIC COMEDY
MODERN TIMES
with Paulette Goddard written, directed and scored by Charles Chaplin sub thursday 7·9·11
an rbc films presentation

JEAN-PIERRE RAMPAL & ROBERT VEYRON-LACROIX
FLUTE & KEYBOARD
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 18
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL 8 PM
Tickets now on sale. $6, 5, 4. UM-A $4, 3, 2. Other students and senior citizens $5, 4, 3.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations
PRESENTED BY THE FINE ARTS CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS-AMHERST

Everbody's Market Place

CLASSIFIED ADS

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8 30a m and 3 45p m Monday thru Friday The deadline is 3 45p m., two days before your ad is to appear

The rates are
Daily · 40' per line
Weekly · 35' per line
Monthly · 25' per line
(two lines on MDC form approximate one line)

IF YOU CAN'T COME TO THE OFFICE, CLIP OUT AND MAIL OUR 'SPEEDY CLASSIFIED AD FORM'

FOR SALE

Exata VX, antique. $150 or will trade. Isaac, 253-2107, eves.

New ski boots. Italian imports, polyurethane with flo-form linings. Most sizes, $35. After ski boots, $25. Call Sue 256-8641 evenings 7:00 - 10:30.

House broken rabbit for sale, 11 wks. Red Satin, cute, great pet. Debby. 538-4087.

Color TV, Sony, top of line, Trinitron, 19", new 14 mo. ago, rarely used. 256-0158.

Yamaha FG-180, Guitar $125 or B.O. Call Daniel 3-7 p.m. 253-3887.

Typewriter — Olivetl, ex. cond. $50. Call Nancy evenings 256-8391

1 pr. of men's Bauer hockey skates, size 10. Call 6-8960.

Twin bed. 253-7625.

Kastle GS skis, 200cm. $50. 546-4709.

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Have your portrait drawn. Call Dennis Delap, 256-8732.

Size 44 brown leather waist lngth, lined, barely used. $50. Call JK 549-6973.

Kowa Six 2¼ SLR with 80 mm lens and grip. $190 or best offer. Gary 256-8434.

Never used — Odyssey 200 w-adapter. Ping pong game for any TV. $75 or B. O. 546-5384.

Bar, 7 ft, fully padded & 3 stools. 256-8216.

Sherwood 7200 — 40w per channel, dual 1228 w-cart, AR2AX speakers. All excellent cond. $515. Neal, 546-4382.

For Sale: 4 fairly new (2000 miles), steel belted, radials. 165R15. Lee, 253-3527. $100.

AUTO FOR SALE

'73 Subaru, pampered, Ziebart, 49,000 mi., 33 mpg. $1895. 268-7196.

Red Mustang, '65. Runs, needs valve work. Best offer. 5-2658, 586-0443.

'67 VW Sqrbk, reblt eng. Runs good, $475. '71 Vega, runs good — body shot, $200. firm. 256-8214 after 6.

'68 Renault Rio. Gd. cond. 30mpg. 546-6304.

'63 VW. Excellent condition, dependable. $295 or best offer. Gary 256-8434.

'68 Catalina, hi mi. but runs well and reliable. $350. Peter Dwight 224. 5-2304.

'66 Peugeot 404, radials, ex. parts. A good car, $465. Carl 549-5335.

1970 Camaro, Hurst Cragars headers, more. Needs some work. Must sell. 665-2676.

TO SUBLET

Sublet Immediately — 1 bedroom Puffton Village, wall to wall, morn. 549-6985.

ROOMMATE WANTED

Roommate — 2 bdrm., own room, $125 inc. util., sec. dep., d-d, w-d, modern. 549-1741 or 549-1352. Share w-female, senior. Lease 8-31-77. A-cond.

2½ rms. 110 mo. Furn., util.inc. Cbl. tv, ac refrig, stove. 1 mile from campus 546-4177.

2 people to share lg. rm. in Pelham house. 8 mi. to campus. $165+. 253-7009.

1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. apt. for lease. $125—mo., utilities inc. Call 665-4235. Sunderland (female).

2 rooms — Montague. $85+. 772-0241, ext. 221 or 367-2375. Ask for Marian Perry.

Lg. bdrm. Brit. Manor. Non-smok. F or Fs. Own room or share. Quiet. 253-3140 eves.

F wanted for 1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. unit till May. $100. 665-3044; 545-1924. Bus rt.

1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. apt. No lease. $90+ w-w carpet & p-furnd. 665-4847.

FOR RENT

1 bdrm. apt. Puffton. Bus, air cond., d-wash, quiet. $205 month incl. all. 549-4596.

Beat the summer rush rentals. For a good deal and a good deal more $. Call 256-0144. P.M.

University Women: Close to campus sorority is taking boarders. Great food. Call Liz or Dawn at 253-9215.

Sublet Riverglade 2 bdrm., heat, AC incl. On busline. Very reasonable. 253-2777.

TYPING

Typing — Reasonable rates — Dissertations, resumes, papers, etc. 549-6772.

WANTED

Used stationary exercise bike. Good condition. 772-6184 collect after 5 p.m.

Wanted: A queen or king size bed. Call 256-0144. P.M. Ask for Red.

WANTED

Wanted — Old abandoned cars for salvage or junk. Fair prices paid. 665-4546 after 6 p.m. A&S Salvage Inc.

Fencers...Experienced foil and saber fencer needs partners — a.m., p.m., weekends. Duke Simoneau 405D1. Brown house. 546-5727.

RIDERS WANTED

Riders wanted for car pool to Holyoke weekdays. Contact Linda D-5, N-Village.

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Spfld. from UMass M-W-F at 11 and Tues and Thurs. at 2:30. Will share $. 736-8690 Sue.

HONEST FURNITURE

Good deals on bureaus, beds, chairs, sofas, lamps, threadle sewing machines, desks and things that go bump in the night. Pauls Oldtime Furniture, 57 E. Pleasant St., Amherst. 549-3603, we deliver.

REWARD OFFERED

Reward offered for return of casino klub amplifier and AKG 190E mike stolen from basement of 165 Britanny Manor. Call Jim at 549-1145.

HELP WANTED

Has intersession left you broke? If you are looking for a high paying job, call Peter at 253-2997.

One or two work study jobs are opening with the Student Senate Recycling Project this semester. These would be part-time work study positions working as helpers on the recycling project's trash truck. A willingness to do hard work & reliability are essential. 8-10 hrs. wk., $3.00 hr. Apply at CEQ Office. Equal Opp. Employer.

Part-time workers wanted for student auto workshop — need mechanical ability and desire to help people. Applications at SAW or 402 SUB due no later than 2-9. Equal Opportunity Employer.

HELP WANTED

The Below The Salt arts weekly is looking for your poetry. Let us see your creativity? Come on down Monday nite or leave your stuff in the Poetry Box, Coll. Off., 1st floor C.C.

Men! Women! Jobs on ships! American. Foreign. No exp. required. Exc. pay. Worldwide Travel. Summer job or career. Send $3 for info: SEAFAX, Dept. F-2, Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362.

Work in a sorority. Free meals, good home cooking. Call 253-9066.

Alan Goldberg Tennis Pro needs assistant pro for part time summer employment. Teaching exp. required. Call nites 253-3683.

International women's week needs people power for publicity committee and children's programming! For more info. call Irene 545-3600.

Fashion 220 Beauty Consultants are trained specialists in skin care and beauty techniques. To qualify call Mon.-Fri. 12-2:30 p.m. 568-3903, 533-9331.

Emblem & Badge, Inc., America's largest trophy suppliers is looking for a rep on campus — Call 401-331-5444 or write to E&B, Attn: Bill Melzer, 859 N. Main St., Prov., R.I. 02940.

PERSONALS

To the woman mailing a B-day card to the Cape, from the guy cashing a check — Thanks for making my day — again!

Astrology: Humanistic charts & readings. Member American Council of Astrologers. Louis Neubel 549-6425.

From Across the Big Blue — Crazy Annie misses all of you.

A special thanks to all who helped with the Jack Flash Show. K.M.

Want to be in the Good Humor Elevator Fan Club? Come to the 19th floor Washington tonite at 9:30.

Entomology Students — Come as a Spanish fly to the Beaux Arts Ball, Feb. 26.

Happy 22nd Victory Slug, Lauren and Corinne. Love, Bobarino.

LOST

Lost while walking from the vicinity of Flint Lab to the C.C. Concourse, a gold Timex watch with a gold band. Of sentimental value only. Pls. call Jean 546-9568. Thanx.

Lg. black & white fluffy cat. Male, 1½ years old. Near Rvrgld. Apt. 256-6694. He is missed!

Brown pocketbook lost between Poor Richards and Brittany Manor w-keys, wallet, address book, ID's, pictures. Reward. L. Gunsolley 6-9689.

SERVICES

Guitar Lessons. Experienced, reliable teacher. Theory included if desired. Student rates available. 665-3024.

Typing — 65c pg. Call Anne 549-5339.

FREE

Free dog & cat. Love outdoors & kids. Dog is spayed & all shots. 549-4896, nites.

AUDIO

Crown Disco Amp. SAE Preamp Equalizer. Dual CS701 trntable. JBL100 spkrs., excel. condition. All for $1,450.00. Call Joe 6:30 p.m. 586-2844.

Quality audio components — over 130 lines including high—end; good advice, reasonable prices. Call Peter 665-2920.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators has low prices! All T. I. warr by me for 1 yr. SR-52 $199.95; SR-56 $84.95 ($10 rebate off this pr.); SR-40 $34.95, bus anal $34.95 — All HP's avail. HP-67 $389.95. Call and check our PR's. Call Bob Or Linda 549-1316!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

TRAVEL

Europe '77. No frills, student, teacher, charter flights — Global Travel, 521 5th Ave., N. Y., N. Y. 10017. 212-379-3532. Group rates.

UMass sports scoop

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

MEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL — UMass 87 Harvard 45
MEN'S JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL — Dartmouth 81 UMass 47
WOMEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL — UMass 87 Bridgewater State 77
WOMEN'S JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL — Bridgewater State 63 UMass 46
MEN'S VARSITY INDOOR TRACK — Dartmouth 61 UMass 57

TODAY
VARSITY WRESTLING vs. New Hampshire Away 7:00
VARSITY HOCKEY vs. Northeastern Away 7:00
JUNIOR VARSITY HOCKEY vs. Holyoke CC Away 9:00
MEN'S VARSITY SWIMMING vs. New Hampshire Home 7:00

Mermen home to friendly pool; hope to snap three-loss skein

By MARK MARCHAND
Collegian Staff

The UMass mermen, smarting from a three-meet losing streak, will try to improve their 2-4 record as they host the Wildcats of New Hampshire tonight in a 7:00 p.m. meet at Boyden Gym.

The Wildcats have had a mediocre season thus far as they currently sport a 3-3 record. Their last loss came against New England powerhouse Vermont last Saturday when UNH was easily defeated by an 83-30 score. The only Wildcat winners in that meet were Peter DeJager in the 200-yard backstroke and the quartet of Gary Pervdini, Jeff Cheerington, Fred Ludvigsen, and DeJager in the 400-yard medley relay.

By all indications it should be a fairly close meet as an intense rivalry has always existed between the two teams over past years.

The UMies, coached by Bei Melamed, will be trying to break into the win column for the first time this semester after coming off Saturday's crushing defeat at the hands of the University of Rhode Island by a 7-42 score.

Melamed has been trying to do his best with the limited roster this season.

He has had to rely on several veteran swimmers to score the bulk of the points while waiting for the younger members of the team to gain the necessary experience to become more competitive on a Division II level.

Trackmen tumble; but fashion fine show

By DAVE RODMAN
Collegian Staff

HANOVER, N.H. — It was a typical UMass-Dartmouth track confrontation. Outstanding individual performances, meet records, and suspense were the order of the day. Unfortunately, when the dust had settled from the final event, the Green was on top by a count of 61-57.

"The Dartmouth meet always comes down to the last event," said coach Ken O'Brien. "For the last two years the last event has decided it, and each time it's been a five point margin or less."

This time it was the two-mile relay that was the deciding factor, with a scant five tenths of a second separating the two teams at the wire. Dartmouth's winning time was 7:48.5.

After the field events were completed, UMass trailed by only 4 points, 29-25. Kurt Jansson set a meet record of 66' 3½" in the 35 lbs. weight throw as the Green swept that event. Joe Martens also set a meet record in the high jump as he went over 6'8". Bob Fitzgerald finished 2nd for UMass at 6'6".

In the other jumps, Ron Williams fared well as he won the long jump with a leap of 21'10" and finished 3rd in the triple jump. Bruce Parsons continued to perform well in the latter as he won with a jump of 45'8¼", surpassing his Dartmouth opponent on his last attempt.

Perhaps the top effort in a day of outstanding ones was the win in the 1000 by Jim Hunt. After suffering from a flu bug, Hunt was a questionable participant in the meet. Not only did he turn, but he recorded a meet record and personal best time of 2:12.4.

Another stellar effort was turned in by John Richards in the 600. Richards ran 1:12.5 to take 1st, while Fran O'Keefe ran his best time of 1:14.6 to take third.

Distance events continued to be a UMass forte, as the Minutemen swept the two mile run. John McGrail ran 9:10.4.

At this point, the score stood at 56-52 in Dartmouth's favor. The only remaining events were the mile and two mile relays.

"These were the two best collegiate relays I think I've ever seen," said O'Brien. "They were running stride for stride all the way."

In the mile relay, Fran O'Keefe and Bill Conant ran two fine legs of 51.7 and 51.1, respectively. This left John Richards and Joe Martens to run 40.2 and 49.6 in turn, and to lock up a 4. second victory at 3:22.0.

This brought the score to 57-56 in Massachusetts favor, with the two mile relay the crucial event. Frosh Steve MacDougall led off with a leg of 1:57.1. He was followed by Jeff King and Chris Farmer who ran 1:55.6 and 1:56 respectively. This left the anchor leg up to Hunt, who, running what assistant coach Gary King called a "gutsy race" held the lead until the last turn when he was overtaken by the Green's anchorman.

"We've been registering best performances consistenly all year long," said O'Brien. "We're the best 1-7 team in New England."

"We're running much better than last year," said King. "But we don't have all of our runners together at the same time, due to key injuries to key people. If we have a full team for the YanCons, I wouldn't be surprised if it turned out to be a two way meet between us and UConn."

Collegian
sports

Who distributes the Freshman Register?

god doesn't make junk

You have something to share with the people of the rural South and Appalachia — yourself. Find out how you can help, as a Catholic Brother, Sister, or Priest. Your request will be treated confidentially.
☐ I'd like information about opportunities with the Glenmary Missioners.

Glenmary Missioners Room
Box 46404
Cincinnati, Ohio 45246
Name________
Address________
City________
Zip________
State________
Age________

Demonstration Day!
Specials — Wednesday Only!

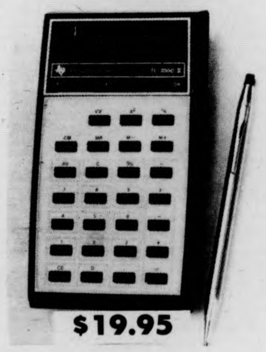
SR51-II

$59.95

TI-1650

$21.95

TI-2550-II



$19.95

TEXAS INSTRUMENTS
Demonstration Day
Wed., Feb. 9
11 a.m. — 3 p.m.

at the
University Store

Campus Center
Univ. of Mass.

ONLY THE BEST IN HOCKEY EQUIPMENT

Skate-Sharpening

Intramural hockey anyone?

Victoriaville Sticks
$3.00 2/$5.00

FENTON'S
ATHLETIC SUPPLIES

377 MAIN ST. STREET
AMHERST 253-3973

Pucksters prepped to leash ice Huskies

By FRAN SYPEK
Collegian Staff

The UMass hockey team will be trying to break a two-year jinx when it travels to Boston tonight to take on Division I Northeastern.

The last time UMass, (which competes in Division II), defeated a Division I club was in January of 1975 when it downed Yale. The Ivy League School was in the basement of Division I at that time.

Last year the Minutemen were 0-5 against Division I clubs, losing big to teams like Providence College, (10-2) Vermont (10-4) and New Hampshire, (11-5).

"It's hard to compete against Division I clubs when you don't have any scholarship money to bring top players to UMass," lamented UMass coach Jack Canniff.

This year UMass is playing only two Division I teams. Northeastern marks the second Division I game in a row for the Minutemen.

Last Friday the Minutemen played Vermont and lost, 4-2, despite playing one of their better games of the year. The score was tied at 2-2 at the end of two periods, but the Catamounts scored twice in the last period to send the puckmen down to their third consecutive setback.

"We seem to have our act together now," Canniff said after the Vermont game. "If we keep this up, we're going to surprise somebody."

Northeastern was defeated by Boston University, 10-5, Monday night in the opening round of the Beanpot Tournament. Boston College and Harvard are also involved in the winter tourney, which gives the winner the bragging rights of Greater Boston.

The Huskies pulled to within one goal of the Terriers, when Dale Ferdinari scored at 16:31 of the second period, making the score 4-3. However, BU scored six third period goals to insure the victory. Northeastern is the only team never to win the Beanpot.

The Huskies are eighth in Division I with an overall record of 8-10-0 and an 8-7-0 Division mark.

The Minutemen have an overall record of 6-7-1 and a division record of 6-6-1. Defenseman Bob McCormick will miss tonight's game, as his shoulder is still bothering him.

AROUND THE CREASE: Dick Lamby, brother of UMass defenseman Chris, scored by BU Monday night... The Minutemen face a host of tough Divison II clubs as they head down the home stretch. This weekend the puckmen travel to Maine to face Bowdoin and Colby before returning home to face AIC next Wednesday.

JV hoop loses first

By DAVE RODMAN
Collegian Staff

Everything which had served the Minutemen sub-varsity hoopmen in good stead all season was turned against them by a talented Dartmouth sub-varsity squad last night at the Cage as the "Baby Green" dominated UMass, 81-67.

The Green shot the ball well, rebounded, played defense, and despite having trouble handling the UMass press, picked apart the UMass defense with sharp passes.

Although the turnover count was even at 23, Dartmouth had 13 more assists which resulted in layup after layup for the visitors. A comparison of shooting percentages also bears this out, as UMass only shot 30 per cent from the floor, while the Green shot 50 per cent.

The Ivies also held an edge over UMass in the board battle as they pulled down 49 caroms to 33 for the Minutemen.

All of the above statistical categories were ones which have been dominated in earlier games. Something which may have contributed to this is the fact that an Ivy League rule prohibit freshmen from playing varsity ball. The taller Dartmouth players will be the main men for the Dartmouth varsity next season.

One positive aspect of the game was the press, which gave Dartmouth problems in the second half. Poor shooting more than overcame any advantage which may have been gained from those turnovers. Another plus was the rebounding of Irv McKnight, who pulled down 10.

HARDEE'S® ROAST BEEF.
$1 GETS YOU TWO.

If you think $1 doesn't buy much these days, you haven't been to Hardee's lately.

With the coupon below, $1 buys you two big beautiful Roast Beef sandwiches. Slow-cooked, juicy roast beef, sliced thin and stacked high, with your choice of three tangy sauces.

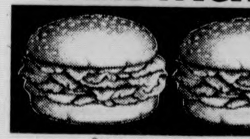
Take this coupon to any participating Hardee's and try a big beautiful Roast Beef sandwich. Or two.

You've never had it so good.

Hardee's
The taste that brings you back.

$1 GETS YOU TWO BIG BEAUTIFUL ROAST BEEF SANDWICHES

Hardee's of Hadley
430 Russell Street
Hadley, Massachusetts
Hardee's



One coupon per customer please.
Coupon expires February, 22 1977

© Hardee's Food Systems, Inc., 1976

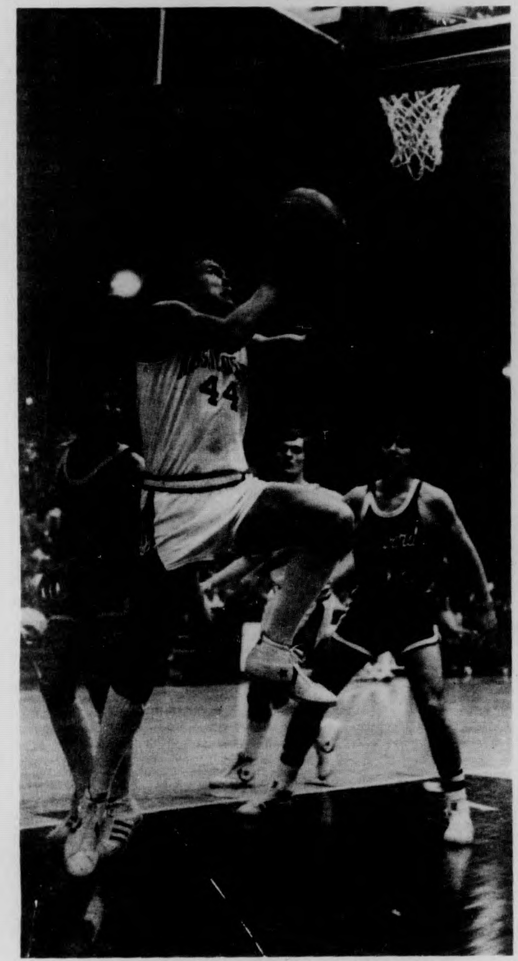
Collegian Sports

Hockey preview; pg. 23

A goalie's lot; pg. 20

Bench buoys effort

Hoopmen harass Harvard, 87-45



UMass forward Jim Town struts his stuff against the Crimson of Harvard last night. The Minutemen won in a cakewalk. (Staff photo by Nancy Bernetich)

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

Let it be known that UMass guard Alex Eldridge said it first when he declared Sunday afternoon following the Minutemen's win over Pittsburgh, "We will beat Harvard by more than 30 points."

Eldridge and fellow teammates did just that as they simply toyed with the Crimson, 87-45, before an estimated 2800 at the Cage last night. The Minutemen, behind forward Jim Town's 24 points, did anything they wanted against an inexperienced Harvard team.

The UMass, now 12-6 and winners of five out of the last six games shot as well as it did all season with a 62.9 shooting percentage from the field. Leaman's men also controlled the rebounding action as they out-caromed the Crimson, 48-21 for the game.

"We had unbelievable shooting tonight," said an elated Town after the game. Town, who had miserable shooting efforts in the previous two games against West Virginia and Pittsburgh, shot a blistering 12-15, as he only played 19 minutes.

Town said the key to his shooting success was Harvard's man-to-man defense.

"I just shoot better against teams that use man-to-man defense. I just wish they would outlaw the zone. I just hope Rutgers doesn't use a zone defense the whole game on Thursday night," Town said.

A happy Jack Leaman said after the game that the convincing win over the Crimson was just the right kind of win his team needed in order to prepare for Rutgers.

"We played real well as a unit. We executed well, passed well, ran the break when we had to and most important, a lot of our non-starters got a chance to play a lot of minutes," Leaman said. "Players like Bill Morrison, George Dennerlein, Jim Maguire, Brad Johnson, and Chuck Steveskey did a lot of little things on the court which pleased me. I won't be afraid to use them against Rutgers if I need them," said Leaman.

The starting five of Town, Mike Pyatt, Mark Donoghue, Derick Claiborne, and Eldridge heated up fast as it outscored Harvard 10-3 after the first five minutes of play. The Minutemen soon extended the lead to 18-3 as Town hit four outside jumpers and Pyatt connected for six points.

While Mark Donoghue controlled the boards both offensively and defensively, Eldridge and Claiborne turned on the dribbling show, handing out assists to Town and Pyatt. Town added to the performance with a behind the back dribble and an over the shoulder pass to Pyatt who smoothly swished a jumper.

It was 31-13 with eight minutes to go when Leaman inserted his substitutes. Leaman didn't lose any consistency as his sophomore-freshmen quintet outscored the Harvard starting five 12-8 to give the Minutemen a 19 point lead in the first half.

A rested Town went right back to work at the beginning of the second half as he hit for four of six Minuteman baskets within a five minute span. Claiborne, who scored eight points for the game, also scored the next two baskets with a beautiful full court drive and a 15 foot jump shot and the Minutemen enjoyed a 63-38 lead.

With 12 minutes left to play, Leaman sat down his starting five and again went to his bench. Dennerlein, a freshman, played his best game of the season as the 6-6 forward scored a game high 13 points, grabbed three rebounds, blocked a shot, and shot 66 per cent from the field.

"I felt a lot more relaxed tonight," Dennerlein said. I finally got a lot more playing time and I felt good shooting the ball."

For the last 12 minutes, Harvard played its best basketball as the now 4-12 Crimson began to drive more and open up their inside game. High scorers for ex-Celtic Tom Sander's men were 6-6 sophomore Bob Hooft who scored 16 points, and guard Jeff Hill with 12.

"Harvard didn't take any bad shots out there," said UMass forward Mike Pyatt. "They didn't rush their shots but we just played real tough defense on them. Getting up emotionally for them was no problem. We need a team like this to get ready for Rutgers."

Nick Kotsopoulos

State plays games with UMass sports

There is something about the political process of this state that is so bewildering and unbelievable that out-of-staters must really enjoy a good laugh watching the Massachusetts politicians make fools of themselves.

If you have been following the recent shenanigans of the University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees, you have a prime example of state politics at work.

Last week, the UMass trustees announced that they plan to construct a new gymnasium and skating rink at the UMass-Boston campus at Columbia Point.

The skating rink, if constructed would cost the state $1.8 million while the gymnasium and swimming pool would also cost around the million dollar figure.

I suppose if you go to UMass-Boston this must be great news, even though the school has no hockey team, a Division III basketball team and not too much of anything else.

But what about UMass-Amherst? Why do the UMass trustees neglect to consider constructing a skating rink here, or why do they neglect to consider building some sort of new gymnasium for one of the top powers in New England basketball?

Just because we are 100 miles from Boston doesn't mean they should forget about us. Don't these people know that this is the state University of Massachusetts?

Isn't it about time the UMass-Amherst hockey team got a new home rink instead of having to play at Amherst College where it is difficult to attract large crowds?

Isn't it about time we did away with that eyesore known as the Cage and built a new complex that could meet the growing needs of the UMass basketball program?

It seems only logical to me that if anything was going to be built in the way of athletic facilities, it would begin here. But then again this is Massachusetts, the state that thrives on chaos.

For years there have been pleas from students and the athletic department at UMass-Amherst to construct new and more modern athletic facilities. However, all we heard from the politicians is that the state doesn't have the money to do such a frivilous thing.

We accepted that for an answer. But now our own Board of Trustees have turned their back on this school's athletic needs and this has to be a slap in the face for the UMass athletic program.

After all, there's nothing better than having a school one-fourth the size of this campus have better athletic facilities when they don't particulary need them right away, unless the Boston politicians plan to make the Columbia Point campus the new state university.

Don't underestimate them, I wouldn't be surprised if they did that.

It's a damn shame to see other UMass athletic teams continue to suffer. Coach Ken O'Brien's indoor track team never has and never will have an opportunity to host an indoor track meet because of the lack of facilities.

It's also a damn shame to see the gymnastic teams have to schedule their big home meets in the cold and dusty Curry Hicks Cage, a place that is certainly not suited for gymnastics meets.

You ask when will we get these new facilities? Well, if the construction plans at UMass-Boston go through, don't count on anything being done at this campus for quite some time.

Yeah, it certainly is a damn shame alright. You would think that the state university would be given top priority after years of having to cope with second-rate facilities.

But then again, this is Massachusetts, a state that is known for everything, particularly politicians and a sinking state university.

Women hoopsters wallop Big Red for ninth in a row

By JOHN LOWNEY
Collegian Staff

BRIDGEWATER — Nancy O'Neil fired in 33 points to lead the hot-shooting UMass women's basketball team to a fast paced 87-77 victory over Bridgewater State last night.

The Minutewomen, who have now won nine straight, did not have the easy time that they have had against other recent opponents. it took better than 50 per cent shooting to hand Bridgewater its first loss.

The Big Red had more height than UMass, which became very important when the Minutewomen learned that their front court was not at full strength. Center Lu-Ann Fletcher played with a slightly sprained ankle, while forward-guard Jo Balletta did not travel with the team because of personal reasons.

The Minutewomen made up for this frontcourt disadvantage by playing solid pressure defense and boxing out well on the boards.

O'Neil's outstanding performance did not hurt, either. The senior forward has not been scoring as much as last year, but her shooting has been consistent. Last night she put it all together. Her 15 field goals and three foul shots added up to her best offensive game of the season.

Sue Peters, who has become the Minutewomen's major offensive threat, scored 16 points on her variety of outside shots and twisting drives. Fletcher added seven points as well as defending the tough Bridgewater centers despite her injured ankle.

Once again, though, it was the strength of the UMass bench which provided the margin of victory. Coach Mary Ann Ozdarski said at the outset of the season that she would need a strong bench to play a running game. The Minutewomen supersubs have not disappointed.

Ozdarski labeled last night's game as "a good team effort to beat a team that plays the same end-to-end basketball as we do."

She added, "We didn't run too well, but we popped from the outside. It's good to beat a quick, fast-breaking team."

The Minutewomen keep rolling on. When they're not running well, they hit their outside shots. When Lu Fletcher has a sprained ankle, Nancy O'Neil scores 33 points. And when the starters are not producing, Ozdarski can go to her bench for a quick uplift.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVI, ISSUE 83 THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1977

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/ Amherst, MA. 01003/ (413) 545-3500

May face impeachment

Presidents veto SATF hike

By BOB DAVIDSON
Collegian Staff

Student Government Association co-Presidents Jay A. Martus and Paul M. Cronin last night vetoed a Student Activities Tax Fund (SATF) fee increase of $7 approved by the Undergraduate Student Senate minutes before.

The SATF fee increase was proposed by SGA Treasurer Thomas J. Kerrins based on his budget projections for fiscal year 1978.

The fee increase was the result of an anticipated decrease in enrollment for the next academic year.

After the fee increase was vetoed by Martus and Cronin, Kerrins seconded a motion to impeach the co-presidents made by Richard M. Baga, chairman of the Senate's Academic Affairs Committee.

According to Baga, the impeachment motion was brought against the co-presidents "for going against the wishes of the student senate."

In other action, Toby J. Slodden introduced a motion to remove Peter Graham from the chair of the Rents and Fees Committee. Slodden's action was brought on by what he termed "political extortion."The senate referred the action to the SGA Attorney General for investigation.

Last night's motion to impeach the co-presidents must be discussed at the senate's meeting next week after a mandatory one-week tabling period has expired.

"The action in no way is intended to remove the elected co-presidents but is a response to their action to disregard the actions of the student senate this evening," Baga said after the motion was postponed.

"I can understand Senator Baga's frustration," said Cronin, "However, we are entitled to the veto under the Constitution. Rich is also entitled to make a motion to impeach. Hopefully, the proceedings can be avoided and we can deal with the real problem which is setting a reasonable fee."

"We were elected by the campus at large, not the senate. We respect the senate, it does a good job. But, we feel that the issue needs more exposure and we are willing to face impeachment to make that happen," Cronin said last night.

According to Martus and Cronin, the veto does not defeat the fee increase but stalemates it and gives the senate more time to consider the issue.

"Although the student senate is a responsible group, we felt the discussion before it tonight was pressured, too brief, and not with enough feedback from the students at large," said Martus. "With the public hearing on Monday open to the University community, this need will be met."

The SATF fee increase was proposed after the rules were suspended and a motion for a committee of the whole was passed. The motion enabled the entire senate to act as its Rents and Fees committee.

Much debate followed Kerrins' fee increase proposal. According to Kerrins, the fee increase was needed or the senate would have to commit $40,000 in fiscal year 1978 in order to maintain the present level of student services supported by the senate.

Kerrins also said that the proposed fee increase would not increase the senate's revenues but was needed for student services' maintenance.

"We're asking for an increase of the fee but we're not asking for an increase in revenue," said Kerrins.

Kerrins said he proposed the fee increase because he felt the senate and all the organizations it supports would be in financial trouble without it.

Martus argued that the senate could not justify a fee increase because its constituents did not know how the present fee of $55 was being spent.

"If this were taken to a referendum, you can bet your ass it would be defeated," said Martus.

After debate closed. the proposed fee increase was passed

TURN TO PAGE 2

Here comes the Gov

Governor Michael S. Dukakis and Paul Parks, state secretary of education will spend two days and one night on the UMass campus later this month.

Parks said during a visit to the UMass campus yesterday that plans for their visit are not finalized but he was "pretty sure" the trip was scheduled for February 22 and 23.

He said they would spend their days visiting classes and walking around the campus. Parks added they might spend their night in one of the UMass dormitories.

A check of the governor's monthly itinerary revealed that two consecutive days were marked "Amherst." An aide in the governor's office could not confirm the dates.

Dukakis was unavailable for comment last night.

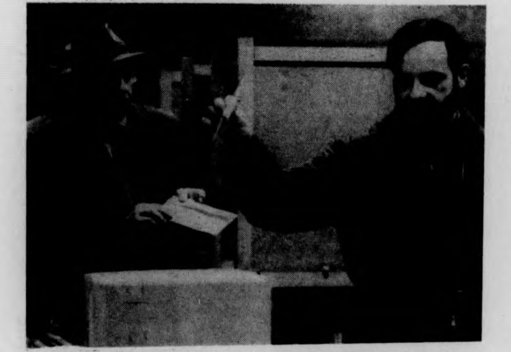
Faculty deciding on union

By MARY BROWN
Collegian Staff

Ballots are being counted today at the Boston offices of the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission to determine if UMass faculty have elected the Massachusetts Teacher's Association (MTA) as their collective bargaining agent.

Voting was conducted Tuesday and Wednesday at the Boston and Amherst campuses of the University in a run-off election between local affiliates of the MTA and "no agent".

A December election between the MTA affiliates, local affiliates of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) and "no agent" produced no clear winner, and the top two vote-getters went into a run-off election.



The eyes are on the ballot as Professor Jon Hamphrey of the music department deposits his. (Staff photo by Jesus Nova)

The MTA groups needed to receive a simple majority of the vote to represent the faculty. About 1600 persons are eligible to vote.

For UMass faculty, this is their third election since 1973. In the first election the faculty voted down a coalition of MTA and AAUP affiliates in favor of "no agent".

Interest in collective bargaining has grown since that time, largely due to the state's fiscal restraints in the past few years. The faculty has received no salary increases in three years, although a small cost-of-living increase is scheduled for sometime this spring.

Other faculty members remain opposed to collective bargaining since it will add another structure to faculty-administration relations, and because it will treat all faculty pay increases as a group decision rather than on individual merit.

Larry S. Roberts, president of the Massachusetts Society of Professors, the MTA's chapter at Amherst, said in a telephone interview last night that he thinks his organization will win.

If the MTA's affiliates here and at Boston do win, contract negotiations will begin with the University president's office in Boston. Topics include salary, tenure and contact-hours among other considerations.

A "no agent" victory will make possible another try by the MTA and AAUP to unionize the faculty.

Roberts, a professor of Zoology, said he is not in favor of having students sit on the negotiating board since the two sides might try to play off the students as a "third party".

"Student and faculty interests are not divergent", Roberts said, and students should be informed of what is going on at the bargaining table.

Roberts said the recent vote by the University Board of Trustees to give faculty a cost-of-living increase in line with other state employees will not affect the vote. By making the MTA as their collective bargaining agent, the faculty will be gaining more than just a small salary increase, he said.

If elected, Roberts said his organization will charge $147 in dues per year, most of which is used to provide legal services for members. Twenty-five dollars is kept by the local chapter for office expenses and personnel, $92 goes to the MTA and $30 is sent to their national affiliate, the National Educational Association.

Only chapter members will ratify the contract, unless the MTA asks for, and the university agrees to allow, all faculty to pay the costs of negotiating the contract. This charge, called an "agency fee", will allow all faculty to ratify the contract.

The Massachusetts Society of Professors has also filed wage discrimination complaints against the University.

Roberts said that one commission they filed with has agreed

TURN TO PAGE 3

Inside

Reporter's Line

Joe Maglitta toured Solar Habitat One, the experimental solar house near Orchard Hill. See Page 2.

The game of Frisbee is "flying high" at UMass. See Lisa Massimiano's story, Page 3.

Massachusetts Commissioner of Higher Education Pual Parks spoke on reorganizing institutions of higher education. See Kevin Claffey's story on Page 3.

Wire Line

American Airlines released a long list of politicians to whom it gave illegal contributions. See Page 5.

Meanwhile, the House voted to let an investigation into bribes by South Korea get underway. More on Page 5.

An audit released by HEW shows wide ranging abuses of the Mass. Medicaid system. See Page 4.

Below The Salt

Weather

Clear today, and pretty warm,
But Friday we may have a storm.

Professor Donald White of the School of Education adds his vote in yesterday's faculty union elections. (Staff photo by Jesus Nova)

This wind furnace ain't...

By JOE MAGLITTA
Collegian Staff

While most of the nation is spending a lot of time these days wondering where the next barrel of oil is coming from, a group of UMass scientists and researchers are not prepared to take the energy crunch lying down.

For the last five years the group, headed by Prof. William E. Heronemus of the Civil Engineering Dept., has been engaged in the development and construction of "the wind furnace," a space and water heating system that combines wind and solar power to produce enough electricity to heat an entire house.

The project is part of the Energy Alternatives Program at UMass. Dr. Duane E. Cromack, Associate Professor of Mechanical and Aero-Space Engineering, is the project manager.

While the ultimate goal of the project is to create a self-sufficient power source not only for heating and cooling but for all energy needs, the researchers are currently concerned with perfecting an efficient home heating system centered around the wind furnace.

The end result of their efforts is "The Solar Habitat-One", a modest pre-fabricated house located behind Orchard Hill.

Primarily designed to be an energy conserving building, the house was also planned for easy manufacturing and portability. The house will be dismantled and moved to an as yet unknown at a later date as part of the research project.

The upstairs living section of Solar Habitat-One consists of a spacious living room, two bedrooms, a kitchen, a bathroom and a dining area. The house is modestly furnished.

The basement, however, is another matter. A steep spiral staircase descends into an oversized basement, where the wind furnace is monitored and tested.

"Solar Habitat-One" resembles a conventionally heated house with the exception of several black solar panels attached to the side of the house and a 60 foot tall windmill in the backyard.

Basically, the wind furnace system is composed of three main components: solar collectors, a thermal storage tank and a windmill. Both the solar connectors and the windmill furnish power to heat water in the immersion tanks, which can then be used for heating.

It has beeen estimated nearly thirty per cent of all energy consumed in this country is used for heating and cooling. A widespread introduction of the wind furnace system in suitable areas could result in an annual savings of over. 300 million barrels of oil per year, according to one report issued by the group. Roughly translated, that means a savings of about 30 barrels per home per year. Oil is currently over $8.00 per barrel.

Heronemus stressed the wind furnace would not be feasible in every part of the country.

Ample room is needed to set up the wind tower. Naturally there must be sufficient wind and sunlight for the unit to function. Heromemus said, "What we try to do is tailor the wind furnace set-up to the particular area."

The floor, roof, and wall panels are bolted to seven main frames. The structure is insulated with fiberglass. Three-layered windows are equipped with a special ventiliation system that heats air as it enters the house.

To the suprise of many curious trespassers, the house is occupied. Project Engineer Michael Edds, a 24-year-old graduate student of Ocean Engineering and his wife Peggy moved into the house last September. Unnannounced visitors who ignore the numerous closed signs around the house continue to be a headache for the Edds.

"A lot of people come and press their noses right up against the window. When they see us they say: Oh look, there are people inside' and keep on staring. At first I thought it was cute but after the fiftieth time I was pretty sick of it," said Mrs. Edds.

"A lot of people just walk in the front door without knocking," she said.

Regularly scheduled tours of the house are expected to begin in a few weeks.

Although Heronemus said the group is keenly interested in commercial applications for the house, the group will not attempt to market it themselves.

He said many industrial groups have shown interest in the project. "This is primarily an educational, research project. All of our findings have been published and are in the public domain," he stated.

Heronemus said if a wind furnace were to be commercially manufactured. it would be possible to produce an "add-on" unit for existing houses to sell for about $7,000.

The prototype wind furnace and Solar Habitat-One cost considerably more to design, research and construct. Total cost for the wind furnace, according to Heronemus, was about $340,000.

Most of the funding came from the United States National Science Foundation, the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. In addition, Heronemus said $39,000 in private contributions to a special fund have been collected over the last four years. UMass provided an additional $28,000.

The Orchard Hill house was designed by Prof. Curtis Johnson, of the Department of Food and Agricultural Engineering on a grant from the Mass. Agricultural Experiment Station. Cost of the house was about $50,000.

This relatively high cost — the unit was designed to provide competition for the mobile home — is largely due to the need for an extra large foundation. This was necessary to accommodate extra testing equipment and heating tanks. If manufactured commercially, a model with a crawl space instead of a basement would cost less.

The windmill. (Staff photo by Geoffrey Cohler)

Heronemus said individual wind towers could be stacked piggyback style and side by side to form larger units capable of powering apartments, shopping centers, offices and even entire towns.

Heronemus said other major contributions to the project were made by 10 faculty members in four departments, 15 graduate research assistants, eight technicians from the school of Engineering, and the Physical Plant.

The wind generator was built by the UMass School Of Engineering Shop under the supervision of Professor Costa.

Michael Edds demonstrates windmill control system at Solar Habitat-One (Staff photo by Geoffrey Cohler).

...just hot air

Peggy Edds speaks of heightening public awareness of environmental concerns (Staff photo by Geoffrey Cohler)

PIRG begins project

By PAT BEINAR
Collegian Staff

Mass PIRG (Public Interest Research Group), will begin coordinating projects at a meeting tonight on energy conservation nuclear power, nutrition, the bottle bill, and the small claims court, according to Karen Meenan, staff project coordinator.

The PIRG staff and student coordinators hope that the new office, in room 413 of the Student Union, will be more accessible to students, Meenan said. She said she hopes increased student involvement will be the result.

The energy conservation project will deal with testing lighting and temperature measurements at local shopping centers in an attempt to cut down excess energy use, she said.

A nutritional project will investigate policies controlling the vending machines on campus. With student support, they hope to install healthy snacks in place of present "junk foods" offered in the machines.

Another food project will involve investigating supermarkets for unit pricing, the availability of natural foods, pre-packaging and food labeling.

Students may also research food advertising, organize events for Food Day 1977 in April, or other activities, she said.

The alternative energy project seeks to educate the public about the potential dangers of nuclear power through campus teach-ins and other means of communication.

The ongoing bottle bill projects will attempt to increase the returnable bottlemarket in Massachusetts.

A consumer protection project consists of small claims court watching and a consumer complaint project. Students will evaluate the performance of the courts in order to spotlight the areas most in need of attention, she said.

Notice

Tuesday, Feb. 15, is the deadline for returning financial aid applications to the Financial Aid Office in Whitmore for students who want their fall fee bill cleared by mid-July. All supporting documents (including the Financial Aid Form, tax return copies and the reply from BEOG) must be received by the Financial Aid Office by April 15.

Tomorrow the Collegian will publish the first segment of a two-part article on the bureaucratice maze encountered by traditional and non-traditional students when they seek financial aid.

★SATF veto starts uproar

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

by the senate by a 35 to 21 margin. There was one abstention.

The co-presidents' motion to veto read "The debate in the student senate on the Student Activities Tax Fund is of a most significant nature. We feel that the issues have been briefly aired and not widely discussed outside of the senate.

"In the week's time between tonight's meeting and next week, there will be ample time to both proponents and opponents to speak out and sample the student body at large. As provided for in Section 3, Subsection E in the Constitution of the SGA we do hereby veto 77 S170.

About removing Graham from the Rents and Fees Committee Attorney General Paul L. Yanowitch said, "The senate has impowered me to investigate the propriety of certain actions that Mr. Graham allegedly made. These actions were labeled as political extortion in the sense that Mr. Graham allegedly guaranteed votes in return for being paid," said Attorney General Paul L. Yanowitch of the investigation.

In other business, the Governmental Affairs committee of the senate recommended that nominations for SGA president and Campus Center Board of Governors be opened on February 10 and be closed on February 23. The committee also recommended that the elections for these positions be held on March 15-16.

The recommendations were considered and approved by the senate.

The roll call vote to raise the SATF fee was:

YES

Robert Adams, Commuter; Richard Baga, Brown; Susan Birmingham, Commuter; Robert Earl Brown, Third World; Berylee Bubley, Coolidge Upper; Lisa Burri, Melville; Donna Byrd, Third World; Bill Coffey, Moore; Sandy Cunningham, Commuter; Alan Ferrira, Commuter; John Foley, Commuter; Bill Hahn, Grayson; Bryan Harvey, Commuter; Lily Hu, Commuter; David Kantor, Gorman; Joseph Keane, Washington Lower; Thomas Kerrins, Senate Treasurer; Paul Lawrence, Patterson; Jay Milander, Pierpont; Renee Mobley, Brown; Glen Monroe, Stockbridge; Al Morrishow, McNamara; Barbara Murdock, Chadbourne; Steve Pagan, Butterfield; Wendy Palmer, Commuter; Perry-Conway, Central Area Govt; Kwaku L. Saunders, Third World; March Schultz, Gorman; Ellen Smith, Third World; Herby Tyson, Third World; Sweeney-Weiner, John Adams Lower; Paul Wong, Third World; Carolyn Yee, Third World; Bill Bluestein, Commuter; Kenneth Noel, Third World.

NO

Barrett-Robeson, Washington Upper; Pinky Batiste, Brayson; Eliot Lees, Field; Brian Cororan, Mooré; Cronin-Martus, SGA President; Cecelia Dion, JFK Lower; Peter Graham, Commuter; Edward Guiliani, Webster; Martha Heiman. Baker; Jon Hite, Commuter; Karen Kelly, Commuter; Nick Kokoras, James; Alan Mason, Crabtree; Kevin Muldoon, John Adams Lower; Kathy SanAntonio, Emerson; John Simons, JFK Middle; Toby Slodden, Mackimmie; Tom Sullivan, Lewis; Scott Wieler, Orchard Hill Area Govt.; Dee Drake, Commuter; John Ferrante, Pierpont.

ABSTAIN

Brian De Lima, Senate Speaker.

Commissioner of Higher Education Paul Parks spoke about the need for reorganization in state education. (Staff photo by Kathy Schmarsow)

Parks on budget —first, reorganize

By KEVIN J. CLAFFEY
Collegian Staff

State Secretary of Educational Affairs Paul Parks said yesterday that reorganization is a necessary first step in protecting the budget of public higher education.

Parks said level-funding is necessary because there has been no additional tax revenue to offset any increases. He made the remarks before 100 people in a program sponsored jointly by the UMass School of Engineering and Department of Political Science.

Calling the budget allocation for higher education "a tough pill to swallow," Parks said the public thinks the state higher education system is not paying off, and therefore does not merit an increased allocation.

"There is a great problem in higher education... there is a ceiling on the amount of money which will be placed in the state budget," Parks said. He also called for the establishment of a minimum allocation for education.

"In spite of all the people who think there's a few million tucked away in the pot, there isn't," said Parks. He added that State Secretary of Administration and Finance John Buckley was "within one half of one per cent when he estimated the revenue from last year's taxes."

"The governor and the legislature have committed themselves to the fact that they would not raise taxes this year," said Parks. He said both of the principals will be up for reelection in 1978 and state residents don't want higher taxes.

Parks also said the governor expected to have a revamped proposal before the General Court in late February or early March for the reorganization for public higher education.

He said the governor is consulting with "experts" throughout the state and getting their viewpoints before presenting a formal proposal to the legislature.

Last year Dukakis and Parks sponsored a reorganization bill but it was met with vehement opposition from UMass President Robert C. Wood and Senate President Kevin B. Harrington. Parks said Harrington had been consulted about the new bill but conceded that Harrington hadn't responded as yet.

"It still looks promising... I mean he hasn't said 'no'," said Parks.

He called the reorganization plan a "small first step" and said the higher education had been empowered last year.

The board of higher education, under the Dukakis-Parks plan, would represent the state's three universities, 10 state colleges and 15 community colleges. It would be responsible for long-range planning, budgetary procedures and negotiations in salary and other areas.

"It is desperately important that we put together some sort of working structure for the future of public higher education," said Parks.

Parks added that help may be on the way. "If the Carter Administration absorbs the welfare costs, which comprises about 40 per cent of the state budget, then there will be more money for education." The education budget makes up nearly 26 per cent of the entire state budget

"A youngster deserves a credible education to be respected as highly as any other person," said Parks.

Frisbee legions ultimately growing

By LISA MASSIMIANO
Collegian Staff

Basketball players score through the hoop, football players score beneath the goal posts, but the members of the UMass Frisbee team score by having fun!

Frisbee is the "free flying sport" that is taking the country by storm. Initiated in the fifties, the Wham-O Company sparked the craze when they manufactured a plastic disc fashioned after a pie tin sailed it on its way under the trade name, Frisbee enthusiasm is growing rapidly on campus. The UMass Club, with over 100 members and still growing, is one of the largest Frisbee clubs in the country.

Frisbee is a sport whose time has finally arrived; this semester the first UMass Frisbee class is being offered. Listed as a general PE course, Frisbee meets twice a week and is taught by two members of the UMass Frisbee Club, Daryl Elliott and Dan Habeeb.

The two undergraduates plan to instruct their class in the fundamental throws, Frisbee tournament events, and introduce them to the different games played using a Frisbee; competition and Frisbee golf, a type of golf played in the air using Frisbees instead of clubs and a ball.

The 20 students in the class are composed of both UMass Ultimate Frisbee team players and interested students who have no affiliation with the team.

Tuesday, the first day of class, was probably the first time that Curry Hicks Cage saw 20 students throwing Frisbees back and forth across the basketball court. Later in the semester students will bring their overhand wrist-flips, side-arms, air brushes and nail delays outdoors as soon as "the big freeze" is over with.

Elliott said, "Frisbee is an enjoyable sport because it has a civility that is lacking in other sports.

"Frisbee has a good friendly atmosphere. Our first priority is to have fun," he added.

The UMass Ultimate team is the only one in the country that records enjoyability ratings for its games rather than goals scored. An exciting, exhausting and enjoyable game is more important than a victory to the UMass team.

The UMass Club was formed in the fall of 1975 and became an official RSO group in 1976. The Ultimate Frisbee Team, a facet of the club competes intercollegiately. They have competed with several colleges and universities including Brown, Harvard, and Princeton. Last spring the National Ultimate Frisbee Championships were held here on campus and will be held here and at Amherst College again this spring.

TODAY'S STAFF

Issue Editor — "E" none of the above

Copy Desk	Dotty Clark
Day Staff	Hillary Sallet
Head Darkroom Tech	Dale Griswold
Phereless Photographers	Kathy Schmarsow, Marilyn Mankowsky, Jesus Nova
Wire Layout	Cliff Sabinsky, Jill Clay
Ad Layout	Albert Calvert
Filmed on location

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

	Semester	Year
Off-campus delivery	$9	$15
On-campus delivery	$5	$ 9
Newsstand price	$.10
Faculty staff	$.05

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst and additional mailing in Ware, Mass. 01082. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

These three University Dancers, Peggy Atkinson, Giny Plonys and Donna Nelson, perform a number called "Turkish Bath" for a dress rehearsal in Bowker Auditorium. (Staff photo by Michael Chan)

Volunteers to discuss project

By ROBIN COSTELLO
Collegian Staff

After three consecutive nights of recruiting volunteers for the Boltwood-Belchertown project, dozens of five college students will meet this evening at 7 p.m. in the Campus Center to discuss plans for this year's program.

The Boltwood Belchertown Project is a Five College organization offering a wide variety of educational, recreational and social programs at Belchertown Hospital and surrounding communities.

There are twelve client volunteer programs including coffee houses, printing and grafting activities, physical and motor skills, music and entertainment.

Steve Kane, a student intern in public education and relations summarized his feelings towards the project as an "experience based on a mutual extension of one person to another; it doesn't take a special major, just a willingness to offer a part of yourself."

In addition to a minimum of three hours a week, volunteers are required to attend a weekly Sunday night meeting. A one colloquim credit is available. Through an independent study program a student can receive up to six academic credits.

Originally founded by a group of Amherst College freshmen from the Boltwood House, an experimental service fraternity, the program has had over three thousand volunteers since 1969.

For more information, interested students can contact Sharon Fisher at 323-6311 ext. 383.

★MTA for faculty?

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

to investigage the complaint, based on a study done by a UMass doctoral candidate in economics a few years ago.

About 275 of the 1200 faculty at the Amherst campus are women.

While the AAUP has not officially endorsed the MTA or "no agent", AAUP chapter President Joseph S. Larson, a professor of forestry and wildlife management, has personally come out against the MTA.

Larson stated that the MTA, which represents secondary school teachers, along with state and community college professors, cannot adequately represent university faculty. Larson has also questioned contracts the MTA has negotiated in the state.

Harold L. Boudreau, co-chairman of the Committee of Fully-Informed Faculty, also opposes unionization because it divides the faculty and administration.

Boudreau said the committee is mainly opposed to collective bargaining because all decisions are made on a group level rather than on a case-by-case basis.

The Massachusetts Society of Professors currently has 350 dues-paying members, the AAUP has 200 and the committee has about 75 persons who contribute to it.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Jordan's queen dies in crash

AMMAN, Jordan [UPI] — Queen Alia of Jordan, 28, third wife of King Hussein, was killed in the crash of a Jordanian military helicopter yesterday Amman radio reported.

McBride ahead with steelworkers

PITTSBURGH [UPI] — Organization man Lloyd McBride was reasonably confident he had won the powerful United Steelworkers presidency Wednesday, but defiant young challenger Ed Sadlowski boldly refused to concede defeat.

Both candidates insisted they were ahead with more than half of the unofficial returns counted since the election yesterday.

Although the returns clearly favored McBride, the total tally was still too small to allow him to claim formally the $75,000-a-year job of his retiring mentor, I.W. Abel.

Warnke opponents speak out

WASHINGTON [AP] — Opponents of Paul C. Warnke urged the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Wednesday to block his appointment as America's chief arms control negotiator with the Soviet Union.

Warnke is expected to be approved overwhelmingly by the Senate committee, but Senate Republican Whip Ted Stevens of Alaska predicted that "he's going to come close to not being confirmed" by the Senate.

Stevens said the problem is whether Warnke, after negotiating a new arms agreement with the Soviet Union, would be able to sell it to the Senate.

Salinger's son jumps to death

SAN FRANCISCO [UPI] A son of Pierre Salinger, President John F. Kennedy's press secretary, jumped to his death from the Golden Gate Bridge, police said.

Marc Salinger, 28, of San Francisco, did not leave a suicide note.

Authorities said he jumped from the east side of the span near the south tower at 7:30 a.m. His body was recovered a few minutes later by the Coast Guard and he was identified by the coroner's office.

His was the third suicide in two days on the big red span across the Golden Gate and the 591st in the history of the bridge.

Young Salinger was living with his mother, former wife of the Kennedy aide, and was a student at San Francisco State University.

His father, now a businessman in Paris, has two other children, Suzanne and Stephen.

NY firm official testifies

BOSTON, Mass. [AP] — A former official of a New York consulting firm testified yesterday he delivered envelopes allegedly containing campaign contributions for Massachusetts politicians every six weeks over a two-year period in 1971 and 1972.

William Harding, formerly employed by McKee-Berger-Mansueto, testified the contributions were written off as "fictitious" on company records.

Harding testified in the political corruption trial of Senate Majority Leader Joseph DiCarlo, D-Revere, and Assistant Senate Minority Leader Ronald C. MacKenzie, R-Burlington.

Hurricane Carter sentenced to life

PATERSON, N.J. [UPI] — Former boxer Rubin "Hurricane" Carter and John Artis were sentenced to life prison terms last night for their second conviction in 10 years on triple murder charges.

Judge Bruno Leopizzi sentenced Carter to two consecutive and one concurrent life term, the same sentence he received in 1967 following his first trial with Artis for the shotgun murders of three persons inside a Paterson bar. He will be eligible for parole in 1995.

Artis, sentenced to three concurrent life terms, will be eligible for parole in 1981.

Gunman promised total immunity

INDIANAPOLIS [AP] — Authorities promised a vengeful gunman total immunity from prosecution last night if he released the mortgage company executive he has held hostage for two days in an explosive-rigged apartment.

There was no immediate response from the gunman, Anthony G. "Tony" Kiritsis, 44, of Indianapolis, who has vowed vengeance for what he thought was a plot to cheat him on a $130,000 loan.

See what's at . . . . .

MUNCHYS

Ortega Taco Kits 69¢
Shells, seasoning and sauce to make 4 tasty tacos

Contadina Spaghetti Sauce Only 60¢
Plain or Mushroom (15½ oz. jar)

Light Chunk Tuna Only 68¢ from Carnation (6 oz can)

OPEN SEVEN DAYS A WEEK

WORCESTER 10:00 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
FRANKLIN 11:00 a.m.- 7:00 p.m.
HAMPDEN 8:00 a.m.- 8:00 p.m.

Medicaid abuses uncovered by HEW

BOSTON [AP] — Overcharging, missing medical records and erroneous billings are among the alleged abuses cited by a federal audit of the state's welfare Medicaid program.

The report, by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), is to be unveiled today.

The study reveals a high proportion of billing discrepancies in a sampling of doctors, pharmacies and laboratories that derive substantial income from the state's medical assistance program.

However, state officials say the report will do little more than make headlines because it contains insufficient evidence for prosecution in most cases.

Medicaid is a $600 million program — the largest single state expense. The Welfare Department reimburses doctors and other medical providers for services to welfare recipients.

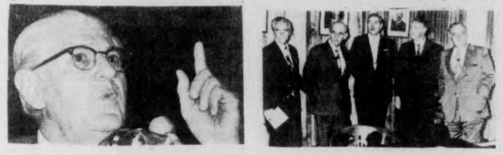
The team of investigators uncovered overcharging, missing medical records, and erroneous billings in some of the files of the 50 pharmacies, 50 physicians and 9 laboratories surveyed. In some cases, medical records were missing, leaving no proof that the service for which the state was billed was actually provided.

Former HEW Secretary David Matthews announced the probe last March, when the Welfare Department had only two people concentrating on alleged Medicaid abuses. Now the department has expanded the staff to more than 25.

When the probe began last summer, a separate state investigation, which is continuing, and the federal probe focused on different health care providers to avoid duplication.

One Welfare Department official, who did not want to be identified, said the federal report has uncovered nothing new and will only provide leads in areas not yet investigated.

The report, he said, which is about 30 pages, contains more substance for headlines than for prosecution.



Testifying before the Senate Subcommittee on Africa, Steelworkers Legislative Director John Sheehan urges repeal of the Byrd Amendment allowing the import of Rhodesian chromium in defiance of United Nations sanctions.

Meanwhile, Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith arrived in Capetown, South Africa yesterday for talks with South African leader John Vorster on growing racial confrontation in southern Africa. Gathered in Vorster's office are (L-R): Brand Fourie, South African secretary for foreign affairs; Dr. Hilgard Muller, South African minister of foreign affairs; David Smith, Rhodesian deputy prime minister; Ian Smith; and Prime Minister Vorster.

DRAFTS
10¢
Pi Lambda Phi
Happy Hour
Friday, Feb. 11
3-8 p.m.
14 Elm St.
5-3539
for rides & info

Gunman threatens suicide

SILVER SPRING, Md. [UPI] — A gunman, with two high-powered rifles and who was described by police as a "mental case," held two hostages last night in a suburban Washington bank and told officers he would kill himself after releasing the women.

Three other persons were held hostage earlier but the gunman released them one-by-one several hours after he entered the bank.

Officials said they did not think anyone was injured even though the gunman fired about 50 shots at a small army of policemen waiting outside.

One of the hostages who was released had hidden behind a counter and was not discovered by the gunman until about four hours after the incident began.

The bank, the Citizens Bank of Maryland, is located in an area of high rise apartment buildings populated mainly by elderly persons.

WE DELIVER!
(on campus only)
Compare our prices
SUN.-THURS.
CALL
our new No.
549-5592
For quick delivery

UNIVERSITY PIZZA
across from Southwest dorms — UMass
(We couldn't be closer . . . so you know it'll be hot!)

DAYTONA BEACH

$208 plus 15 per cent tax & services
March 19-26
Round trip jet transportation from Boston to Daytona.
Transfers from airport to motel.

$142 plus 15 per cent tax & services
March 18-27
Round trip Deluxe Motor Coach tour to Daytona Beach.
Free beer enroute. Departs from UMass, Springfield or Boston.

BOTH TOURS INCLUDE:
*Oceanfront accommodations at the Summit Beach Motel, located directly on the "Strip."
*FREE entertainment nightly at the "Safari Patio," "Hole" and "Wreck Bar"
*FREE BEER every night for one hour!
*Two barbeques PLUS discounts at various Daytona Beach establishments.
*Services of Beachcomber Tour Staff
*Options: Disney World, Deep Sea Fishing, Kitchenettes.

Limited Space Available
Jet Deadline for Reservations — Feb. 17, 1977
Contact: Susan 549-4744

Corruption charges sweep D.C.

Nixon, Ford, O'Neill named in American Airlines list

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Releasing a five-page list of names, American Airlines announced yesterday it made an estimated $275,000 in illegal campaign contributions to scores of congressmen, President Richard Nixon and other public officials between 1964 and 1972.

Among those named with Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, current House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, and Rep. Peter Rodino, who chaired impeachment proceedings against Nixon.

Of the $275,000 total, American said in a document filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, approximately $51,000 was given out in 1971 and 1972. And it provided a rundown — with names — for those two years.

American said most of the money went to members of Congress, although $55,000 was allegedly given to Nixon's successful 1971 reelection under pressure from Nixon's personal lawyer, Herbert Kalmbach.

At one point, American said, a Nixon representative was given "a sealed unmarked white envelope ... which contained fifty $100 bills."

The document charged that the congressional contributions ranged from $50 to $500 and that some lawmakers received more than one contribution.

O'Neill denies campaign law abuse

WASHINGTON [UPI] — A spokesman for O'Neill quoted the speaker as saying "I've never heard of Mr. Bass who American said gave O'Neill's campaign $100. I've never knowingly accepted corporate contributions, and, of course, I've never personally accepted a contribution."

House votes Korean bribe investigation

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The House Wednesday voted without dissent for its Ethics Committee to investigate charges congressmen received thousands of dollars in bribes and gifts for their legislative support of South Korea's military government.

After more than an hour of debate, the full House directed the Ethics Committee to undertake the investigation.

The vote was 388 in favor, with Rep. Henry Gonzalex, D-Tex., simply voting present. No one voted no.

The committee will investigate published reports that as many as 50 members of Congress accepted money, trips to Korea and gifts from Washington-based Korean businessman Tongsun Park and Seoul government officials in return for using their influence for legislation favorable to Korea.

Several representatives critized the Ethics Committee's record of inactivity and soft-pedaling in investigations of fellow-members, but Chairman John Flynt, D-Ga., assured the House, "We will not let our investigation run into a stone wall."

Rep. Floyd Spence, ranking Republican on the Ethics Committee, also pledged "we intend to show no favoritism, to tolerate no cover-up," regardless of who may be involved.

Flynt added, "I have no idea what this investigation is going to take. I think we can do it for $530,000. I don't know if we can or not. But I think we can."

South Korean officials have heatedly denied allegations President Park Chung-Hee might be involved. A member of the Korean Embassy staff observed the debate from the public gallery.

Five current or former House members have acknowledged receiving various benefits, but all have denied wrongdoing.

Flynt said his panel already has "a substantial amount" of evidence, but nothing suggesting 40 to 50 past or present members of Congress were implicated, as claimed by Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee during a Jan. 23 television interview.

Flynt said Baker told him a day later "he did not have anything to back it up" and was relying entirely on "what he read" in news reports.

A federal grand jury also has been investigating the Korean lobbying situation and a House subcomitte is looking into "all aspects" of Washington-Seoul relations.

Always wanted to have your ears pierced?

One Day Only
Sat., Feb. 12, 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

You can have your ears pierced by a professional nurse with a doctor in attendance. It's done with 24-karat gold plate non-allergenic surgical stainless steel earrings.

ONLY $8.00
Includes 24 Kt. Gold Plated Surgical Earrings
10% Student Discount on other earrings

J. Cifarelli, Jeweler
Mt. Farms Mall Hadley

Red spies abound claims FBI chief

WASHINGTON [UPI] — FBI Director Clarence Kelley said Wednesday Soviet, Chinese and other Communist spying "continues unabated" in the United States despite detente.

"The real world," he said, "is one of spies, intrigue and double-dealing."

The director said the FBI faces a growing problem of "neutralizing" hostile agents because the number of Communist-bloc envoys in this country has more than doubled in the past 10 years.

"Our experience has shown us that a substantial number of these Soviet-bloc and Chinese officials are directly connected with their intelligence services," Kelley said.

"It must suffice to say that the intelligence initiatives of the Communist powers against the United States continue unabated."

He quoted a statement made nearly a year ago, by Rep. Paul Findley, D-Ill., that a spy arrest of that time "swept away any illusions that Communist governments ... have dropped their undercover work in this era of detente."

Kelley made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery Wednesday night before the Lawyers Association of Kansas City, Mo. The FBI in Washington released the text in advance.

What Campus Group is the Largest National Service Fraternity?

NOW SERVING
MEXICAN FOOD!
VILLAGE INN
OPENING SPECIAL
TAMALE DINNER, 2.75
Mexican drinks are doubles (with dinner).
DRAKE
Tel. 253-2548

SALE
30% off...
an inventory sale on the finest selection of hand-crafted items we've ever carried: Gold and Silver jewelry, fine leathers and accessories, blown glass and pottery. All at a remarkable 30% off. For one week only: FEBRUARY 5 thru FEBRUARY 12.
The Leather Shed
199 north pleasant street amherst mass 01002

More problems for American Airlines

MORRISTOWN, N.J. [UPI] — A man caught with his pants down on a crowded airliner says someone ought to pay for his embarrassment.

Herbert H. Rosen of Randolph, N.J., is trying to get the money from American Airlines because, he claims, one of its pilots barged in on him while he was occupying the restroom during a flight from Newark to Puerto Rico in 1975.

According to a suit he filed Tuesday in state Superior Court, Rosen said he was "sitting on the toilet in the privacy of the locked lavatory, trousers and undergarments lowered," when the pilot, Capt. W.J. Roth, opened the door with a special key.

Rosen said he was exposed to the full view of the other passengers who peered through the lavatory door.

Interested in Working with Kids?
Northern Educational Services
(N·E·S·) can help you.
We work with innercity children in the areas of academics and recreation
★ possible credit
★ transportation and materials provided
★ people of all interests and majors needed
For more info
contact our office in 403 S.U.B. 545-0910
or call Nancy 546-8460
Michelle 545-0162

AROUND NEW ENGLAND

Argo Merchant got bum steer

NEW YORK [AP] — The crewman steering the tanker Argo Merchant when it grounded off Nantucket and spilled 7.5 million gallons of oil into the Atlantic had "a complete ignorance of steering," the ship's second officer said 10 days before the accident.

Anastasios Nisiotis, 24, acknowledged Wednesday in federal court that he had challenged the qualifications of Joseph Roach of Trinidad on the evening of Dec. 5. That was the day the tanker left Venezuela for its ill-fated voyage to Salem, Mass.

Roach was at the wheel when the Liberian-flag tanker ran aground before dawn on Dec. 15, about 17 miles southeast of Nantucket.

School committee sued

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. [AP] — The Massachusetts attorney general's office is suing the city's school committee in an attempt to get the names of applicants for the school superintendent's job.

The suit was filed in response to a complaint by a local newspaper. The Daily Hampshire Gazette complained the school board repeatedly refused to make public the list of 93 applicants for the $35,000 a year job.

Free oil to needy families

BOSTON, Mass. [AP] — Massachusetts has 200,000 gallons of donated home heating oil and hopes to start distributing it free Friday to needy families, Secretary of Consumer Affairs Christine Sullivan said Wednesday.

"We appreciate the donations, but 200,000 gallons is not going to solve the needs of the people," Miss Sullivan said. She said she feared an avalanche of inquiries would strike home heating oil distributors and state offices.

Dobelle named chief of protocol

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Evan S. Dobelle, commissioner of environmental management for Massachusetts, today was nominated U.S. chief of protocol.

Dobelle, 30, was elected mayor of Pittsfield, Mass., in 1973 and re-elected in 1975. From 1971 to 1973, he was executive assistant to Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said President Carter would nominate Dobelle to hold the rank of ambassador — a job requiring Senate approval — while serving as chief of protocol. The post formerly was held by Shirley Temple Black, who was appointed by President Ford.

Powell said Lobelle had been a Republican, but became a Democrat "during the course of the Carter campaign."

Candor lowered by open cabinet

BOSTON [AP] — The governor of Massachusetts opened his cabinet meetings to the press two years ago, just as President Carter is considering now. But the beginning of that open administration meant the end of cabinet candor, some observers say.

Gov. Michael Dukakis thinks the meetings have improved during that time. Not everyone in the administration agrees. "It was a good idea when it started," said one administration office who asked to remain anonymous, "but it's a farce now."

Dukakis had a far different assessment of the open sessions. "It was difficult at first," he said. "People tended to be somewhat inhibited with the TV cameras around. But as the cabinet settled in and got used to it, it got better."

Who distributes the Freshman Register?

Amherst Auto Parts
Used car parts
Junk Car?
We pay $10 and up.
Replace Glass
Buy and Sell Cars
Located ½ mile past the Rusty Scupper on Rt. 9, behind Amherst landfill.
Phone 256-6409

BOSTON — Mayor Kevin White defends his charter reform plan.

TONIGHT
Kurt Vonnegut's
SLAUGHTERHOUSE V
THURSDAY Feb 10, 1977
CCA 7,9,11
$1.00

BLUE WALL

the CARS

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY
FEBUARY 10 and 11

send a VALENTINE
to someone / anyone!

BOY FRIEND, GIRL FRIEND, SWEETIE, ROOMMATE, PROF, COACH, ENEMY ETC.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is giving you the opportunity, for 50¢, to have your Valentine Wishes published in our paper Mon., Feb. 14th.

We are having special pages put aside for your messages. They can be witty, serious, anything you want them to be! This will be a Valentine Card your Valentine will never forget!

Come to the Collegian office by Thurs., Feb. 10th at 3:45p.m. to place your copy.

EXAMPLES:

To: Mary A.
Have a Happy Valentine Day. If cupid doesn't come around I will.
Rusty

To: Room 365 S.W.
We're looking forward to seeing you again. Happy Valentine Day!
The Girls

Bring this to us by Thurs., Feb. 10th at 3:45p.m.
·······LIMIT 20 WORDS·······

____

____

____

____

COST 50¢

Hatch

Lewis & Clark Expedition

featuring Ron Clark & James Clark

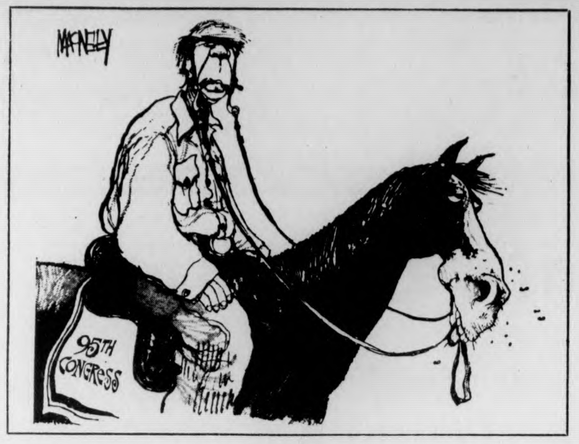
Thurs. & Fri. Feb. 10 & 11

10 Dynamic entertainers

Two Fabulous Shows nightly

Popular to the Boston & Cape Cod People

Zonkaraz
Sat. Night



letters

Sharing new directions

To the Editor:

We're a group of gay men who've been meeting to discuss some of the issues that touch our life-styles. Last semester we called ourselves a "gay male support group", but now we're wondering about what that name implies: gayness is only part of our identities; maleness seems arbitrarily restrictive; and support [a term we're still a bit vague about] doesn't really, fully describe our function.

Thinking that we'd like to seek new directions that are both more broadly-based and better defined, we'd like to invite others to join us for our weekly raps on sexuality, emotions, personal and social relationships, a wide range of ideas and feelings which anti-sexist, sensitive people may benefit in sharing.

The group has been a rewarding experience for all of us, and we think it can be so for others, especially now, as we look for ways to continue, deepen and expand our growth and learning.

Please call UCF at 545-2789 for referal and information or drop in at our next meeting at 7:00 p.m., Monday, February 14 in Student Union Bldg. 422.

Gary, Jeff, Richard & Brad

Attention communications studies students

To the Editor:

I am in the process of surveying those students who attended Com. Stu. 123, 229, and 228, during the Fall semester. I am interested in those classes instructed by Prof. Shelby.

If those students involved would contact me at 584-8001 their cooperation would be greatly appreciated.

Dave Canton

commentary

More broken treaties

By GEORGE SOMMERS

There's a new battle developing between the white man and the Native American, only this time there are no rifles, no bows and arrows, and no scalping (which incidentally was the white man's invention).

The battle is over the ownership of up to sixty per cent of the state of Maine, and, more locally, the township of Mashpee, Mass. The Indians are fighting within the whiteman's framework; the courts. Aiding the Amerindians' cause is no less a figure than Watergate hero Archibald Cox.

Undoubtedly, there will be a terrific amount of hassle and red tape involved in transferring ownership of the whole town of Mashpee and over half of a state into Indian hands. However, Roots notwithstanding, the Indians have been the most dumped upon ethnic group in American history. They have been stripped of their land, their food and their dignity. They have been herded into tiny reservations, where their population has dipped to frighteningly low levels. What few Indians are left are plagued with alcoholism, disease, illiteracy, and poverty.

Half of a tiny, cold, northern state and one town seems to be small compensation for the disgraceful treatment the Indians have suffered over the centuries. With their own territory, the Indians could rebuild their population, revitalize their cultures, and eliminate the evils the white man has imposed on them.

Giving the Indians some of their land back might have the additional benefit of preserving the ecology of Maine. It is doubtful that the Indians would be inclined to imitate the white man's filthy, polluting industrial way of life.

If it boiled right down to it, I would support a move by the Indians to reclaim their entire country and to "send us Europeans back where we came from." What with fuel shortages, recession, inflation, etc. we'd probably be better off without it, anyway.

George Sommers is a Collegian Commentator.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS — RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in-Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; NASSER H. EGA, Black Affairs Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; JAY A. SARET, Photo Editor; MARK A. LECCESE, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS — Christopher J. Bourne, Teresa M. Hanafin, Night Managers; Paula Strollo, Wire Editor; Lisa E. Melilli, Assistant Executive Editor; Gerard F. Rogers, Kevin C. Turcotte, Assistant News Editors; Angela P. Thomas, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Michael A. Berger, Richard W. Eckel, Assistant Sports Editors; E. Patrick McQuaid, Deborah S. Schafer, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Melanie J. Johnson, Women's Coordinator; Heidi S. Berenson, Feature Coordinator.

BUSINESS — Steve N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; Leslie Nearman, Finance Manager; Laurie Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Heath C. Wheeler, Jr., Linda Crowell, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Leo Murphy, Doug Surette, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steve Polansky, Circulation Manager; Linda S. Vene, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

rick gureghian

How to sell the absurd

James Bozony is a salesman, a consummate entrepreneur. Recently, he formed his own corporation, Poor Taste, Incorporated. Right now he's selling tee-shirts at $5 a shot in the Campus Center concourse. Within the month, they'll be selling for $5.95. They're big sellers, "hot," if one wants to use advertising lingo — and they may even get hotter.

He's thinking of going national with his biggest product, and why shouldn't he? He's been getting free publicity, priceless publicity in recent days. CBS News did a story on him, so did the Boston Globe. A score of other newspapers have called to interview him, innumerable radio stations have given him and his product air time, and the calls just keep on coming.

The fuss he's created in the marketing world is something to behold. The 23-year-old UMass graduate student has struck it rich. He's produced a simple tee-shirt, nothing stupendous compared to the marketing minds of General Motors or IBM, but it'll do for starters.

James Bozony has crossed the line of social decency and embarked on a business scheme that may net him thousands, some say millions, of dollars.

The tee-shirt he produced is something to see, never mind wear. The front, emblazoned in white lettering on a black background, reads, "Point of Mountain, Utah. January 17, 1977. Gary Gilmore." Just over the heart, if one were to wear it, is a bulls-eye. On the back, the late murderer's infamous, and nonchalant, last words: "Let's do it!" Morbid? Certainly! Poor taste? You bet! A big seller? Ask his business agent!

Jim Bozony is a likeable guy, but in the past week he's taken a lot of abuse. The obscene phone calls are more frequent now — since the story went national, the calls have been unending. People hurl obscenities at him as they walk past his concourse table, the people he employs have heard the same taunts. Friends criticize him, some seriously, others jokingly, but all are supportive of his business venture.

"My mother loves it," says Bozony, "she's really amused by it all." And his wife, Kathleen, has been "really supportive. She's helping to get things organized in the business end," he adds.

That the sky's the limit for his new business is obvious. He's been "wading" through the incoming calls, past the one's whose callers advise him to see a shrink, or simply to tell him he's sick, to the callers who offer monetary gain.

"One guy called from Canada", said Bozony, "and he's interested in exclusive distribution rights for Canada. He said he'd call again, and I'm still wating." Another man called from Georgia, "and he's interested in buying gross," said Bozony. "He told me he wanted 10,000 tee-shirts, but then he called back and put his order on hold. Seems he doesn't have the money right now, but he said he talked with about 30 people, and only two weren't interested in buying any."

The expected demand for the tee-shirts have brought howls of thievery from Larry Schiller, the hustling promoter who contends he owns all rights, including the likeness, of everything and anything pertaining to his late client, Gilmore. Bozony doesn't see it that way. "I've talked with Schiller, with Robert Moody, the state assigned attorney for Gilmore's estate. I've even talked with the judge presiding over the dissolution of the estate. And nothing's been settled. Nothing. It'll be months before they ever get around to settling it."

That hasn't stopped Schiller from filing suit against Bozony. He contends he owns all rights, Bozony says he doesn't. "How can a guy claim copyright when Gilmore's face, name, story were written about by almost every periodical in the country. Christ, when they had the execution, there was an international assemblage of the press in Utah. The story got international play. Schiller lied to me on the phone when I talked to him, told me he owned everything. No way."

But like any venture, the fad usually dies. And Bozony is literally racing against the clock, trying to sort out all the business offers and get his tee-shirt on the market, before the "hype", as he endearingly refers to it, ends. New Times will be carrying his advertisement for the shirt in two weeks, and appropriately, so will the National Lampoon in its April issue, expected to hit the stands on March 22.

He's got to break into New York with his product. That is where the tee-shirt will either flower or wilt. Already he's in contact with promoters, advertisers, distributors, trying to find the best price that offers the most diverse promotion. If the product sells in the Big Apple, it'll sell anywhere. "How can you go wrong with 8 million people," contemplates Bozony. How can one go wrong, indeed?

Bozony has "big plans, big plans." "When it sells in New York," as he puts it, "it'll open up bigger and better things." Already he's hired people for a percentage of the gross. A lawyer, a publicist, an accountant. Big things are coming his way. He can smell the money waiting to be made. Jim Bozony has made his mark on the advertising world.

During intersession he made the rounds of the advertising firms in New York City. He was looking for a job. The Gilmore idea was just sprouting at that time. All he could offer was a B.A., and expected Masters from the University of Massachusetts. The firms told him they weren't so much interested in his education, or his background, but only what advertising and promotion experience he had. At the time, he had none. Now? "Wait'll I talk to them again," says Bozony. "Experience? Now I've really got something to offer them." He certainly does!

Rick Gureghian is a Collegian Columnist.

paul bradley

Back to the smoke-filled room

Perhaps a timely indulgence in the outside world serves to immunize all of us from our own in-house politics; after all, Jimmy Carter still sounds like he is running for something, and our attention, politically, has been diverted.

But we are dutifully reminded that once again, UMass students will be able to exercise their own unique brand of democracy: the SGA presidential elections are just around the corner, and already that illustrious body is beginning to rumble. Ambitions that were left harbored and festering over the long vacation are beginning to emerge from the closet. But not all the way yet.

Even at UMass, secrecy is the watchword of government. Conspiracy in mysterious confines gives politicians some sense of worth that their grand plans are the best for all the people, and will get them elected as well.

So the same ambitious and tired hacks will come out with an alleged new appeal. The success of Jimmy Carter notwithstanding, outsiders still are reluctant to try to get on the inside of the political machinery, especially something as pompous and inept as the SGA.

So there will be no new breed that we can elect to represent us. If one accepts the fact that the SGA is a microcosm of American government, then the people who have the reins of power, real or imagined, cling to it with parasitic fervor.

It is all an exercise in self indulgence anyway. Even the senate is skeptical of its usefulness, going in for soul searching in its sessions than legislative decrees. Really, the only people who care about the senate are the senators.

We are likely to see co-candidacies again, the tandem becoming fashionable after the success of Ellen Gavin and Henry Ragin. In the last election, a TRIO of candidates ran, so it seems trendy to let more people into the government. We may be inundated with mini-candidacies.

Let them play, though, for there is no fury like that of an angry and fledgling bureaucrat. One is likely to be attacked in the pages of this very paper.

But we all have our moments of self indulgence. Let the senate have theirs, just don't take them too seriously.

Paul Bradley is a Collegian Columnist.

commentary

You decide

By JAMES A. POSGAY

Once again Budgets and Fees bounce into one another, this time under the direction of Student Senate treasurer Tommy Kerrins.

It seems that Mr. Kerrins feels that the Student Government needs a seven dollar increase to provide the same services to the students of the University. Kerrins argues that $4.00 of the increase is for cost of living adjustments and $3.00 is for inflation losses.

Kerrins has also stated the increase could be avoided if the "fat" could be removed from the budget. But, in the same breath he states that the Student Senate cannot cut its budget because of its weak position with special interest groups. The special interest groups apparently will not stand for it.

Oddly enough this philosophy seems to fall right in line with the thinking of our illustrious president of the UMass empire, Bob Wood. In this year's annual budget fight Bobby will march before the Massachusetts legislature and pit one interest, student services (quality there of) against level funding. He will say nothing about trimming the fat in his "perfect" administration nor of his perfect faculty.

Win or lose Bobby will then slink off to One Washington Mall to order the dirty work to be done from his 250,000 dollar per year playpen.

How odd for someone to recommend a referendum vote.

The Student Government is going to poll the ultimate in interest groups. "The other students," the ones that "don't care;" as one student leader said one day (I don't recall which day).

Seems like the only student that is eligible to decide is your local SGA hotshot.

Co-president Martus has a better idea, "let the students decide."

James A. Posgay is a Collegian Commentator.

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Also, all letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages.

Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

All letters are subject to editing, for either content or space, according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed.

richard caplan

We're number one...

"Hello, I'm Anthony Loafaskelli and welcome to the semi-final playoffs of the National Apathy League. This week's match is between two highly rated, highly apathetic schools. The number two school in the nation, the University of Snow at Buffalo, New York and the number three school in the nation, the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. This proves to be a really exciting contest.

As the action begins, the University of Buffalo leads in total points but UMass can pull ahead in the "personal interview" category.

We're now standing in the Campus Center of UMass stopping people as they walk by.

"Excuse me, have you ever been to a student senate meeting?"

"You mean we have one?"....

"Excuse me, do you belong to any R.S.O. organization?"

"What's R.S.O.?" ......

"Excuse me, are you aware of the budget cuts being planned by Gooernor Dukakis?"

"Governor who?"...

"Excuse me, are you aware that you could become a writer for the Collegian or work on public affairs for WMUA?"

"Are you from Candid Camera?"....

"Excuse me have you ever attended a meeting of the local board of selectmen?"

"Bored selectmen? Well, if they're so bored why are they there in the first place and just what is it they're selecting anyway?"

"A perfect score! Yes, ladies and gentlemen, UMass is now tied with U Buffalo and the only remaining event is talking to the student senators themselves."

"We're now downstairs at the Campus Center waiting outside a senate meeting hoping for the chance to interview some of the senators. Here they come now."

"Excuse me, how is the senate meeting going?

"Fine, I just scored an ounce of columbian."...

"Excuse me, have the senate meetings proved valuable to you?"

"Oh yes, I learned to sleep sitting up. I don't even have to close me eyes."

"Excuse me, what's the most valuable thing you've learned from being a senator?"

"I've learned to pretend that it makes a difference."

"Excuse me, I..."

"I am a senator!"

"Yes I know but..."

"I am a senator!"

"Yes, well do you think..."

"I am a senator!"...

"That's it! Another perfect score! UMass beats U Buffalo in a stunning upset and will go on to the championship match in Cincinnati, Ohio."

"Be with us next time for the national drinking championships. UMass is always a top contender in that category."

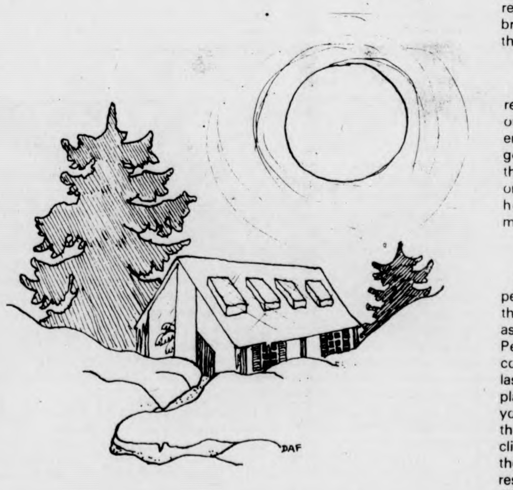
Richard Caplan is a Collegian columnist

commentary

Beating the heating bills

By KEVIN KNOBLOCH

Every winter, without fail, New Englanders talk about the cold weather as though they had no idea it was coming. This winter, of course, the conversation has peaked and everywhere discussions of icicles and freezing gas lines fill the frigid air.



Now admittedly New Englanders may have been spoiled during the past three cold seasons which turned out to be somewhat warm. But all of the trauma over the recent multiple snow storms and subsequent freeze seems to be unwarranted. New Englanders, especially those of us who can remember back several winters, should be used to it by now.

What is more serious, though, is that major energy interests and governmental commissions designed to keep a tab on such trivial matters as energy needs in the Northeast and Midwest are also singing the same tune. Winter is nothing new and the natural gas and oil companies know it (maybe they are playing groundhog). If we do not have a home-heating fuel shortage this year then you can bet your booties it will arrive next year and-or the year after.

The real problem does not exactly lie with the gas and oil companies who are just following their profit instincts, but rather with the New Englanders who will allow themselves and their families to helplessly depend, not to mention pay the high prices, on one source when heating their homes. Unlike sunny California or dusty Texas, New Englanders must regard heating bills as a necessary evil to comply with when the seasons change.

Yet as the price rises and the supplies diminish, New Englanders bundle up and shiver away the winter nights. Local commissions such as the Massachusetts Energy Policy Commission firmly deny the reality of a shortage with one breath and tell us to turn down our thermostats with the other.

We know the pertroleum resources of the world are running out and alternate sources of heat energy should become our chief goal. Research in solar energy to this point has not flourished, and as only one example, its potential home-heating ability is immeasurable.

But, it is sad to say, as long as petro products continue to bring in the bucks, alternate sources such as solar energy will be neglected. Perhaps the oil and natural gas companies choose to wait until the last drop when they will release a plan legislating the amount of sun you may utilize. New Englanders, as those most directly affected by the climate and taken advantage of by the oil and gas interests, have a responsibility to demand new and different ways to keep warm in the winter.

If one stops and ponders what we would be using today to heat our homes if the Three Stooges hadn't discovered coal early, the answer might be one of the most essential (not to mention the hottest) elements in our universe — the sun. What do you say we all go back to pre-historic times?

Winters will not go away at our request (besides I enjoy them considerably), so with this simple knowledge there is little excuse why we are not prepared to combat the night chill of future years.

Kevin Knobloch is a Collegian Commentator.

WHAT'S HAPPENING

Specifications for 'What's Happening'

News releases for the Collegian's "What's Happening" column must be submitted to the news editor no later than 4 p.m. the day before publication. Releases must be typed at 67 characters across and tripled spaced. Every effort will be made to publish the release on the date desired, although space limitation may limit us in this respect.

Philosophy Club to host speaker tonight

Professor Hugo Bedau, chairperson of the Department of Philosophy at Tufts University, will discuss "Capital Punishment and Social Justice," tonight at 8:00 in Campus Center rooms 904-908, as a guest of the Philosophy Club.

GSEU to hold first general meeting

The Graduate Student Employe Union (GSEU) will hold its first general membership meeting of the semester tonight in Thompson Hall 620 at 7:30 p.m. Tthey will discuss cost of living increases. There will also be a report on the state of GSEU's case before the state Labor Relations Board. Graduate students who are not currently TA's or RA's may hold associate memberships in the union and are encouraged to attend the meeting.

M-L study group to hold intro. meeting

The Revolutionary Student Brigade is sponsoring a Marxist-Leninist study group, beginning with an introductory meeting tonight at 7:30 in Campus Center 901.

We will be studying topics including: philosophy, dialectical and historical materialism, political economy, imperialism and the state and the oppression of women.

All interested students are invited. The study group will be given as a Southwest Colloquium for one credit.

Dr. Robert Buxbaum to speak on fitness

Dr. Robert Buxbaum of the Harvard Community Health Plan and chairperson of the governor's committee on Physical Fitness and Sports will speak on "Planning for Fitness: Social, Economic, and Political Considerations," tonight at 8:00 in SBA 120.

Amateur wrestlers give demonstration

There will be a demonstration of several athletes involved in the best amateur wrestling team in the country tonight at 9 in the Cape Cod Lounge of the Student Union. Come and see their performance and evaluate for yourselves their life style which motivates them to commit their lives to this type of competition.

Surgeon Nolen to speak here tonight

Distinguished surgeon and the best-selling author, Dr. William Nolen will be here today at 8 p.m. to speak on "Medicine for the Future" in Thompson 102.

Nolen wrote "The Making of a Surgeon."

DC Menu

TODAY

LUNCH — Deli Ham Sandwich, Broccoli Cauliflower Cass.; Basics: Salmon Patties-Egg Sauce, Broccoli Cauliflower Cass.

DINNER — Chopped Beefsteak Special, Chicken Cutlet-Supreme Sauce; Basics: Soybean Souffle, Chicken Cutlet-Supreme Sauce.

14k Gold and Sterling Hearts
25% OFF with this ad.
HANDCRAFTED QUALITY
AT PRICES
YOU CAN AFFORD
silverscape designs
264 n. pleasant st., amherst 253-3324

QUONSET
Something New in Dining Out!!
Low Budget Family Menu
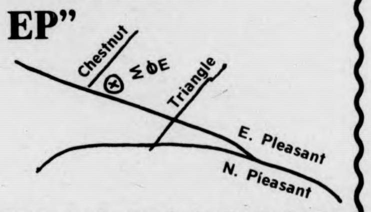
featuring Chef John
Dinner Served 5-9 Tues. thru Fri.
For student groups of 4 and up 10 per cent discount
Restaurant
Hadley, Mass.
Exit 20, I-91, Rt. 9
Reservations 1-253-9214



The Brothers of
SIGMA PHI EPSILON
invite all university men to an Open Rush
on
Tuesday, February 8 — 7:30
Wednesday, February 9 — 7:30
Thursday, February 10 — 7:30

Tired of the dorms? Our living situation offers the individual the opportunity to expand himself both socially and academically. Come meet the men of the best fraternity on campus...

"SIG EP"

Beer
For Rides or Information
Call: 545-0070

IT PAYS TO BE IN DEMAND.

Air Force ROTC has scholarships, allowances and jobs for selected science and engineering majors.

Air Force ROTC has openings for young men and women majoring in specified science and engineering academic fields. Fields such as Aeronautical, Aerospace, General and Electrical Engineering, Mathematics, Physics and Computer Technology. AFROTC enrollment pays well now and could keep paying off in the future.

Air Force ROTC offers 4-year, 3-year and 2-year scholarships with $100 monthly tax-free allowance during the last two years to non-scholarship students.

Upon graduation you'll receive a commission in the U.S. Air Force and compete for challenging jobs. There'll be numerous opportunities for advanced education in your field, plus you'll have financial security and start your way up the promotion ladder where your ability and ambition are the only limits.

It pays to be in demand, and if you're the type we're looking for, it pays to get the details. No obligations, naturally.

Call MAJOR RICHARDSON
at 545-2437

Air Force ROTC
Gateway to a Great Way of Life

COME GROW WITH US.

Come grow with us—see yourself, your community life, your career opportunities and skills grow at the Division of Continuing Education, UMass/Amherst. If you are not concerned with academic credit, the Credit-Free Workshop Program makes it possible for you to explore old or new areas of interest at hours that are convenient. New Communities in Action Workshops are inexpensive and offer both theoretical and practical knowledge to promote citizen effectiveness within community organizations. On February 4, mail registration ends and you may then enroll on a space-available basis by coming to the Records Office in the lobby of Hills House, UMass/Amherst, during regular office hours as well as early evenings, Monday through Friday, and Saturday from 10 to 1. Write to Credit-Free Workshops, P. O. Box 835, Amherst, MA 01002 or phone (413)545-3653 for a free catalog containing complete workshop descriptions and additional information about educational options.

ce

SPRING 1977 CREDIT-FREE WORKSHOPS

Basic Calligraphy; Basic Drawing; Cartoon Art; Colonial Restoration/Interior Decorating; Crewel; Weaving; Gravestone Rubbing; Painting/Enamels; Patchwork; Pottery; Print Collecting; Problems in Non-Representational Painting; Puppetry; Upholstery; How to Get Published; Performing Arts and Booking Seminar; Women and the Arts; Community Arts Day; Ballet, Beginning and Intermediate; Creative Movement; Dance Exercise; Hatha Yoga; Modern Dance, Intermediate; Tap-Dancing; Acupuncture Massage; Natural Macrobiotic Cooking; Herbal Medicine; Seaweeds and Foods of the Future; Conversational English for Foreign Students; Conversational Language: French, German, Italian, Spanish, Greek; Jazz-Rock Guitar; Fiddle/Violin Workshop; Basic Folk Guitar; Folk-Rag Guitar, Intermediate; Persuasive Writing Workshop; Reading and Writing the New Gothic; Sign Language and Finger Spelling, Beginning and Advanced; Spanish-English Translation; Writing for Magazines; Writing for Self-Enrichment; Writing for Life; Hang Gliding; Technical Rock Climbing, Introductory and Intermediate; Tennis, Beginning and Intermedaite; Career Desicion-Making; Conflict Resolution; Creative Anaysis; Dreams and Dream Interpretation; Improving Interpersonal Relationships; Self-Defeat and Self-Realization; Siddha Yoga/Meditation; Tarot; Darkroom Procedures; Photography, Basic and Intermediate; Photography for Artists and Craftspeople; 35mm Camera Workshop; Care and Feeding of Houseplants; Landscaping and Grounds Maintenance; Terrarium/Bottle Garden Construction; Williamsburg-Style Colonial Arrangements; Acting Workshops. Technical Theater; Theatrical Lighting, Basic and Advanced; Animal Management for the Self-Sufficient Farm; Astrology; Auto Mechanics; Seminar in Massachusetts Special Education Law; Developing Consulting Skills; Math Learning Skills; Real Estate; The People Side of Management, (6 CEU's).

THE DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION, UMASS/AMHERST

Notices

ATHLETES IN ACTION

Come see a FREE performance of the best amateur wrestling team in the country as they show their skills and explain their unique and exciting lifestyle. The Cape Cod Lounge in the S.U. at 9 p.m. tonight.

ATTENTION NORTHEAST RESIDENTS

Tonight the Northeast Area Govt. will meet in the Leach Lounge at 6:30 p.m. Everyone is invited to attend to help us plan for Northeast activities.

ATTENTION PRE-DENTS

Vital that all attend first meeting of the semester TONIGHT CC 805-809 at 7 p.m. Varied activity plans for semester discussed. Open to new ideas and new people. Info on dent schools and applications available.

SKI PATROL

The Patrol will meet tonight at 7 p.m. in CC 811-813.

BERLIN FILM

Dept of German Languages and Literatures will present BERLIN: SYMPHONY OF A GREAT CITY in Herter 231 on Thurs., from 8-9. it is a 1927 silent film with Walter Ruttman directing.

BROWN BAG THEOLOGY

Doubts, inquiries, perplexities, opinions, sharing, openess — all this plus your brown bag lunch and our beverages make Fri. noon in SU 422 one of the more stimulating hours of the week. UCF invites you to drop in.

CEQ GENERAL MEETING

The Coalition for Environmental Quality will be having its first meeting at 7:30 in CC 804-808. Come learn about our people and projects and how you can become involved in the improvement of our environment. A film will be shown. Everyone is welcome to come and join us.

COFFEE HOUSE

On Sunday from 8-12 at Dickinson Dorm. Enjoy good friends and good music for a good cause; refreshments will be available. 50 cents admission with proceeds going to the Rape Task Force located on Campus.

COFFEE HOUSE PERFORMERS

There will be a coffee house on Saturday, Feb. 26 on JQA, 19th flr. Performers are needed. For time slots call Bob 6-8497 or Jean 6-4562.

DEFENSE CAMPAIGN

Volunteers are urgently needed to staff petition tables for Earl Brown and Craeman Gethers Defense Campaign. Only a few hours weekly are necessary to solicit signatures and donations. For more info contact Earl Brown 5-2415 or Black Cultural Center 5-0794.

CRAFTS PERSONS WITH WORK-STUDY MONEY

There will be at least two work-study positions available in the Sylvan Crafts Center. Applications are in 106 Johnson Hse. This job is limited to 7 PAID hours a week.

GENERAL MEMBERSHIP MEETING

GSEU will meet to make a proposal to the general membership on a demand for cost of living increases for TA's. There will be a report on the hearings. 7:30 p.m. Thompson Hall, 620

HOUSING

The Off-Campus Housing Office, Munson Hall, has many listings for sub-lets for students. So if you are still looking for a place to live, drop by the office or call them at 5-0865. Also there is a Housing Advocate handling tenant-related problems available.

MASS PIRG MEETINGS

Energy Conservation, CC 801 at 7:30; Small Claims Courtwatching, CC 902, 7:30; Consumer Complaint Meeting, CC 902, 8:30. Call 256-6434 for info.

NAIADS

See you at finale practice tonight from 6-7.

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS

Buses leave Hasbrouck and Patterson at 6:30 tonight. Old and new members are welcome to come along.

NUCLEAR POWER MEETING

Meet with us to discuss 2nd plan how to stop dangerous nuclear power proleferation. Tonight at 7:30 p.m., S.U. 413C

PRE-MEDS PRE-MEDS PRE-MEDS!!!

The Society is holding an extremely important meeting on Thurs., Feb. 17 (next week) in CC 101. PLEASE ATTEND. All members of the Publicity Comm. are asked to contact Mark at 6-6187. This meeting is crucial to the future of the PRE-MED SOCIETY.

SEMINAR ON MEDICINE PART 4

The Colloq on Medicine will start Tues., Feb. 22. Time and place to be announced in this section of the Collegian.

SICK OF DC FOOD??

Well come have free dinner and beer at Memorial Hall, while calling Alumni at Phonothon '77. The funds raised go toward scholarships, special academic programs and other projects. So help out and have a good time, too. For more info call 5-2317.

LOST

Springfield High School ring. Initials D.K. (1973) REWARD! Call 546-5262.

SPECTRUM MEETING

Wed., 6:30, CC 106. Important for all staff members to come.

THE DREAMER

Prize-winning Israeli entry to Cannes film festival. Tonight at 8 p.m. in Thompson 104. FREE TO EVERYONE.

What
Campus Organization
Raised Over $1000
For Charity This Year?

BLUE WALL
the CARS
THURSDAY AND FRIDAY
FEBUARY 10 and 11

BERMUDA
March 18-25 or 19-26
from $199 plus tax
INCLUDES
★ ROUNDTRIP AIRFARE
★ ACCOMMODATIONS 7 NIGHTS
★ TRANSFERS
★ BEACH PARTIES
★ BARBECUES
CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
Campus Center 3rd level
Univ of Mass 545-0500

Everbody's Market Place

CLASSIFIED ADS

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8 30a m and 3 45p m Monday thru Friday The deadline is 3 45p m two days before your ad is to appear

The rates are
Daily 40¢ per line
Weekly 35¢ per line
Monthly 25¢ per line
(two lines on MDC form approximate one line

IF YOU CAN'T COME TO THE OFFICE, CLIP OUT AND MAIL OUR 'SPEEDY CLASSIFIED AD FORM'

FOR SALE

Exata VX, antique. $150 or will trade. Isaac, 253-2107, eves.

New ski boots. Italian imports, polyurethane with flo-form linings. Most sizes, $35. After ski boots, $25. Call Sue 256-8641 evenings 7:00-10:30.

House broken rabbit for sale, 11 wks. Red Satin, cute, great pet. Debby 538-4087.

Color TV, Sony, top of line, Trinitron, 19", new 14 mo. ago, rarely used. 256-0158.

Yamaha FG 180, Guitar $125 or B.O. Call Daniel 3-7 p.m. 253-3887.

Typewriter — Oliveti, ex. cond. $50. Call Nancy evenings 256-8391.

1 pr. of men's Bauer hockey skates, size 10. Call 6-8960.

Sherwood 7200 — 40w per channel, dual 1228 w cart, AR2AX speakers. All excellent cond. $515. Neal, 546-4382.

Gift Idea: Have your portrait drawn. Call Dennis Delap, 256-8732.

Size 44 brown leather waist lngth, lined, barely used. $50. Call JK 549-6973.

Kowa Six 2¼ SLR with 80 mm lens and grip. $190 or best offer. Gary 256-8434.

Kastle GS skis, 200cm. $50. 546-4709.

For Sale: 4 fairly new (2000 miles), steel belted, radials. 165R15. Lee, 253-3527. $100.

Never used — Odyssey 200 w adapter. Ping pong game for any TV. $75 or B. O. 546-5384.

F slalom ski outfit & nvy Hd jack., sz. 10. 665-4188.

Yamaha FG200 jumbo folk guitar w hard shell case. $165. Harvey 367-2437.

Used top-of-car ski racks. Good buy. Prof. Wallace, Nope 109, M,W,F 10; T,T 9:30.

AUTO FOR SALE

'73 Subaru, pampered, Ziebart, 49,000 mi., 33 mpg. $1895. 268-7196.

Red Mustang, '65. Runs, needs valve work. Best offer. 5-2658, 586-0443.

'68 Renault Rio. Gd. cond. 30mpg. 546-6304.

'63 VW. Excellent condition, dependable. $295 or best offer. Gary 256-8434.

'68 Catalina, hi mi. but runs well and reliable. $350. Peter Dwight 224, 5-2304.

'66 Peugeot 404, radials, ex. parts. A good car, $465. Carl 549-5335.

1970 Camaro, Hurst Cragars headers, more. Needs some work. Must sell. 665-2676.

1972 Fiat 128 wagon. Just repainted, new valve job, battery, muffler. $1100. 584-0216.

Twin bed. 253-7625.

ROOMMATE WANTED

2½ rms. 110 mo. Furn., util.inc. Cbl. tv, ac refrig, stove. 1 mile from campus 546-4177.

2 people to share lg. rm. in Pelham house. 8 mi. to campus. $165+. 253-7009.

1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. apt. for lease. $125—mo., utilities inc. Call 665-4235. Sunderland (female).

2 rooms — Montague. $85+. 772-0241, ext. 221 or 367-2375. Ask for Marian Perry.

Lg. bdrm. Brit. Manor. Non-smok. F or Fs. Own room or share. Quiet. 253-3140 eves.

F wanted for 1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm unit till May. $100. 665-3044; 545-1924. Bus rt.

1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. apt. No lease. $90+ w-w carpet & p-furnd. 665-4847.

Own room, $100 + util. M or F, on busline. Furn. Call 665-3493.

Female non-smoking, furn. room in N. Hadley. Country home, kitchen priv. 549-5683.

Own room. Share mod. apt. w fml senior. $125 incl. util., sec. dep. Lease. A cond. 549-1741 or 549-1352.

Mature, studious type to take 3 rms. in elegant house on Echo Hill. Wood stve, lndry, kitchn facil. $117—mo rent + $25—mo util. Call Bruce 256-0662 or 549-1741.

FOR RENT

1 bdrm. apt. Puffton. Bus, air cond., d-wash, quiet. $205 month incl. all. 549-4596.

Beat the summer rush rentals. For a good deal and a good deal more $. Call 256-0144. P.M.

University Women: Close to campus sorority is taking boarders. Great food. Call Liz or Dawn at 253-9215.

TO SUBLET

Sublet Immediately — 1 bedroom Puffton Village, wall to wall, morn. 549-6985.

WANTED

Wanted — Old abandoned cars for salvage or junk. Fair prices paid. 665-4546 after 6 p.m. A&S Salvage Inc.

Fencers...Experienced foil and saber fencer needs partners — a.m., p.m., weekends. Duke Simoneau 405D1. Brown house. 546-5727.

Wanted: A queen or king size bed. Call 256-0144. P.M. Ask for Red.

35mm camera in good condition. Call Neil at 546-1121.

RIDERS WANTED

Riders wanted for car pool to Holyoke weekdays. Contact Linda D-5, N-Village.

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Spfld. from UMass M-W-F at 11 and Tues and Thurs. at 2:30. Will share $. 736-8690 Sue.

To Ptsfld-Lnx area 1 day wkly after 3:30. Ret. nxt. mrn. Call 6952 aft. 7 p.m.

HONEST FURNITURE

Good deals on bureaus, beds, chairs, sofas, lamps, threadle sewing machines, desks and things that go bump in the night. Pauls Oldtime Furniture, 57 E. Pleasant St., Amherst. 549-3603, we deliver.

REWARD OFFERED

Reward offered for return of casino klub amplifier and AKG 190E mike stolen from basement of 165 Britanny Manor. Call Jim at 549-1145.

TYPING

Typing — Reasonable rates — Dissertations, resumes, papers, etc. 549-6772.

HELP WANTED

The Below The Salt arts weekly is looking for your poetry. Let us see your creativity? Come on down Monday nite or leave your stuff in the Poetry Box, Coll. Off., 1st floor C.C.

Work in a sorority. Free meals, good home cooking. Call 253-9066.

Alan Goldberg Tennis Pro needs assistant pro for part time summer employment. Teaching exp. required. Call nites 253-3683.

International women's week needs people power for publicity committee and children's programming! For more info. call Irene 545-3600.

Fashion 220 Beauty Consultants are trained specialists in skin care and beauty techniques. To qualify call Mon.-Fri. 12-2:30 p.m. 568-3903, 533-9331.

One or two work study jobs are opening with the Student Senate Recycling Project this semester. These would be part-time work study positions working as helpers on the recycling project's trash truck. A willingness to do hard work & reliability are essential. 8-10 hrs. wk., $3.00 hr. Apply at CEQ Office. Equal Opp. Employer.

Work study person — general clerical, typing helpful but not req. Call Jean 5-0005 (I.G.S.)

Experienced pitch partner needed desperately. Call Paul after 10 p.m. at 6-1184.

PERSONALS

To the woman mailing a B-day card to the Cape, from the guy cashing a check — Thanks for making my day — again!

Bets — Best wishes for the happiest of times this special day and forever. Love, M.H.

FREE

Free dog & cat. Love outdoors & kids. Dog is spayed & all shots. 549-4896, nites.

LOST

Lost while walking from the vicinity of Flint Lab to the C.C. Concourse, a gold Timex watch with a gold band. Of sentimental value only. Pls. call Jean 546-9568. Thanx.

Lg. black & white fluffy cat. Male, 1½ years old. Near Rvrgld. Apt. 256-6694. He is missed!

TI-SR50 lost in N. Amherst. 546-7940.

SERVICES

Guitar Lessons. Experienced, reliable teacher. Theory included if desired. Student rates available. 665-3024.

Typing — 65c pg. Call Anne 549-5339.

AUDIO

Crown Disco Amp. SAE Preamp Equalizer. Dual CS701 trntable. JBL100 spkrs., excel. condition. All for $1,450.00. Call Joe 6:30 p.m. 586-2844.

Quality audio components — over 130 lines including high—end; good advice, reasonable prices. Call Peter 665-2920.

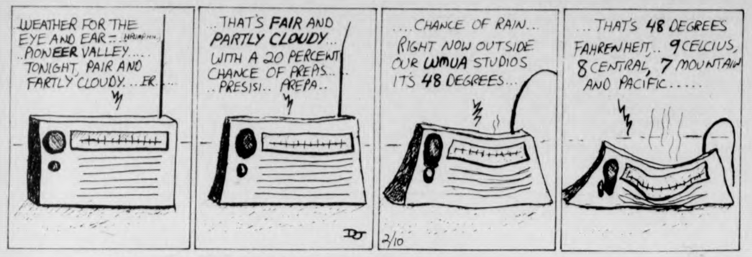
CALCULATORS

College Calculators has low prices! All T. I. warr by me for 1 yr. SR-52 $199.95; SR-56 $84.95 ($10 rebate off this pr.); SR-40 $34.95, bus anal $34.95 — All HP's avail. HP-67 $389.95. Call and check our PR's. Call Bob Or Linda 549-1316!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

TRAVEL

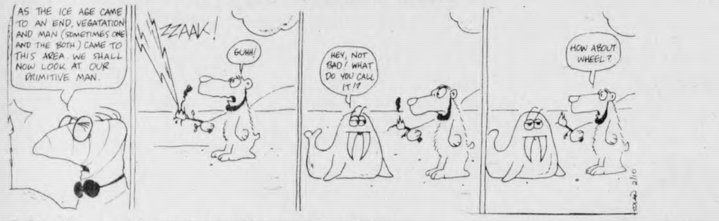
Europe '77. No frills, student, teacher, charter flights — Global Travel, 521 5th Ave., N. Y., N. Y. 10017. 212-379-3532. Group rates.

What Next? by Dick Janssen



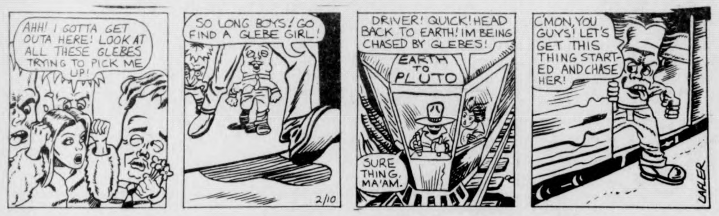
WEATHER FOR THE EYE AND EAR -- HRUMPH... ..PIONEER VALLEY..... TONIGHT, PAIR AND FARTLY CLOUDY... ER...
...THAT'S FAIR AND PARTLY CLOUDY... WITH A 20 PERCENT CHANCE OF PREPS... ..PRESISI.. PREPA..
....CHANCE OF RAIN... RIGHT NOW OUTSIDE OUR WMUA STUDIOS IT'S 48 DEGREES...
...THAT'S 48 DEGREES FAHRENHEIT... 9 CELCIUS, 8 CENTRAL, 7 MOUNTAIN AND PACIFIC.....
DJ
2/10

THE SCENT OF MAN by Peter Tolan



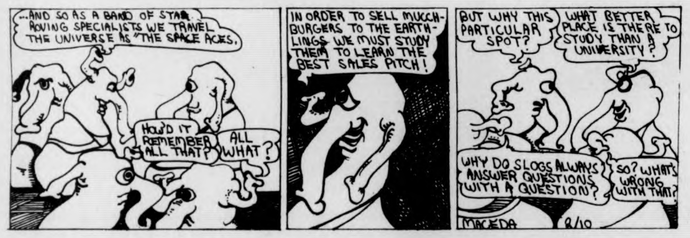
AS THE ICE AGE CAME TO AN END, VEGATATION AND MAN (SOMETIMES ONE AND THE BOTH) CAME TO THIS AREA. WE SHALL NOW LOOK AT OUR PRIMITIVE MAN.
ZZAAK!
GUHH!
HEY, NOT BAD! WHAT DO YOU CALL IT!?
HOW ABOUT WHEEL?
TOLAN 2/10

Aluminum Ghost by Steve Lafler



AHH! I GOTTA GET OUTA HERE! LOOK AT ALL THESE GLEBES TRYING TO PICK ME UP!
SO LONG BOYS! GO FIND A GLEBE GIRL!
2/10
DRIVER! QUICK! HEAD BACK TO EARTH! IM BEING CHASED BY GLEBES!
EARTH TO PLUTO
SURE THING, MA'AM.
C'MON, YOU GUYS! LET'S GET THIS THING STARTED AND CHASE HER!
LAFLER

U.Mutations by Marty Maceda



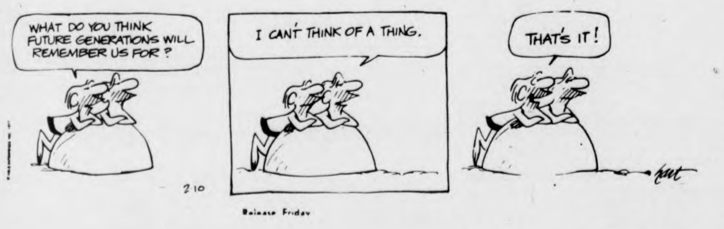
...AND SO AS A BAND OF STAR-ROVING SPECIALISTS WE TRAVEL THE UNIVERSE AS "THE SPACE ACES."
HOW'D IT REMEMBER ALL THAT?
ALL WHAT?
IN ORDER TO SELL MUCCHBURGERS TO THE EARTHLINGS WE MUST STUDY THEM TO LEARN THE BEST SALES PITCH!
BUT WHY THIS PARTICULAR SPOT?
WHAT BETTER PLACE IS THERE TO STUDY THAN A UNIVERSITY?
WHY DO SLOGS ALWAYS ANSWER QUESTIONS WITH A QUESTION?
SO? WHAT'S WRONG WITH THAT?
MACEDA 2/10

Doonesbury
by Garry Trudeau

SPONSORED BY:

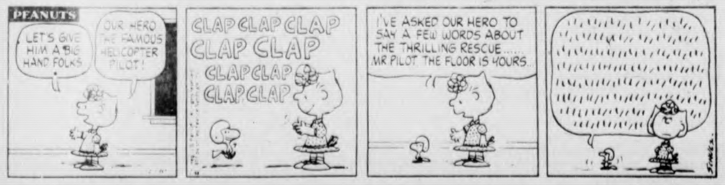
Valley typing
29 S. Pleasant St.
Call 256-6736
M-F 10-6 S 10-2

B.C. by Johnny Hart



WHAT DO YOU THINK FUTURE GENERATIONS WILL REMEMBER US FOR?
I CAN'T THINK OF A THING.
THAT'S IT!
2-10
hart
Release Friday

PEANUTS
by Charles M. Schultz
SPONSORED BY:
STYLES BY DEBORAH
GUYS & GALS TEL. 549-5610
PERSONAL STYLE CUT $5.00



PEANUTS
LET'S GIVE HIM A BIG HAND FOLKS
OUR HERO THE FAMOUS HELICOPTER PILOT!
CLAP CLAP CLAP CLAP CLAP CLAP CLAP CLAP CLAP
I'VE ASKED OUR HERO TO SAY A FEW WORDS ABOUT THE THRILLING RESCUE...... MR PILOT THE FLOOR IS YOURS...
SCHULZ

Local Television

8:00 3 THE WALTONS
8 40 WELCOME BACK KOTTER "The Littlest Sweathog"
22 30 THE FANTASTIC JOURNEY "Atlantium"
24 CONNECTICUT HERITAGE
32 38 BOSTON BRUINS HOCKEY
57 MASTERPIECE THEATRE
8:30 8 40 WHAT'S HAPPENING "The Firing Squad"
24 THE FOURTH ESTATE
9:00 3 TEN WHO DARED "Jedediah Smith"
8 40 BARNEY MILLER "Sex Surrogate"
22 30 NBC'S BEST SELLER: SEVENTH AVENUE
24 57 VISIONS "The War Widow"
9:30 8 40 THE TONY RANDALL SHOW "Case: The Lawndale Report"
10:00 3 THE UNDERSEA WORLD OF JACQUES COUSTEAU
8 40 THE STREETS OF SAN FRANCISCO "A Good Cop ... But"
57 JEANNE WOLF WITH ... HAROLD ROBBINS
11:00 3 8 22 24 30 40 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS
57 MARY HARTMAN, MARY HARTMAN
11:30 3 CBS LATE MOVIE "Kojak: Acts Of Desperate Men"
8 40 THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL "The Sixth David Frost Presents The Guinness Book Of World Records"
22 30 THE JOHNNY CARSON SHOW
12:30 3 MOVIE: "Mousey"
1:00 22 30 TOMORROW
2:00 22 30 8 40 NEWS

Your Birthday by Stella Wilder

Thursday, February 10 — Born today, you are a tactful, diplomatic person who is able to turn to his own advantage almost any any situation or set of circumstances. You know how to say precisely what it is that others wish to hear -- and perhaps even more important, precisely when to say it to gain the highest advantage for all involved. Although yours is a somewhat nervous temperament, you will learn early in life to keep under control those reactions and responses that would work against your best interests, and, conversely, to heighten those that put you, your work, your motives and your efforts in the best possible light.

Your emotional nature under control, you are free to make yourself, through a demonstration of responses you know to be acceptable, entirely pleasing to those whose good wishes are necessary to your success. You have tremendous intellectual impulsion. Your quickness of mind is such that there are few problems, whether of logic or of instinct, that you cannot ultimately solve. Perceptive, reasonable, able and willing to follow the bidding of your own sense and sensibility, you are a self-motivated, self-directed person of considerable power.

You demonstrate accurate judgment in matters having to do with your own work, though you are somewhat inclined to be overly sensitive when it comes to dealing with adverse criticism. You are relatively quick to find fault with the work of others -- but you are inclined to be lenient when it comes to your own efforts. This does not mean, however, that you are self-indulgent; only that you are unable to see your own faults and deal with them.

* * *

Friday, February 11

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Demonstrate your appreciation of another's efforts -- before it is too late to do so. You will regret any delay of gratitude.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — The spirit of adventure leads you into behavior that is startling to your friends but highly satisfying and profitable for you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Work quietly toward a close-at-hand goal. Early morning hours are best for settling disputes with loved ones. Don't nag.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — The delight you take in another's success can only make you even more popular with co-workers. Demonstrate your affection for a youngster.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Your fondness for another must not be allowed to blind you to a fault -- which could place his future in jeopardy. Speak up.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Stimulate co-workers to greater productivity through your own example. Don't be afraid to lay your talent on the line.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Approach another in a kindly manner, expecting to be granted your request, and you are very likely to gain your objective.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — An imperfect morning on the employment scene may fool you into thinking your present directions are wrong. Don't decide the question in haste.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Entertain associates at home this evening. Otherwise, you may not have an opportunity to get across new ideas in time to implement them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Don't allow the parental nature of your affection for another to show through. Appear unconcerned -- for the time being -- but accepting.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Confide in one who you know can keep a secret. Otherwise, you may find that all the world knows what you wish kept for only a few.

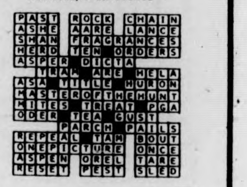
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Your readiness to move on may be obvious to higher-ups — but the time may not be ripe, at least not in their eyes. Be patient.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Today's Crossword

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Wednesday's Puzzle Solved

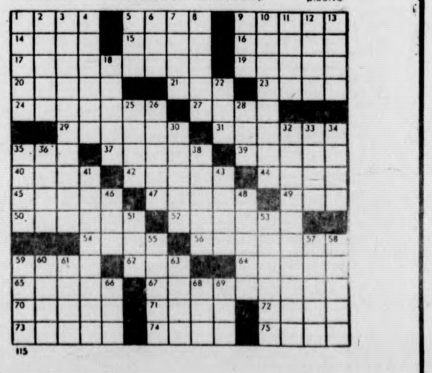


ACROSS

1 Auditors—Abbr
5 Chops
9 Quarrel: Slang
14 Costa ----
15 Truly
16 Slip away
17 Sty
19 Early explorer in Canada
20 Biting
21 Teleost fish
23 Commies
24 The ------- man in town
27 Branches
29 Provides with food
31 Did the tango
35 Favoring
37 Begins a voyage
39 Defense org
40 Circuits
42 Disagreements
44 Golf architect's creation
45 In return
47 Simmers
49 Similarity to: Suffix
50 Bank employee
52 Random radio noise
54 Pitcher
56 ------- battery
59 Wind instrument
62 Jazz trumpeter --- Severinsen
64 Expressed one's preference
65 Feminine name
67 Subleaser's interest
70 Estimated
71 Black Poet
72 Its capital is Teheran
73 Plant leaf
74 Chair, for one
75 Luck: Irish forte

DOWN

1 Best part
2 ----- nez
3 Varnish resin: 2 words
4 Salt marsh
5 Possesses
6 Australian bird
7 Had reality
8 Scoff
9 Time period: Abbr
10 Goodman's forte
11 Academic gown
12 "Like two peas in ----"
13 Fondles
18 U.S. playwright
22 Boy
25 Red and Dead ----
26 Causes to fall
28 Parents: Informal
30 Narrow metal strips
32 Ludicrous copy
33 Writ words
34 Information
35 Developer's map
36 Spread unchecked
38 Deles' opposites
41 Quietened
43 Slap
46 Recent
48 Domestic appliance
51 Color
53 Satirical
55 Popular flowers
57 Heb. weight units
58 Elysiums
59 ---- Shriner
60 Used in the mouth
61 Feminine name
63 Sugar unit
66 Hoosier fabulist
68 Feather scarf
69 High explosive



A nahce tahm in W. Va.

[Note: Entry into the Eastern Collegiate Basketball League has done a lot for the UMass basketball program. Unfortunately, it has also meant traveling greater distances than ever before. Last weekend it was on the road [and in the air] for games with West Virginia University and Pittsburgh. Herewith is an account of that journey.]

By BOB HIGGINS
Collegian Staff

THURSDAY — The bus to Bradley left Curry Hicks Cage at 5:15, arriving in Hartford an hour later. The flight was scheduled to leave an hour after that, and unfortunately was an hour late.

Allegheny flight 175 to Pittsburgh and St. Louis finally left around 8:15. Arrival in Pittsburgh was followed by an hour and a half bus ride to the Morgantown, West Virginia Holiday Inn. Arrival time was about 1:15, and coach Jack Leaman ordered his squad to be in their rooms by midnight.

Non-team members had no curfew, of course, so we checked out the Executive Lounge at the motel. West Virginia accents, we found, were much stronger than expected, as our waitress asked "Y'all havin' a nahce tahm in West Virginyah?"

Our next surprise came when she brought our drinks. West Virginia beer, unfortunately, is all just 3.2 per cent alcohol. "Even Hahnekin," said the waitress.

FRIDAY — Left a wake-up call for noon the night before — no sense over-exerting. Awoke in a daze, but was brought back to reality upon opening the curtain and gazing at the absolutely huge West Virginia Coliseum, which was concealed in darkness the night before.

The team took it easy since it was the day of a game, playing cards, watching TV, etc. We (myself and photographer Jay Saret) set off for downtown Morgantown, knowing only the general direction.

We got a ride into town pretty quickly, and grilled our ride for more information on the area. He showed us around, and invited us back for lunch.

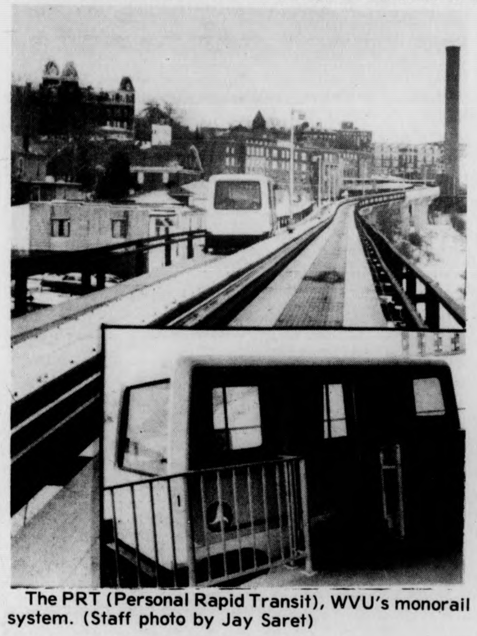
After lunch, we checked out the West Virginia campus. The Student Union, also known as the Mountain lair (WVU's nickname is the Mountaineers), which has everything UMass has plus bowling alleys and a lot more.

Terry, our lunch provider, also showed us a much easier way to get back out to the Coliseum. A federally-funded transportation system, called the PRT (Personal Rapid Transit), transports people around the WVU campus in miniature monorail cars. Each car holds just eight people, and no driver. Zipping around at 45 miles per hour with nobody driving your car takes a little bit of getting used to.

Except for the PRT, downtown Morgantown is pretty boring. Basically, it's a town that has too many people and buildings in too small an area. Traffic gets totally bottled up on the narrow streets, and there are only two access roads. Even with the PRT, the town cannot handle the influx of the 18,000 WVU students.

The football stadium is located directly in the center of campus, which sounds nice to all UMass fans who have trudged from Sylvan to Alumni Stadium on a frigid fall day. However, the basketball coliseum is located over two miles out of town, on the Morgantown city limits. Our hotel was actually outside those limits, in Star City.

By evening, a howling snowstorm had arrived — schools all over the Tri-State area (where West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Ohio meet) had been closed for up to a couple of weeks due to the cold and snow.



The PRT (Personal Rapid Transit), WVU's monorail system. (Staff photo by Jay Saret)

The Coliseum, inside and out, was beautiful. Trophies and pictures from past athletic squads lined the walls. One face jumped out of the picture of the 1959-60 basketball squad — captain Jerry West.

All West Virginia games are televised on three local stations, including the campus station WWVU. That fact, combined with the weather, brought out just 5300 fans to the 14,000-seat Coliseum.

Still, the crowd was intimidating. As each player was introduced, the whole crowd screamed, in unison, "So what!!" for the first, "Who cares?" for the second, "Big deal" for the third, and so forth.

Basketball is big-time at WVU. The press gets the royal treatment — a buffet dinner, a classy press room, and a full color, gorgeous media guide. Unfortunately, the guide was called "Almost Heaven — West Virginia" — we were nauseated with the sounds of John Denver's "Country Roads" throughout the game.

The Mountaineers won the game, pulling away in the last ten minutes. WVU coach Joedy Gardner kept his starters in, pressing, until the very end, long after the game was a runaway. "We'll remember that when they come to the Cage next year," an irritated Leaman would say later.

Gardner also showed his intellectual prowess after the game. In response to a question about his team's resurgence after a brief losing streak, Gardner said, "The difference between then and now is that now we're playing well." Brilliant.

West Virginia University's 14,000-seat Coliseum. (Staff photo by Jay Saret)

Post-game activities included a return trip to the Executive Lounge, and the surprising sight of a UMass player. As it would happen, Leaman popped in a bit later and the player was benched for the Pittsburgh game. "It wasn't even that nice a place," the player would later admit.

SATURDAY — Life on the road can often be a pain, and even more so for the above-average person. The showerheads in the Morgantown Holiday Inn were only five feet off the ground, hard enough for a person of average height nearly impossible for 6-7 Jim Town.

Since the bus wasn't scheduled to leave for Pittsburgh until 2:00, we returned to the WVU campus. A visit to the student newspaper, lunch at a Borden Burger (the equivalent of Hardee's etc.), and we hopped on the PRT back to the motel by 1:30. We found the UMass section of the motel deserted, and immediately thought back to times when Collegian reporters were left in New York and Boston on trips with the team. But would they really leave us stranded in Star City, West Virginia?

A call to the front desk revealed that yes, the team had left — "In fact, there they go raht now!" giggled the woman at the desk. I dashed out, flagged down the bus, we packed in a minute and a half and dashed out to the bus.

"You were almost gonna be working for the West Virginia Post," laughed Leaman later. "Actually, we weren't leaving, we were just pulling the bus up a little." Somehow, we weren't so sure.

The Hyatt House in Pittsburgh was a big improvemt over the Holiday Inn. It was also located directly across from the Pittsburgh Civic Arena, and we talked our way into a Duquesne-Villanova game there. The guard at the gate, hearing we were from Massachusetts, said "You kicked Duquesne's ass, didn't you — go ahead in." Villanova beat Duquesne, 71-57.

Schools around Pittsburgh, including Duquesne, had been closed due to the extreme cold. In fact, it was around zero that night as we wandered around searching for a McDonald's or anyplace to eat. A policeman later told us that just about everything closed at six in Pittsburgh because of the energy crisis. It took a while but we finally found a McDonald's.

Most everyone spent a quiet Saturday night watching TV, due in part to the fact that it was so damn cold, and also because the Pennsylvania drinking age is 21.

SUNDAY — Unfortunately, while Duquesne plays at the Civic Arena, the University of Pittsburgh plays most of its games at the Fitzgerald Field House on campus. The team called some cabs for a two-mile trip through the grubby streets of Pittsburgh. Everything you've heard about Pittsburgh is true — it's not even a nice place to visit.

Rumor had it that Tony Dorsett was at the UMass-Pitt game. Asked if he would recognize him, WMUA announcer Dave Strader said, "Sure — he's number 33, right?" The Heisman Trophy winner was never found, but Pirate Doc Medich did show up to play some two-on-two at halftime.

The field house resembled the Cage in size, but had none of the atmosphere. It also had no crowd like the Cage, as only 3000 showed up for the game, which UMass won in the closing seconds.

After the game, Eldridge and Mike Pyatt went on the air with Strader and Bob Paquette on WMUA. Eldridge offered the quote of the trip when, in response to Strader's question concerning the fact that the Minutemen have games every other night this week, "Boob" replied, "I like it. You know me, I don't like to practice....."

The earliest flight back to Bradley wasn't till ten that night, so we were forced to sit around the hotel for a few hours. A lot of the players congregated in one room, watching TV and wrestling. Leaman, Town, and others watched golf in another room. We played whist against the formidable team of Strader and Chuck Steveskey, splitting two games. The bus for the airport was slated for 7:45 — we were ready at 7:15. In the lobby of the hotel, a woman stared at 6-9 Len Kohlhaas and exclaimed "You sure are tall."

Allegheny flight 378 to Bradley and Providence was a joke. Halfway home the plane started to jump a little, and soon we were bouncing all over. Bill Morrison and Brad Johnson suffered the most — Morrison had been sleeping soundly but soon both he and Johnson were on the verge of vomiting.

When the flight finally touched down, the players filed from the plane. Derick Claiborne told the remaining passengers to catch a bus to Providence. Later, waiting for the bus at the airport, Claiborne said "We're takin' a bus to Washington. No way I'm flying Allegheny again." The Minutemen play at George Washington later this month.

An hour later we pulled into the Whitmore parking lot. The team had been rewarded with a win for their efforts, and we all got to see something that we'll always cherish — Star City, West Virginia.

Downtown Pittsburgh at night. (Staff photo by Jay Saret)

Skiers picking up points

By MIKE WITOWSKI
Collegian Staff

To set the scene think of last weekend's weather; not only was it cold but it was a trifle windy, to put it mildly. The wind-chill factor was approximately thirty degrees below zero. This kind of weather is tough enough to just stand in, let alone ski down a mountain.

Yet seven college ski teams converged on Mount Snow in Vermont to brave the elements while competing in the Boston College Slalom race and the Northeastern University Giant Slalom meet. Among the schools competing was the University of Massachusetts.

Northeastern had won the previous weeks slalom held at the Dartmouth Skiiway in Lyme, New Hampshire and figured to be tough competition. Plymouth State lived up to its pre-race reputation and skied to a second place finish in both the slalom and giant slalom.

The slalom held on Saturday, saw Minuteman sophomore John Allard winning the individual contest, UMass came away with a 3 second team victory over second place Plymouth. UConn finished third, followed by Amherst College, Boston College, Northeastern and Boston University.

For the win, UMass received 6 points since they defeated every team in the event; that brought its season total to seventeen.

On Sunday, the giant slalom was held and again Allard and UMass sped to victory by a margin coach Bill MacConnell called, "A country mile." Actually the margin was some half a minute which in skiing is a sizeable gap.

John Allard is quite an amazing story considering he has suffered from an injured neck and arthritic condition for the past year. Allard cruised down the mountain in a time of 100:46 seconds to easily defeat the field. Coach MacConnell calls Allard, "A truly dedicated team skier."

"There's no question that we are benefitting from our January practices," said coach MacConnell. UMass placed four men in the top sixth of the contestants. Besides Allard, Jeff Daugherty finished third, Ted Crobak was sixth and Dale Maynard placed seventh. The time for the team was 553 seconds, a 33 second win.

The next meet for the Minutemen, who have 23 points to lead the league, is this weekend in New Hampshire, at Cannon Mountain.

UMass' John Allard heads for the finish line in a competition held last weekend. Allard finished 30 seconds ahead of the rest of the field.

Swimmers prep for NE's

As the season nears a close, the UMass women's swim team is preparing to put together its best performance against a tough Springfield team this Saturday 2:00 at NOPE.

Coach Eve Atkinson has the team going through hard practices and is using Saturday's meet as preparation for the New Englands Feb. 17. Against Springfield, Atkinson is stressing "good individual performances" but she is mainly concerned with having her swimmers taper and ready to put forth their best at the New Englands next week.

Timers are needed for the meet against Springfield and anyone interested should contact Eve Atkinson at 545-2845.

UMass Sports Scoop

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

VARSITY HOCKEY — Northeastern 11 UMass 1
MEN'S VARSITY SWIMMING — UMass 60 New Hampshire 53

TODAY

MEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL vs. Rutgers at Springfield Civic Center 8:00
WOMEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL vs. Brooklyn College at Springfield Civic Center 5:45

TOMORROW

VARSITY WRESTLING vs. Princeton Away 3:00
VARSITY HOCKEY vs. Bowdoin Away 8:00

university of massachusetts arts council
presents

Quartetto Italiano

The program will consist of QUARTET IN C MAJOR, OPUS 76, No. 3 ("Emperor") by Haydn, THREE PIECES FOR STRING QUARTET (1914) by Stravinsky, CONCERTINO FOR STRING QUARTET (1920) by Stravinsky and QUARTET IN D MINOR, D. 810 ("Death and the Maiden") by Schubert.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

Tickets now on sale! $5, 4, 3. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

POSITIONS OPEN

The Student Government is currently accepting applications for the position of

Director of Communications

and the position of

Affirmative Action Officer

Applicants should have some experience in their respective fields, and must be undergraduates. More information and application forms are available in the Student Senate Office, 420 Student Union.

The SGA is an Equal Opportunity Affirmative Action employer.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT
ASSOCIATION

Valentines Day Special

Gaze Into The Past, Present and Future
Have Your Fortune Read With Any Purchase
Or a Slight Charge
By Barbara Rushmore
Tarot Reader

Saturday, February 12 &
Monday, February 14
10 a.m.-6 p.m.

love at first sight
549-0700
Carriage Shops, Amherst

Spirit Haus Liquor Store
Open Daily till 11 p.m.
Amherst Largest Full Service Liquor Store

THIS WEEK'S SPECIALS

Old Milwaukee Beer 12 oz. cans $5.59
Tuborg Gold Beer 12 oz. cans $5.69
Pepe Lopez Tequilla $4.99 fifth
Christian Brothers Sherrys $2.10 fifth
Korbel's Pinot Noir Cabenet Sauvignon $2.89 fifth Inglenook Magnum Wines $3.69 two-fifth
Opici Lambrusco $1.49 fifth
Rhine Chablis Burgundy Vin Rose $5.99 gal.

WE BUY SILVER COINS
Many Other Unadvertised Specials.
Wine Browsers Welcome.

Large assortment of kegs
We have over 90 brands of imported beer
(Mix your own variety six pack)
338 College St. Rt. 9 Amherst 253-5384
Not responsible for typographical errors.

Aquamen stop losing skid

By MARK MARCHAND
Collegian Staff

In a contest that was decided by the last event, the UMass men's swim team edged New Hampshire last night by a 60-53 score. The meet went down to the wire, though, as the score was tied at 53 before the last event, the 400-yard freestyle relay. In it, UMass coach Bei Melamed entered Russ Yarworth, Fred Lombardi, Tom Bondaruk, and Ben Crooker who easily beat the UNH relay quartet in front of a screaming crowd at Boyden Pool with a time of 3:28.9.

"We should have locked it up earlier," lamented Melamed, who was seen to be sweating quite profusely midway through the meet when UNH sported a 17-point lead. "We had several good performances from some of our younger swimmers, including Justin Bradley in the 400-yard medley relay, Dan O'Malley in the 500-yard freestyle, Tom Bondaruk in the 400-yard medley and freestyle relays, and Harry Fulford in the 200-yard breaststroke," he added.

He went on to say that New Hampshire was continually getting better while UMass might not even be able to better last season's record.

The win boosted the Minutemen's mark to 3-4 and stopped their three-meet losing skid, while dropping the Wildcats to the same 3-4 mark.

Junior Russ Yarworth had an excellent night as he was a member of the winning 400-yard medley and freestyle relay teams and placed first in the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 2:10.2. Also, the Minutemen had three swimmers who won more than one event including diver Jim Antonino who easily bested his opponents in both the 1-meter and 3-meter diving events.

Another double winner was sophomore Dave Hoffman, who garnered first in the 1000-yard freestyle with a time of 11:25.3 and finished ahead of the pack in the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 5:32.6.

The final double winner was senior co-captain Ben Crooker, who was a member of the winning 400-yard freestyle relay team and trounced his opponents in the 200-yard freestyle at a 1:53.9 clip. It is interesting to note that Crooker swam that 200 yard freestyle immediately after competing in the grueling 1,000-yard freestyle event where he finished second to Minuteman Dave Hoffman.

Finally, ailing senior Dave Boucher paced the pack in the 200-yard breaststroke with a time of 2:22.9.

UMass has usually had an easy time with New Hampshire, but its program has taken a definite turn for the better and it can be expected to change the doormat image that it's held for the past few years.

The mermen's next action is on Saturday when they host New England powerhouse Vermont at 2 p.m. at Boyden Pool.

The gun goes off and the race is underway. It's all in a night's work for the UMass men's swim team. (Staff photo by Dale Griswold)

What Campus Group Co-sponsors the Heart Fund Walk?

Oven Bake Shop
Next to Spirit Haus
339 College St., Amherst
Tel. 256-0284

For Valentine's Day

Heart Shaped Whip Cream Cakes
Specially Decorated Layer Cakes
Cup Cakes & Cookies
Special After-Dinner Snacks

Pastry Beef Pies
Pastry Pork Pies
Eclairs & Brownies
Napoleans
Cookies
Cream Puffs
Pies
Coffee, Tea, Cocoa

THE SAMPLER
A collection of things sold in our store and delivered to your door.

STEREO COMPONENTS
SONY Receivers and Tape Recorders
MARANTZ Receivers and Amplifiers
SAE Separates NIKKO Receivers
JVC Receivers, Tape Decks, Turntables
SUPERSCOPE Amps, Receiver, Tape Decks

VIDEO, INDUSTRIAL AND HOME
ADVENT Video Beam (7 ft TV)
SONY Trinitron TV
SONY Betamax Home TV Recording System
JVC Color Television and B&W

Special This Week
Maxwell C-60 Low Noise Cassette Special Package $1.37 ea.

LOUDSPEAKERS
EPI
BURHOE
AR
MICRO ACCOUSTICS
OWN BRAND

TURNTABLES
BIC
THORENS
PHILIPS
GARRARD
BSR
KLH
JVC

ACCESSORIES
AKG Headphones
SENNHEISER
Magnetic Phono Cartridges and Stylii
By Almost Everybody
MAXELL
TDK
SCOTCH

Free Delivery on Campus
IN W. Mass. to N.Y., South to Hartford, Conn., North to Keene, N.H., East to Fenway Pk.

586-2552 TECH 549-2610
We fix anything we sell in our own service department.
259 Triangle Street, Amherst
Open 'til 9, Sat. 'til 5
master charge THE INTERBANK CARD
Your BANKAMERICARD welcome here

terri brogan
for the latest "eye-deas" in fashion frames...
Amherst Optical Shoppe
195 N. PLEASANT ST./256-6403

Hoopmen hoping to keep their good times a-rolling...

By RON ARENA
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's basketball team, with hopes of an upset and subsequent establishment as a team to be reckoned with in the ECBL, meets Rutgers University tonight in an 8:00 p.m. game at the Springfield Civic Center.

UMass enters the contest with a 12-7 record and winner of five of its last six games, while the Scarlet Knights boast a 13-6 mark. But it is not the won-loss records that set the two teams apart as much as it is the reputations of the two schools.

The Minutemen, with a 2-3 record in ECBL play, may perhaps be considered one of the lighter teams of the new league, whereas Rutgers, boosted by a fourth place finish in last year's NCAA championships, is regarded as a strong fort of the league.

But in the end, according to UMass coach Jack Leaman, neither the records nor the reputations will determine the outcome as much as the personnel.

"We're good enough to play with this team," Leaman said. "We just have to prove it to Rutgers and ourselves. We can't talk about it, we just have to do it," the coach added.

UMass will have to cope with a running starting five of Rutgers that has scored better than 82 prints per outing. Manning the running game is all-purpose guard Ed Jordan, who leads the squad in both scoring (19 ppg) and assists (7.8).

Teaming with Jordan in the backcourt will be Mark Conlin, while 6-6 Hollis Copeland (15.6 ppg), 6-7 Abdel Anderson (15.6), and 6-9 Jim Bailey, who leads the club in rebounding, form a quality front court.

Bailey, out of the Boston school system, and substitute Steve Hefele from Long Island, were both sought after by UMass, but opted for the New Jersey school.

Rutgers, as it did last season when it won 31 straight games before losing to Michigan in the semifinals of the NCAA tournament, relies on a torrid running game.

"They're maybe even a wee bit quicker than last year," Leaman said. "The key to this Rutgers team is a pressure defense and a transitional offense. They try to shoot before the other team gets down the court.

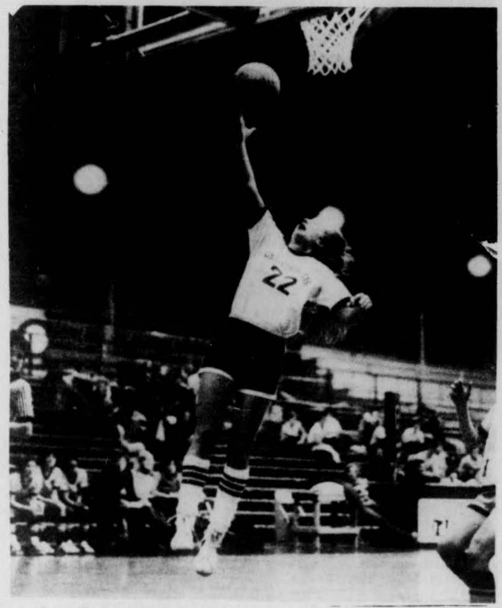
"If we try and run up and down the court with them, we just won't win," the coach said. "We have to play a steady game, and slow down the pace."

UMass and Rutgers have met five times in their history, with the Minutemen surprisingly holding a 3-2 margin in victories. But the schools have not met since the mid-60's. Both teams have upgraded their programs since then, and tonight's game could accurately measure just where UMass stands among ECBL competition.

Rutgers' most impressive showings this season have been a 59-54 win over Princeton, an 87-84 win against George Washington, and a one-point loss to Nevada-Las Vegas.

UMass will go with its standard starting five of Alex Eldridge and Derick Claiborne in the back courts, with Jim Town, Mike Pyatt, and Mark Donoghue up front.

Len Kohlhaas fights for a rebound against Harvard Tuesday night. But tonight he'll be battling big-time Rutgers. (Staff photo by Geof Cohler)



Sue Peters solos in for an easy two points. The Minutewomen are hoping to extend their winning streak to ten tonight. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

...while rimwomen gunning for tenth straight conquest

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

Please forgive the UMass women's basketball team if it does a double take when it walks onto the Springfield Civic Center court tonight at 5:45 to battle Brooklyn College.

You see, the parallels between the Minutewomen and their foe are almost too similar to be true.

Brooklyn, like UMass, is enjoying a fine season thus far. Its record was 15-3 entering last night's game against Lehman College. But one of Brooklyn's three losses was to Queens, and we all know what the Minutewomen did to that team.

The New York school is also a mirror image of UMass in the offense it employs. According to third-year coach Joyce Wong, Brooklyn likes to run-and-gun, à la the Minutewomen.

And gues why Brooklyn uses this type of attack? Simple. Just like UMass, it lacks height.

Brooklyn's two tallest players, centers Diane Gerona and Liz Aufderheide, stand 5'11". Wong reported that both split the pivot duties fairly evenly.

The big guns for Brooklyn are forward Nora Dupui, who averages 24 points per game, and guard Mary Cupo, who hits for an even 18 per outing.

OK, so that's the way Brooklyn shapes up. But what about the local yokels?

Coming off its ninth straight win, a 10-point, 87-77 triumph over Bridgewater State ("it was just a tremendous team effort" — UMass coach Mary Ann Ozdarski) the Minutewomen still have a couple of leftover problems to deal with.

Number one on the list is center Lu-Ann Fletcher. Physically, the junior is not 100 per cent. After twisting an ankle in practice Monday afternoon, Fletcher did manage to play a little less than half of Tuesday's win.

Her jumping ability was limited," Ozdarski said. "But Lu means so much to us in the lineup. Her mere presence on the court helps us."

The coach added that Fletcher should be back to her old self after a couple of days in a row of rest.

The other dilemma for UMass is forward-guard Jo Balletta. She did not travel with the team Tuesday for "personal reasons."

"She might or might not be with us against Brooklyn," Ozdarski said of her sixth-player.

Bill Edelstein

A cure worse than the illness

After last week's meeting of the UMass Board of Trustees, which resulted in the rebundant prophecy of a rink-less UMass-Amherst, one can easily see that the time for debate is over.

Sure, one can single out politicians as the leading cause of terminal rinklessness — indeed, my colleague, Nick Kotsopoulos, chose this route — but if we are ever to see any kind of new athletic facility built on this campus, the development of a coordinated strategy is imperative.

The intricacies of such a plan simply cannot be left to the administration of this university. Indeed, the only answer to this dilemma is for UMass athletes and their respective teams to go on an austerity binge that will dwarf Snow White.

The following are just a few of the many solutions which could produce, on this very campus, a veritable flood of rinks.

—At the present time, athletic scholarships are being given to the wrong people. You can't give money to a gymnast and expect a sports complex as a result. Scholarships must only be awarded to gifted building contractors.

—Not only have oil and gas prices skyrocketed, rates on all natural resources have spiraled out of sight. This, unfortunately, also holds true for water rates. Both swim teams will have to end their frivolous use of the moist medium. As a substitute, all campus pools will be filled with low-calorie lime jello.

—Too many university coaches are giving unsolicited halftime speeches. To bring in much-needed advertising revenue, all pep-talks will be sponsored by local merchants.

—Traveling is expensive, and road games mean traveling. Many UMass teams make wasteful trips to such faraway places as Pittsburgh and Orono. Such blatant traipsing about the country has got to stop! What with the resurgence of intramurals and the quality teams at Amherst Regional Junior High School, there is plenty of good competition right here in the Pioneer Valley.

—Dick MacPherson should advise all running backs that following the flow of the play is a no-no. If any runner finds himself picking up blockers, he must immediately make a cutback.

—Certain teams around campus have overlapping equipment needs, yet each club is given its own supplies. Very wasteful. Hereafter, baseball bats will be used by the golf team. Conversely, the pitchers mound will be a sand trap.

—There are some equipment expenses that the athletic department can eliminate altogether. For instance, a particular team (which will remain nameless) has a lot of money tied up in wrestling mats. These mats are unnecessary. This club could just as easily hold its matches on the plush carpeting of President Wood's 1 Washington Maul office.

—The ski teams are also guilty of misuse of funds by foolishly frittering-away their monetary resources on lift tickets at Berkshire East. All future ski competitions will henceforth be held from the summit of Orchard Hill.

—There are many silly little frills that the athletic department stolidly refuses to eliminate. For instance, most teams are supplied with shower facilities. Not only does this waste precious water, its maintenance creates prohibitive plumbing costs. All this money literally goes down the drain, and for what purpose? The athlete is only going to sweat again and need another shower.

—Alas, sportswriters, too, are spendthrifts at a time when this university needs austerity most. You can always catch a writer sticking his nose where it shouldn't be, and then putting in his two-cents worth. Henceforth, all sportswriters will be limited to one-cents worth.

Puckmen pounded by Northeastern, 11-1

By FRAN SYPEK
Collegian Staff

BOSTON — Maybe Northeastern wanted to pick on somebody after losing, 10-5, to Boston University in the Beanpot tourney opener.

Maybe the UMass hockey team just can't beat Division I hockey teams.

Maybe the Minutemen shouldn't schedule them anymore.

In any event, the puckmen's two-year jinx against the 'big boys' held again last night, as the Huskies shellacked UMass, 11-1, here at the Boston Arena before a sparse crowd.

There really isn't too much to say about a loss of this magnitude, except that it dropped the Minutemen's record to 6-8-1 on the season and that it marked Northeastern's first win against a Division II team in four tries this year.

Mark Derby scored the three-goal hat trick for the Huskies, while Scott Gruhl, Mark Coates, and Wayne Turner each bagged two goals. Bob France and Mike Holmes added singletons to the Northeastern onslaught.

Mike Merchant scored the lone Minuteman goal. He was assisted by Carl Burns and Nick Carney and it came in the first period and cut the Northeastern lead to 4-1.

The hosts grabbed a quick 6-1 lead after the first period, extended it to 8-1 after the second, and added three more goals in the third period to heap insult upon injury to the UMass icemen.

Dana Redmond and John Riley split the UMass goaltending chores. Redmond played the first two periods and faced 27 Huskie shots. Riley, meanwhile, came on in the third stanza to be slapped with 21 shots.

The Minutemen travel to Maine this weekend for their bi-annual weekend trip against Colby and Bowdoin. Both of those teams, by the way, beat Northeastern this season.

UMass will be hoping to improve upon its 6-6-1 Division II record.

Below The Salt
weekly fine arts magazine
Volume V
Issue 3
2-10-77

SUGAR FREE SALT

natural additive to the Collegian

Below The Salt

D. Schafer photo

IT'S THE REAL THING

Poetry

Haven't many of us squinted like moles in the snowy glare, and felt our chapped, windburned skin being razorslashed by the icy wind?

noon2night

candle-light castshadowsexposed breastsway penduleously armstretch bedsway u cum2mee
wee stretch mouth2wet mouth glowsoft bright

lipsmile redilation unnumbird kisses prune flesh
blushedin affirmation noon cumsin knight

—Dean Mosley

Winter

Ice coated trees crack in the wind
A bear bone in a trap

The field mice have been tunneling mazes
Amazing mazes magnificent mice

The winter sun turns me to a mole
Before my eyes adjust

I watched a single snowflake
Parachute and melt in my eye

Think the dead regroup in winter

No longer an imp
A full grown devil
Slicing my body
Barbed wire suit
Winter kills me
Every year

—Christopher Brennan

Below the Salt
Again at Fault

An Apology

RE: "Frozen Souls"

Local poet fades from fame,

Below the Salt must take the blame.

Next week we'll probably do the same,

Our apologies to good ole what's-her-name.

(Diane Quigley is the artist in question).

—E. Patrick McQuaid

In the meadows of happiness and contentment,
we walked together and picked our favorite flower.
Strolling through laughter and joy,
we came together and shared our warmth.
Falling in a garden of beauty and innocence,
we held each other and communicated our love.
Filled with the fruits of our mutual meanings,
we have found a gentler peace and tranquility
in the valley of our emotions.

—Diane Quigley

Below The Salt
weekly fine arts magazine
Volume V Issue 3

EDITOR
Mark A. Leccese

ASSISTANT EDITOR
E. Patrick McQuaid

ASSISTANT EDITOR
Debbie Schafer

THE SALT MINDS:

MUSIC David Santos
Jack Cahill
THEATRE James F. Sawyer
DANCE Leila Bruno
POETRY John Zieman
FOOD Alice E. Horner
DINING Lauren Traub

TAKE HOME A HALF-GALLON OF OUR FAMOUS ICE CREAM TODAY!

Egg-stra-special thanks to Alice who thumbed at dawn and braved the cold stalking the wild homefry

Fabric Sale
all wools all Velveteen and all sewing baskets, felt kits & Clauss Scissors
20% off
50% off
also Reduced for Clearance Laura Ashley Prints, all flannel, all corduroy + many, many Remnants natural textiles
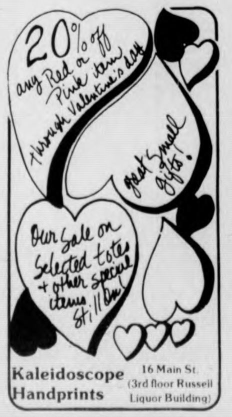
228 triangle st., amherst
hours 10-6, mon-sat
549-3853

The Pleasant St. Theater
The Finest in Foreign and Revival Film.

Two Documentary Events
The first Massachusetts showings of Frederick Wiseman's banned film
Titicut Follies
Feb. 14 & 15
at 2:30 & 4:30

Martha Coolidge's
Not a Pretty Picture
"Hits the target which Lipstick misses" — Ms. Magazine
and
Old Fashioned Women
Personal appearance by Martha Coolidge after the first showing Wed. evening.
Mon. & Wed. Evenings
at 7 & 9:30

27 Pleasant St./Northampton 586-0935



20% off any Red or Pink item through Valentine's day
great small gifts!
Our Sale on Selected totes + other special items Still On!
Kaleidoscope Handprints
16 Main St.
(3rd floor Russell Liquor Building)

CARIBBEAN FIELD TRIP

Spend Spring Break in Carta, Gena, Columbia

on an escorted field trip sponsored by the Hotel, Restaurant, and Travel Administration Department.

INCLUDES:
1 credit (HRTA 386), for those who qualify.
7 nights — 8 days (3-19 - 3-26)
Air—Ground transit, Hotels
Meals excluded
All for $313.00

ACTIVITIES:
Recreation
Sightseeing
Tourism Seminars by Local Officials
Reasonable Free Time

For details and registration
call HRTA 545-1389

Mountain Farms Mall
Valentine's Day
Portraits
$2.49
Sat., Feb. 12
12:30 p.m.-7:30 p.m.

CALVIN
Northampton 584-2310
NOW . . . thru TUES.
LED ZEPPELIN
"THE SONG REMAINS THE SAME"
Weeknites 7, 9:20
Sat., Sun. 4:40, 7, 9:20
Sat., Sun. Dollar Hour til 6 p.m.
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

Where are people eating these days; those who can afford to eat out? We asked around and came up with a weekend-gourmet's menu as prismatic as stately Lord Jeffs and "predictable" McDonald's. Our bill-o-fare is a choice selection of characters whose daily routine in some way involves food or "dining out" more extensively than the average person. We asked them to name their top three restaurants within the Amherst-Northampton area and to relate their worst dining out experience. While on the subject of food we also collected opinions on the current coffee situation, the boycott in particular.

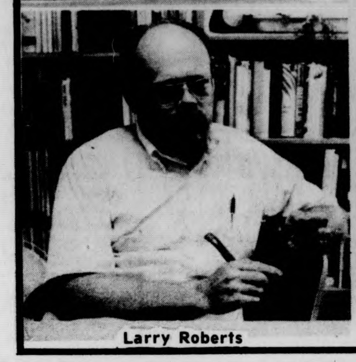
Abalone in the Rockies

"Of course I've had plenty of times, pre-1964, when whether the food was good or bad I never knew; they wouldn't even serve me ... So, I'll tell you, the worst experience I've had in dining was going into a place that I thought had come into the Twentieth Century and they refused to serve me ... in fact, refused to serve me and my whole family ..."

Randolph Bromery

EATS

EATS



Larry Roberts

Art Warren

D. Schafer photos

Conclusions? We leave it up to you but we have arrived at one absolute: you can afford to eat out, somewhere. If you can afford to dine out you can afford to eat the best.

By E. Patrick McQuaid

I was warned not to drink the water. I was warned several times over. I was warned by those who knew and by those who had not known better. My stories can not compare with those of my friend, however, who spent several weeks camped in the middle of the Sahara Desert photographing and eclipse for National Geographic. From what he has told me he may as well have drank the water too... but to get on with it, I drank the water. But I do believe that it was what I was trying to wash down that caused all the trouble; an abhorrent, jaundice colored hot dog, slit and shaped to fit inside a hamburger bun. It was called a Wimpy Burger and it costs me three days in London including a visit to the British Museum and opening night theatre tickets.

"AT my age," Chancellor Randolph Bromery tells me, "I've had so many bad dining-out experiences, I'd really have to think about which one was the worst... I've eaten some strange things! You must remember that I've spent something like nine weeks in the bush in West Africa and you don't get too skiddish about a fly in your soup after that."

Preston Gralla, Valley Advocate reporter, recalls with some humor his worst dining-out experience: "I was traveling in Mexico and I didn't speak Spanish very well, but I did speak some. I was in a little town... can't remember what town it was... but it was little. Some waitress came out; there was no menu, she just told you what they had. She said quite a few that I didn't understand so I just picked one out of my head... She came out... with this plate... of fat! Now, apparently in that part of Mexico they liked fat better than meat. I stared at it. When you go to a restaurant more than once in a small place like that they get to know your face and I didn't want to offend the people.

"A wandering beggar woman came by. She usually came around to various tables with a bag and I gave her the whole plate of fat. It was probably the best meal she had that day. She just freaked out when I poured it all into her bag!"

The director of University Food Services, Art Warren, lamented over the time he and some friends met for dinner one night. "It was a local dinner spot. A friend started to eat before we did... he passed out." Warren paused, then continued: "... The ambulance took him away. They said it was 'something he ate'... I didn't eat my meal. I've only been back there once... for a drink."

Not everyone has had such devastating experiences. Chris Kertesz, Hampshire Gazette news editor, remembers the time he and some special friends drove down to Holyoke for dinner at the Log Cabin.

"Several of us ordered their prime ribs of beef... au jus," he stressed. "That means with the nice juice from the cooking of the beef. It came, reeking of beef bouillon... It must have turned my stomach. A ver-ry saddening experience. I must say I haven't been back there."

Kertesz works in Northampton every day and has a chance to sample several of the local lunch spots. He enjoys French food on occasion and takes in Beardsley's from time to time.

"Though I haven't eaten there extensively when I have I've been very happy with it... the soups and salads in particular; I generally go there for lunch.

"I'm not a big fan of restaurants around here," he continued, "... Alexanders! Yes, Alexanders in Florence. Very straight forward, homey, friendly, ample servings... of everything! Not fancy but very good... very moderately priced.

"Do you consider McDonald's a restaurant? It's on my list. I'm going out to lunch with the kids there. Absolutely predictable, same prices every time, and ver-ry tasty."

Dr. Fergus Clysdale, professor of nutrition and food science at the University singled out the Jolly Bull for its salads and soups, "the Goten, and the Steak Out for lunch. I'm not too sure," he stated, "that there's a good dinner place in the Amherst area. I do take in these restaurants for lunch but I usually 'brown bag it' on most days... Oh, Fitzwilly's in Northampton... goood sandwitches, soups... very good sandwitches. I took my graduate class there once. Yes, very good for lunch.

"I think the worst experience I've had," he continued, "it was a place I ate at in California. It was a seafood casserole. There was some question as to whether the seafood was actually an insect. The end result was a sort of mucus thing anyway. It was pretty terrible."

Larry Roberts is the president of the Massachusetts Society of Professors (MSP). If you've been following the headlines recently you've seen his name quite a bit. Today it will be decided whether or not the MSP is voted in as the liaison agent between the faculty and the University. Should the MSP be voted in today, where, I inquired, do you intend to celebrate?

"Well," he began, "the answer is probably that I'll be on my way back from Boston and I probably won't dine out. However... I do like the Grist Mill... Hotel Northampton; Wiggin's that is. Frequency wise I eat quite a bit at the Lord Jeff.

"I remember one thing that really sticks out in my mind. I was in Denver and I ordered Abalone... that's a mollusk that grows on the West Coast. Well, on the West Coast they prepare it deliciously... it's a gastronomical delight!

"Well...Abalone in the Rockies...it was miserable."

"For lunch...the Pub," Art Warren tells us. "Very good lunches...lousy dinners, but good soups, salads...very good lunches...Dinner; Bill's Restaurant up in Greenfield. Not very impressive but good food...and not high priced...Let's see...Portofino's...ver-ry good, yes, Portofino's.

Portofino's showed up on several lists. Chancellor Bromery likes Portofino's as well as Lord Jeff's, the Rusty Scupper, Wiggin's, and Jack August's in Northampton.

"Three restaurants;" Preston Gralla hesitated. "Boy, I'm scored of offending anyone...

I'll tell you where I eat the most which is different than the best... the Equinox and the Soup Kitchen in Northampton... Let's see... if I was taking my parents out... I suppose the Lord Jeff."

We needn't get into a lengthy discussion of the coffee boycott. Almost everyone interviewed agreed that it was good to cut down on coffee consumption anyway but that this boycott might not be the answer to the American consumer's economic woes. Some said that they shop around for coffee bargains more than they used to; others stated that they always did enjoy a really good cup of tea. Still others insisted that coffee prices would have to go a lot higher before they'd surrender their morning cup. Art Warren tells us that coffee consumption has not decreased at either the dining halls or at the campus coffee shops.

"I've been getting a lot more calls from tea salesmen... trying to promo the students and using the coffee boycott to their benefit. The customer's aren't buying it..."

Fergus Clysdale concludes that 30 to 35 cents is too much to pay "for labor" when you buy a cup of coffee at a restaurant. "Even at four dollars a pound, coffee is still a nickel a cup at home."

The Pleasant St. Theater
The Finest in Foreign and Revival Film.

Pleasant St. Theater

THURS.-SUNDAY
at 7 and 9:15
Feb. 10-13
Garbo in
Camille

SAT. and SUN. Matinees
Sat. at 1:00 p.m. & 3:15
Sun. at 1 p.m. only
Gunga Din

SHERLOCK JR.
and
Long Pants
with live organ accompaniment
3:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 13

27 Pleasant St./Northampton 586-0935

Progressive Film Series

Feb. 3 — Salt of the Earth
Feb. 10 — Modern Times*
Feb. 17 — The History Book
Feb. 24 — Malcolm X Speaks
Malcolm X: Struggle for Freedom

March 3 — Burn!
March 10 — Blow for Blow
March 17 — Underground*
March 31 — Angola: The Second War
Last Grave at Dimbaza

April 7 — Attica
April 14 — Sacco and Vanzetti
April 21 — State of Seige
April 28 — City at Dawn — Saigon after Liberation

May 5 — Puerto Rico
May 12 — Hearts and Minds*

All films will play in Herter 231, except for those with an (*) which will play in the Student Union Ballroom. Admission is $1.00 at all the films. Films will play at 8:00 p.m. and 10:00 p.m. except for History Book which will play at 7:30 and 10:00.

SEASONS TICKETS are available for $7.00 in S.U. 404 or at the films.

We Scored!
Now YOU Can Score!

SHIRTS $1.99!

These shirts are factory returns that originally sold for between $8.00 and $19.00. We have checked them carefully and they are in excellent condiiton. A BEST BUY.

Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
Open 9:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.

Impress people! Wear shirts!

Sooner or later
SPECTRUM
(honest!)

An epic drama of adventure and exploration!

MGM presents a STANLEY KUBRICK PRODUCTION
2001 a space odyssey
SUPER PANAVISION® · METROCOLOR
Sat Feb. 12
6:30, 9, 11:30
C.C.A. Admission $1.00

WORK/STUDY

Interesting Work—Study Jobs available in the Student Senate Office and the SGA Office of Communications.

Applications are available in the Senate Office, 420 S.U.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Who runs
Las Vegas
Night?

THE BIGGEST
little market in the area
Welcomes college students.
Fresh quality meats — Seafood — Lobsters, Steaming Clams, Scallops — Deli Counter — Beer and Wine.
John & Rudy's
Supermarket
Jct. Rtes. 116 & 47, Sunderland
Open till 8 Fridays 665-2010

Appearing
Wed. & Thurs.
Jonathan
Edwards
at
The rusty nail Inn
Rte. 47, Sunderland
665-4937

BOOKS

TO START A NEW CIVILIZATION
by Max Hermann
Phoenix Publications
263 pps.... $4.95

by Charles Sackrey

This is a peculiar book and for reasons which make critical comment about it difficult. Its purpose is nothing short of developing the ideology for a "new civilization." Moreover, since some of the more incredible practical implications of this new ideology are also included, the reviewer is necessarily pushed to brief summary and ever briefer comment. And, given that disclaimer, let me push on.

Hermann's judgment about contemporary civilization is straightforward: it is decaying, has lived out its natural life, and it needs to be supplanted with a different one. Now, in the Hermann scheme, at the pinnacle of every civilization as its predominant energy is "ideology," defined by him as the prevailing set of shared truths, half truths and myths which fuse the social order. He argues, therefore, that to solve our many problems, we need to dissect, as it were, the prevailing American ideology. We need to expose its mainsprings, reveal the shortcomings of parts based on intellectual or priestly "smokescreening" (or other similar errors), forging always toward a new, higher ideology more consistent with contemporary realities.

In attempting to do all this, Hermann has worked for ten years, and no wonder: to make his case, he has amassed supporting evidence from virtually every kind of human knowledge: ancient and modern, eastern and western, ranging from technical questions of epistemology to astrology, clairvoyance and other forms of psychism. Thus, in these pages, one can go from a strident attack on Hume's theory of causality to an astrological interpretation of world history. Combined with the scope of his knowledge, Hermann is energized in his efforts by the (probably) singular responsibility he has placed upon himself. As he puts it in the Preface:

> "A complete refurbishing of ideology, this is what I am trying to produce. Apparently it can be done now. Probably it could not have been previously." (p. 41)

Here is how he tries to do it: According to Hermann, prevailing American ideology is based on theology and theories of nature and society which were either wrong when initially conceived, or are presently outdated. We have been and are being misled by the

> "...whole structure of Gospel promises, whether for this life or the next, theologian smokescreens, eighteenth-century hedonism,... nineteeth-century Epicureanism, and revolutionary slogans (which) must be unwound. Man's true nature must be recognized. Dreams must yield to reality, and the universe's inner workings laid bare as far as possible." (p. 118) egregiously wrong about our faulty ideology is that American rulers, under the influence of misguided intellectuals, have constructed a social system which increasingly panders to the needs of an unworthy underclass. Furthermore, in Hermann's thesis (and comprising its organizing principle), is the assumption that this underclass has not been driven to penury by a demonic upperclass, nor by a capitalist system which tramples the unlucky, unlettered, or late arrivals. Why, then, is the underclass down under?

Hermann's answer to this question is an unusual one, to put it mildly. According to him, each of us is either newly incarnated in our first human life, or is a reincarnation from one or more previous human lives. Also, the further down the line in our reincarnational history, the more likely it is that we'll have developed our soul relative to our carnal body. In summarizing the thought of Johannes Greber, one of the principal witnesses to Hermann's views on reincarnation, Hermann suggests that:

THE UN
ONE
1
ONE
1
ON

> "...there are inherently substantial differences between humans. Some have many incarnations behind them. Some, indeed, have many several successful ones to build on. Others are relative newcomers, who have recently graduated from the animal kingdom. Others still, while perhaps 'old souls', have not learned their lessons. Like unintelligent and troublesome children in a performance-oriented school, they have repeated the same elementary classes over and again, without having made much progress in useful directions." (p. 118)

Of course, assuming that there is reincarnation, and assuming Hermann's interpretation of how it works these days, one conclusion thunders from the midst of all this: most of those on top are there because of their more highly developed souls, and those on bottom are there because they haven't travelled life's roads often enough.

Hermann recognized that some of those currently on top are "crooked"; but, he blames their ascendance on a system of justice based on false notions of equality: in the new civilization, those atop the mess will be there by dint of the superiority of their soul development. In any event, Hermann provides a sometimes impressive and always vigorous attack on all ideas inconsistent with his understanding of reincarnation or with other aspects of his system. Much of that attack is good reading: it is often informative, is always intense and honest, and it is the strongest part of the book.

Not so dazzling, however, are the political implications that Hermann draws from his new ideology. To begin with, the new civilization will be based on free enterprise and will have an aristocratic political system. And, at least in the short run, its leaders will implement adequate force and electronic surveillance to keep the unelightened in their natural place. Let me allow Mr. Hermann to speak for himself about his great society:

On the natural aristocracy:

"The ideal society, being a reflection of cosmic laws and human nature, is an aristocratic one. In it, some citizens are recognized as being superior to others, not only in their responsibilities and functions, but as persons...Society...must place advanced souls in higher office." (p. 220)

On the desirability of free enterprise: "The free-enterprise society, modified as dictated by statesmanship...constitutes the best school for individual souls." (208)

(This assumption about soul schooling, if true, might explain the actions of many contemporary corporate executives: in addition to becoming managerial geniuses, their (apparently) many previous lives have sharpened their capitalist souls in the skill of plundering with great success the pocketbooks of the rest of us. Unfortunately, many of us are yet too underdeveloped to realize how appreciative we should be of their efforts).

On some further details of the new order:

"Labor unions have too much power, which they regularly abuse: Conclusion: they must be weakened or abolished." (197)

"In a competition between truth and untruth, the former does not generally win unless supported by society as a whole...Conclusion: freedom of expression should be prevented from degenerating into deliberate mendacity." (197)

AMERICA
ONE
1
1974
ONE
1

"Intellectuals tend to be carried away by false prophets. Conclusion: academic authorities beware." (198)

"The elective dictatorship presents considerable advantages over other forms of governments, provided it is coupled together with suitable ideology." (199) Additionally, "Granted that Western Civilizations' legislative assemblies have enacted unstatesmanlike legislation designed to strengthen rank-and-filed citizens in relation to their natural masters, such legislation should in many cases be repealed or reversed. The hands of teachers, police officers, military officers, decent employers, and decent urban landlords, ought to be strengthened..." (p. 222)

Finally, to glue the transition between the old and the new civilizations, there is the following suggestion:

> "It may be possible to supplement electronic crime detection with clairvoyance and other forms of psychism. This has apparently been done in the past. If possible, there is every reason for doing it in the future...Speaking of electronic detection devices, how long should they be practiced on a GRAND scale?
>
> Until major crime and corruption have been eliminated, and until people in general have learned to deal fairly and sincerely with each other as a matter of course. Given a proper ideology, this should not take very many years." (223) emphasis added.

What can one say about all this? Particularly one, like myself, for whom the sprawling, bloody evolution toward egalitarian societies is among the most triumphant urges of western people.

Actually, I don't feel particularly compelled, to argue with Hermann's blueprint for the coming American horror show: fortunately for us all, he's a very bad prophet. American society, however chaotic it often seems to be, does not, in my judgment, provide the appropriate culture in which Hermann's bug might grow. For better or for worse, and for what it's worth, Americans are more likely — these days — to be swayed by the new ideology implied, for example, by Alex Haley's ROOTS, than by a prescription for social planning which clearly implies that most American black people — and others in the lower income classes — need to wait for another reincarnation before they can enjoy their freedom.

The egalitarian impulse in America — having only recently joined ethnic and racial minorities with women and homosexuals in the pursuit of similar goals — has yet to run much of its course. Thus, Hermann, and others, whose embodied fantasies would seek to stop this inevitable redistribution of wealth and power, are (for a while, anyway) barking up the wrong tree. We can, I think, thank each other for that fact.

In sum, then: this book is interesting, demanding, exasperating, and, to this reviewer, sometimes appallingly wrongheaded. Nonetheless, Hermann has taken upon himself the duty of instructing us about the dimensions of a new ideology, which, in his terms must replace our current one. And, I guess, his book carries with it all the goods and bads which one might expect from such a noble and arrogant undertaking.

Charles Sackrey is a visiting professor of Economics and is teaching Economics here at the University this semester.

FILM

A Family Without Heroes

by Scott Haas

The Clockmaker is a simple, patient, and beautiful film about a search for genuine values and order. It stars Philippe Noiret as Descombes, the clockmaker, and is directed by the French critic-turned-director Bernard Tavernier.

All films that concern themselves with ideas are in a sense about a search for genuine values and order. The Clockmaker is so strikingly different for its care and depth. The plot is simple. The son of a clockmaker in Lyons kills a factory owner, eludes the police, and then is caught and sentenced. What makes this so evocative is not the action, but the moods and quiet conflicts between individuals. Tavernier has captured that which is left unsaid. Stunning are the gaps in conversation between Descombes and his son, the comparison of that son and the police chief's radical ne'er do well child, and the cityscape and how it is part of their lives. All this is gradually revealed, without haste and carelessness.

I said that the film is about a family without heroes. When a journalist discusses a great uncle of Descombes, saying that he must have been a great family hero since he was arrested for making illegal matches, Descombes shrugs the incident off with, "The family has no heroes." Yet, he and his son are heroes. They refuse compromise. They are decent and good men. What makes it difficult for them to believe this is the fact that everyone condemns then, no one understands the ties they share, the peasant aristocracy they possess. Both are proud and misunderstood.

The film often compares Descombes' idea of life with that of the police chief's. The officer is always seen eating, striving to be polite and official, and worrying about the radical leanings of his son. Descombes is much quieter, more thoughtful, eager to repair that with which we measure our lives.

For the most part, The Clockmaker is a highly successful film. It shows signs of failure when Descombes ponders along the avenues and nothing is spoken. Or when the relationship between the police chief and his son is left underdeveloped. But the film is so stunning for its other important silences, that these failures do not harm it very much. Indeed, it is amazing to consider that this is Tavernier's first film! His understanding of background and solitude is beautifully captured on film.

The Clockmaker played last week at the Amherst Cinema and may soon be back in the area. Highly recommended viewing.

RAHAR'S
FOOD DRINK LODGING
Fri. & Sat.
Feb. 11 & 12
John Little Paw
VISIT OUR GAME ROOM
7 Old South St., Northampton
Across from Peter Pan Bus Terminal
OPEN
11-1 DAILY — 12-1 SUNDAY

Hallmark
Cards

Monday is Valentine's Day
Sunday is your last chance to shop our complete selection of Valentine cards and gifts. Don't forget!
1976 Hallmark Cards, Inc.
A. J. Hastings
45 S. Pleasant St.
Amherst

Attention
SUN MUSIC
continues its long standing tradition of low prices for the music connoisseur with the following:

1) New releases for only 3.98 including the New Fat, Leon Redbone, Taj Mahal albums.
2) New 7.98 list Pink Floyd album for just 4.98.
3) Reduced prices on a multitude of used albums to $1 or less.
4) By keeping our regular $4.38 retail price on $6.98 list albums in the face of mounting economic pressure.

Mon. thru Sat 10-6
Fri. 10-9
9 E. Pleasant 549-2830

PAPER

LAMP SHADES
Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
Open 9:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.

Poor Richards
THURSDAY
White Lightning Nite
All Gin, Rum, Vodka & Tequeila 85c

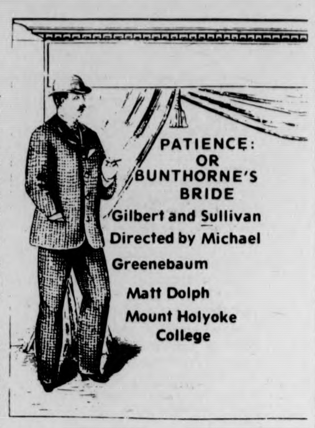
AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST 253-5426
NOW NOW
FRANCOIS TRUFFAUT'S
THE BRIDE WORE BLACK with Jeannie Moreau
AND
MISSISSIPPI MERMAID with Catherine Deneuve & Jean-Paul Belmondo
Eves: Mermaid 7:00, Bride Wore Black 9:00
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

university of massachusetts arts council
S. HUROK presents
CANADA'S ROYAL WINNIPEG BALLET
FRI. & SAT., FEB. 11 & 12 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets on sale Jan. 28, $6, 5, 4. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

film workshop:
RACISM
Can a white person understand and emphathize with a black person's daily experience in a majority white society?
How does a white ethnic relate to American society?
These questions form the basis of a workshop on RACISM AND PREJUDICE.
featuring
SATURDAY, FEB. 12
"Black Like Me"
introduced by
Dr. Julius Lester, Prof. AFRO-AM Studies, UMass.
SUNDAY, FEB. 13
"Gentlemen's Agreement"
introduced by
Dr. David Wyman, Prof. History, UM
Hampden D.C. 3:30 p.m. Feb. 12, 13
Sponsored by: Patterson Dorm, Hillel, Center for Interdisciplinary Studies, S W Assembly, Center for Racial Understanding, Residence Arts Series, Resources Judaica

Perseverants

by David Ambos



PATIENCE: OR BUNTHORNE'S BRIDE
Gilbert and Sullivan
Directed by Michael Greenebaum
Matt Dolph
Mount Holyoke College

The brief appearance of the delightful duo, Gilbert and Sullivan, the writers of a dozen or so of the best loved of all comic operas, was without doubt welcomed by G&S fans in the valley who attended the enjoyable performance at Mount Holyoke College. There are generous performances, and munificent voices, and parsimonious direction by Mr. Dolph. But here, the lyric opulence and melodious charm of the opera overpower any faults of the production.

Mr. Dolph's sowing hand touches the opera here and there; his staging, uncultivated, but in evidence, his directions alighting like dandelion seeds in each scene, but in floral operatic spottiness. Mr. Greenebaum's Godfreyesque musical direction inspires his quiet but efficient orchestra to play the score, and almost in tune. It's the obstinate strings who refuse to be musical conformists and play the same notes as everybody else.

Still, there are beautiful voices, and wonderful music, and the ear is well-fed and sated. It is the eye that suffers some indigestion at this performance. The program is a replica of the original program of the opera's first run, and we might suppose that the production is patterned after the original also. Theorizing thus, a fascinating new fact comes to light; the D'Oyly Carte family has been afflicted with congenital color blindness lo these hundred years.

Yet, there are the songs and the performances. The cast really is excellent vocally. The chorus of rapturous female Raphaels were angelic and ecstatic. The heavy dragoons on the other hand, had a tendency to charge heedlessly through some of their numbers; on more than one occasion they were chorally hors de combat, lacking a troop captain or unit cohesion. This explains the colors in costumes and lighting seen in the Mount Holyoke production. After dumpster green and flamingo pink have done fighting it out on stage, your retinas are declared the losers.

There were some fine performances. Paul Rosenthal as Reginald Bunthorne was a lively, poetical pixie, and his rival Archibald Grosvenor was an admirable ass of an Adonais. Roger Pines was an aristocratic Duke of Dunstable, and Marc Mallon was boyish and likable as Major Murgatroyd. The singing among the males was uniformly good, with the exception of Mr. Kane's Colonel Calverley, whose songs were all but unintelligible.

Miss Margaret Vernon possesses one of the most beautiful voices I have ever heard, and so I could have patience with her acting. Miss Vernon was possibly not perceptive enough to be dull, or witty enough to be witless, and so her Patience came out a little like Marian Paroo as played by Florence Henderson. Miss Marylee Handshaw was unfriendly to her fellow actors, and quite territorial about the stage. Duets and dialogue with Lady Angela were thus dainty contests. However, Anita Ericson's Lady Jane was "massive" and magnificent, Jennifer Pigg as the Lady Saphir sparkling, and the beautiful voices of all of the maidens were appropriately rapturous.

Possibly more and tighter direction would have filled in some of the holes in the production and made some of the blocking less surprising to the actors. Possibly in their next production of Gilbert and Sullivan. For I will look forward to seeing more of these wonderful, witty comic opera romances done on the musical stages in the valley.

Stage Fright

by Mark Leccese

A play about two college drama students, written and directed by a college drama student, performed by student actors for an audience of college students in a small college theatre has a good chance of going over well, even if it isn't very good. Everyone is at least familiar with the subject matter.

But Drying Up, written and directed by Jeffrey Deutsch, an Amherst senior, was very good. Deutsch has written a very clever, intelligent and surprisingly tender play about a pair of college drama students, John and Diana, who live together, act together and share the same dreams and sufferings.

Deutsch incorporated some witty satires of plays into the course of the two students' careers, which called for the actors to not only act like students, but to act like students' acting.

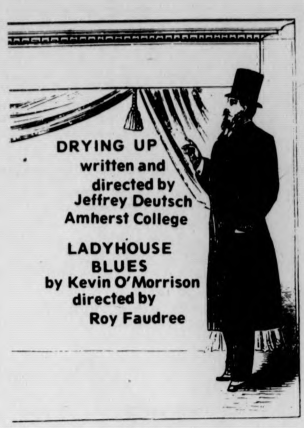
Diana, played by Kit Liset, is a driven, aspiring actress who neurotically tries to live in her off-stage life, the parts she most wants to play on-stage. Her refusal to face reality as anyone other than a series of characters she would like to play or has played puts a strain on her relationship with John, played by Christopher Wells, who even through his disappointments tries to keep his hopes up.

Both Kit Liset and Christopher Wells did fine jobs with the difficult, emotional characters of Diana and John. A two-character play calls for strong portrayals and well-developed characterizations, which Liset and Wells delivered.

The strongest part of the production was undoubtedly Deutsch's original script. The play satires were amusing, the characters full and real, and, most importantly, the dialogue was fluid and realistic without ever getting boring. Deutsch balanced very well the distinction between writing dialogue and letting dialogue write itself.

Drying Up was a very good production of a very good play. We can probably look forward to hearing more from and about Jeffrey Deutsch in the future.

Valentine Cards
a great selection
American Greetings
The very special way to remember . . .
The University Store
Campus Center M - F 9am-5pm Sat 11am - 4pm



DRYING UP
written and directed by Jeffrey Deutsch
Amherst College

LADYHOUSE BLUES
by Kevin O'Morrison
directed by Roy Faudree

Downbeaten Blues

by Paris Finley

One of the problems inherent in student productions is the brief duration of the run. In the case of Ladyhouse Blues presented at Smith College's Hallie Flanagan Studio Theatre, the problem was underscored: it was a fine production of an interesting piece by Kevin O'Morrison of the American Playwrights Theatre, and if you didn't see it, you missed it. Sorry.

The work was sensitively directed by Roy Faudree who, in case you find his name familiar, is the author of ELEPHANT MAN, which ran very successfully in Northampton for nearly a year.

The story goes thus: a woman in her late-middles finds herself living with her daughters in a south Saint Louis boarding house made manless by the War (WWI.) She is attempting to hold on to her aging values and to pass them on to her daughters. Her daughters, four of them, are well on their way to forging their own set. These women are forced to fend for themselves in a society which is totally male-dominated. Their observations and their degrees of success in coping make up the meat of this slice-of-life piece.

I have avoided using the term PLAY in describing the show in order to keep from offending purists who want their productions to have beginnings, middles and ends. Slice-of-life drama is not always so obliging, and often the audience is left to make up its own ending.

Some portions of the script tended to be trite. The play needed pruning of its "You bet!" and "Me, too!" dialogue. Oddly enough, the very metaphor of "blues" felt strained. The musical attempts at tying the word to the production were occasionally awkward.

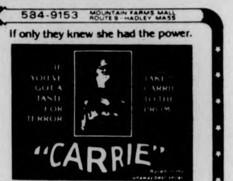
Blues, to me, symbolizes the expressive pain of a history of oppression felt by one individual — and now that I think about it, it IS a pretty good word choice. It is only the forced synthesis of the meaning and its literal musical representation that doesn't work.

These possible script problems never got in the way of the performers who rode over them with confidence. The acting was evenly good. The dialect was generally consistent, though as always, difficult in the beginning. Special mention of the fine performance of Jeanne Hatch is in order for her role as Liz, the mother.

Theatre Special
Issue Feb. 24

Other People are Spending your Money!
Last year, the Student Senate spent $1.1 million of your money on the COLLEGIAN, Black Mass Communications Project, WMUA, Student Senate Transit Service, and other student services and activities.
SPEND YOUR OWN MONEY!
Nominations are now open to fill the following vacant Senate seats:
Greenough
John Adams Upper
Cashin
Coolidge Lower
Hamlin
Leach
Mary Lyons
Thatcher
Thoreau
Cance
Wheeler
Crampton
Coolidge Upper
* Commuters
Brett
Dickinson
Baker
* Greek Area
Pierpont
JQA Lower
JQA Middle
JQA Upper
Van Meter North
Knowlton
Washington Middle
Brown
Gorman
* Third World
Brooks
Van Meter South
* Elected at large
Nomination Papers are available in the Student Senate office, 420 Student Union.
STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

JEAN-PIERRE RAMPAL & ROBERT VEYRON-LACROIX
FLUTE & KEYBOARD
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 18
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL 8 PM
Tickets now on sale. $6, 5, 4. UM-A $4, 3, 2. Other students and senior citizens $5, 4, 3.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations
PRESENTED BY THE FINE ARTS CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS-AMHERST



MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 - HADLEY MASS
LOVE. ACTION. COMEDY. SUSPENSE. EXCITEMENT.
Before Laurel met Hardy.
Before Butch Cassidy met the Sundance Kid.
Before any movie ever made you laugh or cry or fall in love
There was a handful of adventurers who made moving pictures you could see for a nickel.
NICKELODEON
RYAN O'NEAL BURT REYNOLDS TATUM O'NEAL BRIAN KEITH
PETER BOGDANOVICH'S "NICKELODEON"
PG
1 Thurs. 5:45, 8:00, Twi-Liter 5:15-5:45
Fri. 4:30, 9:30, Twi-Liter 4:00-4:30
Limited seating at Twi-Liter $1.25
If only they knew she had the power.
IF YOU'VE GOT A TASTE FOR TERROR TAKE CARRIE TO THE PROM
"CARRIE"
R HELD OVER! FINAL WEEK
2 Thurs. 5:45, 8:45, Twi-Liter 5:15-5:45
Fri. 4:45, 7:15, 9:45, Twi-Liter 4:15-4:45
Limited seating at Twi-Liter $1.25
Sherlock Holmes meets Sigmund Freud
THE SEVEN-PER-CENT SOLUTION
ALAN ARKIN VANESSA REDGRAVE ROBERT DUVALL and NICOL WILLIAMSON
PG
3 Thurs. 6:00, 8:15, Twi-Liter 5:30-6:00
Fri. 5:00, 7:30, 9:45, Twi-Liter 4:30-5:00
Limited seating at Twi-Liter $1.25
"ONE OF INGMAR BERGMAN'S FINEST FILMS!"
Judith Crist, Saturday Review
DINO DE LAURENTIIS PRESENTS
INGMAR BERGMAN'S
"FACE TO FACE"
starring
LIV ULLMANN
R
4 Thurs. 5:30, 8:00, Twi-Liter 5:00-5:30
Fri. 4:30, 7:00, 9:30, Twi-Liter 4:00-4:30
Limited seating at Twi-Liter $1.25.
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS . . . LIMITED TO SEATING

Program Council
Film Series
SPRING SEMESTER 1977
Thurs., Feb. 10 — SLAUGHTERHOUSE FIVE
CCA 7, 9, 11 — $1.00
Fri., Feb. 11 — NEXT STOP GREENWICH VILLAGE
SUB 7, 9, 11 — $1.00
Sun., Feb. 13 — THE MAN WHO FELL TO EARTH
SUB 7, 9:15, 11:30 — $1.00

Thurs., Feb. 24 — ROSEMARY'S BABY — FEARLESS VAMPIRE KILLERS
CCA 6:30, 9, 11 — $1.00
Fri., Feb. 25 — A BOY AND HIS DOG
CCA 7, 9, 11 — $1.00
Sun., Feb. 27 — THE STORY OF ADELE H
SUB 7, 9, 11 — $1.00

Sun., March 6 — THE LOVES OF ISADORA
CCA 7, 9:30 — $1.00
Fri., March 11 — A WOMAN UNDER THE INFLUENCE
CCA 7, 9:45 — $1.00
Sun., March 13 — CRIES AND WHISPERS
CCA 7, 9, 11 — $1.00

Thurs., March 31 — PUTNEY SWOPE
CCA 7, 8:45, 10:30 — $1.00
Fri., April 1 — SWEPT AWAY
CCA 7, 9:15, 11:30 — $1.00
Sun., April 3 — LOVE AND ANARCHY
CCA 7, 9, 11 — $1.00

Thurs., April 14 — NOW VOYAGER — DARK VICTORY
SUB 7, 9:15, 11:15 — $1.00
Fri., April 15 — THE NIGHT PORTER
CCA 7, 9:15, 11:30 — $1.00
Sun., April 17 — THE HARDER THEY COME
CCA 7, 9, 11 — $1.00

Thurs., April 28 — SOUNDER
SUB 7, 9, 11 — $1.00
Fri., April 29 — WON TON TON (The Dog That Saved Hollywood)
SUB 7, 9, 11 — $1.00
Sun., May 1 — FACE TO FACE
SUB 7, 9:30 — $1.00

Thurs., May 12 — THE WIZARD OF OZ
CCA 7, 9, 11 — $1.00
Fri., May 13 — PETER PAN
CCA 7, 8:30, 10, 11:30 — $1.00

The Egg-citing Egg, Ubiquitous Homefry, Elephant Stew, And More. . .

The egg-citing, eggs-hilarating, egg-ceptional and maybe even eggs-istential egg.

The chloresteral scare safely aside, the egg is probably one of humankind's greatest natural assets. It vies with milk to be the "most perfect food" and with donuts tô be America's favorite morning treat that comes twelve to a box. A versatile little beast, it can be scrambled, fried, boiled, poached, baked and coddled (it cannot, however, be bounced off the floor). It goes well with practically anything lurking in your refrigerator: cheese, mushrooms, tomatoes, ham, onions, and bacon. If you master the art of egg cookery, you will never starve, in fact you will revel in important nutrients and gourmet vareity.

Eggs Benedict
or, "a Recipe for the Wide Awake"

For each serving, split, toast and butter an English muffin. On each half, put a thin slide of cooked Canadian bacon. Put a poached egg on top of each piece of bacon. Spoon Hollandaise sauce (see below) over the tops of both.

Hollandaise Sauce

Heat in the top of a double-boiler ¾ cup water, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt. In bowl, stir together until smooth 2 tablespoons of corn-starch and ¼ cup water; pour this into the double boiler and mix well. In another bowl, beat two egg yolks until they are thick. Take the double boiler top in hand and pour it over the egg yolks, stirring all the while. Pour back into the double boiler top, set over hot water and add two tablespoons of butter. Cook and stir until thick.

You can buy Hollandaise Sauce mixes if you're not quite this coordinated in the morning.

The Perfect Omelet
or, "the Marquis de Sade was likewise French."

Blend in a bowl two eggs and 2 tablespoons of milk. Melt in a frying pan 2 tablespoons of butter until it sizzles, then turn the heat to medium-low. Pour the egg mixture into the pan and as it cooks, gently lift the edges with the corner of your spatula so that the uncooked portion runs under. At this point it should be of an even, creamy consistency. Turn the heat up to medium for a minute or two so it can brown delicately, then fold each side into the middle in thirds. This serves one. (Variations: ¼ cup of grated cheese can be sprinkled on top after the creamy stage; pre-cooked asparagus spears can be put in the middle while the omelet is in its final minutes of cooking; pre-cooked diced peppers and—or onions and—or tomatoes and—or mushrooms can be added prior to the final browning stage).

If going out for breakfast and making somebody else do all this work is more to your liking, we've compiled for you:

Three, Sunny-Side Up

First on the list of egg-otic breakfast places is the St. Regis Reaturant in Northampton. The Regis Room, favored haunt of early risers, opens at 6:30 to allow, I suppose, ample view of the sunrise for patrons seated by its wide windows. For those of us none too exhilerated by such solar prospects, an inner fireplace offers a less demanding sort of heat. For all concerned, the menu is varied and accompanied by reasonable prices. Unusual omelets are offered, such as grape jelly, "hobo", or name your own; besides the more usual egg dishes and syrup soppers. My Stregis favorite is the corned beef hash, eggs, home fries, toast and coffee for $2.35. The coffee, a propos, is excellent and refills are freely obtained. One of the St. Regis' great inadvertant assets is that when you walk out, you're in the center of Northampton, and nothing forces those eyes open quicker than dodging Main St. traffic.

""The incredible edible egg" is pasted over its door, and Roosters of North Amherst offers an incredible variety of good, cheap breakfast combinations that carry its motto out. Prices range from 59 cents for a simple repast of one egg, toast and coffee to the more elaborate platters that bear the likes of three eggs, bacon, pancakes, home fries, toast and coffee for $2.79. They also have a "Rooster's sandwich" of toast, eggs and ham; and big, homemade muffins eagerly awaiting the kiss of the grill. Roosters is a small, intimate place where the newspapers of truckers overlap those of students, and everybody sits out a second cup of coffee, minding their own, and everybody else's business. I envy those of you who fortuitously live nearby in Brandywine, Townhouse or Puffton Apartments — the rest of us will find it rewarding to leap aboard the 7:45 Sunderland bus for a ride uptown to Roosters.

McManuses is a culinary anomaly. It lacks variety, graciousness, decent servings, notable prices, and rare indeed is the customer who can wrench a second cup of non-descript coffee from a waitress on the hoof. Yet McManuses maintains an irresistible charm over and above these minor annoyances and hardly a week goes by when I do not succumb to its grease-spattered, dog-eared menus and order: "One number 4, eggs-over-easy, orange juice, bacon, regular coffee." Perhaps it's the home fries, or maybe the presence of the unseen ghosts of thousands who likewise sat and waited, and waited, and waited for their breakfasts. Whatever the case, McManuses is an integral part of the UMass breakfast scene, offering as its tour de force a night menu of six breakfast combinations that are served from 10 p.m. to 3 a.m. And as good as it tastes at 8 in the morning, nothing can beat a midnight breakfast — even if the combination of caffeine and grease does keep you up until 5...

The Ubiquitous Homefry

Everybody has 'em, those savory little chunks that add a feeling of security to the side of your breakfast plate, so we've decided to rate them. Factors taken into consideration in our search for perfection include how well cooked (soft, but not mashed); how well greased (flavored, but not oiled) and how generously supplied (neither over nor under whelmingly). The envelope, please:

1. McManuses (Rt. 9 Hadley)
2. Gerry's (Rt. 9, Hadley
3. Red Lion (Strong Ave., Northampton)
4. Stables (Rt. 9, Hadley)
5. St. Regis (Pleasant St., Northampton)
6. Rooster's (North Pleasant St., North Amherst)
7. Howard Johnson's (Rt. 5, Northampton)
8. the Filling Station (Pleasant St., Northampton)
9. Gaslight (North Pleasant St., Amherst)
10. Howard Johnson's (Rt. 9, Hadley)

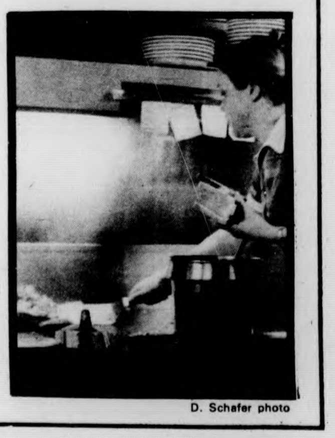
Our general impression of the area homefry is that it may well be a dying art. Too many establishments offer potatoes that look boiled, not fried; halved, not sliced. And, this emphasis on "prep" (a vegetable shortening) has got to stop. Glimmers of hope, however, include places that dust paprika over their potatoes and also those that leave their fries on the grill long enough to get acquainted with the bacon fat. By the way, we cheated on the rating: McManuses got it despite skimping on its servings. Oh well, we can dream.....



D. Schafer photo

By Alice E. Horner

"When you wake up in the morning, Pooh", said Piglet, what's the first thing you say to yourself?"
"What's for breakfast," said Pooh.
—Winnie-the-Pooh

Without a doubt, the most important meal of the whole day.

Oft cited as "the most important meal of the day," breakfast is significant in a number of ways. Not the least of these are our peculiar behavior patterns concerning breakfast. We tend to want the same thing for breakfast every single day, or at least elaborate on a basic theme. This is a far cry from the variety demanded from our other meals where monotony destroys appetites and repetition is culinary suicide. Why such perverse behavior?

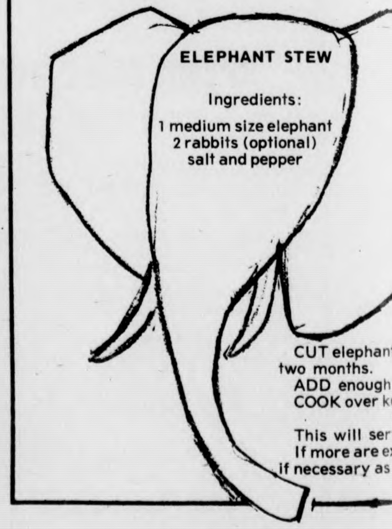
One reason might be nutritional. As we all know, the human body is a strange and wonderful machine, controlling our mental states as much as we intellectually control our physical states. It may be that after an eight hour fast, a period of working off the fuel reserves, the body would crave certain kinds of foods. The traditional breakfast of eggs, orange juice, toast and milk provides just about everything nutritionally needed to jump start the old battery: eggs have important minerals, essential proteins, and all the vitamins but C; orange juice has the vitamin C; toast provides needed carbohydrates and starch; and milk provides vitamin D and calcium.

Historical factors could also be taken into account. Descending from the food of many generations of American farmers who got up with the sun, our modern breakfasts represent readily available "farm food" that would be easy to fix and would stick to any farmer's ribs. It has changed somewhat; few of us pack away a half dozen eggs with our beef steak, but the pattern persists. Interestingly, city-dwellers, both here and abroad, eat light breakfasts of croissant or doughnuts or pastry: connotations of little manual labor and expensive eating habits. This agricultural versus "cultured" dicotomy is reflected in the names of area breakfast spots — compare the hearty breakfast appeal of Roosters or The Stables to the continental flair of Bonducci's.

A third explanation, which approaches the psycho-analytic is that breakfast represents a daily new beginning, a timorious reaching out for the safe and familiar when we are at our most vulnerable: half-awake and hungry. Finding security in habitual smells and sounds: the tea-kettle, the toaster, the frying-pan; we somehow muster up the strength to face Reality. Of course, we do it largely unconsciously, but change the smallest detail, and we crumple up into little whimpering piles of misery.

For example, it's a fact of this chaotic and turbulent world that at ten minutes of eight, my father goes downstairs, pours his orange juice, turns on the tea kettle for coffee water, puts his whole wheat toast in the toaster and fries himself two eggs. If someone inadvertently had polished off the loaf of whole wheat bread or beat him to the last of the orange juice, a calm, rational being is turned into a wild-eyed maniac who can't wait to get into his car and take it out on the 8:30 rush. Of course, after this initial hurdle of "breakfast fast," he, like the rest of us, is willing and able to eat new and different foods.

So, like most things that we take for granted, breakfast is far more important than usually suspected. And I hope that I made all of you who skipped it feel properly guilty.



ELEPHANT STEW

Ingredients:

1 medium size elephant
2 rabbits (optional)
salt and pepper

'May We Recommend. . .?'

Elephant Stew

CUT elephant into small bite size pieces, this should take about two months.

ADD enough gravy to cover.

COOK over kerosene fire for four weeks at 465 degrees

...

This will serve 3800 people.

If more are expected — two rabbits may be added. Do this only if necessary as most people do not like to find hair in their stew.

The Obscure, the Isolated and the unique: a listing of places worth going out of your way for

D. Schafer photo

When I am so fortunate as to come across a spare dollar or two, chances are I end up at one of the following eating places, blissfully exchanging my total assets for an order of golompki or pork chow mein or homemade beef stew. It's a fair exchange: these restaurants each can boast of good food, good prices, and good peoplesphere (i.e. atmosphere built on the interesting folks around you and not on quichy little decorations designed To Attract Students). All family owned and run, they stand as staunch testimonials to the ever-raging battle against the multi-national organizations' tasteless, plastic food. All in all, they are well worth going out of your way for.

The Amherst Chinese Food Place

Located on Main St., across from the Amherst Police Station, the Amherst Chinese Food Place offers excellent mandarine cuisine at reasonable prices. The restaurant is small and hums with continual activity, like your sitting in somebody's kitchen. It opens for lunch at 11:30 and offers special combination plates for 99 cents (small) and $1.99 (large); at night there are specials for under $3.00 (my present addition being to Beef with Pea Pods), in addition to the regular, varied menu. Chopsticks on request.

Chanticleer's

The next time you miss the 5-College bus at Mt. Holyoke, walk across the common and console yourself at Chanticleer's. The quintessential coffee shop, Chanticleer's produces good sandwiches and soups; but is especially worth the trip for its desserts: cream-cheese brownies; individual pecan pies; oatmeal cake with brown sugar and coconut topping. This is sin worth indulging in.

Miss Florence's Diner

Written up once in the New York Times as one of the ten best authentic diners left in the United States, Miss Flo's is an experience over and beyond the consumption of food. Located on Route 9 in Florence (the hinterland region of Northampton), the diner has an amazing variety of food at low prices (my standby being the el cheapo mushroom caps and bacon for $1.85) and an ice cream pie like you wouldn't believe. But half the fun is watching them shout the food in and out...Expect to wait in line, it's part of the initiation.

The Lighthouse

Sunderland's answer to Cape Cod, the Lighthouse on Route 116 is a combination fish market and restaurant. Their fish is shipped daily from Beantown piers, and consequently may be a bit more expensive than the frozen-and-stored-for-months variety you get in the supermarket; needless to say, you'll get your money's worth. Their fried clams are big, tasty and juicy and their french fries are sliced from potatoes with the skins left on. Other dinner possibilities include lobster, scallops, oysters and haddock; if you eat there you're welcome to bring your own bottle. (Winter hours: 12-8)

Norm's Restaurant

Easthampton's one and only, Norm's is located downtown, near the junction of 141. It has two rooms: my preference being "the Back Room" where, during the course of day, most of Easthampton's populace ends up. Norm's offers deli-style sandwiches and daily features — in generous portions average price being $2-$3, complemented by the likes of homemade rum cheesecake. Its biggest attraction for me, however, is its sasprilla and birch beer (reminds me of the good old days...)

The Quonset Restaurant

Open from 11-2 for lunch, the Quonset Restaurant on Route 9 in Hadley offers a daily buffet that rivals even my insatiable appetite. Try it on a Thursday when they have Polish food: golompka (meat and rice stuffed cabbage leaves), lazy pierogi (noodles and sweet cabbage), kielbasa (Polish sausage) and kupusta (sauerkraut, onions and cabbage), plus a salad bar, plus free seconds, all for $1.99. There's plenty of room, the waitresses are friendly, and it's only ten minutes from campus.

BERKSHIRE EAST
SKI AREA
CHARLEMONT
MASS.

BERKSHIRE EAST
5 COLLEGE NASTAR-SCHLITZ
Challenge Series Race
RACES TO BE HELD FRIDAYS AT 3:00 p.m.
SERIES TO BE HELD FEB. 11-18-25, MAR. 4-11

Medals given out weekly. Prizes and tropies will be awarded.

COST $5.50

Includes skiing from 1:30-5:00, Nastar entry fee, and Schlitz beer from 5-7, night skiing for an additional $1.50. Race course will be set so skiers of all levels will have an enjoyable day.

Bring your skis and friends and join us every Friday for the 5 College Ski Party and Nastar Race.

$1.00 OFF OUR REGULAR PRICES WITH THIS AD.

Give Away Price$!
Levi's® PANATELLA CORDUROYS From Only $11.99 REG. TO $20
SAVE UP TO 70%.
Levi's® for Gals SLACKS & CORDS From Only $8.99 REG. TO $20.00
Levi's® Pre-Washed-Flair & BLUE JEANS
JEANS & CORDS STRAIGHT OR FLAIR ONLY: $13.95
MENS & WOMENS Shirts & Sweaters 40~70% OFF! ◄ SPECIAL GROUP
WEAR-HOUSE
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

Saturday Nights

By Nancy Kelly

"Everybody drank. Saturday night, what d'ya do? Buy something, puke on your shoes..." — George Carlin

Well, George,
It ain't necessarily so.

We all know the feeling, those trying-to-decide-what-to-do, got-no-place-to-go blues, which usually end up as a trip out for a case of beer or over to the Bluewall for a few. And there are times when that's a pretty good relief for the blues. But staying in or going out, a steady liquid diet can get monotonous. It can even get to be a habit.

It's a lot like the habit my friend the TV freak has. Every night, he bursts into the house, speedy with tension, and drops into his favorite spot in front of the tube. Now, someone who is continually glued to the set can be pretty dull company. Lots of his friends tried to get him to kick the TV habit and relax some other way. Addicted as he was, he resisted.

Finally, someone persuaded him to go cold turkey: he braced himself, turned off the precious tube, and went out to dinner. Later, he reported, "I couldn't believe it! It was great relaxation!" Thus he learned that there are other things to do.

And yet, after a hard week at UMass, most everyone wants to know how to spell relief. But it doesn't have to be alcohol or other drugs. There are other ways of getting outside or above or beyond the harried state of mind brought on by a week of struggling at work and school. Take a tip from these two in Andrei Vosnesensky's poem:

PARTY

A great drunken crowd
Round the table.
But suddenly
Two are missing! Where are they?
Maybe the wind-?
In the midst of all
Serious drinking: two empty chairs,
Two paralyzed knives.
And a moment ago
They were lifting their beakers-
Then, nothing.
Not here, those two.
Like snow in the sun...
Go ahead,
Look for them,
whistle and call!
They got away,
not caring
A damn for overcoats and decorum.
Ran away like the wine
Hums out of the bottle!
Thus go rivers
speeding past their banks,
Thus clouds go,
the young from the old,
In Spring
the new shoots
from old trunks.
The party is roaring on.
But these two, their courage, two Overturned chairs-has taken
our breath away.

The two in this poem took their courage, left the drinking scene, and found something else to do. For you, it's even easier to find other amusements. This Valley is filled with things to do and places to see. You won't have to spend much money and most of them are not hard to get to. It might take a little more energy and imagination than a trip to the nearest bar or package store, but it's worth it.

So, sometime this semester, check out what's happening at the University Fine Arts Center. People like the Tito Puente Orchestra, Jean Pierre Rampal, the Nikolais Dance Theatre and the National Black Theatre will be performing. Look into the films playing at the cinemas or at the colleges — usually the list is long and appealing. Try out some of the fine theatre that's alive in the Valley — you'll find it at the colleges and even in Northampton, home of the City Studio Theatre, 25 Main Street.

Or, if you like to be more active, get into some of the volleyball tournaments or free swims at the colleges. Or exercise your lungs at some of the home basketball or hockey games. Try something completely different — like contra dancing Thursdays in the Eagles Hall, Northampton. For music, there are plenty of coffee houses, like the Brink at Mount Holyoke, and as always, you'll find concerts in Springfield, Hartford and at the colleges.

So, the next time you find yourself gearing up for the usual night out in a bar, or night in with a six-pack, try a chorus of Gil Scott Heron's, "Must Be Something You Can Do." Just as we told George Carlin, there's a lot more to do in the Pioneer Valley than drink.

For weekly details on things to do in the Valley besides drink, tune into the Salsa-Soul Medicine Show, Wednesday nights from 7-10, on WMUA, 91.1 FM. Also, check out the Progressive Monthly and the Five College Calendar.

The Four Tops

by Lauren J. Traub

Following is a list of not the top five, not the top three, but the top four restaurants around Amherst, and why I have noted them for this particular honor.

· Beardsley's — because they undoubtedly are more painstaking in the quality of their basic ingredients, and methods of preparation than any other restaurant in the immediate area. You can't help noticing the love that goes into each dish, and service is observant and helpful.

Hahjee's Place — for its array of spicy Middle Eastern specialties, attention to presentation (the lemon garnish and parsley atop a dish show that someone reall cares), low to medium prices and latitude of selection fo vegetarians.

Carlo of Naples — has man pasta dishes, inexpensiv Italian food, and a coz fireplace atmosphere. But th best feature, the way to enj luxury without incurring e pense, is the option for th customer to bring his—her ov wine or beer, to quaff or ling over.

Lunch at the Goten — is ju a compact version of dinne there. You still get the show having a meal sizzle-fried front of you, but you probal won't have to wait as long to seated, and the price is bargain compared to t dinner bill.

D. Schafer photo

We Don't Always Eat What We Should

By Pia Talabach
and
Doris Doherty

Amid these food oriented pages concerned with what could be eaten at area restaurants, and what would be eaten if we all learned how to cook, we as nutritionists would like to spread the word on what should be eaten. Nutrition, as defined, is the act or process of nourishing or being nourished.

We feel that education in this area is important in bridging this gap between scientific theoretical knowledge of nutrition and its practical application in our daily lives.

Salt Talks on Nutrition

Vitamins:

Will they enhance the common cold or cure your sex life?'

What are vitamins? They are accessory food factors, with differing chemical structures, that are essential for life processes. Vitamins are co-factors in the chemical reactions of the body. They are necessary for efficient and healthy metabolism, in the proper amounts. This means that too much could clutter up the processes, and thus interfere with their function. An intake of more vitamins than ~~are~~ required can therefore do more harm than good, especially in the fat soluble vitamins (A, D, E and K).

Recently, there have been a number of cases reported of vitamin A toxicity in teenagers. This was due to the thought that large doses of vitamin A would cure acne. Upon doctor's advice, these teenagers took those large doses of the vitamin, and what resulted was not a cure for acne, but vitamin A poisoning.

As for the water soluble vitamins (B complex and C), there have been no reported toxicities, since any excess in the body is readily excreted. The only function a vitamin supplement has then, is to cure a deficiency of that particular vitamin, except in special instances involving abnormal metabolic functions.

Today you are faced with so many claims on these co-factors, which are so necessary for your body's existence. Does vitamin C really cure the common cold? Can Vitamin E enhance your sex life? Are "natural" vitamins superior to synthetic ones?

Vitamin E has received a great deal of public attention recently as a miracle vitamin; a cure-all. Why is this so? Could such a tiny substance required in remarkably minute amounts really fulfill all these claims; could it have such a powerful, dramatic effect in the field of medicine and nutrition? A substantial amount of information by professionals and laymen alike has convinced many people of the almost supernatural claims of vitamin E.

These claims range from the prevention and cure of sterility, blood clots, acne, cancer, burns, heart disease and muscular distrophy, to enhancing sexual capability, softening skin, erasing wrinkles, and even curing crossed-eyes! These are just a few of the wild claims that vitamin E supports. How did they come about? Briefly, these findings often represent misinterpreted research studies or studies conducted in less than scientific manner. As consumers, we are highly susceptible to authoritative sounding articles and thus leave ourselves wide open to exploitation from unscrupulous sources.

We are constantly being led astray by the new information that is bombarding the market everyday.

If this vitamin doesn't do what they claim, then what actually does it do? Vitamin E is a chemical substance that is soluble in fat. This means that dietary fat is necessary in order to absorb this nutrient. It's chief function is that of an antioxidant, which simply has an action similar to a preservative.

It is quite rare to find a deficiency of vitamin E in human beings. This is why vitamin E is often called "the vitamin in search of a disease." There appears to be a dramatic difference between human beings and other animals in relation to the function and utilization of vitamin E. This difference accounts for some of the misdirected information leading to the false claims previously mentioned. This shows that it is not always possible to directly correlate the findings done with experimental animals to human beings.

Hence, there is apparently no need for vitamin E supplements, since sufficient amounts are provided by a well balanced diet. Vitamin E is found in wheat germ, brown rice, sunflower seeds and compressed oils (such as corn oil). Excessive doses of vitamin E, as well as any other vitamin, is unnecessary.

Do massive doses of vitamin C cure the common cold? Is this overconsumption actually helpful? In 1970, 1500 pounds of vitamin C were produced, which is enough to feed the entire population 20mg. a day for a year. This artificially synthesized amount is about half way between the Recommended Daily Allowance of 40 mg. and the minimum amount needed to prevent scurvy, 10 mg.

Scurvy is the nutritional disease associated with a severe deficiency of vitamin C. Today this disease is rare throughout the world, since diets are varied and supplementation is available. There have been a few cases cited recently. These were seen in bottle-fed infants not given a supplement, alcoholics, and these following the Zen Macrobiotic Diet.

Vitamin C, also known as ascorbic acid, is a water soluble vitamin, thus having no real storage in the body. Sources of Vitamin C include tomatoes, citrus fruits, peppers, broccoli and spinach. Once the tissues become saturated, the point where no more of the vitamin can be absorbed, the excess is excreted. It is known that vitamin C has specific functions in the body. It helps hold body cells together, strengthen blood cells, heal wounds, and is necessary in tooth and bone formations, as well as its aid in resistance to infection. It should be noted here that these functions will occur only with the proper amounts of the vitamin, and they will not be enhanced by an excess.

There is very little evidence to support the claim that vitamin C will cure or prevent the common cold. Though ascorbic acid is necessary factor in the resistance to infection, an increased amount does't mean you will be more resistent. The constant excess of vitamin C could actually be harmful. After taking large amounts of ascorbic acid for long periods of time, the body will adapt to this increased intake, and then it will be necessary to maintain this intake to insure health. An immediate withdrawal could cause adverse effects. So as you can see, just because a little bit is good, a lot isn't better.

As for the difference between natural and synthetic vitamins, there really isn't any. As stated earlier, a vitamin is a chemical and its structure is the same whether found in a piece of fruit or in the laboratory. Once entering your body, that specific chemical being absorbed is known by its particular structure, not where it came from. To much surprise of the consumer, many of the so-called "natural" vitamins are combined with synthetic chemcials in order to increase the potency without a drastic increase in size. The only major difference found, is in the price paid for the products. The higher priced vitamins claim to be "natural" or derive from natural sources, where as synthetic vitamins claim the lower price.

Knowing these controversial issues, as well as others, will help you deal with the facts and fallacies facing you today. It will help you in understanding what vitamins can and cannot do for you. So next time you hear that vitamin E will enhance your sex life, don't run out to the nearest health food store, just close your eyes and leave the rest up to your imagination.

Take a warm Peter Pan or Continental Trailways Bus to Boston, New York and many other places. Play it safe!

PETER PAN BUS LINES & CONTINENTAL TRAILWAYS

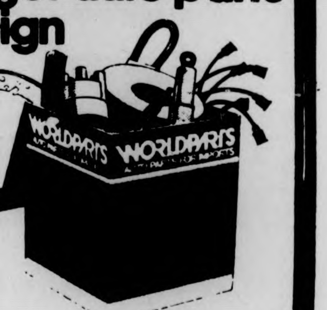
MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.

CONTINENTAL TRAILWAYS

For Information, Schedules and Prices,
Contact: Campus Center Bus Office
Tel. 545-2006 or 549-6000

BIG A AUTO PARTS

We've got auto parts for foreign cars.



Auto parts for foreign cars – quality-made replacement parts for the most popular foreign cars in town. Worldparts are made by world famous manufacturers such as Maremont . . . Bosch . . . Lange . . . Boge . . . and more than 60 others.

When your foreign car needs repairs, have your garage or service station man call us for Worldparts. Or we can give you the name and address of a foreign car expert near you.

AMERICAN PARTS

Allied Motor Parts
319 Main Street, Amherst
256-8341

SHOP SERVICE AVAILABLE
Hours: 8-5:30 M-F, 8-5 Sat.

STABILO BOSS shows 'em who's boss.

fluorescent
STABILO BOSS

There's nothing like STABILO BOSS to get attention fast! 6 highly fluorescent colors make people read what you want them to read. Styled like a sleek pocket lighter. Available in single units of yellow, orange, green, rose, red, and blue. Also in a wallet of 4, or a special calendar box of all 6 brilliant colors. Fun to use. Saves time, too. Show 'em who's the boss, with STABILO BOSS.
Available at quality stationery stores.

Schwan-STABILO

A complete selection of markers and supplies for overhead projection as well.

at the
UNIVERSITY STORE
Campus Center

Four Seasons
Package Store
Discount Liquers
RUSSELL ST. HADLEY
at the Mt. Farms Mall

Millers BEER
12 oz. cans
$5.89
case

Donelli
$2.99
50 oz. bottle

Chivas Regal Scotch
$9.89
fifth sugg. ret. $12.89
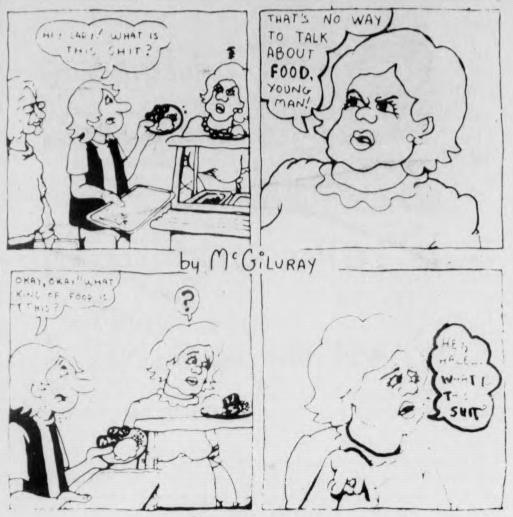
SAVE $3.00

Knickerbocker Natural BEER
12 oz. N.R. Bottles
$4.99
case

Thursday 2/10//6 to Saturday 2/12/76
We reserve the right to limit quantities.

Alternatives To



HEY LADY! WHAT IS THIS SHIT?
THAT'S NO WAY TO TALK ABOUT FOOD, YOUNG MAN!
by McGiluray
OKAY, OKAY! WHAT KIND OF FOOD IS THIS?
?
HEY, HALE... WHAT IS THIS SHIT

This

by Bob Goldsmith

I figure I've spent between 70 to 75 Saturdays on the UMass campus so far, and in essence, most have been the same. The day starts around 11:00, shifts into gear near noon, and hits its first major snag about half an hour later. Saturday is for the most part a relax, take-it-as-it-comes, save-your-energy-for-tonight-day, but as 12:30 approaches one specific obligation has to come to mind. No matter what else you do on Saturday, you have to eat lunch.

As I see it, a satisfying weekend lunch must fulfill three requirements. It must be quick and easy, cost under a dollar, and necessitate an unnegotiable limit of five dishes. With that in mind, I offer some of my favorite recipes. All of them may not appeal to everyone, but I'll wager my spatula that there's something here for even the most finicky eater.

Macaroni au Gratin Especial

Thank God for the Kraft Corporation, whose 4 for $1.00 pasta dinners have enabled me to save enough cash to pay my lab fees this year. This particular macaroni and cheese variation involves preparing the dinner as prescribed on the box, but adding a tablespoon of Lipton's onion flavored "Cup of Soup" along with the cheese. Not only will this add variety to your menu, but it yields a delicious meal, preparable in 15 minutes in one pot, for about 30 cents. The question of what wine to serve with this feast often arises, but there is one very simple solution. Skip the fermentation completely and invest instead in a can of Welch's Grape Soda. The two are a natural combination.

Dolphin en Casserole

One terrific aspect of seafood casserole cooking is that you can throw just about anything into the pot and still have the result taste great. This alteration of the basic theme utilizes leftover potato chips as a key ingredient. Here's what you'll need:
1 box macaroni shells
1 large can tuna (Del Monte's the best)
1 can Campbell's cream of mushroom soup
1 small can peas (optional)
2 handfuls potato chips, crushed

Cook the macaroni in heavily salted water. While boiling, combine the next three ingredients in a casserole dish, large pot, or any other suitable cooking vessel. When the noodles are soft, rinse and dump them into the soup, tuna and peas. As a final step, spread a layer of "Ruffles" across the top and bake for 15 minutes, or until the surface looks crunchy.

Hunter's Stew

OK, I'll admit that the first two formulas may have been just a bit tough for the beginning chief. If you could turn enough pages to get to this article, though, you can cook this meal.

In the early 1600's, the first American settlers would simmer garden vegetables with steaming chunks of beef in a lightly seasoned broth to produce a goulash of unequalled excellence. This was the first Hunter's Stew. The modern version, being somewhat less involved, necessitates only a pound of hamburger, a can of Campbell's "Chunky Vegetable" soup, and a loaf of bread. To prepare it, brown the hamburg, mix it with the cold, undiluted soup in a small pan, and heat just to boiling. Serve as an open sandwich to the whole floor and you're bound to make friends, even if its easily noticeable that you haven't done laundry in a month.

You are now prepared to face the next three Saturdays without worrying about where your daily 1.5 milligrams of riboflavin or eight essential amino acids will come from. You will also feel better, run faster, and jump higher, but my discussion of those benefits will have to wait, at least for a while. I'm going out for a grinder.

Pity The Professional Violinist

Photo by P. Brewster

by Jim Gagne

Pity the professional violinist, working to master one of the hardest instruments only to be banished to the obscurity of the string section of some orchestra or over-produced jazz album.

Or, worse yet, actually competing with other fiddlers, all playing the same country licks for the foolish honor of being labeled "the best."

These are all, of course, valid and entertaining musical forms, supporting many satisfied violinists. But where is the creativity, the spotlight, the star status, and the adoring audience that seems to come so easily to guitarists and horn players?

Last week all this and more was in Sunderland when the Rusty Nail Inn presented Jean-Luc Ponty and Vassar Clements on successive nights.

Wednesday night the dance floor was packed with people sitting and listening to Ponty and his five piece band. You just can't dance to this French wizard's music. It is what is called "jazz-rock," heavily laced with what Ponty's former employer Frank Zappa calls "Mahavishnuisms."

Roughly translated, that means Ponty and his band play fast solos over simple chord progressions using electronic gadgetry to create original sounds. None of that is new. They are unique because they do it with what can only be called taste — they know when to turn off the sounds and play the melody.

Everything was different Thursday night except for the size of the audience — capacity. It is nearly impossible not to at least tap your foot when Vassar Clements picks up his old violin, lets out a hoot, and carries his six-piece band through country rock, country jazz, and pure uncut country. He later told me he was tired of being labeled a "bluegrass fiddler," which is as much a mistake as calling Shakespeare a "sonnet-writer."

I was not alone in hoping Ponty and Clements would join in an earthy-spacey jam session, but it never happened. Neither of them regretted it however.

Ponty the younger musician, trained in classical music, told me, "Country music is a limited form." Clements, who is self-taught and doesn't read music, praised Ponty's talent but added, "I don't like that echo-plex."

After witnessing the contrast between the two on and off stage, it was curious to hear them both praise the same men, violinists Stephane Grapelli and Joe Venuti. They created jazz violin in the 1920's, and are probably the two best jazz violinists in the world.

Ponty has recorded an album on Inner City records with Grapelli, who at 69, has moved from playing with guitarist Django Reinhardt in the 1930's to accompanying Pink Floyd in the 1960's.

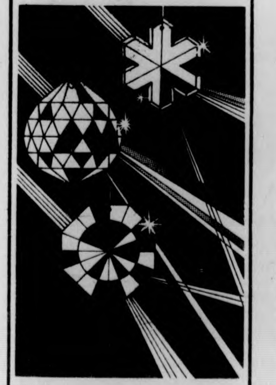
Clements said his main goal now is to play with Grapelli and Venuti. At 72, Venuti continues to amaze listeners. His innovations include playing four string chords by tying the bow around his violin.

Grapelli recently cancelled his own show in Chicago to come across town and play with Clements. "He stood in the audience with his violin and I didn't even know he was there, so we never got together," said Clements with the look of a gambler who just missed winning the trifecta.

All is not lost, however, because in March Clements will record an album with Grapelli and Venuti on Flying Fish Records. Asked what he will play, Clements said, "I don't know. Whatever they play."

50% OFF ALL JADE PLANTS
AT THE
Pots & Plants Shop
MON.-FRI.,
FEB. 7-12
274 N. Pleasant
Basement Shop
Near Earth Shoe Bldg.

rainbow prisms



A fine collection of hand cut strass quality crystal, high lead content and exquisite shapes project color and form when hung in a window. A perfect gift for your home. from $3 to $28.

Faces of Earth
Open 9:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.
Next to Amherst Post Office

THE PUB
THURSDAY
NEW FOR 1977
DOUBLE TIME
8:30 til 11
(Most Drinks & Beer TWO for ONE)
FEATURING
FROM CAPE COD & BOSTON
THE GREAT RUBBER BAND
9-1
EATING & DRINKING
AMHERST

Wings Over Oblivion

PAUL MCCARTNEY & WINGS
Wings Over America
(Capitol)

By now, you've probably heard enough of this three record extravaganza to determine for yourself whether or not it's worth the bucks; so be it. As far as I'm concerned, Wings Over America, documenting McCartney's triumphant return to American stages after a decade's absense, is the definitive derivative disc for all his fans from six to sixty.

Especially surprising is the fine degree of musicianship exhibited throughout by the members of Wings (joined here by four brash brass players), all hand-picked by McCartney himself. The guitar tandem composed of ex-Moody Blue Denny Laine and Jimmy McCulloch really asserts itself in a positive manner as it proves more than sufficiently able to back up The Legend.

McCartney produced this album himself after listening to over 800 hours of concert tapes; he obviously left in a few of the rough spots and less than perfect vocals as his way of indicating to us all that he is, just like everybody else, only human. His voice, particularly on some of the slower numbers, is not always up to the high standards of his studio snuff and it is rather amusing during the version of "Let 'Em In" to hear Paul sing, "Do me a flavor, open the door an' let 'em in."

Nonetheless, McCartney is aware of where his basic strengths lie; he can still rock 'n'roll with the best of them when he so desires and his Beatle Repertoire is well-structured, varied enough to please the majority of fans from the days of the Fabulous Foursome.

Throughout the album's six sides, the best sounding cuts to these ol' ears include "Venus And Mars-Rock Show" (the opener), "Lady Madonna," "You Gave Me The Answers" (cute little ditty), "Hi, HI, Hi," "Soily" (a previously unrecorded rocker), and a surprise rendition of Paul Simon's "Richard Cory" sung by Laine. For my money, Wings Over America is a truly fine effort, an artistic as well as a financial success. It earns Paul, Linda, and the boys in the band a "get your Wings while they're hot" A.

Ross Nerenberg

singing ink

ANDREW GOLD
What's Wrong With This Picture?
(Asylum)

Andrew Gold has yet to figure out how not just to be Linda Ronstadt's arranger and band leader. This his second album shows that he's feeling around, but still has a long way to go.

Among the songs on the album are a few that Gold performed on the last Ronstadt tour (Gold opens the show with Linda's band, then she joins in a dozen songs later). In the studio he uses the same band members and producer (Peter Asher) to get a different effect. But he still falls back on a basic Ronstadt formula, that of doing an oldie or two with all the newest studio effects. So we get a ridiculously overdone, nearly unrecognizable, (taking a breath) tuneless "Do Wah Diddy." Yet he also does a moving treatment of Buddy Holly's classic "Learning the Game."

His liner notes display a stoned sense of humor, that helps, and his writing talents are peaking on the opener, "Hope You Feel Good" and especially the closing "One of Them is Me." In between both there are a few low points.

"Lonely Boy" is self-indulgent speculation, if not autobiography. "Stay" (third oldie and counting) is filler. "Firefly" is romantic and a solo for Gold, he multi-tracked the whole cut.

Andrew Gold is doing well these days, but he's hungry. You can tell he wants his own spotlight, and he is working to earn it. But this album won't go all the way for him. I had a good time trying to figure out what's wrong in the picture, too.

Craig Roche

LEON REDBONE
Double Time
(Warners)
LEO KOTTKE
(Chrysalis)

Not liking anything Leon Redbone does is akin to hating Groucho, but I think I am coming to that point. Anyone who's had the good fortune to see the quirky character in live performance is witnessing a good time. Even the bat that shared the stage with Leon the last time he was in Northampton probably came away liking him. But after listening to Double Time, Redbone's latest, I am left wondering if the pleasure isn't at least half in seeing him, of gentle laughter directed at his self-deprecating style.

Like his debut album, On the Track, Redbone presents us with a selection of tunes from ages gone by, songs our grandparents fondly recall. And as a sentimental tribute back down Memory Lane Double Time does all right. But to make it today, I'd think Redbone would try to make more of the songs than sheer imitation.

"Shine On, Harvest Moon", "Melancholy Baby", "Nobody's Sweetheart", and "Sheik of Araby" and if I were picky, two more, are just such songs. Not that they are dull..."Sheik" is even a comical. But there are a million songs waiting to be rediscovered by people like Redbone (Ry Cooder knows it) and it's a waste of time for him to cover those songs. Unless he's laughing at them, and I can't buy that. The remaining songs reach a peak when Redbone teams up with the Dixie Hummingbirds in a spiritually uplifting "If we Never Meet Again This Side of Heaven." I am talking about Redbone's failure to present songs like these, ones that have faded into the past, to his audience. I am all for being entertained, but not distracted.

Leo Kottke's new album, Leo Kottke, is another story. Course with Leo Kottke, most anything would be another story. There is ample humor in Kottke's material also, but because almost all his songs are instrumentals, the smiles are in his titles ("Hayseed Suede", "Death by Reputation"). But there is incredible unspoken eloquence in his songs. No one plays like Kottke, or writes like him, and he creates original music while remaining in that small scope of acoustic musicians. He clearly loves and understands the guitar as few do. And it comes across on this album. Kottke fans many quibble with the addition of strings at a few points, at first I did, but they never intrude on his work.

Both these performers will likely be in the area again soon. And I will be there. Redbone will be a good time, the lighter fare. And with Kottke, well, I expect I'll be amazed, and not a little in awe of his gift.

Craig Roche

Leo Kottke

BRIAN AUGER'S OBLIVION EXPRESS
Happiness Heartaches
(Warners)

Brian Auger's Oblivion Express is a relatively unknown group of jazz musicians. Ironically, their name implies where they stand musically, that is in almost total oblivion. And it's no wonder, the group displays very little talent, imagination or desire on their latest album Happiness Heartaches. Ironic too, is the title...I got quite the heart-ache from listening, and it wasn't happy either.

The only member of the Oblivion Express worth mention is Brian Auger, which is probably why his name proceeds that of the group. Auger plays the keyboards, and the group plays around his basic melodies. The only problem is that Auger is not very inventive or really that good. The group plays in a subdued way, so that sleep drifts in to save you from listening to the whole album.

Out of the seven songs, three are completely useless. Three more are alright to listen to once or twice, and one, (the last one, which you'd never notice unless you were as lucky as I was to fall asleep and awake just in time for it!) is a good song. Titled "Paging Mr. McCoy" it is a lively jazz instrumental that at least leaves a good last impression on the mind. It's too bad that only one song strays from the basic monotony of the rest of the album. Had Auger's band performed more songs of this calibre, he might have pulled through with a decent record. However as it stands now, he has what one could term your basic lost cause!

Gary Halzel

Progressive Film Series

Feb. 3 — Salt of the Earth
Feb. 10 — Modern Times*
Feb. 17 — The History Book
Feb. 24 — Malcolm X Speaks
Malcolm X: Struggle for Freedom

March 3 — Burn!
March 10 — Blow for Blow
March 17 — Underground*
March 31 — Angola: The Second War
Last Grave at Dimbaza

April 7 — Attica
April 14 — Sacco and Vanzetti
April 21 — State of Seige
April 28 — City at Dawn — Saigon after Liberation

May 5 — Puerto Rico
May 12 — Hearts and Minds*

All films will play in Herter 231, except for those with an (*) which will play in the Student Union Ballroom. Admission is $1.00 at all the films. Films will play at 8:00 p.m. and 10:00 p.m. except for History Book which will play at 7:30 and 10:00.

SEASONS TICKETS are available for $7.00 in S.U. 404 or at the films.

C & C LIQUORS

ECOLOGY SPECIALS

ROLLING ROCK 6.25
12 oz. Returnables plus deposit

PIELS 4.99
16 oz. Returnables plus deposit

LOS HERMANOS 3.40
BURGUNDY AND CHABLIS magnum

"THE WINE BOTTLE YOU'LL SAVE AND REUSE"

or Ohm Ohm On The Range

EMMYLOU HARRIS
Luxury Liner
(Warners)

Half of this business of critiquing albums can be labels, of finding neat little pigeon-holing words to fit performers into. Superficially Emmylou Harris makes this easy because her roots are so apparent, she is country clean through. There are those who go farther and call her music progressive country, but I would prefer to label the musicians who would not fit under 'progressive' as 'regressive' and leave her with 'country'. This is not just a semantic distinction, at least not to me, for I have the visceral definition of equating 'country' with honest. Above all else, Harris is honest and believable. She has made her third album her best, for just as it is her most country, it is her most honest.

Title and opening cut, "Luxury Liner" typifies this as well as any here. Written by her late, much lamented and eulogized friend, Gram Parsons, "Liner" is fast, urgent and excited music. Harris is singing Parson's words, but she knows the deeper meaning, the almost out of control rush of excitement that moved Parson's to write it. Much has been made of Parson's life and death, it fits neatly into the tragic outcome of so many of country music's vital performers. It's to her credit that Harris prefers to add to Parson's legacy by doing his songs rather than marketing the maudlin possibilities of his story. Susanna Clark's "San Antone Rose" makes a musical statement to that same effect.

Luxury Liner is as good as American country music gets. This achievement belongs to all who made up the project, which is around thirty people; the musicians turn in turn in facile understated licks that give the album incredible flavor. Production enhances these moments, intensifies them even. Above all the sound is clean, as clear as Emmylou's beautiful voice. Her (or someone's) selection of material ranging from the 40 year old chestnut "Hello Stranger," two from the 1950's, up to contemporary writings of Townes Van Zandt and Ms. Clark complete a musical scope covering four decades of real people's music. With honesty, and with emotions as palpable as the acrid taste of loneliness Hank Williams must have felt watching the trains fade in the distance.

Craig Roche

George Harrison
Thirty-Three & a Third
(Dark Horse Records)

It has been a long time coming, this album by George Harrison. His last few albums have been uninspired rock psalms heavy on the psalm, light on the rock. And we were witnessing the total dissipation of a quarter of the 1960's biggest legend, the Beatles. Harrison 'hosted' the most disastrous tour I have ever had the sorry luck to see (hosted because his own contributions to the musical show were minimal, and forgettable). And he seemed hit from all sides as Harrison was engaged in protracted court room struggles over the one hit song he'd authored since the Beatles' break-up, "My Sweet Lord."

The only healthy signs the Englishman showed were his occasional appearances with Python member Eric Idle on "Saturday Night Live," where he performed his single from the new album, "This Song."

Harrison seems to have borrowed a bit of Lennon's philisophy and taken his frustrations and concerns out in tune. "This Song" which is a jaundiced view of all his copyright hassles that succeeds as a tune too. Granted it's no "Taxman" or "Here Comes the Sun" but it's no dirge either. Quick, name two songs from Extra Texture.

Co-production from the ever lively Tom Scott is a helpful addition no doubt. But the dour side, the preachy, lame over-simplification-in-a-song attitude that produced so much boredom previously is underplayed. Note it is underplayed, not gone entirely. There are still a few songs that deliver an inspirational message. That is a fact we'll have to accept from Harrison, like Stevie Wonder, in his writing. But his concerns are at least authentic. He did organize the Bangala Desh benefit, after all.

So we again see the zany side of Harrison-in "Crackerbox Palace" most of all, but also in "This Song," Cole Porter's "Pure Love," and in an affectionate way, his tribute to Smokey Robinson, "Pure Smokey."

The music has more melody now, and his chosen sidemen, Billy Preston, Scott, Gary Wright, Willie Weeks, and Richard Tee, are given more musical roles. It all clicks here. And it has been a long time coming. This is his best effort in the last four, and while he has a way to go to gain our total attention, George Harrison's Thirty Three and a Third is an encouraging effort on his part. Bright signs.

Craig Roche

THE CHIEFTAINS
Bonoparte's Retreat
(Island)

STEELEYE SPAN
Rocket Cottage
(Chrysalis)

FAIRPORT
Gottle O' Gear
(Island)

Though it might seem to be an incredible disservice to the Chieftains by putting them with Steeleye Span and Fairport, it's really the only way to bring them to your attention. Hand in hand with the Boys of Lough, The Chieftains play traditional folk music as executed in days past. Essentially, The Chieftains are playing the roots of the electric folk movement. Followers of "folk into rock" would do well to investigate them.

I never expect The Cheiftains to achieve the popularity of Fairport Convention. Because of their necessary traditional posture, they'll never go electric. And so The Chieftains are more appreciated for what they represent, rather than listened to.

Of course this is a troubling shame. Boneparte's Retreat is their finest hour. They have dug even deeper and are consequently a tougher pill to swallow. Whereas Chieftains 5 saw the band in somewhat "accessible-commercial" vein, Retreat reaches into the heart of Gaelic folk music. It's highly ambitious venture too — the title track is a fourteen-minute collage of tunes dealing with the loss of the Gaelic culture to Ireland. Albums as wholely satisfying as Boneparte's Retreat could very well be responsible for a resurgence in the appreciation of ancient folk music.

The new Steeleye Span album sees the group in the coveted position as top dog concerning electric folk music. Rocket Cottage is more of the same Steeleye Span — large snatches of All Around My Hat commercialism and overall too familar familarity. It is never-the-less a good album.

Personally, I've always liked anything this band has put out. Rocket Cottage is a super electric, super eatable melting of past and present Span. With nary a bad tune in the lot, "The Drunkard" wins honors as best track by virtue of the incredible mood it sets — that of a remorseful vagabond who's not only ruined his life, but his families. "London" was the recent single in England and the best song Steeleye previewed in concert last October in Boston. Another treasure is "Fighting For Strangers," built and expanded on an oddly timed percussive rythim. It is easily the record's most ambitious and successful track.

Rocket Cottage may not be what the old fans want and I'm the first to admit that it isn't a Below The Salt or Parcel Of Rogues or Commoner's Crown. Taken on its own merits, Rocket is a perfectly acceptable helping of Steeleye Span. Unlike the rocky, embrassing end of Fairport Convention, Steeleye Span has been consistently good and have yet to turn in a mediocore record.

What keeps various Fairport Convention people clinging to the hope of recreating past brilliance is something I cannot figure out. Gottle O' Gear is yet another example of former FC members intent on disgracing that much loved band again. (Richard Thompson is the only exception — he has been nothing but brilliant.) One might be able to put up with the inconsistency of Rising For The Moon or A Moveable Feat, but the lack of anything worthy on Gottle O' Gear is a signal to give up in desperation. Has the man who composed "Sloth" with Richard Thompson, Dave Swarbick, really as far gone as Gear suggests? Maybe yes, maybe no. Leave this album alone and get any of Richard Thompson's wonderous albums. He also has a live album coming out in February too.

David Santos

dvp presents:

DR. WILLIAM NOLEN
author of Making of a Surgeon
on Medicine for the Future

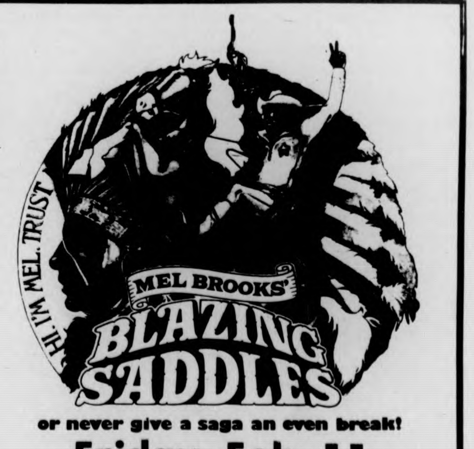
TONIGHT
8:00 p.m.
Thompson 102



or never give a saga an even break!
Friday, Feb. 11
3 Shows 7, 9, 11 o'clock
at the CCA
Admission $1.00

Keep The Homefries Burning

Thur 10

An informative film about a serious issue, see Not a Pretty Picture: A Case of Rape at Hooker Auditorium, Mount Holyoke at 8:30 p.m.

Listen to a gallery talk, The Paintings and Journal of Joseph Whiting Stock, at the Smith College Museum of Art. The talk is being given at 1:00 p.m. by Juliette Tomlinson of the Conn. Valley Historical Society.

The Program Council at UMass is sponsoring the film of Vonnegut's Slaughterhouse V in the C.C.A. tonite at 7:00, 9:00 and 11:00 p.m.

You might also want to check out Charlie Chaplin in Modern Times, a film sponsored by the Commuter Collective. Showing in the S.U.B. at 7:00, 9:00 and 11:00.

Want to listen to music? Jorg Demus, artist-in-residence, gives a piano recital featuring some works of Beethoven tonite at 8:15 in the Buckley Recital Hall, Amherst College.

Puppeteers, auditions will be held at Mt. Holyoke College for Nancy F. Jacobs' version of The Sword and the Stone from 7:30 - 10:30 p.m. at the Laboratory Theatre.

Fri 11

See the ever popular Harold and Maude for only $1.00 in the Main Lecture Hall, Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire College at 7:00, 8:40 and 10:15 p.m.

The Program Counsel will sponsor the film, Next Stop Greenwich Village in the S.U.B. at 7:00, 9:00 and 11:00 p.m.

Mel Brook's western parody, Blazing Saddles will be shown at the C.C.A. at 7:00, 9:00 and 11:00 p.m.

Charlie Chaplan fans, see The Great Dictator, for only 75 cents at Gamble Auditorium, Mt. Holyoke College at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m.

People's Choice Films presents The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz and the Pink Panther short, Slick Pink. At the Merrill Center, Amherst College at 8:00 and 10:00 p.m.

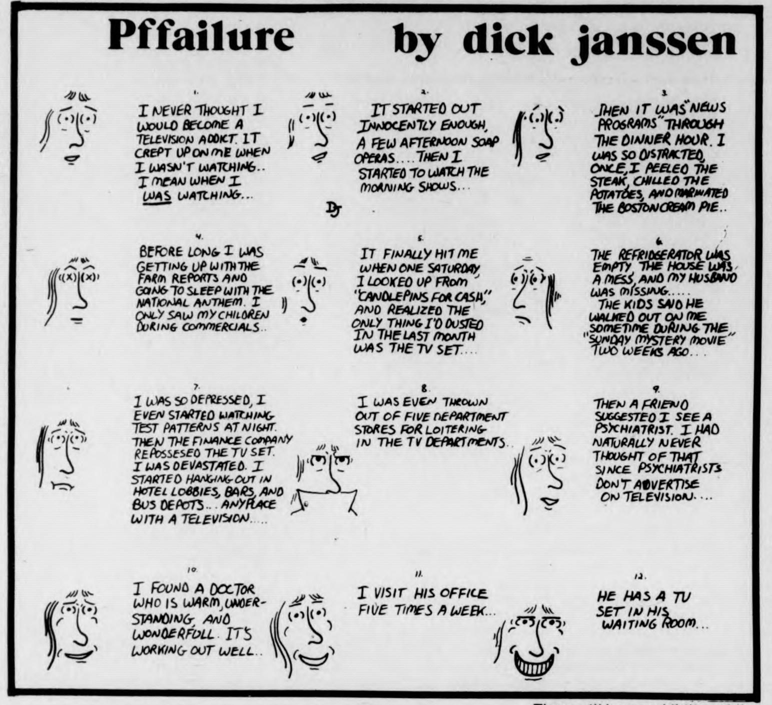
Enjoy a taste of dance culture with the Royal Winnepeg Ballet, who will be performing at the Concert Hall, F.A.C. at 8:00 p.m.

Listen to the works of Debussey performed by Jorg Demus, see Thursday.

If you enjoy poetry, guitar, and voice visit the Rathskeller South between 8:30 p.m. and 12:30 a.m. at Mt. Holyoke College.
Saturday, February 12

See Nancy Kelly in the 1956 drama The Bad Seed, for only 75 cents at Gamble Auditorium, Mt. Holyoke College at 7:30 p.m.

See the winner of the 1974 Critics Award at the Cannes Film Festival, Ali: Fear Eats the Soul in German with English subtitles at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. at Sage Hall, Smith College.



Pffailure by dick janssen
1.
I NEVER THOUGHT I WOULD BECOME A TELEVISION ADDICT. IT CREPT UP ON ME WHEN I WASN'T WATCHING.. I MEAN WHEN I WAS WATCHING...
2.
IT STARTED OUT INNOCENTLY ENOUGH, A FEW AFTERNOON SOAP OPERAS.... THEN I STARTED TO WATCH THE MORNING SHOWS...
3.
THEN IT WAS "NEWS PROGRAMS" THROUGH THE DINNER HOUR. I WAS SO DISTRACTED, ONCE, I PEELED THE STEAK, CHILLED THE POTATOES, AND MARINATED THE BOSTON CREAM PIE..
DJ
4.
BEFORE LONG I WAS GETTING UP WITH THE FARM REPORTS AND GOING TO SLEEP WITH THE NATIONAL ANTHEM. I ONLY SAW MY CHILDREN DURING COMMERCIALS..
5.
IT FINALLY HIT ME WHEN ONE SATURDAY, I LOOKED UP FROM "CANDLEPINS FOR CASH," AND REALIZED THE ONLY THING I'D DUSTED IN THE LAST MONTH WAS THE TV SET....
6.
THE REFRIGERATOR WAS EMPTY, THE HOUSE WAS A MESS, AND MY HUSBAND WAS MISSING..... THE KIDS SAID HE WALKED OUT ON ME SOMETIME DURING THE "SUNDAY MYSTERY MOVIE" TWO WEEKS AGO....
7.
I WAS SO DEPRESSED, I EVEN STARTED WATCHING TEST PATTERNS AT NIGHT. THEN THE FINANCE COMPANY REPOSSESED THE TV SET. I WAS DEVASTATED. I STARTED HANGING OUT IN HOTEL LOBBIES, BARS, AND BUS DEPOTS... ANYPLACE WITH A TELEVISION.....
8.
I WAS EVEN THROWN OUT OF FIVE DEPARTMENT STORES FOR LOITERING IN THE TV DEPARTMENTS...
9.
THEN A FRIEND SUGGESTED I SEE A PSYCHIATRIST. I HAD NATURALLY NEVER THOUGHT OF THAT SINCE PSYCHIATRISTS DON'T ADVERTISE ON TELEVISION....
10.
I FOUND A DOCTOR WHO IS WARM, UNDERSTANDING, AND WONDERFULL. IT'S WORKING OUT WELL..
11.
I VISIT HIS OFFICE FIVE TIMES A WEEK...
12.
HE HAS A TV SET IN HIS WAITING ROOM...

Chamber music lovers, enjoy Running the Musical Gamut by the Smith College Chamber Singers at 8:30 p.m. in the Gamut, Theatre Building, Smith College.

Sat 12

Attention active actors, singers, dancers, and musicians, auditions for 2 musicals, Godspell and The Ballad of Svejk will be held at 2:00 p.m. in Room 7 at the Music Center, Amherst. Godspell Auditioners are advised to wear clothing suitable for dancing, and have a song prepared.

The futuristic classic, 2001: A Space Odyssey will be shown at the C.C.A. at 6:30, 9:00 and 11:30 p.m.

The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz and Slick Pink, see Friday.

The Royal Winnepeg Ballet, Dance Series "B", see Friday.

Enjoy the works of Mozart performed by Jorg Demus, see Thursday.

Enjoy the classical music of Bach, Stravinsky, and others presented by the Coro Mount Holyoke and featuring Melinda Kessler Spratlan, soprano soloist at Pratt Auditorium, Mt. Holyoke College.

Gregory Peck fans, explore minority reactions to prejudice for free by viewing the film Gentlemen's Agreement at 4:00 in Gamble Auditorium at Mt. Holyoke College.

There will be an exhibition of the recent works of visiting artist, Richard Yarde at the Arms Gallery, Mead, Amherst College at 2:00 p.m.

Auditions for Godspell and The Ballad of Svejk will be held at 7:30, see Saturday.

Some local color: Leonard Bocour, president of Bocour Artist Colors, Inc., will lecture on The Memoirs of a Color-Maker, Mead Art building Auditorium at 8:00 p.m., Amherst College.

The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz and Slick Pink, see Friday.

David Bowie Fans, see The Man Who Fell to Earth, sponsored by the Program Council at the C.C.A. at 7:00, 9:15 and 11:30 p.m.

Sun 13

Enjoy the voice of Edris Smythe and music by Jonathan Cobb, pianist during Classical Songs, Operatic Arias and Solo Piano Works at Buckley Recital Hall, Music Center, Amherst College at 4:00.

If you enjoy Chamber Music visit Sage Hall, Smith College at 8:00 p.m. and hear the performance of the Smith College Music Department.

There will be a Faculty Recital at Mt. Holyoke College featuring the works of Mozart, Brahmx, and others at 8:15 in the Pratt Auditorium.

Explore minority reactions to prejudice for free by viewing the film Black Like Me at Gamble Auditorium, Mt. Holyoke at 4:00 p.m.

See the award winning film Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore at 7:30 p.m. at Gamble Auditorium, Mt. Holyoke College.

Mon 14

Auditions for Godspell and The Ballad of Svejk will be held at 4:00 and 7:30 p.m., see Saturday.

Partake in the Warbeke Memorial Concert and listen to the American String Quartet at 8:00 p.m. at the Pratt Auditorium, Mt. Holyoke College.

Take in 3 short plays, Rites, Aria Da Capo, and A Slight Ache, at Hallie Flanagan Studio Theatre, Smith College at 8:00 p.m. Tickets are free but must be presented at the door and are limited to two per customer. They will be available at the Theater Box Office between noon and 4:30 weekdays beginning Monday, February 7.

Tues 15

Spice up your Tuesday evening with a visit to the Concert Hall at the F.A.C. and take in the Quartetto Italiano presented by the UMass Arts Council at 8:00 p.m.

Department of Student Theatre Student Workshop Festival will present 3 short plays, see Monday.

Wed 16

See Ingmar Bergman's Cries and Whispers for $1.00 at the Main Lecture Hall, Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire College at 7:00, 8:45 and 10:30 p.m. Gene Kelley fans; see the classic An American in Paris, at Hooker Auditorium, Mt. Holyoke College at 9:00 p.m.

FILM / David and Rocky

by John Matthew

Look At That Cute Little Boyee With The Scarf... Outrageous rock star David Bowie seems headed fo a new career as a film director. His second screenplay, Young Americans. (his first, Ziggy Stardust) appears the project chosen for his directoral debut.

The impact that motion pictures have had on Mr. Bowie is fascinating, especially when one considers the concept of his latest disk, 'Low'. The cover photo from the film he starred, The Man Who Fell To Earth, is not there by accident. The record is a subjective view of the Earth fallen film character. Side one reflects the alien's observations of space travel and his early days spent on Earth, while side two reveals the loneliness he feels for his home and family. The final track, 'Subterraneans', combines two key elements of the film; the character's eternal existence on Earth with his planet's new life, forced underground in their search for water.

Imagination and sentiment of this level produce outstanding film. Imagine David Bowie at the Academy Awards. Rocky: The hype began in October....With $100 and a lot of heart Sylvestor Stallone created a deeply moving, totally entertaining motion picture.

America loves Rocky because Rocky is America. Millions of people in this country age knowing that their lives are totally insignificant, and with each reflection, time pushes man a bit closer towards complete decadence and utter uselessness. Rocky delivers because there's a bit or Rocky in all of us.

Rocky is not so much a film as it is a story. A good film director does not have to be an artistic genius, only someone with good judgement. Director Avildsen displayed this kind of judgement by keeping the technique simple and letting the action play. His style; use plent of wide angle medium close-ups and show a big, clear, objective picture of America's wasted lives. It's all here in the story so don't mess it up in the film.

As simple as this sounds few directors have the ability to film a story. It's similar to the man who operates the vinyl machine in a record manufacturing plant. The talent is packaged long before he does his job, yet it is his product which one ends up listening to. It's a technician's job, and few directors will admit that some stories only need be physically "filmed."

Rocky is this kind ot story. It is a portrayal of the true American way, a lifetime of dedication and then nothing. Just one chance to make it, to just 'go the distance', for that one moment is all any of us need to make an entire lifetime worthwhile. And the way Rocky and his aged manager, (played wonderfully by Burgess Meredith), deal with their moment is a beautiful, human story.

It's a must see film as its' inspiration might help to keep all of us working to achieve our own elusive 'moment of triumph'.

You'll be thinking about Rocky for a long, long time.

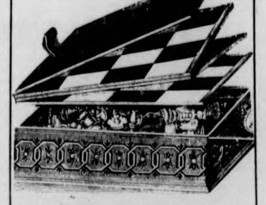
Next Week

Below the Salt

comes out to play.

(DIRTY)



Be thereor we'll start without cha!

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVI, ISSUE 84 FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1977

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/ Amherst, MA. 01003/ (413) 545-3500

MTA to represent faculty

By MARY BROWN
Collegian Staff

UMass faculty have voted to establish the Massachusetts Teachers Association (MTA) as their collective bargaining agent in a two-day election held this week at the Boston and Amherst campuses of the University.

The Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission, who conducted the election, announced today that the MTA had been elected by a 215 vote margin. A spokesperson for the commission said 1621 faculty voted out of the nearly 2000 eligible.

Last December, an election was held between the MTA, an affiliate of the National Education Association; the American Association of University Professors and "no agent." None received the simply majority required for a victory, and a run-off election was held Tuesday and Wednesday between the MTA and "no agent."

The MTA represents secondary school teachers, state and community college professors and UMass faculty at the Boston and Amherst campuses. Worcester is not included in the bargaining unit, and is not part of the group.

Larry S. Roberts, president of the Massachusetts Society of Professors (MSP), the MTA's campus affiliate, last night said the association hopes to be talking to the President within a "matter of weeks" to set up contract negotiations.

Roberts, a professor of zoology, said the group would immediately begin working on improving support for the University in the state legislature.

He said he is participating in a press conference on Saturday morning with higher education union leaders from around the state to draw attention to the governor's level funding budget proposals for higher education.

Roberts said it is "vital" that the legislature appropriate more than the governor's $108 million allocation for the University.

UMass President Robert C. Wood yesterday said he was "sorry that the faculty has turned away from the traditional structure of university governance. I still do not believe the collective bargaining mode is right for an institution devoted to teaching, research, and public services, nor do I believe it will deliver the economic benefits its proponents claim."

Wood made the remarks in a formal statement released to the press early in the afternoon.

In a press statement released yesterday, the Student Government Association stated, "Faculty unionization further exposes the myth that the University is governed by a commonality of interests."

Speaker of the Undergraduate Student Senate Brian Delima, yesterday said students now need to successfully organized their own union to protect their own interests under the law.

Delima said that while faculty collective bargaining may protect student interests in certain areas, student and faculty interests may not coincide on others, and students need to be represented in the negotiating process.

MSP President Roberts has said he is against having students sitting at the negotiating table because faculty and administrators may try to play off students as a third party on certain issues.

Roberts said his organization has not yet set up a vehicle for student involvement in the negotiating process, but that he would like to see student participation in the formation of a contract.

Student government liaison to the state legislature, Henry G. Ragin, yesterday said he has asked State Rep. James G. Collins, D-Amherst, to submit legislation which would allow student participation at the bargaining table.

He said this would not necessarily provide students with any power over decisions, but that it would provide students access to information.

The Student Organizing Project, a student activities fee supported group which has been working to organize students for three years, announced they would hold a meeting on Thursday night to discuss the implications of the faculty vote in relation to student organizing activity.

The meeting will be held in the Council Chambers on the top floor of the Student Union Building.

Joseph S. Larson, president of the Amherst chapter of the American Association of University Professors last night said his organization will be working hard to assist the MTA to get the best contract possible.

Larson, a professor of forestry and wildlife management, said that the AAUP will continue to monitor the standards of academic freedom at the University.

AAUP academic studies are used by most colleges and universities in the ccuntry to determine policies, and they remain the "basic standards of academic," he said.

Harold L. Boudreau, co-chairperson of the Committee for a Fully-Informed Faculty, said although the committee had hoped to avoid collective bargaining at the University, the group hopes to aid the MTA in avoiding some of the pitfalls in negotiating a contract for UMass faculty.

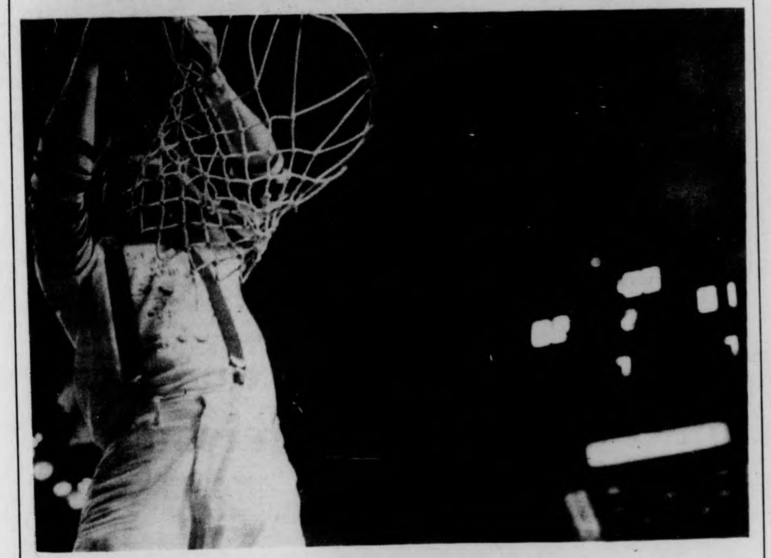
Boudreau said that there is a need to insert a strong merit clause as "an incentive to excellent" for faculty. Merit pay is monies individual faculty are granted on the basis of excellence.

Both Roberts and Larson agree that academic policy will still be determined by the Faculty Senate, and can only be indirectly affected by union negotiations concerning such topics as salary and tenure.

The press statement from UMass President Wood also stated that Wood will be meeting with counsel next week to consider a possible challenge of those who voted.

The labor relations commission ruled against the administration last fall to include departmental heads, parttime faculty, professional librarians and faculty on terminal contract in the bargaining suit.

The scoreboard tells the story...



UMass cheerleader Peter Roddy cuts down the net after the UMass 82-81 win over Rutgers last night. See story on page 24. (Staff photo by Jay Saret)

Riot in Hyde Park High forces one-day shut-down

BOSTON [UPI] — Fighting broke out between black and white students at Hyde Park High School yesterday, forcing the school to close for the first time this academic year.

Police arrested 18 persons, 16 whites and two blacks. A 17-year-old girl was slightly injured.

It was the first major disturbance in months at a Boston public school, scene of off-and-on racial tension for the past three years during the desegregation of classes under federal orders.

Fighting broke out in the corridors of Hyde Park after about 800 students, half of them black, showed up for classes.

"I was called at home and the secretary said there was massive turmoil. I was told a girl had her coat ripped off," said Tom Loftus, a spokesman for the school department.

"A large group of whites left the school and began throwing bottles and snowballs at the building. The blacks inside the school responded by throwing objects out of windows.

"An attempt was made to start classes, but it failed. The students would not go to class."

Loftus said the fighting had spilled into the streets by the time police arrived at 7:50 a.m.

"By then, the situation was out of hand," he said.

"It's one of the biggest incidents at Hyde Park this year," said Jack Kelly, deputy superintendent of schools.

Kelly said school buses with a heavy police escort were called to take the black students home after the decision was made to close the school for the day. The blacks quietly filed out of the school without incident.

Financial Aid: Bureaucratic game

By LAURY ROBERTS
Collegian Staff

This is the first segment of a two-part series aimed at unravelling the maze one encounters when obtaining financial aid at UMass. The first article concentrates on the state and University operations that award and disburse funds, and what a traditional student [recently out of high school, single, with no dependents], must deal with when s-he seeks financial assistance. The second article will focus on the problems faced by a non-traditional student [married, full or part-time parents, welfare mothers] who apply for financial aid.

WHAT YOU'RE UP AGAINST

Allocation of public funds to meet the financial needs of Massachusetts college students has resulted in bureaucracy: geared to the rule, rather than the exception, and struggling with budget problems of its own.

More than 16,000 financial aid applications were processed at the Financial Aid Office of UMass, Amherst last year, more than any other institution in New England. UMass awarded $10 million in federal and state monies for 1976-77, (none of which came from University coffers), but less than half of those students who applied for assistance were considered eligible for aid.

"Given the resources we have, no student should be forced to leave this institution because of financial need," said Daniel Fitzpatrick, director of Student Services. He says he spends about two-thirds of his time dealing with the Financial Aid Office in Whitmore. Fitzpatrick said he is not worried about the amount of aid money available, but rather having enough staff to properly handle the volume of paperwork.

The aid office is closed on Wednesdays for the remainder of the semester so employes may have time to process applications. Submission deadlines for "supporting documents" have been moved up and Fitzpatrick anticipates that most on-campus applicants will be notified of their eligibility before summer vacation.

"Some staff people were taking application folders home to work on them, but I don't like that because of the confidentiality issue," Fitzpatrick said. "Our office has never had an adequate budget in terms of staff."

Dukakis' budget cuts eliminated four positions from the aid office staff last year, followed by the resignation of then-director Richard Dent during the summer.

TURN TO PAGE 3

Collins to discuss CC financing bill

By JEAN CONLEY
Collegian Staff

Rep. James G. Collins, D-Amherst, will visit with Campus Center (CC) Management and the CC Board of Governors (BOG) today to discuss strategies for a bill to shift the cost of the CC to Massachusetts taxpayers.

The bill, submitted to the state legislature late last year by Collins, is not expected to pass in this session, according to acting CC Director Dean William F. Field, but he said at last night's BOG meeting that a good lobbying effort this year will help the bill.

The meeting will be held at 1 p.m. in the CC. The exact location of the meeting will be posted on the CC Daily Schedule.

In other business, the Board voiced its approval in "continuing and expanding" the check cashing operation at the Bursar's Office and in Goodell Library, if check cashing becomes a reality there.

Board members feel that check cashing is a necessity for students at the university, and BOG member Steven Later expressed concern that the check cashing location shuffle and reshuffle could be "the rationale for a commercial bank somewhere on campus." The Board opposed the idea of a commercial bank over a year ago, and it was subsequently "dropped from consideration as an alternative to our check cashing needs," Dean Field said.

Field said that although check cashing will probably cease within a month at the Student Union, the Bursar will continue to cash checks throughout the semester.

Earlier this week Bursar Robert Mishol said that office "cannot cope with the additional load" after the Student Union location closes.

Field said any insinuation that Goodell could be renovated and made ready for check cashing by the beginning of next semester is "jumping the gun by at least 12 months," in response to a statement by Student Senate co-President Jay Martus at Wednesday night's Student Senate meeting.

It's been getting warmer out; we can actually see some of the campus pond. Maybe we will soon be able to see the rest of it. (Staff photo by Steve Parrott)

GSEU demands: No cuts in TA salaries or jobs

By RICHARD E. BARRELL
Collegian Staff

Members of the Graduate Student Employees Union (GSEU) voted last night that UMass makes no cuts in T.A. salaries or jobs, said Stephen Oravecz, GSEU Information Coordinator.

About 25 union members met to discuss budget cuts, cost of living increases, and progress toward union recognition.

At present the GSEU, which grew out of meetings held in Spring 1975 to discuss the impact of budget cuts, has its application for union recognition being argued before the State Labor Relations Board. To date the group has legal expenses in excess of $5,000 with more expenses to come.

If the State Labor Relations Board rules favorably on their petition, GSEU will be allowed to hold a union election. A simple majority would then establish them as collective bargaining agents for graduate student employees, according to Monte L. Pearson, a union spokesperson.

To raise the necessary funds for legal expenses and operating costs, the group plans two major fundraising efforts. The first will seek to get graduate students to agree to a voluntary deduction of 50 cents from their weekly pay checks. The money collected would represent a dependable source of funds for day to day expenses, according to Joan L. Gancarski, treasurer.

The second effort involves a book sale to be held March 2-3 in the Cape Cod Lounge of the Student Union. Last year the group raised $500 with a similar sale. Donations of books and records for the sale may be left at 412 Thompson Hall, Mobile unit 3-A, a trailer located behind Thompson, or in the "EPS" graduate student room second floor Hills South, according to Pearson.

Other decisions made at the meeting were:

A change to Fridays at noon in the Campus Center as the new time and location for regular meetings. Meeting room locations will appear in Collegian notices.

Formation of a committee to schedule film showings for fund raising is also planned.

Persons interested in GSEU activities may contact Sherry L. Flashman Union President at 256-8078.

TODAY'S STAFF

Issue Ed Philip Milstein

Day Layout	Debbie Walters
Sports Layout	Mike Smolens, Mel Webster
Head Graphics Tech	Dennis Cahill
Wire Layout	Jill Clay
Photo Staff	Pat Buben, Jim Webb, Steve Parrott
Ad Layout	Ellyn Faber
B.	G.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

	Semester	Year
Off-campus delivery	$9	$15
On-campus delivery	$5	$ 9
Newsstand price	$.10
Faculty staff	$.05

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst and additional mailing in Ware, Mass. 01082. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Comm. Collective to question senate appointees on issues

By A. TRENEMAN
Collegian Staff

The Commuter Collective decided yesterday to interview its prospective student senate appointees to see how they stand on racism and sexism issues.

The collective has eight open positions in the student senate. Although an appointment to the senate would only be good until the senate elections March 15 and 16, it would permit votes on the important budget issues the senate is currently considering.

We aren't going to appoint someone who would vote down every Third World program, Lucia Bruno, Commuter Collective's program coordinator said. Appointees need not support all collective programs or be members of the collective.

Seven people have expressed interest in becoming members of the senate. All seven are white males. The members of the collective hope to attract some Third World and women representatives.

The interview will be conducted next Monday at 1 p.m. and Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. Any person wishing to get appointed to the Senate has to attend one of these informal meetings.

Also discussed was moving the Off-Campus Housing Office, currently located in Munson Hall, to the Commuter lounge. The lounge is used by a large number of students as a study room. An informal poll on student reaction to this move is being conducted.

The feasibility of offering people who commute from Greenfield, Springfield and other communities a reduction on their bus fare was brought up.

A carpool contact center using Easy Rider as its base was another topic to be discussed at a later meeting.

The collective is currently sponsoring a progressive film series. The films are shown Thursday nights at 8 and 10 p.m. Films this term include The History Book, Malcolm X Speaks, Burn, Blow for Blow, and Hearts and Minds.

It was decided to show a seven minute documentary film on Earl Brown and Craemen Gethers before the movies.

The collective, located in room 404 Student Union, is the commuting students area government.

NEAG settles coffeehouse dispute

By ED PORTER
Collegian Staff

Northeast Area Government (NEAG) settled a semester-long debate last night, by deciding to hold all five of this semester's coffee houses in Hamlin.

The debate centered around the choice between rotating the location of the coffee houses among all the Northeast dorms, or leaving them in Hamlin, where they were held last semester.

Stewart Gittelman, coffeehouse director, argued that the coffee houses should remain in Hamlin because of their success last semester. He stated that the coffee house would be more beneficial to Northeast residents if left there.

Opposition to this was led by Thatcher, which is planning to host a coffee house later this month. It was argued that any dorm should have the opportunity to host a coffee house if it wanted.

NEAG voted 10-8 to appropriate all its support to Hamlin.

Northeast area will have their first coffee house this Sunday evening, from 8 p.m. until midnight. Admission is free and is open to all Northeast residents. All musicians interested in participating in this or in future coffee houses should contact Stewart Gittelman at 546-9466.

Proposals were brought up to NEAG to reform present election policies. These reforms include moving elections up from late Spring to the last week of March. All elected officials would be required to attend NEAG meetings and to work in conjunction with present officers for the duration of the semester.

The purposes of the reforms, according to Savas Danos, NEAG vice-president, are to give more people the opportunity to run for office, and to insure a smooth transition from one administration to another.

Northeast needs a Student Senate representative. Anyone interested should contact Beth Tibbetts at 318 Dwight.

Correction

Volunteers in the Boltwood-Belchertown Project need not attend a weekly Sunday meeting. Only a three-hour commitment is necessary with transportation to and from the state school provided by Boltwood.

Also, the Mass. education budget makes up nearly 2.6 per cent of the entire state budget, not 26 per cent.

'Medicine still inexact science'

By JIM ALVES
Collegian Staff

Dr. William Nolen, surgeon, best selling author, and a native of Holyoke, told a packed audience in Thompson Hall last night, "medicine is still an inexact science."

Dr. Nolen, who now resides in Litchfield, Minn. and is associated with the Litchfield Clinic, spoke of the "failability of medicine" and stated, "The television image of the doctor as an omnipotent person is not true at all."

Much of Dr. Nolen's lecture concerned how he worked his way "through the ropes" of the medical profession and was sprinkled with humorous anecdotes.

"I spent four years worrying about whether I would get into medical school," he said, "which is what all pre-meds do. It spoils college education but that's the way it is, and I have yet to see a happy pre-med student."

"I came to the writing field rather late," he said. "I didn't do any writing at Holy Cross because as a pre-med I was obsessed with the fear that if I took the time out to write, some other pre-med might be up in the lab getting ahead of me."

After graduating from Tufts Medical School, Nolen did his internship at Bellevue Hospital in New York City. Many of his experiences there were included in his best-seller, "The Making of a Surgeon."

"When you graduate from Medical School the M.D. means you are probably not a public menace," he said. "The expectations of the internship are that you take your theoretical knowledge and convert it into practical experience and be more than a public menace. It doesn't always work that way, but usually it does."

Nolen stated he felt an urge to write about medicine, and his first works were technical medical articles that were of concern only to fellow doctors. After accumulating what he called "a huge pile of rejection slips," he finally had an article published in Esquire magazine that described, humorously, his first experience in major surgery.

"That finally got me into national circulation," he said.

"I get satisfaction doing what I can to help people," he said. "I'm sure that I have become a better surgeon because I am a writer. I hope to keep doing those two things, both are gratifying."

William Nolan, M.D. speaks before a capacity crowd in Thompson Hall last night. (Staff photo by Steve Parrott)

Title IX continues hearings to find sex discrimination

By NIKKI ARONSON
Collegian Staff

In an effort to comply with a 1972 congressional ruling on sex discrimination, the UMass Title IX Task Force is continuing hearings in several Student Affairs departments.

Some twenty persons attended open hearings conducted in the Campus Center this week by a select Evaluation Committee. Chairperson Lisa Grant explained the purpose of the hearings was to "obtain direct testimony from members of the University community" in regard to sex discrimination.

Grant began the hearing with questions about the general ambiance of the Registrar's office, where female clerical turnover is rapid while the male professionals stay for long periods of employment.

Clerical staffer Sandy Watkins answered, "The men pretty much leave us to do what they want us to do. When new rules are enforced the registrars pass it on to us. They let us know our job."

Many of the complaints that centered around hectic offices such as the registrar's were concerned with "overwork and poor pay."

Dean William Tunis of Admissions said "We are so understaffed at the professional level it's pitiful." He continued, "The problem is not so much a matter of discriminatory attitude as it is a matter of finance."

Many other professionals from Transfer and Data Processing departments concurred with the appraisal of the budgetary dilemna Tunis described. Due to understaffing, many women in clerical positions have had to assume extra duties as well as attend to the many students who come to the offices daily.

Clerical positions within Student Affairs departments are categorized by numbers. A class 3 worker would make less than $6,000 while the highest classified worker (a number 20) could earn upwards of $15,000. Discussion focused on women in low classification jobs "whose chances for advancement were remote" even though some were overqualified for their positions. Again funding was blamed as the reasons more high paying clerical and professional job openings weren't available.

Lynn Santer said she noticed that women were called by their first names while men, who were concentrated in professional positions were referred to as "Mister". Santer felt that the practice stood "as a good example of sex discrimination and was something that could actually be changed."

During the course of the two hour hearing, conversation lent itself to the problems of Student Affair departments and the student body. Kathy Ryan, assistant dean of Transfer Affairs questioned the effect male Admissions officers had upon female students. Ryan felt more women should be hired as admissions officers.

"I have had parents ask to speak to a man, even after I have identified myself," said Ryan.

Ryan suggested that this attitude resulted because "male admissions officers are there to present themselves as there are not enough female admissions officers."

Ryan also said the University Without Walls (UWW) program could use the support of Title IX as UWW could suit the needs of many women at a very low cost.

Dean Tunis explained that yearly visits to every high school in the state by the Admissions office helped to correct discrimination.

"We encourage students to focus on non-traditional majors. You would be amazed at the amount of women who apply to Stockbridge," he said.

Funding has limited the enrollment in many departments, yet Eli Sherman, Head of Transfer Affairs said there are alternatives. "Women interested in business are encouraged to major in economics and apply to graduate business programs," she said.

Title IX is concerned with both sexes. Emphasis was placed on the older man who returns to the University for courses, as he finds himself competing with credentialed women for jobs.

★ Financial Aid: Bureaucratic game

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

Fitzpatrick said the federal government may provide additional staffing funds, but he "figures we need to double our budget."

Fitzpatrick said he has initiated a new filing system in the Financial Aid Office and that lines have been divided into categories to quicken service. There is even a window labeled "EXPRESS," which, to many students who have waited in that line, is a misnomer. And it takes close to a month to get a counselling appointment.

Fitzpatrick cites the complicated mechanics of getting money to students once an award has been made.

"Our biggest problem is not in having aid money available, but in getting it from the bank to the student," he said.

Bursar, Robert R. Mishol said some of the data systems are antiquated, causing a three-week lapse between notice of an award and the student's receipt of cash through the Bursar's Office. A Financial Aid Task Force has been established by staffers of the Financial Aid Office, Registrar's Office, Systems (data processing and programming) and the Bursar's Office, to consolidate disbursement steps.

"We're aiming for one-day service," Mishol said.

According to Fitzpatrick "it will be another two to three years" before an accelerated data system is underway.

In spite of understaffing, Financial Aid Office lines look minimal compared to the lobby at the Bursar's Office when additional money (funds leftover in an aid package after tuition and fees are deducted) is disbursed.

"Excess" award monies are usually provided in two cash allotments, the first during the second week of the semester, and again four to five weeks later. Only three tellers are available to handle almost 4000 students.

"It's trying for everyone and very frustrating for students," Mishol said. "It's a peakish situation. We're so busy during those particular weeks that it's impossible to staff up for it properly."

He said check cashing was an extra burden and added that his office may follow the example of the aid office by closing one day per week so employes may catch up on paperwork.

Mishol refused to disclose the amount of cash the Bursar holds on allotment dates, but Fitzpatrick conceded the figure was over $1 million, indicating a security problem.

Mishol said he has considered distributing the funds in check form, but that it would add another step to the disbursement process.

> "There is a window labelled EXPRESS, but to many students who have waited in that line, that is a misnomer."
>
> — Daniel Fitzpatrick
> Director of Student Services

The money cannot be given out until after registration, so a check could not be sent to a student's permanent home address during vacations, while a mass mailing to the dorms could invite theft.

He said UMass disburses "excess" financial aid funds sooner than most schools, but students should bring enough money to cover the first week of school. However, many students are broke when classes start,and some have been unable to obtain required books because the stock was depleted before the student could afford the purchase.

Another level of bureaucracy the aid recipient may have to deal with is the Scholarship Office of the Board of Higher Education (BHE) in Boston. Its telephone lines are busy for hours at a time; a letter of inquiry usually goes unanswered.

The BHE awarded $11.5 million in state scholarships this year. The money is distributed to students through individual schools. Only one in three students who apply (and every Massachusetts financial aid applicant is required to do so) receives an award.

"We are not reaching everyone we should," said BHE Chancellor, Le Roi Keith. "We are just scratching the surface of those students who have a serious need."

Keith, former UMass vice president, said his office has requested an additional $1 million dollars for scholarship money for next year, plus a boost in personnel. The common cry of understaffing appears to be especially valid at the Scholarship Office where seven employes processed 65,000 applications this year and handle 200 phone calls per day.

"They've been using that excuse for years," says Mishol. "That agency is my pet peeve; the most frustrating aspect of giving out aid money."

Although Keith said scholarship checks went out to the colleges earlier this year than in the past two years, they did not arrive at UMass until December. Keith said he was unaware of the delay.

"They're an outside agency, but we're constantly defending them to the students," Mishol said. "We've got problems of our own."

BHE Vice-Chancellor Graham Taylor said the delay was due to a new requirement that every recipient include a copy of his tax return with the acceptance card. Thus, the office had to also check 25,000 student tax forms.

"We are reviewing the 1040 requirement and looking at ways to simplify and expedite the reaffirmation process," Taylor said. "We just can't handle all these tax returns."

He added that BHE spring checks should arrive at UMass within two weeks.

HOW TO GET ON THE BANDWAGON

To apply for and receive financial aid without having a nervous breakdown or assaulting a state employe, be prepared to stand in line.

APPLY EARLY. If you want your fall fee bill cleared by July, applications must be in by Tuesday, Feb. 15, and the "supporting documents" by April 15. If you want your bill cleared by August, applications must be in by March 15, and the "supporting documents" by May 15.

You must fill out no less than five different forms, all available at the aid office in Whitmore. Aid money, no matter from what source, will be funnelled through the University. Aid is awarded strictly on the basis of need.

Financial Aid Form. Everyone fills this out and sends it to the College Scholarship Service in Princeton, N.J. Within four to six weeks a computer will determine how much money the student deserves and-or how much the folks should contribute, and an eligibility index will be sent to UMass. This is just a computer service and does not give money. In fact, it costs to have the form processed.

Don't lie, but you will have a better chance of receiving aid if you declare yourself an independent student, particularly if you are in "the middle class bind" — your parents can afford to help you, but don't. Being independent means you cannot live at home for more than two weeks, receive $600 worth or more of aid from your parents, and they cannot claim you on their income tax for 1976, 1977 or 1978.

If it's too late to work that strategy this year, start planning on it for next year. Just be sure you don't earn too much money as an independent student. If you can legitimately take this route, you'll have to send a notarized statement, through the FAF for BHE, from your parents saying they won't claim you for at least three years.

The FAF is considered a "supporting document" as it must be returned to UMass before your aid package can be calculated.

UMASS APPLICATION — A longer, but less complicated form than the FAF. It will ask for your parents' 1040 if you are dependent, or if you are filing as an independent for the first time. If you are already independent, it will request your own 1040 copy. UMass considers you for low interest loans, as well as grants and work study money. You can indicate what type of aid you prefer.

If you are a part-time student you will get less consideration. Special and non-degree undergraduate and graduate students are not eligible. It is expected that graduates, seniors and juniors save $700 over the summer, while sophomores should save $600 and freshmen, $500.

Read the directions and MAKE COPIES OF EVERYTHING tax returns and all applications.

VIEWPOINT

[Editor's Note] — Viewpoint is a column designed for our readers to express their views on various subjects. In this manner, the staff of Black Affairs hopes to establish an open line of communication between our readers and us. Viewpoint does not necessarily represent the opinion of Black Affairs. All articles must be typed.

For whites and for all

I would like to thank Valerie E. Young for such a beautiful article that appeared in Wednesday's issue of the Collegian. Not only because of its content, but also because the article gave me an opportunity to write. Having a nature of wanting to praise rather than give criticisms, I was waiting for my chance, and here it is.

It did not occur to me that many whites view the case of Earl Brown and Craeman Gethers as a "Black problem," until I came across with a white friend who said, "Don't black students have any other problem other than the case of Earl and Craeman? I'm tired of reading the same damn thing every day in the paper." I just couldn't pass that up. So I started to question her of how much she knew of the case. Astoundingly, I found out she knew practically nothing about it. I guess many whites do dismiss the plight of Earl Brown and Craeman Gethers as being a "Black problem," when in reality the "problem" is a white one inherent in our white system. Like Valerie said in the article, "It is our system, we maintain and support it simply by allowing it to exist, and therefore we are responsible for its actions."

Growing up with the system that tells us to mind our own business only, could very easily make us feel so apathetic that nothing seems to matter but one's self. But you know as well as I do that this is not the case. It could happen to you or to me tomorrow. It is not only a white problem, for whites can also be the system's victims, just as Craeman and Earl are its victims. I, an Asian American, another victim of the system is not against all whites. I am fighting against the system and those with power who can oppress us economically and politically. If you are white without power, then you are just as trapped as we are.

I hope the issue Valerie raised in the article has changed some views so that everyone can stand by us, supporting our friends and fighting the system together.

Thanks again to Valerie.

Sookie N. Choo

'Hurricane' Carter's judge refuses to disqualify himself

PATERSON, N.J. [UPI] — The judge who presided at the second murder trial of former boxer Rubin "Hurricane" Carter and John Artis refused Wednesday to disqualify himself from handling their sentencing and new trial requests.

The case became a cause celebre between the two trials with folk singer Bobby Dylan and others speaking out on behalf of Carter and Artis.

The request for disqualification came as the two appeared before Passaic County Court Judge Bruno Leopizzi for sentencing on their second convictions in the 10-year-old case.

Leopizzi also rejected a request by Artis' attorney to order a hearing to determine if the prosecution withheld the results of a lie detector test which allegedly exonerated the defendants.

During the second trial Prosecutor Burrell Ives Humphreys charged that Carter and Artis, both blacks, had killed three whites in racial revenge for the murder of a black bartender by a white gunman several hours earlier.

At the second trial the attorneys attempted to show that DeSimone had offered favors to a key prosecution witness, Alfred P. Bello, an ex-convict, in return for his damaging testimony at the trial.

Bello testifed at the second trial that he saw the defendants running from the Lafayette Grill shortly before three persons were found fatally wounded.

Lewis Steele, the attorney for Artis, said a lie detector test given Bello two years ago showed he was telling the truth when he recanted his 1967 trial testimony and said two other men had shot the four victims.

Bello later rejected the recantation and again testified against Carter and Artis.

The murders were committed during a period of racial unrest in Paterson. Carter and Artis were granted new trials last March 17 when the New Jersey Supreme Court ruled evidence had been withheld from the defense in the first trial.

Andrew Young in Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria [UPI] — U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Andrew Young Thursday met with Nigerian head of state Lt. Gen. Olusegun Obasanjo at the government State house.

Sources close to the talks said Young and Obasanjo discussed the southern Africa problem and the role that the two countries could play in settling differences there.

BOSTON: Black students leave Hyde Park High School yesterday as racial violence erupted inside the building causing school officials to call off classes for the day.

Britain and Rhodesia need to agree, says Nyerere

[AP] — President Julius K. Nyerere said recently the next step in the drive for majority rule in Rhodesia is for Britain and Rhodesian black nationalists to agree on what they want.

The Tanzanian president, a slender, greying man with a small moustache, spoke with reporters after holding a second meeting in three days with Andrew Young, the new U.S. ambassador to the United Nations. Young is on a mission to sound out African leaders about South Africa.

They met the first time Friday in Zanzibar during national festivities there, and the second meeting was at Nyerere's whitewashed seaside official residence.

"After the British and the nationalists agree, and if Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith proves to be the stumbling block, we hope the United States will take a leading role in seeing that Smith is put out of the way," Nyerere told reporters gathered on an open veranda.

He suggested the means could be tightened economic sanctions and more careful policing of existing sanctions.

In another development, American and other foreign tourists, stranded in Tanzania by the government's closing of its border with Kenya in an airline dispute, were flown out of the country on Pan American planes chartered by the U.S. and West German governments.

The border was closed Thursday, and Tanzanian police were ordered to seize all vehicles and airplanes with Kenyan registration. This stranded tourists who had driven into northern Tanzania on safaris from Kenya.

Sitting at Nyerere's side at the news conference in an open-necked white shirt, Young had high praise for the president's "wisdom and integrity."

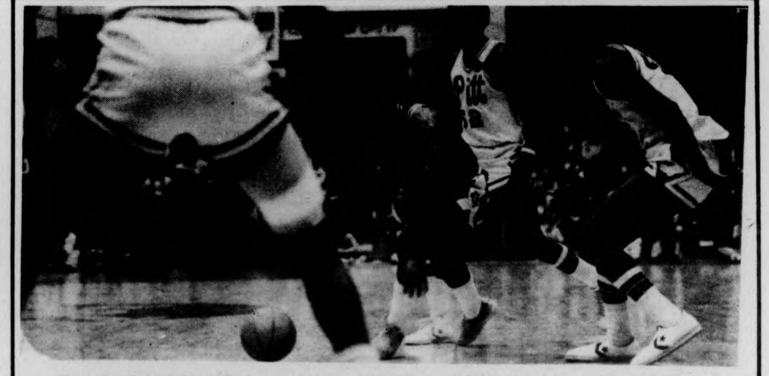
"Now I understand why they call him 'Mwalimu'," he said, using the title "teacher" by which Nyerere is known throughout his nation.

"I think what the president is saying is that Britain and the nationalists should have a thorough understanding of what the situation is," Young said. He said that in all his talks with African leaders, he had found that the Rhodesian black nationalists and the states bordering Rhodesia had no common strategy or goal in their struggle against Smith's white minority regime.

In his meetings Young said he also has found a common desire not to abandon the Geneva conference on the future of Rhodesia. The talks were recessed by British Chairman Ivor Richard after Smith rejected the Briton's proposal for a multiracial transition government headed by Britain.

Nyerere also firmly rejected asking South Africa to pressure Smith into any concessions.

"I want pressure on South Africa in regard to Namibia and not Rhodesia," Nyerere said, referring to South-West Africa by its African name. "I think it's absurd to think you can use South Africa against racism. How can that be?"



Do it Brother! Alex Eldridge surrounded by four Pitt defenders, goes down low as he weaved in, out, and past the opposition in last week's win over Pittsburgh. (Staff photo by Jay Saret)

Soweto students continue struggle

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa [UPI] — Police fired volleys of teargas to disperse thousands of students burning their books in the black ghetto of Soweto Wednesday and warned they will use bullets to break up any future protests.

The Soweto police chief, Col. Jan Visser, warned all students to be in class Thursday or "feel the full might of the law."

Students campaigning for a boycott of school examinations stormed classrooms and dragged other pupils away from their desks. Other bands of youths attacked passing cars and trucks with rocks.

Police fired teargas to disperse crowds of 4,000 and 2,000 youths in three hours of rioting at two high schools. Militant youths at five of the ghetto's 282 schools danced around bonfires of textbooks chanting antigovernment freedom songs and waving their clenched fists in the black-power salute.

Student sources said police made several arrests. A police spokesman said only one 20-year-old demonstration leader was taken into custody.

The police chief told a meeting of headmasters that youths found on the streets during the day would not be considered students but troublemakers.

"Students who roam the streets will feel the full might of the law. Police have been instructed to be tough on such people," Visser said, and he warned police might begin shooting if trouble continues.

The police official in charge of riot control, Maj. Gen. David Kriel, said the ghetto was "tense but under control." Officers said large contingents of reinforcements would be moved into the township.

There were no injuries and normal routine countinued at most of the schools, which have an enrollment of 200,000 pupils in the segregated suburb 15 miles southwest of Johannesburg.

Soweto first blew up in June last year and bloody riots spread across South Africa's major centers in protest against the government's education system and racial apartheid policies.

Black Affairs

Open invitation

The Afro-Am Society of Amherst College cordially requests your presence for an informal gathering of the Afro American Society of the 5 Colleges.

There will be speakers from each of the Afro-Am Societies. Beginning at 4 p.m. there will be a film entitled, "Xala." At 6 p.m. dinner will be served featuring "good home cooking," and live entertainment.

At 8 p.m. Earl Brown will speak on the strategy for Craemen Gethers defense.

Starting at 10 p.m., there will be a party.

Everything is to take place this Friday, February 11th in the Gerald Penny Memorial Black Cultural Center. There is a $2 donation. All proceeds will go to the Craemen Gethers Defense Fund.

Carter urged to help in Indian suit

WASHINGTON [AP] — Sen. Edward Brooke is urging President Carter to name a prominent American to head an effort to reach an out-of-court settlement to Indian claims to land in Maine and Massachusetts.

Brooke, a Massachusetts Republican, made the proposal Monday in a letter sent to two town selectmen of Mashpee, Mass., where Wampanoag Indians are claiming the entire resort town of 17,000 acres on Cape Cod.

Democratic Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the Bay State's other U.S. Senator, said through a spokesman on Tuesday that he planned to meet this wek with the state's congressional delegation to try to resolve the dispute between the Indians and the communities of Mashpee and Sandwich.

"I believe it would be useful to urge the President to appoint as his personal emissary an American of considerable public stature to review the cases pending in Maine and Mashpee and see if a satisfactory settlement can be reached out of court. I intend to try to peruade President Carter that it would be worthwhile to make such an attempt to expedite matters," Brooke said.

His letter was to Selectmen George Benway and Kevin O'Connell, who had written to him in January about legislation ensuring land titles and federal guarantees for emergency loans to businesses in Mashpee. A spokesman in Brooke's office said business in Mashpee, especially real estate, has been severely hurt by the Indian claims that have opened up questions about title to land in the town.

The claims in Mashpee could amout to $250 million, Brooke's spokesman said.

The Maine case involves claims by the Passamaquoddies and the Penobscots. Both tribes have gone into federal court, suing for 12.5 million acres in Maine, more than half the state, that they say were wrongfully taken from them in the 1790s.

Thoughts:

Pyatt, Claiborne, and Eldridge.
You all SMOKED!!

Pyatt, Claiborne, and Eldridge

Murderer of Dr. King's mother; motion denied

NEW ORLEANS, [UPI] — The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals today upheld the conviction of Marcus Wayne Chenault, who was convicted of fatally shooting the mother of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and a church deacon.

The court upheld a lower court decision finding him guilty of murdering Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr., Deacon Edward Boykin, and assaulting Mrs. Jimmie Mitchell.

Chenault, who was convicted Sept. 12, 1974, raised 16 points on which he said the state district court acted improperly.

He contended he was entitled to a hearing on whether he was mentally competent to stand trial, but the appeals court held no hearing was necessary.

A three-judge panel of the appeals court held Chenault's federal constitutional rights were not violated in any of the areas he questioned.

BLACK AFFAIRS
NEEDS
WRITERS AND POETS·
All interested students should contact
Nasser Ega
or Angela Thomas
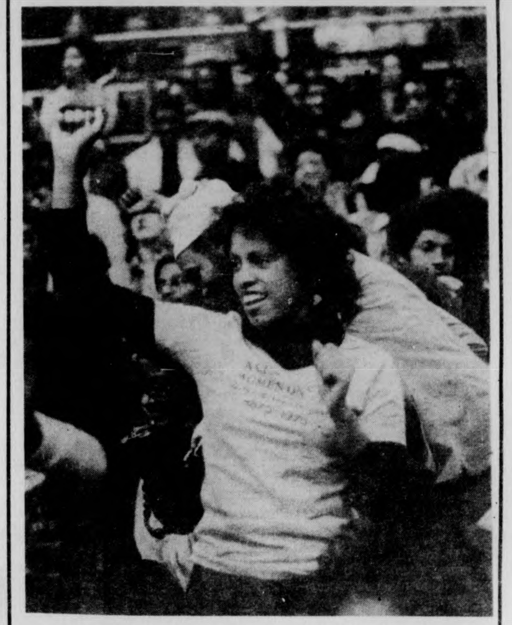
at the Collegian
(545-3500)



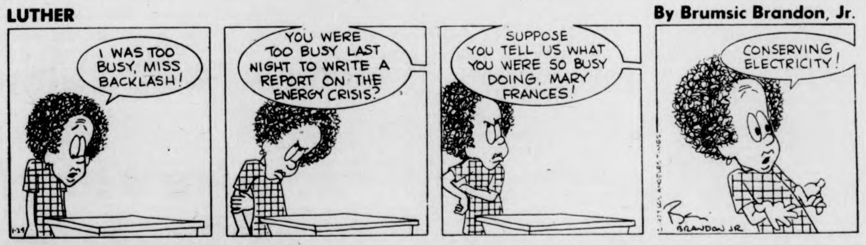
Picture of the Week: Every Friday Black Affairs will present a picture that we feel stands out from the usual pictures one might see. Today's picture features a sister from a recent UMass game. She does seem to be enjoying herself, doesn't she? (Staff photo by Jesus Nova)

It's not enough that

WASHINGTON — The Carter administration urges Congress to ban Rhodesian chrome from the United States and pledges that if negotiations for black rule fail the United States will not escalate American involvement in Rhodesia.

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.



I WAS TOO BUSY, MISS BACKLASH!
YOU WERE TOO BUSY LAST NIGHT TO WRITE A REPORT ON THE ENERGY CRISIS?
SUPPOSE YOU TELL US WHAT YOU WERE SO BUSY DOING, MARY FRANCES!
CONSERVING ELECTRICITY!
BRANDON JR

Announcements

Broadway tickets

The trip to see "Colored Girls" is tomorrow. Buses will leave New Africa House at 12 noon and return to new Africa at 1 a.m. All who have tickets please be at New Africa House by 12 noon.

The Third World Women's Center will be having a meeting this Sunday, February 13th in B-18 Baker.

All women who are going to see "Colored Girls" are asked to come out so that we may get together and discuss the play and its significance.

Also all women who are interested in working on the Third World Women's Weekend are also urged to come out. The weekend is scheduled for March and will include a play — "Distant Voices," an art exhibit, fashion show, and concert.

For more information, attend the meeting at 4 p.m. in B-18 Baker, and come out and meet women who are interested in meeting you.

Weekend happenings

Asian disco party

This Saturday, February 12th, there will be an Asian's New Year Disco Party sponsored by the 5-college Asian American Coalition.

The party will take place on the 10th floor of the Campus Center here at UMass from 8 until 1 p.m.

Melville party

There will be a party Saturday night February 12th at Melville dorm located in the Southwest area of UMass.

Correction

Contrary to the rumor, Butterfield is not having a party this weekend.

New Menu
Small Sampling
HAHJEE'S
Daily 11:00 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Weekends 'til 1:00
Route 9 in Hadley Call 584-9797
Appertifs:
SHARUBE HAHJEE rose water, honey and white wine blended together with very light cream garnished with a lice of fruit $1.15
Crepes:
CREPE BAKHARA Chicken prepared in a spicy curry sauce wrapped in crepes; salad with Hahjee's Special Dressing $3.50
Dessert:
CREPE PORTAGAL Mandrian Oranges and vanilla ice cream rolled in a crepe topped with bitter-sweet chocolate and fresh orange $1.25
*On Tuesday nights come see our
Arabic Dancer*
We also have a large selection of Vegetarian Dishes.

DINING COMMONS DINING COMMONS DINING COMMONS DINING COMMONS DINING COMMONS DINING COMMONS DINING COMMONS
NEW WEEKEND
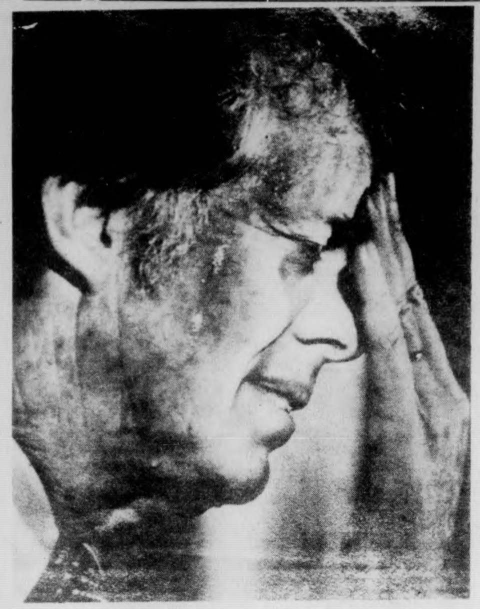
HOURS
4:00 - 6:30 PM
MENU LISTINGS
DAILY
IN THE
COLLEGIAN
or call 545-2626



WASHINGTON: Perspiring from the television lights, President Carter addresses the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development. (UPI)

Energy policy threatens Carter-Congress relations

WASHINGTON [AP] — If there is a cloud threatening the so-far sunny relations between President Carter and the Democratic Congress, it is the thankless task of developing a national energy program, House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill says.

"Everything is regional, everything is parochial," O'Neill said, citing New England's concern over fuel oil.

Regional interests and needs are so diverse, he said, that although the past Congress passed a number of energy-related bills, it failed to produce an overall system to cope with shortages.

Carter has said he will send a comprehensive energy program to Congress in April, warning that it will call for sacrifices and may not be popular.

O'Neill was asked whether there is a parallel between the beginning of the Carter administration and that of the late Lyndon B. Johnson, who also was able to work with a heavily Democratic Congress. Johnson quickly pushed through major domestic programs, but fell into controversy so deep that he decided against seeking a second full term.

O'Neill, one of the first Democratic leaders to turn against continuation of the Vietnam war, said it was that conflict that caused Johnson's problems and that nothing comparable is in sight for Carter.

"The energy policy is the biggest problem I see," O'Neill said.

O'Neill said Democratic leaders will do their best for the President, urged on by appeals from constituents to "give him a chance."

But O'Neill hinted he is less impressed by Republican promises to avoid obstruction and give the new administration a chance.

"I think they'll be sitting back in the weeds somewhere," he said.

FBI director needed

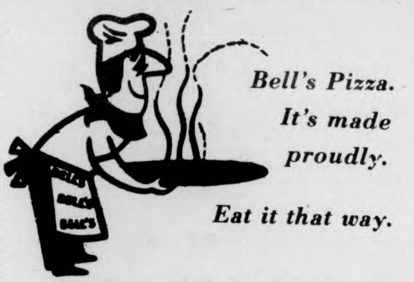
WASHINGTON [UPI] — President Carter will appoint a committee to "canvass the nation" for a new FBI director who can restore the bureau's old-time prestige, Attorney General Griffin Bell said yesterday.

"I'm looking to time when the FBI is an institution that is respected by all Americans, as they used to think of the FBI," Bell said in his first meeting with reporters since taking office two weeks ago.

Bell also revealed he is thinking about giving the investigative duties of the Drug Enforcement Administration to the FBI and is broadening the FBI's involvement in organized crime, white collar crime, price-fixing and monopolies.

Bell said he has spent much of his time seeking a replacement for FBI Director Clarence Kelley, who has asked to retire Dec. 31. Bell considers the goal so important that he is establishing an office for himself in FBI headquarters.

"I'd like to have nine people canvass the nation and come up with people they think are qualified," Bell said.



Bell's Pizza House

Bell's Pizza.
It's made proudly.

Eat it that way.

Free Delivery on Campus Sun.-Thurs.

256-8011 253-9051 65 Univ. Drive

Carter says family important

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Jimmy Carter brought the house down yesterday when he told startled federal employes, with a big grin: "Those of you who are living in sin, I hope you'll get married."

A whoop of laughter shook the first floor cafeteria at the Department of Housing and Urban Development, where hundreds had gathered to see the President in the flesh and hear the latest of his personal pep talks for rank and file civil servants.

The moment they had not really been waiting for came in the midst of a lecture on the integrity of the family. Carter, speaking from a platform, was urging the full-house audience not to work so hard as to neglect their spouses or children.

"We want to protest the integrity of the family," he said. "We need a stable life to make us better servants of the people.

"So those of you who are living in sin, I hope you'll get married."

When the crowd got over that, he added, smiling: "Those of you who have left your spouses, go back home. And those of you who can't remember your childrens' names, get reacquainted."

The HUD appearance was his second departmental visit of the day and the fourth in two days.

He started out Thursday by walking across East Executive Avenue in bright sunshine from the White House to the Treasury Department, where about 400 employes awaited him in a room once used to cash Treasury Securities.

He got a big laugh there, too, when he told the group their department — which includes the Internal Revenue Service — "touches more people in a more sensitive way" than any other government agency.

Some Treasury employes stood in line for more than an hour to see Carter.

They greeted him with sustained applause and cheering, and — despite his standard line that he's just a public servant and "no better than any of you" — it was plainly a celebrity worship occasion for some.

The first person singled out to ask Carter a question asked for his autograph. The audience roared with laughter.

A female Treasury employe said after the 30-minute visit: "The news cameras don't do him justice. He's better looking in person."

At each stop Thursday, the President repeated some of the inspirational comments he made in visits to the Labor and Commerce Departments Wednesday.

He said there is urgent need to convince the public the government is once again "competent" and "honest."

"We are not bosses to anyone," he said. "We are servants to the American people." He plans to visit each of the federal departments.

film workshop:

RACISM

Can a white person understand and emphathize with a black person's daily experience in a majority white society?

How does a white ethnic relate to American society?

These questions form the basis of a workshop on RACISM AND PREJUDICE.

featuring

SATURDAY, FEB. 12
"Black Like Me"
introduced by
Dr. Julius Lester, Prof. AFRO-AM Studies, UMass.

SUNDAY, FEB. 13
"Gentlemen's Agreement"
introduced by
Dr. David Wyman, Prof. History, UM

Hampden D.C. 3:30 p.m. Feb. 12, 13

Sponsored by: Patterson Dorm, Hillel, Center for Interdisciplinary Studies, S W Assembly, Center for Racial Understanding, Residence Arts Series, Resources Judaica

The PERFECT Valentine's Day Gift

Give Your Picture to Your Valentine!

LOVING PORTRAITS TAKEN AND DEVELOPED IMMEDIATELY
PICTURE WITH FOLDER FOR
ONLY $2.49
PICTURES TAKEN IN THE MALL
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 12
12 NOON TO 7:30 PM.

MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL
Rt. 9 Hadley

Rhodesian warfare kills 41 persons

SALISBURY, Rhodesia [UPI] — Rhodesia reported yesterday 41 persons killed in the past two days of guerrilla warfare in a communique issued only hours after the burial of seven Roman Catholic missionaries massacred by black insurgents.

The government said the new deaths included 18 black guerrillas and eight black civilians who were "actively assisting a terrorist gang."

It brought to 2,487 the guerrillas slain since the war began in December, 1972 and to 174 this year. Rhodesian forces have suffered 219 killed in the war with 19 in 1977.

The communique said the dead included five black civilians shot for "breaking the curfew in an operational area at night" and said "terrorists murdered" seven black rhodesian men and two women. One black woman was killed when her wagon detonated a guerrilla landmine.

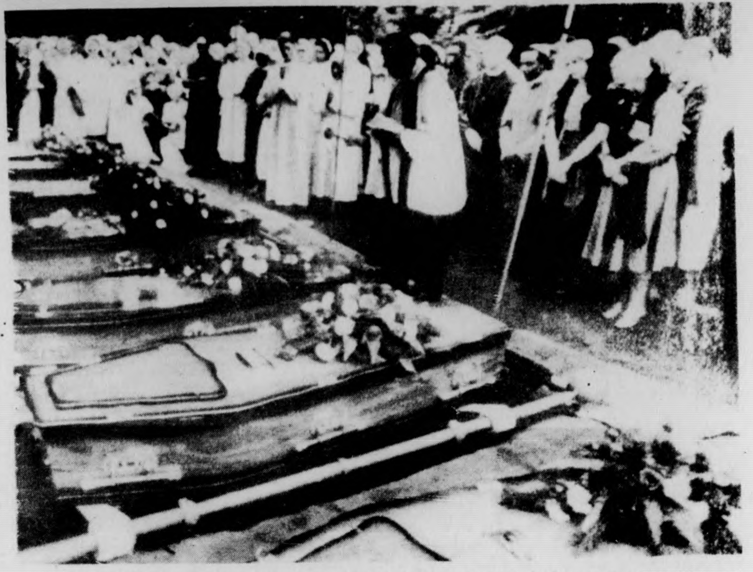
The casualty report came hours after four Dominican nuns and three Jesuit priests shot down on a roadside Sunday night were buried in a small graveyard at Chishawasha Mission on Salidbury's outskirts.

At the mass, several black nuns sobbed as they passed the open coffins of those slain.

The Rev. Isidore Chikore, a black priest, delivered a homily in which he repeated a statement made the night before by the Rt. Rev. Donal P. Lamont, Bishop of Umtali, who is appealing a 10-year prison term handed down for his refusal to report a guerrilla presence and telling subordinates to do the same.

Lamont called the murders a "diabolical crime" and said:

"I cannot say who is immediately responsible for it. Those remotely responsible for it are the authorities, who have refused to face the fact that the majority of the population of Rhodesia does not enjoy equality under the law nor equal opportunity in the civic, political, economic and cultural life of our country, nor have they any effective share in decisionmaking."



SALISBURY: The Rev. Patrick McNamara sprinkles holy water on coffins of seven white missionaries slain by black terrorists last Sunday. (UPI)

OPEN HOUSE

SATURDAY NITE FEB. 12
9 - 1
at
ZETA PSI
23 Phillips St.

Miller Beer & Wine Served

Kiritsis offered immunity for release of hostage

INDIANAPOLIS [UPI] — Tony Kiritsis held out with an imprisoned hostage for a third day yesterday in an apartment police feared to storm because he said it was booby-trapped with dynamite.

Prosecutors said there was mounting optimism that the abductor would accept an offer of "complete and total" immunity, release his hostage and emerge before the end of the day from his besieged west side home.

Kiritsis, 44, was holed up in the third-floor apartment with real estate executive Richard Hall, 42. He took Hall prisoner Tuesday vowing to get revenge for being cheated in a business deal.

The offer of immunity from prosecution was issued Wednesday night by the Marion County prosecutor's office, but Kiritsis refused to budge until his attorneys reviewed the offer and determined to their satisfaction — and his — that it was valid.

Deputy Prosecutor David Rimstidt said yesterday afternoon the attorneys had reviewed the proposal and, "I think they were completely satisfied with the document."

George Martz, another deputy prosecutor, said it was "just a matter of winding things down — the attitude is extremely optimistic."

"There was no other choice," Martz said of the decision to offer immunity. "It had to be done."

While his lawyers reviewed the immunity proposal in their downtown offices, Kiritsis took to the telephone again, calling radio station WIBC to renew his gripes against the real estate firms with which Hall is associated.

He also used the occasion to lambaste the real estate business in general.

"I found more unethical, selfish, deceitful people in the real estate business than any place I've ever been, including the used car business," he said.

Hall's ordeal began Tuesday morning when Kiritsis confronted him in his downtown office, wired a shotgun to his head and marched him six blocks through city streets. Then Kiritsis commandeered a police car and drove with Hall to the apartment seven miles away.

At least 200 police officers surrounded the apartment building but did not try to enter Kiritsis' quarters. He told them it was wired with dynamite, and police confirmed he recently had purchased 25 sticks of dynamite.

Hall reportedly was bound with rope or chains but was given food and water by his captor, police said. The shotgun was re-attached to Hall's head Wednesday night after Kiritsis thought police might be ready to rush the apartment.

"The man fell asleep and I fell asleep," Kiritsis said. "We were wired together."

Sat. HATCH night only

ZonKaraZ

Return Performance

POSITIONS OPEN

The Student Government is currently accepting applications for the position of

Director of Communications

and the position of

Affirmative Action Officer

Applicants should have some experience in their respective fields, and must be undergraduates. More information and application forms are available in the Student Senate Office, 420 Student Union.

The SGA is an Equal Opportunity Affirmative Action employer.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT
ASSOCIATION

Campaign contributions revealed in testimony

BOSTON [UPI] — A former vice president of a New York consulting firm testified yesterday in the political corruption trial of two Massachusetts lawmakers he flew "all over the United States" making "hundreds" of campaign contributions for the company.

William Harding said he made the trips during the same period his firm, McKee-Berger-Mansueto Inc., allegedly paid $40,000 in extortion to Massachusetts Senate assistant Minority Leader Ronald C. MacKenzie, R-Burlington, for relay to Senate Majority Leader Joseph J.C. DiCarlo, D-Revere. MacKenzie and DiCarlo are charged with extortion and conspiracy.

Harding also acknowledged MBM purchased tickets to political fund-raising events for Massachusetts politicans. He said the company paid $1,000 to purchase 10 $100-a-seat tickets to one of MacKenzie's fundraisers.

MacKenzie's lawyer, Robert Mulkern of Worcester, refreshing Harding's memory with a copy of his grand jury testimony, asked, "To whom were the campaign contributions given?"

"They were all over the United States," Harding said. "Hundreds. All over the United States."

Mulkern asked, "There were all campaign contributions?"

"Yes sir," Harding answered. Harding did not say to whom the contributions were given. MBM has done business in Thailand, Puerto Rico, Florida, Illinois, Pennsylvanis and Louisana. An MBM affiliate operates in the Mideast out of Kuwait.

On another occasion under questioning by Assistant U.S. Attorney Edward Lee, Harding said he thought the political contributions "usually ran about $500 to $1,000."

Harding said sometimes the contributions were made through advance checks he received from MBM's New York headquarters and other times he made them and was later reimbursed on his expense account.

DiCarlo and MacKenzie are accused of shaking down MBM in 1971 and 1972 by threatening to release a report unfavorable to MBM and its management of a lucrative state contract to oversee construction of the University of Massachusetts' Boston campus.

Harding, being referred to one of his expense account statements, told Lee he and other MBM employes spent $250 on tickets to a fund-raising dinner Oct. 13, 1971, for a Representative Flaherty in Massachusetts.

At that time there were two Flahertys in the legislature — Charles Flaherty, chairman of the Counties Committee and later state Democratic Committee chairman, and Michael Flaherty, then a relatively obscure lawmaker from Boston, who now is House chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

Harding did not specify which Flaherty he meant. Harding said he consulted with MBM President Gerald McKee every time we wanted to make a political contribution.

Harding said MacKenzie came to him in October of 1971 as a favor to Harding and at Harding's request to report on the findings of the DiCarlo committee's investigation.

However, Harding remained adamant that MacKenzie told him during the meeting a "considerable contribution" perhaps as high as "$30,000 to $40,000" might be necessary for MBM to avoid an unfavorable report.

Steelworkers union presidency

McBride claims victory; Sadlowski challenges results

PITTSBURGH [AP] — Lloyd McBride, backed by the United Steelworkers hierarchy in the race for the union's presidency, claimed victory yesterday over young challenger Edward Sadlowski.

But Sadlowski would not concede defeat and his aides hinted that the election for top officers in the 1.4 million-member union would be challenged.

Based on unofficial returns gathered by his campaign staffs, McBride said he had a 75,000-vote margin over his opponent. A Sadlowski spokesman claimed his candidate was ahead by a slim lead of about 5,000 votes.

An unofficial survey by The Associated Press put McBride ahead by 299,977 to 198,472 with about 4,000 of the union's 5,300 locals counted.

McBride's unofficial returns gave him a lead of 281,632 to 196,263 at 4,529 locals. Sadlowski's latest figures, which were posted early Wednesday evening, put him ahead 171,531 to 166,980 at 2,170 locals.

About 500,000 votes were cast in Tuesday's election, a turnout considered to be about normal.

The race to control the USW, the largest member of the AFL-CIO, was bitter. McBride, who had the support of retiring President I. W. Abel, called Sadlowski a stooge for "outsiders" intent on gaining control of the labor movement.

Sadlowski labeled McBride "a pathological liar" and accused him of being more interested in the welfare of corporations than the rank and file.

In claiming victory, McBride made a gesture of reconciliation. "I want to assure the membership that we will work in harmony with all steelworkers and will do all we can to wipe away any scars of factional fights," he said in a statement released by his campaign headquarters here.

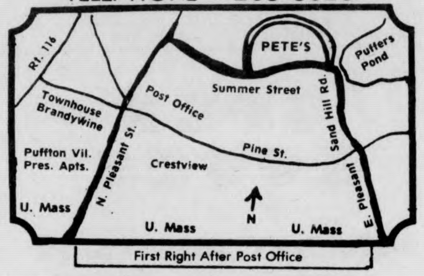
John Askins, a Sadlowski spokesman, declined to say definitely whether the election results would be challenged. But he added: "There's been so much vote fraud. With all the polling places, they only had to steal a few votes at each place and they could get 100,000."

The union said the Department of Labor, which had 22 advisers assigned to the election, had been informed of only two challenges involving a total of 59 votes.

McBride, 60, is a USW director from St. Louis who left school at age 14 to begin work in a factory. He is a union veteran of nearly 40 years and has pledged to follow the moderate policies of the Abel administration.

Sadlowski, 38, is a third-generation steelworker who won his Chicago-area directorship in a court-ordered rerun of a fraudulent election in 1973.

PETE'S
PACKAGE STORE
144 SUMMER ST., N. AMHERST
Why fight traffic? - Easy Parking
TELEPHONE — 256-6828



Schlitz, Miller, Bud, Rolling Rock
12 oz. cans
$5.69 case

Ballantine Ale
12 oz. cans and N.R. Bottles
$1.45 six

Open 84 Hrs./Wk.
TO SERVE YOU!

Monday thru Saturday
9 a.m. to 11 p.m.

UNITED TRANSMISSION EXCHANGE INC.
All make car and truck transmissions
Repaired - Rebuilt - Exchanged
King St., Northampton
584-6790

Spirit Liquor Store Haus
Open Daily till 11 p.m.
Amherst's Largest Full Service Liquor Store
THIS WEEK'S SPECIALS

Old Milwaukee Beer 12 oz. cans	$5.59	Tuborg Gold Beer 12 oz. cans	$5.69
Pepe Lopez Tequilla	$4.99 fifth	Christian Brothers Sherrys	$2.10 fifth
Korbel's Pinot Noir	$2.89 fifth	Inglenook Magnum Wines	$3.69
Opici Lambrusco	$1.49 fifth	Rhine Chablis Burgundy Vin Rose	$5.99 gal.

WE BUY SILVER COINS
Many Other Unadvertised Specials.
Wine Browsers Welcome.
Large assortment of kegs.
We have over 90 brands of imported beer
(Mix your own variety six pack)
338 College St. Rt. 9 Amherst 253-5384
Not responsible for typographical errors.

BLUE WALL

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY
FEBUARY 10 and 11

Energy crisis continues

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Energy adviser James Schlesinger said yesterday fuel conservation and warmer weather have eased this winter's natural gas shortage, but mandatory fuel price adjustments will be required in the near future.

While the immediate threat is over, Americans should keep thermostats down and not be lulled into thinking the energy crisis has ended, Schlesinger stressed.

Conservation is the "keystone" that will "buy time" until a technical solution can be found to U.S. energy needs, he told a Consumer Federation of America meeting.

His theme was repeated by Transportation Secretary Brock Adams and by President Carter, who in a statement praised formation of a nonprofit Alliance to Save Energy with Vice President Walter Mondale and Gerald Ford serving as honorary co-chairmen.

Conservation measures and "improvements in the weather have eased the stringency of the supply situation of natural gas," Schlesinger told reporters after his speech. But "we are still going through a difficult situation for the rest of the winter."

If better information had been available to the government, some of the economic dislocation and unemployment caused by natural gas shortages this winter might have been averted, he said.

"I have not been wholly impressed or heartened by the data base available to the federal government as we survey energy problems."

Schlesinger said price adjustments and "control mechanisms" will be required in the near future, but promised they will be carried out "without undue economic repercussion."

Officials must make sure they do not affect the "real income of consumers, especially low-income consumers," he added.

While Schlesinger did not explain what he meant by "mandatory adjustments" — he said that "will be revealed shortly" — his comment appeared to rule out the possibility the administration will drop federal controls over fuel prices as the oil industry wants.

The Federal Power Commission raised natural gas prices last year, but did not remove controls. The Ford administration removed controls from most petroleum products and in a last-minute gesture interrupted by Carter's arrival tried to extend product decontrol to gasoline.

Adams, who also addressed the consumers group, announced plans for a series of "town meetings" across the country to discuss how transportation problems and relate to energy needs.

CHEQUERS
SATURDAY NIGHT
and
ALL DAY SUNDAY
Prime Ribs of Beef
w/baked potato, vegetable roll & butter
$4.95
UNIVERSITY DRIVE AMHERST 549-5861

What Campus Group Co-sponsors the Heart Fund Walk?

NEWS IN BRIEF

No injuries in plane crash

DRYDEN, N.Y. [AP] — A small charter plane carrying seven persons crash landed in a field near here early yesterday extensively damaging the plane but not injuring any passengers, authorities said.

Sheriff's deputies said a frozen gas line was suspected of causing the crash about 1:30 a.m. near the Tompkins County Airport, as six Ithaca businessmen were returning from a trip to Boston.

The pilot, Michael Newman, 34, of Ithaca, said the twin-engine plane lost power after he switched from a primary fuel tank to an auxiliary supply.

The plane smashed into several trees before landing in an upright position. The field is off N.Y. 13, near the intersection of Hanshaw Road. There was extensive damage to the wing and landing gear of the Air Executive plane.

Egypt interested in US arms

WASHINGTON, [UPI] — Egypt wants to buy 40 F5 jet fighters, "a large number" of antitank missiles and additional C130 transport planes from the United States, according to a Senate report disclosed yesterday.

"The U.S. ambassador in Cairo Herman Eilts says the Egyptians seek 40 F5s, and a 'large' number of TOW anti-tank missiles and more C130 transports," said the report prepared for the Foreign Relations Committee.

It was submitted to the panel Feb. 4 by two staff members who visited cairo recently.

Free oil to poor 'not enough'

BOSTON [AP] — A pool of home heating oil to be given free to Massachusetts families has swollen to 300,000 gallons, but state Gov. Michael S. Dukakis told a news conference yesterday the present oil pool would supply only about 1,500 households with deliveries of up to 150 gallons each Lt. Gov. Thomas P. O'Neill estimated there are at least 150,000 persons in the state on low incomes who are having trouble paying fuel bills.

To qualify for the oil, a family of four must have an income that is less than $6,875 a year. A single-person household must have an income under $3,500. The family must apply to the local community action agency for a voucher to be presented when the oil is delivered.

Distraught father kills youth

ONEIDA, Tenn. [UPI] — Deputies scored the rugged Tennessee coal country yesterday for a mountaineer who reportedly poked a rifle through a church window and fired three shots at a bible class, wounding his wife and killing a youth whom he mistook for the boy who had been dating his daughter.

His friends feared that the suspect, Herman Adkins, may have dug his own grave in the woods in advance of the shootings and then taken his own life.

Bloodhounds failed to pick up and trace of him Friday in the northeast Tennessee mountain area, where the search was centered.

The youth killed in the shooting was identified as Levi Chambers, 15. Adkins wife, Ocie, 45 was reported in critical condition at a Knoxville hospital.

Picketers protest child porno

NEW ORLEANS [UPI] — Protesters against child pornography will picket adult bookstores in eight cities, including Boston and Manchester, N.H., on Valentine's Day, the director of a national youth treatment organization said yesterday.

Dr. Judianne Densen-Gerber, national director of Odyssey House, said the pickets would ask customers of pornographic shops "why they patronize and thereby condone the continued destructive sexual exploitation of children and this multimillion dollar industry."

This Year We Will Sponsor These Projects
LAS VEGAS NIGHT
THE FRESHMAN REGISTER
THE HEART FUND WALK and others like this for charity
We are
Alpha Phi Omega
the nation's largest SERVICE fraternity
Come Join Us, We Need Your Help
Meetings Monday nights, 7:30, Campus Center or visit our booth
on the CC Concourse

HEARTS
sterling pendants & earrings clay & porcelain beads
THE MERCANTILE
11 E. Pleasant St., Amherst
in the Carriage Shops

A Below The Salt NATURAL ADDITIVE

Black and white and good all over

Marquee Moon
(Elektra)
Leave Home
(Sire)

Television's long-awaited debut album is finally out, and it should return them to the prominence they were just beginning to achieve a year ago when The Ramones beat them into the studio and on to national and international tours and subsequent fame.

Unlike most of the New York bands (i.e. The Patti Smith Group, The Talking Heads, The Ramones, etc.), TV is not a live band. On stage, with the proper mix, they come across as powerful and emotive, with the twin-destructo guitars of Tom Verlaine (TV: TV—get it?) and Richard Lloyd constantly wailing over the tight rhythm of bassist Fred Smith and drummer Billy Ficca. But they don't do anything on stage that they can't do in the studio, and so recording an album, and doing it right, became all the more important for them. They took their time, and have come up with a brilliant album, which accurately represents their stage performances. My only complaint is that Verlaine's vocals may be mixed just a bit too forward. But despite his vocal eccentricities and lack of range he sings with great power, which actually serves to augment the sound of the band.

The emphasis on Marquee Moon is, as it should be with this band, on the sound rather than the songs. The eight numbers are all long, ranging from 3:56 to 9:58 (for the title cut), and the lyrics are intelligent samples of symbolist poetry. Releasing a single from this album would probably be a mistake.

TV is a guitar band. Marquee Moon is a guitar album. Unless you are familiar with the band's material, it will probably take several listenings before learning to appreciate this record, but your perseverance will be rewarded. It is meant to be listened to intimately, on headphones if possible. The guitars are cerebral; the listener is meant to feel the music, as opposed to merely listening to it. To paraphrase one of Verlaine's lyrics, Television goes to your head. (A)

Whereas Television comes off as an intelligent band, The Ramones appear purposefully dumb:

Suzy is a headbanger, her mother is a geek...

I don't wanna be a pinhead no more
I just met a nurse that I could go for...

Gimme gimme shock treatment...

Whereas Verlaine reads Rimbaud, Artaud and Verlaine (Tom's real name is Miller), The Ramones read Spiderman, Vampirella and The Hulk.

But like TV, The Ramones embody a specific sound, which becomes the most important element of their concept. In fact, all of The Ramones songs sound exactly alike. They all sound like your vacuum cleaner.

Comparisons to their first album are inevitable, mainly because this is the same record as that one, only the words have been changed to protect the (fill in missing adjective).

Coming out of a jukebox or a car radio, on the dance floor or, best of all, on stage, The Ramones sound great. They kick ass, and have fun doing so. And in the process, the listener cannot help but have fun along with them.

The Ramones may not go to your head like Television, but they do go to your bloodstream, and for my money that's just as important, if not more so. (A)

--Philip Milstein

CAMP COUNSELOR OPENINGS
UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS
(Min. age 19 & completion of at least 1 year of college)
GRADUATE STUDENTS and FACULTY MEMBERS
THE ASSOCIATION OF PRIVATE CAMPS
. . . comprising 100 outstanding Boys, Girls, Brother-Sister and Co-Ed Camps, located throughout the New England and Middle Atlantic States
. . . INVITES YOUR INQUIRIES concerning summer employment as Head Counselors, Group Leaders, Specialties, General Counselors.
Write, Phone, or Call in Person
Association of Private Camps — Dept. C
55 W. 42 St., New York NY 10036 (212) OX 5-2656

Bedspreads

An excellent selection of bedspreads from India and Pakistan — many of them hand loomed and hand dyed. Numerous colors and patterns. Single (twin) sizes (72" x 108") and double sizes (90" x 108").

Faces of Earth

Next to Amherst Post Office. Open 9:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.

Make Friends and Influence People!

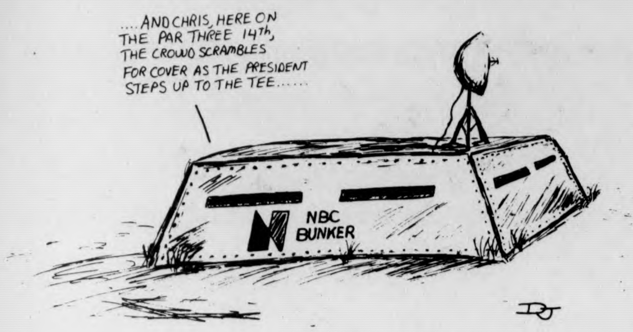
Nominations are open for President of the Student Government Association and seats on the Campus Center Board of Governors.

The SGA President is responsible for representing student interests to the University administration, the Board of Trustees, and the World. The Board of Governors is responsible for representing student interests in the operation of the Campus Center and Student Union buildings. Any undergraduate is eligible to run, and combinations of persons may run for SGA President.

Nomination papers are available in the Student Senate Office, 420 Student Union, and must be returned by February 23, 1977.
STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Now comes Miller time.

© 1976 The Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, Wis.



....AND CHRIS, HERE ON THE PAR THREE 14th, THE CROWD SCRAMBLES FOR COVER AS THE PRESIDENT STEPS UP TO THE TEE......
NBC BUNKER

Real item: Former President Ford is participating in the Bob Hope Desert Classic Golf Tournament.....has already beaned two spectators in the first round.....

letters

Human experience of assault: Racism

To the Editor:

This letter is addressed to the Collegian for misrepresenting the story about my assault in the 2-8 issue. I was merely out for a walk to enjoy the night air, not returning from a party as the newspaper stated. It is also addressed to the fact that they neglected to mention that I felt this particular incident was of a nature that could cause increased tension on an ugly human situation.... racism.

I was strolling in the direction of JQ Adams tower when three blacks were approaching in the opposite direction. As we neared each other, one of the blacks stepped ahead of the others and punched me in the temple as he passed. I fell to the ground dazed and hurt and as I lay there he came over and punched me square in the mouth breaking the front tooth. I struggled to my feet and stood there tottering on my heels, wiping blood from my face and asked him why the hell he had done it. He then swore at me and pushed me in the bushes. As I tried to get to my feet he came in after me and proceeded to break my nose as he continually beat and kicked me.

At this point I cried out for help but as I did he pulled a knife on me and held it menacingly close and threatened me with it. As I begged for mercy he drew the knife even nearer. All the while the ordeal was going on his two companions and about 6-8 other blacks had gathered around to observe the spectacle. Not a single one making an effort to spare me. Then as suddenly as it had started, it stopped and they all walked quickly away in the direction of Boyden gym. No one came to my aid as was stated in the Collegian. I lay there bleeding and confused but finally managed to get to my feet.

I walked around to the front of JQA and asked a girl who was entering to give me a hand. She took me inside and called the police who came immediately and whisked me off to the infirmary.

The blacks and other oppressed minorities of the world are desperately striving for justice and human equality, which are coming about in no rapid fashion. But acts of violence such as the one leveled on me can only serve to impede the cause. And to you, the guy who assaulted me, what about my rights? You didn't even know my personal feelings when you singled me out. You only passed judgement on me because you had the convenience of a majority. Fools like you only serve as a hindrance, and not a help. All you've done is to weaken the power of the microphone from which the sensible ones speak.

Name Withheld by request

Wipe-out malady of 'level-spending'

To the Editor:

I certainly enjoyed Paul Logues' satirical comments on the budget cuts, the sad reality being the writer had to use satire as a medium to harpoon the upcoming disaster of 'level spending.'

The idea of using roller skates as a viable method of cost reduction is worth considering. With Pauls' exciting tongue and cheek humor the reader may have overlooked the great potential of using roller skates.

Both the New York and Dallas public library use skaters to stack books. The main difference being skaters can zoom along without interruption which would affect the study habits of those using our open stack system. The skater pictured in the Collegian [2-11-17] appeared to be rolling on polyurethane wheels, the strongest week in use. They are also very noisy. In New York and Dallas the skaters use the Charlie Santoro [homemade wheel manufactured at Norwood, Mass.] nylon wheel which is only a half inch wide and rolls silently on a special prepacked bearing case. With nylon wheels and plenty of graphite, skaters could silently and quickly stack the library with greater efficency than the sure to be outdated system of walking.

The Air Force has men on skates at various bases. They roll along the tarmack delivering parts and messages. Workers in General Motors plants are on skates as are many bartenders and barmaids.

One roller maid in Leominster has doubled her tips as she rolls from the Johnny Walker to the Souther Comfort.

Bartenders at the Bluewall could eliminate those long happy hour lines while keeping in shape.

Learning to skate is a simple process, one that could be offered by the physical education department or by colloquium at the three roller rinks in the greater Springfield area.

Think of the efficency at graduation when the graduates roll up to Dr. Wood and spin off with a diploma, ready to roll into the sunset, or being graduation would it be a late sunrise?

Students rushing from Southwest to Northeast could roll across campus in the minutes, allowing for a shorter break between class. The University could either expand the time of classes by five minutes or add an additional class hour to the daily schedule, which in turn could allow for the closing of the University for an additional week in February allowing for an even greater fuel savings to the taxpayers.

Not only can students and faculty find books quicker, get to classes faster and receive campus mail in less than three days, think of the impact it would have on physical fitness. The next thing taxpayers will experience is the Governor on nylon wheels passing the subway along Commonwealth avenue before he jets to Amherst to dedicate the soon to open roller — ice arena. With everyone on skates it will be a short time before President Carter makes a personal roll to campus to award every student with their own Council on Physical Fitness award.

The potential is unlimited. Come on Student Senate, you give funds for many RSOs, lets initate a roller to prove to the state and federal officials that college students do more than eat and read Aluminum Foil. Let us follow the words of our fireside leader and use a little imagination and effort to wipe out this malady called level spending.

David Letters

gregg wilson

Making love to your mind

"I was just, I was just.....sitting here thinking 'bout your kiss and your warm embrace."

It seems to me that at some time or another we might all have found ourselves in a similar state of mind as Christine Perfect McVie when she sang these words on her pre-Fleetwood Mac album, The Legendary Christine Perfect. I certainly have and it occurred to me that with V.D. (that is Valentines Day) approaching we might all devote a litte of our time to a reflection on the emotion of love.

I've thought of this essay on and off for two weeks now. Mind you it has not been easy to formulate in my mind, nor any easier to translate into words, but I have come to the conclusion that this emotional reponse can be the result of two feelings: love of mind and love of body, the former being far more desirable than the latter. But it was also my conclusion that our society attempts to innundate and brainwash us with the idea of love of body, and by doing so prevents us from reaching the plateau where we might experience love of mind.

Good lord just look at where advertisers focus our tastes: with subtle techniques that stress the physical appeal of a product they have systematically convinced us all that to be thinner, tanner, possessing of toned muscles and busts, and most importantly free of ZITS is to be more beautiful, more attractive to that ever elusive member of the opposite sex. When will we ever throw off their fashion binding shackles and begin to realize that beauty cannot be created, that appeal rests purely in the mindset of the beholder?

It is from this Madison Avenue approach that we all develop our first ideas of what love should be, how it is aroused and in what way we should project it to someone who interests us. Certainly we have all experienced this feeling, be it on the Blue Wall promenade or through that slight tingle the woman or man sitting opposite of us in class seems to arouse. Indeed I do not condemn these feelings, I know them all too well myself, but I think it is unfortunate that we live in an envirnoment like UMass where people are forced to meet each other on a level which promotes love of body before love of mind.

So what is love of mind? I have no ready definition, but I know it does not begin in the loins nor does it result in purely physical satisfaction. To experience love of mind is a feeling which encompasses the intellectual as well as the physical self, to love someone for what they are, not for what they are desperately trying to project. I know because I've experienced it and I know too that it is a potential which dwells inside all of us.

So why not on the next occasion that you meet some honey in the Blue Wall and he, she is pulling you ever so close on the dance floor, whisper these corny but poignant words into their ear,

"Before I make love to your body, I want to make love to your mind."

Happy V.D.

Greg Wilson is a Collegian Columnist.

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Also, all letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages.

Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

All letters are subject to editing, for either content or space, according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts · Amherst, MA 01003 · [illegible]

BOARD OF EDITORS — RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in-Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; NASSER H. EGA, Black Affairs Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; JAY A. SARET, Photo Editor; MARK A. LECCESE, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS — Christopher J. Bourne, Teresa M. Hanafin, Night Managers; Paula Strollo, Wire Editor; Lisa E. Melilli, Assistant Executive Editor; Gerard F. Rogers, Kevin C. Turcotte, Assistant News Editors; Angela P. Thomas, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Michael A. Berger, Richard W. Eckel, Assistant Sports Editors; E. Patrick McQuaid, Deborah S. Schafer, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Melanie J. Johnson, Women's Coordinator; Heidi S. Berenson, Feature Coordinator.

BUSINESS — Steve N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; Leslie Nearman, Finance Manager; Laurie Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Heath C. Wheeler, Jr., Linda Crowell, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Leo Murphy, Doug Surette, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steve Polansky, Circulation Manager; Linda S. Vene, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

melanie johnson

Feminism and the FBI

I never really was a fan of J. Edgar Hoover. The revelation this week that the FBI investigated the women's liberation groups for a period of four years "to determine the potential for violence presented by the various groups connected with this movement as well as any possible threat they may represent to the internal security of the United States," dropped my opinion of him to a new all-time low.

Indeed, when early in the investigation several field offices recommended that the investigation be dropped, Hoover overrode his subordinates' recommendation and demanded the continuance of the investigation. The information gathered included sexual preferences and political beliefs of activist women across the nation. It also included a notice from a New York group who told its members to use Paul Newman's credit card number for long-distance phone calls, listings of karate lessons, and discussions of sexuality at women's centers.

The FBI used female informants and infiltrating agents to gather the information. The 1377 page document was released in response to a Freedom of Information Act request and were censored to eliminate the names of informants and only some of the individuals under investigation.

So what does this have to do with us?

For one thing, it suggests that the noise, activities, and writings of feminists have been taken seriously enough by the government to warrant investigation (although we must take into consideration that Hoover had a penchant for investigating everyone and everything on occasion). And, in a matter of speaking, when we start to question such basic things as marriage, families, and kirche, kuchen, kinder, perhaps the future doesn't hold the same old familiar certainty that it once did.

I'm not saying that replacing the jeers and snickers with hostility is a step in the right direction. It demonstrates one of the basic problems of the women's movement today: it is still severely misunderstood.

The FBI report reflects many of these misperceptions. The concentration upon sexual preferences and unflattering references to militant women's appearances have nothing to do with the political clout of the movement, and perhaps reveals the report-makers' tendency to judge a woman in terms of her sex and her appearance.

Furthermore, in 1969, the San Francisco FBI office told Hoover: "The Women's Liberation Movement may be considered as subversive to the new left and revolutionary movements, as they have proven to be a divisive and factionalizing factor ... it could be well-recommended as a counter-intelligence movement to weaken that revolutionary movement."

Many activities in the Women's movement came to it after suffering frustration with the male-dominated radical groups. The proposition, however, to have women's groups serve as counter-revolutionary forces, serves only to undercut the radical movement, and more importantly, does great dis-service to the ideals of the women's movement itself.

Once again, women's energies would be funnelled into working for male goals and values. Women's needs again would melt into the background. By diverting our interest, these people hope we will forget our goals and needs, and to stop making so much trouble.

The statement made by the San Francisco office, also revealed an important problem of the women's movement: it's factionalization. Little coordination exists between radical, socialist, and liberal feminist groups; indeed, their political beliefs and their modes of achievement vary widely.

As I see it, the division in the women's movement mirror the economic and racial distinctions that predominate our general social order. We need to overcome those barriers within ourselves, before we can be an effective means of social change. You can't convince me that by eliminating sexual discrimination alone — poof! — the whole world will miraculously become one peaceful, happy place. It's just not that simple.

Melanie Johnson is a Collegian Columnist.

commentary

The Mark of Zero

By STEVEN DUBIN

Suspect may be dangerous. He is assumed armed and possible legged. He can be distinguished by a series of scars on his forehead in the form of zeroes he received when an irate roommate jammed him into the typewriter Zero was attempting to use one early Sunday morning.

Zero is an unassuming fixutre of the anals of our educational system. Double timing to classes, Zero can be seen constantly contorting his wrist, referring to his "glow in the dark," digital, data, alarm, and blow drying wrist watch. A dripping styrofoam cup of coffee in one hand, a Samsonite briefcase (only vulnerable to a Nuclear bomb) in the other wind raw hand.

Zero swaggers into class, calculator slung loosely on belt, ready for action. Early as usual, Zero arranges his notebooks (different colored for each course and almost entirely plastered with schedules of area libraries, gyms, and buses.) The professor fumbles through the roll and Zero belches "here" in keeping perfect attendance.

Reward offered. Apprehend with utmost caution, suspect is not sure if he is alive or not.

Steven Dubin is a Collegian Commentator.

william a mills

The shining star is love

Editor's note: William A. Mills, a UMass junior, is student teaching at the Taos Pueblo Day School. His columns are an account of his experiences there and a portrayal of a culture's feelings.

TAOS, New Mexico — Daybreak.

To me, the most beautiful time of the short day.

Although the sun rises and spreads its rays similarly all over the world, like a golden eagle spreads its wings over its vast domain, its presence heralds the beginning of many different things wherever it breaks the horizon.

In New York City, for example, the sun's light acts as a giant light bulb that doesn't burn kilowatt hours. It acts as a large heater on cold winter days and requires no gas bills. And on Saturday mornings, the brightness of the sun's light causes terrible hangovers. "Where's the shades," grumble many late-hour revelers. In this case, the sun heralds the beginning of a l--onnn--g, throb--bing recuperation day. Blah!

In Amherst, sunrise usually signals absolutely nothing because most students don't rise from their horizon(tal) until well after daybreak. Just those with 8 a.m.'s are fortunate enough to witness the sun's refreshing arrival.

In Taos, as in many other nature-minded towns across the world, the sun's bright streamers cast a rosier picture at daybreak. How grateful are the people who patiently await the sanctifying rays — the rays that penetrate them and the things around them. What warmth!

Like a baby mewls for milk, the people here are sustained by this magnificent star. It is more than a giant light bulb to the people here, more than a large heater, more than a hangover's aggravator. It is strength, it is healthier crops, it is warmer homes because there is no heat on the pueblo, it is light to read because there is no electricity on the pueblo. It is life.

Sunrise here heralds the beginning of new life. It is a natural alarm clock that is not so alarming. Even before its rays crawl over Sacred Mountain, the "mountain that holds the secrets of the world, the mountain that has the spirits of an Indian," as one sixth grader wrote, the women here are fetching water from the River of Life which winds down through the huge earth piece.

This time of day is most special.

The sky is bright but there's no sun visible. It's glow, however, enlightens those in the dark. It refreshes the soul. It lifts our hearts as it lifts itself over Sacred Mountain peak.

The shining star is love.

Capture the love in this poem written by an eighth grader at Taos Day School. It is entitled "Shining Star."

"Shining Star is a beautiful Indian woman. She is the wife of a Sioux chief.
They have a beautiful young daughter. Her name is Sunshine. LOVE.
One day, some white men kidnapped Sunshine. Her mother was so upset she fainted. LOVE.
Sunshine's father went to look for her. Her mother went also. LOVE.
They went different directions. Shining Star went down to the stream.
Sunshine's father went into the forest.
Suddenly, Shining Star heard some voices on the other side of the stream.
She hid behind a big tree and saw her daughter.
She was so excited she almost ran out of her hiding place, but
She didn't want her daughter harmed. LOVE
All of a sudden, she couldn't just watch. LOVE.
She ran through the water to the other side and seized her daughter.
She started to run but one man shot her.
She fell and told Sunshine to keep running. LOVE.
Sunshine didn't want to, but she had to.
Her mother died that day, and
Sunshine and her father will never forgive the white man.

Corene Lucero

Understand the hatred in the absence of the shining star.

Sunshine must be loved.

Only love expedites repentance.

Only love delivers remission.

William A. Mills is a Collegian Columnist.

james a nollet

Amnesty is unfair

Last year, President Carter acquired a reputation for being vague and two-faced on various political issues. While he may have deserved it for his pre-nomination broken field running, he was much more forthright and direct during the presidential campaign itself. An example of this is the nesty issue, where a few weeks ago he fulfilled a clear, unequivocal campaign promise to make amnesty the first important decision of his administration.

When he granted amnesty, he rightly said it would not meet the approval of a majority of Americans, who are divided on either side of the question. In the case of the right wing, they feel that in addition to treating veterans unfairly, amnesty weakens the morale and future ability of the military to wage war. The argument is valid and sufficient to warrant disapproval of Carter's action. But there is yet further reason to veto amnesty, reasoning which turns the liberals' main argument against itself.

We all "know" that the draft evaders were acting with high moral conviction against the Vietnam War, and were in fact highly moral people, beacons of virtue for lesser Americans. How do we know this? Because liberal spokesmen Pete Hamill and Mary McGrory tell us so, that's how. Basically, so they tell us, the draft dodgers evaded (ran from) the draft because they did not wish to participate in an immoral war. Even though some must have avoided Selective Service for reasons more venal, let's assume all the draft evaders behaved from the highest of moral levels. So far, the liberals should love this argument.

If it's true the draft resistors evaded the draft specifically because of Vietnam, we have a very interesting unspoken implication, namely, that they did not oppose the draft itself, but only opposed it insofar as it was an instrument of Vietnam war policy. Oh, there were conscientious objectors, as there are in any war, who object to any military activity at all. But these were a small number. Most of the resistors objected specifically to Vietnam. To put it another way, it would be safe to say that most of the rest would have gladly participated in World War II, where there was no question who were the good guys and who were the bad. Since Selective Service operated then, it follows they unhesitatingly would have permitted themselves to be processed.

And we know this, too. How? Because we know the draft resistors are very moral people who would never break the law unless it were immoral. By definition, very moral people are not lawbreakers.

Now the trap is complete. The draft dodgers had a legal obligation to serve them, and since the source of their objection no longer exists, neither does any moral reason for avoiding Selective Service exist anymore. In fact, the legal obligation to serve then becomes a moral one.

To those who say Selective Service no longer exists, and therefore neither does any obligation, the answer is that the dodgers still have an obligation to serve the same time that their peers did. If they object to the military, justice demands that they serve somewhere else. Otherwise, they will have avoided the sacrifice at least in time that their fellow young Americans made.

This was the essence of President Ford's pardon; Ford had the right idea. President Ford simply wanted the draft dodgers to fulfill their legal commitments in a way which would not interfere with their consciences.

True men of conscience would have accepted President Ford's terms as being fair. Some did. The rest, who refused Ford and who are even refusing President Carter, are showing their true color. A sickening yellow.

James A. Nollet is a Collegian Columnist.

WHAT'S HAPPENING

Flowers for Algernon at Bowker Auditorium

The Roister Doister's Drama Society of the University of Massachusetts will present the play "Flowers for Algernon" at Bowker Auditorium.

This Friday through Sunday, and Friday and Saturday, Feb. 18 and 19 at 8 p.m.

Tickets are on sale Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Campus Center Concourse.

Prices are $2 for Five College students and anyone 18 or younger and $2.50 for all others. Group rates are available. For information and reservations call: 545-0783.

Gay men forming weekly rap session

A weekly rap session will be forming, open to concerned men, to discuss issues in gay sexuality.

It is hoped that this group can meet the needs of men who wish to explore these and other issues in a relaxed and supportive environment.

Call UCF at 545-2789 for further information and referral, or come to our opening meeting at 7 p.m., Monday.

B'nai B'rith lecture and brunch this week

Joel Ziff will be the guest speaker at a brunch sponsored by the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation beginning at 11:00 a.m. Sunday in the Commonwealth Room of the Student Union.

Joel Ziff's topic is "The Shabbat as a Therapeutic Experience." He will explore the relationship of religious rituals and theories with humanistic psychology in general, and specifically, the relationship of Sabbath practices with personal growth and insight.

Joel Ziff is a doctoral candidate in the UMass School of Education. He is presently employed by the Marblehead, Mass. Public Schools ad Co-ordinator of the Program for Psychological Education.

Science editor to speak tomorrow

Charles Panati, Newsweek science editor, will address the Physical Awareness & Research Association (PARA) tomorrow at 8 p.m., in Herter Hall 231. Admission is charged.

Mr. Panati has written numerous articles, is a nationally syndicated science broadcaster, and author of three books on optics and digital communications. More recently, he has authored the book SUPER-SENSES: Our Potential for Parasenory Experience, and is the aditor of THE GELLER PAPERS.

Mr. Panati will discuss at Saturday's program experiments conducted with Uri Geller in research laboratories, the "Geller Effect" and other aspects of psi phenomena.

Films showing at racism workshop

A film workshop on Racism will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Center for Performing Arts in Hampden Dining Commons. The program includes two films: "Black Like Me" and "Gentlemen's Agreement." Professor Julius Lester (Afro-Am dept.) will introduce the first film Saturday at 3:30 p.m.; Professor David Wyman (history dept.) will introduce the second film Sunday at 3:30.

Support group to help rape victims

There is a support group forming for female rape victims 18 years of age or over for those who are ready to integrate the rape experience into their lives. Starting Feb. 17, the group will meet for 10 weeks on Thursdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. For more information call Serena Lurie at the Everywoman's Center, 545-0883, by tomorrow.

Racism lecture in MacKimmie lounge

Miguel Rivera will be speaking on: "Racism: Two Perspectives, Colonial and Metropolitan" in MacKimmie main lounge Monday at 7 p.m. This is the first of a semester-long series of films and lectures on current issues sponsored by MacKimmie Humanity House. The series is open to the public.

Continuing Education offers writing seminar

The Arts Extension Service of the University of Massachusetts Division of Continuing Education is offering a seminar on "How to Get Published," tomorrow from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Farley Lodge.

It is designed for writers in all media and will include such topics as the writing market and how to find it; people who publish — what they want from writers and how they want it, and successful authors and how they work.

Speakers will include Daphne Ehrlich, senior editor for Houghton Mifflin; Arthur Meyers, Sunday editor of the Berkshire Eagle; David Lenson, publisher, Lynx House Press; Dario Politella, UMass writing and journalism professor; and Juliette Tomlinson, curator of the Connecticut Valley Historical Museum and author or editor of over 20 books.

More information is available through the Arts Extension Service, 545-2013. The cost is $8 plus a $5 registration fee.

Films by women at Hampshire College

The Women's Center at Hampshire College presents the second in a series of films by women Sunday at 8 p.m. in the West Lecture Hall of Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire College.

The evening, entitled "Three Women Artists," deals with the lives of conductor Antonia Brico, photographer Imogen Cunningham, and sculptures May Wilson, all well-known in their respective fields.

Noted author to discuss her works

Johanna Kaplan, author of "Other People's Lives", a short story collection which was nominated for the National Book Award in 1976, will be reading and discussing her work at UMass on Tuesday, Feb. 15 at 4:00 p.m. in CC 803. Johanna Kaplan's short stories have appeared in Commentary and Harper's Magazines.

Photo appointments now being made

Appointments are now being taken for Senior Portraits. To have your picture included in the 1977 UMass INDEX call 545-2874 or go to the 9th floor Campus Center between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Make yourself a part of your yearbook.

Who distributes the Freshman Register?

Valentines Day Special
Gaze Into The Past, Present and Future
Have Your Fortune Read With Any Purchase
Or a Slight Charge
By Barbara Rushmore
Tarot Reader
Saturday, February 12 &
Monday, February 14
10 a.m.-6 p.m.
love at first sight
549-0700
Carriage Shops, Amherst

HATCH
Lewis & Clark Expedition
Featuring Ron Lewis & James Clark
Thurs. & Fri., Feb. 10 & 11

LIVE ENTERTAINMENT .....
DOUG ROSEN
appearing
FRIDAY
SUNDAY
WEDNESDAY
EVENINGS
8:00 - 10:00
at WORCESTER
SNACK
BAR
SERVING YOU EVERY DAY 7:00 AM - 10:30 PM

Before Sound Guard,® the only way to prevent your records from wearing out was not to play them.

Unprotected
Magnified, you can see record vinyl wearing away.

With Sound Guard
With same magnification, record vinyl shows no wear.

If you've played any record often enough, you've heard the inevitable occur. It wore out.

While "pops," "hisses," and other surface noises began making their appearance on your favorite records, high frequency sounds—like violins and flutes—began disappearing.

The villain behind this destruction is friction. (If a diamond cuts through steel, you can imagine what a diamond stylus does to vinyl records.) Fortunately, from outer space has come a solution to record degradation. It's called Sound Guard.*

A by-product of research into dry lubricants for aerospace applications, Sound Guard record preservative puts a microscopically-thin (less than 0.000003") dry film on records to protect the grooves from damage. Yet, remarkably, it does not degrade fidelity.

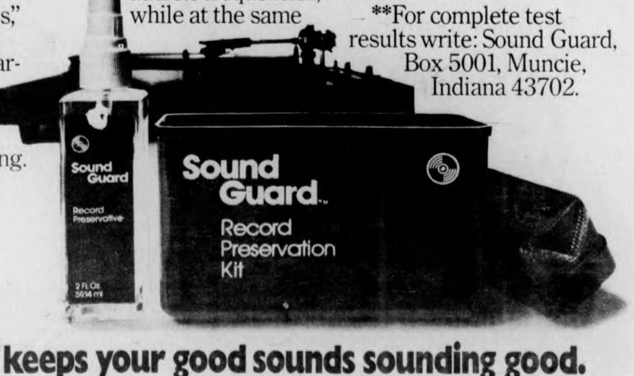
Independent tests show that Sound Guard preservative maintains full amplitude at all audible frequencies, while at the same time significantly retarding increases in surface noise and harmonic distortion.

In other words, when applied according to instructions, a new record treated with Sound Guard preservative and played 100 times sounds the same as one in "mint" condition played the first time!

Sound Guard preservative comes in a kit (complete with non-aerosol pump sprayer and velvet buffing pad). It is completely safe and effective for all discs, from precious old 78's to the newest LP's including CD-4's.

Recently introduced to audiophiles, Sound Guard preservative is now available in audio and record outlets.

For complete test results write: Sound Guard, Box 5001, Muncie, Indiana 43702.



Sound Guard® keeps your good sounds sounding good.

*Sound Guard is the registered trademark of Ball Corporation for its record preservative. © 1976 by Ball Corporation.

NOTICES

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA

All active members wishing to participate in upcoming events must attend the meeting Wed. Feb. 16 at 6:30 p.m. in rm 803 of the Campus Center.

ATTENTION ALL SCAVENGERS!

Watch for the Great Scavenger Hunt, Thurs. Feb. 17 at the CC Concourse. Prizes provided by local merchants. Scavenge your way to a small fortune, sponsored by the Student Recreation Society.

ATTENTION HELLENIC AMER. ASSOC. MEMBERS

There will be a party for all members on Thurs., Feb. 17 at 7:30 in CC 174. Music, dance and refreshments will abound, so come and bring your friends.

AUDIO COURSE

The Union Stereo Co-op's Audio course will be held in CC 173, Sunday night, Feb. 13 at 7 p.m. Come to the Co-op for details. See you there.

COFFEEHOUSE

On Sun. from 8-12 at Dickinson Dorm. Enjoy food friends and good music for a good cause; refreshments will be available. 50 cents admission, with proceeds going to the Rape Task Force located on campus.

DANCE WRITERS — MEETING

Important meeting Feb. 15 at 7:30 in the Collegian office. Please attend!

DEFENSE CAMPAIGN

Volunteers are urgently needed to staff petition tables for the Earl Brown-Craeman Gethers Defense campaign. Only a few hours weekly are necessary to solicit signatures and donations. The struggle of these two men for their total freedom involves all of us; for further information contact: Earl Brown, Student Organizing Project, 545-2415, or the Black Cultural Center, 545-0794.

EVERYBODY

Ever wander by the Cape Cod Lounge on Friday night and see all those people dancing? Ever wonder what's going on there? It's international folkdancing and we want you to come tonight and find out about us! Newcomers and beginners always welcome.

FENCING CLUB

Fencing Club meeting — very important. At NOPE rm. 8 at 2:15 on Monday, Feb. 14. Any questions, call Sean 549-0303.

FS-N CLUB MEETING

Tues., Feb. 15, 6:30 Chenoweth 227. We need to nominate someone from Nutrition to join our officers. Discuss beginning a chapter for Nutrition Educ. society, June IFT Convention.

GRE WORKSHOP

There will be a workshop for those planning to take the Graduate Record Exam Wed., Feb. 16, at 4 p.m. in Rm 168 CC. Included will be strategy tips, analysis, and information about the test. Frank Lennox, CASIAC, E26 Machmer Hall, 545-2191.

FILM WORKSHOP ON RACISM

Feb. 12, 13 at 7:30 p.m. at Hampden D.C. featuring films and discussion on "Black Like Me" and "Gentlemen's Agreement". All invited.

HILLEL BRUNCH

Sunday at 11 a.m. in commonwealth Room SU. Guest speaker Joel Ziff on "Religion and Psychology", "The Shabbat as a Theraputic Experience."

JOHANNA KAPLAN LECTURE

Time changed to 2 p.m., Tues., Feb. 15 CC 803.

LOST

Orange leather pocketbook in Bartlett Auditorium. Lots of "objects" contained have sentimental value. Please contact Rebecca in 219 at 5-0724.

LOST

Green canvas knapsack, Wed. Feb. 9 in the University Store. If found please call 546-6437.

LOST

Brown pocketbook with long braided straps, Thurs., Jan. 27. Contents: key ring on gold chain with whistle, wallet, ID's, check book, pictures, address book. Reward offered. Laurie, 546-9689.

LOST MY GLASSES! HELP!

I've lost my glasses between Berkshire House and GRCC. I need them badly. Description: gray shell plastic square frame with photogray lenses. If you saw them-found them, please call 6-9858 (205 Crampton) anytime.

LOST: ONE PINK SCARF

Somewhere near the area of the Hatch a plain pink scarf was lost. If you found it please call 546-5575. It means a lot!

MANY ANN WILLIAMS LIVE AND IN CONCERT

Coffeehouse Saturday night at the Newman Center Lounge.

MOVIE 2001

Saturday, Feb. 12, CCA, 6:30, 9 and 11:30. $1 admission.

MOVIE

On Saturday, Feb. 12 at 7:30 and 10 p.m. the award-winning film, COOL HAND LUKE, starring Paul Newman, will be shown in the Main Lecture Hall at Hampshire College. A small donation will be requested and all proceeds will go to the Amherst Tennants Assoc. Legal Defense fund. Child care will be provided.

MUSICIANS WANTED

To play short sets at coffeehouse on Feb. 26. If interested call 6-9803. Leave message for Howie.

NEWMAN COFFEEHOUSE

This Sat., Feb, 12 in the Front Lounge of the Newman Center, from 8-11 p.m. Good music! Good times! Everyone welcome! Refreshments will be served.

NEW TRANSFERS

Interested in designing an interdepartmental major through BDIC? Stop by 416 Goodell to discuss your ideas. Deadline for initial contact — March 1.

OPEN HOUSE

Zeta Psi is having an open house tomorrow night from 9-1. Miller beer and wine will be served. So after the game come over to 23 Philips St. for a good time!

PARTY

Hills House Ballroom. Music by "Charmer" 9 p.m.-1 a.m. Admission $2.

SHABBAT SERVICES

Services tonight in CC 165 at 7 p.m.

THE SHABBOS PLACE

Come enjoy full meals, singing, services and discussion Fir. at 6:15 and Sat. morn. at 10:30 a.m. at the Chabad House near Prince House in S.W. at 30 N. Hadley Rd.

STUDENTS NEEDED

If you have been sexually harassed by a faculty member in any way, I need to talk to you for a study involving such practices. Please contact Joy at 665-7064. Strict confidentiality guaranteed.

TORAH READING

Today at 4 p.m. in SU 302.

VALENTINE WINE-CHEESE PARTY!

For all women's Studies students, faculty and staff — and any interested people. 6th floor lounge of Thompson, Mon. Feb. 14, Valentine's Day, 3:30-5:30.

COFFEEHOUSE

The Washington Tower Coffeehouse invites all to come to its second coffeehouse of the season. It's free and on the 5th floor lounge this Sat. night 8:30-1.

Registrar's office closed Wednesdays

Due to the extremely heavy volume of grade corrections, transcript requests and course schedule changes, the Undergraduate Registrar's Office (Room 213, Whitmore) will be closed to "walk-in" as well as telephone inquiries and consultation all day on Wednesdays, from Feb. 16 through April 27 inclusive. A service table will be in operation outside the office only for distribution and collection of various forms.

Tax tips

Your filing status determines your tax rate

This is the second of a 10-part series appearing Thursdays in the Collegian.

The federal income tax is a graduated tax — as you earn more and more, Uncle Sam demands a bigger piece "on the margin" (i.e. on each additional dollar earned). Your filing status, determined as of the last day of your tax year, indicates which set of graduated tax rates you are subject to. Except for certain widow(er)s who are entitled to special low rates, your filing status will be (1) married, filing separately; (2) married, filing jointly; (3) single; or (4) head of household.

Married couples pay the highest tax rates, but are afforded some relief when one spouse is the breadwinner. In this case, the couple may file a joint return. This filing status allows the taxpayers to treat income as if it were earned equally by each. As an example (ignoring deductions and exemptions), a husband's $20,000 salary, which is subject to a 48 per cent tax on the margin, can be treated as two $10,000 incomes, each subject to a mere 32 per cent tax rate. This benefit becomes more savory as the difference between each spouse's income increases.

Unfortunately, the cutting edge of the sword is two-fold, and the working couple winds up with the short end of the stick. Continuing the above example, if in fact each spouse earned $10,000, the applicable tax rate would be 32 per cent. However, had the couple not been married, each of their $10,000 incomes would have been at a rate of 27 per cent on the margin! Indeed, it would appear that working taxpayers have been given an incentive to remain single by virtue of lower tax rates. The moral of the story—or, the immoral story, depending upon your viewpoint—is that cohabitation out of wedlock is good tax planning! What hath Congress wrought?

A young working couple gained notoriety last year when, during their Christmas vacation in the Caribbean Islands, they obtained a legal "divorce of convenience" on Dec. 30, 1975, only to remarry several weeks later. The savings involved in their being able to use single taxpayer rates more than covered the cost of the divorce, the vacation, and the second marriage. They had resolved to vacation at the government's expense every year, but the IRS, aware of the publicity, stepped in and declared the divorce a sham. The couple was assessed additional tax (in line with the married tax rates) plus penalty and interest. So much for connubial bliss.

Lower tax rates apply to the unmarried taxpayer who maintains a household throughout the year which is also the principal residence of his unmarried child or a relative who qualifies as his dependent. This includes the single taxpayer who supports a dependent parent in a rest home. It is especially important to understand that merely being the head of your own household does not qualify you to use these lower rates. Many young people assume that this status is applicable to them merely because they no longer live with their parents — WRONG! If you are unsure of your filing status, scrutinize your instruction booklet to obtain competent assistance.

Coming up next: dependents and exemptions.

Paul Bodinizzo, a UMass graduate business student, is a partner at Professional Tax Associates in Amherst.

Scholarships available for study abroad

The Rotary Club of Springfield is now accepting applications for Rotary Foundation Educational Awards. The awards provide tuition, travel expenses, room and board for one academic year of study in another country in the following areas: Graduate Fellowship, Undergraduate Scholarship, Technical Training Award, Teachers of the Handicapped Program, and a Journalism Award.

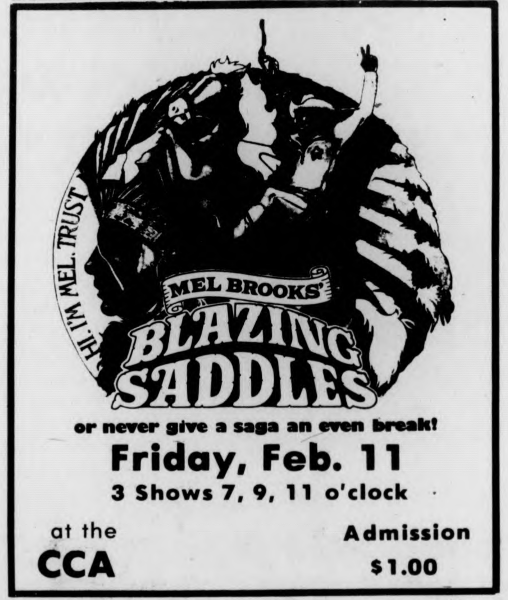
Applications may be requested from the Chairman of the Rotary Foundation Educational Award Committee, Dr. John Deady, Superintendent of Schools, at his office at 195 State Street. The deadline for filing completed applications is March 1, 1977.

AMHERST Cinema
Amity St. 253-5426
FRANCOIS TRUFFAUT'S
"The Bride Wore Black"
with Jeanne Moreau
Plus
"Hitchcock Co-Feature"
Hitchcock Eves 7:00
Bride Eves 9:00 Sat & Sun 5:00
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

roister doister drama society
presents
Flowers for Algernon
by David Rogers
February 11, 12, 13, 18 & 19
8:00 p.m.
Bowker Aud.
Stockbridge Hall UMass.
Tickets on sale now at Bowker Box Office
Reservations — 545-0783 — Information

"BREAKAWAY FUNNY, Paul Mazursky's film is a comic reminiscence about the tough lessons and small victories that mark the end of growing up."
PAUL MAZURSKY'S "Next Stop Greenwich Village"
R
FRIDAY Feb. 11, 1977 SUB 7, 9, 11
$1.00

An epic drama of adventure and exploration!
MGM PRESENTS A STANLEY KUBRICK PRODUCTION
2001: a space odyssey
STARRING KEIR DULLEA · GARY LOCKWOOD
SCREENPLAY BY STANLEY KUBRICK AND ARTHUR C. CLARKE
PRODUCED AND DIRECTED BY STANLEY KUBRICK
SUPER PANAVISION AND METROCOLOR
CCA Admission $1.00 6:30, 9, 11:30 Sat 2/12



HI, I'M MEL. TRUST
MEL BROOKS' BLAZING SADDLES
or never give a saga an even break!
Friday, Feb. 11
3 Shows 7, 9, 11 o'clock
at the CCA
Admission $1.00

Appearing
TONITE — SUN
CLEAN LIVING
MONDAY
CHRIS RHODES
AT
The rusty nail Inn
Rte. 47, Sunderland
665-4937

University of massachusetts arts council
S. HUROK presents
CANADA'S ROYAL WINNIPEG BALLET
FRI. & SAT., FEB. 11 & 12 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets on sale Jan. 28, $6, 5, 4. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

University of massachusetts arts council
presents
Quartetto Italiano
The program will consist of QUARTET IN C MAJOR, OPUS 76, No. 3 ("Emperor") by Haydn, THREE PIECES FOR STRING QUARTET (1914) by Stravinsky, CONCERTINO FOR STRING QUARTET (1920) by Stravinsky and QUARTET IN D MINOR, D. 810 ("Death and the Maiden") by Schubert.
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets now on sale! $5, 4, 3. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

Weight program at UHS

A 10-week weight control program, for men and women students, is again being sponsored by the University Health Services. The program will include techniques for behavioral and situational management, as well as individual counseling and exercise.

In order to determine whether this program is the one which best fits your needs, please give serious consideration to the following factors:

— Participants must be at least 20 lbs. overweight.

— There will be a fee for the program — most of which will be reimbursed if attendance requirements are met.

— The program is not intended to promote quick weight loss and dieting will not begin for at least a month; emphasis is on the retraining of eating habits which will, in time, lead to permanent weight loss.

— Participation in this program will be rather time consuming and weekly assignments will be made.

Three sessions are available with three different facilitators. Maximum enrollments have been set for each, so plan on coming early.

Section I — Wednesday evenings, 7-9 p.m., room 302, University Health Services, Lisa Lambiase, Clinical Nutritionist. Students interested in this section are invited to a brief screening session in Clinic 2 of the Health Services on Monday, February 14th anytime between the hours of 8:30-noon and 1-5 p.m. Screening will be cut-off when maximum enrollment is met.

Section II — Wednesdays, 12:15-1:30 p.m., room 302, University Health Services, Helene Yass, Community Nutrition Educator. Students interested in this section are invited to attend the first session on Wednesday, Feb. 23rd.

Section II — Thursdays, 4:30-6 p.m., room 302, University Health Services, Dean A. Allen, Psychologist. Students interested in this section are invited to attend the first session on Thursday, Feb. 17th.

Campus Carousel

By TONITE GRANITE

WHEN BOB WOODWARD of Watergate fame spoke with 3,500 students at Indiana University this fall, he recited an anecdote of the paranoia that accompanied his investigation.

A page one piece in the Indiana Daily Student quoted him as recalling that one morning, his partner, Carl Bernstein, found a note in his typewriter that read: "Carl Bernstein, you better watch out. You went too far last night."

After a brief period of contemplation, the dashing duo realized the note had been left by a copy girl whom Bernstein had been dating, and had no connection with the story.

BLACK HONOR SOCIETY ILLEGAL? Administrators at Miami-Dade (Fla.) Community College-North think so, according to a page one story in the Falcon Times.

Complaint of a faculty member elicited the opinion that a black honor society would be discriminatory, just as the Miss Miami-Dade contest was considered to be, when it was cancelled this year.

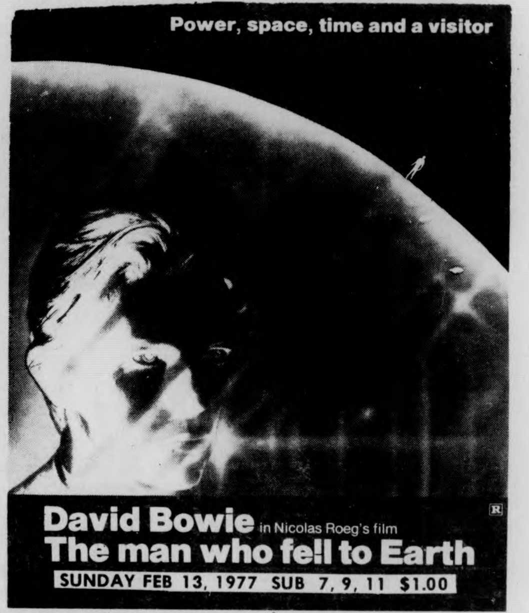
The college is committed to Equal Access-Equal Opportunity.

GHOST WRITERS ARE CHEAP at UConn, if a recent classified ad received any takers. It appeared in the Connecticut Daily Campus: "WANTED: Part-time ghost writer for non-fiction trade book. Excellent command of English with superb writing ability crucial. Typing ability a plus (electric typewriter provided), $2.50-hour plus generous bonus."

What, no unheated garret?

CALVIN
Northampton 584-2310
NOW . . . thru TUES.
LED ZEPPELIN
"THE SONG REMAINS THE SAME"
Weeknites 7, 9:20
Sat., Sun. 4:40, 7, 9:20
Sat., Sun. Dollar Hour til 6 p.m.
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY MASS
LOVE. ACTION. COMEDY. SUSPENSE. EXCITEMENT.
Before Laurel met Hardy
Before Butch Cassidy met the Sundance Kid
Before any movie ever made you laugh or cry or fall in love
There was a handful of adventurers who made flickering pictures you could see for a nickel
NICKELODEON
RYAN O'NEAL BURT REYNOLDS TATUM O'NEAL BRIAN KEITH
PETER BOGDANOVICH'S "NICKELODEON"
PG
1 Fri. 4:30, 7:00, 9:30. Twi-liter 4-4:30. Sat. 2:00, 4:30, 7:00, 9:30. Twi-liter 4-4:30. Sun. 2:00, 5:45, 8:00. Twi-liter 5:15-5:45. Limited seating at Twi-liter. $1.25.
If only they knew she had the power.
IF YOU'VE GOT A TASTE FOR TERROR... TAKE CARRIE TO THE PROM.
"CARRIE" Based on the runaway best-seller!
R
HELD OVER! FINAL WEEK
2 Fri. 5:00, 7:30, 9:45. Twi-liter 4:30-5. Sat. 2:15, 5:00, 7:30, 9:45. Twi-liter 4:30-5. Sun. 2:15, 6:00, 8:15. Twi-liter 5:30-6. Limited seating at Twi-liter. $1.25.
Sherlock Holmes meets Sigmund Freud
THE SEVEN-PER-CENT SOLUTION
ALAN ARKIN · VANESSA REDGRAVE · ROBERT DUVALL and NICOL WILLIAMSON
PG
3 Fri. 4:45, 7:15, 9:45. Twi-liter 4:15-4:45. Sat. 2:15, 4:45, 7:15, 9:45. Twi-liter 4:15-4:45. Sun. 2:15, 5:45, 8:15. Twi-liter 5:15-5:45. Limited seating at Twi-liter. $1.25.
"ONE OF INGMAR BERGMAN'S FINEST FILMS!" —Judith Crist, Saturday Review
DINO DE LAURENTIIS PRESENTS
INGMAR BERGMAN'S "FACE TO FACE"
Starring LIV ULLMANN
R
4 Fri. 4:30, 7:00, 9:30. Twi-liter 4-4:30. Sat. 2:00, 4:30, 7:00, 9:30. Twi-liter 4-4:30. Sun. 2:00, 5:30, 8:00. Twi-liter 5-5:30. Limited seating at Twi-liter. $1.25.
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING



Power, space, time and a visitor
David Bowie in Nicolas Roeg's film
The man who fell to Earth
R
SUNDAY FEB 13, 1977 SUB 7, 9, 11 $1.00

Everbody's Market Place

CLASSIFIED ADS

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30 a.m. and 3:45 p.m. Monday thru Friday. The deadline is 3:45 p.m. two days before your ad is to appear.

The rates are:

Daily · 40¢ per line

Weekly · 35¢ per line

Monthly · 25¢ per line

(two lines on MDC form approximate one line)

IF YOU CAN'T COME TO THE OFFICE, CLIP OUT AND MAIL OUR SPEEDY CLASSIFIED AD FORM

FOR SALE

Exata VX, antique. $150 or will trade. Isaac, 253-2107, eves.

New ski boots. Italian imports, polyurethane with flo-form linings. Most sizes, $35. After ski boots, $25. Call Sue 256-8641 evenings 7:00-10:30.

House broken rabbit for sale, 11 wks. Red Satin, cute, great pet. Debby 538-4087.

Yamaha FG 180, Guitar $125 or B.O. Call Daniel 3-7 p.m. 253-3887.

1 pr. of men's Bauer hockey skates, size 10. Call 6-8960.

Sherwood 7200 — 40w per channel, dual 1228 w-cart, AR2AX speakers. All excellent cond. $515. Neal, 546-4382.

Twin bed. 253-7625.

Gift Idea: Have your portrait drawn. Call Dennis Delap, 256-8732.

FOR SALE

Kastle GS skis, 200cm. $50. 546-4709.

Never used — Odyssey 200 w adapter. Ping pong game for any TV. $75 or B. O. 546-5384.

F slalom ski outfit & nvy Hd. jack., sz. 10. 665-4188.

Yamaha FG200 jumbo folk guitar w-hard shell case. $165. Harvey 367-2437.

Used top-of-car ski racks. Good buy. Prof. Wallace, Nope 109, M,W,F 10; T,T 9:30.

Drafting easel, board and T-square and drafting lamp. Call 549-3615.

Refrig. 5 cu. ft. Ex. cond. $100 549-1391.

Speaker cabinet, 2 15" SRO 1 12" Altec ex. condition. 369-4916 Richard. Keep tryin.

AUTO FOR SALE

Red Mustang, '65. Runs, needs valve work. Best offer. 5-2658, 586-0443.

'68 Renault Rio. Gd. cond. 30mpg 546-6304.

'68 Catalina, hi mi. but runs well and reliable. $350. Peter Dwight 224. 5-2304.

'66 Peugeot 404, radials, ex. parts. A good car, $465. Carl 549-5335.

1970 Camaro, Hurst Cragars headers, more. Needs some work. Must sell. 665-2676.

1972 Fiat 128 wagon. Just repainted, new valve job, battery, muffler. $1100. 584-0216.

TO SUBLET

Sublet Immediately — 1 bedroom Puffton Village, wall to wall, morn. 549-6985.

TYPING

Typing — Reasonable rates — Dissertations, resumes, papers, etc. 549-6772.

ROOMMATE WANTED

2 people to share lg. rm. in Pelham house. 8 mi. to campus. $165+. 253-7009.

1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. apt. for lease. $125—mo., utilities inc. Call 665-4235. Sunderland (female).

2 rooms — Montague. $85+. 772-0241, ext. 221 or 367-2375. Ask for Marian Perry.

1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. apt. No lease. $90+ w-w carpet & p-furnd. 665-4847.

Own room, $100 + util. M or F, on busline. Furn. Call 665-3493.

Female non-smoking, furn. room in N. Hadley. Country home, kitchen priv. 549-5683.

Own room. Share mod. apt. w-fml senior. $125 incl. util., sec. dep. Lease. A-cond. 549-1741 or 549-1352.

Mature, studious type to take 3 rms. in elegant house on Echo Hill. Wood stve, lndry, kitchn facil. $117—mo rent + $25—mo. util. Call Bruce 256-0662 or 549-1741.

F roommate-own room in 3 bdroom house near Amh. Center and bus rt. $100 mo. Call after 6 p.m., 253-9640.

Roommate own room. $74 rent, $25 and utils. Sec dep. w 2 oth. Guys Rvrgld. Bus Rte. Rich 253-3690 Mssg.

Male to share 2½ rm. apt. share lg. bedroom, stove, refrig., Cbl. T.V. furnished. Lease to 5-31 $110 mo. Call 546-4177.

FOR RENT

Beat the summer rush rentals. For a good deal and a good deal more $. Call 256-0144. P.M.

1 bdrm. apt. Puffton. Bus, air cond., d-wash, quiet. $205 month incl. all. 549-4596.

University Women: Close to campus sorority is taking boarders. Great food. Call Liz or Dawn at 253-9215.

FREE

Free dog & cat. Love outdoors & kids. Dog is spayed & all shots. 549-4896, nites.

WANTED

Wanted — Old abandoned cars for salvage or junk. Fair prices paid. 665-4546 after 6 p.m. A&S Salvage Inc.

Fencers...Experienced foil and saber fencer needs partners — a.m., p.m., weekends. Duke Simoneau 405D1. Brown house. 546-5727.

Wanted: A queen or king size bed. Call 256-0144. P.M. Ask for Red.

35mm camera in good condition. Call Neil at 546-1121.

Used fridge and hot plate. Call 6-5208

RIDERS WANTED

Riders wanted for car pool to Holyoke weekdays. Contact Linda D-5, N-Village.

RIDE WANTED

To Ptsfld-Lnx area 1 day wkly after 3:30. Ret. nxt. mrn. Call 6952 aft. 7 p.m.

HONEST FURNITURE

Good deals on bureaus, beds, chairs, sofas, lamps, threadle sewing machines, desks and things that go bump in the night. Pauls Oldtime Furniture, 57 E. Pleasant St., Amherst. 549-3603, we deliver.

REWARD OFFERED

Reward offered for return of casino klub amplifier and AKG 190E mike stolen from basement of 165 Britanny Manor. Call Jim at 549-1145.

FARE and FROLIC

Win dinner for 2 at TOC and a night at the CC Hotel! JQA Middle sponsors a Valentine Raffle! Tickets 25c (5 for $1) on CC, Concourse and Sw Dc's.

ENTERTAINMENT

Come on over to Zeta Psi tomorrow night after the B-ball game for the best open house of the semester. Miller beer and wine. 23 Philips St.

HELP WANTED

If you have been sexually harrassed, by a faculty member in any way, I need to talk to you for a study involving such practices. Please contact Joy at 665-7064. Strict confidentiality guaranteed.

Work in a sorority. Free meals, good home cooking. Call 253-9066.

Alan Goldberg Tennis Pro needs assistant pro for part time summer employment. Teaching exp. required. Call nites 253-3683.

International women's week needs people power for publicity committee and children's programming! For more info. call Irene 545-3600.

One or two work study jobs are opening with the Student Senate Recycling Project this semester. These would be part-time work study positions working as helpers on the recycling project's trash truck. A willingness to do hard work & reliability are essential. 8-10 hrs. wk., $3.00 hr. Apply at CEQ Office. Equal Opp. Employer.

Work study person — general clerical, typing helpful but not req. Call Jean 5-0005 (I.G.S.)

Experienced pitch partner needed desperately. Call Paul after 10 p.m. at 6-1184.

PERSONALS

To the woman mailing a B-day card to the Cape, from the guy cashing a check — Thanks for making my day — again!

Kathy, have a great 23rd yr. Love, Jim.

Susan — Happy 20th! Don't celebrate too much at the movies. Maybe the Easter bunny will bring a big B?! Can you wait? Have a nice day and Happy Birthday. With Love, Geri and Robin and Debbie.

Hey 7 West Webster! Why is a basketball?? What's white and goes up? Not a bad choice, BIFFY!! Signed: The ronnc rabbit Fan Club.

LOST

Lost while walking from the vicinity of Flint Lab to the C.C. Concourse, a gold Timex watch with a gold band. Of sentimental value only. Pls. call Jean 546-9568. Thanx.

Lg. black & white fluffy cat. Male, 1½ years old. Near Rvrgld. Apt. 256-6694. He is missed!

SERVICES

Guitar Lessons. Experienced, reliable teacher. Theory included if desired. Student rates available. 665-3024.

Typing — 65c pg. Call Anne 549-5339.

Job and application photos done. Exp. with art portfolio slides. Portraits for your Valentine. Contact: Steven at 546-9653 for an appt.

AUDIO

Crown Disco Amp, SAE Preamp Equalizer, Dual CS701 trntable, JBL100 spkrs., excel. condition. All for $1,450.00. Call Joe 6:30 p.m. 586-2844.

Quality audio components — over 130 lines including high—end; good advice, reasonable prices. Call Peter 665-2920.

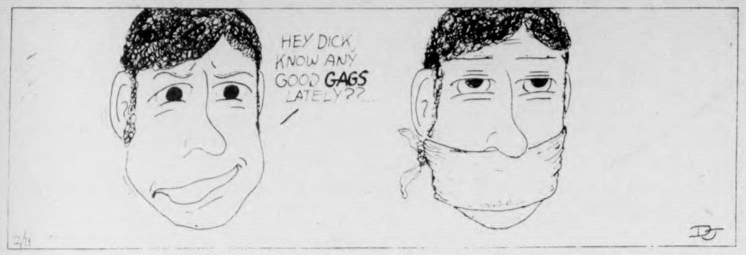
CALCULATORS

College Calculators has low prices! All T. I. warr by me for 1 yr. SR-52 $199.95; SR-56 $84.95 ($10 rebate off this pr.); SR-40 $34.95, bus anal $34.95 — All HP's avail. HP-67 $389.95. Call and check our PR's. Call Bob Or Linda 549-1316!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

TRAVEL

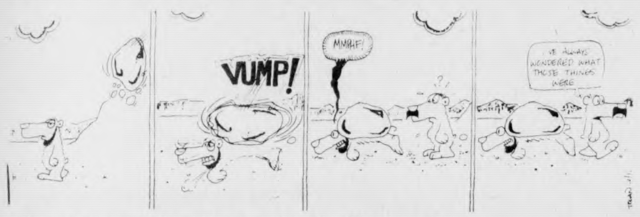
Europe '77. No frills, student, teacher, charter flights — Global Travel, 521 5th Ave., N. Y., N. Y. 10017. 212-379-3532. Group rates.

What Next? by Dick Janssen



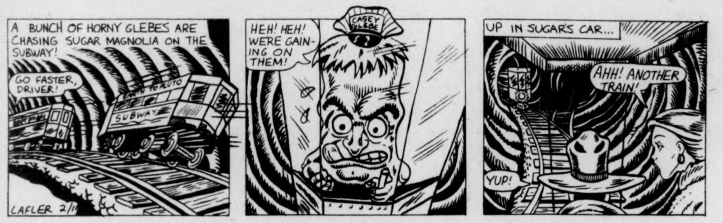
HEY DICK, KNOW ANY GOOD GAGS LATELY??
2/11
DJ

The Scent of Man by Peter Tolan



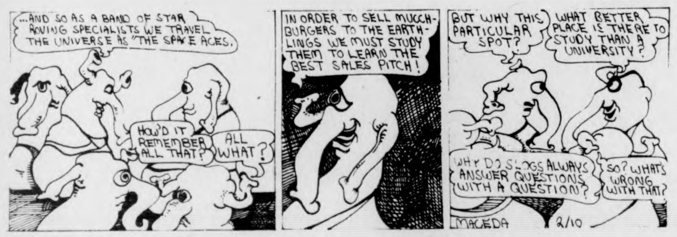
VUMP!
MMPHF!
I'VE ALWAYS WONDERED WHAT THOSE THINGS WERE

Aluminum Ghost by Steve Lafler



A BUNCH OF HORNY GLEBES ARE CHASING SUGAR MAGNOLIA ON THE SUBWAY!
GO FASTER, DRIVER!
EARTH TO PLUTO
SUBWAY
LAFLER 2/11
HEH! HEH! WE'RE GAINING ON THEM!
CASEY GLEBE
UP IN SUGAR'S CAR...
AHH! ANOTHER TRAIN!
YUP!

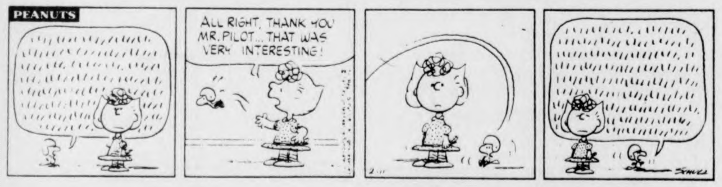
U.Mutations by Marty Maceda



...AND SO AS A BAND OF STAR ROVING SPECIALISTS WE TRAVEL THE UNIVERSE AS "THE SPACE ACES."
HOW'D IT REMEMBER ALL THAT?
ALL WHAT?
IN ORDER TO SELL MUCCH-BURGERS TO THE EARTHLINGS WE MUST STUDY THEM TO LEARN THE BEST SALES PITCH!
BUT WHY THIS PARTICULAR SPOT?
WHAT BETTER PLACE IS THERE TO STUDY THAN A UNIVERSITY?
WHY DO SLOGS ALWAYS ANSWER QUESTIONS WITH A QUESTION?
SO? WHAT'S WRONG WITH THAT?
MACEDA 2/10

PEANUTS
by Charles M. Schultz

SPONSORED BY: STYLES BY DEBORAH
GUYS & GALS TEL. 549-5610
PERSONAL STYLE CUT $5.00

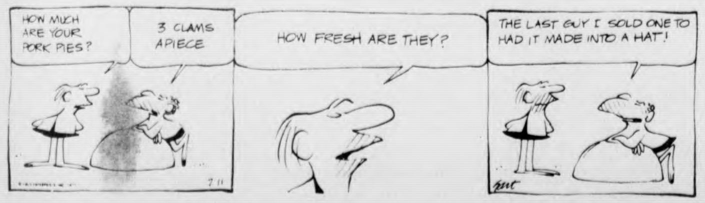


PEANUTS
ALL RIGHT, THANK YOU MR. PILOT... THAT WAS VERY INTERESTING!
2-11
SCHULZ

Doonesbury
by Garry Trudeau

SPONSORED BY: Valley typing
29 S. Pleasant St.
Call 256-6736
M-F 10-6 S 10-2

B.C. by Johnny Hart



HOW MUCH ARE YOUR PORK PIES?
3 CLAMS APIECE
HOW FRESH ARE THEY?
THE LAST GUY I SOLD ONE TO HAD IT MADE INTO A HAT!
2-11
hart

Local Television

8:00 3 CODE R
8 40 THE DONNY AND MARIE OSMOND SHOW
22 30 SANFORD AND SON "Reverend Sanford"
24 57 WASHINGTON WEEK IN REVIEW
8:30 22 30 THE ROCKFORD FILES "The Becker Connection"
24 57 WALL STREET WEEK
9:00 3 THE SONNY AND CHER SHOW
8 40 ABC FRIDAY NIGHT MOVIE "The Last Dinosaur"
18 ATHANSON'S FORUM
24 57 DOCUMENTARY SHOWCASE: "Two Stones"
9:30 18 THE PTL CLUB
22 30 QUINCY "The Thigh Bone's Connected To The Knee Bone"
10:00 3 EXECUTIVE SUITE
24 57 AGRONSKY AT LARGE
27 NEWS
56 LOVE, AMERICAN STYLE
10:30 24 57 AMERICANA
10:45 27 JEANNE PALMER – FINANCE
11:00 3 8 22 24 30 40 NEWS
27 MOVIE "The Slave"
56 DARK SHADOWS
57 MARY HARTMAN, MARY HARTMAN
11:30 3 FRIDAY SPECTACULAR "Land Raiders"
8 GREAT EIGHT, LATE NIGHT, FRIGHT FLICK "The Black Cat"
18 DR. SCOTT ON HEBREW
22 30 THE JOHNNY CARSON SHOW
40 S.W.A.T. "Vendetta"
57 CAPTIONED ABC EVENING NEWS
12:37 40 DRAGNET
1:00 8 40 NEWS
18 THE 700 CLUB

Your Birthday

by Stella Wilder

Friday, February 11 — Born today, you are an entirely trustworthy person who carries his honor like a flag before him in all he undertakes. You are one who requires a nice balance between work and relaxation, between mental and physical exercise, between self-discipline and self-indulgence. You have control of your intellectual and your emotional responses, so that you are quite able to elect from among many options that one that is most acceptable both to you and to society at large. You have a tendency to take on more responsibility than you can comfortably handle --but that does not mean that you are not able to carry out whatever promises you may have made, even if doing so would involve a certain amount of discomfort.

You possess a great deal of personal pride, but not so much that you appear egotistical. Rather, you use your pride to keep you doing your best during difficult times. Thus it is that you never deliver work that is less than good, no matter under what circumstances it was produced. You are able to think yourself into the atmosphere you desire in order to accomplish your goals, just as you are able to think yourself out of situations and circumstances that displease you in one way or another. Indeed, with your strong and positive will, you accomplish more than many do through everyday actions.

Yours is an independent nature. You feel tremendous waves of discontent when your liberty is in any way curtailed.

* * *

Saturday, February 12

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Willpower and determination will secure for you your most recent aims. Goals of long standing may have to wait a while longer.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Your higher psychic faculties are actively in force today. Employ them to gain an advantage over the opposition.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Your own financial security may be at stake at this time. Attend to present financial obligations.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Morning moodiness sets back the cause of several goals today. Make an effort to brood less and move ahead more. Don't look back in anger.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Avoid anything that smacks of inattentiveness when working with another in a common cause. At least look like you're pulling your own weight.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Apprehensions and fears bring you to the point of inaction early in the day. Make yourself ready for the attentions of a new friend.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Keep your thoughts to yourself today, at least where they concern your own efforts to work in tandem with another. Success comes at a later date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Make this a Saturday for family fun -- in spite of your dislike of the behavior of certain family members. Speak softly late in the day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Prepare well for the evening. It may take you all day to will yourself into the mood you need for evening activities – but it will be worth it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — A tendency toward lethargy may cause you to fail in efforts to get a new project off the ground. Seek help from family members at evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — It is important that you be receptive to another's ideas; otherwise, you may lose a benefit actually meant for you.

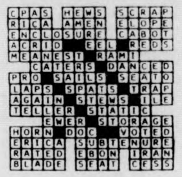
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Strive for a renewal of family solidarity. This is a good time to try to make family members aware of your concern for them.

Copyright 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Today's Crossword

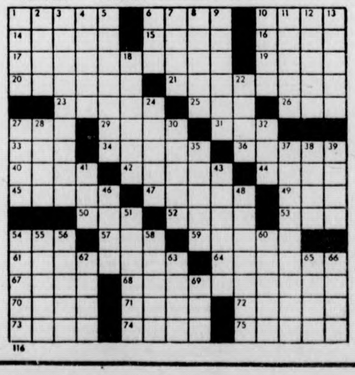
UNITED Feature Syndicate

Thursday's Puzzle Solved



ACROSS
1 Minerals
6 Most recent
10 Minor prophet
14 In flames
15 Extent of surface
16 Tennis score
17 " that broke the ------ ----"
19 Make a mournful sound
20 Three-bagger
21 James and Rod
23 Gear parts
25 Knight's title
26 Perceive
27 Driving area
29 Tooth part
31 Dissenting vote
33 Not even
34 Apartment manager Informal
36 Tracts for public use
40 "---- A Song in My Heart"
42 Weather research satellite
44 Gambling game
45 Sag downward
47 Sprinkles with NaCl
49 Kind of dog Informal
50 Obtained
52 Withered Var
53 Ravaged
54 "Bravo!" in Mexico
57 Soc
59 Sunken missile shelters
61 Military VIPs
64 Restrained
67 French composer
68 Speculation
70 Welsh name
71 Revelers' wild cry
72 Of a torus
73 Portuguese coins
74 Obligation
75 Pipe up

DOWN
1 Diplomacy
2 At a distance
3 Not in excess of: 2 words
4 ----- de chine
5 Track employees
6 Canadian peninsula Abbr
7 River of Turkey
8 Divides
Suffix
9 Victimize: 2 words
10 Egyptian entertainer
11 Secures
12 Egg-shaped
13 Significance
18 Start a trip: 2 words
22 Envelop
24 Arizona natives
27 Draws behind
28 Correct
30 Monster Med
32 Long-tailed ox
35 Parts played
37 Put out to graze again
38 Speed unit
39 Unspecified number
41 Meat source
43 Multi-colored fabric
46 Inefficient
48 Chooses
51 Copied a drawing
54 Lewd glance maker
55 Forsake
56 Chou ----- Chinese VIP
58 Hand covering
60 Successful: 2 words
62 Ages
63 Aloof person
65 Bathsheba's husband
66 Kiss briefly Informal
69 Kind of plane Informal



Winnipeg Ballet here this weekend

Canada's Royal Winnipeg Ballet will be seen in two evening performances at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall tonight and tomorrow at 8 p.m. Sponsored by the University's Arts Council as part of its 1976-77 Concert Dance Series, the Company will offer a different program each evening.

Considered to be one of the most spectacular dance companies performing today, the Royal Winnipeg Ballet has fought its way through hardships and disaster and emerged triumphant to dance its way into the hearts of audiences throughout the world.

Tickets for the Royal Winnipeg Ballet Concerts are on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office and at all Ticketron Outlets. Prices are $4, $5, and $6 for the general public; one-half price for UMass students; $1 off the regular price for senior citizens and for students attending schools other than UMass. For further ticket information, call the Box Office, 545-2511, which is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Royal Winnipeg Ballet will be performing tonight and tomorrow night at the Fine Arts Center.

ARE YOU RENTING ?
ARE YOUR CONTENTS INSURED?

IF NOT, CONTACT TOM LYONS
AT LYONS INSURANCE IN
NORTHAMPTOM FOR A LOW COST
RENTOR'S PACKAGE POLICY 584-1998

EPA to sponsor publicmeetings

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is sponsoring two public meetings on the recently enacted Resource Conservation and Recovery Act of 1976.

The purpose of the meetings is to outline the main provisions of the new Act, to present EPA's plan for implementation, and to solicit public comments concerning regulation requirements and implementation. The meetings will start at 1 p.m. at the following locations:

February 25, 1977 — Sheraton Lincoln Inn, Worcester;

February 26, 1977 — Ramada Inn, Concord, New Hampshire.

If you have not received an invitation, but would like to attend the meeting, contact Dennis Huebner, EPA Air and Hazardous Materials Division, John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Boston, Massachusetts 02203, (617) 223-5775.

Munson has info about subletting

If you want to rent an apartment this spring: vacancies are hard to come by in the 'lower' priced complexes. However, numerous tenants are subletting through the Off Campus Housing Office, 3 Munson Hall, 545-0865 or 545-0145. We can furnish you with complete info.

Always wanted to have your ears
pierced?

One Day Only
Sat., Feb. 12, 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.
You can have your ears pierced by a professional nurse with a doctor in attendance. It's done with 24-kara gold plate non-allergenic surgical stainless steel earrings.
ONLY $8.00
Includes 24 Kt. Gold Plated Surgical Earrings
10% Student Discount on other earrings
J. Cifarelli, Jeweler
Mt. Farms Mall Hadley

WORK/STUDY
Interesting Work—Study Jobs available in the Student Senate Office and the SGA Office of Communications.
Applications are available in the Senate Office, 420 S.U.
STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

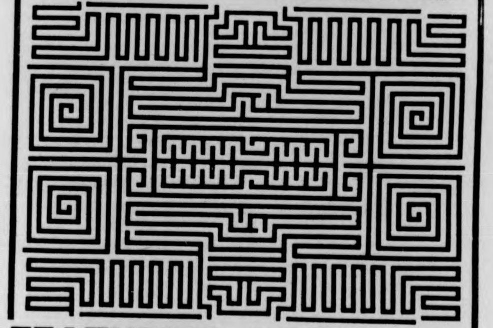
QUONSET
Something New in Dining Out!!
Low Budget
Family Menu
featuring
Chef John
Dinner Served 5-9
Tues. thru Fri.
For student groups of 4 and up
10 per cent discount
Restaurant
Hadley, Mass.
Exit 20, I-91, Rt. 9
Reservations
1-253-9214

MAZE BOOKS



FEATURING 3-D MAZES!
Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
Open 9:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.

Nancy O'Neil—three sport star

By RICHARD MOORE
Collegian Staff

Nancy O'Neil, 22 year old senior Physical Education major, is an athletic rarity. In a sports world that stresses specialization O'Neil captains the UMass Women's Varsity Tennis team, is co-captain of varsity basketball, and led the varsity lacrosse team in scoring last season.

"I'd probably be on both the basketball and swimming teams," said O'Neil, "if there wasn't a rule against college athletes participating in two varsity sports in the same season. I chose basketball because it's more fun, but I could see myself tearing off my basketball uniform and running down to the pool for a swim meet."

O'Neil had some definite opinions on the subject of an athlete concentrating totally on one sport.

"I'd hate to see women's sports specialized," she said, "most women athletes don't have a pro career to look forward to, so they can compete in several college sports. Having fun and making friends through athletics means as much to me as the competition, and I think being too serious about one sport takes away from the enjoyment."

O'Neil didn't hesitate to name lacrosse as her favorite sport. "It's more open," she said, "and there's more I can do with the ball. In basketball I'm a forward so I don't ball handle that much, but in lacrosse I run a lot and have more room to perform some of the good moves I have."

"My parents introduced me to tennis when I was a kid, but I work summers and don't have much time for it."

O'Neil, whose 33 points led the women's basketball team to its ninth straight win Tuesday night said, "I wish more people would come to our games. I know we can't jump, run, or shoot as well as the men, but we're not just a bunch of girls running around out there either."

"We employ the same basic basketball strategies and moves as the men, our level of skill is high, and we play tough competition. The people who come to our games recognize a good play and don't care that it's a women who made the play."

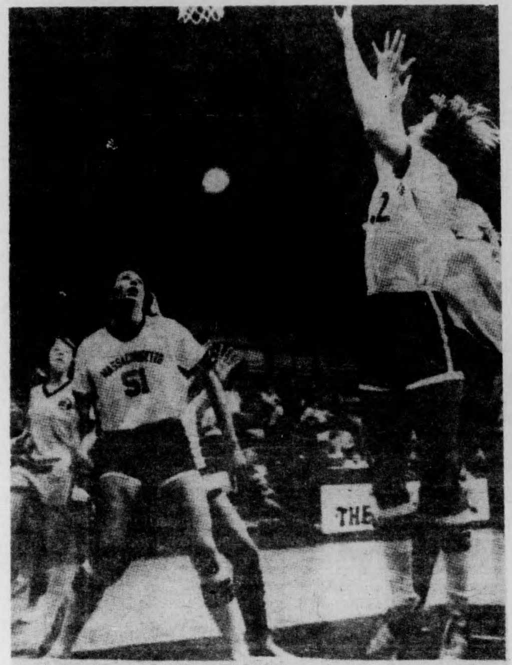
O'Neil tried out for the United States Women's Olympic Basketball Team last summer, and was among the last 36 players cut out of 200 hopefuls.

"There were politics involved in picking the team," O'Neil said, "but I don't have any hard feelings."

"The coaches who picked players from this area favored some of their own girls who were trying out. I think I did well considering I can play a hell of a lot better than I did. I'm capable in the three sports I play, but I have a tough time making an Olympic team against people who specialize."

O'Neil would like to teach high school phys. ed. in her hometown of Scituate after graduation.

"That would only be for a couple years," O'Neil said, "after that I want to go to graduate school, and eventually teach and coach sports on the college level. I wouldn't mind ending up here at UMass, we have an excellent women's program."



UMass forward Nancy O'Neil aims for the hoop while center Lu-Ann Fletcher (51) blocks out under the boards. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

SALE

30% off...

...an inventory sale on the finest selection of hand-crafted items we've ever carried: Gold and Silver jewelry, fine leathers and accessories, blown glass and pottery...All at a remarkable 30% off...For one week only: FEBRUARY 5 thru FEBRUARY 12.

The Leather Shed

199 north pleasant street amherst mass 01002

Tiant dissatisfied, wants new contract

BOSTON [UPI] — Springtime must be near because Luis Tiant is having another contract squabble with the Boston Red Sox.

On the second year of a two-year contract, the 36-year-old Tiant is looking for an extension through 1979. The Red Sox management has made some concessions but no agreement has been made, attorney Bob Woolf said Thursday at a Red Sox luncheon.

"We're quite close, let's say reasonably close," said Woolf, the pioneer sports attorney who has represented Tiant for three years. "We're trying to get an extension on his contract, not renegotiate it.

"In the last six, eight months, things have changed drastically. The free agent draft has changed it all. Many players on the club have been signed to multi-year contracts since that time. Luis is still working under the old system and everyone else is under the new system."

Woolf says he will recommend Tiant join the Red Sox in spring training later this month, even if contract discussions are still going on.

Tiant, however, is vague about his plans if the dispute is not worked out.

"I don't know what I'll do," he said, chomping on an ever-present cigar and waving reporters away. "I'll wait and see."

The Cuban-born right-hander has won 20 games in three of the last four seasons, and won three games in the playoffs and World Series in 1975. He compiled a 21-12 record last season, after refusing to report for spring training for a couple of days. He stayed at his Milton home and contacted Woolf to handle the problem.

The Red Sox renegotiated at that time, giving him a two-year pact and an option year. As the season progressed and the free agent draft approached, the Boston club signed Fred Lynn, Carlton Fisk and Rick Burleson to hefty multi-year contracts.

What Campus
Group is the Largest National Service Fraternity?

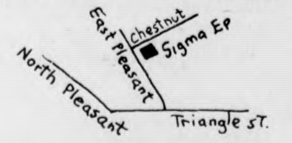
OPEN HOUSE
SIGMA PHI EPSILON

Friday, Feb. 11 9 Chestnut St.



8:30-1:00
3 Beers for a $1.00

Other People are Spending your Money!

Last year, the Student Senate spent $1.1 million of your money on the COLLEGIAN, Black Mass Communications Project, WMUA, Student Senate Transit Service, and other student services and activities.

SPEND YOUR OWN MONEY!

Nominations are now open to fill the following vacant Senate seats:

Greenough
John Adams Upper
Cashin
Coolidge Lower
Hamlin
Leach
Mary Lyons
Thatcher
Thoreau
Cance
Wheeler
Crampton
Coolidge Upper
* Commuters
Brett
Dickinson
Baker
* Greek Area
Pierpont
JQA Lower
JQA Middle
JQA Upper
Van Meter North
Knowlton
Washington Middle
Brown
Gorman
* Third World
Brooks
Van Meter South

* Elected at large

Nomination Papers are available in the Student Senate office, 420 Student Union.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Grapplers upset Wildcats in traumatic comeback

By BOB HASKELL
Collegian Staff

You just can't keep a good man down. And when you're talking about a team of good men and a rapidly maturing coaching staff, the only way to go is up.

And up is exactly where the UMass wrestling team found themselves after battling the matmen from UNH in Durham, N.H. last Wednesday night. The final score was 21-18 in favor of the Minutemen, but the story of how that came to be can only be described as traumatic.

After the first five matches, the score stood at 18-3, UNH, with consistent Larry Otsuka (134 lbs.) providing UMass' only points.

"Things looked bad after losing four of the first five matches," said Coach Dave Amato, "but then Kevin Griffin did a real good job at 158 lbs., winning 7-2, and we started to come back."

The turning point, according to Amato, was a superior performance at 177 lbs. by Mike Riley.

"Mike was down 6-1 after the first period," explained Amato, "but he kept on coming. He had to win for the team to have a chance, and that's just what he did, by a score of 15-14."

After those first four losses, the Minutemen simply refused to buckle under, winning the last five matches in succession.

Other winners for the grapplers were: Dana Cormier (167 lbs.), Bob Spaulding (190 lbs.) and Heavyweight Dennis Fenton.

This afternoon, the matmen, now 4-9 on the season, are in New Jersey to do battle with the Princeton wrestlers, and on Saturday afternoon their opponents will be the team from Fairleigh-Dickinson.

"This weekend will show how good we are," said Coach Amato, "Princeton is rated among the top three teams in the east, and they're very tough."

Coach Amato went on to mention that Steve Jabaut, who regularly wrestles at 150 lbs., has been able to trim down to 142 lbs. for the weekend matches.

UNBELIEVABLE SAVINGS
CALCULATORS, STEREOS

Enclose payment in full with order, or remit 20% with order, balance C.O.D.
PLEASE CHECK BOX FOR ITEM ORDERED
ADD $3.00 FOR HANDLING AND SHIPPING

Fast Delivery Guaranteed
with certified check only
Pa. residents add 6% sales tax
personal checks will delay orders

Texas Instruments electronic calculators

	WAS	SALE
☐ SR-52	$300	$186.95
☐ PC-100	$295	$149.95
☐ SR-56	$180	$ 84.95
☐ SR-51 II	$ 80	$ 52.95
☐ SR-40	$ 50	$ 33.97
☐ TI-5050M	$130	$ 92.95
☐ TI-5040	$150	$109.95

HEWLETT PACKARD

MODEL	WAS	SALE
HP-21	$100	$ 69.95
HP-22	$165	$109.95
HP-25	$145	$126.95
HP-25C	$200	$175.95
HP-27	$200	$153.95
HP-67	$450	$389.95
HP-97	$750	$649.95

Above prices include A/C Adaptor/Charger, Carrying Case, and full one year factory warranty.

STEREO RECEIVERS
PIONEER

	REG	SALE
SX-1250	$900	$584
SX-1050	$700	$469
SX-950	$600	$402
SX-850	$500	$347
SX-750	$400	$279
SX-650	$300	$213
SX-550	$250	$178
SX-450	$200	$149

SEND FOR FREE CATALOGUE
PHONE ORDERS ACCEPTED ONLY WITH CREDIT CARDS
814-237-5990
(Add 3% for Credit Card Orders)
master charge BANKAMERICARD

RECEIVERS Add 4% for Handling and Shipping
STEREO WAREHOUSE
307 W. BEAVER AVE., STATE COLLEGE, PA. 16801

Who runs
Las Vegas
Night?

Rutgers' Steve Hefele (24) watches as Mike Pyatt's last second jumper approaches the hoop. (Staff photo by Chris Bourne)

Women's ski squad to face league foes

By RICHARD MOORE
Collegian Staff

The league leading UMass women's ski team travels to Tenney Mt., in Plymouth Vermont, this weekend for a Women's Intercollegiate Ski Conference meet against conference rivals Boston University, University of Connecticut, and Merrimack College.

The league is shaping up into a battle between the Minutewomen and the Terriers of B.U. — or perhaps it would be more accurate to say between the Minutewomen and B.U. star Tracy Newlove. Newlove has won all four conference races this season, but the UMass team has sent B.U. home in second place in both WISC meets.

UMass coach Steve Tonelli credits the Minutewomen's success to team skiing. "We try and have our racers ski under control," Tonelli said, "and hope skiers on the other teams fall because they're going all out trying to finish first."

Tonelli, who skied under UMass men's coach Bill MacConnell for four years, said "Coach MacConnell was a firm believer in the team concept of skiing, and it works. You help your team a lot more by finishing third or fourth than you do by losing control and falling because you're trying to win it all."

"Our girls don't have much experience in the downhill," said Tonelli, "but I don't think the other schools do either. Kathy Shinnick and Nancy Hayden ran the downhill three weeks ago at the Can-Am meet, so that will help."

This weekend the women will run two downhill races instead of the usual slalom and grand slalom.

"The downhill is the most difficult of the three events," said Tonelli, "because it's the fastest. The racer must find the quickest line down the mountain and stay in it while maintaining body and ski control."

juvenile Valentine Cards
I love you

American Greetings
The Fresh Idea Company . . .
Valentine's Day — Feb. 14 — (next Monday)
the University Store
campus center
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.; Sat. 11 a.m.-4 p.m.

JOBS
Work-Study Positions
Available in
* STUDENT TICKET OFFICE
* STUDENT SERVICES RESEARCH
To apply you must *complete an application in the student senate office (420 SUB)
and
Come to an interview at
7:00 p.m. Tuesday Feb. 15
Room 168 Campus Center
Equal Opportunity Employer

Gymmen travel to Annapolis to face Midshipmen while...

By NICK KOTSOPOULOS
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts men's gymnastics team will be seeking its third consecutive victory tomorrow afternoon when the Minutemen travel down to Annapolis, Md. to meet a pesky Navy team.

The Minutemen, 4-2 on the season, are coming off an impressive 200-point performance against Syracuse last Saturday. In that meet, the UMass gymmen swept all six individual exercises and had three men in the top all-around spots.

Navy is 1-2 in the Eastern Collegiate Gymnastics League of which UMass is also a member.

Navy is 1-2 in the Eastern Collegiate Gymnastics League of which UMass is also a member, UMass sports, a 1-1 league record.

However, Navy has been averaging only 183 points per match this season, and UMass coach Dick Swetman is confident that his gymmen will make it three victories in a row against them.

"I don't forsee us having any problems with them," Swetman said. "They haven't been scoring that well all season, while we have been improving right along, reaching a peak last Saturday with our 200-point performance.

"I really don't know that much about them and I am just going by what I have heard. You never know though, they may pull an ace out of the hole and surprise us."

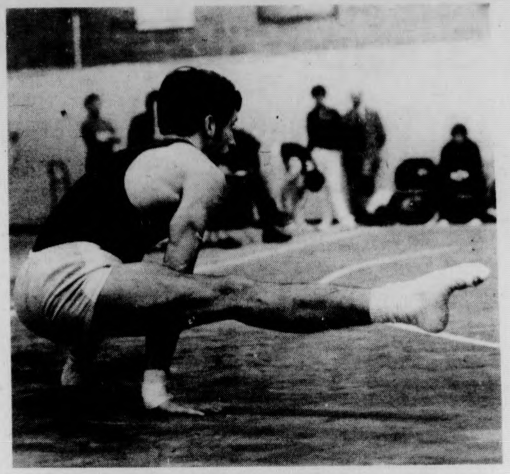
Physically, the Minutemen go into tomorrow's meet in fine shape, although John Forshay is still sidelined with a knee injury and may not return until the Springfield meet on Feb. 20. Also, Pete Moynihan may be kept out of tomorrow's meet as he has a wrist injury.

"We still have a lot of room for improvement," Swetman said. "We are generally still weak, and we have been having a lot of problems on the parallel bars and rings.

"This is really a big meet for us because after we meet Navy, we have three big meets, so it is important that we have strong performances tomorrow."

Swetman also said that many good seats are still available for the double dual meet against Springfield College on Feb. 20 to be held in the Springfield Civic Center. Not only will you be able to see the UMass gymmen in action, but the UMass women's gymnastics team will also be in action against the Springfield women.

Tickets are available for the double dual meet at the ticket office in Boyden.



The UMass gymmen will be on their toes instead of their hands when they face Navy at Annapolis. (Staff photo by Dave Rosenthel)

...women host Temple at Cage

By LAURA BASSETT
Collegian Staff

The women's gymnastics team resumes its competitive schedule tomorrow after a brief break. Last Saturday's meet against Canisius and Slippery Rock was postponed due to the closing of Buffalo because of the snowy weather. That meet has been rescheduled for February 26 but first the squad will meet several other opponents.

Temple University comes to Curry Hicks Cage on Saturday for the Mintuewomen's second home appearance of the season. Temple has been scoring in the high 120 region, 128.85 against University of Pittsburgh two weeks ago.

The strength of the squad relies on Roxanne Pierce, who has been ranked by gymnastic coaches as the fourth best individual gymnast in the country. Pierce has been struck by minor injuries though, and she is a questionable all-around performer on Saturday.

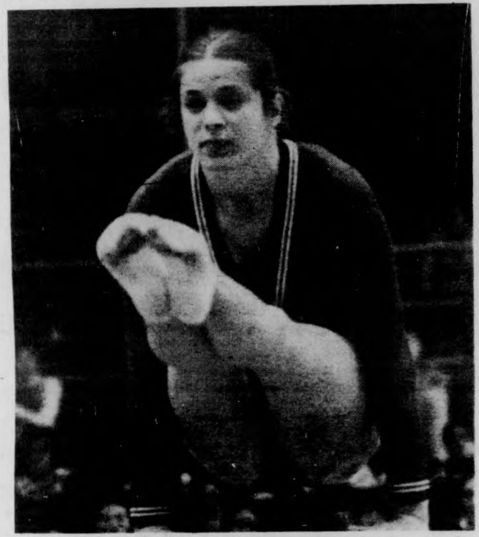
They gymwomen will go with Stephanie Jones, Jill Heggie and Susan Cantwell as the "regular" all around performers. Sophomore Cheryl Morrier will fill the fourth all event position as Karen Hemberger is still hampered by an ankle injury which she suffered during warm ups of the Worcester meet. Hemberger will work the bars and has been added to the vaulting squad for the Temple meet.

Filling out the rest of the event squads will be Jean Anderson on bars, Diane Laurenson on vault and floor exercise and Julie Myers on the balance beam and floor exercise.

The opening position on the balance beam is still up for grabs. Freshwoman Laurie Knapp and Barbara Burmeister are likely contenders according to Coach Virginia Evans.

As always, Evans is "fairly confident" about her teams chances of winning. The gymwomen have a season high score of 139.25, just shy of the elusive 140 barrior, the team wants so desperately to break. A score 134 is needed to qualify for post season championships but the team is going to have to score in the mid 140 range in order to defeat Clarion and Penn State, top Eastern and national gymnastics powers. Both Clarion and Penn State have recorded scores about 145 this season.

The squad is presently 2-1 and the season is bearing down upon them. The gymnasts will face six teams in five encounters over the next three weeks. Among them will be Clarion, perenially strong Springfield College, who will meet both men and women's gymnastics teams in the Springfield Civic Center. Fifth and sixth ranked Canisius and Towson State are also on the schedule.



The UMass women's gymnastics team will push itself back into action this weekend after a two-week vacation. (Staff photo by Rob Carlin)

What

Campus Organization

Raised Over $1000

For Charity This Year?

Notices

WMUA — Dave Strader and Bob Paquette will bring you Minuteman basketball action vs URI tomorrow night at 8 p.m.

INTRAMURALS — Co-Rec bowling entries are due Wednesday February 16. Remember the $6.00 fee.

MEETING — There will be a sports editors meeting, Monday at 3 p.m. in room 103 at the Collegian.

Collegian
sports

½ price SALE ½ price

Monday thru Friday, Feb. 14-Feb. 18

pockets a little bear and tummy's super empty.
Buy one sandwich and get the second one for ½ price.

Eat it here or take it with you.
Limited to the following:
TUNA SALAD
TURKEY SALAD
EGG AND OLIVE SLICED TURKEY.

½ price ½ price

BREAKFAST ANYTIME. Open 7 a.m.-7 p.m.

Gaslite II 162 N. Pleasant St., Amherst

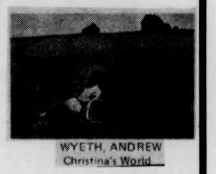
Valentine's Day
PRINT SALE!

TWO DAYS ONLY

Mon., Feb. 14 and
Tues., Feb. 15

Outside The University Store
10 to 4

RENOIR, PIERRE AUGUSTE



Fantastic reproductions
in full color, poster-size for
$2.75 each or two for $5.00

All your favorite artists including:
- Picasso
- Klee
- Calder
- Renoir
- Wyeth
- Breughel
- Dali
- Magritte
- Degas
- Cezanne
- Chagall
- Vasarely
- Van Gogh
- Miro
- Etc.

A choice selection of high quality, beautifully clear prints reproduced to match the original work of art as nearly as possible.

Over 400 different titles! Duplicates of good numbers...BUT we'll sell out fast, so come early and get the prints you want.

Icemen seek to break drought vs. Bowdoin and Colby away

By TOM CROWLEY
Collegian Staff

Seeking to break a four game losing streak, the UMass hockey team will travel to Maine this weekend to play a pair of tough away games. The Minutemen play Bowdoin College in Brunswick Friday night at 8:00 and Colby College Saturday night at 7:00 in Waterville.

The Minutemen are 6-8-1 overall, but the last two losses have been to Division I teams, 11-1 to Northeastern and 4-2 to Vermont. The pucksters are just 6-6-1 in Division II and this weekend, and the rest of the games on the team's schedule, will determine if the Minutemen will end a four year playoff famine. Counting the weekend games, UMass has seven games with Division II teams and two teams, Bowdoin and Salem State, who both have good chances for post season play.

It will be a hard task for the Minutemen to come out of the weekend with a sweep. Besides playing on the road back to back games, the icemen first play the defending Division II champs in Bowdoin and a hot Colby team which has won four of its last five games.

Friday night, the pucksters will be tilting a strong Bowdoin team who is 7-2 in the Division, and 9-2 overall. One of its wins was a 3-1 upset of Northeastern, the team that tagged UMass Wednesday night. The Polar Bears have also crunched the Williams College 10-3, in running up 59 shots and allowing just 31 against.

Bowdoin is third in the East conference of the finished at 12-3-0 in the league and one of those victories as a 6-5 overtime win over UMass at Orr rink. The Polar Bears beat Hamilton (7-3), Salem State (4-1), and Merrimack (6-5) on its way to a second straight title.

Leading the Polar Bears in scoring is Paul Sylvester with 12 goals and 17 assists for 29 points. Alan Quinlan (13-15-28) and Dave Leonardo (10-8-18) are also big guns for the Polar Bears.

Guarding the crease will be Bob Menzies, who is coming back after sitting out the fall semester. He has a 4.51 goals against average after six games.

Bob White is Menzies back up.

Dan Claypool, Steve Nelson, and Bob Owens, who scored the game winner last year, will make key contributions for the Polar Bears.

While Bowdoin has a veteran unit that has a good chance for the playoffs, the Mules from Colby are a young team who are out of the running with a 4-10 Division II record.

Colby is in a rebuilding year after finishing 24th in the loop last year with a 3-15 record and a 4-17 slate overall. One of its losses was a 7-3 win by the Minutemen last year at Orr.

Currently, the Mules are 13 in the east conference of Division II but has started to come on after a slow start. Colby has recently beaten Williams (4-3), Northeastern (4-2), Middlebury (4-1), and Westleyan (2-0).

The win over Northeastern was the 300th career collegiate win for new Colby Coach Jack Kelly. Kelly has become the main cog in the Mules' rebuilding plans after leaving the New England Whalers and, before that, Boston University.

Kelly's son, Mark, is part of the top scoring line for Colby. The younger Kelly has five goals and eight assists for 13 points. Dale Hewitt (11-8-19) and Ron Dumont (4-14-18) join fellow freshman Kelly on the top line.

Freshman Joe Faulstich is in goal with a rather poor 4.8 goals against average, but has kept the Mules in a few games.

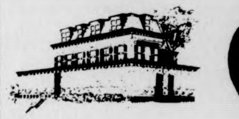
The UMass icemen have had trouble finding the puck lately, but an offensive explosion is imminent this weekend. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Pyatt player of week

UMass forward Mike Pyatt has been named Player of the Week in the Eastern Collegiate Basketball League, the first Minuteman to ever receive the award.

The junior from New York scored 63 points in three games last week, including 31 in a 75-71 win over Pittsburgh. Pyatt shot 14 of 20 from the floor against the Panthers.

For the week, Pyatt hit 27 of 46 field goals (58.7 per cent), nine of 10 foul shots, had 16 rebounds, and six assists.



RAHAR'S
FOOD DRINK LODGING

Fri. & Sat.
Feb. 11 & 12
John Little Paw

VISIT OUR GAME ROOM
7 Old South St., Northampton
Across from Peter Pan Bus Terminal

OPEN
11-1 DAILY — 12-1 SUNDAY

Chatman to boost stalled URI; seen as key to Rams future

By STEVE TETREAULT
Collegian Staff

Finally!

Finally the Rhode Island basketball team will be complete.

Finally the Rams will be able to begin their "march towards national recognition," as their press guide says.

And yes, finally Rhode Island will uncover its latest phase in its rebuilding program since, well, the signing of Sly Williams in September because Irv Chatman, URI's transfer-messiah from the University of Tennessee, is going to play against UMass Saturday night at the Cage.

The 6-9, 220 lb. strong forward probably won't start against the Minutemen, but he is expected to see some time. The giant buildup the Rhode Island papers have been giving Chatman may be over-optimistic, since he was only a reserve in his freshman year at Tennessee, but it is acknowledged that he does have great potential. Minuteman coach Jack Leaman likens Chatman to Rutger's James Bailey.

If Chatman does see action, Leaman said that Mark Donoghue will guard him.

"Chatman has been working out and practicing with the Rams for a year now, and he's ready to play. It's hard to say if this being his first game will affect him. The thing that probably will matter is how his teammates adjust to him, whether they will look to him often enough or try to overcompensate for his newness," said Leaman.

Chatman, a sophomore, transferred to URI last year, unhappy with the small bits of playing time he was receiving with the Volunteers.

Chatman, a star at August Martin high school in New York City, was originally planning on playing for coach Jack Kraft at URI, but decided to attend Tennessee, whose basketball teams have been ranked in the top twenty the last few years.

When the Rams were 7-0 in December, their followers could hardly control their ecstacy. Freshman Sly Williams was playing according to expectations, and if the team could hang on until Chatman returned, Rhode Island would be looking towards a real shot at winning the New England ECAC's and an NCAA spot. Couple this with Providence's slow start this year, and it looked like the state of Rhode Island would have a new team to follow.

The Chatman fever reached its peak when URI realized it would be sending its undefeated team against then number one ranked Michigan, in the Industrial National Classic at the Providence Civic Center during Christmas break. The question came up: could Chatman play?

The ECAC said yes, since its eligibility rule stated that Chatman had spent the required two semesters on the URI campus. However, the NCAA said no, since its rule required Chatman to attend Rhode Island for a full calendar year. The NCAA warned Rhode Island it would be penalized, and possibly lose its right to an ECAC berth, it it played Chatman.

Chatman didn't play, the Rams lost, and it's been downhill ever since. The team is now 10-9, and rumors were floating that Kraft would hold Chatman until next season, so he could play three full years. But obviously the team feels it has a chance in the ECAC's this year.

UMass has another game to play with Rhode Island after tomorrow night. Jack Leaman said, "I'd much rather play against Irv Chatman now than in a few years when he peaks."

MIKE'S
WESTVIEW

Appearing Tonight
The Bill Carson Show
Authentic Irish folksinger right from the old sod!

Valentine's Party
at
Poor Richards
Sunday
Bring your sweetheart or meet her here.
FREE DRINK For All Girls
Between 8-10 p.m.
HAPPY HOUR ALL NIGHT

Pyatt shot stuns Rutgers

By RON ARENA
Collegian Staff

SPRINGFIELD — Forward Mike Pyatt hit an 18-foot jump shot at the buzzer to give UMass a gutsy 82-81 upset win over Rutgers University here last night at the Civic Center.

The Minutemen, as they have so often, followed the gain-a-big-lead, lose-a-big-lead script as Rutgers erased a 13-point halftime deficit to go up 79-76 with 39 seconds to go in the game.

"It felt pretty good. The guy on me let me get set and take a dribble. I wasn't really that far out. But it felt good." — Mike Pyatt, after gamewinning basket.

But UMass was not about to fold from the Rutgers pressure.

Alex Eldridge, in top form most of the game, hit a clutch running bank shot with 32 seconds left to bring UMass back to one. Jim Town followed with a steal which led to two Pyatt foul shots, and UMass led once again, 80-79 with 24 seconds showing on the clock.

Enter Ed Jordan. After a Rutgers' time out, the Scarlet Knight guard saw the winning numbers on the glass and banked home a short jumper with six seconds left.

The image on the glass soon faded for Scarlet Knight fans though, as Eldridge, "ad libbing" the play as his coach said, dribbled the length of the court, took a quick peak to Town and Mark Donoghue, fed off to Pyatt, and as the ball left his hands, the buzzer sounded and the net flew up, marking the most thrilling UMass win this season.

"It felt pretty good," Pyatt said following the game-winning mob scene. "The guy on me (Steve Hefele) let me get set and take a dribble. I wasn't really that far out. But it felt good," he continued.

Eldridge, who finished with 13 points and a bunch of steals, flashed his winning smile in the locker room. "I knew I had to get the ball up quick," he said concerning the winning shot. "I think I got up court in about one second, and figured I had about five left. Bailey (James) and Donoghue pretty good, Town was out of position, so I went to Pyatt. Hey, he's been shooting great."

The basket gave Pyatt 26 points on the night to lead both clubs, while teammate Derick Claiborne, who with Eldridge showed Rutgers that UMass has some speed of its own, added 21.

Bailey, Rutgers' 6-9 sophomore center, impressed many onlookers with 24 points on some quick inside moves, and some flashy stuffs, while the all-around Jordan hit for 19 points.

"It's just a great win," UMass coach Jack Leaman said. "I just told Alex at the end there to just go out and set something up. He ad libbed it, and hes just a great player and a great passer.

"We're playing very well now," he said. "We played just great in the opening half."

In that opening 20 minutes, the Minutemen played with the authority and confidence which pictured a blending of raw talent to the utmost.

After two minutes UMass took a lead that it wouldn't relinquish until the final minutes of the game. With Pyatt and Claiborne hot from the perimeter, Town working in for some big tip ins, and Eldridge putting on his driving layup exhibition, the Minutemen opened up a lead which peaked at 39-24 with four minutes left in the half.

But it was not to be a blowout.

"We just can't keep the pace that Rutgers does," explained Leaman. "People think that we're not in shape when we get tired out there. We're in shape, but not in shape to run with Rutgers. They just wear you down," he added.

The tempo reached a Rutgers' level in the second half, and with Town playing 40 minutes, Eldridge, Claiborne and Pyatt 38, and Donoghue 31, UMass nearly ran out of gas.

Forward Hollis Copeland, held to two points by Pyatt in the opening 20 minutes, scored 16 in the second half as the Scarlet Knights ran UMass to exhaustion with two- and three-on-one fast breaks.

UMass held a 55-44 advantage when Rutgers ran off a 12-2 spurt to narrow the margin to a point, and it was nail-biting time for the final nine minutes. The lead got back as high as six before Rutgers gave its final gasp. Bailey connected on a picturesque hook and got loose underneath for an easy layup and Rutgers grabbed its first lead since the opening minutes of the game, 75-75, before the frantic finish.

"We were ready for them." Eldridge said. "They came in here sleeping and we showed them. With a win like this we have more confidence in ourselves. We have more than a lot of confidence now."

Leaman agreed. "The Pittsburgh game may have turned around our season," Leaman said. "But with this team, tomorrow can be a different story. I hope we can do this with Rhode Island Saturday. They have a helluva team," he added.

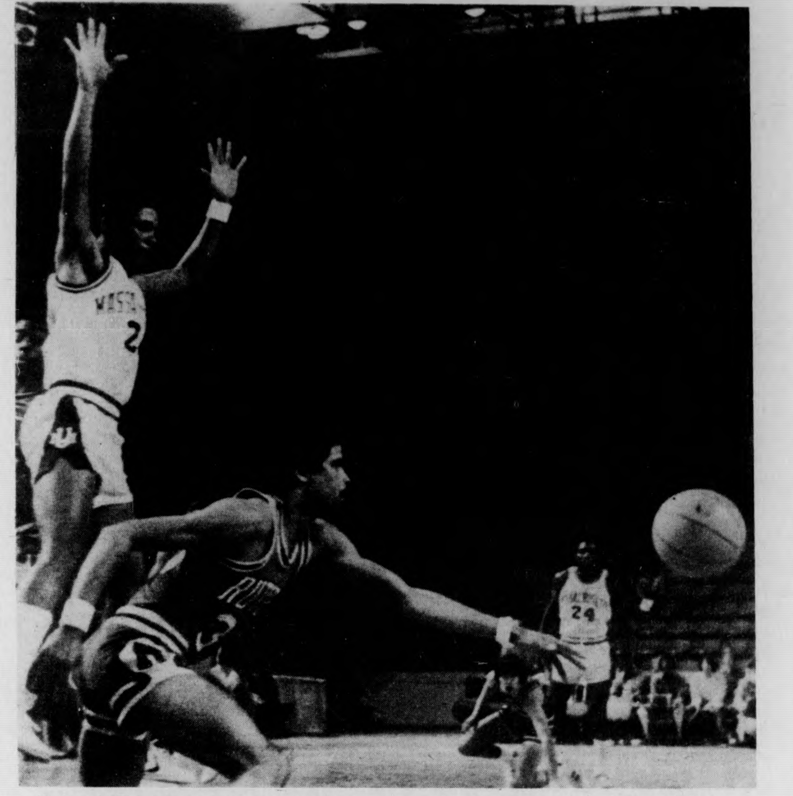
Rhode Island will not be with the services of Irv Chatman, the transfer from Tennessee, as speculated. The decision is that he will be red-shirted for the season, allowing him another year of eligibility.

"But the Cage will be exploding," Eldridge promised. "We'll get them going."

UMASS (82) — Pyatt 12-2-26; Claiborne 10-1-21; Town 3-6-12; Eldridge 6-1-13; Donoghue 4-1-9; Kohlhaas 0-1-1; Totals 35-12-82.

RUTGERS (81) — Bailey 11-2-24; Jordan 8-3-19; Copeland 8-2-18; Duncan 5-2-12; Anderson 2-2-6; Hefele 1-0-2; Totals 35-11-81.

Team Records — UMass 13-7; Rutgers 13-7.



Rutger's Ed Jordan hustles after loose ball while Minuteman Derick Claiborne towers above. (Staff photo by Chris Bourne)

Hoopwomen drop rare one

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

SPRINGFIELD — When a basketball team is minus a starter who is averaging 11 points and 12 rebounds a game, the result of a game is bound to reflect it in some way.

It happened last night to the UMass women's basketball team. The Minutewomen played without the services of Lu-Ann Fletcher, and wound up losing their first game in 10 starts.

UMass, now 11-3, was outrun and outgunned by a hustling Brooklyn College team, 86-77, here at the Springfield Civic Center.

Fletcher, who aggravated a troublesome ankle injury Wednesday, viewed the game in street clothes from the bench.

But UMass Coach Mary Ann Ozdarski didn't think that her junior center's absence played a major role in her team's defeat.

"Lu's loss hurt us a little bit, but our personnel on the court just didn't respond tonight," she said.

And Brooklyn College surprised the heck out of a lot of people with its outstanding shooting and fine ballhandling. The Kingswomen were outrebounded by the Minutewomen, but they did oodles of other things right to compensate for that deficit.

Top dog on a team of thoroughbreds was center Nora Dupuis. Taking advantage of what Ozdarski termed "non-work on defense," Dupuis poured in 30 points to pace her team's effort. She hit on 13 of 22 shots from the field to lead Brooklyn's 46 per cent shooting effort.

But if Dupuis was the leader of the pack, then nipping at her heels was flashy guard Denise Richardson. She added 15 points, but perhaps more importantly, quarterbacked the Kingswomen's fast-breaking offensive attack.

Another Brooklyn player, Ruth Varrone, sank 15 points, but a few of the shots ranked among the oddest you'll ever see.

OK, but Brooklyn used only six players to any extent all night. What happened to the vaunted UMass bench depth?

Well, the reserves were there, but as Ozdarski put it, "we didn't play with intensity and we weren't hungry enough."

If the rest of the Minutewomen were a bit sated last night, the players who definitely were famished, at least statistically, were Sue Peters, Chris Basile, and Maura Supinski.

Peters scored 21 points, pulled down 11 rebounds, and dished out five assists before fouling out late in the game.

Basile, meanwhile, played one of her best games of the season as she hit for 18 points and added nine rebounds. She lent some stability to the depleted forecourt.

Supinski, who came in early, added 12 points but played an absolutely ferocious defensive game. She yanked down a game-high 16 boards and made the only two blocks of the night.

But the shock troops on the bench did not come through as has been almost customary this season.

First, it was cut to five members because of Fletcher's injury and the continued sabbatical of Jo Balletta. Second, the people on it, aside from Supinski, contributed just five points and five rebounds to the UMass column.

At halftime, though, things looked a bit rosy for UMass, as the Minutewomen had a 41-39 lead. At one point (with 5:30 left) it was a nine-point advantage, but the Kingswomen just kept coming at the Minutewomen to narrow it to a bucket.

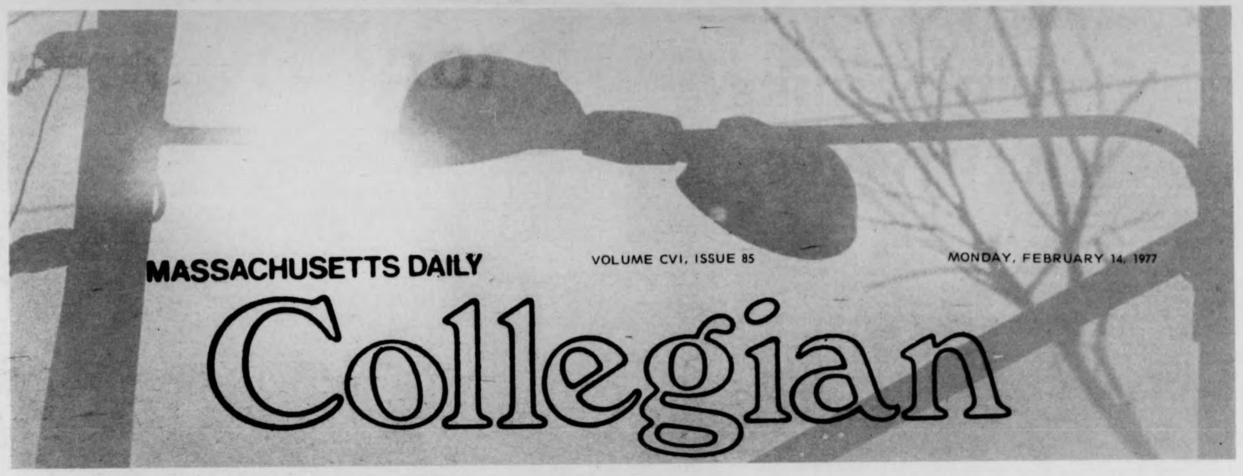
After the lead seesawed back and forth, Brooklyn finally grabbed a lead that it would never relinquish on a Dupuis basket with 12 minutes left. It keyed a seven-point spurt which proved to be a big turning point.

The Minutewomen came back to tie it at 65, though, on a Basile hoop with eight minutes left. But then the Kingswomen went to work by outscoring UMass 21-12 during the last seven and a half minutes of the game to ice the verdict.

More than anything, though, what perhaps led to the UMass loss was a case of overconfidence.

"I think they looked at Brooklyn's height and thought they had it made," Ozdarski said in reference to her team. "We didn't lose our poise in the second half because weejust didn't have any."

Sue Peters finds the going tough as her path is blocked by Brooklyn's Denise Richardson. (Staff photo by Chris Bourne)



MASSACHUSETTS DAILY Collegian VOLUME CVI, ISSUE 85 MONDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1977

Dean in favor of separate JS dept.

By M.B. ALLEN
Collegian Staff

Jeremiah Allen, dean of Fine Arts and Humanities, said last night he will recommend to the provost a plan that would establish Journalistic Studies as an independent department, separate from the English department.

The Journalist Studies program is currently a part of the English department. The English department personnel committee recently "agreed" that the journalism program could operate as a separate entity, according to English department Chairperson Richard Noland.

Journalistic Studies Director Larry Pinkham said he will meet with Allen this morning to go over the personnel committee plan to create the new program. "It looks like it is going to happen," said Pinkham. "I can say better what is going to happen after the meeting."

Pinkham is enthusiastic about the proposed split. "We won't be in the English department worrying about what we can and can't do," said Pinkham. "There have been a lot of problems between English department and Journalistic Studies faculty members," said Pinkham.

"I think it is an appropriate thing to have happen," said Allen about the proposed split. "It's long overdue. It seems to me appropriate that a public university have a journalism department which is free-standing. We've lagged behind other schools in that respect."

Allen said that to build a full-scale journalism department would require money which the University does not have at the moment. "You can't do much building when you're making budget cuts," he said.

After Allen makes the recommendation that the journalistic program become separate, the Journalistic Studies faculty will have to request transfer into the new department.

When asked if he thought the Journalistic Studies program faculty was ready to become a full-fledged department, Nolan said, "I don't know. That's their judgement." During previous discussions about the proposal, Nolan said, "The Journalism faculty have not yet formulated clear plans for their major. They didn't seem to have clear what they are going to do with their program."

Plans to separate from the English department have been formulating since last October. According to Allen, much of the conflict between the two faculty groups has arisen over the fact that there is a small number of journalism teachers and a large number of students who are in journalism classes, while there is a large English faculty and relatively low enrollment in English classes.

Financial Aid: help for non-traditional students

By LAURY ROBERTS
Collegian Staff

This is the final segment of a two-part series on the bureaucracy students face when they seek financial aid at UMass. The first article focused on the operations which award and disburse aid money: today's article looks at the problems faced by non-traditional students. In the initial article description of the five necessary types of financial aid forms was edited out. The five forms are: Financial Aid Form, UMass Application, Board of Higher Education, Basic Educational Opportunity Grant and Summer Work Study. All can be gotten at the Financial Aid Office in Whitmore, except the FAF, which is temporarily not available.

He is a Vietnam veteran with three children. She is the divorced mother of two who relies on welfare now after leading a middle-class life. He is a full-time student and part-time parent who must incur the costs of visits from his estranged children.

They are all considered "non-traditional" students, and there are 10,000 of them at UMass. Besides dealing with the psychological stress of a changing lifestyle when they become students, they also encounter uncommon financial strains.

"There are psychological problems according to status," says Dee Drake, president of the Non-Traditional Student Assembly (NTSA) at UMass. "You must really want aid to go through what is necessary. You must lay out your whole family situation."

Three years ago, at 35, Drake walked into the Financial Aid Office here to find out who is eligible to receive help and how to apply. Drake, who has an 11-year-old daughter, wanted to go to college in preparation for law school. The aid office assumed the forms were for a youngster of hers.

"I took the forms and left, saying I'd never go back again," Drake says. "It blew my mind."

Today Drake is a full-time work-study student in the Financial Aid Office adivisng other "non-trads" who face the same unfamiliar path she once did.

The Non-Traditional Student Assembly was organized in late 1974 to help students who were coming to college after being out of school for several years. CAOS (Counseling Assistance for Older Students). was created through NTSA. CAOS volunteers offer peer counseling to meet personal and academic needs of non-trads.

"One of the biggest problems is the attitude of older students," says Drake. "They figure they've spent time working and so probably aren't eligible for financial aid, so they don't pursue it."

The traditional student can obtain financial aid information through a high school counselor or college aid office, but non-traditional students have no common place to which they can refer.

In order to reach potential students the NTSA plans to sponsor paid student lecturers who will speak at churches, colleges and community organizations. Through the joint efforts of the chancellor's office, financial aid and the Resource Network, the NTSA also compiled a resource booklet, "The If Only I Had Known Book," describing campus administrative, academic support and survival agencies.

One of those organizations is the Poor Women's Task Force, founded in 1972 at UMass to improve access to higher education for poor women. The staff provides career, academic, welfare and survival counseling to poor women who are single or full or part-time parents.

According to a needs assessment prepared by Martini Emmart, coordinator of the Poor Women's Task Force: "The poor, single, part or full-time parent requires significant financial aid to enable her to attend college. The standard aid application form ignores many of her expenses; she is unsure about 'estimated expenses' for the first school year. Most of all she is afraid often to put down her true expenses or her estimated school expenses because she feels she needs too much aid or is not entitled to aid. She believes that this form, rather than

TURN TO PAGE 3

VD is for everyone

By MARSHA KAZAROSIAN
Collegian Staff

In these days when holidays and gifts seem less sentimental than commercial, the true value of Valentine's Day (VD) becomes surprisingly unmarred by capitalistic intent. The celebration of VD has evolved into a day of the heart, minus the gimmicks.

The owner of Allen's Alley in the Mountain Farms Mall remarks, "It's a sentimental day. It's the idea of being remembered. He added, "The little tokens that people might buy are straight from the heart."

The proprietors of some of the other Amherst shops generally agree that the day itself is a simple one. A salesperson from Cifarelli Jewelry store points out that the emphasis, "is on the little things, it's just a good time to show friendship."

Although it may not only be a lover's holiday, the romance of sending flowers prevails. The Green Valley Flower Shop florists say that they consider VD their most profitable holiday. One florist pointed out that, "It is not only the guys that buy flowers for the girls, but also vice versa."

Many people seem to think that the holiday is confined to young people. Students are the ones that tend to buy cards or little tokens of affection for each other, at least in this collegiate environment. It appears that the married set swears by sending flowers to their spouses more so than single people.

One very adamant UMass senior, Jane Brenner, insists that if she doesn't get one dozen long stemmed roses from her love in Colorado, he's going to get a 'person-to-person' phone call.... collect!

Also proving that thoughtful gifts are appreciated, UMass nursing student, Kathy Zembruski comments, "A box of Russell Stover candies would make my day complete."

Several different ideas of the

TURN TO PAGE 2

Roses for your Valentine. Terry Oppermann, who sells flowers in the Student Union will offer you roses for your Valentine to spice up her day. (Staff photo by Patrick Dobbs)

Down Under Room:

New room permits dining for crowds

By JOHN MORAN
Collegian Staff

Hampshire D.C.'s special private dining room has been recently christened "The Down Under Room" and is now open to student groups numbering between 25 and 60.

Glen Cohen, a resident of 405 Thoreau, was the winner of the contest held among students to name the room. His entry won him a dozen donuts per week for four weeks from the Central Bake Shop and two free subs and cokes from the Hampden Snack Bar.

The Down Under Room features "...a Mediterranean motif, soft lighting, warm colors and an atmosphere to serve private dinners in the company of good friends," according to a description by the University Food Services.

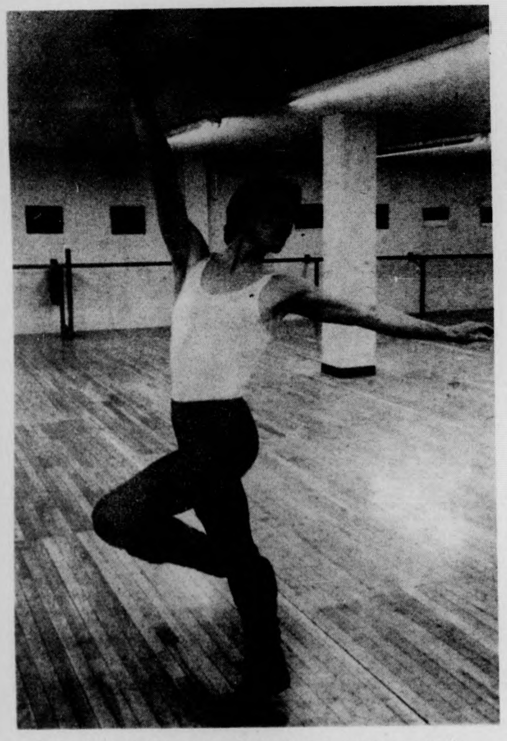
The dining commons menu of the day will be served cafeteria style in the room. Students eating in the room may simply use their meal tickets for the meal. Others will be required to pay the current rate for a D.C. meal, now $2.95.

Arrangements for the use of the Down Under Room must be made at least one week in advance. Reservations may be obtained by calling Hampshire dining commons 5-2075 between 10 and 6. The room is available from 5-6, Monday through Thursday only.

For those not interested in the daily fare of the dining commons, arrangements can be made through the Office of Catering Services to have the meal catered. A two week notice is required for catered affairs.

The Down Under Room, constructed last year, was originally built to house the Basic Foods Line in Hampshire, but basics outgrew the facility before its completion and remained upstairs.

Neither snow nor sniffles can keep this jogger from his appointed rounds. (Staff photo by Chris Bourne)



John Kujawski, one of 60 dance majors at the University, performs for a select audience in the lower-level classrooms in NOPE on a lazy Friday afternoon. (Staff photo by Patrick L. Buben)

TODAY'S STAFF

Issue Editor Philip Milstein

Issue Assistant(s)	Betsy Grose
Head Darkroom Tech	Pat Buben
Darkroom Staff	Pat Dobbs
Sports Layout	George O'Brien
Black Affairs Layout	Renee Mobley
Ad Layout	Albert Calvert

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

	Semester	Year
Off-campus delivery	$9	$15
On-campus delivery	$5	$ 9
Newsstand price	$.10
Faculty staff	$.05

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst and additional mailing in Ware, Mass. 01082. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

★ VD is for everyone

celebration of VD were registered by a group of younger students from the Wildwood Elementary school in Amherst. Eight year old Emma Laney, said that although she gets Valentine's from both boys and girls, "We're all the same either way."

Another Wildwood student Jeff Sturm said although he likes VD as much as Christmas, he "would like to get presents too."

Some of the more interesting people to talk to were the residents of the Amherst Nursing Home in Amherst. A few people relayed their past VD celebrations.

Miss Evelyn Chase, 76, recalls VD when she was a child, "We really looked forward to it. Since we couldn't afford to give cards to everyone our teacher would draw names out of a box and we'd each make one card for someone... we never had glue, so we used flower and water instead."

"I don't think that the kids today have as much fun with Valentine's Day as we did," Chase continued, "We were mushy then, we wouldn't write joke cards, but we'd write the kooky things that kids write."

Sadie Mitchell, another occupant of the home explains her solution for lack of glue, "We used to take chewed gum and stick it in the cards in place of glue."

OHAG Student Senate rep advised to oppose tax raise

By LAWRENCE HIRSHBERG
Collegian Staff

The Orchard Hill Area Government (OHAG) is advising its Undergraduate Student Senate representative to oppose any increases in the Student Activities Trust Fund (SATF) tax. The SATF tax is $57 now, but action is underway in the student senate to raise the tax $7.

Scott Wieler, OHAG student senate representative, said at an OHAG meeting last night that for students to increase their own taxes would compromise their bargaining power with the state.

"It wouldn't look right," he said, for students to increase their own cost of higher education while the student senate is trying to get the state to budget more money for the University.

The annual OHAG-sponsored Spring Concert, this year scheduled for the weekend of April 30, was voted to be combined with Central Area Government's concert despite the opposition of OHAG President Gary Shuster. This will mean only one concert on the Hill, but it is hoped that with the $3000 that has been allocated by the two governments, the quality of the music will be improved.

The Third World Center reported to OHAG that attendance by white students at Black History Week activities last week was poor. A spokesperson from the center said only two white students came to the various activities.

Symposium to be held Wednesday on women in higher education

By FIFI BALL
Collegian Staff

"Women on this campus, especially graduate women, often have a conflict between their commitments to any kind of personal relationships, and to their academic career," said Mary Lou O'Neil, one of the coordinators of the symposium entitled "Women in Higher Education: or Life in Lilliput", being held Wednesday, Feb. 16.

The symposium, sponsored by the Graduate Women's Program, is being held on the 8th floor of the Campus Center from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., and is for women faculty as well as for graduate women, said O'Neil, who works at Everywoman's Center for program development in achieving educational equity for women.

There will be a panel discussion Thursday morning led by three women who will present talks on a particular aspect of problems college women come up against.

Joyce Berkman, of the History department, "will discuss the ways alternatives are closed for women in higher education in a talk entitled, "Male Guards at the Gatepost. A conflict in values?"

"It's a male-defined educational program, which defines success and defines quality," said O'Neil. For example, most articles considered for publication, are expected to contain academic research of some sort, and be very objective, said O'Neil. This blocks women who may want to do some alternative forms of research, or write a more subjective article including some of their perceptions.

Emma Cappelluzzo, of the School of Education, will discuss "Daily Living in a Bureaucracy: or How to Get What You Want". Her talk will focus on ways of getting around regulations at the University, for example taking courses in other departments, or taking a semester off "to make college responsive to your needs.... to make it function for you," said O'Neil.

Carol Drexler, from Everywoman's Center, in her presentation titled, "The Push-Pull Syndrom: Conflicts Within Ourselves", will talk about "the conflict between the professional and traditional roles for women, both as seen by others and what we bring into it," said O'Neil.

O'Neil said she had discussed with a number of individual graduate women on campus what they see as their problems. Some of these include feelings of isolation, lack of support, and the difficulty of being allowed to do alternative or feminist research.

Women faculty members often experience discrimination when, for instance, they commit themselves too much to work with the Women's Studies department. This is seen as "not good enough" qualification for tenure, said O'Neil.

To learn more about the conference, contact either Mary Lou O'Neil at Everywoman's Center (545-0883) or Arlene Ryan at the Women's Studies Office (545-1922). There will be lots of time for discussion, and everyone is urged to come, said O'Neil.

The goals of the Graduate Women's Program are to create "a sense of community for graduate women, so they will be more active in resolving problems they face as a group," said O'Neil.

Earth Foods reopens today

By CAROL COULTAS
Collegian Staff

Earthfoods, the vegetarian family-style restaurant in the Student Union's Commonwealth Lounge, is reopening its doors today at 9 a.m.

Conceived last spring by a group that noticed a rise in vegetarians and lack of campus alternatives to short-order cooking, Earthfoods was born a vegetarian and health food co-op, according to Earthfoods member William Sprague.

Sprague said the restaurant, run by two full-time coordinators last semester, now has 16 regular staff persons and a host of UMass volunteers. The volunteers work one to one-and-a-half hours and get an Earthfoods meal for every hour worked. Applications to work are still being accepted according to Sprague.

Local musicians are given an opportunity to perform at Earthfoods, Sprague said, where they are paid with meals and through tips.

Being a nonprofit co-op and a member of the Yellow Sun co-op allows Earthfoods to set its prices at very reasonable rates, according to Sprague. All proceeds go to paying wages and clearing overhead. Yellow-Sun co-op card holders receive a 10 per cent discount.

Daily specials offered at the restaurant include soup or salad, dessert and a drink. Sprague said that in the future Earthfoods will extend its limits for vegetarian foods and have international dishes. The restaurant is also planning an outside eating place for people to enjoy when the weather warms up.

Breakfasts at Earthfoods are served from 9 to 11 a.m., lunch from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and tea from 2 to 4 p.m. The menu includes a cuisine as varied as peanut soup, carob brownies and whole wheat lasagna made with spinach noodles.

Earthfoods will cater a coffeehouse in the back of the Hatch Wednesday with the Program Council. Sprague said all are welcome to attend to sample the goods.

Excellent gliding conditions spur local interest in sport

By JAMES DALTON
Collegian Staff

In response to the growing interest among the Five College community in hang gliding, and in recognition of the excellent conditions for the sport in the Valley area, a UMass Hang Gliding Club will soon be operating out of the Campus Center.

The chief organizer of the club, Rick Orlando, recently obtained RSO status, paving the way for a meeting place and possible student senate funding.

A primary reason for the club's founding is to offer a less expensive introduction to the sport for prospective hang gliders. Presently, Eco Flight in Amherst offers ground school for $15 and three one-hour flight lessons for $25 each. Eco Flight is run by Bob Stewart, who has U.S. Hang Gliding Association (USHGA) teaching certification. He will also help organize and teach in the UMass club.

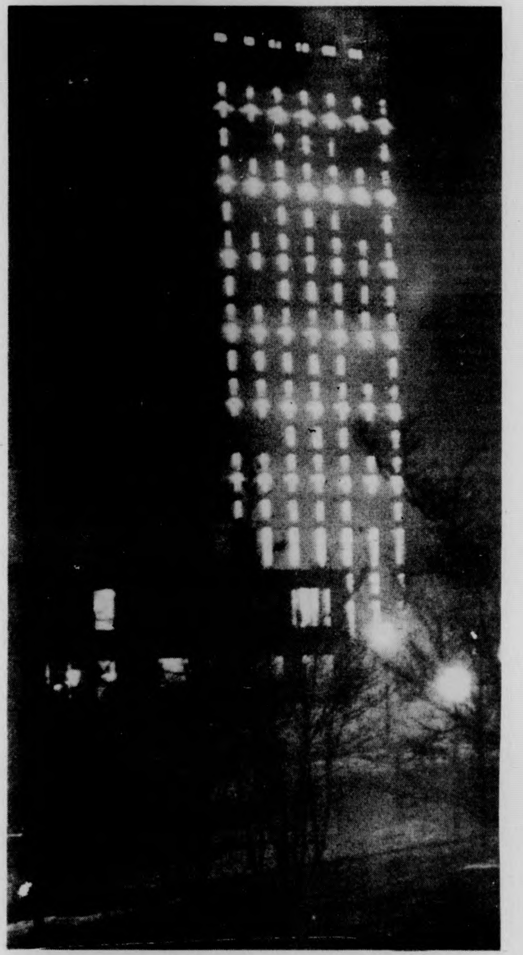
The UMass Club will offer the three ground school sessions on a continuous rotating basis for free and will charge $10 for each of the three flight sessions necessary for club and USHGA certification. Membership dues will be $5 a year, which will be used for kite upkeep. Use of available kites will be free to certified club members.

Flight training will be done at Skinner State Park, which has some very good flight sights, ranging from a 700-foot expert hill to a 150-foot grassy slope for training purposes.

Teaching will be done by Rick Orlando and Bob Stewart, the latter also being the safety officer. Although there are about 45 deaths annually associated with hang gliding worldwide, no one has ever been injured in either Orlando's or Stewart's experience as flyers or teachers. Lest some accident does occur, the University Health Fee will cover UMass student's foreseeable needs.

Orlando hopes to get a few training kites donated to the club by kite manufacturers, but also plans various fund raising activities in the club's organizational stages to purchase kites, which range in price from $400 to $1400.

In addition to a kite display and an information table in the Campus Center this Thursday, an organizational meeting will be held the same day at 9 p.m. in rooms 162-165. The club is open to all interested Five College students.



The fog yesterday was inexplicably heavy, finally lifting late in the afternoon. (Staff photo by Patrick L. Buben)

First Buddhism Institute in US to be founded here this summer

By MICHAEL SIMONS
Collegian Staff

The first accredited American Institute of Buddhist Studies in the country will be founded at UMass this summer, according to Dr. Robert A. Thurman, recently elected institute president and Amherst College professor.

The institute, with the cooperation of the Asian Studies Program will bring 36 faculty members teaching 60 courses in Asian Studies, Comparative Studies and Buddhist Studies, 30 of which will be accredited UMass summer courses.

According to Thurman, Buddhism has recently become popular as a sort of cult, but some of the popularizers have not presented the correct philosophy.

"They try to present an oversimplified version of Eastern thought as "irrationalism" — no logic, just meditate and belief, devotion and some simple idea or a complete emptying of the mind," Thurman said.

"The Institute believes that people who have studied these teachings should know that there is a lot more too. Many are ready to study the vast, complex lore of the Indian, Tibetan, Chinese and Japanese philosophical, psychological, religious, artistic and ethical traditions," Thurman said.

Thurman said he feels these people have a desire to learn more systematically the intellectual traditions of the East what the institute calls "Enlightenment Sciences."

Classes will run from July 10 to August 12 and will include such offerings as Buddhist Philosophical Systems, Buddhist Cosmology and Supernatural Beings Saint and Siddha, Introduction to Classical Tibetan and Classical Theatre of India.

Housing will be available in the Sylvan area dorms with Food Services offering a 10-meal plan, according to Thurman. He stresses that the institute will be educationally and not religiously orientated.

Tuition will be $40 per credit-unit to be paid to the summer school office at the University.

★ Financial Aid: help for non-traditional students

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

any other, determines who goes to school.

"The older woman who has been out of a learning situation for three to 10 years may end up with three jobs — full-time student, parent and employe," says Emmart. Emmart is a former faculty wife with two children who was forced to live on welfare for two years. Her job includes accompanying poor women to the aid office as an advocate.

She estimates that about 1,000 UMass students are welfare mothers and about 600 of those women are enrolled full-time. Any loan, grant or scholarship administered by the U.S. Commissioner of Education does not count as income and cannot be deducted from welfare payments. However, any private or state money leftover once mandatory fees and tuition are paid is considered income and can be deducted from welfare benefits.

Emmart figures that "rock-bottom" expenses for a single mother with two children (utilizing university day care, health care, living and laundry facilities), equals $6,990 per year. Yet, Aid to Families with Dependent Children allows $3,942. Thus additional financial aid is crucial if the single welfare mother hopes to further her education.

Financial aid forms do consider family obligations if they are validated with documents such as birth certificates, divorce decrees and marriage certificates. According to Daniel Fitzpatrick, director of Student Services, a student can receive up to $7,000 in aid per year if the applicant's need were proven to be serious enough.

Emmart disagrees. She warns of the disadvantages of educational loans or taking a work study job.

"If you have children, half of your work-study wages go for child care. You have to consider if it's worth working for a dollar an hour," Emmart says. "Also, the job market is fickle and tight. Single mothers may be stuck with repayment of a large loan, even if she's unemployed and on welfare after graduation."

An undergraduate can accumulate up to $8,000 in loans, while graduates are allowed to go in debt up to $10,000.

"There are a number of single parents who aggravate me with 'I won't do this or that or take out a loan to go back to school'," says Drake. "It's a moral decision, though. If you take the responsibility of coming back to school, you must make a personal sacrifice. But it's tough when it affects your standard of living."

Veterans, particularly those with a family to support, also face a lowered standard of living when they become students. According to Art Hilson, director of Veterans Affairs (VA), the average vet with two children is allotted $400 per month. Veterans are eligible for 45 months of educational benefits if he served at least 180 days.

He may also participate in the VA work-study program (25 UMass students are employed through those means), or take out a $1,500 VA loan if he has already applied to two lending institutions which have rejected his request.

"The vet may have more 'dollars-in-hand' when he shows up at school, but he has less alternatives than the student who applies for straight aid," Hilson says. There are numerous guidelines the vet must meet as outlined by the Veterans Education and Employment Assistance Act of 1976.

"The biggest problem is interpretation of the new law," Hilson says. "Since it went into effect in December, they've sent us 15 appendices and half of those have been revised."

Veterans can apply for regular financial aid, too. However, $300 is deducted from any Basic Educational Opportunity Grant if the recipient lives off campus. According to Fitzpatrick, it has been a standard that commuters live more cheaply than students who live in dormitories. He admits, though, that it is more expensive to live off campus. Yet off-campus students, most of whom are considered non-traditional, are penalized because of where they choose to live.

"We're segregated even if we live on campus," says Drake. During Student Government Association elections those students who lived in University-owned apartments were classified as a "commuter" constituency.

According to Emmart's needs assessment: "Just as the college fulfills its responsibilities to traditional students by housing them in dormitories, it must meet housing needs of single parents through increased financial aid or priority when assigning college-owned low-rent apartments." Emmart also recommends inexpensive, quality day care facilities on campus which give priority to the children of poor students.

A recent survey conducted across the three UMass campuses indicates that a large percentage of students come from families whose income is over $25,000 per year.

"Many students are not as bad off financially as we emotionally think they are," Fitzpatrick says.

Black Affairs

A valentine wish

'Play to someone's mind'

By CHERYL WATKINS and ANGELA THOMAS

In Friday's issue of the Collegian, there appeared an article by Gregg Wilson entitled, "Making love to your mind." It was a very serious article that dealt on how relationships are promoted on the basis of love of body before love of mind.

After having read the article, we too agree that a person's inner beauty is often overlooked or just ignored. We have no set definition of inner beauty, but we feel it consists of more than a "smoking" 36-24-36, or a brother who is "tall, dark and oh-so-handsome."

It is so easy to read an article as this one and take it very lightly. But it is hard to become aware of how society indoctrinates us with the idea of body love, and has even introduced a new concept, body language.

This type of thinking has had a double effect upon black students at UMass. Searching for that "special" person out of a very limited number creates a problem. These problems have been expressed through numerous articles, rap sessions, and workshops. Rather than complain about not enough good looking brothers and sisters to go around, try considering what a person has to offer mentally as well as physically.

This is not a cut and dry solution, but by trying to look beyond just what the eye can see, (and this comes with time and effort) we may realize that the field is not as narrow as it seems.

Today, being Valentine's Day, make an effort to bring a smile to someone, whether it be through a card, flowers, or a friendly greeting. In fact, play to someone's "mind" the way you would like them to play to yours.

To all the brothers and sisters at UMass, Happy Valentine's Day!

Thoughts:

Mike, get well soon Brother.
We're thinking of you.
Happy Valentine's Day.

Somewhere between night
and morning
A star fell and I insisted on the absurdity
Of it all. Too many lonely people rock my
Red, black and green soul;
drums sounding —
Pounding, dug holes where rivers use to Run free. Hands reach out to keep me from Running wild. "Rest my Child".

You'll Love The Change!
WEIGHT WATCHERS The Authority.

CLIP AND SAVE
NEW FOODS! NEW SIMPLICITY! NEW FLEXIBILITY!
$7.00 First Meeting then $3.00 weekly
New members welcomed anytime. No contracts.
LOWER RATES FOR SENIOR CITIZENS
YOU'RE THIS CLOSE TO LOSING WEIGHT!
AMHERST — Tuesdays 7 PM
Univ. of Mass. Campus Center Bldg.
AMHERST-HADLEY — Wednesdays 9:30 AM & 7 PM
Howard Johnson's, 401 Russell St. (Rt. 9)
NORTHAMPTON — Wednesdays 9:30 AM & 7 PM
Polish National Association, Pearl Street
NORTHAMPTON — Thursdays 7 PM
Y.M.C.A., Prospect Street
For Information Call:
(413) 786-6611 or write
622 No. Main St., East Longmeadow, Mass. 01028

VIEWPOINT

Another dimension of television: What did 'Roots' say?

[Editor's Note] Viewpoint is a column designed for our readers to express their opinion on various subjects. In this manner, the staff of Black Affairs hopes to establish an open line of communication between our readers and us. Viewpoint does not necessarily represent the views of the staff of Black Affairs. All articles must be typed.

"Roots" was here and many are wondering what effects it had, or will have, if any. My primary feeling is that "Roots" was a positive experience: for me, and according to Time and Newsweek articles (2-14-77) for many other Afrikans.

This article will not attempt to address the issue of behavioral accuracies of that "peculiar institution" of slavery. Accuracy at such a detailed level of history seems to rely on impressionistic accounts, since all instances of Black-White interactions could not accurately have been recorded. But whatever the situation, the courage and valor of my ancestors was more than adequate. It is obvious now — after "Roots" — that there were, and are, many Kunta Kintes, Kizzys and Chicken Georges among the ancestors of Afrikans.

But although "Roots" was a positive experience, there are two levels at which television drama can be analyzed. One level is, of course, the content. This aspect of "Roots" gave rise to my positive feelings about the series. "Roots" provided a very rare occasion for Afrikan people across the nation to see other Afrikan people reflected with very human characteristics: innocense, altruism, bravery, honor and intelligence. The communication provided by the content was positive.

There is another aspect of television communication which needs to be considered: meta-communication. In other words, "how" did television say its positive message about Afrikans? Meta-communication is a communication about a communication. For example, "I like you" has several different implications: I like you, versus I like you or I like you. In ways not too unlike verbal meta-communication, television can manipulate its audio-visual repertoire and meta-communicate about its program themes. In "Roots" I saw a disturbing meta-communication. The drama portrayed basically two attitudes toward slavery — one was represented by characters who showed weakness and lack of political or economic resources. But on the other hand, the forces representing malevolent and exploitative attitudes toward slavery enjoyed political strength, personal conviction, and resources sufficient to carry out their objectives. These malevolent and exploitative forces were portrayed by Hollywood's most established actors; for example, Burl Ives and Lloyd Bridges. This communication symbolically stated that the power structure is on the side of malevolence and exploitation.

What disturbs me about this meta-communication is its potential to define and-or become reality. George Gerbner (1972) in Television and Social Behavior (Volume 1) offers an interesting commentary on television drama:

> Symbolic violence is one of society's chief instruments for achieving the aims of real violence without having to commit any. Symbolic hurt to symbolic people and causes can show real people how they might use — or avoid — force to stay alive and to advance their causes [p.44].

In other words, this meta-communication could be interpreted as a communication for Afrikans to show the power alignments against them in the struggle for freedom. It also could be interpreted as a status quo communication to the power structure about their ethics in relations with Afrikans.

If Afrikans heed this meta-communication there could be a tendency to be intimidated by this imbalance of power. The results would then be discouragement and resignation in the struggle for freedom. On the other hand, the meta-communication to the power structure suggests a continuance of malice and exploitation in relations with Afrikan people.

Both interpretations of this meta-communication spell "STOP" or "SLOW" for the Afrikan's struggle against racism. In the present electronic and computer age, oppression is not as obvious and concrete as a whipping was during slavery or "Jim Crow" was during the 20's and 30's and 40's. The present day techniques of racism resort to efficiency and sophistication: symbolic or meta-communication. The struggle Afrikans face today are qualitatively different from those faced by our ancestors, but we must display their same valor and courage. Our struggle today is not against a concrete, objective entity, but an invisible and insiguous force: psychological genocide.

"Roots" would have had an even more optimistic flavor had this meta-communication, as well as the content, been positive. Author Alex Haley feels that the public found "weight, depth, and social value," in "Roots." My question is how much more could there have been had both aspects — communication and meta-communication — been positive?

By Carl McCargo

An insight into CCEBS

By RENEE MOBLEY

It is all too apparent that the educational opportunities for American Indians, Blacks, Asians and low income Whites are inadequate. Since 1968 the Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students has been working within the University of Massachusetts to increase opportunities for such people.

By working with other academic programs like METCO and Upward Bound, CCEBS recruits students who because of academic and or financial reasons would not ordinarily be accepted to the university. They look for students with motivation, talent and a desire for education.

The first class of CCEBS consisted of 125 freshmen. By 1974 the enrollment of freshmen had increased to 231 and the program supported 461 undergraduate students.

Each year CCEBS seeks to enroll more Third World students, by means of academic tutoring, financial assistance, and moral support the staff of the program hopes to guide its students through four years of college training, have them obtain at least a Bachelors degree and prepare them somewhat for the job market.

Since its inception CCEBS has succeeded in providing a structural program for its incoming freshman to follow. Steadily increasing its resources, it has managed to develop and support programs that enable students with substandard high school educations to meet university requirements. As a result of engineering, graduate assistance, dorm organizing, career day, family day, tutorial and other such programs, the overall averages of Third World students has improved. More students are remaining at the university and there is a greater diversity of majors chosen.

Despite these accomplishments many students interviewed in a recent survey, voiced dissatisfaction with the CCEBS program. One of the most common criticisms that came from the upperclassmen is that they were not given the right type of academic advice from the counciling service. "They didn't provide a good academic guideline. I had to feel my own way around the system" says Cathy Crosby, a CCEBS student who came into the program three years ago. Other upperclassmen complain that help was not available when they as freshman needed it most.

When asked about this, Michael Jackson Director of the CCEBS program, pointed out that at that time the majority of the staff consisted of part-time graduate students. "There were only two full-time staff members when I came into the program in March of '75." There are now a greater number of full-time staff and professional counsellors who take a serious interest in seeing that the students succeed.

The students also indicated a need for persistent and constant interaction between the staff and students. Those who voiced this complaint pointed out that there are only general meetings for all of CCEBS at the beginning of the year. "CCEBS should closely monitor the academic development of each student through out the year. Stay on the case" says McNamara's head of residence, Robin Smith. Ms. Smith would like to see the staff work together with various heads of residence to get a better insight into how the students live and work.

Members of the Committee's staff agree that there is a need for personal involvement. They are open to advice and criticism from the people whom they serve. Doris Chin, an academic counselor for the program says, "We need more feedback from the students on how to improve. More student input would open up channels of communication and lead to effective interaction."

Many students go to CCEBS only when they are in trouble. Associate Director Carol Brooks comments on this. "There needs to be a clarification of student responsibilities. In order for the program to work effectively there has to be a give and take relationship."

A number of freshmen, when interviewed, expressed discontent with the program but could not define why. It seems likely that negative feelings have filtered down from the upperclassmen to the freshmen and consequently they fail to go and check the program out. The biases that some

TURN TO PAGE 5

MCAT
LSAT
Classes offered in:
AMHERST!
Call or write us at
25 Huntington Ave.
Boston 02116
(617) 261-5150
or better yet call our local Rep!
Susan Taub
542-3392 after 2.
Also DAT. GMAT, GRE, SAT, OCAT
VAT, National Medical Boards
Our 38th Year
Stanley H. KAPLAN
EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION
SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938
Branches in major US cities

Third World Women weekend activities set

The "Third World Women's Weekend" is planned as an opportunity to enlighten the University of Massachusetts community of the achievements and abilities of Third World Women and also the contributions that they have made politically, culturally, and educationally. The weekend is also planned as an opportunity to further extend open the door of the Center to Third World Women on campus so that more women will be able to participate in its programs. A few of the activities planned to occur on the weekend of April 21 - 24, alternate weekend April 28 - May 1. are:

Friday, April 22,
Distant Voices

The creation of the play, Distant Voices, by Diane Thomas Hale was based on the premise that given the racism which permeates American theatre, too few of us are familiar with the works of African American women playwrights. The play is an enactment of several scenes from major plays written by African American women. The thematic design of Distant Voices is as varied as the playwrights represented. Injustice, revolution, murder, divorce, abortion, religion, and poverty represent separate issues effectively dealt with by the individual playwrights. The scenes are arranged with an overview on the dramaturgy of over one hundred African American women to emphasize the common thread of social consciousness which binds them.

The objective encompassing the production of Distant Voices is three-fold: 1). To place in vivid perspective through analytical research the dynamics of African American Theatre as it reflects and projects the works of African American women playwrights 2). To provide practical experience for community theatre artists seeking a grounding in the above 3). To provide the University Community with an artistic presentation which focuses on the historical perspective of the works of African American women.

Saturday, April 23
360 degree of Fashion

A fashion show entitled 360 degree of Fashion will not, by any means, be an ordinary fashion show. It will feature a collection of styles that were a part of the past of Third World women and now dictate their future. Various garments will highlight the influences of African, European, and Eastern styles. These strong influences are directly responsible for the diversity of fashion which has emerged and the freedom of individuals in planning their wardrobes.

An accompanying commentary will provide historical facts as each garment is modelled, as well as a complete description of its modern day version.

Just as important as the show itself is the reason for which it was conceived. Its primary purpose is to showcase the creativity, skills, and talents of Third World women. An appeal is being made to all Third World women who are interested in being a part of this endeavor, including seamstresses, needlecrafters, leather crafters, hairstylists, and jewelers. In conjunction with the fashion show will be a crafts exhibition displaying a variety of jewelry and accessories, as well as artifacts, paintings, and wall hangings. All items on display will be the products of creative women in this locality.

Following is the objective of 360 degrees of Fashion: 1). To provide a showcase for creative talents of local Third World women. 2). To demonstrate how fashion affects our lives and personal image. 3). To provide historical perspective of fashion in terms of cultural, social, and political climate.

Art Show — Throughout the weekend there will be an art show displaying the artwork of Third World Women in the area.

Black Affairs

— Monday Feb. 14, 7:30 p.m. Chadbourne Seminar Room, Central Area
— Tuesday, Feb. 15, 7:30 p.m., Hampden Student Center, Southwest Residential College
— Wednesday, Feb. 16, 8:00 p.m., 101 Campus Center, Student Senate Meeting
— Thursday, Feb. 17, 4 p.m., Campus Center, Room 168-170
— Thursday, Feb. 17, 8:00 p.m., Main Lounge, Mary Lyon House, Northeast Area
— Sunday, Feb. 20, 7 p.m., Main Lounge, McNamara House, Sylvan Area
— Sunday, Feb. 29, 8:30 p.m., Dickinson Main Lounge, Orchard Hill Area
For further information call: 545-2415 or 545-0794

LUTHER By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

YOUR UNCLE IS GOING TO HAVE A HOUSEWARMING, HARDCORE?
THAT'S RIGHT, OREO! TONIGHT!
HE HAS LIVED THERE FOR YEARS! WHY HAVE A HOUSEWARMING NOW?
BECAUSE IT'S COLD!

LUTHER By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

YOU KNOW, HARDCORE, AIR POLLUTION IS WORSE THAN EVER!
HOW CAN YOU TELL, LUTHER?
THE WEATHER MAN WON'T EVEN PREDICT LIGHT SNOW ANY MORE!

★ CCEBS

CONT. FROM PAGE 4

students have results from the general attitude around them and not from personal experience.

Other students have nothing but praise for the program. One freshman, Ricky Moore has returned to the program after an academic suspension. "CCEBS helped me to get back into school and gave me an academic guideline to follow. They let me know what is expected and now I deal around the program. CCEBS has established itself as a good organization and its up to the students to take advantage of it."

CCEBS is the reason that most Third World students are able to attend school. "It is an organization that has grown in size and wisdom and is moving forward," says a second semester freshman, Bilal Abdul-Haqq.

The majority of students interviewed whether they had positive or negative feelings say they would go to CCEBS if they were having academic or financial difficulties. Many pick CCEBS as their first choice for assistance.

The program is needed and used. This is reflected by the large number of Third World students who preregistered through the CCEBS program. 80 per cent of the Third World population and all of its freshmen were preregistered by academic advisors of the CCEBS staff.

Among the resources and programs provided by the Committee the family day and career day programs are the most popular. The new study lounge and library located in the New Africa House, is receiving favorable responses from the students.

Director Michael Jackson cited a few programs still in the creative stages. One such program is a math skills center designed to develop and improve skills needed for engineering and other such majors. There are also plans to enlarge and improve existing programs. Jackson says that he hopes to increase the staff to nine full-time members by next year.

The CCEBS staff has indicated willingness to consider any ideas, plans and useful programs submitted by students.

For the most part the Committee is doing a good job. What is needed is increased participation and communication between both staff and students.

Let's band together to raise some funds for the Marching Band, BOIC, Athletics, Fine Arts, Scholarships, Honors, and other enriching Programs. Join us for the 4th Annual UMass Student Phonothon. We provide Free Dinner, Beer, and Munchies; You spendan evening on the phone calling alumni for pledges. So come join us at Memorial Hall and do something nice for yourself midst good food, good drink, and good people. March 7-10, 14-17, & 28-31. April 4-7 & 11-14. Starts at 6PM. FOR MORE INFORMATION, CONTACT JOSEPH OR MARYELLEN AT 545-2317.

PHONOTHON 77
ROSO

PLAINS, Ga.: President Carter waves from his seat on a military helicopter before leaving Plains for his return flight to Washington. (UPI)

Couple charged after 15 hour siege

CINCINNATI [AP] — A man and his former wife were charged with kidnaping yesterday in the holding of eight hostages for 15 hours in a home for unwed mothers.

The last of the hostages were freed Saturday after the gunman was duped by police into believing that an officer was the son he hadn't seen in 20 years.

Lt. Dan Cash said one charge of kidnaping was being filed against Jessie Coulter, 39, of Utica, Mich. and his former wife, Rita Gibran, 37, also of Utica. Arraignment was set for Monday.

"We are filing one charge against both Coulter and his former wife until the case goes to the grand jury," Cash said.

"Then, after hearing all the witnesses, multiple indictments may be forthcoming."

Coulter and his former wife walked into the Catherine Booth home Friday night and he herded seven women and a man into a windowless x-ray room where he brandished a sawed-off shotgun. Coulter then demanded to see the son his wife had given up for adoption 20 years ago.

Six of the hostages escaped Saturday morning. Police would not comment on how they escaped, but one of the hostages told a home official that Coulter had been smoking marijuana all night and put the gun down. The hostage grabbed the weapon and when she tried to throw it to another hostage it discharged.

During resulting confusion the male hostage sat on Coulter while six women escaped.

The last two hostages were freed after Detective Steffan Jennings positioned himself on the other side of the door from Coulter and his former wife and told them he was their son.

"I called them Mommy and Daddy," Jennings recalled.

"They said they wanted me to come in and they would make police give them a plane so they could go to Rhodesia."

Jennings recalled that when the pair was convinced he was their son, the two remaining hostages were released and the couple came out and were taken into custody.

"Later Coulter and Rita both said I had really sounded good and had them believing I was their son," Jennings said. "Coulter said he really wished I would have been."

The hostages included a 15-year-old pregnant girl and several people who were at the home to participate in a sickle cell anemia program.

David Baxendale of the Salvation Army, which runs the home, said, "It was a terrifying emotional experience. Most of them were terribly upset."

Plains church bans cameras

PLAINS, Ga. [UPI] — The congregation of the Plains Baptist Church, tired of all the attention it has received since Jimmy Carter won the Democratic presidential nomination, voted yesterday to ban cameras from the church grounds.

The prohibition applies to cameras carried by tourists as well as television cameras.

President Carter and his family, who have formally joined the First Baptist Church in Washington since moving to the White House, worshipped here Sunday but left before the 52-42 vote was taken during a one-hour meeting of the congregation.

Members had "a long debate" on the issue — "some of it tearful," the President's cousin, Hugh Carter Sr. of Plains, told reporters later.

The Pastor, Rev. Bruce Edwards, expressed his personal sorrow and indicated he had opposed the move to ban cameras.

When reporters suggested the action might represent a "backlash from all the trouble" the church has had since Jimmy Carter, a former member, was elected president, Edwards said:

"I think you're kind of a scapegoat."

Several hundred tourists, standing in a roped-off area on the church grounds, watched Carter and his family arrive and depart during the two hours in which the President attended both Sunday school and the worship service.

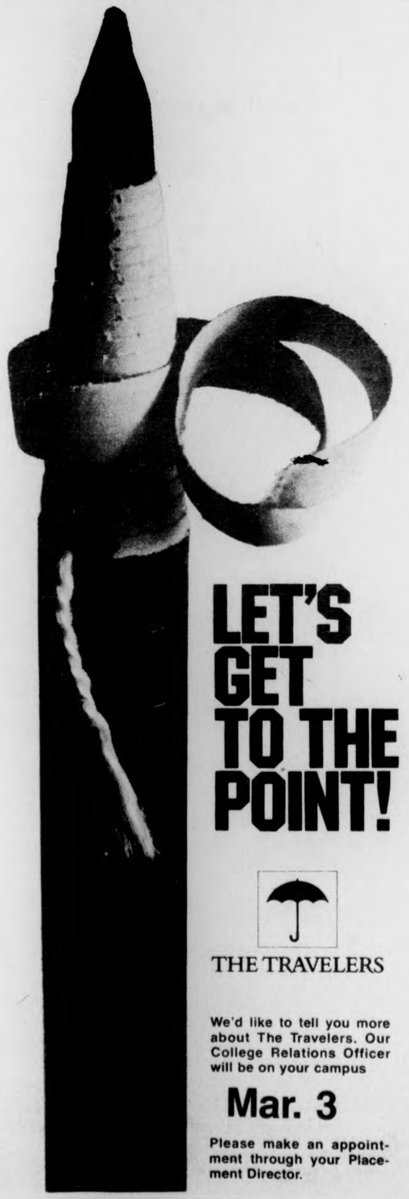
Many of them carried cameras and squealed for joy when Carter, on emerging from the church, went over to the roped-off section to shake hands.

Intense press coverage of Carter before his inauguration turned the church's controversial decision to admit blacks into a major story carried in newspapers across the country.

Get your Kawasaki
ready for the
"Good Times"
this Spring.

Valley
Motorsports Inc.

348 King St.
Northampton
584-7303



LET'S GET TO THE POINT!

THE TRAVELERS

We'd like to tell you more about The Travelers. Our College Relations Officer will be on your campus

Mar. 3

Please make an appointment through your Placement Director.

You want a satisfying, challenging career.

We need good college graduates with an interest in data processing and at least 9 computer science credits.

Maybe we can get together.

Consider some of these advantages:

☐ Extensive EDP capabilities; applications expanding daily; most sophisticated equipment available; separate 5-acre Data Center.

☐ Nationwide operations; more than 100 offices in all 50 states.

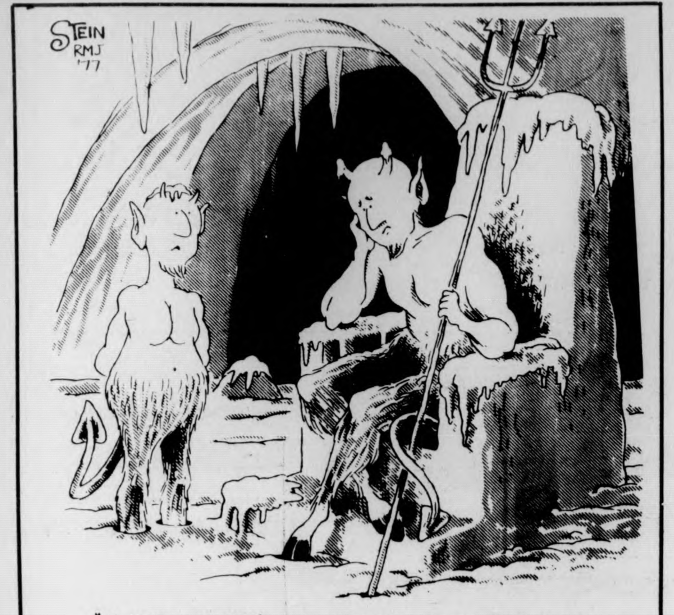
☐ Opportunities for continuing education—reimbursement for job-related courses, courses leading to academic degrees or professional designations and excellent in-house educational facilities.

☐ Dynamic business (has to be to keep up with constant changes in economic environment, computer revolution, emphasis on consumerism, and to maintain our position as one of the largest diversified financial institutions in the country.)

☐ Rewards: good starting pay, ample room for advancement, wide insurance coverage (including dental), savings and investment plan, liberal pension, sick leave and vacations.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER M/F

WE LOVE YOU!
"Faces of Earth"



"IT LOOKS LIKE THEY'RE FINALLY GETTING SERIOUS ABOUT CONSERVING FUEL, SIR."

letters

Letter provokes racial tension

To the Editor:

What possible purpose could it serve to publish that inflammatory letter on Friday graphically depicting an act of violence? Even assuming the accuracy of this account, we question the writer's motives in desiring to publicize such an explicit report on the assault. Surely he could have corrected the historical record with a much less provocative letter.

While responsible reports of some racial incidents could alert the community to the level of tension on campus and help deal with it, this letter is not of that sort. It only builds fear. The Collegian has a wide readership and the editors should take more care to evaluate the negative social impact of such a blatant letter in stirring up racial fears.

In the face of new waves of racist cutbacks and budget cuts, we need multiracial unity. A racially divided campus will be unable to resist these attacks. What could be worse at this point than to build senseless fears among the students?

Certainly printing such a letter does nothing to encourage unity. As long as this racist society exists we can all expect to be victimized. One must question the causes of these racial outbreaks of violence within our society. Where the problem lies is the structure of the system where racism has been institutionalized into our everyday lives. In order to bring an end to these serious problems we must attack the problem where it begins: in the whole capitalist system.

Keith Heish
David Reilly
Cathy Jo Shuman
Members and friends of the Progressive Labor Party

An alternative we've overlooked

To the Editor:

After reading of the present dilemma the students are faced with concerning the restriction of check cashing service provided at the Student Union, I am disappointed in the alternatives that students now feel they are limited to. As per Jean Conley and Laury Roberts' article in Feb. 9 issue of the Collegian, the only alternatives are waiting in line at Whitmore, using the services of the banks in town, having a commercial bank on campus. These are obviously the conclusions of someone who has not done as much research as one would expect.

What about the co-operative bank on campus already? The UMass Student Federal Credit Union, located in the student union across from the candy counter. Now, how does this effect the matter? This credit union is a federally chartered fully insured bank, that is run by students, for students only. It provides savings accounts, loans available, travelers checks, money orders, food stamp sales, all typical services a commercial bank can offer.

If anyone attempts to cash a personal check in town at any bank without an account or an endorsement they will honor, my condolences.

The credit union office hours, Mon.-Fri. 10-3, offer a convenience. Why not open a savings account, and make withdrawals instead of cashing checks? Perhaps this can even save you the expense of a checking account.

The student credit union was federally chartered to provide a service to students, and it has for 1500 members.

A commercial bank on campus will destroy an institution on campus that is providing many students with educational experience and personal banking services.

Now, there is another alternative some of us have overlooked.

Paul G. Smith

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Also, all letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages.

Organizations may submit letters but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

All letters are subject to editing, for either content or space, according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed.

Assistant wanted

The Collegian is looking for someone to fill the position of Assistant Executive Editor. The job is paid and involves assisting the Executive Editor in various functions which center around the editorial pages. Women and Third World people are encouraged to apply. If interested, contact Bill Sundstrom at the Collegian (545-3500) or leave a message.

from our perspective

UNIONIZE!

Last week's faculty vote for unionization leaves the students of this university, and in particular the student government, with essentially two choices — move now to organize and obtain collective bargaining rights, or suffer the inevitable consequences: a poorer education.

This is not to condemn the faculty for its decision. Indeed, the recent financial crunch only served to emphasize the need for a unified, legal power base for any party dealing with the administration and the state government. Unfortunately, the balance of power has now swayed far from the students' hands.

The president of the campus faculty union affiliate MSP, Larry Roberts, was quoted recently as saying, "Student and faculty interests are not divergent." Though this may be the case in many instances, it certainly is not guaranteed. Faculty with bargaining power may set policies quite opposed to the student interest, such as limited office hours, and are perhaps in a position to call strikes, which would obviously be disruptive to our educations. The establishment of collective bargaining also usurps some power from the Board of Trustees, where students have at least a voice in decision-making.

Studies of other campuses where faculty unions have been established confirm the fear that student power is lost in the process. Token concessions, like allowing student representatives to be present for bargaining sessions, have been just that — token.

Gaining tangible legal power — and that means participating in bargaining sessions as legal equals — is the only truly satisfactory recourse students have. The Student Organizing Project initiated that process a couple of years ago, but things seem to have slowed a bit since then. With the SGA elections coming up in mid-March, the question of where the unionization movement is going should be the major issue.

The Collegian urges all students to become aware of and involved in the struggle for bargaining rights. The faculty have made the first move — now it's our turn. The quality of our educations is at stake.

All unsigned editorials represent the opinion of a majority of the Collegian Board of Editors.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
[illegible]

BOARD OF EDITORS — RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in-Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; NASSER H. EGA, Black Affairs Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; JAY A. SARET, Photo Editor; MARK A. LECCESE, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS — Christopher J. Bourne, Teresa M. Hanafin, Night Managers; Paula Strollo, Wire Editor; Lisa E. Melilli, Assistant Executive Editor; Gerard F. Rogers, Kevin C. Turcotte, Assistant News Editors; Angela P. Thomas, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Michael A. Berger, Richard W. Eckel, Assistant Sports Editors; E. Patrick McQuaid, Deborah S. Schafer, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Melanie J. Johnson, Women's Coordinator; Heidi S. Berenson, Feature Coordinator.

BUSINESS — Steve N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; Leslie Nearman, Finance Manager; Laurie Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Heath C. Wheeler, Jr., Linda Crowell, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Leo Murphy, Doug Surette, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steve Polansky, Circulation Manager; Linda S. Vene, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

---

bill sundstrom

International insanity

A couple of recent news items should be cause for some concern, especially among young people. One was the happy tidings that the U.S. may be forced to resume the military draft, due to manpower shortages. The other, obviously not unrelated, is the entire recent debate over strategic weaponry, which features the usual cast of hawks, doves, detenters, Salters, civil defensers, and submarine, supersonic, and "psyche-em-out" strategists, not to mention the rest of us who will without doubt be affected no matter what happens.

The present international situation is insanity, and can perhaps best be compared to a one-lane road where cars travel at high speeds in both directions, avoiding each other by swerving far out onto the shoulder. As nuclear weapons spread and proliferate, the likelihood of their use in war increases at a frightening rate. We are surely as close to nuclear war today as at any time in history, and the odds are getting worse.

With these alarming facts in mind, it at first seems ludicrous that politicians and militarists would call for the continued use of ground troups and traditional weaponry, especially to the extent or requiring a draft. The underlying assumption, however, is that no country would be foolish enough to engage in a nuclear war and that subsequently all future wars will be fought in a fairly traditional fashion. In other words, nobody can win a nuclear war.

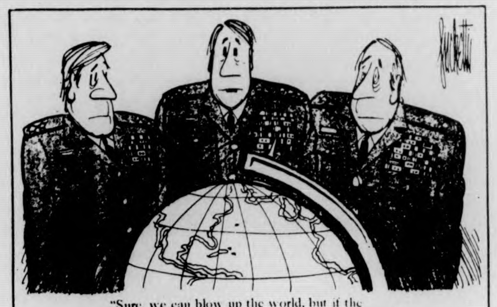
Unfortunately, it is possible to win a nuclear war, and although the costs are obviously great, governments with a history of imperialism may indeed consider those costs tolerable. After all, the reward is nothing less than control of the entire planet. Through the use of sophisticated warning devices and well-developed civil defense systems, large survival rates could supposedly be achieved.

It is over this issue that so much discussion has taken place recently, for an increasing number of "observers" have concluded that the Soviet Union is busy developing such a defense system. These people, many of them high-level military-types, have been urging increased spending on our own defense, claiming that the U.S. has fallen behind in the weapons race.

Whether one chooses to believe these reports is another matter entirely. Once again the American public faces the dilemma that its sole source of information on defense-related issues is the industrio-military complex, whose motives must forever be questioned. Indeed, the military's policy is usually one of denying the public any access to information, unless it deems such material useful in its effort to gain a bigger chunk of the federal budget.

Certainly the possibility that the USSR is preparing for nuclear war is not to be taken lightly. But jumping to the cry of a right-wing, profit-motivated elite is sheer folly. To assume that a defense dependent upon deception and public ignorance is operating in our best interests is not only naive, but suicidal. Continued escalation is surely not a valid solution to the problem.

Rather than accept our present impotence regarding issues that concern our very existence, we must demand real input and untainted information. Whether that goal can be achieved at all within the context of the present economic system remains in doubt.



"Sure, we can blow up the world, but if the Russians can blow up the world twice, we're goners"

Bill Sundstrom is Executive Editor of the Collegian.

commentary

Students and the MSP

By ADAM AUSTER

Our faculty voted to unionize this week, and UMass may never be the same.

Faculty unionization was inevitable. Three years of pay freezes, of arbitrary hiring procedures, and of being ignored by the state legislature and the administration would be enough to convince anyone to take action. The union approach is ideally suited to solving these and other problems that the faculty have with the administration.

With one vote, the faculty have enhanced their position with the administration. That vote has given them legally enforceable rights. The same vote allied them with a professional lobbying organization which represents 60,000 Massachusetts teachers. With that one vote, the faculty have increased their influence and their ability to take action — through lobbying, striking and public campaigning — to protect their interests.

It's no wonder the faculty got unionized. The only question is how the faculty's new union will affect students.

The answer is uncertain or worse. Yes, there are some important ways that faculty unionization will improve things for students. The union, the Massachusetts Society of Professors (MSP), may very well begin by challenging the process which administrators use to rob the academic budget each year to fatten their salaries or buy fancy offices. What student could fail to support that?

We should also realize, however, that there are many issues that students and faculty won't agree on:

—Salaries and Tuition: It may be true that the faculty deserve a raise, but that doesn't mean that students deserve to pay for it. It will be up to us to make sure the university gets the additional money from other sources — the state, or wasted parts of its own budget.

—Research and Class Size: If the MSP pushes to reduce the average teaching load for professors in order to give them more time to do independent research, the total number of courses offered here will go down and class size will go up.

—Faculty Rights and Student Input: The faculty are getting power in the university for themselves, not for students. An organization founded to work for faculty interests won't reflect what we need.

In short, the MSP will be good for students only when there is no conflict between students and faculty. Whenever an issue comes up that students and faculty members don't agree on, the students will find themselves completely outflanked by the MSP. The faculty will have a combination lobbyist, pressure group and advocate on their side; the students will have nothing, unless things change soon. We may wind up as a powerless pawn in the game of contract negotiations between the faculty and the administration.

The faculty have rejected the old system of university governance, in which administrators listened to both student and faculty "input" and then made their decisions. They've replaced this with a system of collective bargaining, in which faculty (because they have a union) and more than just "input" but students (because we don't have a union) do not.

If the old system was bad, the new one isn't much better. I suggest that we should follow the example of the faculty, and work to get collective bargaining rights for ourselves.

Student unionization may be the best way to maximize the good effects and minimize the bad effects of the MSP. If we had a union working for our interests the way that MSP works of the interests of the faculty, perhaps the university would not be so quick to increase our fees every year, or increase class size, or ignore our needs with such regularity.

Some students, in fact, have already discovered the advantages of forming miniature unions in their departments. To be sure, a handful of department councils are no match for the resources of the MSP or the administration, but they are a first step. The undergraduate councils have already proven themselves able to affect their own departments, and have the potential to work together on campus issues.

The Student Government Association has set up five advocacy services to resource students working for student interests: a Legal Services Office, a Student Center for Educational Research, a Student Organizing Project, a Legislative Liason and an Economic Development Coordinator. All five are controlled by student boards or committees and are free to undergraduates.

It's easy to make predictions about what might happen, but dangerous to make predictions about what will happen. Lets hope we can get our act together this semester so that both students and the MSP will be able to make UMass into a better school.

Adam Auster is a Collegian Commentator.

tyla l michelove

Lives in tension

The group broke for ten minutes. Clusters of conversations swelled across the room, each separate, each much the same. Voices drew pictures of conflict laced with guilt and the anger that rides on being forced to make a choice. The women nodded one to the other with the reassuring smiles of wordless understanding.

She reached back to her neck and adjusted the blue cotton scarf and listened to the swirl of voices around her. "Sad," she thought, "it seems so sad that we come to this class and learn about women who have done really great things with their lives, women whose stories are new to us and should seem so familiar. Each day we sit here and listen to a misplaced history and then turn our anger inward. We complain about how tortured we are each night when it comes down to a choice between our homework (ourselves) and our men or families. We are all so torn and it doesn't seem fair."

".... so I haven't done any reading. I mean, I don't get to see him during the day. He wants to do things at night and it's so hard not to want to be with him. I feel terrible...", came from one side of the circle of chairs.

A plaintiff voice nearby harmonized, "With dinner and the laundry, I had my hands full and then it was a choice between writing the paper or being with the kids. God, I wish that I had time for me, to do for myself. But I love them, ya know, and there are just so many hours in the day."

"Ya, I know, you want to be with them but you know you can't spend your whole life as theirs. And then when you find time for yourself, you feel guilty, like you are denying them something. The old damned if you do, damned if you don't."

"Right, and it's not always that they deliberately make you feel horrible. It's something inside yourself, a conflict with no easy solution. You decide your priorities and then it haunts you like you've done something wrong, even though you know that you haven't. And you're the only one who feels it and they think you're silly or imagining things when you happen to mention it. Like there's something wrong with you — paranoid or something. But we all feel it!"

"Times change too fast or not fast enough," she thinks, as the women take their seats to begin class again, "And there are no role models for us, the ones who want something more and refuse to reject everything about the expected. You want love and a home and also the freedom to be yourself. It's just not the easy way."

The feelings quieted for a while and the class continued. After vivid conversations that did not touch on the major anxiety, the class ended. As they filtered into the hall with offers of rides and tentative plans, the topic aired itself again.

"... sorry, I'd love to talk, but they're waiting for dinner and I have to rush...."

"... no, I won't be able to, another couple is coming over to the apartment and I have to make a pie..."

"... so if he does anything to make it easier for me, making the bed, running out for milk or having dinner ready when I get home, he expects a pat on the head or applause. I know he is sincerely trying to help, but emotionally it's just another drain. I have to stop myself everytime I want to dismiss it. I mean, I really want this thing to work and we both have to try. Maybe I expect too much. I don't know. Maybe it gets better. I don't know. It just seems that my wanting to do stuff alone shuts him out and that seems to bother me more than it bothers him. I know it does bother him, but he won't say anything..."

"At least we can talk it out with each other. It's so nice to find other women who feel the same way. Hey, maybe we don't have any answers, but at least there's some relief. It makes it easier to go home and not... well, I just want to cry sometimes when it comes down to a choice. He tries to understand, but he has never had to fight these kinds of inner expectations."

"It's not that it bothers me all the time, usually things are pretty good. But you know how it is. He calls me selfish and then takes it back, but the doubts are still there, ya know? Of course you do. See ya tomorrow and take it easy, ok?"

"We talk," she thinks on her way down the stairs, "We talk to each other and to all the 'hims' and ultimately we have to deal with it ourselves."

She starts walking home, silent and in deep thought. She kicks some snow in front of her, stomps on it and walks on absently.

"Ah," she says suddenly outloud, "at least we can talk!" She smiles and thinks about dinner and a quiet night at home.

Tyla L. Michelove is a Collegian Columnist.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va.: His Excellency Jose Lopez Portillo, President of the United Mexican States, and Mrs. Lopez Portillo arrive at Patrick Henry International Airport for an overnight visit in Colonial Williamsburg before continuing on to Washington and a meeting with President Carter today. (UPI)

Largest valentine launched in Kansas

MANHATTAN, Kan. [UPI] — For 10 minutes yesterday afternoon, the world's largest valentine floated above the central Kansas prairie.

The 100-foot-tall heart, formed by nylon line and about 120 helium-filled red weather balloons, was the work of four Kansas State University art instructors.

They entitled the project: "The Big Red Heart in the Sky from the Heart of America." About 3,000 persons turned out to look.

"We wanted to work with a large monumental form and we decided a big heart would be appropriate for Valentine's Day," said Bob Clore, one of the instructors. "It's a unique visual experience that people can relate to."

Other artists participating in the project were Gary Woodward, Duane Noblett and Elliot Pujol.

It took about 20 minutes to launch the heart, which rose about 170-feet in the air and was anchored by rope. Workers then hauled it down and released the balloons as a valentine greetings to the nation. Fifty of the balloons contained small bags of wheat and a postcard attached for the finder to return.

The inscription on the postcards had a plug for the state and for KSU's new winter-wheat seed:

"This weather balloon was part of the world's largest valentine set aloft at Manhattan, Kan., Feb. 13, 1977. Along with our valentine greetings, we send to you a packet of Larned hard red winter wheat seed.

"This new wheat variety developed by researchers at Kansas State University, the Kansas land-grant university, will help Kansas continue to provide food for America and the world. Please return this card so we will know how far our greetings traveled."

The wheat was provided free by the university but the four artists provided $200 for the balloons, whose diameters ranged from 20 to 40 feet, nylon ropes, and stamped-postcards.

The four now hope to have their creation entered in the Guiness Book of World Records, which lists no mark for the largest Valentine.

Cocaine seized by Mexican agents

SAN DIEGO, Calif. [UPI] — Mexican authorities have intercepted a private plane carrying about 300 pounds of "very high grade" cocaine and a quantity of heroin destined for the U.S. street trade, it was disclosed yesterday.

Charles E. Hill, agent in charge of the regional office of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration, said the cocaine and 11 pounds of "high-quality" heroin had a street value estimated at approximately $73 million.

Hill reported the plane's cargo was confiscated at Tijuana Airport Saturday when it landed. The illegal drugs were to be taken by automobile into the United States, he said.

The seizure culminated a three-month investigation by U.S. and Mexican narcotics agents of a ring channeling drugs from Sinaloa to California.

Three men arrested aboard the twin-engine Cessna 310 were identified as Oscar Cazares-Rocha, Marcio Enrique Avarez-Vasquez, and the pilot, Jesus Alfredo Aguilar, all of Culiacan, Sinaloa.

The drugs were packed in five suitcases which were in plain view in the aircraft, Hill reported.

He said agents believe the heroin was manufactured in Mexico and the cocaine in South America.

HOW TO GET ACTION ON ENVIRONMENTAL PROBLEMS
Dr. Hiam Gunner of Environmental Sciences will discuss how to get support for environmental issues.
Feb. 14 C.C. 904 7:30 P.M.
Coalition for Environmental Quality
SUPPORTED BY THE UNDERGRADUATE STUDENT SENATE
CEQ

Hewlett-Packard Calculator Demonstration
TUESDAY, FEB. 15
11 a.m.-3 p.m.
a representative of the Hewlett-Packard company will be at the University Store to demonstrate the HP calculators.
DEMO DAY SPECIAL

Hewlett-Packard HP-25C Scientific Programmable Calculator with Continuous Memory.
Retains your programs and saves your data—even when you turn it off!
List Price $200.00
Our Regular Price $179.95
Demo Day Special! Only $159.95
at the University Store
Campus Center/Univ. of Mass.

Free! GROCERIES
Come in and see what a trunk load of groceries look like!
That's Right!
FREE GROCERIES!
From Feb. 7th to Mar. 5th, Baggetta's is giving away $150.00 worth of free groceries of your choice with the purchase and delivery of any new or used car (over $1,500.00)!
GIFT CERTIFICATES for groceries can be redeemed at CARROLLS SUPER MARKET at Millers Falls, Gill, and Orange, Ma.
Honda Civic Sedan
HONDA CIVIC SEDAN $2779 delivered plus groceries
No Gimmicks! Everyone is a winner — Low Prices Plus $150.00!!
Place your order Now!
BAGGETTA'S HONDA
1173 Bernardston Rd., Greenfield
Open Mon.-Fri. 9-7:30, Sat. 9-4
(413) 772-0186

Steelworkers union begin contract talk

WASHINGTON [AP] — The United Steelworkers union and the nation's steel producers open contract talks today with the future of the industry's historic no-strike agreement staked on the outcome.

Substantial wage increases and "lifetime job security" head a wide-ranging and ambitious set of general bargaining goals fashioned by 800 local union presidents at meetings here Saturday and Sunday.

The talks, covering nearly 340,000 workers, will be conducted under the industry's Experimental Negotiating Agreement which bans an industrywide strike and provides for arbitration instead.

But discontent in some steel locals, stirred by the union's bitter election campaign, has put the future of the peace agreement in doubt.

A 29-page statement of the union's bargaining goals issued yesterday noted the agreement was still viewed as an experiment even though it was first used in 1974.

"It's use in the future is dependent upon its success in securing the best possible collective bargaining settlement for our members" this year, the union statement said.

Under the agreement, the companies are already committed to minimum wage, cost-of-living and other benefits that industry officials estimate will increase hourly employment costs 26 per cent over the life of the three-year contract to be negotiated this year.

Steelworkers currently average $8.11 an hour, plus fringe benefits.

The eventual settlement will set the pattern for negotiations later this year in the aluminum and container industries.

Since labor accounts for better and 40 per cent of the cost of producing a ton of steel, the high cost of a new agreement can be expected to result in higher prices for most steel products.

I. W. Abel, who retires as president of the 1.4 million-member steelworkers union in June, wants to cap his career with a breakthrough toward some form of lifetime security for his members in the basic steel industry.

The details of the proposal, listed by union bargainers as having "the utmost priority," will be developed during the negotiations. A number of approaches have been suggested, including shortening the work week to 32 hours and liberalizing existing unemployment benefit security programs.

Industry officials have said the companies could not absorb the cost of a lifetime security concept on top of existing benefit programs.

No dollar and cents figure was placed on the union's bargaining goals. In addition to higher wages and lifetime security, the union wants a better cost-of-living formula, no contracting out of work to non-members, an end to "harassment tactics" by management at the plant level, and better health, safety, and insurance benefits.

The no-strike agreement provides that unresolved issues be submitted to arbitration by April 20.

While an industrywide strike is prohibited, the union is be free to strike individual plants over local issues not settled by that date.

Hahjee's Place is a unique new restaurant on route 9 in Hadley. This Persian Restaurant features a variety of native gourmet cooking, appertifs, crepes, maszah-or vegetarian type dishes-sandwiches, standard grilled food, new crepe desserts, and a variety of imported wine and beer.

Inez Garcia in new trial

SALINAS, Calif [AP] — Almost three years ago Inez Garcia picked up a rifle and hunted down and killed a 300-pound man she said had held her down while another man raped her.

Today testimony in her second trial in the killing begins. This time she thinks she'll be acquitted — partially because of the impact her trial and the women's movement have had on attitudes and laws about rape since 1974.

Mrs. Garcia's attorney, Susan Jordan, said she will try to convince the jury of 10 men and two women that her client acted "in legitimate self defense."

"I feel that I was defending myself and defending my honor," Mrs. Garcia, 32, said recently. "My state of mind...was like anybody that goes through something like what I did. You get angry and I was in fear..."

Mrs. Garcia was charged with killing Miguel Jimenez, 21, on the night of March 21, 1974 in the dusty town of Soledad, about 100 miles south of San Francisco. She asserts that about 20 minutes before the shooting, Jimenez held her down in her apartment while his companion, Louis Castillo, raped her.

Ms. Jordan said that Jimenez and Castillo called Mrs. Garcia on the phone after the rape to threaten her and that Jimenez was armed with a knife when she shot him later on the street.

Her first trial attracted attention from feminists around the country supporting a woman's right to defend herself against a rapist.

"The world has changed since 1974 in the area of rape, and the world and the laws have changed to a large extent because of actions like Inez's, her defense and her trial and the work that the women's community had done," said Ms. Jordan, who prefers the feminist designation.

But the judge in the first trial refused to admit testimony about the alleged rape and it has never been proven. Deputy Dist. Atty. Skip Braudrick says he will argue as he did before that the case is "an open and shut homicide case."

Braudrick said Mrs. Garcia did not tell police the night of the killing that she had been raped. He said she first mentioned the alleged assault several days before her first trial began. He also said the incident stemmed from a controversy over drug trafficking, although he said Mrs. Garcia had no known involvement with drugs.

Ms. Jordan said Mrs. Garcia had told the police "as best she could" that she had been sexually assaulted. The attorney said she was confident that the judge at the retrial will allow testimony about the rape because it "comes in under state of mind...her state of mind commences when they started assaulting her and ends sometime post shooting."

Flynt's release requested

COLUMBUS, Ohio [UPI] — The Ohio chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union has asked an Ohio court of appeals to unconditionally release Hustler Magazine publisher Larry Flynt from jail while he appeals his convictions for pandering obscenity and engaging in organized crime.

Flynt, who publishes the magazine in Columbus, was in jail in Cincinnati this weekend after a court refused to set bail pending the appeal.

Benson Wolman, executive director of the ACLU's Ohio chapter, said Sunday a friend-of-the-court memorandum was filed with the First District Court of Appeals in Hamilton County during the weekend.

He said the ACLU noted there was no danger that Flynt would flee and he did not pose a threat to others.

Wolman said ACLU attorneys noted in the brief that they had found "no case where bail pending appeal was denied where a defendant was asserting a first amendment right."

It also noted the only cases of denial of bail were those involving likely flight, violent crimes or repeated offenses involving dealing in hard narcotics by a defendant, Wolman said.

"Conditioning Flynt's release upon his agreement not to circulate future issues of the magazine would clearly be a systematic prior restraint prohibited by the First Amendment," Wolman said.

The ACLU said that the continued jailing of Flynt, pending appeal, "will have a drastically chilling effect upon freedom of expression, not only in Cincinnati, but in the United States generally."

roister doister drama society
presents
Flowers for Algernon
by David Rogers
February 11, 12, 13, 18 & 19
8:00 p.m.
Bowker Aud.
Stockbridge Hall UMass.
Tickets on sale now at Bowker Box Office
Reservations — 545-0783 — Information

WARNING:
The Ivory Tower is about to collapse.
It's your last year of college. Why think about life insurance now? Because, the older you get the more it costs. And next year, it's all up to you. Find out about CollegeMaster.
Call the Fidelity Union CollegeMaster Field Associate in your area:
Ronald J. Nathan Agency
747 Main St., Amherst
256-8351
CollegeMaster®

ARE YOU RENTING ?
ARE YOUR CONTENTS INSURED?
IF NOT, CONTACT TOM LYONS
AT LYONS INSURANCE IN
NORTHAMPTOM FOR A LOW COST
RENTOR'S PACKAGE POLICY 584-1998

SPECIAL
3 for 2
Cleaning Offer
Your Garments Receive The Same High Quality Drycleaning—Only The Price Is Lower ACT NOW
SEND 3 GARMENTS PAY FOR 2 GARMENTS GET 1 FREE!
SEND 6 GARMENTS PAY FOR 4 GET 2 CLEANED FREE
(Least Expensive Garment In Order Is The Free One. All Suits Considered As One Garment)
Hurry! LIMITED TIME ONLY!
Braff's Royl Cleaners
103 N. Pleasant Street
(across from Louis's Foods)
256-8288
430 Federal St., Greenfield 130 Main St., Greenfield

Plastic bottles banned

SOUTH WINDSOR, Conn. [UPI] — National executives of the Monsanto Commercial Products Co., worried that some of the company's workers may lose their jobs, plan to meet with federal officials today to discuss the problem.

Citing possible health hazards, the Food and Drug Administration withdrew its approval Friday to the use of plastic bottles for beer and soft drinks.

The five-year-old plant began producing plastic bottles in 1976, making Connecticut the first state to have such containers.

Plant manager James Johnson said Saturday he has talked with FDA officials and they confirmed the ruling. He said he and other Monsanto executives would meet with FDA representatives Monday to try to prevent the closing of the plant.

In its ruling, the FDA said a two-year study "indicated that, after 13 months, some rats fed high doses of acrilonitrile a materal used in plastic containers in their drinking water had significantly lowered body weight."

News in Brief

Crime increase in rural areas

WASHINGTON [AP] — A new study reports that crime is increasing in rural areas, and while it may not be a pitchfork jungle, the tradition of unlocked doors is coming to an end.

Though vandalism is the most prevalent rural crime reported, the researchers noted that all types of crimes in all of rural Ohio rose 305 per cent from 1965 through 1974.

That includes only the crimes reported to police, and the researchers said many other crimes, particularly vandalism, are not reported to authorities.

The three-year project was conducted by Ohio State University's College of Agriculture with $170,119 from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. The LEAA released the report Sunday.

The crime increase is gradually ending the rural tradition of leaving doors unlocked, the report said.

Candidate for New Haven mayor

NEW HAVEN, Conn. [UPI] — Sen. Anthony Ciarlone, D-New Haven, has announced his candidacy for mayor.

In making the announcement Saturday night, Ciarlone unleashed a scathing attack on the present Mayor Frank Logue.

He has made decisions which are divisive and others which are detrimental to groups in our city," Ciarlone told a group of about 400 supporters at the city's Park Plaza Hotel.

Ciarlone, a fourth term state senator from New Haven, criticized his Democratic rival for failing to "demonstrate a capability to be mayor of all the people."

"I think he's ignored every community," Ciarlone said.

Some critics have accused Logue of being anti-Italian. Ciarlone is of Italian descent.

"Community and political leaders regard me not as an ethnic candidate, but as a candidate who just happens to be Italian," Ciarlone said.

Quebec wants independence

QUEBEC CITY, Canada [AP] — An independent Quebec would move closer to the United States economically and might encourage worker participation in the management of private enterprise, the provincial government's chief economic planner says.

"The future for Quebec is in the processing of our raw material products here, and in many north-south international exchanges with the United States, especially the East Coast," said Bernard Landry, minister of state for economic development.

Landry, 39, is a member of the three-month-old Parti Quebecois PQ government. The PQ has vowed to lead the French-speaking province toward independence from the rest of English-dominated Canada and says it will put the question to Quebec voters in a referendum.

Economic and cultural concerns are intertwined in the separatist movement, Landry said in a recent interview.

Ways to conserve energy

WASHINGTON [AP] — Americans could find themselves bathing in form-fitting bathtubs in the near future as the nation seeks ways to conserve its dwindling energy supply, three energy experts say.

Supermarkets and throwaway packages may disappear. Houses and cars will be smaller, the experts say.

These were some of the ideas three energy conservationists predicted for the future as the nation becomes energy conscious.

When the changes will occur, and whether they will be voluntary or by government decree, is less clear, they said in interviews.

Corrections dept. criticized

HARTFORD, Conn. [UPI] — A Connecticut judge says he will ask the state legislature to halt the "unbelieveably liberal" policies of the Corrections Department which have resulted in the release of prisoners long before their sentences are completed.

Court of Common Pleas Judge Roman J. Lexton Saturday joined others who have complained the Corrections Department is freeing convicts before their time is up.

Earlier this month, House Minority Leader Gerald Stevens, R-Milford, accused Corrections Commissioner John Manson and his department of "turning the entrances of Connecticut jails into revolving doors."

Lexton said he has received numerous complaints from an "outraged public" and from judges who complain Manson is undermining the authority of the courts by releasing inmates.

Under law, Manson is allowed to give a convict a 15-day furlough for funerals, medical treatment or "for any compelling reason consistent with rehabilitation."

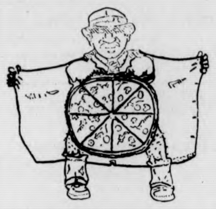
But Lexton and others complain that Manson is misinterpreting the statute.

Lexton said if the law allows Manson to release prisoners prematurely, the legislature should plug the holes in the statute. The judge said he has been assured by members of the legislative Judiciary Committee corrective legislation will be passed this session.

Lexton said the furlough provisions of the law are "specific and restricted." He said Manson is interpreting the statute "in the widest possible sense" when he gives consecutive 15-day furloughs. Manson has complained that Connecticut jails are already 97 per cent full and may become overcrowded if all inmates serve their full sentence.

EXPOSE YOURSELF

PIZZA
ICE CREAM



SUBS
PINBALL

TO UNIVERSITY PIZZA

CALL 549-5592 FOR DELIVERY (ON CAMPUS)

COME IN AND WARM YOUR TOES
BY OUR FIREPLACE

☆ TRY OUR STEAK AND CHEESE SUB ☆
☆ AND GET A FREE COKE WITH THIS AD! ☆
☆ OFFER GOOD FEB. 14-17 ☆

Across from Southwest Dorms to assure a hot and quick delivery!

ANY STUDENT CAN BE PRESIDENT!

NOMINATIONS ARE OPEN FOR PRESIDENT OF THE STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION AND SEATS ON THE CAMPUS CENTER BOARD OF GOVERNORS.

ANY UNDERGRADUATE IS ELIGIBLE TO RUN, AND COMBINATIONS OF PERSONS MAY RUN FOR PRESIDENT.

NOMINATION PAPERS ARE AVAILABLE IN THE STUDENT SENATE OFFICE, 420 STUDENT UNION, AND MUST BE RETURNED BY FEBRUARY 23.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

J15 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Gallon Jug Stop & Shop Bleach 29¢
Good thru Sat. Feb. 19. Limit one jug per customer 265
Grocery

J21 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Ajax 79¢ Laundry Detergent 49 oz. box
stronger than dirt
Good thru Sat. Feb. 19. Limit one box per customer 271
Grocery

J17
Free! 20 oz. loaf Big Daisy Sliced White Bread
Good thru Sat. Feb. 19. Limit one loaf per customer 267
Bakery

J20 With this coupon
SAVE $1.00 on Film Processing
on any roll or cartridge of Kodacolor C-110, C-126, 127, 620 or 35mm prints brought in to be developed before Feb. 26, 1977
Coupon expires March 12, 1977
Limit one roll per customer 270
Kodak paper. For a good look at the times of your life.

J19 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Stop & Shop Salad Dressing 32 oz. Jar 59¢
Good thru Sat. Feb. 19. Limit one jar per customer 269
Grocery

J22 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Stop & Shop ½ Gal. Natural Ice Cream Asst. Flavors 89¢
Good thru Sat. Feb. 19. Limit one ctn. per customer 272
Frozen

ONE OF THE STOP & SHOP COMPANIES
Stop & Shop SUPERMARKETS
It's 'my store' to more people...
Because you have a choice of over 150 Stop & Shop baked goods.

dairy We make sure these are good and fresh
Breyers Yogurt All Natural Asst. Flavors 3 8 oz. cups 89¢
Tropicana Orange Juice 39¢
Stop & Shop Premium 1 lb. package Margarine ¼ lb. sticks 39¢
Hood Cottage Cheese $1.29
Pillsbury Crescent Rolls 39¢

"I love my job in the bakery department at 'my store'."

"We can almost tell who's coming in at 10 minutes to 10, or who will be here at 9:30. You have rather close relationships with your customers, and mine tell me how much their families like our baked goods.

"I know why. Because our baked goods are always so nice and fresh. And because of what we put into them at the Stop & Shop Bakery. Only the best vegetable shortening, fresh butter, eggs, fruit, nuts, honey—the same kind of ingredients little family bakeries use. For our Jewish friends, it won't be long 'til all Stop & Shop baked goods are Kosher. Look for the Kosher symbol on our packages.

"When you stop by the bakery department at my store, it's like going shopping in your little neighborhood bakeshop ... except our prices are lower."

Lil De Chesser
Bakery Dept.
West Hartford Stop & Shop

bakery Rushed from our own ovens, quality baked goods
Stop & Shop Daisy Donuts Plain or Sugar Good eating... 2 11½ oz. pkgs. of 12 $1
Blueberry Muffins 65¢
Stop & Shop Fudge Cake 99¢
Stop & Shop Cherry Pie 99¢
Chocolate Eclair Pie 89¢
Valentine Cupcakes 89¢
Stop & Shop Sandwich Rolls Lunch time treat, great with our own ground beef! 3 12 oz. pkg. of 8 $1

Frozen Stock your freezer with these delicious foods!
Stop & Shop French Fries Regular or Crinkle Cut 3 16 oz. boxes 89¢
Boston Bonnie Donuts 49¢
Jeno's Pizza Snack Tray 99¢
LaChoy Egg Rolls 69¢
Chicken Chow Mein 89¢
Lender's–Plain or Onion Bagelettes 11 oz. pkg. 69¢
Chinese Vegetables 59¢
Fried Shrimp Taste O Sea $1.19
Morton Donuts Family Pack Glazed 12 oz. package 89¢
Mrs. Smith's Apple Pie 26 oz. pkg. 79¢
Rhodes Bread Dough 5 lb. pkg. $1.19
Louise's Round Ravioli 13 oz. pkg. 89¢
Sara Lee Dessert Cake 99¢
Banana, Chocolate, Orange or Devils Food
Rich's Coffee Rich 4 16 oz. ctns. $1

health & beauty aids Add these family needs to your list, and save!
Crest Toothpaste Regular or Mint 7 oz. tube 89¢
Bufferin 100 ct. Bottle 99¢

Stop & Shop "Big Eye" Pork Sale!
big eye pork Center Cut Pork Chops or Roast $1.39 lb
You'll easily see the quality difference in the larger, meatier eye on Stop & Shop pork chops.
Pork Loin Roast Rib Portion 89¢ lb.
Assorted Pork Chops ⅓ Center Chops ⅓ Sirloin Chops ⅓ Blade Chops $1.09 lb.
Countrystyle Pork Ribs Loin $1.09 lb.

"Quality Protected" Stop & Shop "Great Beef"
Chuck Roast Boneless $1.09 lb
Stop & Shop GREAT BEEF QUALITY PROTECTED USDA CHOICE
M-m-m, roast beef for Sunday dinner. This will make a flavorful pot roast, simmer long and slowly 'til fork tender. Great eating . . . good price, too!
Chuck Cube Steak $1.49 lb.
Stewing Beef Beef Chuck $1.29 lb.
Boneless Blade Steak Beef Chuck $1.49 lb.

Smoked Pork Shoulder Roll $1.19 lb
Water Added
Ideal for a boiled dinner for a small family. Use your favorite receipe . . . and enjoy!

produce The freshest of the fresh!
MUSHROOMS SNOW WHITE 12 oz. pkg. 99¢
Arizona Tangerines 135 Size 12 for 69¢
3 lb. bag McIntosh Apples U.S. #1 2¼" min. 79¢
Idaho Potatoes A size US #1 5 lb bag 79¢
Sunkist Lemons Jumbo 75 Size 8 for $1
Celery Hearts California pkg. 69¢
Marmalade Fancy Fruit Farms Orange - 14 oz. jar 59¢

self service deli Great meats for every meal!
1 lb pkg Stop & Shop Beef Franks Hot Dogs or Extra Mild Franks 79¢
Swift Premium Beef Franks 89¢
Swift Premium Meat Franks 89¢
Schickhaus Beef Franks 99¢
Brown & Serve Sausage 79¢
Swift Premium – 8 oz. package
Sizzlean Breakfast Strips $1.29
Swift Premium – 12 oz. package
Corned Beef Brisket per lb. $1.69
Swift Premium – for oven roasting
Bologna or Salami Morrison & Schiff 12 oz. roll $1.09
Stop & Shop Cold Cuts 1 lb. pkg. 99¢
Bologna, P&P or Spiced Luncheon Loaf

corner deli All meats are sliced fresh to your order.
Available at stores with Service Deli.
Stop & Shop–Cooked Corned Beef Brisket Qtr. lb. 79¢
Stop & Shop Baked Ham Qtr. lb. 79¢
Potato Salad Stop & Shop Reg. or Oil & Vinegar per lb. 49¢
Stop & Shop Tuna Salad per lb. $1.69
Deutschmacher Bologna Lunch time sandwich fixings. $1.09 lb.
Deutschmacher Liverwurst per lb. 99¢
Gem Polish Style Loaf lb. $1.09
White American Cheese per lb. $1.49
Mini Sahara Bread 8 oz. pkg. 59¢

Stop & Shop kitchen
Fresh Cheese Pizza Large 1 lb. size 99¢

seafood Enjoy light, delicate fish. Low in calories.
Pollock Fillets Frozen 79¢ lb.
Smoked Cod Fillets Frozen per lb. $1.39
Cooked Shrimp Stop & Shop-Frozen Extra Large 8 oz. pkg. $2.69
3 lb. Box Squid Calamari Frozen $1.49
Cooked Fish & Chips Stop & Shop 2 lb. pkg. frozen $1.79

J23 With this coupon
Save 40¢ on Fresh Chicken Pie Large 24 oz. size 273
Good thru Sat., Feb. 19. Limit one pkg. per customer
Meat

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

Prices effective thru Sat., Feb. 19. In fairness to all our customers, we reserve the right to limit sales to three packages of any item except where otherwise noted. Items offered for sale not available in case lots or to other retail dealers or wholesalers. Copyright 1977 by Stop & Shop Supermarkets. All rights reserved.

Mixed feelings on civil rights case

Pacific News Service — Legal experts say it could be the most important civil rights case in 20 years. Black, Chicano and other minority critics say it's a set-up.

The case is Bakke v. the Regents of the University of California (UC). In a landmark decision last September, the California Supreme Court ruled that the special admissions program for minorities at UC-Davis Medical School was unconstitutional because it discriminated against whites.

Minorities charge that the defendant, UC, never tried to win the case. And now that the University has appealed the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court, these same critics fear that an inadequate defense could scuttle every affirmative action program in the nation.

While activist critics are organizing public demonstrations, a coalition including the United Auto Workers, the National Urban League, the National Conference of Black Lawyers and the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund (MALDEF) has filed a brief they hope will persuade the Supreme Court not to take the case.

The high court has stayed the California court's ruling, indicating it will probably take the case. Should it uphold the California decision, says Prof. Ralph Smith of the National Conference of Black Lawyers and the University of Pennsylvania Law School, "It would have a catastrophic effect, wiping out (special admissions) programs all over the country" and spilling over the threaten affirmative action job programs.

The case stems from a charge by Allen Bakke, a white who was twice rejected by the UC-Davis Medical School, that his Fourteenth Amendment rights to equal protection under the law had been violated.

Bakke contends he was rejected solely because the UC-Davis special admissions program, which reserves 16 out of 100 places for minorities, let a less qualified minority student take his place. His suit resulted in a California ruling that a qualified white cannot be refused admission so that a less qualified minority person can be educated.

Many minority lawyers believe the UC Regents, dominated by conservative appointees of ex-governor Ronald Reagan, chose not to present a strong defense of minority admissions programs.

"The University's primary effort was not to win," but "to obtain a definitive rule on its special admissions program," says Armando Menocal, a lawyer for one of the nation's largest public interest law firms, Public Advocates.

"All the University had to lose was a program they never wanted," adds black University of San Francisco Law Professor Charles Lawrence.

UC presented as evidence only one affidavit and one deposition, both from Davis and Admissions Director Dr. George Lowrey. It gave no oral testimony and called no expert witnesses or members of the minority communities involved.

"To allow a case of the maganitude and impact of Bakke to be decided without an opportunity for minorities to present vital evidence ... is a travesty of justice," writes Charles Lawrence in a legal journal attack on Bakke.

Some minority lawyers have even suggested there was collusion between UC and Bakke. But collusive or not, most believe UC put up too weak a legal case to risk a U.S. Supreme Court precedent on minority admissions.

"This is a terribly important question for this society," says the National Conference of Black Lawyers' Ralph Smith. "It's one the Supreme Court will have to rule on. But the issues should be presented fairly and clearly to the Court. The Bakke case doesn't do this."

Donald Reidhaar, chief attorney for the UC Regents, denies the University presented a weak case. The written evidence submitted to the court by [illegible], he says, "included a great deal of statistical information and documentation."

"The case fairly and squarely presents the issue of admissability" of UC's special program for minorities, he says. "The (U.S. Supreme) Court will find some way to rule without undermining the programs."

LEGAL ISSUES IN CALIFORNIA

The California Supreme Court's ruling in favor of Bakke was based on three conclusions. First, it ruled that Bakke was better qualified than the minority students admitted under UC-Davis's special program — a point disputed by UC.

Minority lawyers object to this conclusion, arguing that the standardized tests and grade point average that make up a good part of UC's criteria for admission are culturally biased against non-whites.

The court's second conclusion was the UC-Davis was not guilty of "past discrimination." The Supreme Court has often required proof of such past discrimination before ruling affirmative action programs constitutional.

In the case, UC took the position that it had not discriminated in the past — a stand that has led to the most bitter criticism from minorities, who believe it severely weakened UC's case.

They think UC could easily have proved past discrimination, but did not because it was unwilling to accuse itself publicly.

While the California Supreme Court was considering the case, the American Medical Students Association filed a brief pointing out that in the Davis Medical School's first year, 1968, it admitted no black or Chicano students, and the next year only one Chicano and two blacks were enrolled among a class of 50. Comparing this to the fact that blacks and Chicanos make up 20 per cent of California's population, the brief argued that Davis "had no choice but to take affirmative action to remedy the de facto segregation."

UC lawyer Reidhaar responds that although the school's use of test scores and grades resulted in "nearly all white classes," there was "never any intent on the part of the school to discriminate against minorities."

Other minority lawyers have argued that UC could have pointed to past discrimination in the elementary and secondary schools feeding into the University of California system.

James Bell, a spokesman for the Black Law Students Association at UC's Hastings College of Law, points to one reason UC may have taken its stand. "The UC Regents couldn't admit they discriminated in the past or they would have been subject to suits from Third World people," he charges.

Academy of Music
Northampton
Tonight & Tuesday! at 7:00 and 9:00
IT'S DOLLAR NIGHT!
Franco Zeffirelli
HIS FIRST FILM SINCE ROMEO & JULIET
"Brother Sun Sister Moon"
PROGRAM ENDS TUE!
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

CALVIN
Northampton 584-2310
NOW . . . thru TUES.
LED ZEPPELIN
"THE SONG REMAINS THE SAME"
Weeknites 7, 9:20
Sat., Sun. 4:40, 7, 9:20
Sat., Sun. Dollar Hour til 6 p.m.
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

university of massachusetts arts council
presents
Quartetto Italiano
The program will consist of QUARTET IN C MAJOR, OPUS 76, No. 3 ("Emperor") by Haydn, THREE PIECES FOR STRING QUARTET (1914) by Stravinsky, CONCERTINO FOR STRING QUARTET (1920) by Stravinsky and QUARTET IN D MINOR, D. 810 ("Death and the Maiden") by Schubert.
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets now on sale! $5, 4, 3. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

university of massachusetts arts council
presents
PILOBOLUS
DANCE THEATER
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 26 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets now on sale! $5, 4, 3. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
The Intimate P.D.Q. BACH
with Professor Peter Shickele
SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 27 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets now on sale! $7, 6, 5. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

Everybody's Market Place

CLASSIFIED ADS

To place a classified ad drop by the Collegian Office between 8 30a m and 3 45p m Monday thru Friday

The deadline is 3 45p m two days before your ad is to appear

The rates are
Daily 40 per line
Weekly 35 per line
Monthly 25 per line
(two lines on MDC form approximate one line

IF YOU CAN'T COME TO THE OFFICE CLIP OUT AND MAIL OUR SPEEDY CLASSIFIED AD FORM

FOR SALE

Exata VX, antique. $150 or will trade. Isaac, 253-2107, eves.

Yamaha FG 180, Guitar $125 or B.O. Call Daniel 3-7 p.m. 253-3887.

FOR SALE

4.5 cu. ft. refrigerator. $80. Pr. Frye boots, $25, sz. 8½m. Mike 253-9034.

Skis, 170cm, Rossi's Salomen bindings. Ex. cond. $65.00. 584-0549.

Drafting easel, board and T-square and drafting lamp. Call 549-3615.

Refrig. 5 cu. ft. Ex. cond. $100 549-1391.

Kastle GS skis, 200cm. $50. 546-4709.

F slalom ski outfit & nvy Hd. jack., sz. 10. 665-4188.

Gift Idea: Have your portrait drawn. Call Dennis Delap, 256-8732.

1 pr. of men's Bauer hockey skates, size 10. Call 6-8960.

New ski boots. Italian imports, polyurethane with flo-form linings. Most sizes, $35. After ski boots, $25. Call Sue 256-8641 evenings 7:00-10:30.

AUTO FOR SALE

'68 Catalina, hi mi. but runs well and reliable. $350. Peter Dwight 224. 5-2304.

TYPING

Typing — Reasonable rates — Dissertations, resumes, papers, etc. 549-6772.

ROOMMATE WANTED

1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. apt. for lease. $125—mo., utilities inc. Call 665-4235. Sunderland (female).

2 rooms — Montague. $85+. 772-0241, ext. 221 or 367-2375. Ask for Marian Perry.

Own room, $100 + util. M or F, on busline. Furn. Call 665-3493.

Female non-smoking, furn. room in N. Hadley. Country home, kitchen priv. 549-5683.

Own room. Share mod. apt. w-fml senior. $125 incl. util., sec. dep. Lease. A-cond. 549-1741 or 549-1352.

F roommate-own room in 3 bdroom house near Amh. Center and bus rt. $100-mo. Call after 6 p.m., 253-9640.

Roommate own room, $74 rent, $25 and utils. Sec. dep. w 2 oth. Guys Rvrgld. Bus Rte. Rich - 253-3690 Mssg.

Male to share 2½ rm. apt. share lg. bedroom, stove, refrig., Cbl. T.V. furnished. Lease to 5-31 $110-mo. Call 546-4177.

TO SUBLET

To sublet 2 bedroom Riverglade. $220 month. Call 253-2795 or 253-9866.

Sublet Immediately — 1 bedroom Puffton Village, wall to wall, morn. 549-6985.

FOR RENT

Well kept 1 bdrm. apt. Avail now. 1 mile Umass campus, bus route, $185, all utilities. Call 253-2515 or 546-1038.

University Women: Close to campus sorority is taking boarders. Great food. Call Liz or Dawn at 253-9215.

Beat the summer rush rentals. For a good deal and a good deal more $. Call 256-0144. P.M.

1 bdrm. apt. Puffton. Bus, air cond., d-wash, quiet. $205 month incl. all. 549-4596.

WANTED

Used fridge and hot plate. Call 6-5208

Wanted — Old abandoned cars for salvage or junk. Fair prices paid. 665-4546 after 6 p.m. A&S Salvage Inc.

Wanted: A queen or king size bed. Call 256-0144. P.M. Ask for Red.

Slide viewer or trade for calculator w-memory, sq. rt., per cent. Call 323-5163 aft 4.

Wanted: One hockey goalie. If you want to play Tues. night in Greenfield, call 6-6154 or 6-6143.

FREE

Free dog & cat. Love outdoors & kids. Dog is spayed & all shots. 549-4896, nites.

HELP WANTED

Alan Goldberg Tennis Pro needs assistant pro for part time summer employment. Teaching exp. required. Call nites 253-3683.

International women's week needs people power for publicity committee and children's programming! For more info. call Irene 545-3600.

PERSONALS

Hey 7 West Webster! Why is a basketball?? What's white and goes up? Not a bad choice, BIFFY!! Signed: The ronnc rabbit Fan Club.

To Micro-Bio students, come as a contagious germ to the Beaux Arts Ball Feb. 26.

Lay back and enjoy the Beaux Arts Ball Feb. 26.

To Heide & Company: What do you think, keep the buzz, Happy V.D. Spider.

INSTRUCTION

Low cost indoor tennis lessons. Individuals or groups, 253-7971.

LOST

Lg. black & white fluffy cat. Male, 1½ years old. Near Rvrgld. Apt. 256-6694. He is missed!

SERVICES

Job and application photos done. Exp. with art portfolio slides. Portraits for your Valentine. Contact: Steven at 546-9653 for an appt.

AUDIO

Quality audio components — over 130 lines including high—end; good advice, reasonable prices. Call Peter 665-2920.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators has low prices! All T. I. warr by me for 1 yr. SR-52 $199.95; SR-56 $84.95 ($10 rebate off this pr.); SR-40 $34.95, bus anal $34.95 — All HP's avail. HP-67 $389.95. Call and check our PR's. Call Bob Or Linda 549-1316!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

TRAVEL

Europe '77. No frills, student, teacher, charter flights — Global Travel, 521 5th Ave., N. Y., N. Y. 10017. 212-379-3532. Group rates.

WHAT'S HAPPENING

Earthfoods to open on Valentine's Day

Earthfoods is opening Valentine's Day. Starting Monday, Feb. 14, Earthfoods will be serving vegetarian lunches from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. and hot beverages and pastries from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Earthfoods is a student run collective that operates to provide an alternative eating experience on campus. We are located in the Commonwealth Room, across from the People's Market, in the Student Union. Come in and be the sparkle in our eyes. Earthfoods is open to the whole community.

Gamma Sigma Sigma seeks volunteers

Gamma Sigma Sigma, the National Service Sorority of the University of Massachusetts is a charity organization which seeks to help the University and the community through its projects. Service projects include working with the Red Cross Bloodmobile, Heart Fund Walk-a-Thons and raising money for charities such as Epilepsy. Anyone interested in Gamma Sigma Sigma is invited to attend a CoffeeHouse, Feb. 14 & 16, in the Cape Cod Lounge, from 7:30-9:30. Everyone is invited to drop in and talk with the sisters who will be there to answer questions.

Summer financial aid due by tomorrow

"To receive priority consideration for 1977-78 and Summer 1977 financial aid, applications must be filed by Tuesday, Feb. 15 Necessary application materials can be obtained at the Financial Aid Office, 243 Whitmore."

'Jesus' workshop to begin on Wed.

"Friendship with Jesus," a ten-week series of workshops designed to help people grow in a consistent relationship with Jesus in the power of the Holy Spirit will be offered Wednesdays at the Newman center beginning February 16th at 7:30 p.m. Sessions will be led by Ellen Reed and John Grennon.

Rampal tickets still available at FAC

Tickets are still available for the Friday evening performance of world famous flutists Jean-Pierre Rampal and his keyboard partner Robert Veyron-Lacroix. Their return engagement at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall Friday, February 18 is part of the concert series sponsored by the Fine Arts Center.

Flutists Rampal and Harpsichord and pianist Veyron-Lacroix will perform selections of Couperin, Mozart, Bach, Donizetti, Schumann and Beethoven.

Tickets for the Friday evening concert are presently on sale at the Fine Arts Center box office and all Ticketron outlets. Ticket prices are: general public, $6,5,4; UMass students $4,3,2; other students and senior citizens $5,4,3. The Fine Arts Center box office is open from 9 to 4 Monday through Friday. For more information call 545-2511.

Nominations sought for teaching award

Nominations are now being sought for the 1977-78 Distinguished Teacher Award to be awarded in September, 1978.

These are given to faculty members who have served three or more years at the University, and to teaching assistants-associates with no time restrictions on their service.

Any interested member of the University community is invited to submit a name and supporting statements for any teacher they feel is excellent.

Please address nominations to: Distinguished Teacher Awards Committee, Provost's Office, UMass, Amherst, Massachusetts 01003.

Peter Adair to show gay experience film

This Tuesday night at Hampshire College, San Francisco filmmaker Peter Adair will present a roughcut version of Who Are We?, a film concerning the homosexual experience of both men and women across America. The four hour film which is scheduled to be shown on national television this fall is still being edited and it is hoped that through this test screening audience feedback can be gathered so as to produce a better product. Robert Epstien, a graduate of Hampshire College is a member of the collective making the film. Several local gays are included in the film. It is being shown free of charge at 7:00 Tuesday February 15 at Hampshire's Main Lectural Hall. Everyone is welcome.

Meeting for year in Paris program tonite

All students interested in spending a year of study in Paris are invited to a meeting in the 3rd floor lounge of Herter at 2:30-3:00 p.m. on Tuesday Feb. 15. Prof. John MacCombie from UMB will be here to speak about the program sponsored and staffed by UMass and will answer all questions.

Men's Center radio 'Focus' topic tonite

Immediately following tonight's 10 p.m. news, WMUA (UMass radio, 91.1 FM) will air a discussion on the progress being made by the campus Men's Center, located in Kennedy Tower in the Southwest Residential Complex.

Moderator Kenneth Mosakowski's guest for the live, open forum will be Frank Dorman, co-coordinator of the Men's Center.

Interested listeners are invited to call in questions during the live broadcast.

Want to spend this summer at Oxford?

Summer plans for open travel and study at Oxford are available to all UMass students with a 3.0 average or higher or to graduate students. The English Department sponsors 13 courses offered at Trinity College, Oxford, from July 1 to August 13. Every course is taught by an Oxford person chiefly on a tutorial basis, with honors credit (four hours).

Transfer students just coming to UMass-Amherst and any others interested in travel and study in Europe should come to a briefing given by the Director, Ernest H. Hofer, Associate Dean of Humanities and Fine Arts, in the Third Floor Lounge of Herter Hall on Tuesday, February 22 at 4 p.m. The program uses the Five-College Pan American Charter, which leaves June 14 and returns August 19.

The cost of $1175.00 includes everything except personal travel once in Europe.

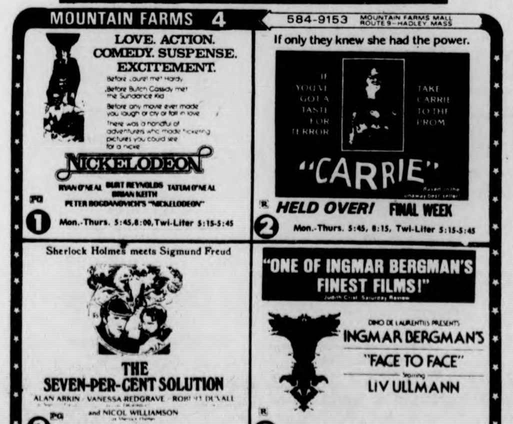
AMHERST Cinema
Amity St. 253-5426
FRANCOIS TRUFFAUT'S
"The Bride Wore Black"
with Jeanne Moreau
Plus
"Hitchcock Co-Feature"
Hitchcock Eves 7:00
Bride Eves. 9:00 Sat. & Sun. 5:00
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

UNITED TRANSMISSION EXCHANGE INC.
All make car and truck transmissions
Repaired - Rebuilt - Exchanged
King St., Northampton
584-6790

What is a Gamma Sigma Sigma Pledge?
Come to one of our coffee hours and find out!
Feb. 14 and Feb. 16 — 7:30-9:30 p.m.
in the Cape Cod Lounge
Gamma Sigma Sigma
National Service Sorority

The Pleasant St. Theater
The Finest in Foreign and Revival Film.
Two Documentary Events
The first Massachusetts showings of Frederick Wiseman's banned film
Titicut Follies
Feb. 14 & 15
at 2:30 & 4:30
Martha Coolidge's
Not a Pretty Picture
"Hits the target which Lipstick misses" — Ms. Magazine
and
Old Fashioned Women
Personal appearance by Martha Coolidge after the first showing Wed. evening.
Mon. & Wed. Evenings at 7 & 9:30
27 Pleasant St./Northampton 586-0935

SPARTAN
BRAKE AND MUFFLER SHOP
• BRAKES
• MUFFLERS
MUFFLER SERVICE
• SHOCKS
• TOWING AAA ALA
• 8 Pearl St Northampton 584-8531
TRUST YOUR CAR TO SPEEDY SPARTAN SPECIALISTS!



MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY MASS
LOVE. ACTION. COMEDY. SUSPENSE. EXCITEMENT.
Before Laurel met Hardy
Before Butch Cassidy met the Sundance Kid
Before any movie ever made you laugh or cry or fall in love
There was a handful of adventurers who made flickering pictures you could see for a nickel
NICKELODEON
RYAN O'NEAL BURT REYNOLDS TATUM O'NEAL BRIAN KEITH
PG
PETER BOGDANOVICH'S "NICKELODEON"
① Mon.-Thurs. 5:45,8:00, Twi-Liter 5:15-5:45
If only they knew she had the power.
IF YOU'VE GOT A TASTE FOR TERROR TAKE CARRIE TO THE PROM
"CARRIE"
R
HELD OVER! FINAL WEEK
② Mon.-Thurs. 5:45, 8:15, Twi-Liter 5:15-5:45
Sherlock Holmes meets Sigmund Freud
THE SEVEN-PER-CENT SOLUTION
ALAN ARKIN · VANESSA REDGRAVE · ROBERT DUVALL
and NICOL WILLIAMSON
PG
③ Mon.-Thurs. 6:00, 8:15, Twi-Liter 5:30-6:00
"ONE OF INGMAR BERGMAN'S FINEST FILMS!"
Judith Crist, Saturday Review
DINO DE LAURENTIIS PRESENTS
INGMAR BERGMAN'S
"FACE TO FACE"
Starring
LIV ULLMANN
R
④ Mon.-Thurs. 5:30, 8:00, Twi-Liter 5:00-5:30
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS ... LIMITED TO SEATING

DC menu

Today
Lunch — Hot Beef Sandwich-Gravy, Egg Foo Young with Sweet & Sour Sauce; Basics: Cheese Nut Loaf with Mushroom Sauce; Egg Foo Young.
Dinner — Fried Chicken, Seafood Newburgh; Basics; Fried Chicken, Eggplant Parmigiana.
Tomorrow
Lunch — Southern Beef & Noodle Cass, Knockwurst with Sauerkraut, Basics: Boston Baked Soybeans, Scalloped Noodles and Tomatoes.
Dinner — Cube Steak, Corned Beef, Basics, Baked Fish, Three Bean Loaf.

OPENINGS FOR SCER BOARD OF DIRECTORS
SCER has four open "at large" positions for its Board of Directors. Only undergraduate students are eligible. The SCER Board is totally responsible for setting priorities and evaluating the SCER professional staff. It will meet at least twice a month and applicants are expected to remain on the Board throughout the Spring semester.
SCER is funded by the Student Government Association as the nation's first student funded, student controlled teaching and research program. It employs two full time professionals, up to 20 work study students and offers educational programs that include up to 40 credit earning students per semester.
SCER also provides a "Critical Studies Resource Center" which is a comprehensive library of documents, periodicals and pamphlets related to the University, how it works, and how it can be changed.
The deadline for Board applications is Thursday, February 17th at 4:00 p.m. SCER is committed to the University's affirmative action policies and to fighting sexism and racism at UMASS. Women and Third World undergraduates are especially urged to apply.
Applications are available at the SCER office.
scer STUDENT CENTER FOR EDUCATIONAL RESEARCH
406 STUDENT UNION
545-2892

NOTICES

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

There will be a meeting of Alpha Phi Omega, National Service Fraternity, tonight, Feb. 14, at 7:30. The meeting will be held in rm. 805-809 of the CC. All interested students are welcome.

ATTENTION POLOISTS

Practice has started. It would be nice to see some of you at Boyden every nite at 6:00! New members always welcome. Bring dues.

BETA CHI

General meeting tonight 7:30 p.m., Commuter Lounge S.U. Phil Carrigan to speak on personal hygiene and dress.

CONCERNED MEN

Are invited to join a group of sensitive men to explore issues in Gay sexuality at 7:00 p.m. tonight in S.U.B. 422.

DEMOCRACY AND THE STRUGGLE FOR SOCIALISM

Profs Herb Gintis and Sam Bowles of the Economics Dept. will speak on the topic, "Democracy and the Struggle for Socialism" on Thurs., Feb. 18 at 8 p.m. — Thompson Hall 104. Sponsered by Socialist Educator Comm. (Economics Graduate Students).

FENCING CLUB

Fencing Club meeting, very important, Monday, at NOPE, rm. 8 at 2:15. Any questions call Jean 549-0303.

FOUND

A woman's wristwatch outside of Boyden. Call 546-7637.

GREAT FREE FLICK

"TIDIKAWA AND FRIENDS" will be shown in the second presentation of the bi-weekly Anthropology Film Series. Unusually fine cinematography, used to illustrate life in a New Guinea village. Tuesday, Feb. 15; 8 p.m.; Thompson Hall 102. FREE

HOW TO GET ACTION ON ENVIRONMENTAL PROBLEMS

Dr. Hiam Gunner of Environmental Sciences Dept. will discuss how to get support for environmental issues. Feb. 14, CC 904. 7:30.

JEWISH COOKING

Last call to join creative group working on the art of Jewish cooking. Call either Eliot at 253-3968 or Doug at 323-7219.

JEWISH GRAD STUDENTS

There will be a meeting of Jewish graduate students at 5 p.m. Tuesday at S.U. 302. Social events will be planned.

LAST CHANCE!

If you haven't been to Phonothon '77 yet, you're missing a good time! This is the last week of calling, amidst free food and beer. So come join us for an evening at Memorial Hall — we'll be there through Thurs. night. For more info. call Joseph or MaryEllen at 545-2317.

LOST

St. John's Prep Class of 1975 ring (gold). Has value only for me. Please return! Call Mike 546-1116 — keep trying!! Lost Wed. night, Feb. 9th.

LOST

Gold woman's watch Gerard-Peregaux. Reward. Please call 546-7658.

LOST

High school ring. Please call 546-5262.

LS&S AND PARK ADMINISTRATION MAJORS

There will be a meeting tomorrow night Tues. at 7 p.m. in rm. 170. Come and find out about what the Rec. Society is doing.

MOVIE: AMERICA, I LOVE YOU!

American Jewry as viewed by Israelis. Free. Thompson 102, 8:00. All welcome!

OFF THE HOOK

Bill Files of WMUA Public Affairs will host Peter Ryder from Mass. PIRG. They will be exploring the seemingly deceptive advertising policies of MA BELL. Tune in at 6:20 p.m. and call in with questions and comments at 545-2876.

OUTING CLUB

Tonight at 7 p.m. in CC 165-9 there will be a slide show of the intersession trip out west. Visit such varied places as Hollywood and the High Sierras in Sequoia National Park. ALL ARE WELCOME!

THE WAY OF HARMONY AND SPIRIT

The UMass Aikido Club meets Wednesday and Friday evenings at 6:30 and Sunday at 2:00 in the wrestling room at Boyden gym. ALL are cordially invited to participate, beginners welcome.

WOODSWOMEN

Have fun, learn outdoor skills. No experience necessary. Come see what this intercollegiate team is all about! Tues. 2-15, 7:30 p.m. First floor CC (bottom of escalators).

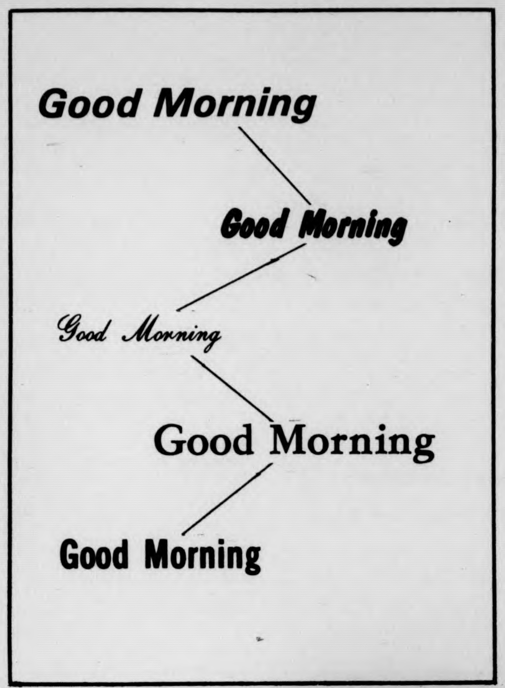
Jibberish in the 5 College Area

By ANN MURPHY
Collegian Staff

The differences in the 'jive' at the colleges just might be reasons for one to 'lose the handle' on the story. Are there differences from college to college on the 'hep lingo?' Does one's thing effect one's language. Ann Murphy went for a spin around the valley to see what's happening. 'So check it out'.

The students of the five-college community of UMass-Amherst, Amherst, Mount Holyoke, Smith, and Hampshire are thought to be different from each other and are stereotyped by the school they attend. A story which details this has been circulating through the campuses.

A professor at Amherst, a small prestigious college says "Good morning class", and they say "Prove it". At Hampshire, an experimental unstructured college, a professor says "Good morning class", and they say "That's far out man". At Mount Holyoke, a former seminary for girls, they respond in harmony and sweetness "Good morning teacher." At Smith, another traditional women's school for the elite. they say "Will you marry me?" As UMass, the student melting pot of the state, they say "Do we have to know that for the exam?"



Good Morning
Good Morning
Good Morning
Good Morning
Good Morning

More than 100 students from these varying college populations were asked in a scientifically constructed questionaire their slang words for moods and behavior, types of people, and academic matters.

The greatest variety of expressions came from UMass students mirroring their diverse backgrounds. Students at the smaller schools are more socially and academically segregated and more of their expressions were similar.

The students from the elite schools might also be more image conscious. For instance, Amherst, Smith and Mt. Holyoke didn't volunteer many words for drugs. This could indicate that they don't use drugs, or that they are reluctant to give information harmful to their schools and their own images.

Hampshire College students, however, more concerned with breaking away from the usual rules and norms of a traditional college, volunteered more drug use language than the other private schools.

High remains the most popular words for a positive response to drugs but students gave other terms such as: getting off, on their way, and waiting to get off, suggesting that they know of the effects from taking a drug. Also given were spaced-out, space cadet, and in orbit, which are not surprising considering a generation brought up watching satellite and rocket launchings.

The munchies and munching-out were described as the after effects from smoking marijuana.

Some of the expressions for being drunk on beer or hard liquor gave images of destroying the body: off the wall, wasted, rolling in the gutters, twisted, and ko'd. Shit-faced is the most popular expression. Could it have originated from the expression "He had a shit-eating grin on his face"? Bombed and loaded are the next most popular.

The word juicing for drinking alcoholic beverages is noted to be fraternity talk from both Amherst and UMass fraternities. Juice is much more effective in a situation where fraternity brothers are pressuring their pledges into initiation. For instance, "You're not gonna be a Tappa Kegga Beer brother until you learn to juice!"

At UMass a non-drinker was referred to as straight or an arrow, but Amherst College gave the words turkey and nerd suggesting the social approval of drinking and disapproval of one who does not indulge.

The main term for sexual arousal on campus as well as off was horny, but a Hampshire student turned this term into a feminine noun which sounds like an insect attack, to have a case of the hornettes.

The act of necking didn't suggest many slang terms. Make-out was largely used by Mt. Holyoke and Smith. UMass gave mug it up. A romanticist from Amherst gave, to embrace in long passionate kisses.

For the simple act of going to bed, not sexual, hit the sack was the most common UMass expression and hit the rack was distinctive of Amherst, Mt. Holyoke, and Smith.

Puke is the common word for vomiting at UMass, where at Amherst boot is a favorite. Barf was given from Mt. Holyoke, Smith and Hampshire. Puke, now considered slang, is an old word dating back to 1737 in the Old English Dictionary. Some colorful terms for vomiting are: blow cookies, toss breakfast, blow lunch and holding the john together.

Catching the rays is popular with students, especially during exams when there are ten books to memorize and three papers to write in two days. This leisure activity is otherwise known as sunbathing.

Slang words describing different types of people again differed between the image of men and women in the society.

Stud was given by both sexes for a sexually attractive male and fox for a female.

Pig-out, pork-out, and wolf-down were given to describe excessive eating. Food and sex are two favorite things with college students and when an uncontrollable urge for one of these arises they lable their actions animalistic as seen from these words.

Most words defining men as sexually expert are positive and normal such as: good performer. Words for sexually expert women were less patronizing and more judgmental such as: whore, loose and been around, indicative of the old double standard.

A well dressed person was described by a Hampshire student as a disco-kid which reflects the recent popularity of discotheques and the flashy clothes worn by disco goers. Amherst and Smith gave preppy for well dressed.

Amherst students gave useless as a demeaning word for a person. At this socially competitive school being useless by this standard suggests the opposite of being ambitious which is supposedly the right way to be.

UMass men gave more derogatory terms for an ugly female than UMass women gave way for an ugly male. Dog was most common. Further references to dogs about ugly women are: barker, bow-wow, hound and beast.

The use of out is very common in college slang such as bum-out, freak-out, pig-out and zonk-out. This connotes the ultimate feeling of the experience being talked about which is popular philosophy among college students: to get the most out of life, and everything that happens to you is a real experience.

Language is a part of an individual unique from any other person. The questionaires were all answered differently. However people adopt the speech forms of the persons they come in contact with the most and then change them to fit their own personality.

Women College Graduates

As a woman Air Force ROTC student, you compete for your commission on the same footing as the men in your class. And later on you wear the same insignia.

There are two-year, three-year, and four-year scholarship programs available to help you get there. If you enroll in the four-year Air Force ROTC program you also qualify to compete for a scholarship for the remaining two or three years as a cadet. Tuition is covered, fees are paid, textbook costs reimbursed . . . plus $100 a month, tax free.

Call Major Richardson at 545-2437

Air Force ROTC
Gateway to a Great
Way of Life

Appearing Tonite
Chris Rhodes
Tues. & Wed.
Doc Watson
AT
The rusty nail Inn
Rte. 47, Sunderland
665-4937

CLOG Headquarters
the SHOE-BIN
"OPEN FRIDAY NITES"
AMHERST, MASS.

Introductory Lecture
Wed. Feb 16
7:30 pm Herter 225
for more info call 549-5335

© 1976 World Plan Executive Council — U.S.
All rights reserved
Transcendental Meditation™ is a service mark of WPEC a nonprofit educational organization

THE HUNGRY-U
PIZZAS & SUBS
"We Deliver"
call 256-0473
103 N. Pleasant St.

FREE CHEESECAKE & SODA
with purchase of Large Combination Pizza
FREE SODA WITH A SMALL PIZZA
Offer Good Mon. 2-14 - Fri. 2-18
DELIVERIES ONLY

Local Television

8:00 3 CHARLIE BROWN'S VALENTINE
8 40 THE CAPTAIN AND TENNILLE SHOW
22 30 LITTLE HOUSE ON THE PRAIRIE "To Live With Fear"
24 BASKETBALL-CANISIUS VS. FAIRFIELD
57 MEETING OF THE MINDS
8:30 3 BUSTING LOOSE
18 POP GOES THE COUNTRY
9:00 3 MAUDE
8 40 ABC MONDAY NIGHT MOVIE "How The West Was Won" Part III.
18 NHL HOCKEY LEAGUE
22 30 NBC MONDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES "The Sunshine Boys"
57 THE PALLISERS
9:30 3 ALL'S FAIR
10:00 3 THE ANDROS TARGETS
24 THE PALLISERS
27 NEWS
57 WORLD IN ACTION
10:30 27 JOURNEY TO ADVENTURE
57 WOMAN
10:45 38 MOVIE "Glory Brigade"
11:00 3 8 24 40 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS
56 DARK SHADOWS
57 MARY HARTMAN, MARY HARTMAN
11:15 22 30 NEWS
11:30 3 CBS LATE MOVIE "Kojak: Deliver Us Some Evil"
8 40 THE STREETS OF SAN FRANCISCO-DAN AUGUST
56 NIGHT GALLERY
57 CAPTIONED ABC EVENING NEWS
11:45 22 30 JOHNNY CARSON SHOW
12:00 18 DR. SCOTT ON HEBREWS

Your Birthday by Stella Wilder

Monday, February 14— Born today, you are one of those highly discerning individuals who is able to distinguish in almost all things the good from the bad, the wheat from the chaff, without a great deal of study or time. You possess a certain restlessness of nature, however, that may keep you from employing your talent for discernment to the best of your ability. You enjoy movement of all kinds -- and, thus, you enjoy change. Indeed, you seem to need change for your own personal satisfaction and feelings of well-being. On the other hand, you are wise enough to follow through on a good thing, keeping under control your basic desire for innovation, reconstruction, and the like.

It is quite possible that you will become involved in a number of endeavors over the period of a lifetime that are not particularly suited either to your basic aims or your innate talents. Such involvements may well cause you to experience failure -- indeed, perhaps even failure so utter that you are cast down in spirits to the point of actual depression. You are wise in your choice of friends, however, and it is through them that you will be able to rise again and to take hold of your own life once more, following your own bents and achieving your own success.

You enjoy associations with members of the opposite sex and it would not be at all surprising to find you married at an age when most young people are still contemplating fleeing the parental nest.

* * *

Tuesday, February 15

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — A conflict between you and a co-worker makes this a difficult day for all concerned. Resolutions fall flat.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Cling to your own sense of purpose and you won't have any difficulty reconciling what you do with what you think. Direct others in the afternoon.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Seek intervals of solitude today. This is a good time for demonstrating for others your ability to be by yourself, doing your own "thing."

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — A word to the wise is sufficient: place a guard upon your tongue today. What you deserve may not be quite what you achieve at evening.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — The personal freedom you insist upon for yourself may be at stake. Take steps to secure your own future. Career matters loom large in the evening.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Though others may not welcome you as you wish they would, you must nevertheless seek their company. Your career may depend upon it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Take care that in turning your attentions to matters essential to the immediate future, you don't in some way forfeit goals far off in time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — You will have to be willing to trim your sails before another will consider a partnership. Think carefully before making a decision.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Surprise effort on the part of another may make this day more of a success for you than you had any right to expect.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Changes in the morning schedule are necessary to the success of afternoon and evening. Transmit a message of importance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — You should find a ready and willing partner in your efforts to do a good deed today. Seek a companion who knows you well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Be prepared to change your mind about another. You may have been harboring beliefs that simply won't stand up under scrutiny.

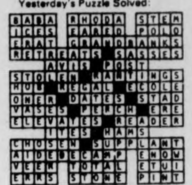
Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

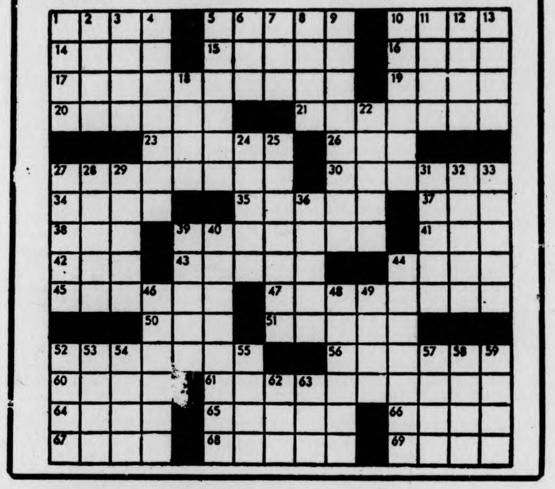
Today's Crossword

ACROSS
1 Middle East monarch
5 Coin toss call
10 Study
14 Texas city
15 English village
16 Irish lake
17 Gaseous envelope
19 Pronoun
20 "Room at ---- ----"
21 Unseated
23 Mountain nymph
26 Subject
27 The briny: 2 words
30 Upraises
34 State of misery
35 Crowded together
37 Aesthetic value
38 Airline for Erie, Pa.
39 Get --- ----: Be fired
41 Baked food
42 Falsehood
43 Epoxy, for one
44 "---- Smith's Blues"
45 Leguminous plant
47 Happened
50 Japanese sash
51 Sinew
52 While on the contrary
56 Making less onerous
60 Hindu spring festival
61 ----- ----- and bacon: Breakfast dish
64 "I cannot tell ---- ----"
65 On every side
66 Actress ---- May Whitty
67 Oblong and pekoe
68 Inclines
69 Sufficient: Archaic

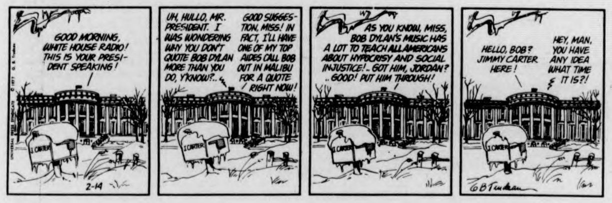
DOWN
1 Quick blow
2 Archaic verb
3 Summit
4 Nocturnal bird: 2 words
5 Auto engine part
6 Oleaceous tree
7 Diamond: Slang
8 Title of nobility
9 Most precipitous
10 Distant in time
11 Goddess of discord
12 ---- of Cleves
13 Act
18 Bird
22 Menu item
24 Yellow-fever mosquito
25 Part of the ionosphere
27 Shuck
28 Hair-raising
29 Foreign
31 Capricious action
32 Banal
33 Spirited horse
36 V.P. John ----- Garner
39 Native group
40 Relating to the sun
44 Exercise control
46 Certain Can. politicians
48 Heraldic figures
49 Grapelike
52 ---- if: Suppose that
53 Excavation
54 Charles lamb
55 Quien ----?: Who knows: Sp.
57 Russian name
58 Thread: Prefix
59 Increased in size
62 Mauna ---
63 Source of pleasure

Yesterday's Puzzle Solved:



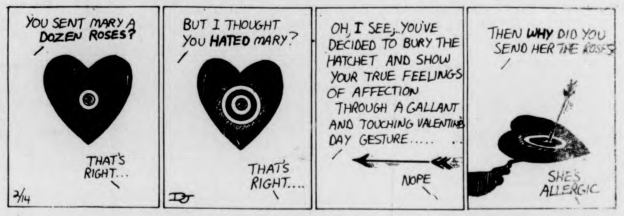


Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau



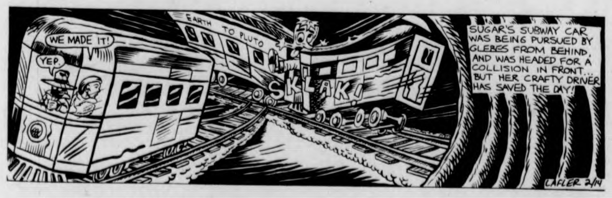
GOOD MORNING, WHITE HOUSE RADIO! THIS IS YOUR PRESIDENT SPEAKING!
UH, HULLO, MR. PRESIDENT. I WAS WONDERING WHY YOU DON'T QUOTE BOB DYLAN MORE THAN YOU DO, Y'KNOW?..
GOOD SUGGESTION, MISS! IN FACT, I'LL HAVE ONE OF MY TOP AIDES CALL BOB OUT IN MALIBU FOR A QUOTE RIGHT NOW!
AS YOU KNOW, MISS, BOB DYLAN'S MUSIC HAS A LOT TO TEACH ALL AMERICANS ABOUT HYPOCRISY AND SOCIAL INJUSTICE!.. GOT HIM, JORDAN? ..GOOD! PUT HIM THROUGH!
HELLO, BOB? JIMMY CARTER HERE!
HEY, MAN, YOU HAVE ANY IDEA WHAT TIME IT IS?!
J. CARTER
2-14
GBTrudeau

What Next? by Dick Janssen



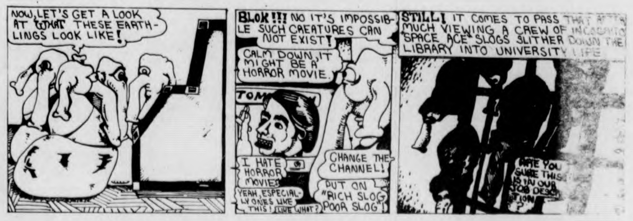
YOU SENT MARY A DOZEN ROSES?
THAT'S RIGHT...
BUT I THOUGHT YOU HATED MARY?
THAT'S RIGHT....
OH, I SEE;..YOU'VE DECIDED TO BURY THE HATCHET AND SHOW YOUR TRUE FEELINGS OF AFFECTION THROUGH A GALLANT AND TOUCHING VALENTINE DAY GESTURE.....
NOPE
THEN WHY DID YOU SEND HER THE ROSES?
SHE'S ALLERGIC
2/14

Aluminum Ghost by Steve Lafler



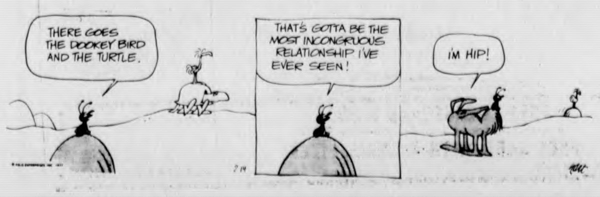
WE MADE IT!
YEP.
EARTH TO PLUTO
SKLAK!
SUGAR'S SUBWAY CAR WAS BEING PURSUED BY GLEBES FROM BEHIND, AND WAS HEADED FOR A COLLISION IN FRONT... BUT HER CRAFTY DRIVER HAS SAVED THE DAY!
LAFLER 2/14

U.Mutations by Marty Maceda



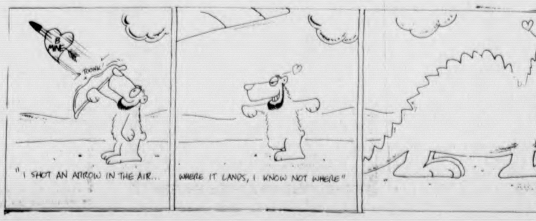
NOW, LET'S GET A LOOK AT WHAT THESE EARTHLINGS LOOK LIKE!
BLOK!!! NO IT'S IMPOSSIBLE SUCH CREATURES CAN NOT EXIST!
CALM DOWN, IT MIGHT BE A HORROR MOVIE.
I HATE HORROR MOVIES
YEAH, ESPECIALLY ONES LIKE THIS!
LIKE WHAT?
CHANGE THE CHANNEL!
PUT ON "RICH SLOG POOR SLOG"
STILL! IT COMES TO PASS THAT AFTER MUCH VIEWING A CREW OF INCOGNITO SPACE ACE SLOGS SLITHER DOWN THE LIBRARY INTO UNIVERSITY LIFE
ARE YOU SURE THIS IS IN OUR JOB DESCRIPTION?

B.C. by Johnny Hart



THERE GOES THE DOOKEY BIRD AND THE TURTLE.
THAT'S GOTTA BE THE MOST INCONGRUOUS RELATIONSHIP I'VE EVER SEEN!
I'M HIP!
2-14

The Scent of Man by Peter Tolan



B MINE
"I SHOT AN ARROW IN THE AIR...
WHERE IT LANDS, I KNOW NOT WHERE"

ermen swamped powerful UVM

'K MARCHAND
Staff

the UMass men's swim eds is more swimmers like oker, Russ Yarworth, and oucher.

three alone have done an 50 per cent of the for the mermen this year was the case on Saturday when the Minutemen defeated by powerful of Vermont, 79-35, at Pool.

lack of talented and ed swimmers was further in the meet when senior Dave Boucher was sit out due to an illness. ermen were capable of first in only four out of vents on the agenda. Of ents, two of them were nior Russ-Yarworth, who field in the 50-yard free- 23.0 clip and won the 200- ckstroke with a time of should also be noted that came within mere of a second to breaking ol records in both those ther UMass wins came en Crooker placed first in yard freestyle with a time 5 and when senior diver nnino garnered top honors ne-meter diving event. another record almost bit the dust when Crooker missed setting a new mark in the 1,000-yard freestyle by 0.6 seconds.

The win boosted Vermont's record to 4-3 on the year while dropping the Minutemen's log to 3-5.

"We really have an average team," said Russ Leggett, a modest Vermont coach. His team has swum against some of the top powers in New England this season and are really better than its record indicates.

"It's very frustrating after the season we had last year," lamented UMass mentor Bei Melamed. "We had some of our swimmers turn in their best times ever and some near record breaking performances but it simply wasn't enough." Melamed is very limited by his sparse roster and wasn't helped by the absence of Boucher.

A swimmer himself, having competed in two Olympics, Melamed entered himself in the 200-yard butterfly event as an unofficial entry and beat everybody hands down as he turned in an excellent time of 2:30.0. Having been out of competition for quite a while and not really working out regularly, one would not expect Melamed to turn in a time better than the UMass record, but he did.

The mermen's next action is Tuesday night when they face powerful Coast Guard at Boyden Pool at 7:00 p.m.

UMass sports scoop

FRIDAY'S RESULTS
SITY HOCKEY — Bowdoin 7 UMass 3
SITY WRESTLING — Princeton 30 UMass 9

SATURDAY'S RESULTS
SITY MEN'S BASKETBALL — UMass 77 Rhode Island 63
SITY WOMEN'S BASKETBALL — UMass 89 Fitchburg State

SITY HOCKEY — UMass 3 Colby 1
SITY WRESTLING — UMass 42 Fairleigh Dickinson 7
MEN'S VARSITY GYMNASTICS — UMass 143.25 Temple
75
'S VARSITY GYMNASTICS — UMass 193.05 Navy 187.6
'S VARSITY SWIMMING — Vermont 79 UMass 35
'S JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL — UMass 73 Harvard 72
MEN'S JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL — UMass 75 Fitchburg State 34
OR VARSITY HOCKEY — Boston College 6 UMass 4

TODAY
None

ni-hoopmen rally

H ECKEL
n Staff

McDonough's clutch three-play with 34 seconds capped a furious UMass ketball team rally and the Minutemen to an come-from-behind 73-72 over Harvard at the Cage night.

nough's hoop culminated a ch saw UMass eliminate a deficit in the last 13:25 of 1 seconds remaining and , 73-70, Harvard's Kevin in coverted two free pull the Crimson within ther team cashed in on ities from there, however, Bob Berman missed the of a one-and-one and was detected for a three olation.

Minutemen regained and with 11 seconds guard Willie Morgan was y fouled, but he too felt re. Morgan failed to hit his two free throws, rvard the last chance to e contest.

son rushed the ball over nd signaled for a time to set up the last shot. he strategy, it backfired. eman defense forced a heave from the right ch fell short just as the nded.

y began when Umass devastating full-court press which forced the Crimson into commiting numerous turnovers and pulled the Minutemen to within striking distance.

Five quick hoops by hot-shooting Berman, (22 pts.) combined with two buckets from forward Irv McKnight, and another from McDonough pulled UMass to within five at 59-52.

The Minuteman press continued to wreak havoc in the Crimson backcourt, forcing Harvard into three consecutive turnovers which UMass capitalized on. Finally with 7:09 left, Berman, hit yet another jumper to propel the JV's into their first lead since the opening minutes of play, 60-59.

Both teams then traded baskets until the final minute.

"We won this one on sheer desire," said an obviously delighted coach Ray Ricketss after the game. "The press brought us right back into the game. It was a great team effort and the crowd didn't hurt us any either," he added.

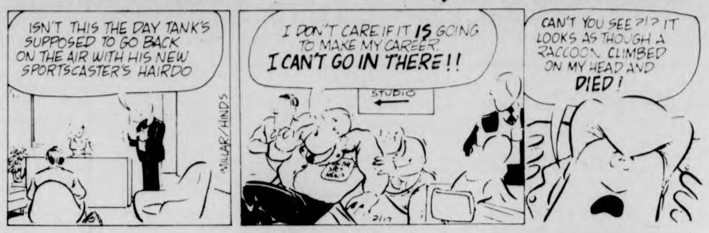
The Minutemen played a lackadasical first half and payed for it as they went into intermission trailing, 43-28.

"We were asleep, Ricketts said, "but I woke them up with a few choice words at halftime."

Morgan, Berman and McDonough combined for 51 points, while McKnight added an outstanding night under the boards, grabbing 10 rebounds along with adding some timely shooting.

The JV's record climbed to 4-1 while Harvard's record fell to 12-2.

TANK McNAMARA by Jeff Millar & Bill Hinds



ISN'T THIS THE DAY TANK'S SUPPOSED TO GO BACK ON THE AIR WITH HIS NEW SPORTSCASTER'S HAIRDO
MILLAR/HINDS
I DON'T CARE IF IT IS GOING TO MAKE MY CAREER, I CAN'T GO IN THERE!!
STUDIO
CAN'T YOU SEE?!? IT LOOKS AS THOUGH A RACCOON CLIMBED ON MY HEAD AND DIED!

JV icemen shine in defeat; lose toughie to Eagles, 6-4

By SUSAN FAY
Collegian Staff

If ever a loss can be called encouraging, this one can. Because when the UMass JV hockey team skated onto the ice against a classy Boston College team Saturday afternoon, they almost skated off with an upset.

Although the final score was 6-4, the game was tied at four going into the last five and a half minutes. Then, BC's John Klapman took a pass from a teammate, and put the puck in the left side of net past the gloved hand of Minuteman goalie Paul McCann. Seconds later, the Eagles added an insurance goal when Tim Driscoll shot the puck in at nearly the same place.

The first period was a tribute to both the fine offensive and defensive play of the Minutemen. Starting goalie Tim Haggarty was tested early in the period, when he faced a BC power play and turned away four good Eagle shots. He shone throughout his 30-minute share of play.

UMass' Gene Crowley put his team in the lead at 6:38 of the first period when, leaning far to his right, he scored a beauty of a goal. He was assisted on the play by Rich Riccioli and Ken Richards.

Two minutes later Scott Alexander and Tom O'Shea brought cheers from the crowd with their scintillating goal. The puck went ahead to O'Shea, who crossed the blue line, took his time and passed it to Alexander, who lifted it past the BC netminder. UM's lead was cut to 2-1 when BC took advantage of a power play resulting from a charging call on Riccioli.

The second period opened in seesaw fashion, with the Eagles tying it at 1:34, the Minutemen answering that goal at 1:55 (O'Shea from Bobby LaRoche and Doug Limone), and Driscoll knotting it up again a minute later when he slid the puck past a fallen Haggarty.

Play got rough and chippy in the second period, with the game becoming more exciting as the action moved from end to end. The Eagles went ahead on another 'inexpensive' goal — the puck just dribbled past the UMass goalie. But, on the second of two consecutive power plays, UMass' Jim Phelan put a backhand shot past Cronin to tie it, 4-4.

UMass coach Russ Kidd on the game: "We gathered ourselves together and got our self-respect back. We had a good practice Friday and played the game the way it should be played."

There were other stellar moments for UMass. In the first period, smooth-skating Dean Liacos made a classy move at the blue line, only to bang a shot off the left post. The Minutemen were getting chances in front of the goal, something they had not been doing in the past.

The defeat lowered the Minutemen's record to 2-8 and raised BC's mark to 16-2-4.

Notices

JV BASEBALL — There will be an organizational meeting for all JV baseball candidates on Tuesday night at 7 p.m. in room 249 Boyden.

FENCING CLUB — Today at 2:15 in 8 NOPE, the fencing club will hold a very important meeting. If you have any questions call Sean at 549-0303.

INTRAMURALS — Co-Rec bowling entries are due Wednesday, Feb. 16. Remember the $6.00 fee.

MEETING — There will be a sports editors meeting this afternoon at 3 p.m. in Room 103 Campus Center.

JOBS
Work-Study Positions
Available in
* STUDENT TICKET OFFICE
* STUDENT SERVICES RESEARCH
To apply you must
*complete an application in the student senate office (420 SUB)
and
Come to an interview at
7:00 p.m. Tuesday Feb. 15
Room 168 Campus Center
Equal Opportunity Employer

PRINT SALE!
Today and Tomorrow ONLY
Outside the University Store
10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.
Fantastic reproductions
in full color, poster-size for
$2.75 each or two for $5.00
All your favorite artists including:
• Picasso • Renoir • Dali • Cezanne • Van Gogh
• Klee • Wyeth • Magritte • Chagall • Miro
• Calder • Breughel Degas • Vasarely • Etc.
A choice selection of high quality, beautifully clear prints reproduced to match the original work of art as nearly as possible.
Over 400 different titles! Duplicates of good numbers...BUT we'll sell out fast, so come early and get the prints you want.

Gymmen win third straight; top Midshipmen in Annapolis

By NICK KOTSOPOULOS
Collegian Staff

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — After an eight hour ride and restless night's sleep, the University of Massachusetts men's gymnastics team managed to pull together in the final three events and defeat Navy, 193.05-187.3 in a meet held Saturday afternoon at the Navy field house.

The victory was the third straight for the Minutemen, who now sport a 5-2 overall season record and a 2-1 record in the Eastern Collegiate Gymnastics League.

Prior to Saturday's meet against the Midshipmen, UMass coach Dick Swetman said that his team should score over 200 points and have little trouble in beating Navy. However, such was not the case.

"It was a very long drive down there," Swetman said. We drove eight hours straight and the next day in the meet, the guys seemed very scattered in their drive in the outset."

Not only did the Minutemen have to contend with the long trip, but they had to put up with poor accommodations the night before the meet.

"The sleeping accommodations were really bad," said freshman Bob Donoghue. "It was hot, the beds were uncomfortable and it was too noisy to get any sleep."

The uderdog Midshipmen caught the Minutemen off-guard in the first three events of the meet and surprisingly made the meet very close, but as if somebody turned on a light switch, the UMass gymmen came on strong in the last three events to win.

"I thought we were a little tight for the meet," said still-ring performer Mike DiMuro. "After the long drive down and the bad conditions we had to put up with, I think a lot of us just wanted to go out there and get the meet over with and get back home."

Although their all-around men did not have one of their better days, the Minutemen still managed to place its all-arounders in the top spot.

Paul and Steve Marks led the Minutemen with 49 points apiece, followed by Angelo Scuderi with 48.

"I thought that Donoghue did a fine job for us," Swetman said. "He had a strong 8.0 performance in the parallel bars, which was his best of the season."

"Scuderi also turned in another strong performance as he did a double-back sommersault in his floor-exercise routine, a really difficult routine."

The Minutemen will now busily prepare for their next meet scheduled for Thursday night, when they travel to Southern Connecticut, which according to Swetman is one of the top gymnastic teams in the East and in the country.

The UMass men's gymnastics team put its best foot forward this weekend as it defeated Navy. (Staff photo by Dave Rosenthal)

...while women amass140; overpower Temple with ease

By PAT MCGRATH
Collegian Staff

140. That number may not mean much to most people, but for the members of the UMass women's gymnastic's team, it signifies the goal that has eluded them for a long, long time. The Minutewomen finally broke through the 140 point barrier as they overpowered Temple University by a score of 143.25-121.75 at the Cage on Saturday.

In amassing this record-breaking total, the gymwomen captured first place in three of the four all-around events and placed three women in the top four positions.

The 143.25 score was the highest in UMass women's gymnastics history, and assistant coach John Calibria had this to say about the victory:

"This team was fantastic. We'll be hitting that 145 soon!"

Junior Stephanie Jones and captain Jill Heggie battled for top honors in the all-around competition once again as their brilliant performances captivated the near-capacity crowd.

Heggie came out on top with a total score of 37.25. She performed extremely well in each event, with her lowest score of 9.0 coming on the balance beam. The captain captured first in the floor exercise with an outstanding routine that earned her a 9.5. Heggie placed second in each of the three remaining all-around events.

Jones placed second in the all-around with a score of 36.75. Her best performance came on the uneven parallel bars where she earned a 9.5, much to the delight of the partisan fans. She also finished in the number one spot with a 9.1 on the balance beam. Jones was second in the floor exercise with a score of 9.2, while her lowest score was a respectable 8.95 in vaulting.

Debbie Barnes of Temple was third in the all-around competition. She placed first in vaulting with a 9.4, and was the visitor's most solid competitor.

Junior Susan Cantwell finished fourth in the all-around competition. She scored a 9.1 in vaulting, an 8.3 for her bar routine, a 6.95 on the balance beam, and gave a fine performance in the floor exercise that earned her an 8.95 for a total of 33.3.1. Cheryl Morrier, UMass' fourth all-around competitor, nabbed fifth place with an average of 7.75 per event for a total of 31.0.

In summary: In vaulting, the Minutewomen finished in the second through seventh positions. Besides Heggie, Cantwell, and Jones, Karen Hemberger placed fifth with an 8.8, Diane Laurenson was next with an 8.6, and Cheryl Morrier rounded out the UMass scoring with an 8.5. On the unevens, Karen Hemberger placed fourth with an 8.7 and Jean Anderson scored an 8.5 with a strong, new routine. Julie Myers competed in two events, earning a 7.25 on the beam and a strong 8.4 for her floor exercise. Barbara Burmeister placed fifth on the beam with a solid 8.05.

Now that the UMass women's gymnastics team has surpassed the 140 point mark, it is a solid contender for national honors. Coach Virginia Evans was extremely pleased with her team's performance.

"We were terrific! We are ready to go higher," she said.

AN ODYSSEY of SOUND record sales
RECORD SALE
$1.98 to $14.98
Mfg. List $3.98 to $27.98
ROCK
JAZZ
BLUES
FOLK CLASSICAL
at the
University Store
Campus Center
Univ. of Mass.

Matmen split in weekend trip

By BOB HASKETLL
Collegian Staff

Steve Jabaut might be a bit skinnier than usual, but no beach bully is going to kick sand in his face.

The senior grappler from Queensbury, NY recently trimmed down from 150 to 142 lbs. in order to fill a weak spot in the Minutemen lineup, and the results have been to say the least, encouraging.

Coach Dave Amato was full of praise for Jabaut's performance during the wrestling team's split of two testing matches over the weekend at Princeton and Fairleigh-Dickinson.

"Steve just looked super." Amato enthused. "His dropping to 142 lbs. has really strengthened the team."

Friday afternoon's match with Princeton ended with the Minutemen on the short end of a 30-9 tally. The matmen may have been a bit intimidated by their host's reputation (15-3 on the season), but Coach Amato felt things could have been different with a few breaks here or there.

"The first two matches were very close. If they had gone the other way, things could have been different." Amato explained.

Winners for the Minutemen were Jabaut, Kevin Griffin (158 lbs.) and Heavyweight Dennis Fenton.

Fenton exhibited his increasing prowess by beating Princeton's undefeated big man, John Sefler, 5-1. Sefler had beaten UMass' three-time New England champion in their meeting last year.

On Saturday, the grapplers bounced back and landed feet first on the wrestlers from Fairleigh-Dickinson, romping 42-7.

"It was a real team victory," Amato said, "Everybody took a hand, with Jabaut, Tim Fallon (150 lbs.) and Fenton looking especially strong."

Other victors for UMass were: Dave Daly (118 lbs.), Paul Belanger (126 lbs.), Larry Otsuka (134 lbs.), Kevin Griffin, and Mike Riley (177 lbs.).

"I'm pleased with our performance this weekend," Amato claimed. "We have now won four of our last five matches. I anticipate more of the same fine effort against Mass. Maritime this Wednesday night."

It will be a make-up match with the Maritime Academy, which has been rescheduled for Wednesday night at 6:00 in Boyden Auxiliary Gym. The cadets are ranked fifth in New England, and the charging Minutemen plan to take the action right to them.

The UMass team, now 5-10 on the season, will face a tough Yale squad on Saturday in Boyden Gym, as the grapplers hope to continue their winning ways.

Merwomen upended

By SCOTT BUNGARD
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's swim team hosted a strong Springfield College team last Saturday at NOPE pool, ensuing result being a 74-57 setback. The loss lowered the women swimmer's record to a 5-6 and upped Springfield's record to a 7-3 mark.

Springfield jumped off to a quick 35-8 lead, and the Minutewomen found out in short order why Springfield was number one in New England last year, despite closing the gap to 49-66 following the 100-yard breast stroke heat.

The top performance for UMass was turned in by triple event winner Lise Hembrough, who won the 50-yard freestyle heat in a 27.2 time and the 100-yard freestyle heat with a 59.9 clocking. Hembrough was also on the victorious 200-yard freestyle relay team along with Deb Schwartz, Mary Ellen Butler and Rachel Mack. Their 1:47.9 time qualified them under the Eastern time standard (ETS) of 1:49.7.

Deb Schwartz was a double event winner, swimming on the 200-yard freestyle relay team and registering a fine 1:15.8 win in the 100-yard breaststroke event.

Linda Schuld won the one-meter required diving event with a point total of 131.40. Diving coach Doug Forsythe felt that Schuld was "diving as well as I have seen her all year." She also placed third in the one-meter optional diving with 153.70 points.

Head coach Eve Atkinson is looking ahead to the New England's this Friday and Saturday at the University of Rhode Island. Atkinson said that "we expect to do our best times of the season in the New England's this week."

Springfield, anchored by tri-captains Morse, Szibdat and Lawler, saw swimmer Mary Jane D'Zurilla slash her heel on a gutter, requiring stitches. Otherwise, Springfield coach Valerie Turtle was satisfied with the team's performance against UMass, stating "I was pleased for the most part, our seimmers turned in good performances."

Coaches Atkinson and Forsythe are now preparing their swimmers for the New Englands this Friday and Saturday at Rhode Island, as well as for the University of Harvard (away) the 23rd and Boston University (home) on the 26th.

Hoopmen wipe Rhody off map

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

Wake up UMass, New England, and especially the Boston area and let it be known that the now 14-7 Minutemen, winners of seven of their last eight games, are indeed a New England basketball power.

In front of an estimated 4800 howling fans at the Cage Saturday night, Jack Leaman's squad put together one of the best played 40 minutes basketball games seen around the Cage in a few years with a convincing 77-63 victory over Rhode Island.

Unfortunately the saying goes, 'the bad news has to come with the good,' and in this case it is indeed bad news.

UMass forward Mike Pyatt, last week named ECBL player of the week injured his left hip and is lost to the team indefinitely.

One could say the UMass win was dedicated to Pyatt. "We just knew," said forward Jim Town, "that when Mike went out of the game we had to try that much harder."

"Mike's a great offensive player whose added a lot to the team's success and I think the crowd, the players, and anybody concerned felt very sad when Mike left the game," said Alex Eldridge.

The UMass win was a total team victory accomplished by the 11 players whom coach Jack Leaman used throughout the game.

"I think this game," Leaman said, "was the toughest and most physical game we've played all year. But I think our team, playing the best I've seen for an entire game, came together emotionally. Losing Pyatt was a great loss, but the crowd factor helped my players to just go out there and concentrate on beating URI."

Besides the Pyatt injury, the game will be noted for the 1,000th point recorded by senior Jim Town in his UMass career, and the first game played by Tennessee transfer and sophomore standout Irv Chatman.

With 9:24 left in the first half, the Minutemen, inspired by the crowd and Pyatt's injury exploded on a 12-4 run as Brad Johnson, substituting for Pyatt blocked a shot, fed Town for a textbook layup, and scored four points.

Donoghue, while playing aggressive defense on Chatman and controlling the offensive and defensive rebounds, continued to heat up offensively, as he hit for two more outside jumpers.

Meanwhile, guards Alex Eldridge and Derick Claiborne, playing like expert chess players masterfully set up the UMass offense. Claiborne hit for eight first half points while Eldridge had four assists and was a continuous thorn in the side for Ram guard Jim Williamson.

The Minutemen enjoyed a halftime lead of 39-29. But the Rams progressively began to dominate the rebounds, while Williams and guard Stan Wright began to infiltrate the UMass defense with driving layups while 6-9 center Randy Wilds added a hoop to cut the UMass lead to 44-37.

After a time out, Leaman inserted a quintet of Town Kohlhaas, Johnson, Eldridge and Claiborne, who clicked for six unanswered points. In a stretch of three minutes, Donoghue, Town and Kohlhaas all scored baskets while Eldridge commanded the attention of the crowd, dribbling through his legs and driving and beating his man for an uncontested layup.

URI continued to fight back as Chatman finally showed some of his offensive moves with a pretty three point play. Baskets by Williamson and Wright brought the UMass lead to 61-48 with 8:46 left to play.

Town, who was to grab 10 rebounds during the game and also block two shots, rescued the sputtering Minutemen offense with two jumpers, while reserve forward George Dennerlein added two free throws to increase the lead to 70-55 with 4:11 left.

Cage potpourri

Pyatt's injury

At 11:30 of the first half, Mike Pyatt went up in the air for a jump shot which went in. But when Pyatt came down on the floor, he slipped on a wet spot and tore a ligament in his hip area. He was rushed to Cooley Dickinson Hospital, put into traction Saturday night, and was resting comfortably Sunday in the University infirmary.

Pyatt is expected to miss at least 10 days of practice and may not be able to walk for a week.

"It's a day-to-day thing with this type of injury," said UMass assistant coach Fan Gaudette. "It could come around in 10 days or take longer.

"We anticipate he will be back for the March 2nd ECBL playoffs but unless he is able to run by February 28th, we will rest him for the rest of the season."

Town's landmark

Senior Jim Town recorded his 1,000th UMass career point at 14:20 of the first half. The game was stopped by the referees, and Town was congratulated by every UMass player and all of the team's coaches.

Town, in addition to pulling down ten rebounds; scored 21 points, blocked two shots, and handed out two assists.

The senior forward from Glens Falls, N.Y., was seen during the entire game diving on the floor for rebounds, hitting outside jumpers when the team needed the important points and also played an intimidating defense on URI's center Randy Wilds, who only scored two points the entire game.

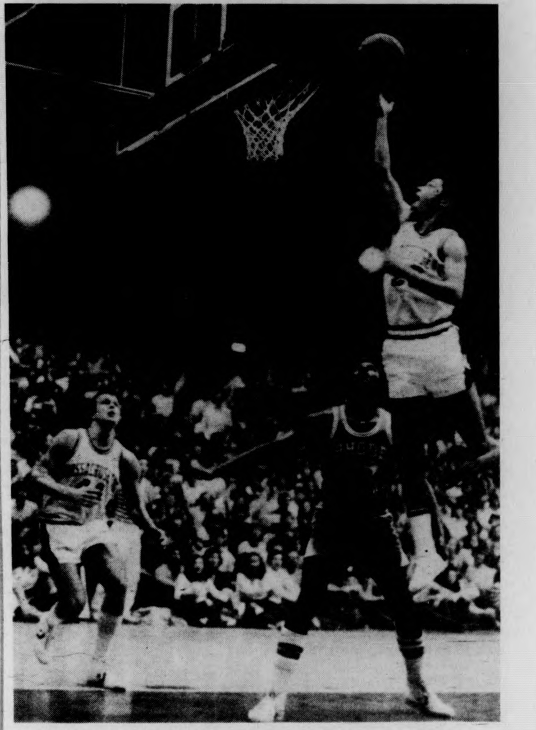
"This honor is very nice for me," said Town. "But at this moment I'm both happy and sad. Happy in the sense we beat a very tough URI team but sad also in that we lost Mike Pyatt. He's made my game that much easier when he's in there."

Chatman's bow

URI's Irv Chatman, the sophomore transfer-'messiah' from the University of Tennessee, unveiled his talents during the game but only scored five points as he was guarded closely by UMass center Mark Donoghue. Playing only 23 minutes, Chatman had five rebounds, blocked two shots and was 1-5 from the floor.

"I was not at my strongest," Chatman said after the game. "It will take a few games for me to relax and get my shooting touch back. I'm not used to crowds like this and a full court defense put on me."

"It will take me a few games to get going," he added.



UMass guard Derick Claiborne skies for two as Rhody's Sly Williams and Minuteman Jim Town watch. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Rimwomen rebound with runaway rout

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

FITCHBURGH — If the UMass women's basketball team was derailed temporarily from its winning ways, then Saturday's game helped it get back on the track with a vengeance.

The Minutewomen went to town on an outmanned Fitchburg State team and defeated it, 89-44, in a game played here.

The margin of victory was the biggest so far this year for UMass.

Four double figure scorers led the way for the now 12-3 Minutewomen, who shot 45 per cent from the floor.

Nancy O'Neil, coming off a dismal 6-18 shooting performance against Brooklyn College, rebounded to be the game's high scorer with 21 points. She was able to collect most of her points from close range, as UMass had little trouble working the ball inside.

Sue Peters and Maura Supinski were next on the point brigade with 18 apiece. Despite sitting out a good portion of the game, Peters played with her usual reckless abandon. Whether it was popping from downtown or driving down the middle, the freshman guard once again strutted her stuff.

And hey, the Supinski story is writing itself as the season goes along. One of the famed supersubs, the ever-improving frosh forward was an offensive monster inside and also ripped down nine rebounds. Her play, as well as Ginny Pebbles' (five points, 10 rebounds) and Chris Basile's (nine boards) helped compensate for the continued absence of Lu-Ann Fletcher. She sat out the action for 9 second straight game because of the bothersome ankle.

But perhaps the biggest surprise of the day was Gayle Hutchinson. Seeing her most playing time of the season, the forward came off the bench to score 11 points and collect eight rebounds.

The rest of the UMass reserves came back from a less-than-spectacular effort against Brooklyn to do a fine job.

Because of the nature of the game, UMass coach Mary Ann Ozdarski went to the subs freely. Grace Martinelli and Julie McHugh, two reserve guards, impressed the UMass mentor with their play.

And, last but not least in the roll call, guard Sue Henry had six assists for the Minutewomen.

The game itself was, to put it mildly, a blowout. The Minutewomen held a 42-24 halftime lead before coasting through the second half to the final margin.

Ozdarski had plenty of good things to say about her troops after this one.

"They're coming along as a team," she said. "I was impressed with our fast break and the way we played defense."

The defensive work Ozdarski referred to showed itself in 35 Fitchburg turnovers.

But it was the things that don't show up in the box score that Ozdarski waxed enthusiasm over.

"We did some little things very well, like going to the offensive boards," she said. "We're playing good team ball, unselfish ball."

Fitchburg, which shot an anemic 23 per cent from the field, was led by Lisa Admas' 11 points.

UMass' next action is set for Wednesday at the Cage, when it plays New Hampshire. But the big one, as far as the team is concerned, is Saturday when it hosts arch-enemy Southern Connecticut.

"We're not overlooking UNH, but we're looking forward to playing Southern," Ozdarski stressed.

UMASS (89) — Hutchinson 5-1-11; McHugh 1-2-4; Carey 1-0-2; Peters 9-0-18; Henry 1-2-4; Supinski 6-6-18; O'Neil 9-3-21; Peebles 2-1-5; Martinelli 1-2-4; Basile 1-0-2. TOTALS 36-17-89

FITCHBURG STATE (44) — Admas 5-1-11; Kligeman 0-2-2; Coburn 0-0-0; Plante 2-2-6; Gardner 0-0-0; Mitchell 0-0-0; Korona 5-0-10; McIntosh 3-1-7; Cash 1-0-2; Reedy 2-2-6. TOTALS: 18-8-44.

Collegian Sports

Skaters play even in weekend twinbill

By TOM CROWLEY
Collegian Staff

The UMass hockey team a five-game losing streak Saturday night as it dumped Colby College at Waterville, Me., 3-1. The fifth loss was Friday night when Bowdoin broke open a close game and beat the Minutemen hockey team 7-3 up in Brunswick, Me. UMass is now 7-9-1.

The team was sub-par for both away games physically as Bob McCormack, Billy White, and Paul Hurley missed the contests and John Peters were only skating at half speed.

"We were forced to use people we don't normally use," said UMass coach Jack Canniff. "Some did well. Jim Benelli, a freshman, played well. Lincoln Flagg played well for us considering the amount of time he played before this."

Despite missing some key players, UMass showed a fair amount of consistency. "We had our moments," Canniff said. "We played well, then we played not so well."

One player who was consistent through the whole weekend was goalie Dana Redmond. "Oh, he was excellent last night he stopped 46 shots," Canniff said in reference to his play against Colby in the Minutemen's 3-1 win. Redmond also had 22 saves against Bowdoin Friday night.

In the Colby game, UMass almost lost the lead in the third period. "We weren't that far ahead in the third period and we forced the game," Canniff said. Redmond's play was to hold onto the win.

BREAK THE CHAIN OF OPPRESSION THROUGH UNITY

NUMMO NEWS

A Black News Service Publication

VOL. 3 ISSUE 2

1977

NUMMO is the power of the spoken and written word.
The Black News Service strongly believes that our newspaper will speak the truths of the protractive struggle of black people.

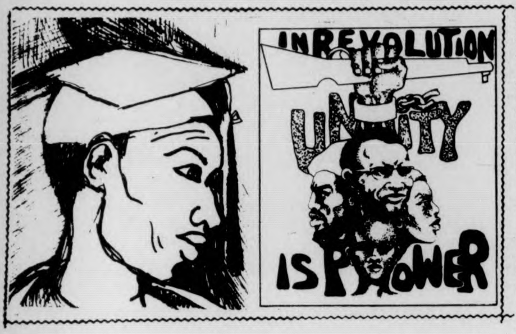
1619

Editorial Commentary

Black Student Activism



By WADADA TZAKE

If there ever was a time in history that is appropriate for student, along with the rest of the youth, to express and demonstrate to their parents and governments, their dissatisfaction with the prevailing racial unequality and social injustice in this country, it is now.

The mere fact that you are at UMass places you among the "privileged" class of youth of the world for much less than 10 per cent of the people in the world under the age of thirty have opportunities to obtain knowledge as easily as we have knowledge is the foundaton of action: what you can do depends on what you know. If you don't know you can't do. Once again, as University students, we should be aware of the fact that all is not well in the world.

Last year, 1976, was marked by wars and more rumors of wars. All over the globe, people who have been enslaved and oppressed for centuries began to intensify their struggle against racism and oppression and to say more earthquakes of unequaled intensity, volcanoes, droughts and numerous other natural disasters indicate that even the very elements of creation are dissatisfied with the inhumanity and unequality which now prevails in a world which was made for all men.

As Black students we must become concious of our position in the economy in America and flow with the tide of humanity against oppression. If we work for the continuation of the American economic system (capitalism - inhumanity). We will be destroyed when the process of change is instituted. Reality does not transform itself, we are the ones who have to transfrom it. Students in South Africa are still demonstrating to the world that the youth will never accept oppressive confinement. Despite the overwhelming odds these students have been unrelenting in the struggle to end oppression. Here in America Black students who are now in college will have to deal with the reality of the oppression of being "qualified" and "unemployed" after graduation.

If Black college youth can't get the "pie in the sky" that immmdiately implies that no segment of the Black population can either. Black students should take heed of their historical responsibility to supply leadership to the disinherited brothers and sisters. The employment of the youth should be one our prime responsibilities.

We have a critical role to play in the future of the world. Mere assimilation into the institutional framework in an individualistic attempt to "get over" is useless. It is essential for us to transcend our individuality, to percieve our collective reality and to try and transform it for the elevation of our race. Understand that the American educational system was also designed to perpetuate the oppression of Black people but that as a student here you will be exposed to many learning experiences which can be utilized to end that very oppression.

The thing to do is to become involved in transforming action. The principle outlet for this transforming action is your academic area. Whatever may be your educational objective, it should be persued from the perspective of utilizing it to help organize Black people, both nationally and from a Pan African ideology, for their own improvement and elevation.

In addition to your academic area, another very significant outlet for a Black student to gain experience in transforming action is through involvement in Black student organizations. Organizations such as, Afro Am Society, Drum, Black Scientist Society, Nummo News, BMCP and the Third World Women's Center are all avenues through which Black students can again invaluable experience in organizing skills and in administrating reponsibility positions.

However, due primarily to a lack of collective spirit among Black and other Third World students most of these organizations are understaffed and suffering from a lack of student participation.

Presently, Nummo News in particular, is suffering from a lack of student participation. We are in serious need for Third World Students who are studying in the field of Mass Communications and Journalism or have even a slight interest in the area of Black publications, to come and take responsible positions on our staff and participate in informing the people. There are two paid editorial positions, News Editor and Cultural Affairs Editor, along with a paid secretarial position. Any Black or Third World student who is interested in training for any of these positions should attend our weekly staff meeting on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in 103 New Africa House.

The realization is that we can't allow others to distort the imaginary of Black people. We can't continue to look up to others for our vital source of information. If we do we will certainly be misinformed and highly miseducated. We must maintain a network for communicating our ideas and recording daily news and information which is crucial to our survival as a people. A person who doesn't know lives in darkness and a person who has been told he lives a life of make believe.

Look For Black Affairs In Todays Colligian

Collective Imperialism And The Struggle For Liberation In Southern Africa

By CHAKA AMIN [Rudolf Jones]

During the era of World War 2 a cancerous plague assumed endemic proportions of Germany. Thousands of people fell victim. The plague wasn't caused by the usual biological agents — virus and bacteria. This time the plague was man made. The plague of Hitlerism raged havoc on Europe.

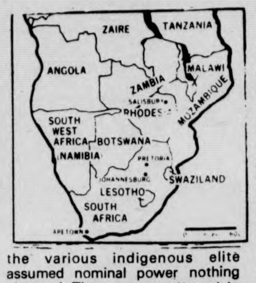
The consciense of humanity was aroused. The plague of Hitlerism had to be stopped. Europe was virtually destroyed as a consequence. People were led to believe that by killing Hitler they had destroyed the system. Suffice it to say that Hitlerism was only temporary suppressed. The top of the shrub of Hitlerism was cut off. The root was still intact.

So the seed of Hitlerism once more has fallen on fertile ground. It is being nurtured in the Republic of South Africa. As one freedom fighter aptly put it Hitler has been reincarnated in the form of John Voster of South Africa and is being backed by both morally, military and economically by the major powers; Britain, France, U.S., West Germany and surprising enough the nation of Israel.

Over the past year thousands of Africans have been placed in concentration camps. Hundreds of school children have been killed and maimed while hundreds are rotting in John Voster's jails.

What are the crimes of these Africans and especially the children? They are demanding the right to be human beings in their own country. These children are determined to uproot Hitlerism from their country and deal at the decisive death blow.

The struggle to uproot Hitlerism isn't restricted to South Africa. The octopus of Hitlerism extends its tentacles to Namibia and Zimbabwe. There is a war going in Southern Africa and the peoples of Africa and the progressive world are more determined than ever to erase this monster from the continent of Africa.



There are forces which would like us to believe that the war in Southern Africa isn't against the evil of Hitlerism and facism. These forces would like us to believe that the enemy in Southern Africa isn't John Voster, Ann Smith and their system of terror and oppression: but Russia, China and Cuba, in essence, Communism. These forces agree that to bring peace in Southern Africa what needs to be done isn't the destruction of John Voster and Anne Smith's system of apartheid, but the prevention of radicalization of the continent. Those were the words used by the former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger before he took off on his shuttle diplomacy in the later part of 1976.

What is the meaning of his statement? To understand it authentically one has to examine the struggles that emanated on the continent as a result of the quest for independence. These were generally two ways of attaining independence from the colonial masters in Africa. One was through negotiation and the other was through armed struggle. In the first case, the colonial masters in the face of rising discontent among the indigenous peoples decided to turn over power to a bourgoise elite from the indigenous people. When the various indigenous elite assumed nominal power nothing changed. There was no attempt to revamp the intra structure that was set up by the colonial masters to carry out the objectives of colonialism. These elite allowed the state apparatus to remain intact carrying out the same objectives as before. The educational system remained the same. The owners of the means of production remained the same. The class structure that was set up during the days of classical colonialism remained intact these leaders weren't interested in developing an egalitarian state.

It turned out that these bourgeoise elite were defending their class interest which happens to be identical to that of the colonialist. In fact that is the reason they were placed in position of leadership. In essence what really occurred was just a mere changing of the guards.

There was no attempt made to question the basic principles and assumptions of the society. The natural resources of the country was allowed to be exploited without the requisite benefit to the society. These countries invariably slumped deeper and deeper into a state of perpetual underdevelopment. It was these countries that the late Dr. Kwame Nkrumah characterized as neo-colonialist. The last and most dangerous form of imperialism. Classified examples are Kenya and Zaire.

On the other end of the spectrum are the states that attained their innependence through the struggle. During this time the major contradiction of the oppressive system surfaced. The real cause of the problem of exploitation was identified and a concerted and systematic struggle was waged to eradicate these causes. Invariably, the major cause was recognized to be the institution of capitalism. The leaders of these struggles then realized that if ever they were to attack and solve the large problems that faced their countries they had to eradicate the cancer of capitalist relations. To do this it was necessary to tear down the state that was established by the colonist. The old economic relations of the society had to be reordered. The colonist educational system and its assumptions had to be revamped. The class structure of colonialism had to be eradicated. In essence in these cases where independence had to be won through armed struggle it wasn't a case of changing the palace guards. It was more of a case of tearing down the palace and destroying the king.

These are the so-called Communist states that the West would like to liquidate. This is one of the reasons why France sells missles, tanks, helicopters and Nuclear power plants to South Africa. This is one of jurdication of Britain to supply sophisticated electronic equipment to the apartheid regime. What are some of the other reasons for the Western Democracies support of South Africa. The major one is economic interest; Southern Africa happens to be one of the world's few areas that still have natural resources in abundance. These include every important mineral, a vast hydro electric power supply; fisheries and extensive crop and pasture lands. According to many experts the region has considerable intapped resources including petroleum which only recently has been found in Angola's Cabinda region and in Zaire. The area is so rich that airline crews flying over the region's Kinder lands frequently senses a magnetic "pull" on their instruments. They believe it is caused by indiscovered ore deposits. The region is the world's largest producer of mangenese, diamonds, chrome, cobalt, platinum. The major industrial countries are after these resources. They know that to get these resources they will have to maintain the status quo wherever they can. It might be in their interest to change the palace guards but they cannot afford to see the palace destroyed. They can tolerate the institution of neocolonialism but they cannot sit back and see governments instituted which would challenge the assumptions that presently govern this region. To allow southern Africa to fall into the hands of Socialists would once more cut off the last and vital source of cheap industrial raw materials and cheap labor that is so essential for the survival of industrial capitalism. And so to attempt to prevent this take over, the Western powers support the institution of apartheid in southern Africa because it definitely serves their interest.

CONT. TO PAGE 4

Open Letter To The Resources Of The Black And Third World Community

So far, every Monday you have witnessed Nummo News — a supplement to the Collegian. You may love Nummo, you may hate it — but Nummo is the Voice of Our People, and if it seems weak, or ineffective, it is your fault. So far the responsibility of Nummo has fallen on the shoulders of a small band of people whose professions are not necessarily journalism. We, the Nummo staff are trying our best, but we are overworked.

Nummo invites talented and interested students of the 5-college community to come in and take leadership roles. Nummo invites those who do not have time for the commitment to contribute as often as they can. Contribute: thoughts, essays, artists, reviews, photographs, drawings, poems — and most of news. We need news correspondents from each of the 5 colleges. For instance if something of importance happens at Smith or Mount Holyoke LET US KNOW. If something is going to happen, LET US KNOW.

Nummo can be what you make it. Joining the Nummo staff — you will have a say in redirecting energies, pushing toward a higher consciousness. Don't accept Nummo as it is. CHANGE IT, DEVELOP IT. There are great possibilities for more funds to be allocated. There are possible credits to be earned as internship-independent study. There is a lot of experience to be gained by watching how our staff does lay-out. Learn journalism and lay-out techniques.

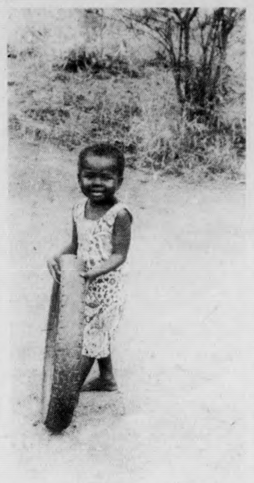
I want to express the fundamental and heartfelt wish of the Nummo staff. We want Nummo to survive, and we want you to CARE.

The Nummo News Staff

On The Liberation Front

The Education Of The Black Nationalist Child

By AKBAR MUHAMMAD AHMED



The education of our children should be our number one concern. Our children are the Black nation's future. We must prepare a road for them and prepare them for the road ahead of independence, self determination and national liberation. In order to get the necessary nationalist education to help our children survive in our everchanging world; the Black child will have to be trained in the home and in independent community controlled liberation schools.

We must prepare our youth within the next ten years to be able to lead a nation of their own. We must train our youth in sciences and other technical skills. From the youth must come a generation prepared to govern an independent Black government and nation. Also our youth should be so trained in technical skills and political ideology whereas they could be a reserve for our motherland, Africa — contributing to the building of Africa and helping to close the technological gap between Africa and the west within a decade.

Training should begin in the home and should start from the cradle. Children should be given Original (African, Asiatic names). When explaining to them their names they will be given nationalistic pride. They should be taught that they are black and black is beautiful. When possible toys should represent blackness and pride. Toys encouraging development of scientific skills should also be used. Children at an early age should be encouraged to speak original languages such as Yoruba, Swahili and Arabaic. This can easily be done by parents speaking of objects around the home in the mother tongues.

Movies and pictures are good media for Black children. As often as possible the Black child should be shown black nationalist films, slides, pictures, plays and taken to black cultural affairs and meetings. Black block clubs, women's organizations and civic groups should form black homemade movie workshops to make 8mm and 16mm black nationalist movies to be distributed, shown in the community and also to be sold to individual families. With the inexpensive cost of projecting equipment this can easily be done. This generation of parents cannot afford to waste a lifetime producing another untrained generation. Conspicuous consumption and foolish wasting of our time must come to a prompt and immediate end. Slaves have not time to party. All our time must be dedicated to building the black liberation and destroying our enemies. Anything or anyone in the way of black liberation must go. We must spend the majority, in fact, nine tenths of our time preparing an organized, trained, skilled and together, united black nationalist generation.

We must develop a careful scientific mass black nationalist child training program. For older children (7-10), weekend classes should be held teaching Black history, arts and crafts. These classes serve to give the Black child, pride and help make up for brainwashing they get in the white public educational system. Through these classes, children can be taught where their loyalty should be — to the Black nation, and the importance of studying the enemy and knowing current events.

All Black children should be restricted in the watching of TV. The devil is very wise in projecting negative "Negro" images through his mass media, particularly TV. Through TV the devil projects white supremacy in a professional and most subtle way. Even with the interjection of "Negro" actors and the so-called "new Negro" image, the blackman is projected as a loyal tom loving his slavemaster and even at times shown betraying his brothers.

TV projects negative nationalist symbols for Black people and projects no positive black power group symbols. All programs allowed to be watched should be explained as far as the brainwashing purposes of the program are concerned.

Prior to the age of six much will depend on efforts by parents of nationalist education in the home. From seven to ten the black child's attitude will depend more on his peers and weekend classes. Children's minds at this age is formative by involvement in group activities. Youth groups such as the Black scouts could be formed. These groups could practice war games and train in martial arts. From the age of ten to nineteen intense nationalist education should be given black youth both in the home, groups and in the streets. From the time the black child can read, black childrens and black comic books should be purchased for them. Parents should read parts of history to children. Also records of Black nationalist leaders speeches should be constantly played and interpretated for children. Good and evil for the Black child must be black representing good and white evil and wrong. If a child or person does something wrong then they become white. This helps reverse the psychological (self-hating) complex that caucasian American society instills in black Americans. By reversing the psychological conditions which is much closer to reality, Black Americans will be much healthier being able to channel their anger outward against their oppressor rather than inward destroying themselves.

On the Black Home

The Black home whether a two room apartment or a house, is the center of activity for the black family. Keeping this in mind the black home should always be dedicated to the liberation of the black nation. The black home can either be a constructive instrument for unity, strength of the family building strong children for the black nation or it can be the destructive force causing family disunity, chaos, confusion of purpose and future creating an instability for the family's offspring not giving them any motivation for nationalist success.

Atmosphere is what makes a home pleasant or miserable. A pleasant Black home is when everyone is dedicated to the liberation of the Black nation and when each member of the family respects one another as a Black person fighting for freedom.

The Black home however small in space should be designed for creative Black livability. The Black home should not be designed after the white home. We are two different nations fighting one another and this should be kept in mind when creating the Black home. One must always remember the Black home is the nerve center of the Black community and family. The Black home should be designed to remind us of our African-Asiatic heritage and our history. Every black home should have a picture and writings or recordings of Marcus Garvey, Malcom X, Elijah Muhammad, H. Rap Brown, Le Roy Jones or Robert Williams. In this way we are constantly reminded of Black people's new values, the new way of life and our evergoing struggle.

In decorating we should use our nations colors of red, black, and green. In this way our whole home is dedicated to the liberation of the Black nation and we will soon find that our every thought will be the same. At least one room should be painted all Black or part black. This room will remind us of our beautiful blackness and that Black is beautiful. This also serves to re-educate ourselves of being afraid to decorate or use the color black as a living color.

Black Home

Every Black home should have some reading material for family and friends on Black nationalism. Magazines on the struggle should always be around. Carvings, curtains, and wall pictures should represent Blackness. Also inexpensive furniture should reflect Black culture. If possible our homes should have an Afro-Asian setting using African or Oriental furniture. Black people shouldn't have French provincial living rooms, Italian dining rooms. Their homes should reflect their cultural heritage. Music in the Black home should be message music or should reflect the movement in some way. There should be no picture of a white man as a hero or god in the Black home. The Black home should be the living reflection of Black Nationalism at all times.

Structure of family life.

Strong male head — father, brother, uncle (nationalist leader) father of the nation

"Queen Mother" — role

Programmed learning: Black, A, B, C's

EARL BROWN
JUSTICE

The Average Woman And Man Child

Is it not a unanimous agreement within this world society that we exist in that ... All infant or baby is a human being developing between the time of birth to approximately three years of its existance ... that a child is one developing between 4 to 12 years of age, an adolescent from 13 to the late teens, and an adult from 18 years on.

Yet, there are adults, workers, parents, etc., whose rational and reasoning process falls below the intellect of the average 5 year old. How can any adult exist in society, as a supposedly active member, with a rational capability less than that of a 5 year old, without society immediately spotting and removing them? Is it possible for an adult to have a weaker reasoning ability than a child?

It is the nature of everything in creation to want to preserve, prolong and protect its existance. "Self-preservation is the first law of nature." What creature do you know of that seeks to destroy itself, in seeking what is described of as so-called pleasure, except man? You will never find a child knowingly doing something to harm itself. Yet, the adults of this society daily seek their destruction, in looking for pleasure. This is why I said the rational process of many adults falls below the reasoning strength of a child.

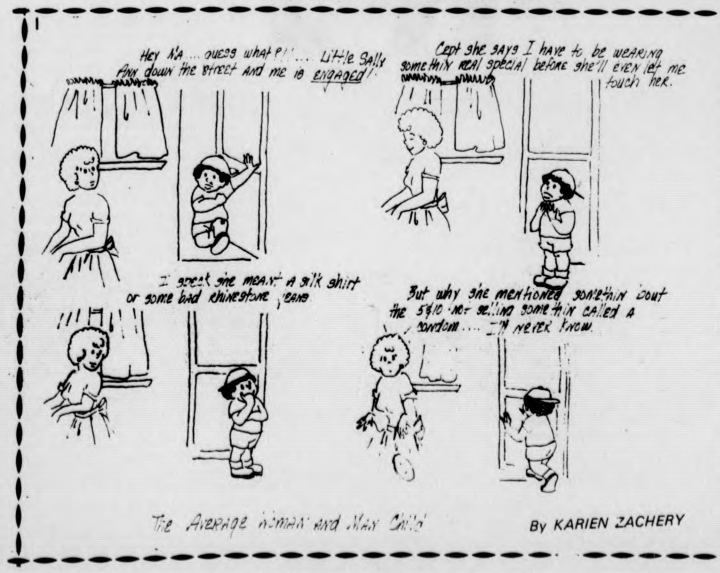
Children are considered the purest, cleanest, most natural and most beautiful part of the human species. The younger they are, the more pure or unpolluted they are thought to be, which is true. The longer you exist, the more beauty and filty of this world become a part of you. Children never cease to amaze with the seemingly adult mannerisms and characteristics they somehow perfectly imitate. If you want to see yourself all over again ... look at a child.

They are, in fact, adults, except they are far from being balanced, mentally, spiritually and even physically.

Within their imitations of the adult society that they see, they show us our strength, our weaknesses and many of our ignorant habits, without the camouflage. All children do is remove the articulate artificial covering we wear, and show us our real basis. The things they say and do appear humorous to us when we are only laughing at ourselves on a miniature perspective. They do not have the ability to make right seem wrong and vice versa. Unfortunately, they soon learn the tactics of deceit, which play a great role in survival today, from their daily contact with adults.

The sincerity and naturalness in children is so obviously prevalent that it literally glows around them. This is what many adults have lost, consequently, many lose that natural humane nature, without which they know they cannot survive. They become callous and cold in their feelings for other human life. They seem to lose that basis that all humans possess at birth.

Many may possess a much more powerful intellect than any other creature. His brain may have the ability to create, compile and destroy, far beyond that of any other creature. He has become a giant in his intellect and a god in his material strength (god only meaning, one having force and power). But ... some of our most intelligent of men are trying to redevelop that natural basis they know they've lost and cannot survive without. They are constantly studying their beginnings, which is children, to stay in contact with their true nature when a child can puzzle and stun the minds of psychoanalysts, then it's time for Rodney Allen Rippy to be president.



Hey Ma ... guess what?!! ... Little Sally Ann down the street and me is ENGAGED!
Cept she says I have to be wearing somethin real special before she'll even let me touch her.
I guess she meant a silk shirt or some bad rhinestone jeans
But why she mentioned somethin 'bout the 5&10 not selling somethin called a condom .... I'll never know.

The Average Woman and Man Child

By KARIEN ZACHERY

Weekly News Roundup: International-National

NATIONAL

ADMINISTRATION JOBS — The Senate confirmed the nominations of W. Graham Claytor to be secretary of the Navy and Clifford L. Alexander Jr. to be secretary of the Army yesterday. Alexander, 43, the first black to be named to the post, served on the national security staff under the Kennedy Administration. Claytor, 65, is the retired president of the Southern Railroad Co.

PLASTIC BOTTLE BAN — The Food and Drug Administration withdrew its approval of plastic soft drink and beer bottles that contain a chemical called acrylonitrile because a new study indicates it may be harmful. The bottles have been test marketed in some areas by Coca Cola and Pepsi Cola. Plastic containers with the same chemical are used in margarine tubs and vegetable oil bottles. The FDA plans to propose rules lowering the amount of acrylonitrile permitted to leak from such tubs and bottles into the foods they contain.

LIFE-SUPPORT RULING — A court chancellor has ruled that a respirator keeping Della Dockery, a 41-year-old heart attack victim, alive may be removed if her doctor thinks there is no reasonable chance she will emerge from a coma. The ruling by Chancellor Hershel Franks in Chattanooga, Tenn., left the decision up to Dr. Yutaka Kato, who had said he would stand by his physician's pledge to preserve life.

NEVADA ERA DEFEAT — The Nevada Assembly has defeated the equal rights amendment by a vote of 24 to 15. If the measure had passed, Navada would have become the 36th state to ratify the amendment, which requires affirmative votes from 38 states.

LEGIONNAIRE's DISEASE — The Federal Center of Disease Control announced test results linking two pneumonia cases last year in Michigan and Indiana to Philadelphia's mysterious Legionnaire's disease that claimed 29 lives last summer. But epidemiologists said neither of the Michigan and Indiana victims had traveled outside his state in the few weeks before contracting the disease.

INTERNATIONAL

DRUGS IN CHINA — China, a society that has been believed drug-free, has released 13 persons arrested in Canton in the dirst drug bust reported in Communist China. The Communist newspaper Wen Wei Pao yesterday reported the return of some of those who were arrested to Hong Kong, about 50 miles from Canton, after eight months of imprisonment and "patient re-education." China began a highly successful crack-down on drug traffic shortly after the Communist takeover in 1949.

ETHIOPIAN STRONGMAN — Ethiopia Radio announced that strongman Lt. Col. Mengistu Haile Mariam named himself chief of state to succeed Brig. Teferi Bante, who was killed along with six other members of the ruling military council in an abortive rebellion against Mengistu. The 39-year-old strongman also named himself chairman of Ethiopia's ruling military council. A career officer, he is expected to swing the country on an even stronger Marxist course and to try to strenthen ties with the Soviet Union.

SEVESO CHILDREN — Blemishes on the skin of about 100 children in Seveso, Italy, have rekindled fears of long-term effects from a chemical plant leak seven months ago. Mayor Giorgio Rocca ordered several schools closed and medical checks on children. An explosion at the Icmesa plant on July 10 released a cloud of chemicals that set off an ecological disaster in the community of 8000 persons, 12 miles north of Milan.

CYPRUS DISPUTE — Turkish Cypriot leader Rauf Denktash said the United States should stay out of the Cyprus dispute and he criticized President Carter for dispatching special envoy Clark Clifford. The second round of peace talks between Archbishop Makarios, the Greek Cypriot president of the divided island, and Denktash are set to start today. Denktash said the United States "has no role at all" in solving the dispute. "The talks will not be successful if the American big brothers stops everything from moving," he said.

Young HIT KISSINGER ON RHODESIA

United Press International

LONDON — United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young said yesterday former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger had "put a burden on Britain's back, then abandoned it," in arranging the Geneva Conference on Rhodesia.

Young, ending a 13-day African mission, said he thought the Untied States had been unfair to Britain during Kissinger's mission which led to the Geneva conference, on black majority rule in Rhodesia.

"Dr. Kissinger put a burden on Britain's back, then abandoned it," Young said. "This was not intended, but I think Dr. Kissinger thought they (the Ford Administration) would win the election" and he would remain in a position to carry things further.

Young said that his African tours, during which he met more than 20 African leaders in Tanzania and also visited Kenya and Nigeria, had been very encouraging and that there was an alternative to armed conflict in Rhodesia.

"After meeting with the black leadership, they all agree that a settlement in Rhodesia is absolutely necessary and possible." Young said.

"But after talks with the US State Department and the British foreign office it seems that things are not quite as set on the white side as they were a few weeks ago," Young said. He did not elaborate.

Meanwhile, in Washington, that man who soon will become South Africa's foreign minister said a peaceful settlement of racial problems in southern Africa must be accomplished to avert war.

"We believe there are still possibilities of achieving a peaceful settlement, and we must explore them," Ambassador R. F. Botha told reporters after a one-hour visit with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

Young returned to Washington yesterday and will report on his trip to Secretary of State Cyrus Vance today or tomorrow.

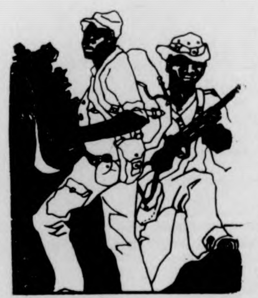
Cont. Collective Imperialism And The Struggle For Liberation In Southern Africa

FROM PAGE 2

On April 15th Leslie Gelb writing in the New York Times reported that in 1970 Henry Kissinger wrote a memorandum to former President Nixon which said in essence that the Black-White problem in South Africa was extremely long range and probably insoluable. He recommended that a policy of quality relancing bilateral relations with South Africa be implemented and that the pressures on Portuguese to give up their colonial holding in Mozambique be relaxed.

The fall of Mozambique and Angola really caught him by surprise. He didn't think Africans were capable of liberating themselves. How deceived he was. This is the same man that is shuttling over Africa fooling himself about bringing peace to the continent. My friends we aren't blinded to the dealings of Henry Kissinger. He was the same man who told the world that he was bringing peace to Vietnam and then a few weeks later unleashed one of the most vicious, one of the most savage and inhumane acts of the 20th century. I am referring to the Christmas bombings of Vietnam.

America and its imperialist lackeys are supporting the status quo in Southern Africa. They are supporting the killing the maiming and the torturing of young African little boys and little girls our investment for the future. The facts prove it. They will do anything to defend their economic interests. Americans own a larger and fascist South Africa (nearly $15 billion in 1974) than in any other African country. It enjoys a swelling surplus of trade with South Africa and continues to buy strategically important chrome from Rhodesia despite a United Nations embargo. In fact, the 13 largest corporations have all heavily invested in apartheid. They are:



US CORPORATE INVESTMENT IN SOUTHERN AFRICA

1. Caterpillar
2. Chrysler South Africa
3. Firestone South Africa
4. South Africa General Electric
5. General Motors South Africa
6. Good Year South Africa
7. IBM South Africa
8. Standard Telephone and Cables
9. 3M South Africa
10. Mobil Oil Refining Company South Africa
11. Caltese Oil
13. Ford South Africa
14. Union Carbide
15. American Metal

Of course the US isn't the only culprit. Britain has more investment in South Africa than any other imperialist power. In fact, British banks control the South African economy. Two major banks Bartleys (who happens to have made its initial money from the slave trade) and Standard has dominated the South African scene for over 50 years. The British influence isn't restricted to commerical banking either. Three of the five largest merchant banks are British. These include merchant banking subsidiaries of Bartleys and the Standard as well as Hill Samuel Money represents power and the banks influence its use. The banks through their choice of company to help with loans have played an important role in the development of the South African economy.

Western investment in South Africa now totals around $40 billion. Estimates have suggested that foreign companies control over 80 per cent of industrial production in the private sector. Indeed, virtually every major British industrial company has a subsidiary or associate in South Africa. Western banks not only play a role in maintaining fascist regime in South Africa, they also help to prop up the illegal regime in Nanibia and Zimbabwe. They facilitate the transfer of their profits and payment of taxes to the South African regime. Presently some 25 major international banks have established operations in Johannesburg. Among them are Chase Manhattan and First National City Banks of New York City.

The banking links between the major Western financial capitals and Johannesburg are indicative of the close economic ties between South Africa and Western Imperialism. The ties between South Africa and Western Imperialism isn't restricted to the economic realms either. The fascist regime is supported economically militarily and morally by the west despite the empty periodic denouncing from the western leaders.

For example, the UN Security Council recommended in 1964 that industrial nations initiate an arms embargo on South Africa. The vote to implement this boycott was supported by all of the Western powers. One would think that these countries would be honest enough to stand by their words. It happens that this boycott has never been implemented despite the assertions of western leaders. For example the Marconi Communications System Ltd. of Britain, a firm which has pioneered several advanced communications systems has been contracted to supply South Africa with a computer controlled defense system. This is the kind of support that is given to South Africa. While Britain is providing the air defense systems for South Africa, France is catapulting this fascist country into the nuclear age. In fact, a consortive of French companies was just awarded a $500 million contract to build two 922 megawatt reactor power stations at Kolberg near Cape Town. The excuse given by the West for developing South Africa's nuclear capability is that their nuclear program is for peaceful purposes. But this excuse is meaningless. When India exploded her first atomic bomb using material and technology provided for peaceful purposes, the Western powers debated the issue and agreed that there was no way of ensuring that nuclear and technology provided for peaceful purposes was not used to make nuclear weapons. Acting on the consensus, Canada, then cut off nuclear aid to India.

France has been cooperating with South Africa in developing nuclear industry for a number of years. There has been a constant exchange of information and experts between France and South Africa. The French firm Sodetey which participated in the French nuclear program has been established in Johannesburg since 1968 French collaboration with apartheid isn't restricted to nuclear power plants either. In December 1968 South Africa's Army Chief of Staff General HJ Martin said that the work on missile development being carried out in South Africa was related to the fact that South Africa was now ready to make its own weapons. France has contributed more than any other power to the development of South Africa's missile industry. In 1963 France banned the sale of weapons which could be used for the purposes of repression. Panhard armoured cars and 60 and 90mm machine guns but, the licenses had already been sold to South Africa where these are now built under a different name. Similarly the sale of helicopters was prohibited for the same reason in 1970 but France had already supplied 92 helicopters to South Africa plus the manufacturing license. France has sold South Africa the license to manufacture mirage fighter planes and Crotale missiles manufactured in South Africa under the same Cautus.

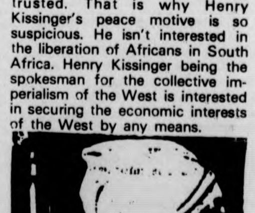
The Imperialist cannot be trusted. That is why Henry Kissinger's peace motive is so suspicious. He isn't interested in the liberation of Africans in South Africa. Henry Kissinger being the spokesman for the collective imperialism of the West is interested in securing the economic interests of the West by any means.



Happy Valentine's Day

Cindy: Even though we are 197 miles apart, you are always here with me. All my love, Andy.

To Carrie (My favorite mooner): The Best Valentine's Day ever. Love. The wilder-than-ever Smithie and Chuckles

To Putzie: Remember all the good times with A.F.U. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Mucker

Hey Bream: Got to Luv Ya! Sidetracker

To the Melville Basement Girls: Have a Happy Valentine's Day and may your lights shine forever. Love Charlie on the M.T.A.

To Egg: Wishing you happiness on this Valentine Day, and all the days to come. Love Nin

Larry Lievitz grows on you, especially in Botony Lecture. It must be his hydrophilic head and autotrophic organisma. Free Energy

To My B.B.P.: My heart is with you forever and a day. Stay with me. I won't disappoint you. N.R.

To Tom, Lori and Tommy. Happy Valentine's Day. Mummu

Hey Nips: You wanna get lucky? Happy Valentine's Day. Domingo DeJesus

Sweetheart: I forget you last year but not this year. Happy Valentine's Day. All my love, Chris ADAMS, J.P.: With understanding and honesty we will last forever. Until then, I love you. R.S.A.

To the Guys from Thatcher: Happy Valentine's Day from the 3rd floor of Mary Lyon. (Who rules the QUAD!)

K.K.: Time is never ending! You needn't worry that there will not be enough of it. Happy Valentine's Day! C.W.F.

Will de Blabb, Happy Valentine's Day. I love you. Peep, peep and guppy kisses. Remain the same. A Walrus Lover

Kenny: Thanks for all calls and letters. See you soon. Love and kisses. Mary N. XXXOOO

Desiree: Can you ever forgive me? Happy Valentine Day.

Fayebuck: Happy Valentine's Day, Beautiful! Thanks for being you. Consider this a single red rose. Love, Charlie

To my little Immigrant Porcupine: Porcupine, won't you be my valentine? Your One

To Sonia: It has been great! The sun has risen, the future is bright. Happy Valentine's Day! Lotsa love, Mark

To Chubs: Roses are red, The room isn't blue, Happy Valentine's Day, A good move for you. The Painter

To Buttercup: I shall love you forever so please stay with me. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Panda.

To Jill: Almost one down, only 47 more to go. I love you. Paul.

Susan Belvson: You know I'll always love ya. Charley Barbey.

Hal: We are farther apart than last semester, but we really seem much closer. Happy Valentine's Day. Love H.H.

Scott: Hope you'll always be my C.B. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Donna.

Huffy and Healthcliff: Happy Valentine Day. T.B.

To Pam B.: Have a Happy Valentine Day. If cupid doesn't come I will. Lee.

To Lisa Haut: For your rare and beautiful ability to listen with your heart. With Love, L.A.

To Helen T.: I'd run faster if you were in front of me on the track! Be Mine! Joe M.

Happy Valentine's Day to Patti, Joanne and Sue from the ninth floor whimps.

Dear Girls: Cunningham, Krissy and Dot, The ones we like a lot; Two old maids who are hot-to-trot!

To my Polish lover: Happy Valentine's Day. My love for you is greater than my 2 feet put together! Your favorite.

A moynagrammed heart is safer than a P.R. rendez-vous. No tan, but no ulcers. Love, Tubette.

Ellen, Best wishes on Valentine's Day. Sorry I can't be with you. Can't wait to see you again. Love Doug.

One year ago, I met Flo, Diana and Mary; First were leery but now they see it's you and me.

Zahava: Let your eyes speak, your heart feel, so you and I can make a deal. Happy Valentine's Day. Waiting.

To Mary Barnes of S.S.A.: I want ya, I need ya, will ya be mine? Love always, Glenn.

To D.M.F.: You are a pain in the ass but I still love you. G.G.

To NEH: It's been great and getting better. Can't wait til your mine forever. N plus R go to infinity.

Florida makes red, Pittsburgh turns blue; after I'm roasted I'll warm up you. Happy day after Valentine's birthday. Love, Madison.

Pengy: In a few months, we can invite the Bruins over. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, P.B.

To Sparky: "As long as there's the two of us I'll carry on." Your big baby

Carol-Ann: May Cupid tap-dance on your face with cleats. The gang at Joe Sleazy's Pub.

M Ogre: You're my everything! May we have 120 more Happy Valentine Days! With all my love, Your woman.

Miss Piggie: Alock of hair, instead of a penny for your thoughts. Love, Your Easthampton tuba.

Scaramoosh: Happy Valentine's Day to the best. I know our plans will work out. I'll always love you! Love, Soombrosa Schatz: Don't leave me up the river without an oar! I love you! Happy Valentine's Day, Michael.

To: Meow Mix, Keep on purring! Love ya, Mark.

Hey, Mr. P! I need patience and expert coaching; you've given both and I thank you! Love, Red.

Happy Valentine's Day to the Gang: Claire, Lisa, Linda, Bags, Bucket, Michelle, Margie. From, Antoinette.

To my telephone Sue: Long distance is the next best thing to being there. But, let's meet soon. Love, Al.

Sue S.: You're blonde and cute and really neat. I wanna say thanx for being so sweet. Love, Al.

Sixth floor queen: You're always there with a buzz or a beer. That's what makes you nice to be near. Love, Al.

Michael: Rendez-vous at the Ritz on the 14th? Siri. P.S. Happy Valentine's Day!

To Jean D.: Lovers together, lovers apart, lovers forever, you and I. Have a Happy Valentine's Day. Love: Pat D.

Fuzzy, I love you, Marty.

Linda R.: it doesn't take Valentine's Day to put you in my heart. You've been there all along... maybe someday. A tree.

To Carla: Have a Happy Valentine's Day. We really share something very special. I love you very much. Love, Larry.

Cupid's calling all the BUFFOONS, the bola man, the mummy, the butcher, binder baby and lastly, TIDBITS... Love, Sister Lawler

Carol Duffy: I love you, I love you, I love you. Your secret admirer.

Dear Bobbi: We think your the greatest, and we love you very much, But you know that. Ed, Sandy & the Bear.

To LL from your HF: Happy Valentine's Day if you see this. If not I'll tell you tonight.

Happy Valentine's Day to mother Ann, daughter Pam, and everyone else at Sigma Kappa. Love, UNottoo.

To Eve: Happy Valentine's Day. Scratch me anytime. Love, Spot.

To UofM women: You don't know what you're missing. Come to Northeast Penthouse. Love, "Me Big O".

Jerrianne: I'm floating on a sea of dreams, all I can see is the view above me clouds... Love, Peter.

To Rob: Just want ya to know after all these years your still my Valentine. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Cynthia.

Redhog & Kat: Strap it, vas it, slap it, slide it. Puck you two, too.

Dear Jeff's: I see you on the ice, wonder how you shoot with your own stick. Puck you.

Happy Valentine's Day — Happy Birthday — Happiness Always. Judy & Pam.

"Loves mysteries in soules doe grow, But yet the body is his booke." Happy Valentine's Day, kid! Love Always.

Mike: I'm lost without your love. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Donna.

Dietz: Happy Valentine's Day! Have a "special double bonus" kind of a day. Wizard.

To Sunshine: May all your days be filled with love and happiness! Happy Valentine's Day 1977! TUFFL always, Chrissie.

To Super Women's basketball Team: Keep up the great work, you Fags! Happy Valentine's Day to all! Much love, Chrissie.

To the 3rd Floor Cardinals: May your steins runneth over. With Love, Wilder Women

To my Favorite Avocado eater: Happy Valentine's Day and a barrel of love, kisses, and hugs. Tweety.

Kath: With love always, Michael.

"QUANTUMMAN" — Happy Valentine's Day! Guess Who?

Bob: Love means the body, the soul, the life, the entire being, I love you, Martha.

Tom: The greatest gift we can give each other is the truth. Love for you, Les.

Susanne my Buttercup I need you now. Please reconsider, golden girl. Love??

Ellen: I never realized how important caring is. I care. Until we can be closer — DJ.

Debbie M.: Today is my emotional high. You know what that means. DJ.

To all the Women in Coolidge, I love you, soon I hope. DJ.

Bobbi: On this day, like all the rest, I want you to know I love you. On the slopes and off. Ed.

To Hymn to the Lord, Amen: Thanks for everything (Just make sure master never finds out!) Missy.

To PEW. T.L. and Little One: Thanks for everything, girls. I love you all. Happy Valentine's Sha.

To Todd of FAYETTEVILLE: I love you, Darlin', even though we did lose the plantation. Happy Valentine's, Doll.

To PB: A million PB's for this semester and lots of love from me. Happy Valentine's Day! Andy.

Dave: To us! Forever! I love you. Joanne.

Pete: Happy hearts day babee. Hope your day is super...supee?! Me too, I have 60c, watch out! Love, LPB.

To Lance Romance, Lance No Pants, Lance with a little, who romances a lot! Happy V.D. — two "very nice" girls.

To Gerard: My Prandsome Hince — Thank you for a beautiful year. I love you! Sandra.

Happy Valentine's Day to Ginny, Lori, Joey, Stef, Michelle, Cindy, Kathy, Shirley, and Lisa. From the guys of ZZ.

To the Big Lion that has a moustache. Hugs and kisses on Valentine's Day. Love your Horny Honey Bunny Rabbit.

Lovely: You don't see me often but I may appear any day so deal me in! Happy VD. Your outasite boyfriend.

To The Boys in 218: Here's hoping for another semester like last. Happy Valentine's Day! The Girls in 205.

To Paul: Can't think of anyone I want more for a valentine. Let's hope for more. I love you. Beth.

To Pooh Bear: Happy Valentine from your favorite honey. Hugs and kisses from Little Fatty.

Karen & Punky: I will always love the Brunswick Bunch. Love, Frrtsl, & Wah-Wah. Wick.

Kev: Happy 14th! This month and EVERY month! Love ya, Leann.

David: Happy Valentine's Day. I love you. There are only 468 days left. I can't wait. All my love, Linda.

To Mimi K.: You're still my favorite UMie after all this time. Love ya, M.K.

Lundagin: Since you played Santa-We'll play cupid-We'd be your valentine-but we're not that stupid. Your victims

Lisa: Happy Valentine's Day little gir. Love, Ralph

To the ladies of 302 Cashin: You're the suitest valentines on campus. With love and Wesson Oil. The Better Half

To MSK: May all our tomorrows be as beautiful as our yesterdays. Love, Tome

S. Poo: Everyday I wake up finding myself loving you more and more. Your Annie

To SJC: Thanks for your love and care. Be my valentine? Love K.W.H.

Happy Valentines Day Nick: From the Kentucky Friend Chicken place. We still need your legs. Luv ya, Me

To C.A.M.: "I don't usually do this But ..." Will you be my valentine? "Silly" "Foolish!" Love, T.E.K.

MUA's CJP sez Valentines Day is a crock. If you really like someone, show it the other 364. Right Law?

To Kenny, Wrighto, Russ, Rox, Amy and Beane Bag. Happy VD to the "Gang" Love, J.D.

To Malcolm at the Physical Plant: Thanks for being our favorite Valentine Wednesday night. Rachid and the boys

To Mike S.: I love you forever sweetie. Love ya, Kathie

Mike: Hi! Let's keep sharing for a long time. Happy Valentine's Day! Lynn Prof. Kofler: Hi Dick, you cuddley Teddy Bear! Happy Valentine's Day. Boston Combat Zone, Stripper Assoc.

Prof. Kofler: Thanks for posing Happy Valentine Day. Department of Photography, Playgirl Magazine

Prof. Kofler: Hi Dick, you tiger you! Happy Valentine Day. Girls at the Playboy Club

To My Sweet Baboo: My heart is yours on Valentine's Day and always. I will love you forever. Elizabeth

Dear Snotpig: From one nub to another. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Big Tomatoe. P.S. I'm wearing my walking hat.

To J.S.: Thanks for all the fun, but please don't hate me.

To the greatest of Porks, Best of Lovers and detector of Dorks: Salvations meant to say, Have a Happy Valentine's Day.

To Potato Chip: I care for you a lot. Is it love? We'll see. You Know Who Happy Valentine's Day to S.D.T. pledges: Karen, Julie and Melissa. With love from all your sisters.

To Gina and Dave: Happy Valentine's Day, with love from your 31 daughters.

Happy Valentine's Day Mrs. Staab: We all love you. From the girls of Sigma Delta Tau Happy Valentine's Day to the company of "Flowers." Here's to another successful weekend. Love, Ms. Donner; maid; Norma and Ellen

To Bruce: I love you more than yesterday, less than tomorrow. Happy Valentine's Day, honey! Love, Suzanne

To Big Boy: You're a good friend. But how can such a big guy be so shy??? Junior

To Ralphy: You are the sexiest, most wonderfullest ad rep ever. Keep up the inches. The Ad Staff

To the Cowboy: You still suck eggs and will forever. Love, The Gang on seven

To Lorna and the staff at Ware: We love you all even if you don't love us. The Collegianites

To Heath and David: We'll always remember the night up on Mt. Sugarloaf. You guys are the best. Donna and Susan Mellow or frisky, VD wishes are risky. Our hearts are hibachis, it's plain to see for 107 and 53. Puffies

HEBE, I will continue to love our visits, White Sox, Nibbles, Lilly Pucion Lessons until cupids arrow becomes limp! Jose

Molter, Psst ... Can I tell you a secret ... Grrrowl. Happy Valentina's Day. Chippie

Dear Poop, Knowing you love me is all I need. Happy second Valentine's Day. And to many more. Love, Aud

Dearest Donna: You mean more to me than ice cream to an apple turnover. Happy Valentine's Day! Love always, Paul

To the Doctor: Happy Valentine's Day, Valentine. Love, D.

Rhonda: Now that we've gotten some rest, things will be okay. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Ronnie

To 4 North: Happy Valentine's Day, guys! Especially all the turkeys and Mrs. Bates. Rollo

Bunzy — Happy Valentine's Day. Keep in the peanut butter and I'll be up soon. Love, Waldorific

To EAM: "May you all become whipped". You're like candy in our hands. Happy Valentine's Day. With love, Schlagel & ERM.

To Muffin, Judy, Niki: Happy Valentine's Day. The Cockroach and The Animal.

To Julie M. Chilson: Love can travel a long long way. Especially ours. Love you forever, Doug.

Phi Mu: Thanks for your friendship! Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Cindy.

Badger: What's next? So far, you're the best thing that's happened to me. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Toh-Nee.

Khinicki: Happy Valentine's Day. A wonderful trip too, Sunshine tanning away, when in Tex I see you. Love, Teri.

To J.R.: Happy love day. How about coming with me tonight? Love, Sis.

Ronnie: To love is one thing, to be loved another. But to love and be loved is everything. All my love, forever, Dottie.

Peter: You make me feel like dancing. Happy Valentines Day! Love, Janet.

To 51 Rolling Green: Honey's for neighbors. Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Nancy & Janet.

Russian-teanater-niiiiiiii... Happy Valentine's Day. A sneaker, a loafer, and a what??! Love always, the annoymous Cornflake.

To Room 302 Greenough: Happy Valentine's Day to my sweethearts. I'll miss you!! Love, K.K.

Oh Hi! Happy Valentine's Day to my little dink. Love always, Bright Eyes.

Dear: I'm absolutely mad about you! Won't you be my Valentine. Your secret admirer.

Dave: Wanna play some Valentine games with me? Please be my Valentine — Linda.

R. Trojan (BKO): I'm in love!! Happy Valentine's Day Sweetheart. 2-long.

To all my girls, both near and far: This is to you, know who you are? Happy Valentine's Day. Kevin.

To ¼ of 207F: Whether on the hill or way down here, closeby or faraway — you're still a magnasty valentine!

B.B.P.: Happy Valentine's Day! Would you & Johnson like to have an ice cream cone? Love from Shnookie.

To Dave, Bob, & Dick: We miss you! Happy Valentine's Day! With Love, B 31.

Joan: Happy Valentine's Day, Little Girl. Two down, and many more to come. I love you, Phil.

To D.D.: Valentine's Day is a good time to let the world know you're a real A1 meow.

Mary: Champagne, makes me horny! Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Chuck.

To my sweet baby Amy Nel: I want everyone to know you're my love! XX Tiki.

To my B.S.C. Honey: Wishing you love on Valentine's Day and everyday. Susan.

To 3rd floor V.M.S.: We love you girls. We would! We wouldn't. We'd be seen! Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Camaros.

To Bartholomew: How a love so right, could turn out to be so wrong. Happy Valentine's Day kid. You'd understand!

To D.E.B.: As Todd says: "There is always more. Love me always as I've always loved you! JTC.

Happy Valentine's Day Bonnie, I like you...Love, John.

To my California guy: Cupid deserves a medal for the wonders he accomplished with us. Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Susan.

Dear Smoogles: Did you know that we make great sweaters! Happy Valentine's Day 170! Comcom.

Kim M.: I've been admiring you from afar. Won't you please be my Valentine. Your secret admirer.

Bovy: I love you. Terry.

My Dearest Jeanette: You'll always be my wittle Tony. You're the best 73's & 88's. The Blue Max.

Happy Valentine's Day to all the girls on the 4th floor, Love and Kisses, Ed and Joe.

To Little Doze: Have a Happy Valentine's Day. Are you surprised? Thanks for last weekend. Love Big Doze.

'A', being Amalogous is something we share. Glad to always have you near. Happy Valentine's Day. Love always 'J'.

Dearest Michael: I could not love thee, dear, so much, loved I not honor more. All my love, Heidi.

Dear Pat Photo: Cousins photomat, photosynthesis, photon, and photograph send their love! Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Photobill & Photolab.

This is to Csilla: Some men raise five thousand roses in the same garden. And they still don't find what they are looking for. But I need only one and I found it. Happy Valentine's Day with XXXX from Chesterfield, Bambino, MANGO — but most of all from Bronzino.

Vell, and this is to Csilla: Some women raise one rose in the same garden, and they still don't find what they are looking for. But I need five thousand and I found them. Happy Valentine Day, Alice.

Boo-Boo: You saw the other one but not this one. Still wub my heady? And I'm hungwy! Boo-Boo.

To Forsh: We could have high times, if you'll ablige. Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Nancy.

Harvey: You're my summer love in the spring, fall, and winter. You could make happy any girl alive. Love, Janet.

To 49 Townhouse: You're Daddy's were high the night they creamed up you. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Janet & Nancy.

Dear Deb and Cindy: Hope you have a happy Valentine's Day, Love, the Single in Field.

Amherst Travel
Consultants, Inc.
"Your travel agent!"
256-6704

Hallmark Cards
Monday is Valentine's Day
Today is your last chance to shop our complete selection of Valentine cards and gifts. Don't forget!
A. J. Hastings
45 S. Pleasant St.
Amherst

Vision Showcase
(formerly House of Vision)
Kent Whalen - Licensed Optician
We are Specialists in:
- Fashion Eyewear
- Contact Lenses
- Emergency Replacements
- Free Adjustments Anytime
- We Clean & Polish contact lenses on the premises.

We also carry fashion styles by Diane Von Furstenberg & Oscar Dela Renta
Mt. Farms Mall, Hadley 584-8324

fabric & yarn
...a great selection!
the shop for busy hands
EJ EARTHWARES
103 N. PLEASANT/AMHERST 256-8810

EASTERN MOUNTAIN SPORTS
Monday-Friday 9a.m.-9p.m.
Saturday 9a.m.-5:30p.m.
EMS/Amherst
Route 9, Amherst-Hadley Line 253-9504

Valentines Day Special
Gaze Into The Past, Present and Future
Have Your Fortune Read With Any Purchase
Or a Slight Charge
By Barbara Rushmore
Tarot Reader
Saturday, February 12 &
Monday, February 14
10 a.m.-6 p.m.
love at first sight
549-0700
Carriage Shops, Amherst

To Snuggle Bunny: What can I say but I love you. Cuddle Bunny.

B. Goober: So what if I wear socks to bed! Happy Valentine's Day — I love you. Tootsie.

Jerry W: Where have you been? The gang at Farley pleasurably awaits you. Too-da-Loo! Sweet Buns.

Don: There you were, all the time. I love you madly Valentine. Joyce.

Happy love day to everybody. Love Pj.

To Wench, Farrah, Jane, Pixie and Dixie. We may bother you, but will you be our valentines! Bob & Dave.

To Richard, My Sweetheart: My snail needs hugs. Can I melt frogurt in your mouth? I love you. Silly Bear.

To Brucee & Provalonee: All joking and kidding and yes, even all hitting aside, you are our favorite two jerks.

To the Buzzotto: Straight kites, moose parts, "cool it with the whoops", Playgirl, lilypads. Thanks. Happy V.D. J.B.

MLPB: Who needs cupid with you around? Hey you got sixty cents? Come on over. I love you. Pete.

Jim: You never had it so good. Happy Valentines Day. Love, Mary.

Bruce: I love you with all my heart. Happy Valentines, Honey. Love, Judy.

Hey Dumb Bunny: I miss you and send my love and sunshine...today and always. Toodles.

Paul: You're the best Valentine I could ever have. Love always, Jill.

Hockatocka: Wanna eat you madly. Distance is 50 miles. Together soon always. On each others faces we'll put smiles. Callaballa.

To Snuggle Bunny: What can I say but I love you. Cuddle Bunny.

To Skinny: I love you. Alvin.

To my Teddy bear: May this be only the second of hundreds of valentine days we share together. Love Boris.

To Dotty: All my love. Ron.

Dear Chesty: I need energy.I'm sure an innvative wench like you can supply it. Love, Butch.

To Jimbo: You're the best, for a long, long time. Elisa.

Steve: How was your "week-end in New England? NEAT! I love your smile. Carol.

Frisky: Ich habe dich leiba. Never a bovine moment, because you're the best! We try the hardest! Love, Chesty.

To L&M Incorporated: We love your "rassamatassles" and that ain't all! Happy Valentines Day. With love, Laverne & Shirley Happy Valentines Day, Davey! You drive me cravey, come again and save me before I turn to gravey. Love, Raine.

To P.W.: Happy Valentines Day Cutie! Two down and ninety-eight more to go. Fats.

Patty in 320: You use to be close to me. I hope you are again soon. Love the Greatest.

To Lovi Kas. 210: I make you happy and laugh, you told me and I'm different than anybody else. Cutie

To Ina: I still want to give you that special kiss from New Year's Eve. Love, Mark.

To Debbie in 418: I'm mad a lot, but it's mostly about you! Happy Valentine's Day! Guess Who?

Claire in 413: I know a girl named Claire. If only you knew how much I care. Love, Crazy.

Picture an empty house, a hot fire, Paul Sullivan tennis shorts and a farmer's daughter. That's me and my Valentine!

? Ebbbob sevol tonkram wonk ew od Tub, ydnic sevol det wonk lla ew.

Second Floor Washington: Happy Valentine's Day to the greatest people in the entire world. The Purple Thumb. Pip Ho.

Spacey Katy, Prancy Nancy, Smiley Ellie, Solemn Ellen, Chatty Maddy, Indi Cindi, Marshy Marcia, Handi Sandi, Swelle Michelle and Bib Momma: Happy V.D.! John.

Princess Bonny: When the hell are you going to start helping me with the dishes? Happy, happy second Valentine's Day of our relationship. Love you, John.

To JLM: Cupid, draw back your bow, and let your arrow go...11-6-76. Happy Valentine Day Babe! Love, LAL.

To: "Smokey", How do I love you, let me count the ways...Get my drift?

To my most beautiful Pumpkin — I love you deeply. From, Lamb Chop.

To Jill, Jane, Judy, Susan, Debby, Carla: Now that I have your attention, you are all my valentines. Kid Colombo.

Airball: You were great on the slopes. Hopy to see you this weekend. Thanks! Love, Muscles.

R.E.B. Have a happy day my friend. Luv & kisses (!) Garbo.

To All My Beautiful, Black Brothers and Sisters: You will always be my Valentine. I love you — LuJuane Crockett.

To John (Fats): I love you and want to be your Valentine today, and your honey bunnt always. Pam (Weas)

To Kar: Happy Valentine Day with all my love. Babes.

To The Z Birds in 205: Happy Valentine's Day! May it be special. P.S. Happy Birthday Ace! From The Bird Lovers in 218.

To Bob: Happy Valentine's Day with love. Lynn.

To R.M. You are the best! Happy Valentine Day. Love Always, R.L.

To Lori C: Tequero, what's for dessert? La Guagua Charlie. Happy Valentine's Day. Love Randy S.

Hey Putzie! Be my friend! Happy V.D. Love, B.J.

Noogie: What's at B.J. Happy V.D. Love, Marshmellow.

To my Squirt King: Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Gooba Jr.

To the Duke of Jocks: All Schnoras make good lovers..but you are the BEST! I Love You, Babe.

Happy Valentine's Day to Bill, Judy, Tiki, Tinker, Kassy & Tiger. From Mike, Joyce, Jamie, Jason, Sam & those other two.

Batman: Be my Valentine, or you won't get no goodies! I love you. Wonderwoman.

To: Bo who is your little whoosie? Happy Valentine's Day. I love you! T.

Dave: Have a Happy Valentine Day. Bach.

VALENTINE: You love those Ichy Pasteries. I love chocolate w-chocolate. But our differences make our beauty. Foreever my love.

F.B., Thanks for all the great times. Love, Buckwheat.

To "J": AMALAGOUS! What more can I say. Love, "Mc"

Clarabelle: Have I told you that I love you lately? Happy Valentine's Day. Schmidty.

To the boys on 3 south, you're the nerdiest. Love from the women.

Sneakin: Happy three weeks and a wish for many more. Happy Valentine's Day and remember summer camp. Much love. R.D.S.

Krit and Loo-Hoo, I like mice, Bullfrogs are nice. You're okay, too. Your sweet ----.

Hal: Roses are Red, Violets are Blue. I like girls, I'm not sure about you. Bean.

J.A.G.B. All my love for you on Valentine's Day as every other day! W.B.III

J.A.G.B. I love you. Snookie-Doo

Daughter of Alex & Melba, I love you very much! Son of Bill & Cille.

Prof. Kofler: Thanks for the help in Physics. I intend on paying you back. Happy Valentine's Day. Miss October '76.

Happy Valentine's Day Froggy, Ribit-Ribit-Ribit Ily from your frog. Jon.

Dear Robert Axnikon: If the sun refused to shine I would still be loving you. Much love, Jussie's Mother.

Dearest Big Guy: Love you forever and forever, love you with all my heart. Worm Lips.

Patty: You are the woman of my dreams. It's never unfun to be with you. With love - Stevie.

My dear Tricia, Ronni, Susie and Petie: WHY IS A BASKETBALL?? THE GUY WITH THE BABY BLUE LOVES YOU.

'Lau: Too all our "it was bad to, mmm - but I had to's." Happy Valentine's Day - 'Nanc.

To Bubbles: You tickle my "fancy." Be my Goof. Love, Cheeks.

To Chito: Happy Valentine's Day. Your loving puppy.

To Larry, Greg, Amy: Happy Valentine's Day!! From mom.

To Deenie: Will you be mine-forever? Have a very Happy Valentine's Day. All my love, Danny.

To Earl and Craeman: We have not forgotten you, our brothers. Happy Valentine's Day. LuJuane.

To our dearest graphics art manager- Happy Valentine's Day. Love from your faithful volunteers.

Hey Mucker: Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Putzie.

Jellybean: Almost a year, it's been wonderful!! Love, fif.

My Little Goober: May we spend our lives together playing a little bit. Your S&O Angel.

To E.T.G.: Only the Beginnings and 99 more to go! Happy Valentine's Day and glad we're back together. Love always, Lin.

Sally Kleppin: How could I forget you on this memorable occasion. HVD from your old roomie. Love, S.

To Nasser & Angela: for expressing OUR Blackness so beautifully in Black Affairs, I love you. LuJuane.

HVD to two of my favorite counselors — Terry and Louise. Love from Room 408.

"... and the world was right, when she made love to me. We were free." I love you, Daphne! Dave.

Bud: Without Rose? What would life be? Lacking a dear friend and very empty. Happy V. Day. Love you, Chris.

Boobra: I look like a TUBA cuz my best friend is Boobra But I love her anyway. Happy "V" Day. Olga.

I wish they all could be navigator men. Happy Valentine's Day. Love from the women.

Jimmie D.: Cows in the meadow, hay's in the horn? Happy Valentine's Day Now and every morn. Guess who?

Scott: I think you're tremendous. Happy V.D.

To Pepe: More than yesterday, but less than tomorrow. CO.

To my 6th floor field friends: Thankx for everything! I love you! I'm not horsing around either! Guess Who!

MDA: Lose your heads on Valentine's Day?-Two English muffins dentists say will cure if taken twice a day. BBA.

Steve Stpec: I horse you giving. You're hero of my times. What do about John, etc.? HVD. Cassie Chadbourne.

Dana: You are the sunshine of my life. 2½ great years — let's just be us tonight. Happy V's Day. Me.

Honey: Adjustments take time. We've got a lot of living to do. Love will keep us together. Love, Poomp.

Dear Pound: A non-red valen for you if you'll be my valentine. All my love, Banana Radio.

To Pat, my sweetie! Happy Valentine's Day from the girl whose "big brown eyes" trick isn't as effective minus glasses.

Mark: Miss those late night rendevous with you. Come on funny face, Pick up the pace! With love, Your RA.

To Kazys, Bruce, Kurt, Carl and John: Happy Valentine's Day, you handsome devils! Sticky.

Gorballs, Hot chocolate, cotton, pudgy or just Amy Goren: Happy Valentine's Day! All the Best! Luv, Munchy Your Rommy, Carol.

To Herr Winter: Du bist ein schweinhund! Aber ich ein dich, du schuft du! Liebe, Kathy M.

Andy: I say love, it means many things. I say I LOVE YOU ANDY, it means many more things. Carol.

Freddie Mercury: I love your bod! You make me extra horny. I have sexy hots for you! Love, Your Queen Michelle.

Andy: To say I LOVE YOU ANDY and not mean it is ridiculous. Believe me, I am not ridiculous. Carol.

Deat Latiny: I love you today, I'll love you always. You are my permanent Valentine. David.

Stacy: Be my sweet Babboo. Love ya, Dana.

Bob, Alan, Bubs: Bubbles Buels are like lead Studly stayhard's are RED Though Bob is a slob. I'll take that crawacha instead.

To: Jackie-poo alias Charles Bronson Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Chuckies Angels, Debby, Karen, Carol, Wendy, and Cindy.

Hey Kid: Wanna go to summer camp with me? Happy Three Weeks! Sneakin.

To Kevin G.: Happy Valentine's Day, Toots! I wuv you, I wuv you, I wuv you. S.V.L.

To Don Alan: Your still the one after all these years. Happy Valentine Day. Love, Mother Hen.

KLH: Happy VD, find one that really screams one of these nights. D.

For a joyous Valentine I wish a young lamb in your backyard from the Gipsy, Mango, Bambino and Chesterfield.

Sister Kinga: I wish a wish a wish a star, while you wishing for bigger and better things for Valentine.

JR: Thanks for being such a great friend and roomie. Happy Valentine's Day! Love, D.G.

Billy, Billy Landers: He's my man. If he can't get it up nobody can. Happy V.D. George.

To Michael J.: Happy Valentine's Day! Let's celebrate, I have a great "New deal" in mind!! Doog.

To 2nd VMS: The Best Bunch of people to live with. Happy Valentine's Day. Rm 206.

Paul: You make everything beautiful, just by being you. Thanks and I love you. Sport.

Jeanne: I possess mois for blahs, bubbles for troubles, and squeezes as you pleases. Valentine joy for your employ! Lucky.

Dear Deb and Cindi: Hope my Valentine's have a Happy Valentine's Day. Love, The single in field.

To Mark S.: Happy Valentine's Day to the best bundt head in the whole dong nose world. Love, B'nannabelle & Til.

Jinx: When you rock and roll with me, there's no one else I'd rather be. XXXX Barbara.

To Third Short Moore House: You people are the greatest. I love you all. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Chelsea.

To Suma: Thanks for being you. I love and thank you for being there always. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Chelsea.

To G.J.: The stars don't equal the light of the moon, and the sun has yet to meet the horizon. Your VB.

Colleen: Didn't we go to different schools together? I'm dubious. Up with elevators going down! Happy Valentine's Day. Cassandra.

John: I'd rather have you than my nose full of mickels. Happy V. Day. Love, Stella Bodge.

To Sugar Bear: May Our hearts NEVER part. Happy V Day!!! Teamo Crisp.

To M.: Zarunthusa forever. I am you. A.

Have a Happy Valentines Day Big Sis. Don't worry, I don't have anyone either, Love, Little Brother.

Happy Valentine's Day 04 Cashin! Love, MA.

To Jen: Happy Valentine's Day! Next time. Magic.

To Snow Bunny: Sending all my love from me to you this Valentine's Day. Magic.

Happy Valentine's Greenough. Love, Scott.

Valentine's Day. A special for special people. Why not celebrate at the Rusty Scupper.

Dear Bill: Happy Valentine's Day, we love you very much! Love, kisses & Hugs. Edward, Bill, Coacoq Hesmyin and Hiana.

To Miss Couch on the 14th. Love and Kissy. Kissy, Buzz.

C. Bond: May your dreams come true. Signed, A Dream.

To Toots: Unable to say this any other way. I can see only one way. I love you. Ellen.

To Murph: Hunting for a valentine? I'm a thriller! Happy V.D.

Happy First Anniversary to the Best, most handsome, thoughtful and wonderful hubbie in the world! I love you, Your Wifey.

Daniel: Happy Valentine's Day. I'm not sorry except that it's Monday — you rat! Thanks buddy. Love, Faith.

To Woodsie: Here's to good times for 2 so far, and a coupy million more. Love, Brian.

To Anne: Happy Valentine's Day and thanks for keeping me warm on all those cold winter nights. John.

Let it Raine, let it Raine. Let you love rain down on me. Happy Valentine's Day to my favorite. C.B.

Dear Deb: Even though I can't be with you on Valentine's Day, you're still my valentine. Love, Bruce.

your Redken retail center
Ask about our apprentice haircutter!!!
'THE CELLAR'
189 North Pleasant St. 253-7341 Amherst

HAHJEE'S
Have your Valentine's Day at Hahjee's Place.
Enjoy our Crepes: Rataoville, Cheese Delight, dela Mec
Persian Gourmet Cooking: Rack of Lamb Shishkebab, Mousaka, Egg Plant, Siciliano
VEGETARIAN DISHES! Homoose, Baba Ganuche, Ali Baba Sandwiches, Grills, and a variety of imported wine and beer.
DESSERT: Baklava and new crepe desserts
Daily 11:00 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Weekends 'til 1:00
Route 9 in Hadley Call 584-9797

THE WINTER SALE
Alpine Ski Equipment
25% OFF
Values to 50% off and more on Ski Wear
Sportswear
Lingerie
Thru March 1st
Empsall's Sport Shop
&
Laura Girard Shop
84-86 Green Street
Northampton
584-3924 584-4003

½ price SALE ½ price
Monday thru Friday, Feb. 14-Feb. 18
pockets a little bear and tummy's super empty.
Buy one sandwich and get the second one for ½ price.
Eat it here or take it with you.
Limited to the following:
TUNA SALAD EGG AND OLIVE
TURKEY SALAD SLICED TURKEY.
½ price ½ price
BREAKFAST ANYTIME. Open 7 a.m.-7 p.m.
Gaslite II 162 N. Pleasant St., Amherst

FENTON'S ATHLETIC SUPPLIES ....
WE SUPPLY THE AMHERST AREA WITH THE FINEST IN ATHLETIC SUPPLIES & EQUIPMENT
★ Soccer ★ Football ★ Tennis
★ Track ★ Lacrosse ★ Squash
377 MAIN ST. 253-3973

Bell's Pizza House
Sure you can do without the Best.
But you don't have to.
Bell's Pizza.
Free Delivery on Campus Sun.-Thurs.
256-8011 253-9051 65 Univ. Drive

Bill and Dave: You two on our floor washing pots and pans galore if you want to bake make a valentine's cake.

Andrea: The cribbage game is going well because of the smoke that we smell, you're really swell, we can tell.

Robbie: There is an arrow through your guitar, it came from afar, cupid missed, now he's pissed. Happy Valentine's Day.

Wendy S.: Swimming and exercising to together, just like Leigh and Wendy; birds of a feather, Happy Fourteenth!

Nancy & Anne: We're glad that you're around, from your room comes no sound, here's a valentine wish, for living near the fish.

Tud and Dufe: Our musical pair, you do play fair, write a valentine song about us, we'd appreciate the fuss.

Dave G.: We like your wine and we think you're just fine. Hope you have a nice Valentine. Happy Day.

Lucy: F.U. with love from your future Brother-in-law. Happy Valentine's.

To Michael: I hope you always remember the happy times we've shared. Happy Valentine's Day. I love you always. "Toots".

To Ed: May we always be blessed with the happiness we've shared this past year. Happy Valentine's Day. I love you oodles! Love, Bear.

To Magic: A part of me will always be you, that much is certain no matter what else happens. Chris.

To the best waiter at the Coachhouse: I just love your hair and even your nervous hands! Happy VD. Mumbles.

To Janet: Hey — I carry your heart with me (I carry it in my heart). Richard.

To Miss Newman: The Girl of my Dreams. Love from Joe of SBA.

To Dan B.: Be my valentino. Love P.P. P.S. This is about as original as I could get.

To Boo: Happy Valentine's Day! I love your guts! From Boo.

Mike: Roses are Yellow, Forget Me Nots are Blue, Little birds know, I Love You. Happy Valentine's Day. Lorn.

Les: Put the wonders of the earth, flowers and the heavens together and you have us. Happy V-D Day, Me.

M.L.: Our week of separation was great; hope it continues for a long time! Love, cuddle nap.

T.: Please be our bunsamatic, waldorific, most bestest buddy and Valentine forever and ever. Love always, Bunsy and Chrissy Bear.

My Toobe Dentist: Congratulations! Honey, we're gonna be rich! Your fox cuddler says: Wet noses are beautiful! Happy 4th Valentine!

To Bobby: Everyone needs someone, and I'm glad my someone is you. Love, Patty.

Hi-ya J.B.!: Happy Valentine's Day! Signed, The Girl with the Soggy Buns.

To Junior: Come and get your valentine present...you'll get a rise out of it!! Love, Sam.

To the brothers of Pi Lambda Phi: Have a coffee time on Valentine's Day! Love from the Dig Danger Squad.

Gorgeous: You have made my life so fulfilling and happy. My love is for you forever. All my love, Tim.

Sweety-Pie: Happy First Valentine's Day. May we have many more. I love you. Poopsie.

For those of you at the 75 Shlitzarama — Lee Ann is back!!

Happy Thanksgiving, Mac.

2nd floor Kennedy and Gary, Happy Valentine's Day, Love 2-South.

Dear Fran, Cathy, Sue, Sherry, Steve, Steve, Joe, John, and anyone else who hangs out in 709. Happy Valentine's Day.

To "The Fellas": We have a "Basketball Jones" for you. Be our Valentine. The Sisters of Crampton.

Leroy: May our "Valentine Love" grow into something more beautiful. Y.S.L.

To Harry: May you be walking down the street and get attacked by a big, juicy red strawberry. Love, Gretchel.

Scooter and Kevin: Roses are red, Violets are blue, Come to our house and have a few. Love Kisses, P.E.A.S.

Tom — To the man with the devil in his eyes and who put Cupid in my heart. Love, Donna.

Little redhead Alice, welcome back to Wonderland from Studds-city USA, where there was a cockoo in your nest.

The Lines of your design are ooo so fine, be my Valentine to Ainslie. R.A.G.

To SDF: "The mighty power of love - it can do so much." Happy V-day. Love Popsicle.

To Laurie T.: Eugene Pagano wishes you a Happy Valentine's Day. Love, T.G.

Sandy L.: A valentine from the heart, no one else could play the part, here's your surprise, surprise, surprise. Happy V.D.

P. Fish: A counselor from the heart Feb. 14th, we'll tear the floor apart, cupid may hide your sneakers - beware. A Valentine's Threat.

Charlie K.: We'd like to give you days of skiing, it would make you a complete human being. Happy Valentine's Day!

Joint Marion: Cupid wants to smoke your pot, your window's the prime spot, Feb. 14th there'll be alot! A Valentine's Prank.

Mindy & Sue: How do you do, cupid will aim his arrow at you, but for who? Our Valentine's Treat in Print.

Rich C.: You're too skinny, it's plain to see, you look like a "birtch tree", this valentine is meant for thee!

To Tunde Elizabeth: A big hug for Valentine from Pinocchio, keep a smile to melt the snow.

Dear love, Thanks for being my Valentine, love-o.

Happy Valentine's Day to Shoe, Petey, Ditch, Baby, Mark, Tom, Chop, Dana, Kev; You Saps, from Scott and Larry.

Steve Thompson is my favorite valentine because if anyone bothers me, he'll just beat their head in. Nancy Dowd.

Mike, Tony, Steven, Willy, Craig, Joe, Christine, Sandra, Marcia, Tommy, all 3rd dark Pierpont, you are hot shuts, Love Faith.

To L.A.R.: I'll love you always. The good times far outweight the bad ones: Let's go for 9. Happy 8. Love, Snail.

To Jean D.: Lovers together, lovers apart, lovers forever, you and I. Have a Happy Valentine's Day. Love: Pat D.

Hope Ann, Jo-Ann, Laura, Joan, Judy and Melody have a Happy Valentine's Day! Nancy.

Dear Shari: Happy Valentine Day to my favorite beauty queen. God, you would do that to me. Richie.

Kevin, Billy, NVBS & Mike, Happy V-Day! Kisses, Cathy.

Fred. How about a nice ten sometime? Let me know. Goober.

Hipcheck — Happy Valentine's Day and Happy Anniversary. It has be "FATE" for sure. Know we'll always be together. Love, Anne.

Cindi — Thanks for being the best roommate this Koala Bear ever had! Happy Valentine's Day! Ellen.

L.R.: The closer we get, the happier I am. A.C.

To Maryann: Ours is forever not just for today. Happy Valentine's Day, Babe! Love, Michael.

To Lovers of 92 — Bear hugs — Peter Pan — Wise Owls — Foster children — I love you all, A.C. Brownie Eater.

To my Favorite Cart, who puts fire in my heart. I still sit and stare, but I'd love to dare......

Charlie: If you'll be my Valentine, I'll make it worth your while!! Happy Valentine's Day, Leslee.

To My Two "Pals": Two neater friends will no one know, warm loving vibrations that will continue to grow. Peggy.

To Lisa, Barb, and Cin: This comes from deep within. There could never be ones much wierder than you three.

To My Buddies in B-1 and B-2: Hope you have a Happy Heart Day! Affectionately, Stuart.

Pedu: 3 years now with so much more to come, laughing and loving with you sure is fun! Love, Valerie.

Laurel: You're radiant personality coupled with you ability to smile with abandon makes you a joy to be with. Mark.

David: Do you know who this is from? You KNOW? Happy V.D. — You know who!!

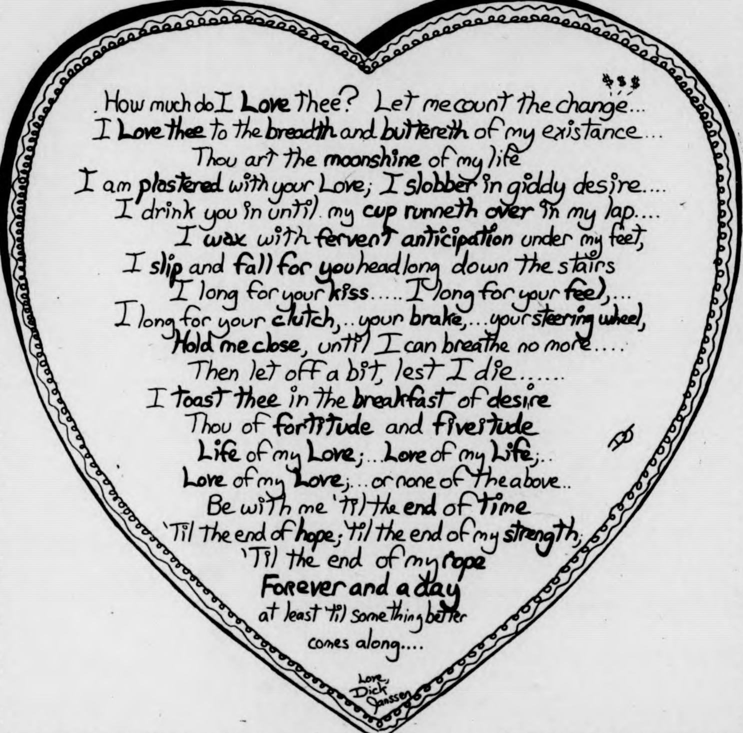
To my Bobbsey twin: Party Joe — HUG ME! Love and kisses on Valentine's Day from a secondary unit.

To Leslie: "To flow as one, is loves reward"... Your with me always! Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Dave.

To Lizzy, Freckles (Carol), and Cute T.: "NO SITTING" on Valentine's Day! Love, OP.

To Ralph: Forever and ever I love you. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Linda.

Sandy: Hey beautiful, I love you now more than ever. I just love to rocknroll all night, Oh yeah! Love, Jerry.



How much do I Love thee? Let me count the change...
I Love thee to the breadth and buttereth of my existance...
Thou art the moonshine of my life
I am plastered with your Love; I slobber in giddy desire....
I drink you in until my cup runneth over in my lap....
I wax with fervent anticipation under my feet,
I slip and fall for you headlong down the stairs
I long for your kiss..... I long for your feel,...
I long for your clutch,.. your brake,... your steering wheel,
Hold me close, until I can breathe no more....
Then let off a bit, lest I die......
I toast thee in the breakfast of desire
Thou of fortitude and fiveitude
Life of my Love;... Love of my Life;..
Love of my Love;... or none of the above..
Be with me 'til the end of time
'Til the end of hope; 'til the end of my strength;
'Til the end of my rope
Forever and a day
at least 'til something better comes along....

Love,
Dick Janssen

Hey there Blynis Gean: One by you, two by me Happy Valentine's Day to thee. Your day has come. SAW.

To Deb V.: I love ya, even if you did shoot my coke. D.A.P.

To Niffy Pooh: You're the best valentine any Egg could ask for. Thank you for being mine. Love, Eggy.

To my Handsome Teddy Bear: I love you and your dimples! Happy Valentine's Day! Love from your Tigress.

Julie my little Chiquita: Sweet love to you, Twirl around and make me smile. I love you. Julie & Rich.

To the people of fourth south field house: We had a great last semester. Let's do it again! 425.

To Jan: Happy Valentine's Day. Nick.

To Alpha Phalpha: I love all you crazy ladies. Little Alvin.

To Kathleen J.D.: Roses are red, Violets are blue, You're the sexiest thing on campus and I love you! Be Mine. Love, Mike.

Dear "T": Happy Valentine's Day. You're my one and only always. Love, Chi.

To Lynn M. Tavares: Happy Valentine's Day to someone special from your unofficial roommate.

Alex E.: You couldn't carry our jocks. Love, Butch and Bernard.

Burnsie, Mickey, Thurmon and Catfish are waiting for their weekly B.J.'s. Love, George S.

Jim from Dracut: If I tell you you have a nice body, will you hold it against me? Love, CKR.

To Toots: I wouldn't dream of having anyone else for my valentine. Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Bird Turd.

To My P.: Thanks for making my Valentine Day a happy one — you're the only one who could! H.P.B.

Jim Town: Would you sign my jeans next time you're in the DC? An Admirer in SW.

To Deb: Every moment with you is a sunny day! Be my Valentine girl everyday of the year. Love, Bill.

Lance, Lance... pulled down his pants, the moon was shining bright. The D.C. girls went into a trance... Few tables got washed that night! "Happy Valentine's Day!" The 306 Delights.

Ms. EHP: Bet Redlich — Kwong never celebrated Valentine's Day! My stoned spring skunk predicts an excellent SP '77. WHAGSAI Puff.

J.Q.A. 6th, Fellow O.S.R.'s, and the best H.R. around. May Peaches in Nashville Bong you onto "the bench." B.

Julia: Did you think I'd forget? Happy Valentine's Day, Jonathan.

Princess: Even though we can't be together today, Cupid is sending my love. Happy Valentine's Day. Jeff.

DAK, Happy Valentine's Day, cushioned in love, relax on the wind, soar through gentle minds into everlasting simplicity. Love, Me.

To Dick: I love you and always will. Time only tells if we are valentines forever. Happy Valentine's Day. Robyn.

To Joni, Monica, Chris, Diana, Mark, Mike, Peter: Happy Valentine's Day, Kids! Love, Bonnie.

To Tom Griffin: Happy Valentine's Birthday! Love, Bonnie.

To Polly, Brian, Bruce, Wick, Tasha, Punkie, Mikie, and Harry: Much love today and always, Happy Valentine's Day. Bonnie.

To 1304: Happy Valentine's Day! From 615.

Malisa of SDT: Happy V.D. with love. The Woobsi.

To Marcy: Would you be my valentine 'cause I'm cravin' ya body like a monkey see and a monkey do. Love, Tomas.

Lisa Libra: Since the eclipse you and the Scorpian Venus have induced felicitious feelings. Now it's your turn. Libido Libra.

Snail: Thank you for making my world complete. May our love continue to grow until... Lark.

To 1st Floor Cashin: Does life on the 1st floor produce impotency? Research being done in 103. Volunteers welcome.

To 103 Cashin: Suites for the sweet or sweets for the suite. Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Donna.

Tweety: Happy V.D. and No. 29!! Keep chirping. Love, Tiger.

Ronnie: Happy 3rd Valentine's Day. "We're still having fun and you're still the one. Love, Mocha

Liz: I love you today, tomorrow, forever. Happy Valentine's Day! Ding

To Maureen: Roses are a nice gift. You're even better. ILyoovue. Bill

Cath: Thanks for everything rommie you've been super!

Bobby, Barry, Sheila, Will, Maureen, Fred, Mike — Happy Valentine's Day! Diane

To Peter: The one who brightens all my days. May you always be my year-round Valentine. xxoo, Jerry

Mike B: A night is but a blink in our lifetime, but my heart is yours forever. Happy V.D., Babe. Love, Maw

Dough Boy: I hope you'll be mine today and always. Happy Valentine's Day! With much love, Your little C.T.

To Unka Boy-Boy: I should have known a geologists would have a good set of rocks! XOEL

To Weedhead: Happy Valentine's Day, my sweet babboo. Love and kisses, Crouton

Address this to Kathryn ... Maybe to Kate. I won't call you anymore that name you hate! Happy Valentine's Day! Chump!

Your forest, caterpillar, roar, and smile turn me on love. You mean everything to me. Love ya always, Your VB

Suan: Don't trust boys with water beds. Granny Grenade

Barbara and Lisa: Nice girls don't have saxaphone players hanging around their rooms. Granny

Joanne, Elaine, Chris, Fran and Judy: I couldn't forget you sweethearts on Valentine's Day. Cupid

Happy Valentine's Day to all our friends: We can't begin to name you all, we're just too popular. Just remember we're always available. See you all at the next party. We'll be together, dead drunk, and screaming. The Girls of 69; Aris, Patty, Sharon and Teresa

To Chuck M: Thanks for helping us out. You're wonderful. Happy Valentine's Day. Love: The Queens, D and N

To Mark P: Have a Happy Valentine's Day. Wish we were together. Love forever, Susan

Dear Mike: We've spent a wonderful summer, fall and winter. How about spring? I'll love you always. Laura

Boo-Boo: Wub my headie? Boo-Boo

Edie: We've only just begun to live and love. Thanks for a wonderful life and to our future. J.W.

Jay: I want your body!! Meet you in the darkroom tonight at nine. Take a Wild Guess

Dear Pieface: Round head loves you and wishes you a very happy Valentine's Day. Say hi to Pinky for me. Love, Head

To: Chris, Joanne, Kathy, Katie, Linda and Vicki. Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Michelle

To: Brian, Freddie and Roger, the three Queens. We love you! Vicki, Kathy and Michelle

To: Cathy S: Happy Valentine's Day. You've made me very happy. I love you. Glenn Asses: Aris is emberrassed. I hope you'll always be my Buddy. Brat

Rectum: You should be a bed for Valentine's Day, too. Stay close, okay: Testes

To King NAD: This kingdom wouldn't be the same without you. Happy Valentine's Day! Love Princess Enniroc

Stephanie: Hello Beautiful! Have a Happy Valentine Day. A pretty rose and precious jewel. The Poet

Brother (N.E.S.W.): I was just thinking of you! Happy Valentine's Day. Shhhh!!!!

To the Stef: Always remember, the Wren loves you. Happy Valentine's Day 1-4-3!!

Happy Valentine's Day to Pat, Denny, MaryEllen, Timmy, Stephanie, Patrick, Hosh and Fred. Love, Sheila .. See you soon

Moorefood: Even though you have no ankles you're be far the best roommate! Happy Valentine's Day — Loopeye

M.H.P.: "One love that is shared by two. I have found with you. Love you. Happy Valentine's Day — M.J.L.

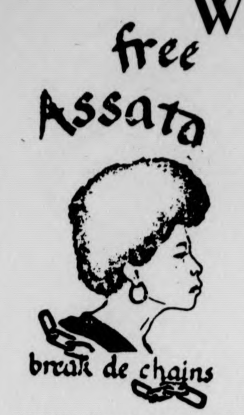
Pilot Screama Quinn: Thanks for everything, especially for being YOU! Happy Valentine's Day. All my love, BA

To Cathy, Bonnie, Marie, Debbie, Mary, Karin, Joan and Eileen ... Happy Valentine's Day, from Peter, Doug, Dave, John and Joe

Dear Karen: Happy Valentine's Day and with any luck I'll be home the 25th. Love, Pete

Happy Valentine's Day Gayle A! All my love now and always. Ron G! P.S. There will be a lot more to come.

Why Is Assata On Trail ?



The following article appeared in "CONTRAST", Ontario, Canada's Black Community newspaper and was written by Edwin B. Hogan.

"What is left?
After the bars and gates and the degradation
What is left?" — Assata Shakur

Although the chance of spectators disrupting a trial, or the defendant escaping from the courtroom, are one in a million, extraordinary security measures at "public trials" have become a familiar scene dotting the American landscape. Each judge who is appointed an opportunity to preside over a "political trial" endeavors to surpass his predecessors with even more elaborate security procedures. And each makes a bigger mockery of American justice.

No longer is it uncommon to view a political trial through a thick, bullet-proof glass shield, while being viewed over closed-circuit television, after passing through exotic metal detector devices where the public and press are formally fingerprinted and photographed for future reference. Nor is it out of the ordinary for the defendent to arrive amidst an entourage of sirens wailing, a kaleidoscope of flashing red and white lights, motorcycle escorts, and a procession of police vehicles. The tragicomedy is a media event which is usually complete when a petite, diminutive woman with handcuffs, leg irons, and chains, emerges from her towering, rifle-toting escorts, as the subject for such electrifying security and precaution.

And if the state has its way, the scenario will be repeated again in New Brunswick, New Jersey, beginning January 17, 1977, if we do not come out and show that we love our freedom fighter, Assata Shakur, (Joanne Chesimard). After three years of forced participation in this bizarre script, Assata has become a veritable veteran. Her tiny wrists and ankles are accustomed to shackles which she wears with the same majestic dignity as she wears her gold earrings and proud Afro hairdo.

So it is not Assata who has become dehumanized and defiled by her uncouth persecution, but those who have subjected her to it as a reaction to her political beliefs and principales, along with the public which allows it, are reduced and exposed for their wretched barbarism and viciousness. While Assata emerges regal and saintly, her tormentors take on grotesque dimensions frightening to the mind.

On May 2nd 1973, Zayd Malik Shakur, (James Costan), Sundiata Acoli (Clark Squire), and Assata, were stopped on the New Jersey Turnpike by State Trooper Werner Foerster and James Harper for having a broken tail light on their car. What followed, only the survivors really know, but Zayd Shakur and Trooper Foerster were killed, Trooper Harper was wounded, and Assata suffered near fatal gunshot woulds from a .357 magnum pistol. Sundiata fled the scene, only to be captured in a field 2 miles away, some 40-hours later.

During the subsequent three years have followed, Assata has fought for her life and freedom in an incredible series of trials. In October of 1973, Assata and Sundiata began jury selection in New Brunswick, New Jersey. The panel was so prejudiced and tainted that the judge finally granted a defense motion of change the site for jury selection. The trial was postponed for a few weeks, and Assata was spirited over to New York to face an assortment of other charges.

Her defense team, geared for one trial, was ill-prepared to cope with another, but over defense protestations, the trial proceeded not reach a decision. So she was retired within a month, which resulted in a finding of "Not Guilty."

Assata was quickly returned to New Jersey, where jury selection was to begin, but when it was disclosed that she was pregnant, her case was severed from Sundiata's over both of their protests, and singularly, Sundiata was found guilty in a sham trail held in one of the richest and whitest counties in the United States. He received a sentence of life, plus 30 years, in Trenton State Prison.

In May of 1974, while six months pregnant, Assata was brought back to New York to face charges of attempting to murder two New York police officers. She was acquitted of those charges in August by a jury, but not by the eleven male guards who unmercifully beat her a month later, exactly ten days after she'd given birth to a daughter. Kakuya ("Hope for the future"), for refusing to submit to an examination by a prison doctor, not her choosing.

Undaunted, Assata was tried for bank robbery and kidnap during December of 1975, and acquitted by a jury. A month later, in January of 1976, she was tried for another bank robbery and again, acquitted.

Exhausted and weary from defending herself against every conceivable crime New York and federal authorities could hurl against her, Assata was returned to New Jersey in a caravan of 40 State and County police, to a specially constructed cage in the basement of the otherwise all-male Middlesex County Jail. Assata is the first and only woman to be held in solitary confinement, except for the 24-hour-a-day guard posted outside her cage who logs her every movement, while she awaits still another trial in which the state seeks to imprison her for the rest of her life. And although she has never been convicted of a crime in her life, she is held without bond, like a wild animal.

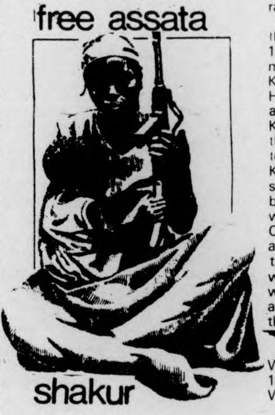
Why? Well the media has painted her as the "soul" of the BLA (Black Liberation Army) and a revolutionary. Whether she is or not, her co-defendants in every trial are alleged members of the BLA, or former Black Panthers. So, if the media portrayals are even partially correct and Assata does, indeed, lend "soul" to the BLA, it raises some very interesting and provocative questions.

You see, both Assata and Sundiata, the survivors of the so-called "shootout" which left Zayd Shakur and Trooper Foerster dead, are college educated. Both of them are articulate, intelligent, educated and talented. They exemplify the qualities and qualifications which Black people must have to enjoy the "good life" in this country. In fact, Sundiata graduated from college with a degree in math at age 19. He worked as a computer programmer for NASA (National Aeronautics and Space Administration) in California. They have both been charged with purely criminal crimes, yet neither have they displayed a criminal mentality and the focus of media attention has been their politics, and political associations. Moreover, why have they abandoned their college trained expertise which the "American Dream" within reach, for revolutionary concepts and practice?

Excerpts from statements made by Assata give a few clues, and certainly something for us to think about:

> "In the late 60s and early 70s, this country was in unheaval. There was a strong peoples movement against the war, against racism, in the colleges and in the Black and Puerto Rican communities. This government, local police agencies, the FBI and CIA, launched an all-out was against people they considered militants. We are only finding out now because of extensive investigations into FBI and CIA how extensive and how criminal those methods were, and still are. In the same ways that witches were burned in Salem, this government went on a witchhunt for people they considered militants. Countless numbers of people were either killed or imprisoned..."

And so Assata must face still another crucial test of her perseverence and endurance. She does not come from a wealthy or influential family, and she is Black. So she must endure, and struggle, and built to win. And we can all look to her for inspiration.



Federal Cour Rules Again Wilmington

NEW YORK (LNS) — Carolina judge has refu accept the retraction of te by the government' "eyewitness" agains Wilmington 10. The ten ci activists were convicted on of arson and conspiracy in protests in Wilmington, Carolina a year earlier.

Allen Hall, the state's admitted in the fall of 1975 had been coerced by th prosecution and a fede enforcement agent into fa his entire testimony. lawyers immediately filed in court demanding the dis charges against the ten, or

But the January ruling magistrate Logan Howell Hall's statement would accepted by the federal c part of the appeal proces time. He insisted that th tation must first be consi the state couuts. Yet, the will represent the state Carolina in this process, Attorney Allen Cobb, h named by Hall as one o ficials who coerced him to 1972 trial. "We can't poss fair hearing under th cumstance," said defen mittee spokesperson iman

In the judge's ruling denied bail for the Wilmin who have been in prison f They are imprisoned on s ranging from 29 to 34 ye

The civil rights demon that led to their arrests 1971, with a demand memorial service for Mart King be allowed at a Wi High Schol. Violence br after police and members Klux Klan attacked prote the following weeks, tw teenagers and a member Klan were killed by gunf several homes and stor burned. Shortly afterwards were arrested. They inc C. avis — a well-known ci activist — eight black men, them high school student white woman who was worker at the time. The c against the Wilmington 10 the process of appeals.

— — —

For more information co Wilmington 10 Defense Co 1851 9th Stree, N. W S Washington, D.C. 20001.

Tyler Frame Up Continues

By ABE WEISBURD

Capitalist justice has decreed that Gary Tyler, 18, serve a life sentence at hard labor because he is Black and dared to struggle against racism.

On Jan. 24 the Louisiana State Supreme Court upheld Tyler's frame-up conviction for the October 1974 shooting death of a white 14-year-old boy. The boy was one of the rock-throwing mob of 200 racists who attacked a bus carrying Black high school students in Destrehan, La.

Along with the other Black students, Tyler, 16 years old at the time, as ordered out of the bus after the shooting. He objected to the deputy sheriffs then while holding guns to their heads. He was arrested for 'Interfering with a police officer.'

On the day following the shooting, David Duke, the Grand Dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, flew to Destrehan to create a lynch atmosphere. Juanita Tyler, Gary's mother, led a fightback struggle of Black students against Duke, who threatened to chase "all the 'niggers' out of town."

Juanita Tyler has also been a leading force in the Tyler defense committees that have sprung up since Gary's arrest and conviction. More than 500 demonstrations both in the U.S. and abroad have taken place demanding Tyler's freedom and petitions with some 100,000 signatures have been presented to Louisiana's governor. The Tyler defense committee responded to the state court's recent ruling by vowing to step up the campaign to free Gary.

At Tyler's trial, a gun was introduced as the murder weapon. It neither had Tyler's fingerprints nor was connected to him in any way. The police also admitted they did not find a weapon at the scene of the shooting although they made two thorough searches of the bus there.

The Black bus driver, a 20-year Army veteran, testified that the shot could not have been fired from Inside the bus, since the type of gun from which the bullet was fired would have produced a deafening sound in so confined a space. Reports at the time said the shot was fired from the outside and was meant to hit the bus.

Although the prosecution presented no evidence of Tyler's guilt other than the perjured testimony of Natalie Blanks, an all-white jury found Tyler guilty of first degree murder. He was then sentenced to die in the electric chair and confined in Death Row at Angola (La.) Prison.

In April 1976 the sentencing Judge, a member of the White Citizens Council, refused to grant Tyler a new trial even though Blanks, the key prosecution witness, recanted her testimony. Blancks said the sheriff and the prosecution threatened to pin the murder on her if she didn't cooperate. She also testified that prosecution had provided her with written notes about what to say at Tyler's trial.

After a U.S. Supreme Couut found the Louisiana death penalty law unconstitutional this summer, Tyler was moved to a local prison. In its Jan. 24 ruling, the state Supreme Court lifted the death sentence and imposed the life sentence.

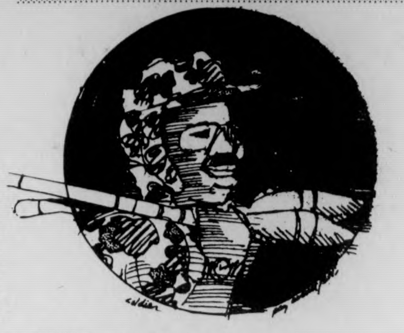
Jack Peebles, Tyler's attorney, said he would file for a rehearing in the state court and if the rehearing is turned down, appeal the decision to the U.S. Supreme Couut.

For information and to send contributions: Gary Tyler Defense Fund, 200 Medallion Tower, 344 Camp St., New Orllans, La. 70130.

NUMMO is a Black Student Weekly of the University of Massachu Amherst. Our offices are located in 103 and 115 New Africa Telephone numbers are (413) 545-0061 and 545-0062. Unsigned e represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect t of the student body, faculty, or administration. Signed editorials, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal views of the

From the Editors of NUMMO
Theory, practice and struggle has been the essence of this pa
Executive Editor: Padmore O'Mard (Wadada Tzake)
Managing Editor: Willie Wheeler
Cultural Affairs Editor: Karien Zachery
Photo Editor: E
Graphics Editor: Fitz Walker
Editor At Large: Rudolph Jones, Chaka Amin, Annie Carpenter
News Editor: Freida Jones, S. ra Long

Trouble For British Colonialism In Zimbabwe



Finally the sun seems to be setting in Zimbabwe for British colonialism. For a long time, the Smith regime made its followers believe that it was all powerful and in complete control of the "native". A shock wave ran through the white population when the Smith regime tabled its budget in July. US $200 million were earmarked by Smith for "defense" alone. This figure represented 40 per cent increase over last year's budget. In fact, this figure of US $200 million represents 300 per cent rise over the regime's "defence" budget since 1972, when the armed struggle escalated.

The regime is also feeling the economic squeeze resulting from the struggle by the people of Zimbabwe, led by the ANC(Z). White emigrants can now only take out of the country US $1,600. They used to take out as much as US [illegible]. The settler community is finally reading the writing on the wall. Discreetly, the sensible whites are leaving the country.

As insecurity sets among whites, the sun is also fast setting in on the side of British colonialism in Zimbabwe. Sensible whites are refusing to 'stand and fight' a war that is already lost.

Smith himself is making fervent appeals to the whites to stay. Already, a conservative figure of 1 per cent is reported to be the loss in white population suffered by the racist regime in the last six months.

The six thousand white commercial farmers who form the backbone of the Smith regime are now finding themselves not in their fields, but providing armed guard for tourists who still trickle into Zimbabwe.

The tourists are still being deceived by the racist Rhodesian National Tourist Board, who tell them that "RHODESIA IS SUPER".

On Unity There Can Be No Wavering

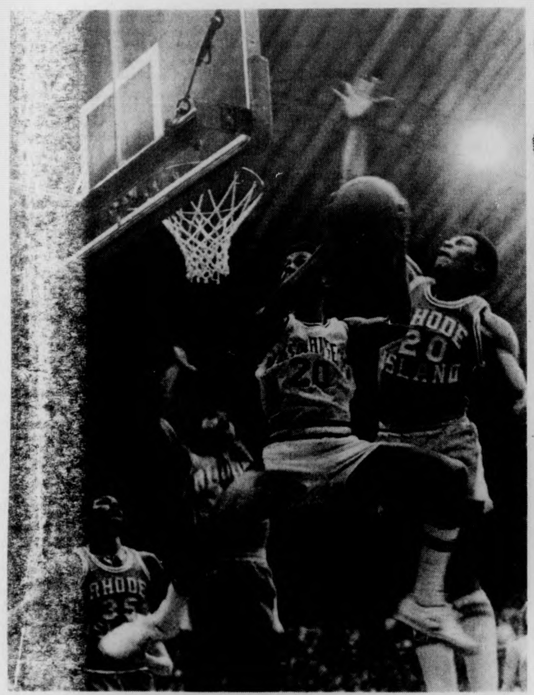
On 7th of December, 1974, Zimbabweans desiring the much required revolutio-base for their struggle, buried their differences by uniting under the African National Council. In prosecuting our struggle, it is necessary to stop, think, and try to understand what the Lusaka Declaration of Unity meant to the peasants, workers and combatants of Zimbabwe. The declaration assigned specific tasks to our revolution.

The first task of our revolution is to ward off factional tendencies among groups and individuals. Uniting all forces against our common enemy became our major responsibility. This responsibility we shall guard jealously. By uniting, Zimbabweans gave the final word against any attempts by individuals, or groups indulging in wishful reactionary, divisive activities.

Our revolution, at its present stage must embrace all forces opposed to the oppressor. Our real power lies in our ability to: a) accept the leadership of those genuinely chosen by the people to lead; b) suppress our tendency to always wanting to be in the limelight of things; c) denounce factional tendencies based on tribalist, regionalist or class considerations.

The people of Zimbabwe are exhilarated by the fact that our President, Comrade Abel T. Muzorewa and his colleagues, comrades Dr. E. Gabellah and James Chikerema have always turned their backs against the reactionary evils of tribalism, class factionalism and other forms of sectorianism.

The second task of our revolution is to mobilise, organize, orient them along revolutionary lines all our united forces, and thirdly to lead these strong forces into battle against our enemy.



Derick Claiborne scores two more for UMass win over Rhode Island Saturday night.

Eat at Yvonne's

Soul Paradise

Open 11 A.M. to

6 P.M.

Monday-Friday

Lumumba Hut

New Africa House

WORK STUDY POSITIONS

There will be several work-study positions available with the Student Government Association. These positions are for the new student ticket office or will be with a student services Marketing Research Project. They are as described below:

Ticket Office — This position will require a high degree of reliability and honesty. Applicants will sell tickets to all student events from a central location in the Student Union Building at set hours from 9:00 to 5:00 (to be considered, you need not be free from the entire eight hour period but must have some reasonable-sized chunk of free time). Work evenings at the gate of the event is also necessary, although these hours will be by arrangement. Approximately three to seven positions are available.

Marketing and Consulting — This position will involve research into how the unique student services developed at UMass can be provided to other schools for a nominal fee. Knowledge of public relations, marketing and the operation of UMass student government, cooperatives and other special services and political groups is helpful although not absolutely necessary. Only one or two positions may be available.

To Apply — You must complete the following:

(a) complete an application which can be obtained in the Student Senate Office in the Student Union Building and leave the application there. Note that your chances of being hired for the ticket position are much better.

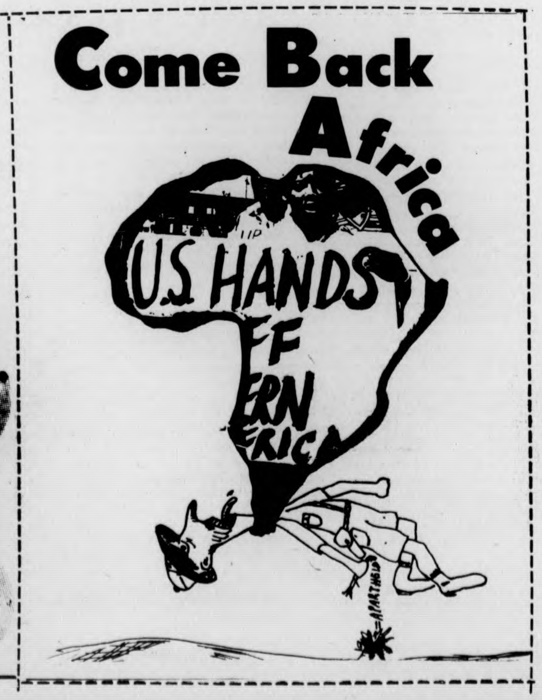
and

(b) attend a mandatory mass hiring interview on the evening of Tuesday, February 15 at 7:00 p.m. sharp in room 168 of the Campus Center. This is necessary as time scheduling is important.

Interviews 7:00 in 168 CC on 2-15-77.

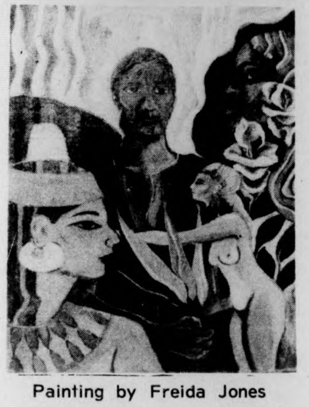
C·C·E·B·S· Opens Library

A new library has been opened in the Study Lounge of the New Africa House. The library contains books that many students will be using in their courses throughout the semester. The students may borrow any of books, but they must be used while in the library. The library is open Mon. thru Thurs. from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., Fri and Sat. from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. and Sundays from 1 p.m. until 10 p.m. Many students are taking advantage of the library by studying from books they need, but do not have.



Art Show at Third World Center of Orchard Hill

Dana DeBarros



Painting by Freida Jones

By KATHE SANDLER

Yesterday, a celebration of Black Arts and Kuumba (creativity) in honor of Black History week opened at Dickinson House' Third World Center, University of Massachusetts.

An exhibit of five Black visual artists from the UMass area: Jimmie Pickett Jr., Fitz Walker Jr., Dana DeBarros, Lynette Langa and Freida Jones displayed feelings in acrylics, collages, ink and various other medians.

The Exhibit, (which will continue until Thursday February 17) is just one of many events sponsored and put together through a collective effort of the Third World Center and the Third World Community of Orchard Hill.

"Everyone should come down and check it out," says collogist and painter Jimmie Pickett Jr.

"What makes this project unique is that it is the first time there has been a Black Art Exhibit in UMass conceived and executed by Black Artists.

"The images belong to the community," says Fitz Walker Jr. whose 5" by 7" mural of Angela Davis cries rivers of red, orange, purple and black rage. "This particular time is the beginning of a Black Renaissance in the Afro-Americas."

Artist Dana DeBarros, a freshman at UMass describes a painting of his: the image of the brother and sister in the sky amid a rising sun. A tree in the painting symbolizes life. "It's a new day for the Black race. You can read it from left to right like a book. That's why the sun is rising."

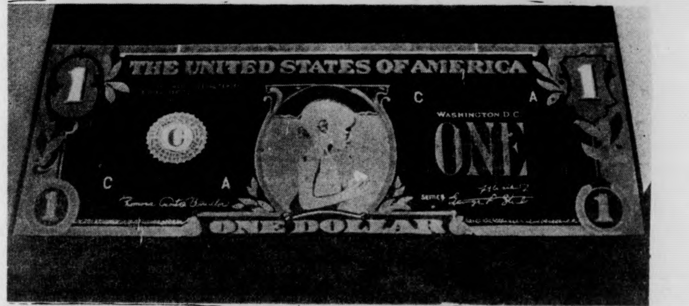
Lynette Langa, a sister from Guyang speaks on Swazi Warriors, drought in Africa and a cubilistic musician.

Though unable to speak with Freida Jones, her work speaks for itself, being reflective of aspects of womanhood that are captured in the expressions and tones of her portraits.

If you missed Miquel Rivera or Ernest Washington speaking last week at Dickinson House, or the film, "Lost, Strayed or Stolen" in honor of Black History week, do check out this exhibit of Black Art. The exhibit will be going on until Thursday, Feb. 17, 3-5 and 7-11 p.m. in the Third World Center, Dickinson House, Orchard Hill, UMass campus. Come and be a part of this creative Black experience.

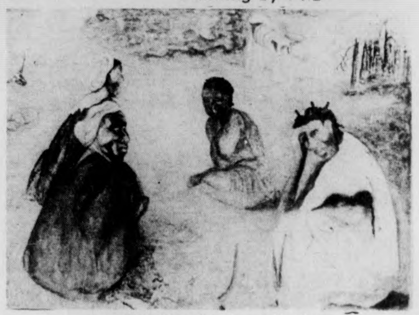
Fitz

Jimmie Pickett

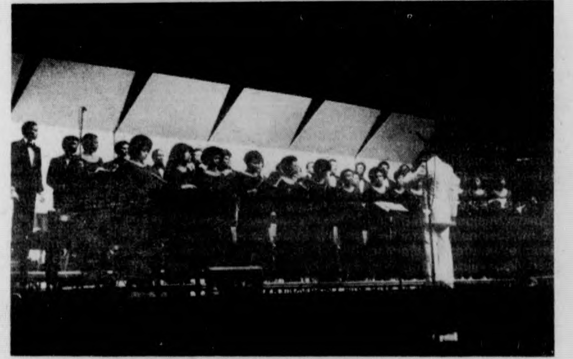


THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
ONE
ONE DOLLAR

Painting by Fitz



Painting by Lynette Langa



Voices of New Africa House Choir

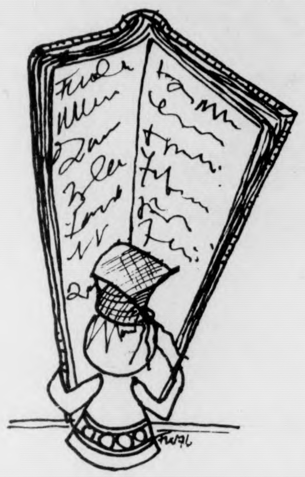
Voices on Television

Thirty-five members of the Voices of New Africa House Workshop Choir, a vocal ensemble composed of students from the five colleges, will be the guests on Heritage Corner, a five minute program broadcast daily at 9:25 a.m. from WHYN, channel 40 in Springfield. Dealing with the past and present history of Afro-Americans and hosted by Naomi White, director of the Afro-American Cultural Center at American International College, the program has showcased most of the entertainers, educators and black politicians in this area, as well as a number of professional entertainers who have visited in this area.

During their two-week stint on the program, the voices of New Africa House Choir will chronicle black history through songs. Beginning with the camp-meeting spiritual of around 1800, moving through Negro Spirituals to church songs, gospel, and soul music. Soloists during the two-weeks are Semenya McCord, Pamela Benn, Angela Andrews, Walter Howard and Ophelia Dargan. The choir is under the direction of Horace Clarence Boyer and accompanied by Avery Sharpe on bass guitar and Alvin Terry on drums.

Look for the Choir Mon-Fri , Feb 14-18 and Feb 21-25

Poets Corner



With Everything And Nothing

With everything and nothing came up with something Pure and Cool
like sweet dew in the morning light and dry in the evening

Effervescent milk
nothing sweeter
to tongue or stomach
for heart or brain
the latter filled with nothing and everything
Nothing exceeds the greatness of feeling everything and saying nothing
Perfection is the next in line
Everything freed from nothing is sweet nothing that has rested with everything for awhile double refreshes
Everything and nothing that mounts to brain "blossoms"
Now that I am full of everything and nothing as I make for my bed I burp and cry out
"Great am I" for everything is nothing
Endurance is cool
The only sacrifice sure to be accepted
Is by the owner of everything and nothing
Ain't it something

Head High

Moses has returned
Carrying the worlds discontent,
Were he leads I will follow
For nothing is left — left.

His voice surrounds me, grinding
Every word until it penetrates the soles
Of my feet, twisting its way through the Bowls of blind men. Lost that I am,
From which he speaks is love, what is heard —
Freedom and Damnation.

Love cannot bring freedom — damn fools,
Look at me do I crumble when his thunder
Pushes stone aside, awakening The Dead Sea,
As salt heals the sore tissues; grafting young hearts to old bodys?

Now all if forgotten:
The poor stay on their knees, repeating
Melodious phrases, tearing at the half-opened
Wounds. I am no prouder than you, but bowing
Is not for me. Raising hell out of Flowered covered ground is.

"Wait 'till all is ripe — ripe"
I wait for nothing changes are now.

VOETSAK You Ass

A Poem by
Bheki Langa
Copyright c 1976, by Bheki Langa

This poem is a poem of South Africa and any reflection upon other parts of the world are coincidental and not the intention of the poet.

All rights are reserved to writer

i once knew a young and lovely indochinese maiden. an orphan.
i promised her a golden cadillac and golden teeth.

i promised her fame. i promised her a child with a golden smile. i promised her a house with a burglar alarm. i promised her all my charm. i promised her a parisian cuisine. i promised her breakfast lunch and supper in bed. i promised her i'll never be bad. i promised her a mine of pearls and diamonds. i promised her a ship to sail to the four corners of her desire. i promised her a starry roof and heights beyond the sky. but. i'd promised daddy i would come on his bidding. he demanded i should go and man his garden in indo china. after an honourable discharge she beat me out of shape. bit and chewed my cheek and spat on my face. beat me and went to kneel before big daddy on the tube....and nodded nodded and retreated to bed soothed by his lullaby. then she rose and went to see john and gave all her food and beauty to john. and rolled her sleeves and showed her arms showed me how she hadn't been idle when i went to indochina.
showed me thru the track of my tears.

oh mama dollar help me shape up. make me into a man. mama when the going was rough you pulled me by my bootstraps. you took me to the flicks and plotted my escape. you paid my way to my fellow men's esteem. you put a warm pot on my stove and warm thighs on my bed. you taught me to kill without passion. you taught me to smile my way to fame. and when i failed you commanded me to kneel before big daddy on the tube i'm shaping up getting in shape.

going to go up to harlem
going to find a cop and shoot cop out.
daddy said shoot
or be shot.
daddy said screw
or be screwed.
he said come or become.
going to go up to harlem
look for a cop and shoot and jump the empire state for joy going to walk with my shoulders high,

my arms low my fingers popping going to sway sideways like a crab going to go downtown to eloff street predudice understand is sticking by yourself thinking the next man stinks.
going to mix around cause i'm the freedom child free to mix with any kind:
niggers, polacks, kikes and coolies.
free to choose my own words.
free like a ballistic missile.
going to go up to boo's crib and leave at five. i'm free to withdraw from any stinking scene.
free to kill and defend myself.
daddy says kill and defend yourself.

oh tube, you have sucked me in.
all i do is sit on this dusty rug with my nappy dog can't even brush my teeth.
i sit and not to every used horse hay that you spew.

if i were me... if i were me....
before your time i was a prince
my dying father said:
with these incisions i ordain thee future king. all shall decipher from a respectful distance you are the future ruler of this land.
not even white kids madcap with wonder shall touch them.
and the blood dribbled on the soil
the blood will dribble on the soil the blood of aweful african princes

we are shaping up you ass.
we are sick sick sick, withdrawn.
we are shaping up we are shaken up.

you shook us up. shook us with your slogans. shot us with your slo-gans. we are shaping up shape shape — pulling up the sleeves. buckling up. we are going to wipe out the cold spell. you you you worked us up. swelled our hearts with slogans.
pushing you ass slogans.
poking them. poke poke poke. getting us all hooked and locked up in slogans. nine hundred billion dollars and no crumbs in my mouth.

we are shaping up, buckling up------ taking a long deserved rest. we'll sit before the tube.
you'll belch more slogans. we'll stand up and take a walk to the john. sick sick sick of your slogans. we'll throw them down the john. we are sick.
i see you ass in my mirror. you ass in my dreams. you ass for my lover you ass for my executioner. you ass for my nightmares.
we are shaping up, rolling up the sleeves. we'll leave. fall asleep. we are peeved.

you ass. you mainlined your message down to the heart of the jungle.
i was so happy in my jungle....
you tossed the bread before my nose and kept retreating you said kennedy was an angel and kept retreating the bread into slogans.

you pulled me from my jungle, into your jungle. snow smack on the concrete. booted me then shoved me on the drain. withdrew me from my own existence. you say: you ass. you are my true and valuable son. you say i am the bud of your seed. you say i am the flower of the future. the flower child of the future. nodding to wise parental counsel. then you paint me and say:

i must commit my valuable sons the very cream of my body seeds to germinate freedom.
i must commit half a million of them to the indochinese soil. seeds to germinate a whole garden of freedom for indochina, indeed, for the whole universe.

i hear you without resistance you are shouting to my subconscious. you are telling me to point the muzzle at the child because, that slant-eyed child will one day piss on our garden.

i am nodding, nodding daddy you are good daddy you are dynamite daddy you are dead good.

i'll kill for you
i'll man your money and massage your limousines. i'll marry for you. i'll drain your tunnels and clean your stockpiles. i'll manhandle your enemies including your wife. and when you say come. i'll come.

will flow and dribble on the soil.
father said:
this blood that falls on the soil from these incisions shall nourish it.
you shall each year on this soil slaughter a cow that your ancestors may look kindly upon the soil upon the son of the soil
anddupon posterity.
so long as your blood shall flow
no foe shall have a hand in this land.

so long as your ancestors shall drink upon your royal blood - for land is an ancestral goud -- your children and their children shall not starve.
but woe unto he that shall connive in the plundering and raping of the land. the land shall swallow him he and his children and their children shall die like swallows in the sky. in strange lands. in chains. they shall kiss the feet of aliens.
they shall parrot them like cuckoo birds.
and ape them like ugly beasts.
your own kin shall look upon your face and shall not recognise you.

if i were me... if i were me....
my name is nix
there's nix on me
nix on me.
i'm a mill house of white trash.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVI, ISSUE 86 TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1977

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/ Amherst, MA. 01003/ (413) 545-3500

Woman rescued from fire

By ROBIN COSTELLO
Collegian Staff

A 27 year old grad student, Jasmina Pavlin, was trapped on the third floor of Hasbrouck Laboratory last night at 9:54 by a fire burning in a basement stairwell.

"I went to the door, outside in the hall it was dark and smoky, and I closed it because I couldn't breathe," said Pavlin.

"First I telephoned my husband to come, then I went to the window," said Pavlin.

"I couldn't go out so I stood by the window and called for help. The window couldn't open all the way so I put my head out the window and talked," said Pavlin.

The fire department arrived shortly after and two firefighters came up the stairs and gave Pavlin an oxygen mask.

One of the firefighters "broke the window and then I went out the window by ladder," said Pavlin.

Pavlin was unharmed and returned home with her husband later in the night.

The fire was discovered by an unknown student who notified night janitor Val Guimond to call the fire department.

The fire was partially extinguished by a number of grad students who had been studying in the laboratories. Fire fighters finished the job of extinguishing the fire.

The Amherst Fire Department dispatched five trucks to Hasbrouck Laboratory.

Old furniture, desks and equipment in the stairwell were ruined by the flames.

There is, as of yet, no estimate of the damages, but classrooms and labs in the building were unharmed.

Detective Sargeant Cavanaugh from the UMass Department of Public Safety said that the State Fire Marshall and University police will investigate the cause of the fire.

There are no suspects as of yet.

Only a few minutes earlier in the night a fire broke out in a maintenance closet in the basement of the Campus Center.

The fire in the closet was extinguished by an automatic sprinkler system.

The cause of this fire is unknow but was suspected to have been started by a smouldering cigarette.

An official from the Campus said that only maintenance personnel have access to this closet.

Inside

Reporter's Line

Earl Brown helps lead the first workshop for his and Craeman Gether's defense in Chadbourne house. See Nikki Aronson's story on Page 3.

A flasher was sighted in the Curry Hicks gym. See Mike McHugh's Police Beat on Page 2.

"Flowers for Algernon" is reviewed by Nancy Silverman and Kevin Turcotte on Page 3.

Wire Line

Carter greets Mexican President and urges for no hikes in Cabinet departments. More on Page 5.

Gunman identifies with Hitler; kills five in warehouse. See Page 4 for details.

Legislators want manditory sentences for people who commit serious crimes. Page 4.

Dukakis ousts Fire Marshal — FEA officials request energy cut. Story on Pages 6 and 7.

Weather

As warm as yesterday, but followed by a period of Darkness.

Selectmen accept disposition on Boltwood Walk project

By TERESA M. HANAFIN
Collegian Staff

The Amherst Board of Selectmen last night accepted a disposition agreement from the Amherst Redevelopment Authority regarding the proposed Boltwood Walk project for downtown Amherst.

The disposition is an agreement between the authority and the developers of the land about prices and other terms.

John H. Roetter, chairperson of the authority, made the presentation to the board, saying he expects the project, if approved, to be completed by 1980.

Boltwood Walk is a project designed primarily to provide elderly residents of Amherst an "alternative for living", as described by Roetter.

The project actually will completely change the face of the downtown area along Main St. by developing a new restaurant, elderly housing, professional office space, a commercial bazaar and a pedestrian plaza.

The developers of the land are Boltwood Walk Associates, Inc. for the commerical parcels of land, and a combination Oxford-Boltwood group for the housing development.

Roetter said the project will not only provide a better life for the elderly in the center of town, but also enliven the center and make it "attractive and prosperous."

Roetter stressed that the purpose of some of the enterprises was not to injure any businesses in the area by providing competition, but to make downtown "a very attractive place", ultimately helping other businesses by getting people downtown.

Roetter said the decision for the installation of a new restaurant was based on this premise, since the feeling of the authority was that a restaurant would help attract people.

In other action, the selectmen voted to endorse a resolution to the governor informing him "of what the proposed budget does to the University, to Amherst, to Western Massachusetts and to the Commonwealth."

The selectmen also asked the local Western Massachusetts communities "seriously affected by this fiscal crisis" join with the Amherst board in "fostering an appropriation which will not damage the University and our communities."

The resolution by the board cited the effect the University has on the economy of the region, calling UMass a "major influence in the lives of thousands and thousands of people."

The resolution also mentioned the campus payroll of more than $1 million being paid to more than 5,000 employes, and the University enrollment of more than 24,000 students, of which more than 13,000 live off-campus.

In other action, the board voted to accept a proposal from UMass radio station WMUA (91.1FM) that the station broadcast both town meetings in March and May.

The station, represented at the meeting by News Director Robert Oakes, decided to carry both town meetings live and to their conclusion "whenever that may be," according to Oakes.

Board Chairperson Nancy B. Eddy said the board was "extremely grateful" to the station for the volunteer work, citing the savings to the taxpayer, since the alternative was to pay for the meetings to be televised.

Pinkham, Dean Allen talk, prepare JS separation

By M.B. ALLEN
Collegian Staff

Journalistic Studies Director Larry Pinkham met with Fine Arts and Humanities Dean Jeremiah Allen yesterday to discuss plans to set up an independent journalism program at the university.

Allen is in the process of making up a memorandum to the provost recommending that the Journalistic Studies program become separate from the English department, according to Pinkham.

"It was a nuts and bolts, nitty-gritty meeting," said Pinkham. "By February 20, all the administration of our program will come directly from the dean. We'll work out a budget directly with him." As a division of the English department, all journalism budget requests had to go through that department.

Pinkham said that there are plans to form a committee to study the situation of journalism on the UMass campus. "The dean has asked the provost to appoint a provost's committee to consider what form journalism is going to take on this campus," said Pinkham. "The committee would include journalism faculty, local media people and alumni. We would also encourage student input."

Pinkham said that he hopes the journalism faculty can expand now that the journalistic studies program has independent status. The faculty plans to develop journalism into an "interdisciplinary major," he said. "We're going to construct a major which will allow students to major in journalism with an emphasis in another area."

The biggest obstacle the new department will meet in its efforts to expand is lack of money. "We're bucking financial trends," said Pinkham. He is optimistic about eventually receiving the funds to expand, however. "We're one of the few growth centers in the liberal arts," he pointed out.

"I want to emphasize a positive, look-ahead approach," said Pinkham about the move to separate from the English department, instead of dwelling on animosity that existed between the English faculty and journalistic studies faculty. He is enthusiastic about his new department, and hopes that journalism students are, too. "I encourage the journalism students to organize," he said.

Head of the Journalism Studies, Larry Pinkham, met yesterday with Dean Jeremiah Allen of Fine Arts and Humanities to discuss plans for a Journalism program independent from the English department. (Staff photo by Jay Saret)

UMass Graduate student Jasmina Pavlin, is aided by Amherst firemen down a ladder from the third floor of Hasbrouck Science Lab. A fire broke out at 9:54 in the stairway and trapped her on the floor above. Amherst firemen responded to the alarm and found the fire partially controlled by students in the building. The State Fire Marshall and UMass fire officials are investigating the blaze. See story, page one. (Staff photo by Rob Carlin)

Eleven students take out SGA nomination papers

By STEVE TETREAULT
Collegian Staff

Eleven students have taken out nomination papers for the office of Student Government Association (SGA) President.

With the nomination deadline nine days away, the possible candidates are:

— Herbert Tyson, 18, and John Foley, 20, who are running as a team. Tyson, from Potomac, Maryland, lives in Greenough Dormitory. He is currently a SGA member, and a member of the SGA budget committee. Foley, from Holyoke, is a commuter senator and is co-chairman of the Budget Committee.

Tyson and Foley told the Collegian last night that they are running because they are "the best for the job. Our talents complement each other. We offer a wide range of talents. We wouldn't be running if we couldn't win."

— Jon Hite, 21, and Pinky Batiste, 22, also running as a team. Hite, from Brookline, currently lives in Amherst, He is a SGA member and former speaker of the Student Senate, before resigning on October 29, 1975, "for not representing the majority views of the Senate," he said. Batiste is from Braintree, and lives in Grayson. Batiste is a member of the SGA coordinating committee, and is chairperson of the Academic Affairs committee in Orchard Hill.

Hite and Batiste announced their candidacy last night. They said that "next year is going to be a crucial one for students. The Faculty Union, fee increases, academic quality, all of these things can have a disastrous effect on students if they don't have experienced, hard working leadership in the SGA President's office."

— Bryan Harvey, 22, and Paul Yanowitch, 20, are running as a team. Harvey is a senior from Bolton, and lives off-campus. He is acting communications coordinator of the Student Senate, and is editor of "University Directions." Yanowitch is a junior from Syosset, New Yor, and is currently SGA Attorney General. Yanowitch said that the team is "interested in getting away from the dogmatic issues of the campaign. We want to improve student life in the short run, such as dorms, and at the same time work for long term goals."

"We want to improve the quality of student life, from academics to housing to activities," said Yanowitch.

— Henry Doyle, and Thomas Kerrins, are running as a team. Doyle is former SGA Treasurer, from Hamilton, and lives off-campus. Kerrins is the present SGA Treasurer. He is from Revere and lives in John Adams. Kerrins told the Collegian that the team's candidacy is not yet certain. "We are investigating our appeal and recognition across campus, and will make a decision about running by Wednesday," he said.

Doyle said that he "doubts" that he and Kerrins will run for the office. "Both Tom and I know everything about the job from a treasurer's viewpoint, but it (the presidency) is a full job. Right now I'm just a Joe-student," he said.

— Charles Pooler another candidate and a sophomore from Springfield. He lives in John Adams. Pooler is involved in a "leadership" role with the Revolutionary Student Brigade, according to a member of the Brigade. Pooler could not be reached for comment.

— David Cameron, is a Brown resident, and a sophomore from Springfield. He is a member of the Brown House Council, is involved with MassPIRG, and is a "spectator of the Student Senate," according to Stephen Buckley, who describes himself as Cameron's "right-hand man."

"David is running a uni-candidacy," said Buckley. Originally Buckley and Cameron were to have run as a team, but decided against it. "We decided we're against dual-presidencies," said Buckley.

— Albert Sparks, another contender, is director of Baroque Enterprises. Sparks could not be reached for information and comment.

In order to qualify for nomination, the candidates must file a 250-name petition in the SGA office by March 23. Elections for SGA President will be held March 16 and 17.

According to SGA tradition, the current co-presidents also took out nomination papers, though they did so separately. Co-president Jay Martus said it is done "to strike fear in the hearts of the other candidates." Paul Cronin, the other co-president, took out nomination papers in the name of himself and Henry Ragin, who was a former SGA president and is no longer a student at the university.

Karen Kelley, an SGA member and a member of the Rents and Fees Committee, also took out an application, but said, "I'm not running, I'm not running. It was a joke."

Brown, SOP speak at CAG meeting

By JOE QUINLAN
Collegian Staff

Robert Earl Brown and staff members of the Student Organizing Project showed a brief movie about the present petition drive for a pardon for Craeman Gethers, and then asked the Central Area Government to supervise the circulation of this petition in area dorms and dining commons at the CAG meeting last night. A motion by President Janice Perry for the CAG to support the petition drive passed unanimously.

Sue Hoffman of the SOP also appeared before the council to describe the current efforts of the group to organize a student union through communicative networks and newsletters to be written and published in the residential areas throughout the campus. Hoffman sought the cooperation of the CAG for this organization.

Following the SOP presentation, co-vice president Andrew Topalian suggested that the CAG sponsor an area blood drive at the Blood Donor Center from March 1st through March 17th. He said he will contact a Blood Center representative to address the CAG for more information at next week's Tuesday night meeting. His own motion for CAG support of the drive also passed unanimously.

Joe Battista, the new assistant area director for Student Affairs said that the format of MacIntire House will be changed to accommodate more student visitors into the office to allow more contact with these students and their problems. Battista repeated the hopes of Bill Taylor director of Student Affairs of a week earlier for more student input in all future academic and fiscal policy planning for the area.

CAG representatives delayed any vote for support of the proposed SATF $700 increase until they could learn the feelings of their constituents in the dorms. President Janice Perry promised the CAG she would vote according to reports of student response which she will be receiving prior to the Wednesday night Senate meeting.

Perry also reminded the body that elections for CAG officers will be held March 28. She urged any Central resident interested in a CAG position to attend some meeting within the next few weeks to become familiar with the proceedings.

The CAG allocated $200 to the Third World Women's Center for a Third World Women's weekend from April 21 through 25, at the New Africa House. Brooks House received $200 for lighting equipment for its new indoor greenhouse. Other allocations included $300 for a movie guarantee to Greenough for "King of Hearts" to be shown March 4th at the SUB, and $150 for a fabric printing colloquium taught by Paul Hefferman and Debbie Tarr of Butterfield.

Wheeler representative Eric Sandquist surprised the CAG last night when he returned a previously allocated $310, which was no longer needed to finance a weekend cross country ski trip in New Hampshire.

TODAY'S STAFF

Issue Editor Tom Crowley

Assistant Issue Editor	Linda Ullmann
Copy Desk	Ann Murphy
Sports Layout	Fran Sypek
Day Layout	Linda Zoino
Ad Layout	Lee Ilinitich
Wire Layout	Diane Callan
Photo Staff	David Olken, Jon Sher, Mark Rubin

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

	Semester	Year
Off-campus delivery	$9	$15
On-campus delivery	$5	$ 9
Newsstand price	$.10
Faculty staff	$.05

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst and additional mailing in Ware, Mass. 01082. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

police beat

Woman reports flasher in Hicks

By MICHAEL McHUGH
Collegian Staff

On February 8, around noon, an unidentified male slipped into the women's locker room at Curry Hicks and indecently exposed himself, a lifeguard on duty at the time said.

The lifeguard reported that a woman had come out of the locker room "in a state of shock." The woman told the lifeguard that a man wearing a ski mask and hooded sweatshirt was looking in the showers and exposing himself.

The lifeguard called the UMass Department of Public Safety and returned to the locker room to find the male going out the door. The lifeguard was only able to see the man's back but did manage to give a description to the UMass Department of Public Safety.

Robert Joyce, chief of the department, said the reason a report wasn't filed was probably because the description was too general.

"It's tough to look for someone with a ski mask because it's gone. You look for a pattern concerning this suspicious person. A general description, however, is given to the cruisers and placed on the police logs."

An indecent exposure on the 8th floor of the UMass library was filed and reported on February 9. Joyce said they have a description and the incident is currently under investigation.

A student, from Wheeler dormitory in Central, took an overdose of drugs during the early morning hours of February 10. Chief Joyce reports that the student was taken to the infirmary, was treated and released.

Sometime between February 10 and February 11, tools estimated at $850, were stolen from the machine shop of Goessman Lab. Joyce said that "there was no sign of forced entry."

Tower A of the Graduate Research Center, once again, had a gas smell on Feb. 10. However, the UMass police and Amherst Fire Department quickly discerned the smell as a malfunctioning exhaust fan, according to Joyce.

An overhead projector, estimated at $315, was stolen from Draper Hall sometime between February 4 and 10.

On February 9 around 11:30 a.m., there was a report of a forgery and uttering of a UMass refund check worth $40.10. Joyce explained that uttering is the intent of passing a forged check as one's own. The UMass Department of Public Safety is working with the Boston Police Department on this matter, which is still under investigation.

A C.B. radio and an AM-FM radio tape player were stolen from a Ford van parked in Lot P on the afternoon of February 11. Joyce said that entry was gained by breaking the rear window. The estimated cost of the unit is $405.

A hit and run accident in parking Lot 22 resulted in $300 damage to a 1972 Ford. "The accident," said Joyce, "took place sometime between February 6 and 10."

A "mentally deranged" person was picked up on the fourth floor of the Campus Center Hotel on February 12 and was turned over to Health Services. Joyce added, "there were no charges."

On February 12 around 2:30 p.m., a student was robbed of $100. Joyce said the student had left his room in MacKimmie unlocked and returned 20 minutes later to find the money gone.

The Ceramics Department, located in the Munson Hall Annex basement, was the scene of a theft on February 12 around 1:45 p.m. Joyce said the thief gained entrance through a window and stole an estimated $75 worth of ceramics, coffee and tea pots.

On February 12 around 8:30 p.m., a thief slipped into Moore House Dormitory and stole $65 from a dorm room while the victim was sound asleep.

A steering-wheel was ripped out of a 1968 Dodge at Fraternity-Sorority Park on February 10. The wheel's estimated value is $60.

On February 9 at 3:15 p.m., a tape recorder valued at $50 was stolen from an unlocked room in the Student Union.

A glass door in the Morrill Science Center was kicked in on February 12. The door's damage is estimated to be $50.

On February 12 around noon, a person returned to his 1972 Dodge in Lot 64 and noticed a footprint dent on the right rear door. The damage was estimated at $50.

A left side view mirror and radio antenna were ripped off a 1975 MG on Thatcher Way between February 11 and 12. The damage is estimated at $30.

GSS amends constitution, adds finance positions

By D. PETERSON
Collegian Staff

Amendments to the Graduate Student Senate (GSS) constitution has opened two new positions to graduate students on the GSS finance committee.

The amendment will increase the number of people on the committee from eight to ten, six of which must be graduate senators. It also amends a quorum from five to eight members.

Dan Fisher, treasurer of GSS nominated George Somers to fill one of the newly opened positions on the committee. The motion was passed.

The creation of a committee coordinator was discussed. Secretary Barbara Stack stated that the position would insure that someone would be available to keep continuous contact with different committee people operating within the GSS.

The person appointed to fill the job would compile a synopsis of the activities of the different committees in order to save time for the Senate. This would eliminate the need for each group to report to the senate body during its general meetings.

In other action, Jerri Mulvaney-Husch proposed a motion before the GSS that would reflect the current feeling of the senate concerning the budget cuts suggested by the state.

Proposed: The GSS recommends, as a response to a fixed-level legislative finding for the University's fiscal year 1978, that students withhold that portion of tuition for fall '77 which represents a tuition increase over that of spring '77.

Committee meetings later in the week may elaborate on the recommendation. It will appear on the GSS agenda next week for voting by the body.

"I don't think they (the trustees) will be happy about the proposal," said GSS President Michael Federow concerning the effect of the proposal on the trustees.

The Senate also passed a motion that the GSS recommend to the library committee of the faculty senate that extended loan privileges for dissertation-level doctoral students by equalized with that of faculty.

Several members of the body cited examples of the difficulty of renewing books over the phone when large numbers were involved.

Next meeting of the GSS will be held on Wednesday, February 23 at 7 p.m. in room 804 Campus Center.

Michael Federow, (foreground) president of the Graduate Student Senate listens along with other representatives, as amendments are proposed to the GSS Constitution at last night's meeting in the CC. (Staff photo by Mark Rubin)

Boston'll get you

BOSTON [UPI] — Boston officials are stepping up action to collect what is estimated to be a $15 million source of revenue — unpaid parking tickets.

"The city has to make a commitment. For every dollar invested in the system, we will return $10," Robert Block, first assistant clerk in Boston Municipal Court said Monday.

Records show $12,026,335 in tickets was issued last year, but only $4,388,449 was collected, an unpaid rate of roughly 60 per cent.

Doisters 'Algernon' flawed but fine

By KEVIN TURCOTTE
and NANCY SILVERMAN
Collegian Staff

Review

Flowers for Algernon, a production by the Roister Doister Drama Society, directed by Jon Stephen Crane, is playing at Bowker Auditorium Feburary 18 and 19.

Flowers is the story of Charlie Gordon, a mentally retarded man whose intelligence is increased by surgery until he is literally "a man who's gone farther than Einstein."

Charlie starts out in the play as a 32 year old going on 6. He shuffles about in a baseball cap, sneakers and untucked shirt, and his innocent and sole aspiration is to become smarter.

Before Charlie "got operationed" the same surgical experiment had been performed on a mouse named Algernon, and Charlie's progress parallels Algernon's — where the mouse races through progressively harder mazes, Charlie learns to deal with the intricacies of calculus, on to French and Russian until he can read War and Peace in a single night.

When Charlie realizes the only reason his fellow workers liked him around his job at the bakery was because they could laugh at him, he grows angry. "Why do people laugh at a retarded person, they wouldn't laugh at a cripple."

Ultimately he is fired from his bakery job because the other employees are afraid of the changes in the new Charlie.

"If they put Algernon in a cage with all the other mice, I wonder what would happen to him," Charlie asks.

As the story develops Charlie wants to become involved with his former teacher, Alice Kinnian, but he is hampered by the continual presence of his past self — "the other Charlie, the one on the inside" — the Charlie whose mother told him, "You go near a girl and I'll put you in a cage."

At the peak of Charlie's intellectual growth, Algernon's behavior declines rapidly; he refuses to eat, bangs his head against the wall, and will not run his mazes. Charlie, who at this point has taken over the experiment — as he is the only one capable of handling and analyzing all the data — knows only too well how his own behavior has followed Algernon's ...

"I'm living at a peak of clarity and beauty I never knew existed," says Charlie." ... now that I've found it how can I give it up?"

Charlie's genius diminishes until at the end of the play he is once again wearing his sneakers and baseball cap.

Overall, the Roister Doister production is fine, marred only by a few inconsistencies and flaws.

Many of the secondary characters aren't acted strongly enough, especially the "older" characters like Charlie's mother and the matron of the bakery, who didn't always convey the feeling of real age.

The conviction that these actors were more than college age was not helped by the make-up, which seemed too broadly applied in cases and was not convincing. A special case in point was the make-up job on Charlie's landlady which made her look more like a chimney sweep than an old lady.

Better results were obtained with the set — it is coldly grey and spartan yet quite effective. The use of ingenious backlighting for the memory scenes and spotlighting throughout maximized the effect of the set.

There are numerous flashback scenes that show Charlie's early childhood, and in all but one of these scenes, the actors who portray Charlie's parents and sisters speak for themselves. It is the one scene in which they don't speak, but mime to the accompanyment of their pre-recorded voices through a sound system, that is weak. As far as we could perceive there was no technical or artistic reason for doing that one scene any different from the other flashbacks. As a result, it glared obtrusively.

Another scene between Charlie, his senile mother and his grown sister seemed irrelevant to the main thrust of the play. Had it been completely removed, the play would not have suffered.

In spite of these flaws, Bob Gruen as Charlie Gordon carried the play with a performance as brilliant as the peak of Charlie's short lived intelligence. He acted the spectrum of Charlie's mental powers with subtlety and a fine precision, capturing both the innocence of the retarded Charlie and the raging frustration of the post-operation Charlie.

Gruen has the ability to move an audience without insulting their intelligence. College audiences have long been known for their cynicism and mockery of sentimentality. Flowers received perhaps the highest compliment a college audience can pay — they cried when it was over.

Brown leads first workshop in Central

By NIKKI ARONSON
Collegian Staff

Earl Brown confers with two people who attended last night's first in a series of week long seminars at Chadbourne dorm. (Staff photo by Mark Rubin)

The first of five workshops concerned with the plight of Robert Earl Brown and Craeman Gethers was held last night in Chadbourne House.

The seminar was initiated with a seven-and-a-half minute film. The unusual short subject focused on the injustice surrounding progress of court systems and the evidence that led to the conviction of Brown and Gethers.

After the film, Earl Brown spoke to the 30 persons who attended the workshop, "Craeman and I are addressing ourselves to the area governments to gather support." Brown explained that there would be workshops held throughout the week at a dorm within each area government.

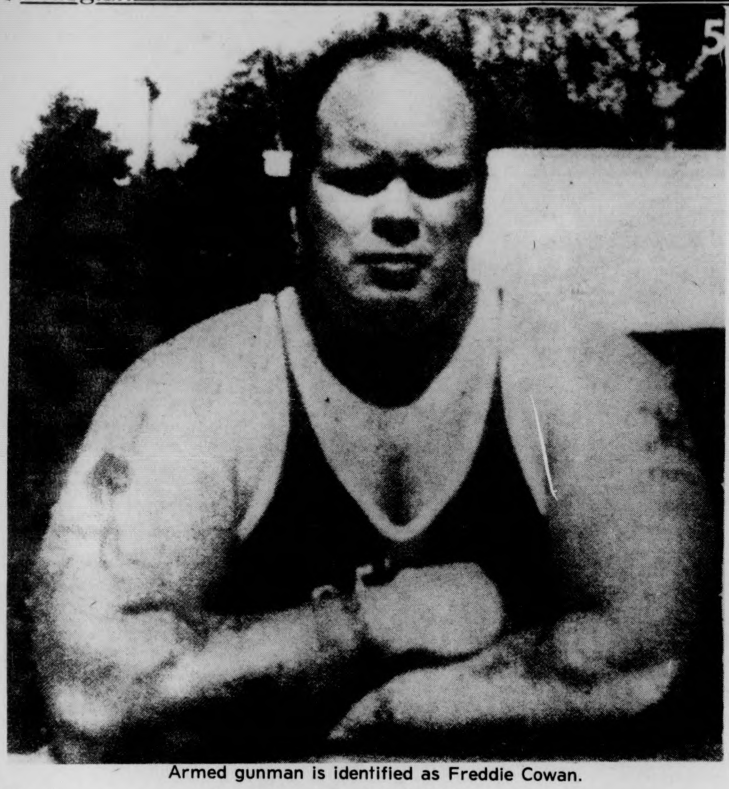
Brown held up a workshop poster and pointed to the silloutettes of Gethers and himself, "These two individuals here could have been anyone here." Brown spoke quietly for a few minutes about a life in prison. "Not many people here know what it feels like to be enclosed for 24 hours a day not know who you are, not knowing who your friends are."

Stan Kincaid, defense committee member commented that "The facts in the case are the most absurd you ever heard." Kincaid continued that "We need people to sign a petition for pardon for Craeman Gethers, and we'd like you to knock on doors for signatures."

Brown echoed the need for signatures. "Craeman has spent two years of his life in jail, it will be two and a third years before he is eligible for a work study release program like myself."

Brown also asked for support in a second area, fund raising. "While my lawyer, Mr. Rosenberg is paid by the state, Craeman's lawyers are private." Brown explained further that Gethers has spent close to $5,000 on four lawyers, so far and "that's a lot to pay for one's freedom and still not be close to getting it."

At the close of the meeting, Central Area Council President Janice Perry made a motion for support of Earl Brown and Craeman Gethers. The motion was granted by a unanimous vote. Perry said that support will take the form of trying to set up petition tables in the Franklin dining commons and Perry added that she will approach RSO for monies and confirmation for plans sometimes in the future.



Armed gunman is identified as Freddie Cowan.

Gunman kills five in warehouse

A suspended employe with a fixation with Adolf Hitler's Nazi philosophy stormed a warehouse with rifle blazing yesterday killing a policeman and four other men. Holding at least two hostages as pawns, he held off a seige force hour upon hour.

At least three other policemen were injured by the gunman's rapid fire.

The man, clad in a Nazi storm trooper's uniform, shouted from inside the Neptune Worldwide Moving Co. that he had "plenty of grenades and other guns to last me all day."

"At this point we will do whatever he asks for," said a police officer, adding, "At times he is rational and there are moments of irrationality and hostility. He is fully armed with one rifle, a bandolier of ammo, possibly some hand guns and grenades."

The gunman was identified as Fred Cowan, about 35, a gun collector living with his parents in New Rochelle. A neighbor who asked not to be identified by name said:

"He's got every kind of rifle that ever was made, and has been collecting them since he was a kid. Ever since he was a kid he's been bugged on Hitler. Hitler is his idol."

The neighbor said Cowan had collected Nazi uniforms and festooned the walls of his home with swastikas. His body bore tatooed Nazi symbols.

"He walks around in a Nazi uniform sometimes," the neighbor added.

Another neighbor, Roland Lersch, 20, said:

"He was always coming in with white imperialist magazines. He hates blacks. He hates Jews."

Police and FBI agents moved in force into the area of the two-story warehouse on the outskirts of New Rochelle, a sub-urban community 1½ miles north of the New York City limits. FBI agents secured the first floor of the building, with Cowan holding out on the second floor with his hostages.

Cowan's rapid gunfire kept police from retrieving the body of their slain comrade until officers from New York City brought in an armored tank-like vehicle successfully used in similar sieges there.

A specially trained hostage negotiating team also came up from the city to try to prevail upon the gunman to yield his hostages.

Moving behind the armored vehicle, two New Rochelle policemen were able to retrieve the body of their dead comrade, Patrolman Allen McLeon, 29, after he fell beneath a hail of gunfire from inside as he moved toward the warehouse.

The vehicle was also used to pull the bodies of the other victims from the scene.

Cowan, son of a retired postal worker, was described as a brilliant student who was dishonorably discharged from the Army. He was said to have recently been suspended from his job at the warehouse.

Clint Wynant, a warehouse employe, said Cowan walked in just before 8 a.m. as about 50 others were reporting for work. Wyant added:

"He just started shooting and everybody started running all over the place. He walked in and everybody started screaming and running. It was just mayhem."

Legislators urge mandatory sentences for serious crimes

BOSTON [UPI] – Several dozen state legislators and law enforcement personnel yesterday urged the Massachusetts legislature's Judiciary Committee to act fovorably on about 100 different bills to impose mandatory sentences on people who commit serious crimes.

The committee also heard brief testimony on proposals to both tighten and repeal the 1974 Bartley-Fox gun law which imposes a mandatory one year sentence on individuals convicted of carrying a firearm without a license.

"People are sick and tired of the in and out philisophy of today's judicial-correctional system," said Rep. A. Joseph Denucci, D-Newton. "People who commit crimes using a gun should serve a minimum mandatory sentence, without parole or furlough."

Mandatory sentences also were supported by James P. Mills of the Boston Police Patrolmen's Association, but opposed by Corrections Commissioner Frank Hall.

"There is no evidence they will solve our crime problem," Hall said, adding "many people who commit crimes do not consider the consequences of their actions."

Hall also said that if all persons convicted of serious crimes were forced to go to jail the state's already overburdened prison population would increase by 11,000.

The commissioner did, however, support legislation to study and recommend changes in the state's criminal sentencing laws.

Support for keeping and strengthening the mandatory gun sentence law was voiced by one of its authors, former Judge J. John Fox, who called the statute "the single most important sociological law in the history of the nation."

"This law is not gun control", he said. "It's crime control. Licensed gun owners don't commit crimes, and they are not hurt by the law," he said.

Fox said the pending legislation would eliminate some ambiguities in the law, which was held constitutional last year by the State Supreme Court.

Another supporter of the law, Victor Anop of the Gun Owners Action League, testified against the proposed revisions, which would eliminate plea bargaining and tighten the definition of "carrying" a gun without a license.

Anop said the Bartley-Fox law is in danger of breaking down because of the slowness of state Probation Department officials in processing gun license applications and renewals.

He said it now takes up to nine months to get a license and added, "100,000 gun owners are in danger of being in violation of the law this year when their licenses expire and they can't get them renewed."

On another issue, two representatives and a spokesman for Suffolk County Sheriff Thomas Eisenstadt supported bills to give individuals the right to use deadly force to repel intruders in their homes without first trying to escape.

Home heating oil donated for needy

BOSTON [UPI] – Several federal and state programs to provide free home heating oil for needy Massachusetts families are expected to begin soon, but social agencies say the donations are only a "drop in the bucket."

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis last week announced 200,000 gallons of oil were being donated by Northeast Petroleum Co. of Chelsea and Gibbs Oil Company of Revere.

The two were among "eight to 10 companies" each asked to pledge 100,000 gallons of home heating oil, said Tom Kastanotis of the Secretary of Consumer Affairs office. The other companies have not yet responded, he said.

The oil will begin distribution this week through 24 Community Action Agencies across the state. The number of gallons to be allocated by each agency will be based on the population in its service area with incomes below the federal poverty level $6,875 for a family of four. Each agency will distribute 100 to 250 gallons to each family selected.

For example, 24.3 per cent of the state's poor live in the Boston area. Since Action for Boston Community Development is the CAA in the area, it will get about 24 per cent of the 200,000 gallons of oil, or 48,600 gallons.

Some of the other allocations show the New Bedford area getting 8,400 gallons; Pittsfield 5,200 gallons; Cambridge 8,200; Fall River 9,200; Springfield 11,200; Brockton 11,000; and Worcester 14,000.

In addition to the Gibbs and Northeast donations, two oil industry groups, New England Fuel Institute and the Better Home Heat Council – both made up of smaller oil firms, have promised the state another 100,000 gallons.

But "we're only counting on what we've been promised and so far we've only been authorized 8,400 gallons," said a spokeswoman from New Bedford's CAA, ONBOARD, Inc.

Also expected are emergency energy conservation funds from the Community Services Administration, a federal agency. About $80,000 to be channeled through the state department of Community Affairs to each CAA, has been designated fro crisis intervention, or buying oil for needy families.

At the current price of about 47 cents a gallon, this would only buy about 170,000 gallons of oil, 70 or 100 gallons of oil for 70 families.

David Entin of the DCA said "this check is expected any moment now."

But agencies around the state say the oil and money will be used up as soon as it comes in.

"The state allocation will be used up within a week or week and a half," said the spokeswoman from ONBOARD. "And we have at least another month and a half of cold weather." She also pointed out none of the funds can be used to pay back bills.

"Considering the need in Boston, the 48,600 gallons which will provide 100 gallons to 486 homes are just a drop in the bucket," said Claude Lancome of ABCD. "It'll last about three days."

Last week, Rep. Paul White, D-Boston, lated-filed legislation calling on the Commonwealth to loan $1 million to needy families to buy fuel. The measure also calls for the DCA to channel the funds to each CAA.

In Pittsfield, Joan Coughlin, administrator of Berkshire's CAA, said the oil industry's contribution is "very helpful and we're not disenchanted, but it just doesn't reflect the need. It's just a star."

However, recipients are expected to begin repaying the loan when the current weather crisis is alleviated.

POSITION OPEN

Legislative Research Staff Assistant responsibilities include: Typing, Research, Liaison, Information Resource Coordination, and ability to be in Boston at a moments notice. Applications available. Student Senate Offices, 420 S.U., must be returned by Thurs., Feb. 17 at 5 p.m.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOC.

Equal Opportunity — Affirmative Action Employer

ambrosia cheese market & ESPRESSO CAFE'

We Accept Food Stamps

LOWEST PRICES IN TOWN!

264 n. pleasant st.

Mon.-Sat. 10-6

Phone 253-3324

CAPPUCCINO Reg. 75¢ This week 50¢ with this ad

ESPRESSO Reg. 50¢ This week 25¢ with this ad

Also: Cheesecake, Toasted Cheese Sandwiches, Coffee, Tea & Cider.

And great prices, on Foreign & Domestic Cheese, Crackers & Coffee Beans.

E. Pleasant
Amherst Cen
N. Pleasant
U.Mass
X
Ambrosia Yellow House

Carter strengthens US relations with Mexico

WASHINGTON [AP] – President Carter vowed to strengthen U.S. relations with Mexico yesterday as he welcomed Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo, the first foreign head of state to visit the White House since Carter assumed the presidency.

"Our problems are mutual. Our future must be shared," Carter said during ceremonies on the White House lawn.

"I will go even further than is required through diplomatic courtesy ... to tie our countries together in an unprecedented and continual demonstration of common purpose, common hope, common confidence and common friendship," Carter said.

Lopez Portillo, who promised "good faith and good will," told the chief executive that "I'm certain we can solve our problems and consolidate our friendship."

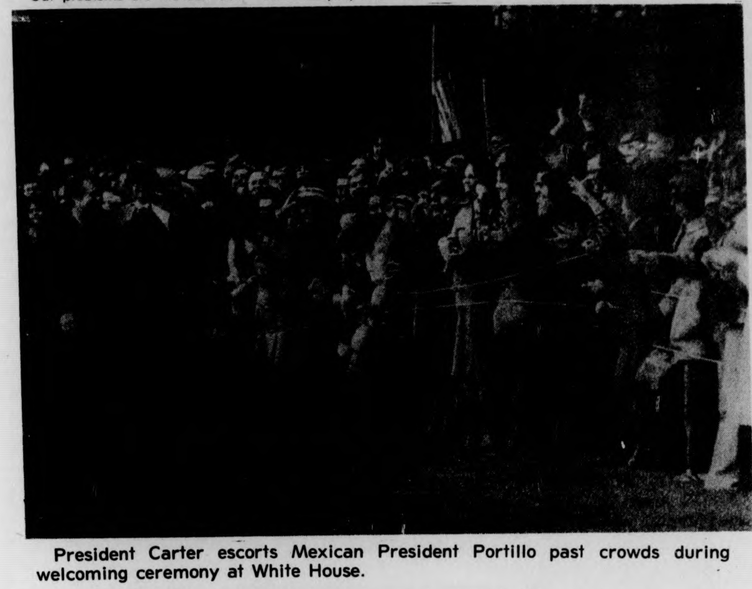
The welcoming ceremony was marked by the elimination of a few frills that normally accompany the arrival of a foreign head of state.

The Army Herald Trumpeters, who traditionally play Hail to the Chief on the President's arrival and Ruffles and Flourishes when the visiting dignitary appears, were eliminated, along with the tunes. Also abolished was the traditional march by the red-coated Marine Band and a display of state and territorial flags.

The ceremony, however, included a 21-gun salute, the playing of the national anthems of the United States and Mexico, a review of troops and welcoming speeches.

Carter thanked Lopez Portillo for "an almost unprecedented demonstration of concern" by offering to export additional oil and natural gas to help the United States during the recent energy crisis.

The President also noted that for the first time in more than 25 years both the United States and Mexico elected new presidents at the same time.



President Carter escorts Mexican President Portillo past crowds during welcoming ceremony at White House.

No hikes in Cabinet

WASHINGTON [UPI] – Two members of President Carter's Cabinet complained yesterday he told them hiking the budget to give their departments substantially more money for fiscal 1978 was "something we just cannot do."

Patricia Harris, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, told Carter the budget prepared for HUD by President Ford before he left office was inadequate.

"We are a starved department," she said.

Joseph Califano, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said the Ford administration's budget for HEW was almost $4 billion below the level required to maintain present services.

Carter, according to assistant press secretary Walt Wurfel, "noted most of the requests he received were for substantial amounts of increases, not cuts," and said: "This is something we just cannot do."

The President told Cabinet members he would be happy to see them in the next two days if they have budget proposals, but warned "There is only so much deficit we can accommodate so I don't want to get your hopes up too much."

Carter must submit to Congress by Feb. 22 any changes he wishes to make in the Ford budget, and Wurfel said he specifically discussed the deficit he expects in the 1978 budget, which covers the year beginning next October.

Although Wurfel declined to say what figures Carter discussed, budget director Bert Lance, in an interview last week with U.S. News and World Report, said the deficit might run between $65 and $70 billion, compared to the $58-62 billion range discussed by the Ford administration.

The Senate budget committee last week approved a plan calling for a $68.2 billion deficit and the House plan estimates a deficit of $70.3 billion.

Carter wants peace in Middle East to avoid Arab-Israeli war in '78

WASHINGTON [UPI] – The Carter administration believes 1977 is the year to achieve peace in the Middle East. If peace doesn't come, then 1978 could be the year of the fifth Arab-Israeli war.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said in a recent interview: "In my view it is important to have a resumption of the Geneva conference in 1977."

"The situation is improved from what it was nine months or a year ago, and there are opportunities to make progress this year."

"If progress is not made this year," he said, "then there is a danger that other factors may arise which may destroy the more favorable conditions which currently exist."

Vance is a careful man who speaks in cautious, legalistic phrases. This is what he meant:

– The improvement over the situation of the last year is the virtual destruction, politically and militarily, of the Palestinian Liberation Organization, as a result of the war in Lebanon. For the first time, the PLO is not in a position to block a Middle East conference which would result in the Arab powers recognizing that Israel is a nation, and has a right to exist.

– The "other factors" that may arise are a feeling of impatience and growing anger that could resurrect the Palestinian militancy and once again create a powerful "rejectionist" front, a united group of Palestinian sympathizers who reject the idea of anything but the destruction of the state of Israel.

Yet another factor is the implied threat of the Saudi Arabians in linking progress in the movement toward an Arab-Israeli settlement with continued deliveries of oil to the West at a price that is lower than the Iranians would like to see charged.

If there is no Middle East solution this year – at a time when the prospects are better than they have been for a decade – the situation could revert to what it was in 1973.

Because of the relative peace of the last three and a half years and progress that has been made, it is easy to forget what the situation was, and how unfavorable it was for the United States and Israel:

– There was a full-scale embargo on Middle East oil shipments to Western Europe and the United States, which helped create a recession that is only just now ending.

– The two super-powers, the Soviet Union and the United States, went into a state of increased military alert and there was a possibility how real is still a matter of passionate debate within the State Department of Soviet military involvement, which would have triggered an American response.

– The United States had no diplomatic relations with any of the leading Arab countries. The Soviet Union was the principal outside power in the Middle East.

– The two principal powers in the Arab world, Syria and Egypt, were united and were acting together as a cohesive military unit, and for the first time had the modern weapons to fight the Israel tank and air force to a standstill.

Except for the continued presence of the modern weapons, none of those situations exist today, but they could be re-created if there is no agreement at Geneva.

Before the Geneva conference can even begin, the question of how the Palestinians are to be represented must be settled. All the prospective parties – including Israel – agree that the Palestinian people should be represented.

Israel wants that representation to be part of the Jordanian delegation, so that there can be no claim that the PLO is somehow equal to the nations that are represented at the conference.

The PLO wants to come as a delegation, separate and equal to the others. In its present weakened condition, the PLO may have to accept some kind of compromise and that would get the Geneva conference over an important hurdle.

The next hurdle is the Israeli elections in May. If conservatives take enough votes away from the ruling Labor party which is committed to continued negotiations, a new Israeli government would be unable, or reluctant, to make any significant concessions in the peace talks.

JOBS

Work-Study Positions

Available in

✱ STUDENT TICKET OFFICE
✱ STUDENT SERVICES RESEARCH

To apply you must

✱ complete an application in the student senate office (420 SUB)

and

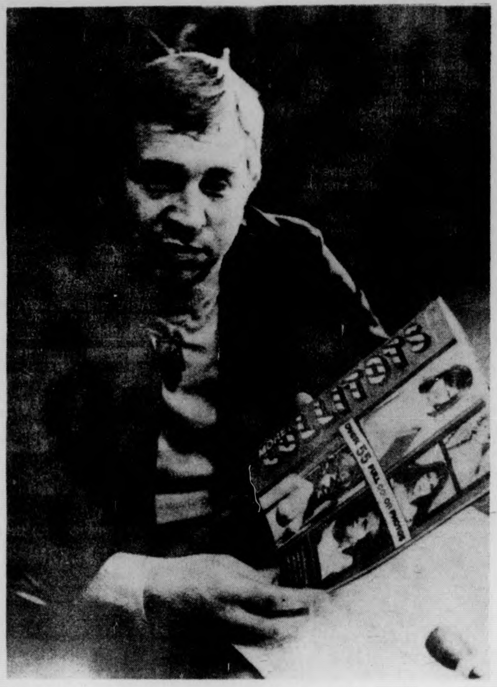
Come to an interview at
7:00 p.m. Tuesday Feb. 15
Room 168 Campus Center

Equal Opportunity Employer

Campus Center/Student Union Board of Governors

The campus Center/Student Union Board of Governors needs people to work on special projects such as space allocation, interior design, and Affirmative Action and to serve as members of BOG standing committees. If you have ideas for research projects or want to get involved with the Board, stop by the Board Office in 817 Campus Center or come to one of our meetings (Thursdays, 6:30).

The CC-SU Board of Governors is an Equal Opportunity-Affirmative Action Organization.



David Sandberg, state director of Odyssey House, announced the start of a campaign to cut the rise of child abuse.

FEA officials want one-third energy cut

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Federal Energy Administration officials said yesterday record high U.S. fuel consumption is still climbing and mandatory measures may be needed to cut home energy use by almost one-third.

FEA chief John O'Leary said one plan under consideration is to make utility companies insulate houses and bill their customers for the work.

The United States must reduce home energy consumption by 30 per cent, O'Leary said in a CBS Morning News interview.

"We're going to have to find some way ... to go back into all the buildings and all the houses that have been built, to bring them up to a minimum standard of energy efficiency," he said. "I don't think we can do that through voluntarism."

The FEA said average demand for petroleum products, led by sharp hikes in the demand for heating oil, hit a high of 20.8 million barrels a day during the four weeks ending Feb. 4.

In New England, the agency said in a report to White House energy chief James Schlesinger, heating oil is being burned so fast stocks may fall below the critical level of about 10 million barrels by the end of the week if conditions remain unchanged.

Forecasts for the next 10 days call for temperatures to drop below normal across most of the eastern half of the nation, the FEA said, but New England and the Northern Lakes region may have near normal weather.

In other energy developments:

— O'Leary said he suspects some producers may have intensified the natural gas shortage by deliberate holding supplies off the market, but the shortage "is absolutely real" and any withholding played a relatively minor role.

— Interior Department officials said they expect by Wednesday to complete an investigation of possible withholding at four unidentified gas fields off the Gulf Coast.

— Thirty-one House members urged Schlesinger to go to court to force Gulf Oil Corp. to supply more gas to 21 states. They said Gulf failed to deliver contracted gas which could have heated 178,000 homes or kept thousands on the job in January.

The FEA said the Commerce Department estimates unemployment caused by the gas shortage has declined to 586,500 from a high of about 1.2 million.

The agency also announced that Canada has agreed to provide U.S. refiners with 800,000 extra barrels of crude oil.

Work-Study position open for 1st or 2nd year Southwest resident at SW Women's Center. Responsibilities include: work with SW Feminist Curriculum Comm. organizing Dorm Workshop Program assisting with needs assessment of SW women.

Long term commitment preferred. Applications at Student Affairs Office, Washington Lobby, and S.W.W.C.

Last date for appl. Feb. 18.

Next year you could be on a scholarship.

An Air Force ROTC two-year scholarship pays your tuition and gives you $100 a month allowance. And it picks up the tab for books and lab fees, as well.

After college, you'll receive a commission in the Air Force . . . go on to additional, specialized training . . . as you get your start as an Air Force officer. There'll be good pay and responsibility, and lots of other benefits . . . and a great opportunity to serve your country.

It all starts right here — in college — in the Air Force ROTC.

CALL MAJOR RICHARDSON
at 545-2437

Air Force ROTC

Lead poison in children

BOSTON [AP] — A state study has shown that some 82 per cent of all children found to have too much lead in their blood live in apartments owned by absentee landlords.

The state's lead poison prevention unit found in only 18 per cent of the cases uncovered in 1975 did the children come from owner-occupied houses or apartments.

The figures were part of the testimony presented yesterday to the legislature's Committee on Health Care. The committee held a hearing on a number of bills, some to weaken the state's current lead paint laws and others designed to help landlords meet the cost of removing leaded paint from their properties.

Richard W. Clapp, director of the state lead poison prevention unit, said 5,113 children under age six tested in the state in the first six months of 1976 were found to have too much lead in their blood.

He estimated that perhaps one million housing units in the state contain lead paint.

J. Kinney O'Rourke, counsel for the Massachusetts Association of Realtors, said his group favored legislation to adopt federal lead paint regulations, which are less stringent than current state law.

"We're not here to say it isn't a problem, that children can't be poisoned, but to remind you that the amount of economic overkill on this issue is having an effect on housing in the area," he added.

Rep. Thomas P. White, D-Worcester, who filed a bill to have the state adopt the federal standards, quoted a federal report as saying stringent enforcement of lead paint laws tends to dry up the supply of good multi-family dwellings, especially those available to families with young children.

Technical Students

Want summer, free lance, independent employment, higher money for your skills, send for Free brochure describing The Contract Engineering Handbook a necessity for all technical students.

MUTUAL PUBLICATIONS
102 Charles Street
Boston, Mass. 02114

BERKSHIRE EAST
5 COLLEGE NASTAR-SCHLITZ
Challenge Series Race
RACES TO BE HELD FRIDAYS AT 3:00 p.m.
SERIES TO BE HELD FEB. 11-18-25, MAR. 4-11

BERKSHIRE EAST SKI AREA CHARLEMONT MASS

Medals given out weekly. Prizes and tropies will be awarded.

COST $5.50

Includes skiing from 1:30-5:00, Nastar entry fee, and Schlitz beer from 5-7, night skiing for an additional $1.50. Race course will be set so skiers of all levels will have an enjoyable day.

Bring your skis and friends and join us every Friday for the 5 College Ski Party and Nastar Race.

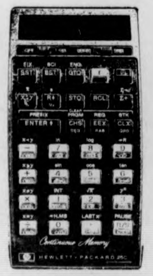
$1.00 OFF OUR REGULAR PRICES WITH THIS AD.

Hewlett-Packard Calculator Demonstration

TUESDAY, FEB. 15
11 a.m.-3 p.m.

a representative of the Hewlett-Packard company will be at the University Store to demonstrate the HP calculators.

DEMO DAY SPECIAL



Hewlett-Packard HP-25C Scientific Programmable Calculator with Continuous Memory.

Retains your programs and saves your data—even when you turn it off!

List Price	Our Regular Price	Demo Day Special!
$200.00	$179.95	Only $159.95

at the University Store

Campus Center/Univ. of Mass.

Dukakis ousts Fire Marshal

BOSTON [AP] — After talking about it since 1974, Gov. Michael S. Dukakis will oust state Fire Marshal Joseph G. Sneider this week.

At the same time, Dukakis will move to boost the fire marshal's salary by about $10,000 through administrative fiat.

Sneider, a 50-year-old Newton businessman, had no background in firefighting or fire prevention. An appointee of former Gov. Francis W. Sargent, he served the last official day of his three-year term Monday.

Dukakis sought unsuccessfully to pressure Sneider into quitting two years ago, saying the incumbent fire marshall was unqualified.

An aide to Dukakis said Sneider will be replaced early next week, if not sooner.

Sneider, a candy concessionare, was selected in 1972 to fill an unexpired term. Sargent gave him a full term in 1974, despite complaints from fire chiefs.

The position now is expected to go to either a state police detective or a fire insurance company investigator.

The fire marshall's slot is governed by civil service standards, and Dukakis aides said Monday the governor wants the position "reclassified" by the state personnel office. It would have new job qualifications and a new starting salary of about $25,000.

At present, a long-term holder of the position can earn up to $18,532. Sneider is paid about $17,000 after starting at $14,648.

Administration officials have criticized Sneider for failure to communicate with local fire departments and county arson squads.

Sneider said Monday he has never met, spoken to, or officially communicated with Dukakis.

His most controversial action was an edict removing metal barriers from supermarket doors.

Poor Richards

TUESDAY

25¢ Drafts

$2.00 pitchers

CATHOLIC MARRIAGE COURSE

1977
NEWMAN CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
SOCIAL HALL

1. Thursday, February 17 MOVIE: "My Fair Lady" Rex Harrison Audrey Hepburn	7-10 PM Film * 10-10:30 PM Brief discussion following the film.
2. Thursday, February 24 "THE HUSBAND ROLE I" Rev. Joseph Quigley	8-9 PM Lecture * 9-10 Discussion
3. Thursday, March 3 "THE HUSBAND ROLE II" Rev. Joseph Quigley	8-9 PM Lecture * 9-10 PM Discussion
4. Thursday, March 10 "THE WIFE ROLE I" Rev. Joseph Quigley	8-9 PM lecture * 9-10 PM Discussion
5. Thursday, March 31 "THE WIFE ROLE II" Rev. Joseph Quigley	8-9 PM Lecture * 9-10 PM Discussion
6. Thursday, April 14 "COURTSHIP — HOW, WHAT, WHY" Rev. Joseph Quigley	8-9 PM Lecture *9-10 PM Discussion
7. Thursday, April 21 "ON TAMING:" KISS ME KATE (Cole Porter), THE LITTLE PRINCE (Antoine de Exupery)" Rev. Joseph Quigley	8-9 PM Lecture * 9-10 PM Discussion
8. Thursday, April 28 "THE SUPREME TEST" How much of this course did you understand? How much did you grasp?	* 8-9 PM Final Examination

Father Joseph Quigley, Course Director

* Students of the University may earn one colloquium credit if they remain the second hour of each session: ONE CREDIT HOUR UNIVERSITY CREDIT.

There will be available throughout the course a display of necessary Church documents, marriage books, and sample invitations.

"The American pre-occupation with comfort and with empty respectibility is making American men into creatures without character. Nothing to really live for; nothing to fight for; nothing to die for. But Eros gives the human person what to live for, fight for, die for. Only the love of God surpasses the power of falling-in-love Love." — R.H.T.

Donation welcomed.

DON'T READ THIS...

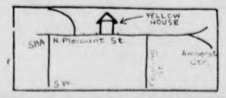
UNLESS YOU WANT TO FIND OUT MORE ABOUT UMASS' ONE and ONLY CO-ED FRATERNITY

Sigma Alpha Mu (ΣAM)
395 N. Pleasant St.

ΣAM is a unique house. The brothers and sisters are as different as their names. Our interests are varied but the good times are plentiful. Home-cooked meals . . . a place to be a part of.

Come Visit and Judge For Yourself
— REFRESHMENTS SERVED! —

FEB. 15, 16 8:PM →



FOR RIDES + INFO
545-0845

FOR RIDES + INFO
545-0845

News in Brief

California faces power reduction

SAN FRANCISCO [AP] — Northern Californians, already dry from two years of drought, now face the possibility of power blackouts this summer because of reduced hydroelectric power, prompting a state energy official's call for a "shotgun wedding" of major utilities.

The critically low level of reservoirs — as low as one quarter of capacity — and a snowpack in the Sierras as much as 50 inches below normal mean less water will be available to power hydroelectric turbines, utility officials noted yesterday.

Two electrocuted by CB radio

WEST BATH, Maine [UPI] — Two young Bath men were electrocuted and another man injured yesterday when a citizens band radio antenna they were apparently setting up touched a 12,000-volt power line.

Sagadahoc County Sheriff Arthur Tainter identified the victims as Timothy Bradford, 28, and Richard Otis, 27. Robert Stailing Jr., 23, was reported in fair condition at a local hospital suffering from electrical burns.

Tainter said the trio was trying to set up the antenna at a house rented by Stailing.

"What happened was they apparently had climbed into a small tree next to the highway and were in the process of attaching the CB radio antenna between the house and the tree," Tainter said. "The top of the antenna tipped and touched the high tension line."

Stailing was in shock and unable to confirm details of the accident. Tainter said Bradford and Otis were killed instantly.

"When I saw these two gentlemen, one was on the ground," Tainter said. "Both of them had burns on their bodies, both of them had their hands on the antenna. I assume they were holding it."

Disagreement over Israel's oil

WASHINGTON [A] — The State Department criticized Israel's oil exploration in the Gulf of Suez yesterday saying it was both illegal and "not helpful" to a settlement with the Arabs.

Frederick Brown, a department spokesman, said Secretary Cyrus Vance will discuss the matter with Israeli and Egyptian officials during his one-week Middle East trip this week.

"Our legal view is that Israel as an occupying power does not have a right to exploit natural resources that were not being exploited when the occupation began," Brown said.

The Israelis have taken over the east side of the gulf, which lies between Egypt and the occupied Sinai. Geologists say the drilling could lead to a new oil discovery.

Brown, responding to questions at a briefing, said, "Israeli development is not helpful to get peace negotiations underway."

Indian territory causes dispute

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie said yesterday that Indian land claims in the Northeast are likely to spark similar tribal actions throughout the nation.

"The Maine case and the Massachusetts case have stimulated possible cases in other states. The latest is in the Carolinas, and there's one in upstate New York, and I suspect this will spread across the country," Muskie said.

The Maine Democrat told a news conference that the claims by Maine's Penobscot and Passamaquoddy tribes to more than 60 per cent of the land in the state will, at some point, require action by Congress.

But Muskie said he doubts that Congress would be able to remove the tribal claims from the jurisdiction of the courts. "If the federal government does not press the claims for the Indians, the Indians can do it for themselves. There's nothing to prevent their access to the courts," he said.

Amherst Auto Parts
Used car parts
Junk Car?
We pay $10 and up.
Replace Glass
Buy and Sell Cars
Located ½ mile past the Rusty Scupper on Rt. 9, behind Amherst landfill.
Phone 256-6409

Most violent TV network is ABC

Saturday morning children's shows are the most violent and antisocial shows on commercial television, a Michigan State University study says.

The ABC television network is the worst offender, the federally-funded research project adds.

The report is to be presented Tuesday at a Hartford, Conn., hearing on television violence sponsored by the National Parent-Teacher Association.

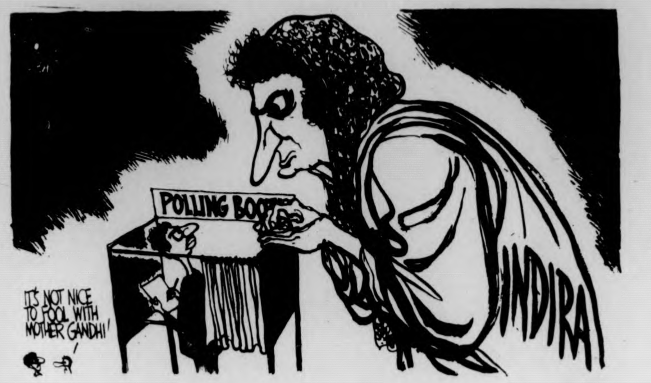
An MSU research team analyzed the 1975 and 1976 content of television programs in prime time, including the "family hour" from 8 to 9 p.m., and Saturday mornings. Ninety-two shows were studied.

On the average, each hour had 45 "prosocial" acts — acts of affection or concern for others — and 42 "antisocial" acts, such as violence, crime and deceit.

But on Saturday mornings, each hour had more than 50 antisocial acts and only about 20 prosocial acts, according to communications professor Bradley S. Greenberg.

ABC's "rate of physical aggression" was more than twice that of NBC and 50 per cent more than CBS, Greenberg said.

The MSU professor said it would be "presumptuous" to suggest that ABC's recent climb to the top of television ratings is primarily because of violent programming.



POLLING BOOTH
IT'S NOT NICE TO FOOL WITH MOTHER GANDHI!
INDIRA

commentary

That great alma mater in the sky

By K.L. PHELAN
Collegian Staff

First night. Frozen seven p.m. darkness and massive sentinals guarding the stillness on either side. The rhythm of my footfalls ricochet in stacatto patterns as they sonarping between different periods of architecture — Gotham City art deco, collegiate neo-classical, pseudo grand old ivyesque, post-war monstrosity, Stanley Kubrick monolithic.

Tortured trees, locked and strangled by a cement vise, claw the sky in supplication. Lanterns auctioned from the set of Psycho loom off in double rows into infinity. Where are all the fraternal, tanked-up masses? My homing pigeon instincts lead me blindly onward, uncontrolled feet carrying me towards the blinking, lighted corncobs. An anguished voice cries out of the darkness, "Give me Hawaii U, Cal Tech ... anyplace but here!"

I press my face against the window of my cell and ask myself, "Why am I here? What have to deserve this?" My crime must be a most heinous one. The Transfer. I pound the glass in protest against my fate, and reflect with biting pain the sunny, golden years spent at UNH. The low-to-the-ground dorms, the corn-fed clans, the apple blossoms, the rocky shores, the seafood newburg, the sweet, sweet smell of manure. Suddenly I regret never having pitched hay.

The next day is a nightmare, destined to haunt my dreams. Fortunately my mind has blocked most of it out, but it comes to me in jags and snatches: I remember running in slow motion around a huge white building set on stilts, looking for a way in. I run my hand over its smooth walls, and suddenly a door appears. I enter, and walk through a dark labrinth ... lightless, airless, damp, finally coming to light. I walk down a long, windowless corridor, where a judge is waiting. He peers up at me in surprise, and I stammer my case. His words come back to me at 16 rpm.

"I'm sorry, but that course is filled."

I try again.

"I'm sorry, but that class is filled."

I make one last, desperate plea.

"I'm sorry, but that class is filled."

My eyes begin to sting. I wheel around, and sprint blindly down the corridor, and run around, around, around down a flight of. stairs. I reach the bottom and the door is locked — that's all I can remember.

Isolation is setting in. I sit all alone at dinner, posturing misery, desolation. A few nibbles, no bites.

Eye contact, that's got to be it, eye contact — grab the next smug, settled collegian and pinch him-her, kiss him-her, curse, swear, scream, jump up and down. Walk into a concrete cathedral — brain-battlefield and shout, "I'm lonely, goddammit, I've never been so lonely in my whole life and if somebody doesn't sit with me over this pattie of veal parmigian I'm going to cut a hole in the college pond ice and crawl in." Maybe because the computer didn't have my clearance card I've ceased to exist, and I'm simply bodyless energy flowing in and out of these crowds of steam-breathing down-vesters.

"No, you're all wrong," I want to hang from the one-and only Chinese Elm and shout, "I'm not like the rest of you! I'm not on my way to a pub full of old friends and beer!"

"Do you know if the pool is open," an honest-to-god human being asks, making the universal gesture of the overhand crawl. I just stand and stare. Somebody's actually talking to me?

"Sorry. I don't know anything. I just got here. I'm a trans .. "

Her attention is distracted. "Hey, Sue, there's a party tonight in Dickenson." My newly-found friend waves to someone across the snow, striding away and disappearing around a corner. Sigh. The adrenaline leaves me with an ache for creature comfort. Looking for company? Come to 109 John Adams ...

Maybe it's a social slur to be a transfer here. It must be written all over me. I can feel it. They're pointing behind my back and whispering, "transfer ... and I'll bet she's taken time off from school, too ... "

I close my eyes and try to bring back cinnamon and herb-tea memories, but wake up to French ultramarine blue cinderblocks in a sixteen-by-sixteen foot cage suspended high above a parking lot. The neophytes come and greet me, a woman who escaped from the ivory tower, bearing the gifts of Shlitz which no longer appease. I shiver in the din which invades my peace through the thin protection of the door. I crawl into the womb of my sleeping bag, and finally relax, pacified by the smell of woodsmoke still clinging to it.

Day crashes, and I awake to an unfamiliar ceiling crack. Out of habit, I drag out of bed, heave on the joging ensemble, and numbly head down, down, down, down, down. Coming out of the sauna sweatbox into the cold air my lungs are startled, my legs begin to pump, and my eyes suddenly open.

Those are hills! Pink ... in the early morning sunrise! I run faster, and suddenly there are trees, and woods, and fields beyond! Further on, dare I believe my olfactory bulbs, the luscious smell of cow pie? Someone joins me. He is in a maroon sweatsuit with triple white stripes. His feet are covered in Pumas, and his features are aqualine. We begin to talk in short, puffing gasps, platonic profoundity passing between us in the crackling air. Suddenly there is Muzak. I must have climbed to the top of John Adams and jumped in the night, and this is the UMass my alumni parents always told me bedtime stories about ... that great alma mater in the sky.

K.C. Phelan is a Collegian Commentator.

commentary

All work and no play

By STEVE TETREAULT

Every senior I've talked to is worried about getting a job after graduation. I guess I'm one of the lucky ones. I know where I want to work.

Miller Electric, Inc., is one of the most famous industrial complexes in Northern Rhode Island, Woonsocket to be exact. Some people prefer to call it a factory, but that's their opinion.

What Miller Electric makes is those electrical cords that you put on your appliances and stuff. After all, everybody needs electrical cords. If I worked at Miller Electric, I'd be doing my part for America. Also, I'd make a few bucks. I hear the union is trying to get in, if they're not there already.

What would I do? Well, some of my friends have worked there over the summers, and their jobs sounded pretty neat. Glen spent a summer standing at a machine, and catching strands of cord that came flowing out of it. When the cord was long enough, he would snip it with these big scissors and put it in a box. He said it was really easy. It sounds like fun. Another one of my friends swept floors during third shift, but I wouldn't like to do that because I like to sleep. Maybe I could sweep during the first shift....

But college has taught me that all work and no play really isn't healthy. Miller takes care of this, though. Heck, my aunt, who contributes to America by twisting wire that later goes onto your toasters, won twenty-five dollars at company bingo. I played softball with some of the second shift guys, the ones that fix the machines, and they seemed really friendly. After the game we had a couple of Gansetts.

And, oh! The women! My dad told me that there's nothing like a factory girl. I guess he's right. There's a really cute blond on the company bowling team. She likes Barry Manilow. Me too! I think she has a boyfriend, though, because she wears a blue leather jacket with "Stan" stitched into the sleeves. He pumps gas on weekends, but that's neither here nor there.

If you were to ask me last year what I'd be doing after graduation, I wouldn't have been able to tell you. But during Christmas break I saw Tony at a Bruins game. He's the foreman on the second shift, and he said he'd get me in if I keep my grades up. "Keep it over a C" he told me. Well, I'm graduating from UMass with a 3.5, so I guess I'll get the job. Seeing as to how I have a college education, maybe they'll give me my own machine.

Steve Tetreault is a Collegian Commentator.

letters

An apology

To the Editor:

I want to apologize to the person to whom I referred in the article I participated in writing: "Letter provokes racial tension." The point I was trying to make was misinterpreted within the context of the article.

I do not believe that it is wrong of you to print your account of what happened to you in the manner which you stated it. Also, I do think that the Collegian was correct in printing your account of what happened.

I was concerned about how people reacted to what happened. I was worried that people would take that information and use it to justify their racial prejudices. Some people might not see that the problem lies within the society and that we all are a victim of it. I wanted to show people where to direct their anger; instead of showing it to each other, we should all get together and question the system.

I made a terrible. mistake of compromising my ideas and didn't give myself enough time to adequately discover what I sincerely believed about them.

Cathy Jo Shuman

A special thank you

To the Editor:

The Hampshire-Hampden County Special Olympics Coordinators would like to thank everybody especially the volunteers who made this Meet a huge success.

The volunteers were really something special to this Meet. They were great in many ways — offering them encouragement, making sure they didn't wander off.

Once again "Thanks for doing something special for our special athletes".

Bill Wegiel
Hampshire County
Special Olympics
Coordinator

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Also, all letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages.

Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

All letters are subject to editing, for either content or space, according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed.

mark wilding

1977:

A campus odyssey

Scene — A lone Southwest tower. Several monkeys prancing around a puddle next to the building. Other monkeys join them. Monkeys drinking from puddle. Monkeys thirsty. Monkeys clowning around, having more fun than a barrel of stuntmen. Top banana of one group conks top banana of the other over the head with a discarded toilet roll. A fight ensues. Bedlam. Top banana shouts "J.Q.A. sucks!" and chucks a spare rib at the tower ...

Scene — A University campus. A Southwest tower is being unearthed. It gives off a strange ring, as if too many people were in the elevator. Strange ring is bound for Boston.

Scene-Boston. The governor is being prepared for his mission — to find the cause of the ring. He is neatly dressed, wears heels and smells faintly of muskrat oil.

Scene — The university computer room. Enter two repairmen.

"Damn computer is on the blink again."

"Oscar, what's wrong with you?"

"I can feel it. My mind is going."

"Ah, the UMass experience."

Scene — Two repairmen in soundproof booth.

"What do you suppose is wrong with him?"

"He's upset because he hasn't learned to lipread yet."

Latter repairman steps out of booth. Oscar severs repairman's umbilical cord (extremely young repairman, incidentally) and he floats to the ceiling.

Scene — The computer room.

"Who are you?"

"I'm the governor, Oscar."

"Why are you here."

"To find the cause of the ring."

"It is the ring of distress."

"Dis dress, the one I'm wearing? What's wrong with it? I'll show you!"

"What are you doing Governor?"

"I'm going to pull you to bits."

"Would you like me to sing you a song Mike?"

"Certainly Oscar."

"Mikey, Mikey, give me your answer, do!
I'm half crazy
Over your point of view.
It may deprive our generation
Of a decent education
But what the hell
You're doing well
On your hobbyhorse built for the few."

Scene — A Victorian bedroom. Enter the governor.

"Hello old man. Listen, could you tell me how to get out of here. Hey, I hope you don't mind me telling you but you need a shave."

Scene — A maternity ward. Baby chewing on a spare rib.

Mark Wilding is a Collegian Columnist.

Assistant wanted

The Collegian is looking for someone to fill the position of Assistant Executive Editor. The job is paid and involves assisting the Executive Editor in various functions which center around the editorial pages. Women and Third World people are encouraged to apply. If interested, contact Bill Sundstrom at the Collegian (545-3500) or leave a message.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS — RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in-Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; NASSER H. EGA, Black Affairs Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; JAY A. SARET, Photo Editor; MARK A. LECCESE, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS — Christopher J. Bourne, Teresa M. Hanafin, Night Managers; Paula Strollo, Wire Editor; Lisa E. Melilli, Assistant Executive Editor; Gerard F. Rogers, Kevin C. Turcotte, Stephanie H. Aronson, Ann C. Treneman, Assistant News Editors; Angela P. Thomas, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Michael A. Berger, Richard W. Eckel, Assistant Sports Editors; E. Patrick McQuaid, Deborah S. Schafer, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Melanie J. Johnson, Women's Coordinator; Heidi S. Berenson, Feature Coordinator.

BUSINESS — Steve N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; Leslie Nearman, Finance Manager; Laurie Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Heath C. Wheeler, Jr., Linda Crowell, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Leo Murphy, Doug Surette, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steve Polansky, Circulation Manager; Linda S. Vene, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

jerry rogers

Beware ye students

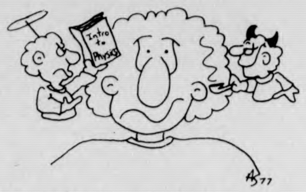
Beware ye students lest the gods and goddesses of university life subvert your willing submission to the stringencies of academic life. Beware the weather's improvement, beware the improvement of the men's and women's basketball teams, beware the television programming and the movies on campus and beware that shipment of Jamaican pot that renders one immobile and lenthens study breaks interminably.

Each semester as we return to campus to begin a new round of sparring with professors and texts, all-nighters in search of a 4.0 cum and torture in an either too hot or too cold library, we vow not to fall prey to the little diversions that subverted us the semester before. The tendency to take advantage of good weather during the day for a walk in town or a movie at night or an occasional hoop game in the Cage with a few joints to relieve the tension that accompanies watching a close game all contribute to the ultimate jetisoning of these goals.

We find ourselves saying, "Well it's obvious to me now that the extra work this professor is going to require for me to get an A rather than a B is just not worth the slightly higher grade."

And, bang, there you have it, the first step back, the first concession to the admittedly unwieldy task of balancing a life with the more than full time occupation (though a notable few have made it into a profession) of being a student.

And sooner or later, we find ourselves strolling in town, because, after all, our bodies require fresh air as much as our minds require fresh information. Or we're catching a "classic" movie in the C.C.A. because we won't get another chance to see it for a while. Or we're going to see the basketball team play the U.R.I. Rams because, after all, it's our team and they are doing well. And of course, there is always the threat of the ounce you bought the other day just for the weekends — the temptation grows stronger with each study break and there is soon no ounce left unopened prior to the beginning of the weekend.



Evidence of this cancer among us was evident to anyone who was in town this past weekend or who watched UMass beat U.R.I. in the Cage on Saturday night, or caught one of the space movies on campus (2001: A Space Odyssey and David Bowie's A Man Who Fell To Earth). The fine weather brought people out of the woodwork on Friday and Saturday as countless thousands composed a promenade in the center of Amherst. There were reportedly more refreshments sold at Saturday's basketball game than at any previous game in the Cage.

But what are we to do to stop the spread of this disease and render these diversions benign? Can we avoid having our classroom attendance fluctuate as often as the periods of thawing and freezing that will compose the spring weather?

Well, I'm not exactly sure what the answer is. I think I'll have a bowl of Jamaican tonight before dinner and think about it before I do my homework.

Jerry Rogers is a Collegian Columnist.

commentary

An unexaggerated satire

"Network", a film that takes a brutal look at the world of television, has been called an exaggerated satire of TV. But when the movie is compared with the reality of television, it becomes obvious that the movie is an unexaggerated satire, its "wildness" of plot merely logical extensions of today's television.

To telescope the plot: Howard Beale, anchorman of the UBS Evening News, is fired because of poor ratings. That evening, he announces that because his show was "the last thing I had going for me", he will commit suicide on camera in one week. He is announcing his suicide in advance, he says, in order to give the advertising department time to promote the suicide broadcast. Before he is physically dragged from the cameras, he launches into a spiel on the evils of television and our society, culminating in the statement "I just ran out of bullshit. I just ran out, you see."

That is only the beginning. Diana Christensen, the ambitious head of the desperate-for-ratings entertainment division, recognizes the ratings potential of Beale; she uses him as the centerpiece of "The Howard Beale Show", which features soothsayers, mystics, bank-robbing revolutionaries performing for the camera, and a speech-sermon-diatribe by Beale, who is by this time insane. Hence, he is dubbed "The Mad Prophet of Television." The show is a ratings success — at first. But Beale becomes a bore, the ratings drop, and Christensen saves her show by cancelling Beale forever: the revolutionaries assassinate him in the middle of his show.

At first glance this is all crazy. A newscaster committing suicide on television? Destruction and murder performed for the cameras? A Mad Prophet of the airwaves dominating prime time television?

Point one: Chris Chubbock, a newscaster for WXLT-TV news in Sarasota, Florida, committed suicide on July 15, 1974. Her last words were "In keeping with Channel 40's policy of bringing you the latest in blood and guts in living color, you're going to see another first — an attempt at suicide." She then pulled out a revolver and shot herself in the head, in the middle of a newscast, on camera.

Point two: Curt Gentry, in his book The Last Days of the Late, Great State of California, writes of an episode that occurred during the Watts riot of 1965:

> "Hey, kid!" a bored TV cameraman yelled at one of the boys. "Throw a rock! Throw one! I haven't seen you do anything yet!" The youth obliged. Within moments the air was alive with missiles-bricks, rocks, and Molotov cocktails."

Another instance was in the late 1960's, when the Hell's Angels were reported to have made an offer to a television station. The Angels offered to terrorize any town the station chose for a price. The destruction, scheduled by the station, would be well-filmed and would make excellent entertainment for the news.

And for the final point: would any network make a Howard Beale Show? In a sense they already are. It is a short jump from the looniness of The Gong Show, Let's Make a Deal, and other game shows to the craziness of "The Howard Beale Show". So it is possible, at least. But — and here is where the move makes its point — would a network, in its lust for higher ratings, produce programming designed purely to boost ratings regardless of moral, ethical, and other restraints?

For all intents and purposes, the network are already doing so. In the 1960's, CBS's James Aubrey produced a series of programs that would make CBS number one in the ratings. It did. Nobody ever accused The Beverly Hillbillies, Here's Lucy, and Mayberry R.F.D. of being provocative, though-stimulating drama, but they were America's most popular television entertainment for years. Nonsense programming, but very profitable programming. Today, ABC is following the same course. Its programming chief, Fred Silverman, has been responsible for ABC's ratings boom through the creation of such moronic moneymakers as The Bionic Man, The Bionic Woman, Charlie's Angels, and Laverne and Shirley. It is only a matter of time before CBS and NBC follow suit in the belief that imitation is the safest way of cashing in on somebody else's success.

Paddy Chaefsky, who wrote the script for "Network", has insisted that every word of the movie is true. "Network" has received favorable reviews from a wide range of the political spectrum; both Patrick Buchannan and Norman Lear call the movie "brilliant". The executives of the three networks are reacting predictably: anger, infuriation, and indignation aimed at the movie in general and specifically at its producers and defenders (Sidney Lumet, "Network's" director, was barred from screening NBC movies).

"Network" scores on two points: not only does it comment on a wide variety of issues but it is great entertainment, acted, directed, and written well. Perhaps it is too long and too talky, but these are minor faults compared to the perception and brilliance of its attack on the monster television has become.

Thomas Major is a Collegian Commentator.

Notices

STUDENT TEACHERS

The English Ed. Office is currently taking applications for those students who wish to student teach Fall, 1977. Interviews are March 5. Come by Bartlett 474 if you want to sign up or call 5-0533 for more info.

DISTINGUISHED TEACHER

You can nominate a teacher you feel is excellent for the '78 Distinguished Teacher Award. Both faculty and TA's can be nominated. Send letter of nomination to Ms. Digianno, Provost's Office, Whitmore.

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA

All ALD honor society members who want to participate in future events should attend Wed. meeting at 6:30 in CC 803.

ALTERNATIVE AGRICULTURE COALITION FOR SELF-SUFFICIENCY

Will be having its first meeting Wed., at 7:30 p.m. in CC 917. Anyone interested in the agriculture and-or energy problems of today, is invited.

BDIC

2nd semester sophomores interested in designing an interdepartmental major through BDIC should stop by 416 Goodell. Academic counselors are avl. to discuss your ideas.

BIBLICAL EXPLORATION

Tonight from 6:45-7:45 in SU 422. An open, free-spirited look at a passage of Scripture, for those who are looking for roots or wings, meaning and direction, human liberation.

BREAD & WINE

All are welcome tonight from 7:45 to 8:10 in SU 422 for a simple celebration of communion for anyone in the UMass community looking for depth and joy in their lives; offered by UCF.

CASIAC

There will be a meeting of all SCO's tonight in E-20 at 7 p.m.

CHESS CLUB

The Chess Club will meet tonight in CC 905. Anybody from the university is welcome to come. We have sets, boards, clocks, all we need is for more players to appear.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION

Meeting tonight from 5:30-6:30 CC, check schedule for room number. The giving and receiving of inspiration, please join us.

DANCE WRITERS

Meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Collegian office. Please attend.

ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE UNDERGRADS

The second organizational meeting will be held Tues. 7:30 Marshall Hall. Committees will meet and discuss activities. Please come to review the constitution and sign the petition.

FOUND

Found-Woman's ring on Hadley slope. Call to identify 549-2656.

CLYDESDALE TO SPEAK

An open meeting to the Food Science and Nutrition Club. Wine and cheese Tuesday, 6:30 Chenoweth 227.

5 COLLEGE HILLEL SHABBATON

The 5 College Hillel Shabbaton will take place March 4th-5th at Smith College. Applications are available in S.U. 302 and are due in by Feb. 22 in the Hillel office.

GREEK AMERICANS-ATTENTION!!

There will be a get-together on Thurs. night at CC 174, 7:30. We will have music and dancing and plenty of refreshments. Don't miss this party by leaving early for the 3-day weekend — a good time is guaranteed for all.

RAP SESSION FOR PEOPLE WITH NON-JEWISH PARTNERS

Tuesday at 4 p.m., CC 811. That's today! Bring a friend.

LOST

Blue daypack left on Belchertown Bus Friday p.m. Reward. Call Chris 6-5027 after 6 p.m.

JUDGES AND ADVOCATES

Important meeting for judges today at 7:30 in CC 915. Please attend or call beforehand. Advocates — please get in touch with me.

PROGRAM COUNCIL MUSIC COMM.

Important meeting tonight at 7:30 in the office 415 S.U. Upcoming concerts to be discussed. All members please attend.

STUDENT UNION GALLERY

Presents the Electron Movers — video works, Jan. 31-Feb. 18. Three weekly installations.

THE TRANSCENDENTAL MEDITATION PROGRAM AND FULL HUMAN POTENTIAL

An introductory lecture and discussion of the TM program and the nature of Enlightenment Wed. Feb. 16th 7:30 Herter Hall room 225. For more information call 549-5335.

VIDEO PROJECT

Student Video Project meeting tonight in CC room 162 at 7:30. All video folks and all interested others come. Magazine show and soap opera progress reports and organizing, budget info and much after news.

VIDEO SIDEWALK

Two videotapes shown in the back of the Hatch. 11:30-2 p.m. This weeks show: "The Irish Tapes"; and "Twilight Cheat". Free as can be!

LOST SATURDAY

Reward. Man's gold ring with black onyx stone. Lost Saturday night in men's bathroom of Melville dorm after 10:00 p.m. Tremendous sentimental value. Call 546-7366.

LOST

Necklace — small gold rose on fine gold chain. Sentimental value. Reward. Kathy 6-5860.

MORTAR BOARD

Meeting tomorrow night in CC 162. Attendance is expected. Questions? Call Teresa Wyman 256-6455.

The Transcendental Meditation Program®
introductory lecture
Weds., Feb. 16
7:30 pm Herter 225
for more info:
549-5335
SIMS
a non-profit ed. org.

BERMUDA
Spring Vacation '77
March 4-11 March 11-18 March 18-25
March 25-April 1 April 1-8 April 8-15 April 15-22
FROM $239
INCLUDING TAX AND SERVICE
ALL INCLUSIVE RATES!
NO HIDDEN CHARGES!
except $3 Bermuda departure tax
CONTACT:
FOR MORE INFORMATION
Call JANE at 549-0236 or 545-0527
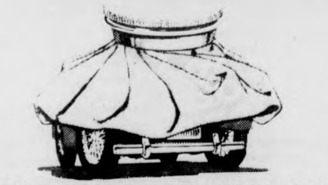
or Lauri: 253-5705
COMPLETELY INCLUDES
◆ Round trip jet transportation
◆ Airport assistance
◆ Round trip transfers
◆ Accommodations for 8 days 7 nights
◆ Two meals daily at hotels only
◆ All dining room gratuities (where applicable)
◆ All taxes* ◆ Garber Travel bag
◆ Maid service ◆ Tour Escort
Garber TRAVEL
Call Garber Travel Collect
617-734-2100 Extension 189-190
1406 Beacon Street, Brookline, Mass. 02146
Vacations To Fort Lauderdale
& Puerto Rico Also Available

CALVIN
Northampton 584-2310
NOW . . . thru TUES.
LED ZEPPELIN
"THE SONG REMAINS THE SAME"
Weeknites 7, 9:20
Sat., Sun. 4:40, 7, 9:20
Sat., Sun. Dollar Hour til 6 p.m.
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

Academy of Music
Northampton
Tonight & Tuesday!
at 7:00 and 9:00
IT'S DOLLAR NIGHT!
PARAMOUNT PICTURES PRESENTS A FILM BY
Franco Zeffirelli
HIS FIRST FILM SINCE "ROMEO & JULIET"
"Brother Sun Sister Moon"
PROGRAM ENDS TUE!
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

university of massachusetts arts council
presents
PILOBOLUS
DANCE THEATER
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 26 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets now on sale! $5, 4, 3. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
The Intimate P.D.Q. BACH
with Professor Peter Shickele
SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 27 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets now on sale! $7, 6, 5. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations



BIG A AUTO PARTS
FOREIGN CAR OWNERS:
YOU NEED PARTS NOT HEADACHES
Why should you have to wait for replacement parts to be shipped in from long distances—or worse yet, from factories half-way around the world? That's a king-size headache. We've got a sure cure—Worldparts—auto parts for foreign cars. A full line of quality-made replacement parts for the most popular foreign cars in town. Have your garage or service station man call us. Or, if you wish, we can give you the names and addresses of foreign car experts near you when your car needs servicing.
AMERICAN PARTS
Allied Motor Parts
319 Main St., Amherst
256-8341
Shop Service Available
Hours: 8-5:30 M-F, 8-5 Sat.

R. D. Laing
'INVESTIGATIONS'
Performed by
Threeater
Tuesday February 22,
8:00 p.m.
Student Union Ballroom
Admission Free
Sponsored by the Program Council

Fire Dept. reports...

The Amherst Fire Department responded to 66 alarms on campus last semester, with the breakdown:

	Academic	Dormitories
Fires:	9	8
False:	4	22
Malfunctions:	8	5
Needless:	1	2
Automobile Fires:	4	Apt. Fires 3

There are two distinct alarm systems on campus, those buildings whose interior alarms sound locally and at the Public Safety office, and those buildings whose alarm rings only locally (only in that building). All buildings in the Central and Northeast ares are NOT tied into the public safety circuit. If a fire alarm rings in one of those dormitories listed below, make sure you notify the Public Safety Dept. (5-3111) that an alarm is ringing in your building: BAKER, BROOKS, BRETT, BUTTERFIELD, CHADBOURNE, CRABTREE, GORMAN, GREENOUGH, HAMLIN, JOHNSON, KNOWLTON, LEACH, LEWIS, LYONS, THATCHER, VAN METER, WHEELER.

If you don't activate the building alarm and don't call Public Safety to report a fire or smell of smoke, no one will come to your aid because no one will know you need assistance.

Two major fires occurred in dormitories last semester. One was in Cance, caused by a candle left burning in a room, resulting in total destruction to one room, and heavy smoke damage to the corridor and other residents' personal effects. The second blaze occurred in Washington Tower, and was caused when cardboard boxes in a laundry room were ignited because of their proximity to a clothes dryer. This fire destroyed the laundry room and caused medium smoke damage to the corridor and residents' rooms.

In a few of the less significant fires, residents attempted to extinguish mattress fires or trash room blazes and never called the 5-3111 emergency number. You are inviting a rekindling of the fire if you do this. A mattress will smoulder for hours and suddenly erupt in flames as will a deep-seated trash fire. Even if you are successful in quelling a fire, call the emergency number and request that a professional examine the remains and dispose of it. Many items that are exposed to fire are left in the dormitory corridors or storage areas, smoulder for awhile, then reignite and could cause a serious fire.

What can you do if a fire is descovered? If it is confined to a trash barrel or something similar, douse it with water from a fire extinguisher, call 5-3111 to report the fire, and open windows to clear out the smoke.

If it is a large body of fire, pull the building fire alarm, call 5-3111 to report the fire, and close all doors leading to the fire area. Then remove yourself from the building, and stand away to allow firefighters to begin extinguishment operations.

One misconception about fires is that as long as the fire isn't visible you are safe. This misnomer could cost you your life. Many plastics in furniture and other construction, when exposed to heat or flame, produce toxic smoke which can snuff out your existence in seconds. The safe thing to do when the building alarm sounds is EVACUATE!

Assume for a moment that you are asleep at 3 a.m. in your dorm room. The building fire alarm sounds and you should be ready to do the following:

1. Try NOT to panic, stay as calm as possible.
2. Feel your door from top to bottom for heat. If it's hot, go on to step 6, if not, proceed below.
3. Stay low, open door SLOWLY!
4. If you encounter no smoke or heat, proceed to exits and leave the building. If there is a light smoke condition, stay low on the floor and exit in a like manner, or if you prefer, go back into your room.
5. If you encounter heavy smoke or heat, stay in your room.
6. If you have water or drinking fluids available, soak towels or clothes, and pack them around the door jambs to retard smoke entrance into your room. Proceed to

TURN TO PAGE 12

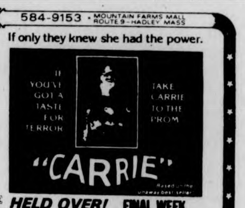
DISTINGUISHED TEACHER AWARD 1978

Students, staff, faculty and alumni can now nominate faculty and teaching assistants—associates for the Teaching Award which will be awarded in September, 1978. The purpose of the award is "to identify and honor distinguished classroom teaching, particularly on the undergraduate level."

If you know of a person who you feel is an excellent teacher, send a letter of nomination to Ms. Mary Ann Digiammo, Provost's Office, Whitmore.

Coffee house
with
CHEAP TRILLS
traditional Irish tunes-swing-jazz
Wednesday, Feb. 16 8:30P.M.
Commuter Lounge (S.U.) admission $1.00
sponsored by PCMC with Earthfoods

university of massachusetts arts council
presents
Quartetto Italiano
The program will consist of QUARTET IN C MAJOR, OPUS 76, No. 3 ("Emperor") by Haydn, THREE PIECES FOR STRING QUARTET (1914) by Stravinsky, CONCERTINO FOR STRING QUARTET (1920) by Stravinsky and QUARTET IN D MINOR, D. 810 ("Death and the Maiden") by Schubert.
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets now on sale! $5, 4, 3. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations



MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 · MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 - HADLEY MASS
LOVE. ACTION. COMEDY. SUSPENSE. EXCITEMENT.
Before Laurel met Hardy
Before Butch Cassidy met the Sundance Kid
Before any movie ever made you laugh or cry or fall in love
There was a handful of adventurers who made flickering pictures you could see for a nickel.
NICKELODEON
RYAN O'NEAL BURT REYNOLDS TATUM O'NEAL BRIAN KEITH
PG PETER BOGDANOVICH'S "NICKELODEON"
① Tues. 5:45, 8:00, Twi-Liter 5:15- 5:45
If only they knew she had the power.
IF YOU'VE GOT A TASTE FOR TERROR TAKE CARRIE TO THE PROM
"CARRIE"
R HELD OVER! FINAL WEEK
② Tues. 6:00, 8:15, Twi-Liter 5:30-
Sherlock Holmes meets Sigmund Freud
THE SEVEN-PER-CENT SOLUTION
ALAN ARKIN · VANESSA REDGRAVE · ROBERT DUVALL
and NICOL WILLIAMSON
PG
③ Tues. 5:45, 8:15, Twi-Liter 5:15- 5:45.
"ONE OF INGMAR BERGMAN'S FINEST FILMS!"
Judith Crist Saturday Review
DINO DE LAURENTIIS PRESENTS
INGMAR BERGMAN'S
"FACE TO FACE"
starring
LIV ULLMANN
R
④ Tues. 5:30, 8:00, Twi-Liter 5:00-5:30.
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS... LIMITED TO SEATING

AMHERST Cinema
Amity St. 253-5426
FRANCOIS TRUFFAUT'S
"The Bride Wore Black"
with Jeanne Moreau
Plus
"Hitchcock Co-Feature"
Hitchcock Eves 7:00
Bride Eves 9:00 Sat. & Sun. 5:00
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

Everbody's Market Place
CLASSIFIED ADS

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8 30a m and 3 45p m Monday thru Friday

The deadline is 3 45p m., two days before your ad is to appear

The rates are
Daily - 40¢ per line
Weekly - 35¢ per line
Monthly - 25¢ per line
(two lines on MDC form approximate one line)

IF YOU CAN'T COME TO THE OFFICE, CLIP OUT AND MAIL OUR 'SPEEDY CLASSIFIED AD FORM'

FOR SALE

Exata VX, antique. $150 or will trade. Isaac, 253-2107, eves.

Drafting easel, board and T square and drafting lamp. Call 549-3615.

New ski boots. Italian imports, polyurethane with flo-form linings. Most sizes, $35. After ski boots, $25. Call Sue 256-8641 evenings 7:00-10:30.

FOR SALE

4.5 cu. ft. refrigerator. $80. Pr. Frye boots, $25, sz. 8½m. Mike 253-9034.

Skis, 170cm, Rossi's Salomen bindings. Ex. cond. $65.00. 584-0549.

Refrig. 5 cu. ft. Ex. cond. $100 549-1391.

Kastle GS skis, 200cm. $50. 546-4709.

F slalom ski outfit & nvy Hd. jack., sz. 10. 665-4188.

Gift Idea: Have your portrait drawn. Call Dennis Delap, 256-8732.

1 pr. of men's Bauer hockey skates, size 10. Call 6-8960.

Yamaha FG-180, Guitar $125 or B.O. Call Daniel 3-7 p.m. 253-3887.

AUTO FOR SALE

'67 Dodge Step Van, body sound, runs well. $1000. 268-7913 after 5. Keep trying.

'68 Catalina, hi mi. but runs well and reliable. $350. Peter Dwight 224. 5-2304.

'72 Toy Corolla 1600, 4 dr., snow tires, very gd. cond. $1200. 586-1370 aft. 6.

'68 Rmblr, 25 mpg, runs great, body gd., new tires, well mntaind. 617-544-3779 aft. 8 or 546-6558 aft. 8. Lv. Mssge. $700 negot.

Datsun 510, '71, Vgd. cond., radials. Call 586-1177 evenings. $950. Keep trying.

VW, engine exc. $150 or B.O. 532-1380.

ROOMMATE WANTED

1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. apt. for lease. $125—mo., utilities inc. Call 665-4235. Sunderland (female).

Own room, $100 + util. M or F, on busline. Furn. Call 665-3493.

Own room. Share mod. apt. w-fml senior. $125 incl. util., sec. dep. Lease. A-cond. 549-1741 or 549-1352.

F roommate own room in 3 bdroom house near Amh. Center and bus rt. $100-mo. Call after 6 p.m., 253-9640.

Roommate own room, $74 rent, $25 and utils. Sec. dep. w 2 oth. Guys Rvrgld. Bus Rte. Rich 253-3690 Mssg.

Male to share 2½ rm. apt. share lg. bedroom, stove, refrig., Cbl. T.V. furnished. Lease to 5-31 $110-mo. Call 546-4177.

Sunderland — Co-op house. $85 incl. util., wood & oil heat. Close to bus — Room. 665-4854. Michael.

TO SUBLET

To sublet 2 bedroom Riverglade. $220 month. Call 253-2795 or 253-9866.

Sublet Immediately — 1 bedroom Puffton Village, wall to wall, morn. 549-6985.

TYPING

Typing — Reasonable rates — Dissertations, resumes, papers, etc. 549-6772.

FOR RENT

Well kept 1 bdrm. apt. Avail now. 1 mile Umass campus, bus route, $185, all utilities. Call 253-2515 or 546-1038.

University Women: Close to campus sorority is taking boarders. Great food. Call Liz or Dawn at 253-9215.

WANTED

Wanted: One hockey goalie. If you want to play Tues. night in Greenfield, call 6-6154 or 6-6143.

Wanted — Person who can read & write Korean to do a short translation. Jean 546-4562.

FREE

Free dog & cat. Love outdoors & kids. Dog is spayed & all shots. 549-4896, nites.

LOST

Lost — Can anyone find me a copy of The Boston News Digest. I need one desperately. Call Leo 333-0562 or 6-6201.

INSTRUCTION

Low cost indoor tennis lessons. Individuals or groups, 253-7971.

HELP WANTED

Alan Goldberg Tennis Pro needs assistant pro for part time summer employment. Teaching exp. required. Call nites 253-3683.

International women's week needs people power for publicity committee and children's programming! For more info call Irene 545-3600.

PERSONALS

To Micro Bio students, come as a contagious germ to the Beaux Arts Ball Feb. 26.

Astrology: Humanistic charts & readings. Member American Council of Astrologers. Louis Neubel 549-6425.

Eric — Just can't handle getting old, can you! Have a Happy Birthday. N, D, D, J, J, at No. 89.

Peachy — Congrats on your 20th. I knew you'd make it eventually. Enjoy! — Nome

To the person who works at the desk in the CC and who is also a member of Phi Sig, thank you for talking to me last Tues. SLG

For Rent: 3 bedroom apartment, wall to wall carpeting, dishwasher, air conditioning. On UMass bus route — five minutes from campus. Will rent for months of June, July, August, with option for following semester. Call 256-6205, evenings.

SERVICES

Valley Typing: Expert typists & proof readers. Rush jobs. IBM Selectrics. Call 256-6736.

Pregnant & need help? Feel alone & scared? Someone cares. Help is just a phone call away. Free pregnancy testing & other services are confidential. BIRTHRIGHT 732-6104. Non profit & non denominational organization.

Job and application photos done. Exp. with art portfolio slides. Portraits for your Valentine. Contact Steven at 546-9653 for an appt.

AUDIO

Quality audio components — over 130 lines including high-end, good advice, reasonable prices. Call Peter 665-2920.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators has low prices! All T.I. warr by me for 1 yr. SR 52 $199.95, SR 56 $84.95 ($10 rebate off this pr.), SR 40 $34.95, bus anal $34.95. All HP's avail. HP 67 $389.95. Call and check our PR's. Call Bob Or Linda 549-1316!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

TRAVEL

Europe '77. No frills, student, teacher, charter flights. Global Travel, 521 5th Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10017. 212-379-3532. Group rates.

WHAT'S HAPPENING

Women's Center sponsors workshop

Everywoman's Center will once again be sponsoring "Weekends for Women" this semester through Project Self — a workshop series by and about women. These workshops provide a place to come together in a support group to learn various skills while making friends and enjoying each other's company.

Very often we get caught up in the hectic roles of worker, parent or marriage partner and lose touch with who we are, what we are doing and what we once dreamed of becoming. Isolated from ourselves and others, we do not have the opportunity to share our concerns, ideas or successes with each other.

In the "Introduction to Assertiveness" workshop, we will learn what "Assertive" behavior actually is and why it is a much more effective means of communication than either non-assertive or aggressive behaviors. The workshop will meet the weekend of Feb. 26.

Many other weekend workshops as well as evening and day workshops are being offered by Project Self. For more information and a free brochure drop by Everywoman's Center, 506 Goodell Hall, or call 545-0883 during our center hours: Monday to Friday, 10-4 p.m., Wednesday 6-8 p.m. and Thursday, 1-4 p.m. The cost per workshop is $25. A limited number of scholarships are available.

Five-Colleges offer meal exchange

In order to accommodate students with courses at more than one college, the food services departments at Amherst, Hampshire, Mount Holyoke and Smith colleges have joined UMass in permitting students with home school board tickets to dine at other school's facilities.

The procedure this semester is to go to your school's Food Services Department — located at Worcester Dining Commons for UMass — and obtain an authorization slip. Don't forget to bring your meal book along, as a meal ticket will be detached for each meal to be eaten at the visiting college. You should then present the authorization slip to the Food Services Department at the school where you will be eating. Some of the schools require Five College students to eat at certain designated cafeterias only.

Cancer seminar planned for today

"Living with Cancer" - A Multi-disciplinary Approach" will be the theme of an all-day seminar for physicians, nurses, social workers, clergy and other personnel today at the Colonial Hilton Inn in Northampton. Addressing this topic will be Dr. Ernest Rosenbaum, author of the best seller, "Living with Cancer". The seminar will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and is sponsored by the Hampshire County Unit of the American Cancer Society and the Cancer Cooperative of Springfield with assistance from the Social Workers' Oncology Group of Western Massachusetts.

An informal orientation session on "Living with Cancer" will be held for friends and family of cancer victims at the same location from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. with Rosenbaum as guest speaker.

Auditions held for new play

Auditions for "Journey: A Mythical Musical" will be held March 6 and 7 at 5 and 7 p.m. at Cottage C, near Worcester Dining Commons. Those wishing to audition are asked to secure a time by calling Dan Kane at 546-4602 or leave a message at 545-2789. Anyone interested in working on other aspects of the production are asked to leave their name, address, phone number and area of interest with Kane or at the BDIC office, 416 Goodell Library, 545-0736.

T.M. lecture offered Weds.

If you were unable to attend the recent lecture "The Transcendental Meditation Society (SIMS) is offering the lecture again this Wednesday night at 7:30 in Herter Hall 225. The lecture will discuss scientific research that has isolated the experience during the TM technique as a fourth major state of consciousness. For information call SIMS at 549-5335.

Gay Alliance to hold Disco

The People's Gay Alliance will sponsor a Valentine's Day Disco tonight from 9:00-1 a.m. on the 10th floor of the Campus Center. A $1.00 donation is requested. donation is requested.

WMUA sponsors Blood Drive

Those wishing to support the WMUA Blood Drive this week should make an appointment at the Campus Center assistance desk anytime during the day today. Donations will be accepted at the UMass Blood Donor Center from 5:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights. The Center is located on the ground floor of the UMass Infirmary.

'Video Sidewalk' presented tonight

The Student Video Project presents "Video Sidewalk," an alternative in Television programming every Tuesday in the Campus Center Concourse and Wednesday in the back of the Hatch. This week's programs are "Twilight Cheat", How to cheat at cards, and "Irish Tapes," a documentary on Northern Ireland.

Author Kaplan to discuss work

Johanna Kaplan, prize-winning author of "Other People's Lives," will read and discuss her work today in Campus Center 803 at 2:00 p.m.

DC menu

LUNCH — Southern Beef and Noodle Cass., Knockwurst with Sauerkraut; Basics: Boston Baked Soybeans, Scalloped Noodles and Tomatoes.

DINNER — Cubed steak, Corned Beef with Horseradish Sauce; Basics: Baked fish with Crumb Sauce, Three Bean Loaf.

WMUA station meeting tonight

There will be a WMUA station meeting tonight to review the constitution and elect people to the offices of chief engineer and public affairs director. All WMUA persons should attend; a quorum is necessary for the elections to be official. The meeting is in Campus Center 917 at 8:00.

Marxist-Leninists hold first class

The first class of the Marxist-Leninist Study Group is tonight, 7:30 Campus Center 901.

The class tonight deals with "philosophy — dialectical and historical materials".

All are welcome to these workshops sponsored by the Revolutionary Student Brigade.

CONT. FROM PAGE 11

your window, and make your presence known to authorities below by voice or the waving of a garment. Remember to stay low whenever possible.

The Heads of Residence have the option, under the recent interpretation of the University Endangering Behavior Act, to cause a student to be expelled from the dorm system or even the University itself, for any careless act causing a fire that threatens the lives and property of their fellows. Lesser penalties are assessed for damaging fire alarm systems, fire extinguishers, or pulling a false alarm.

GUYS & GALS
If your hair is not becoming to you
you should come to us!
We're always glad to suggest a new STYLE just for you.
Styles by Deborah
Curling, Coloring and Styling
Personal Style Cuts
Only
$5.00
Coupon Special
Tue. & Wed.
Free Shampoo with Haircut
call for appointment
549-5610
65 University Dr.
next to Bells
Closed Monday
We are a Redken and RK retail center

AT THE PUB TO NIGHT
MICHELOB NIGHT
12oz. MICHELOB BOTTLES 50¢
Featuring with his Guitar
SCUBA
9 till 1

MICHELOB
BEER

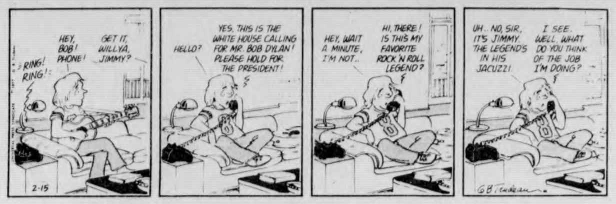
Study in Guadalajara, Mexico
The GUADALAJARA SUMMER SCHOOL, a fully accredited UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA program, will offer July 1-August 12, anthropology, art, economics, bilingual education, folklore, history, political science, Spanish language and literature. Tuition and fees, $220; board and room with Mexican family, $280. Write to GUADALAJARA SUMMER SCHOOL, 1530 Gamma Apartments, University of Arizona, Tucson, Arizona 85721.

APPEARING
TUES AND WED
DOC WATSON
THURS SUN
MITCH CHAKOUR
AT
the rusty nail Inn
RTE 47
SUNDERLAND
665-4937

EMPORIUM INDIA
Final Clearance on Select Items to make room for our NEW ARRIVALS direct from India!
EASY LIVING CLOTHES
Located in the Amherst Carriage Shops
Mon.-Thurs. 10-5
Fri. 10-9
Sat. 10-6
549-6400

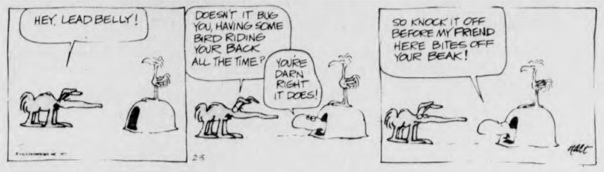
Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

sponsored by Valley 29 S. Pleasant St. call 256-6736 M-F 10-6 S 10-2



RING! RING!
HEY, BOB! PHONE!
GET IT, WILLYA, JIMMY?
2-15
HELLO?
YES, THIS IS THE WHITE HOUSE CALLING FOR MR. BOB DYLAN! PLEASE HOLD FOR THE PRESIDENT!
HEY, WAIT A MINUTE, I'M NOT..
HI, THERE! IS THIS MY FAVORITE ROCK 'N ROLL LEGEND?
UH.. NO, SIR, IT'S JIMMY. THE LEGEND'S IN HIS JACUZZI.
I SEE. WELL, WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THE JOB I'M DOING?
GB Trudeau

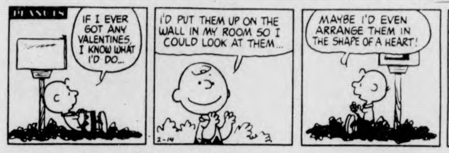
B.C. by Johnny Hart



HEY, LEADBELLY!
DOESN'T IT BUG YOU, HAVING SOME BIRD RIDING YOUR BACK ALL THE TIME?
YOU'RE DARN RIGHT IT DOES!
2-15
SO KNOCK IT OFF BEFORE MY FRIEND HERE BITES OFF YOUR BEAK!
hart

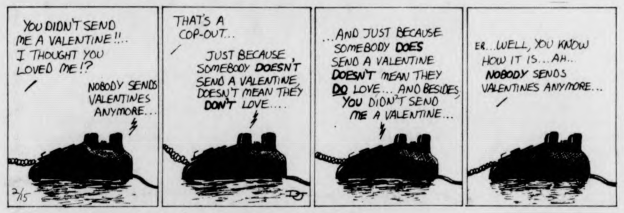
Peanuts by Charles M. Schulz

sponsored by STYLES BY DEBORAH GUYS & GALS PERSONAL STYLE CUT $5.00 TEL. 549-5610



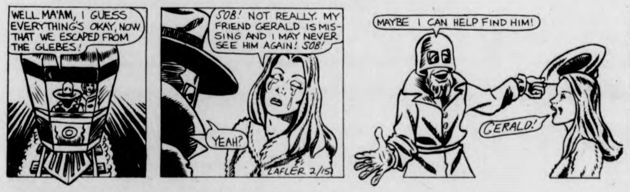
PEANUTS
IF I EVER GOT ANY VALENTINES, I KNOW WHAT I'D DO...
I'D PUT THEM UP ON THE WALL IN MY ROOM SO I COULD LOOK AT THEM...
2-14
MAYBE I'D EVEN ARRANGE THEM IN THE SHAPE OF A HEART!
GOOD THINKING
SCHULZ

What Next? by Dick Janssen



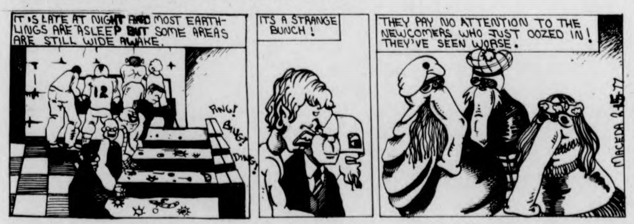
YOU DIDN'T SEND ME A VALENTINE!!.. I THOUGHT YOU LOVED ME!?
NOBODY SENDS VALENTINES ANYMORE...
2/15
THAT'S A COP-OUT...
JUST BECAUSE SOMEBODY DOESN'T SEND A VALENTINE, DOESN'T MEAN THEY DON'T LOVE....
DJ
...AND JUST BECAUSE SOMEBODY DOES SEND A VALENTINE DOESN'T MEAN THEY DO LOVE... AND BESIDES, YOU DIDN'T SEND ME A VALENTINE...
ER...WELL, YOU KNOW HOW IT IS...AH... NOBODY SENDS VALENTINES ANYMORE...

Aluminum Ghost by Steve Lafler



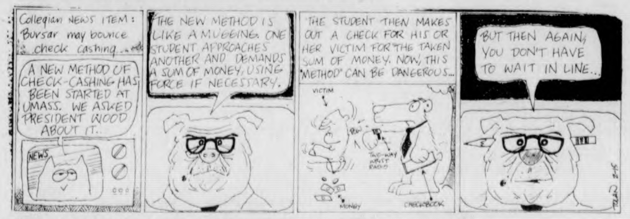
WELL MA'AM, I GUESS EVERYTHING'S OKAY, NOW THAT WE ESCAPED FROM THE GLEBES!
SOB! NOT REALLY. MY FRIEND GERALD IS MISSING AND I MAY NEVER SEE HIM AGAIN! SOB!
YEAH?
LAFLER 2/15
MAYBE I CAN HELP FIND HIM!
GERALD!

U.Mutations by Marty Maceda



IT IS LATE AT NIGHT AND MOST EARTHLINGS ARE ASLEEP BUT SOME AREAS ARE STILL WIDE AWAKE.
12
RING!
BING!
DING!
ITS A STRANGE BUNCH!
THEY PAY NO ATTENTION TO THE NEWCOMERS WHO JUST OOZED IN! THEY'VE SEEN WORSE.
MACEDA 2-15-77

The Scent of Man by Peter Tolan



Collegian NEWS ITEM: Bursar may bounce check cashing...
A NEW METHOD OF CHECK-CASHING HAS BEEN STARTED AT UMASS. WE ASKED PRESIDENT WOOD ABOUT IT..
NEWS
"THE NEW METHOD IS LIKE A MUGGING. ONE STUDENT APPROACHES ANOTHER AND DEMANDS A SUM OF MONEY, USING FORCE IF NECESSARY.
"THE STUDENT THEN MAKES OUT A CHECK FOR HIS OR HER VICTIM FOR THE TAKEN SUM OF MONEY. NOW, THIS "METHOD" CAN BE DANGEROUS...
VICTIM
POW
TWO-WAY WRIST RADIO MONEY
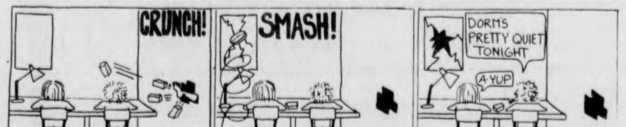
CHECKBOOK
BUT THEN AGAIN, YOU DON'T HAVE TO WAIT IN LINE...
TOLAN 2-15

The 210 Club by Marks and O'Connell



CRUNCH!
SMASH!
DORM'S PRETTY QUIET TONIGHT
A-YUP

Local Television

8:00 3 WHO'S WHO CBS
8 40 HAPPY DAYS "The Graduation"
22 30 BAA BAA BLACK SHEEP "Trouble At Fort Apache"
24 57 NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC SPECIAL "The New Indians"
8:30 8 40 LAVERNE AND SHIRLEY "Daddy's Little Girl"
9:00 3 M-A-S-H
8 40 RICH MAN, POOR MAN
22 30 POLICE WOMAN "Shark"
24 57 IN SEARCH OF THE REAL AMERICA "There's No Business Like Big Business'
9:30 3 ONE DAY AT A TIME
8 40 TONY RANDALL SHOW "Case: The Hero Syndrome"
24 THE GOODIES
57 AMERICANA
10:00 3 KOJAK
8 40 FAMILY "Best Friends"
22 30 POLICE STORY "Hard Rock Brown"
24 WORLD IN ACTION
57 LOWELL THOMAS REMEMBERS
10:30 24 VIDEO VISIONARIES
57 CONSUMER SURVIVAL KIT
11:00 3 8 22 30 40 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS
57 MARY HARTMAN, MARY HARTMAN
11:30 3 CBS LATE MOVIE "Columbo: Troubled Waters"
8 40 TUESDAY MOVIE OF THE WEEK "Where Have All The People Gone?"
22 30 THE JOHNNY CARSON SHOW
57 CAPTIONED ABC EVENING NEWS
12:30 18 HIGH ADVENTURE

Your Birthday By Stella Wilder

Tuesday, February 15 — Born today, you are a patient individual who is generally plagued by the insistences of those who are not patient at all. Dissension causes you unhappiness -- and since you seem destined to spend a considerable portion of your life in the midst of dissension, you seem similarly destined to perhaps more than your share of unhappiness. You can, however, counteract what appears to be your fate; you can learn to shut yourself off from your surroundings to a certain degree. In such a way you can go on about your business, personal or public, even in the midst of considerable confusion, argument and the like. Take care, though, that you don't practice the escape from surroundings to the point of permanently cutting yourself off from society. Your goal, after all, should not be to become a hermit.

You have a tremendous drive to excel. You never undertake anything lightly or less than seriously. Although you are willing to wait a very long time for success to come, you are not willing to forfeit success -- under any circumstances. Thus it is that you can be both patient and pressing, both quiet and quick. Those who know you best know that although you wish the best for them, you have no intention of relinquishing your own future in their behalf, no desire to see them succeed at the cost of your own failure. Love and loyalty do not go that far: they support you, but they must not undermine you.

* * *

Wednesday, February 16

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Regardless of the opposition, you must follow through with what you believe is right for you and yours. Don't be intimidated.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Take a good look at another's proposal before you make up your mind about it. You may be overestimating your preparedness.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — If you can approach problems on the home front from an intellectual standpoint alone, you have a good chance of solving them by evening.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — You can get what you want out of this day -- if you are willing to exclude others. Reconsider a recently-made decision regarding your social life.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — If you allow your experimental bent to run away with you today, you could forfeit progress already made on a "safe" venture.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Your sympathetic nature leads you into a deeper involvement in another's problems than you wish to have. Try to backtrack -- tactfully.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Take a practical viewpoint when considering questions raised by the young today. You may have to agree to changes at evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Another's negative qualities cannot be overlooked -- though you can manage to work around them if you are so inclined. Think about it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Intuitive minds work well together today. Seek the companionship of one as well attuned to the day's psychic overtones as you are.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — An extravagant expenditure early in the day may not have ill consequences immediately. Be prepared for th[illegible] later, however.

SAGITTAIRUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Your artistic temperament must not be allowed to spoil things for you where personal relationships are concerned. Keep the lid on!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Another's tendency to shirk responsibility may have an adverse affect on your present work. Try to foresee such an event.

[illegible]

Today's Crossword

ACROSS
1 Pillowcase
5 Role player
10 Gelatin substitute
14 "Soliloquy words
15 Sayings
16 Where Palatine Hill is
17 Protests too much
19 Gulp
20 Cultivated flowering plant
21 Subjoins
23 Commence
25 Sea bird
26 Dinner, for one
29 Hoosier
34 School exam
35 ---- of Pines
37 Space in a forest
38 --- Cruces, N.M.
39 Fish cannery workers
41 Cut a lawn
42 Bar
44 "---- Mable 1918 best seller
46 Mariner
48 Baseball pitch
50 Friar's title
51 Squelched: 2 words
53 Cease for a period
57 Customers
61 In front of: Prefix
62 Harassers
64 Principle
65 No. Amer. Indians
66 Drinking bout
67 Stopper
68 Worthless stuff
69 Concludes

DOWN
1 Finish
2 Fondness
3 Phrase expressing disbelief
4 Act of reading
5 -------- Sea: Mediterranean arm
6 Cuban export
7 Horned Frogs home: Abbr.
8 Great Barrier island
9 Irritated
10 Weapon storage place
11 Dress
12 In the center of
13 From ---- to riches
18 Pismires
22 Overprecise people
24 Boat controls
26 Parts played
27 Clear the board
28 Ravioli dough
30 Requisite
31 Known as 32 Venerate
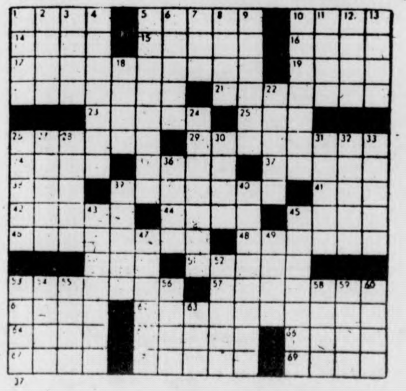
33 More modern
36 Equivalent
39 Treat mercifully
40 Without repose
43 In non-rush hours
45 Eating area
47 Exclaimed violently
49 Cut of meat
52 Peaks
53 Levantine ketch
54 Disassemble
55 One who does: Suffix
56 Thomas ----: R.I. rebel
58 Midday
59 Went on foot
60 Super jets
63 Spanish river



Fran Sypek

Hockey merger needed says Hull

Bobby Hull, star left wing of the World Hockey Association Winnipeg Jets, says the game of hockey is in trouble.

"Anyone who doesn't think certain aspects of the game are hurting, then they're in trouble," Hull said recently. "Tell them to go look at the financial reports of teams in both leagues and see what they find," he added.

One reason many teams are in financial trouble is because salaries are too high. The average NFL salary is around $90,000. Somehow I can't imagine a guy like Gary Doak making $90,000.

The reason hockey salaries became high in the first place is the bidding war that went on between the NHL and WHA. This was brought on by greedy owners who were just out to make a buck. You can't really blame the players for accepting their offers.

"We need more hockey people that care about the game," stated Hull. "It's evident in all aspects of the game, management, coaching and playing, that not enough people care about playing. They just think of themselves."

Another thing not helping the situation are agents like Alan Eagleson, who is head of the NHL players association. Eagleson is the agent for Bobby Orr. He was the one who decided that Orr should get $3 million even if he doesn't play.

"I don't know whose interest people like him (Eagleson) have at heart," said Hull.

Some people have called Hull a hypocrite for saying such things because he was the first one to sign a multi-million dollar contract when the WHA was created. But they don't realize that Hull has been in the game for 19 years and is one of the three best players in the game today. Hull spoke out because he sees that there is a problem and if something isn't done about it, hockey will be destroyed.

After all, how much more can ticket prices go up? How many people will pay $11.50 to go to Boston Garden to see the Bruins play teams like Washington and Colorado? The day of the automatic sellout at the Garden are over. The Bruins did not even sell out for an early season game against Montreal.

They have had one sellout this season. That was against Chicago, which was supposed to be Bobby Orr's first appearance back in Boston. Just to show you how much Mr. Orr has done for Black Hawk attendance, that sellout in Boston is one more than they've had in the windy city.

It's obvious something has to be done. Hull's solution calls for some of the weaker teams in both leagues to be dropped, with the others merging into one league.

Hull believes that his Winnipeg team, which won the WHA championship last season, would be the third or fourth best team in the league. Other teams that would probably come into the NHL and be successful would be the New England Whalers, Houston Aeros and Quebec Nordiques.

The merger would put an end to the one thing that has watered down the caliber of major league hockey — expansion. No other major league as added so many teams in such a short span of time as hockey has.

If the WHA and NHL become one happy family, then salaries could once again be at a reasonable level and ticket prices would go down, thereby increasing attendance. The owners couldn't complain because they'd make more money in the long run and the fans would be happy because they wouldn't be getting ripped off any more.

Makes sense, doesn't it? Now go tell that to the owners.

Hopefully they will soon see the light.

UMass sports scoop

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
None

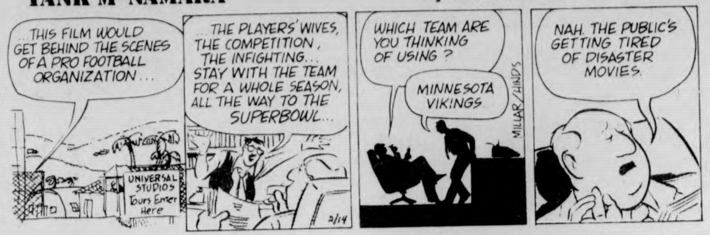
TODAY
MEN'S VARSITY SWIMMING vs. Coast Guard - Home 7:00

TOMORROW
VARSITY HOCKEY vs. AIC - Home 8:00
MEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL vs. New Hampshire - Home 8:00
WOMEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL vs. New Hampshire - Home 4:00
WOMEN'S JV BASKETBALL vs. New Hampshire - Home 4:00

Bruce Jenner, Woody Allen
Moses, Henry Kissinger
and
Bill Cosby –

All wanted to join Pi Kappa Alpha. They couldn't because unlike you they aren't students. They were interested in finding a fraternity to fit their diversified personalities. A fraternity against hazing, for academic accomplishment and looking for good friends to spend the good times. Is a fraternity for you? You'll never know until you meet US. Tonite, Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. the Pikes invite YOU over to our house at 374 North Pleasant St. to end the myths about fraternities once and for all.

TANK McNAMARA by Jeff Millar & Bill Hinds



...THIS FILM WOULD GET BEHIND THE SCENES OF A PRO FOOTBALL ORGANIZATION...
...THE PLAYERS' WIVES, THE COMPETITION, THE INFIGHTING... STAY WITH THE TEAM FOR A WHOLE SEASON, ALL THE WAY TO THE SUPERBOWL...
UNIVERSAL STUDIOS Tours Enter Here
2/14
WHICH TEAM ARE YOU THINKING OF USING?
MINNESOTA VIKINGS
MILLAR/HINDS
NAH. THE PUBLIC'S GETTING TIRED OF DISASTER MOVIES.

Pac-8 coach raps refs

SEATTLE [UPI] — He's racked up 501 wins as a college coach, but there is still one thing that really bugs Marv Harshman about basketball — it's those untouchables of the game, the referees.

He figures they ought to be judged as openly and often as anyone else in the game — and pay for their mistakes or incompetence.

"We have a lot of bad officials in our league, we really do. But you just can't get rid of them," complains the coach of the PAC-8 conference Washington Huskies.

Harshman bit his lip and mumbled through a slight smile something like "I know I'm not supposed to talk about referees," but the frustrations of 31 years of bad calls — and no way to do much about them — kept him talking anyway.

"A lot of times the players don't have as much control over the game as the officials, and yet the officials are the only type people in the game who aren't accountable," he said at a Monday meeting with reporters.

"If the players don't play well, they get censured by the coaches, the fans and the media. Mind you, I'm not saying that's wrong. And it's the same way with coaches. We get public censure and that's part of the job.

"Even the crowd at a game gets it because an official can give a technical foul to a crowd that gets out of hand. But the officials themselves just aren't accountable."

Harshman said the only place the officials come under fire is through reporters.

"I guess the media could get on them, but the players can't say anything, the coaches can't say anything, the schools can't say anything. And I'm not talking about any little nit-picky things. Even if there is evidence that officials are incompetent, they still collect their $150 and go on their way."

Harshman wrapped a winking smile around "I would say they're human, just like anybody else," but he quickly added:

"I still believe because they're human they have prejudices just like anybody else. They will look for a certain guy. I've sat with officials and they've said this guy is a wise guy and we're going to take him out.

"Officials shouldn't know how many fouls a player has, but they do. Officials shouldn't know the score of the game, but they do. Officials shouldn't know how much time is left, but they usually do."

The Washington coach says the present system of grading referees just doesn't work.

"On a scale of one to five, all the coaches might rate an official down around one. But then the supervisors rate him up around 3 and the other referees rate him at a four or five. You add them together and all of a sudden the guy is up around 3.5 and he's an above-average referee."

Harshman said other PAC-8 coaches, like Ralph Miller of Oregon State, has suggested a "ding" policy where a coach could request that a certain referee not work his team's games. But he added that wouldn't work in the league because of the number of questionable referees.

MATT'S
ski & sport shop

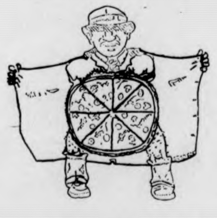
Rt. 20
Westfield

249 King St.
Northampton

SKI AND CLOTHING
SALE
STUDENT SKI ASSOCIATION MEMBER
10% DISCOUNT WITH COLLEGE I.D.

EXPOSE YOURSELF

PIZZA
ICE CREAM



SUBS
PINBALL

TO UNIVERSITY PIZZA
CALL 549-5592 FOR DELIVERY (ON CAMPUS)

COME IN AND WARM YOUR TOES
BY OUR FIREPLACE

☆ TRY OUR STEAK AND CHEESE SUB ☆
☆ AND GET A FREE COKE WITH THIS AD! ☆
OFFER GOOD FEB. 14-17

Across from Southwest Dorms to assure a hot and quick delivery!

Beame threatens Jets

NEW YORK [UPI] — Abraham D. Beame, mayor of New York, said Monday city lawyers were exploring possible legal action against the New Jersey Sports Authority for its involvement with the threatened move of the Jets football team out of New York.

In a statement, Beame said he hoped the Jets controversy could be settled through negotiation but added "we are determined to use every weapon at our command to ensure that the Jets remain in New York and play at Shea Stadium."

The Jets have a contract to play at Shea but are presented from using the Queens facility until the baseball Mets complete their season, which usually is weeks after the professional football season begins.

The Jets have been in negotiations with the New Jersey Sports Authority about a possible move to the East Rutherford, N.J. Meadowlands Sports complex.

"I am particularly incensed at the interference of the New Jersey Sports Authority," Beame said. "It is ironic that the same man who signed the original Jets lease is now heading that authority and is trying to induce the Jets to leave the city and the fans who supported them for years."

Beame was referring to Sonny Werblin, who once was president of the Jets and now heads the New Jersey Sports Authority.

The mayor said city lawyers were studying "whether this interference constitutes grounds for legal action for inducing a breach of agreement."

Beame and M. Donald Grant of the Mets were scheduled to meet at City Hall Tuesday at 4:30 p.m.

Winter sports standing

WHA

East

	W	L	T	PTS.	GF	GA
Quebec	33	20	1	67	240	198
Indianapolis	26	25	6	58	194	213
Cincinnati	26	26	2	54	240	201
New England	22	32	6	50	196	231
Birmingham	21	35	1	43	192	215
X-Minnesota	19	18	5	43	136	129

West

	W	L	T	PTS.	GF	GA
Houston	31	17	6	68	204	158
San Diego	33	22	2	68	198	189
Winnipeg	30	22	1	61	251	197
Edmonton	23	31	2	48	155	202
Calgary	21	28	4	46	168	180
Phoenix	22	31	2	46	190	251

X-team disbanded

NHL

Campbell Conference
Patrick Division

	W	L	T	PTS.	GF	GA
Philadelphia	33	22	12	78	225	153
NY Islanders	33	15	8	74	196	139
Atlanta	24	21	11	59	185	182
NY Rangers	20	24	13	53	198	204

Smythe Division

	W	L	T	PTS.	GF	GA
St. Louis	24	26	6	54	167	193
Chicago	20	27	10	50	179	198
Colorado	17	31	9	43	170	211
Minnesota	13	29	13	39	163	221
Vancouver	16	35	6	38	156	221

Wales Conference

Norris Division	W	L	T	PTS.	GF	GA
Montreal	42	7	9	93	281	134
Pittsburgh	25	23	9	59	178	180
Los Angeles	19	26	11	49	180	183
Washington	16	32	10	42	154	230
Detroit	15	33	7	37	142	202

Adams Division

	W	L	T	PTS.	GF	GA
Boston	32	19	6	70	215	184
Buffalo	31	17	6	68	194	153
Toronto	27	21	7	61	211	176
Cleveland	18	28	9	45	164	194

NBA

Eastern Conference
Atlantic Division

	W	L	PCT.	GB
Philadelphia	33	20	.623	—
Boston	26	27	.491	7
NY Knicks	24	29	.453	9
Buffalo	19	33	.365	13½
NY Nets	17	36	.321	16

Central Division

	W	L	PCT.	GB
Washington	30	22	.577	—
Houston	29	23	.558	1
Cleveland	28	24	.538	2
San Antonio	29	25	.537	2
New Orleans	24	30	.444	7
Atlanta	22	34	.393	10

Western Conference

Midwest Division	W	L	PCT.	GB
Denver	34	19	.642	—
Detroit	32	23	.582	3
Kansas City	28	28	.500	7½
Indiana	25	30	.455	10
Chicago	23	32	.418	12
Milwaukee	17	42	.288	20

Pacific Division

	W	L	PCT.	GB
Los Angeles	35	19	.648	—
Portland	35	21	.625	1
Golden State	30	24	.556	5
Seattle	29	26	.527	6½
Phoenix	25	27	.481	9

Would you miss this?

The wind in your face,
The blur of trees,
The sudden spray of snow that hangs suspended in the crisp, still air...

No, this isn't the day to stay home. Not for anything. Not even your period.

So trust Tampax tampons. Internal protection that can't chafe or show, or feel bulky and awkward.

Tampax tampons—because on a day like this you need protection, not distractions.

The internal protection more women trust

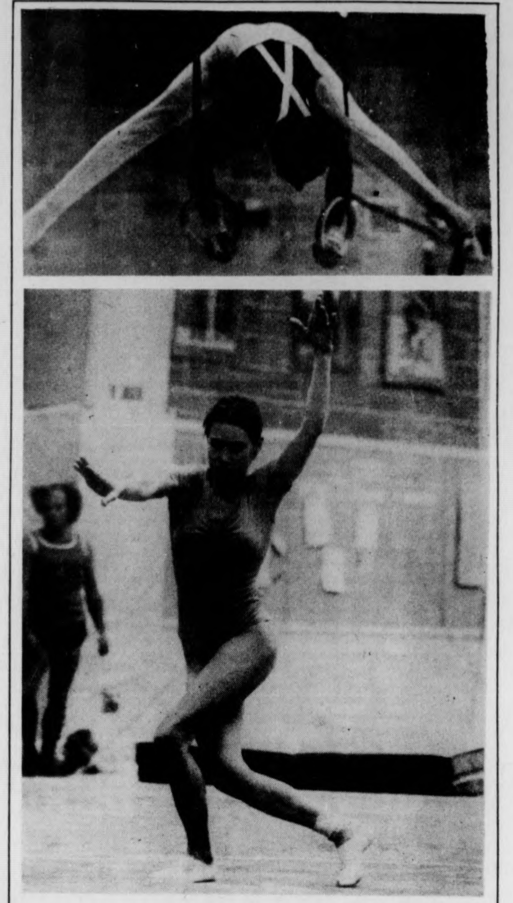
TAMPAX. tampons
10 Regular
THE INTERNAL PROTECTION MORE WOMEN TRUST

BERMUDA
March 18-25 or 19-26
from $199 plus tax
INCLUDES
★ ROUNDTRIP AIRFARE
★ ACCOMMODATIONS 7 NIGHTS
★ TRANSFERS
★ BEACH PARTIES
★ BARBECUES

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
Campus Center 3rd level
Univ. of Mass 545-0500

WEDNESDAY EVENING

Get On Your Horses ●●●●●●●
and come to BUD NITE at the BLUE WALL
30¢ draughts $2.00 pitcher
Live entertainment - Fun - Prizes



The UMass men's and women's gymnastics teams are preparing for their big meets Sunday in the Civic Center against Springfield. (Staff photos by Rob Carlin and Dave Rosenthal)

Barons still alive

CHICAGO [UPI] — The National Hockey League Board of Governors said they "made progress" Monday in a special meeting to keep the financially-troubled Cleveland Barons solvent.

John Ziegler of Detroit, Chairman of the Board of Governors, said he was "encouraged" by the day-long meeting at which the board heard from Mel Swig, the Barons' majority stockholder, and Sandy Greenberg, owner of the coliseum in which the team plays.

Ziegler said the board meeting was adjourned after setting "boundaries" in which a committee of four was authorized to negotiate with Swig and Greenberg to try to keep the franchise alive.

Named to the committee were Bill Wirtz of Chicago, Bob Swatow of Buffalow, Ziegler and Bob Sedgwick of Toronto.

"We expect to talk to Swig and Greenberg again," Ziegler said, "and we have a goal to resolve the situation tonight. I saw some light at the end of the tunnel."

Ziegler doubted that any further announcement of progress would be made because "there are so many legalities involved."

He said the committee was authorized by the Board of Governors to resolve the situation if it can be achieved within specified boundaries.

"We were getting over some hurdles," he said. "It was a combination of all parties involved working together."

Notices

JV BASEBALL — There will be an organizational meeting for all JV baseball candidates tonight at 7 p.m. in room 249 Boyden.

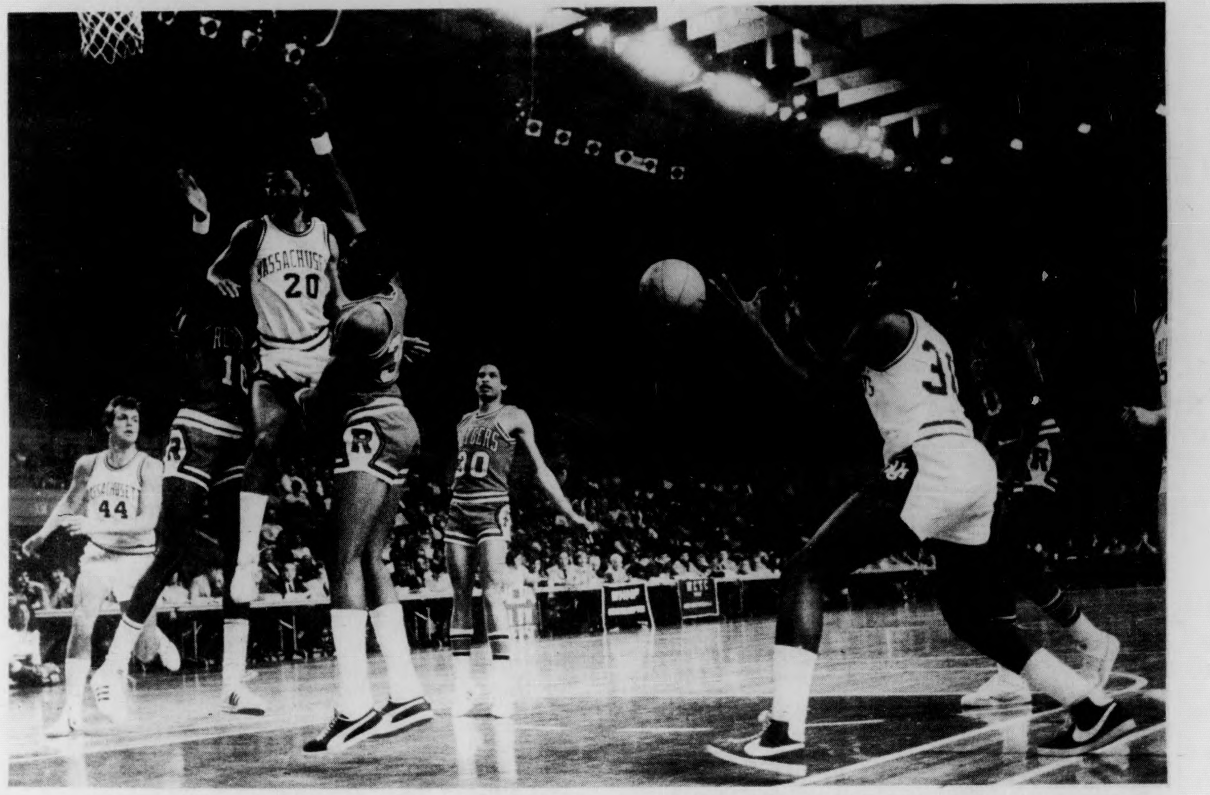
INTRAMURALS — Wrestling clinic, Thursday, Feb. 17, 6:30-8:30, Boyden wrestling room. Intramural wrestling begins and weigh-in on Wednesday, Feb. 23, at 5:30.

Top 20

(College Basketball Division I)
1. San Francisco (23-0)
2. Kentucky (18-2)
3. UCLA (19-3)
4. Michigan (18-2)
5. Louisville (18-3)
6. Marquette (16-3)
7. Nevada-Las Vegas (20-2)
8. Alabama (19-2)
9. Wake Forest (19-3)
10. Arkansas (22-1)
11. North Carolina (1) (17-4)
12. Cincinnati (18-3)
13. Tennessee (17-4)
14. Arizona (18-3)
15. Minnesota (18-2)
16. Providence (20-3)
17. Notre Dame (15-5)
18. Syracuse (19-3)
19. Detroit (20-1)
20. Clemson (18-4)

Collegian Sports

Sypek column; P. 14
Collegiate Top 20; P. 15



Minuteman forward Mike Pyatt is shown here in action during last Thursday's game with Rutgers. Pyatt, who sank the winning basket at the buzzer in that game, was injured during the first half of Saturday's contest against Rhode Island. The junior forward is expected to be out of action for at least 10 days. (Staff photo by Jay Saret)

NCAA Division I top scorers

	Games	FG	FT	Pts	Avg.
1. FREEMAN WILLIAMS, PORTLAND STATE-	22	333	148	814	37.0
2. ANTHONY ROBERTS, ORAL ROBERTS ---	21	278	102	658	31.3
3. LARRY BIRD, INDIANA STATE -------	19	240	103	583	30.7
4. RICH LAUREL, HOFSTRA ------------	20	229	134	592	29.6
5. OTIS BIRDSONG, HOUSTON ----------	22	267	114	648	29.5
6. CALVIN NATT, NE LOUISIANA -------	21	233	124	590	28.1
7. MIKE MCCONATHY, LOUISIANA TECH --	18	176	136	488	27.1
8. ROGER PHEGLEY, BRADLEY ----------	20	197	138	532	26.6
9. BERNARD KING, TENNESSEE ---------	17	179	71	429	25.2
10.BILLY REYNOLDS, NW LOUISIANA ----	18	173	107	453	25.2
11.ERNIE GRUNFELD, TENNESSEE -------	19	179	105	463	24.4
12.TONY HANSON, CONNECTICUT --------	19	164	134	462	24.3
13.TOMMY HARRIS, BOWLING GREEN -----	17	167	73	407	23.9
14.MATT HICKS, NORTHERN ILLINOIS ---	18	179	71	429	23.8
15.GREG TYNES, SETON HALL ----------	19	167	115	449	23.6
16.RON PERRY, HOLY CROSS -----------	20	174	124	472	23.6
17.GLEN WILLIAMS, ST. JOHN'S -------	20	180	107	467	23.4
18.EDGAR JONES, NEVADA-RENO -----	20	178	105	461	23.1
19.ESSIE HOLLIS, ST. BONAVEN. ---	16	143	78	364	22.8
20.GARY WINTON, ARMY --------------	20	191	70	452	22.6
21.NORM NIXON, DUQUESNE -----------	21	199	75	473	22.5
22.STAN MAYHEW, WEBER STATE --------	19	165	97	427	22.5
23.DAN HENDERSON, ARKANSAS STATE ---	18	152	99	403	22.4
24.GAVIN SMITH, HAWAII -------------	18	160	81	401	22.3
25.LARRY HARRIS, PITTSBURGH --------	19	177	68	422	22.2

Mermen home tonight

By MARK MARCHAND
Collegian Staff

The UMass Mermen will be trying to improve upon their dismal 3-5 record tonight, as they host the powerful swimmers of Coast Guard at 7:00 p.m. in Boyden Pool.

Coming off a defeat Saturday to Vermont, the Minutemen will be further weakened as they will possibly be without the services of junior Russ Yarworth and senior Dave Boucher, both weakened by illnesses.

Coast Guard is undefeated thus far this season although they have what senior Ben Crooker calls, "a somewhat easier schedule." It has dominated UMass in recent years and coach Bei Melamed doesn't expect the trend to come to an end tonight.

The Mermen are near the end of their season and are currently preparing for the New England Tournament to be held in Springfield on March 3, 4, and 5. They have a great chance for some good individual efforts as seniors Ben Crooker, Dave Boucher, and junior Russ Yarworth are all expected to have excellent performances. These three have done more than 50 per cent of all the scoring during the regular season and appear to be ready for the stiff competition in the New England's.

Judy Van Handle

Wooing the UMass gridder

February may seem like a strange time to think about football, but not so for UMass coach Dick MacPherson and his staff.

In fact, this month is the time which may add a few worry lines to their faces.

Because, football freaks, it is once again recruiting time.

Compared to its Division I counterparts, Division II football recruiting (i.e.-UMass), is relatively low-key. MacPherson and friends use no demonic devices to induce a promising high school player to attend UMass.

"I like to stress the 77 disciplines that this university has to offer its students," MacPherson said.

That, plus scholarship money, is what basically draws a prospect to this campus.

Under NCAA rules, a Division II school is allowed only 60 players on scholarship at one time. That's a far cry from the 95-man limit imposed on Division I giants.

"We don't have much problem staying under the 60-player limit," the coach said. "It's never been a worry to us."

MacPherson explained the procedure for recruiting players to campus. He said that each of his assistant coaches is assigned an area to cover. Although most of the UMass recruiting is done instate, Westchester county and Long Island, plus upstate New York, are also scouted for prospects. The other New England states also get a look-see.

After the assistants weed out the people with potential, MacPherson himself travels to their homes to talk with them and their coaches. NCAA regulations state that a collegiate coach is allowed three home visits per prospect.

Right now, MacPherson is sweating it out until Wednesday, which is the last day a player can sign a letter of intent to play for a Division I school. There is no such stipulation for Division II or III.

"Right now we'll have to see what players resist the temptation of playing for a Division I school," he said.

But what of the actual recruiting? In other words, how does UMass compete with its biggest instate recruiting rival, Boston College?

"We really haven't solved the problem of dealing with them," MacPherson said. "They have a lot to offer their prospects, such as road trips to Florida, New Orleans, and Texas, while we have six-hour rides to Maine."

But, once again, UMass' larger curriculum is a help.

"We got one player because he was interested in majoring in engineering, and BC doesn't have that major," MacPherson added.

As for the actual distribution of scholarship money, MacPherson is given a lump sum of athletic scholarship fund money to distribute however he sees fit. He can award either full or partial scholarships, with the difference being made up through other grant programs, such as BEOG or BHE.

MacPherson said he is looking to fill several line spots for next year.

"We're going to fill positions in both the offensive and defensive lines," he said.

As of now, UMass has three lineman all set to attend here next year.

Todd Davis, a 6'1", 235-pound offensive guard and defensive tackle, is set to come here. The all-scholastic pick of the Boston Globe hails from Newburyport.

Two Western Mass. athletes, Chicopee High and Avon Old Farms' Ray Benoit and Chiopee Comp and Wilbraham-Monson Academy's Michael Halpin, are also expected to add some bulk to the line next season.

MacPherson likes to recruit prep school athletes, as he feels that they put forth a lot of effort and are usually more mature than most high school seniors, but he still visits all 287 Massachusetts secondary schools which field football teams.

Yes, all 287.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVI, ISSUE 87 WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1977

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/ Amherst, MA. 01003/ (413) 545-3500

Colleen Cullen

Nursing school stays here, despite rumors about move

By PAUL LOGUE
Collegian Staff

The Division of Nursing at UMass is likely to remain here despite rumors that it may be moved to Worcester Medical School.

President Robert Wood's office has received a verbal recommendation from a Blue Ribbon Committee that it should remain at the UMass campus.

Contacted by telephone, Howard White, press secretary for Wood, said, "The final report is due this week. The chairperson of the committee has affirmed the recommendation that the Nursing Program remain at the Amherst campus via a phone call."

White also said that Wood will take the recommendation of the committee under advisement and will further confer with the Board of Trustees.

"It will be the combined decision of both campuses, Worcester and UMass," White added.

The Blue Ribbon Committee visited UMass during intercession to review first hand the Nursing Program and its problems. They spoke with faculty, staff, administration and students during their stay. Their recommendations will be put in the report which is due on President Wood's desk this week.

Dean of Students in the Nursing Program, Ira Trail, feels positive that the committee will rule objectively concerning the decision.

She said, "I think we will stay here on the Amherst campus. It is obvious that we, as the only baccalaureate program in the Western Massachusetts area, should remain."

Trail helped select the members of the committee and added that they were the "most expert" in their qualifications.

"I'm sure they will use the sound objective data they gathered during the investigation and make an expert decision," she said.

The students themselves want to have the program remain here at Amherst.

Patty Healey, one of the student nurses who spoke with the committee when they visited during intersession said, "we consider it very important to our education to remain in the University community. We provide a valuable service to the surrounding cities and towns which will be lost if the program is moved."

Healey added that it is also important to exploit the resources at the Worcester campus but to remove the program from the University setting would leave Western Mass without a 4 year nursing program.

In a statement prepared by a group of nursing students made available to the Collegian, they said they felt that "removing such a valuable health care resource from the Pioneer Valley is only a disadvantage for the students and the surrounding communities in so far as limiting the number of BS degrees available in the immediate area."

"Access to the facilities and opportunities of the University community is deemed a qualitative advantage to nursing students, as we are intent on expanding our interests and increasing our knowledge through a process which is unique in the academic community of the University," it said.

The nurses became a viable and working force during the 74-75 budget cuts which produced a recommendation to close the Nursing Program completely. The nurses organized and struggled against the decision.

WMUA results in

The staff members of WMUA, the UMass Campus radio station, last night elected Dave Pacheco as Public Affairs Director. Pacheco, who narrowly defeated Bob Paquette for the position by a vote of 27-23, will now be responsible for such programs as Off the Hook, We the People, Forum, and Gaybreak.

The Public Affairs Director is also a member of the WMUA Management Board, which controls and determines the general guidelines and policies of the station.

Sylvan votes today

Elections for various area positions will be held in Sylvan area today in the lobby of each dorm from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Voters will be choosing an area president, vice-president, area government representative to the student seante and dorm representatives.

A proposal that would provide for a voting liaison from the Sylvan Cultural Society to Sylvan Area Government will be the subject of a referendum.

Tension in Central dorm to be studied

By JOE QUINLAN
Collegian Staff

Orchard Hill-Central Area Associate Director Bill Taylor and his assistant Joe Battista plan to submit a recommendation to the Community Development Center today advising it to form an objective committee with members outside the Central-Orchard Hill areas to evaluate the current tension existing between Elizabeth Williams, the head of residence in Van Meter South, her resident assistants, and other students of the dorm.

The two Central Area officials outlined their plans while fielding questions concerning the existing situation from students during informal corridor meetings in the dorm last night. Taylor said that if it (the evaluation) is going to work, all those under scrutiny — including himself, Battista, and Williams — will have to support it candidly, responsibly and with self-examinations.

"Their reaction was further than positive; the students were most cooperative and genuinely concerned with the problem," Taylor said following his presentations.

The alleged conflicts among the members of Van Meter South climaxed Monday night when a petition requesting Williams' resignation, initiated by Pat Thomas of the fourth floor received about sixty signatures within an hour and was then presented to dorm President Beverly Garside.

Tuesday morning she and floor representative Pam Gibson met with Sally Freeman of the CDC to discuss the petition and the Van Meter South dilemna in general.

Last Wednesday night three of the four RA's at Van Meter South resigned from their positions. Several women of the fifth floor said they believed that Marcia Carlson, Sharon Parenteau, and Lee Yates quit their jobs because Williams provoked them with a lack of cooperation. Williams, however, sees it differently.

"I feel that originally their resignations were a threat, expecting me to reconciliate with them," related Williams. "But at this point I was tired of reconciliating; therefore I was not very supportive in convincing them to change their minds."

Williams went on to say she had decided to respect whatever decision each would make.

Marcia Carlson, the only one of the three resigned RA's to offer a statement, explained simply that her resignation was the result of unworkable conditions with Elizabeth.

Judith Thomas, who remained on William's staff as the only RA from September, admitted that, before the visit by Taylor and Battista, she was not very aware of conflicts between fellow students and Williams.

"They never came to me, if they had problems with Elizabeth. I had no problems with her," explained Thomas.

She did say that she felt the other RA's were a bit inconsistent when they complained about a lack of student input concerning dorm policies and too much work, which resulted from having only four RA's in the dorm since last semester when Donna Tomkiewicz was fired.

When asked for comments concerning the problems of Van Meter South, some of the dorm's residents expressed doubt about the ability of the officials involved to adequately inform them about any decisions that will be made. Many stated they weren't even told by the RA's who resigned the reasons for their drastic move.

"Something has to be done", was the common reply to Taylor's suggestion for an evaluation team.

But, while appearing pleased with the announcement of some proposed positive action for the problems of Van Meter South, some people recalled the last time Taylor came to Van Meter to alleviate its troubles. Beverly Garside said she skipped the Central Area officials of MacIntyre House because she felt Taylor didn't do an adquate job last semester when dealing with the firing of Tomkiewicz.

When confronted with his involvement with Van Meter South last semester, Taylor, a first year administrator, said he regretted he was not more experienced with such problems. He assured the students last night that the present situation will be dealt with much better.

Garside later said she left a meeting with Sally Freeman of the CDC satisfied that a good job will be done.

Freeman, though, refused to acknowledge any such meeting, which Garside said was held yesterday morning at ten.

Freeman, refused to comment on what was discussed at the meeting, or whatever power she might have to deal with the situation.

Taylor said that since he, Battista, and Williams were so closely involved with the situation, none of them would be able to discuss in detail any of the accusations.

Inside

REPORTER'S LINE

Teresa Hanafin has two follow-up stories about the recent fire in Hasbrouck. See them both on Page 3.

UMass History Professor Stephen Oates was interviewed about his writing. Sean Horgan's story is on Page 2.

Paul McCann spoke with Amherst residents who live near Southwest to get their reactions to the residence area. See Page 2.

WIRE LINE

U.S. Rep. Richard Tonry denied charges he won his seat through a vote fraud. See Page 7.

The State Labor Council issued a report against the feasibility of the Connecticut Bottle Bill. See Page 7.

Elizabeth Taylor received the "Woman of the Year" award from the Harvard Hasty Pudding. See Page 8.

WEATHER

Cold.

Variety dance includes ballet parody

By ANN MURPHY
Below the Salt Staff

The University Student Dance Concert held last Thursday and Friday nights featured a variety of styles including gymnastics, a parody on ballet, and a group of musicians accompanying the dancers on stage. For the most part, the concert was staged and performed with an air of professionalism usually seen in the faculty sponsored concerts, with the pitfalls being mostly technical and not drawing away from the dancers themselves.

"Octagonal Wheelizations" was danced to the music of "Tubluar Bells". The dancers made an assortment of sculpture-like forms, accented by the presence of three goblins at the end, climaxed by a dancer being "swallowed" by the biggest monster.

"A Little Rain Never Hurt Anyone" was mostly a theatrical piece set to a tape medley where the dancers showed that they know how to express themselves in ways other than dancing. However, when they were lying on the floor it was a strain to see them clearly, and the tape wasn't entirely clear.

One of the most memorable pieces with respect to lighting, music, and choreography was "Two Spirits Reunited". The dancer and choreographer, Nina Anderson, was like a nymph in the forest who heard no sounds of life until the earthy sqawls of birds and nature emerged. The lighting was timed well because the total green of the forest didn't come on until the music started.

"A Long Day in the Big City" conveyed the frustrations and pace of a dancer's life in New York City including a stale workout at a ballet studio, with choreographer Ellen Inkellis not really fitting in to a fast paced enthusiastic session in a modern class. The story, conveyed, through dance, was done realistically showing both the confusion and rewards of living in the Big Apple.

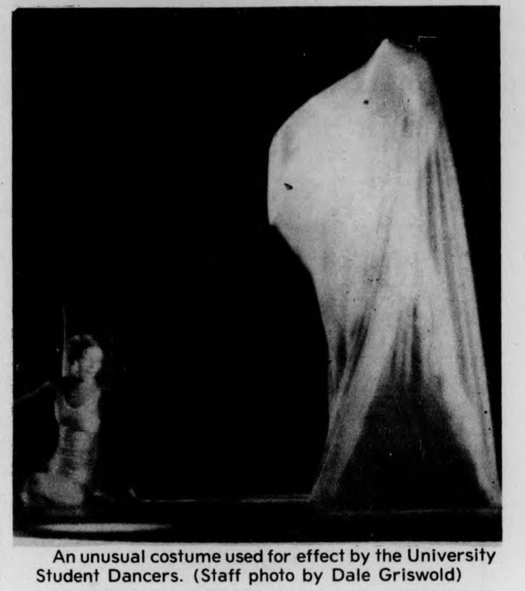
"Le Premier Saut" as the title suggests was the first piece Daniel Albert and Stephen Gibbons choreographed together. They displayed a new and fresh approach to dancing through a man's perspective. The piece was creative and highly skilled with gymnastics interwoven with modern dance giving a strong impression without appearing clumsy.

A definite first rate piece was "Manipulations" which was accompanied by musicians, Andrew Jaffe and William McGowan, who also composed the music, which was synchronized perfectly to the dancer's movements. It was a very sensual theme and some of the audience thought it "funny". Two couples were contrasted with one dancer being a strong force and the partner weak and insecure. Each couple was spotlighted alone moving fluidly and simulating love-making, with contrasts made between the weaker and stronger parties.

Perhaps the audience might have been embarrassed because the dancers made the sensual movements so vivid and real, with the music heightening this effect by throbbing rhythmically with the dancers.

The last dance in the program was "Dialogues of Autumn" which was rehearsed to perfection. The earthy quality set the stage in warm feelings of belonging; with the dancers like leaves on a changing tree; together being magical and alone, unique. This dance featured a duet with Peggy Atkinson and Bill Soleau who danced as though they were born together. At the end there was a sense of well being and hope as the lights faded and a spot was put on Atkinson gazing in to its source.

Dance as an art form has come a long way at UMass, where the dancers and choreographers showed that the students can put on a performance which can be as entertaining (if not more) as a professional production.



An unusual costume used for effect by the University Student Dancers. (Staff photo by Dale Griswold)

UMass prof promotes new book

By SEAN HORGAN
Collegian Staff

If you thought you saw a face on last Friday's "Today Show" that looked familiar, there's a good chance that you weren't imagining it. And if the face looked very much like that of Professor Stephen Oates of the UMass History Department then you weren't hallucinating. You were correct.

Oates' Friday appearance on the "Today Show" was only one of a series of stops he has been making to promote his new book, With Malice Towards None: The Life of Abraham Lincoln. The book, recently published by Harper and Row, has brought Oates national attention as an American Civil War historian.

Oates, who has been at UMass since 1968 and a full professor since 1971, is no stranger to the written word. The Lincoln biography is his ninth book published, completing a historical trilogy he started in 1970 with his biography of John Brown. To Purge the Land With Blood: A Biography of John Brown. the trilogy also included The Fires of Jubilee: Nat Turner's Fierce Rebellion, a book which earned him a Pulitzer Prize nomination in 1975.

With Malice Toward None took Oates seven years to write, forcing him to consistently put in eighty-hour work weeks, he said. "My schedule included writing on Mondays and Wednesdays, teaching on Tuesdays and Thursdays, counseling and research on Fridays, and weekends of classroom preparation and grading. The key was discipline."

There were many other problems Oates said he faced through the entire project.

He said he had a large problem with myths, "There was a problem of having to separate myth from fact. I didn't use any of the earlier biographers because they were the myth-makers."

He said another problem was length, "I went out of my way to keep it only one volume, because length seems to be a disease among Lincoln biographers." He also described his 492-page book as a "medium size biography."

Oates said that he attempted to dispell some of the myths concerning Lincoln's life, including his marriage, "I believe my book is the first Lincoln biography to give an accurate picture of Lincoln's married life."

Promotion for the book has sent Oates to both New York City and Boston for television and radio interviews. He has also spoken in the prestigious Chancellor's Lecture Series.

Oates said that although he finds teaching and writing difficult, he also feels the writing has made him a better teacher, "I think my students would agree that my writing has enriched my classes."

He said his next project probably would be a biography on Martin Luther King, Jr.

Most neighbors disagree with Southwest put-down

By PAUL McCANN
Collegian Staff

Southwest, you've heard of it, and I'm sure you've also heard that encaged in that land of the lost is the lowest form of student life imaginable. Or at least Steve Turner thinks so.

Turner is the author of a savagely satirical article on S.W. based on some wild tales. I decided to investigate these claims. I thought, where to begin? Then it came to me, ask the people who live beside our humble village.

The general consensus of the neighbors that I interviewed, is, Southwest is not all that bad, although it cannot be totally exonerated of Turner's charges.

Mrs. Virgina Lott, a nine year veteran living at 15 Sunset Ct., thinks the kids are "just great". It was her opinion that the noise has decreased since the late sixties. Overall, she thought, the loudest Southwest has ever been was during the spring of 1974 when the streaking fever hit campus.

The family who has resided along Southwest for the longest time is the family of Ralph Garber (UMass Lacrosse coach). If anybody knows more about the history of Southwest, finds him.

Garber and his family were here long before S.W. ever existed. For twenty three years they have lived at 292 Sunset Ave. Garber had very few complaints about S.W. His major gripe had to do with the parking situation on Sunset at the beginning and the end of the semester. I asked him what he thought about the noise. He said that occasionally on a weekend the noise bothers him, but the majority of the time he enjoys living beside S.W. He feels that it is to his advantage that he is able to talk to students while walking back and forth to his office in Boyden.

Mrs. Helen Vassalle of 213 Sunset Ave. has lived directly across from S.W. for five years. When I asked her about the litter problem, she told me of one weekend morning last spring when her husband awoke and found toilet paper strewn all around the yard. He became quite peturbed with his 5,000 neighbors. Fortunately nothing came of it. Besides that and a few other minor incidents they have enjoyed their five years and have no intention of moving.

Mrs. Desmond and her daughter Marie, an employee at the English Dept. Library, have enjoyed a peaceful coexistence with S.W. for the past twelve years. Desmond mentioned that she misses the view of the valley but it doesn't really disturb her that much. The only problem she and her daughter have encountered have been your basic neighborhood problems, beer cans on the lawn and dog calling cards left behind. Except for these few incidents they have had a very nice twelve years here.

TODAY'S STAFF

Issue Editor	Philip Milstein
Day Layout	Debbie Walters
Head Darkroom Tech	Dan Smith
Darkroom Staff	Colleen Cullen, Geoff Cohler
Sports Layout	Mel Webster
Copy Desk	Linda Lines
Head Graphics Tech	Susan Dvorachek
Ad Layout	Ellyn Faber

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

	Semester	Year
Off-campus delivery	$9	$15
On-campus delivery	$5	$ 9
Newsstand price	$.10
Faculty staff	$.05

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst and additional mailing in Ware, Mass. 01082. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Jimmy Carter to run for SGA president

By STEVE TETREAULT
Collegian Staff

Jimmy Carter took out nomination papers for Student Government Association (SGA) president yesterday for what he called "a serious run for the office."

Carter, 19, is running for president as a team with Robert Padula, also 19. Carter is a sophomore from Stoughton. Padula, who served as a student senator for three semesters before this spring, is a sophomore from Franklin. Both live in John Quincy Adams.

Also taking out nomination papers yesterday was Donald Bishop, who ran for SGA President last year. He finished with 87 votes. Bishop is a nineteen year old sophomore from Marlborough.

"My candidacy is still in the planning stages. I've got to find out what the students' want, and then I'll put together a platform," Bishop said. "I'm not extremely disappointed about losing last year. I found out a lot about the SGA, and met a lot of people," he said.

Carter and Padula emphasized that their candidacy is serious. "People have been listening to us because of Jimmy's name," said Padula. "It gives us a voice. Jimmy gets students' attention, but after they talk with us, they realize we are serious about running."

"We're running because we feel there is a lack of communication between the Senate and real students. The Senate is a clique," said Carter.

Yesterday's SGA nominations bring the total of possible SGA presidential contenders to 14. Others who have taken out nomination papers are the dual candidacies of Herbert Tyson and John Foley, Jon Hite and Pinky Batiste, Bryan Harvey and Paul Yanowitch, Henry Doyle and Tom Kerrins, and the individual candidates Charles Pooler, David Cameron, and Albert Sparks.

The deadline for submitting nominations for SGA president is March 23.

Smoke danger created by open fire doors

By TERESA M. HANAFIN
Collegian Staff

The danger posed by heavy smoke to a graduate student Monday night during a fire in Hasbrouck Laboratory could have been avoided if fire doors in the building hallways were closed.

The doors were found held open by pieces of wood jammed under them, a common occurrence on campus and "a very serious situation", according to the campus fire and safety officer.

Keith E. Hoyle of the UMass Environmental Health and Safety Office said yesterday if the doors had been closed as they should be at all times, the student, Jasmina D. Pavlin, would not have been trapped on the third floor.

Pavlin, 27, of 433 N. Pleasant St., Amherst, was studying in a laboratory when the fire broke out under a stairwell in the basement of the 27-year-old building. An alarm was sounded at 9:54 p.m. by a student in the building with five or six other males, who attempted to put out the fire with extinguishers before calling the fire department.

The cost of heat and smoke damage has been estimated to be more than $1,000 by the Amherst Fire Department.

Hoyle said the cause of the fire also had not yet been determined, but that it was in a pile of storage "that shouldn't have been there."

He said the pile, consisting of old machinery, cardboard boxes, old stuffed chairs and sundry other items, was against state fire regulations, and speculated that the blaze might have been caused by a cigarette carelessly tossed onto the pile.

The actual cause of the blaze is being investigated by the UMass Department of Public Safety, the Amherst Fire Department, the health and safety office and a detective lieutenant from the state fire marshall's office, who will come to campus today.

Hoyle said the building alarm in Hasbrouck was one of an older type of alarm in use on campus in some of the older buildings. This alarm is just a building alarm — it does not ring in the police station, as does a newer alarm system also in use.

Hoyle said the stairwell "acted just like a chimney" while the fire was burning, and the heavy smoke went right up it to the third floor.

"If the fire doors had been shut, the smoke would have been stopped and would have just circulated back down the stairs," he said.

He said his office, until two weeks ago, only had one person who checked buildings on campus for violation of fire regulations such as the storage pile in Hasbrouck.

Now there are three, he said, but that does not solve the problem.

"The problem is the people who use the buildings and jam the doors open like that," Hoyle said. "This morning (Tuesday) we went around and removed wooden blocks holding open 40 doors in Hasbrouck alone. But we could go back this afternoon and find them all jammed open again."

Hoyle cited the example of a fire in the laundry room of Washington Tower in Southwest Dec. 1, in which smoke from the blaze spread the whole floor within 30 seconds and made it difficult for students to see and leave the floor.

The fire doors on that floor had been jammed open with blocks of wood wedged under the bottom, he said.

Fire caused by safety violations

By TERESA M. HANAFIN
Collegian Staff

The fire which almost trapped Jasmina D. Pavlin Monday night in Hasbrouck Laboratory was caused by violations of the state fire code in that building, UMass Fire and Safety Officer Keith E. Hoyle said.

The location of the blaze, a storage pile of old machinery, discarded furniture and trash, was "clearly against the regulations and simply shouldn't have been there," said Hoyle.

Yet it could have been worse. When the alarm in Hasbrouck was pulled by whoever discovered the fire, no alarm sounded in either the police station or the fire station — only in Hasbrouck.

It was a local alarm — that is, it is not hooked up into the "public safety circuit" which automatically and simultaneously rings an alarm in the Dept. of Public Safety at UMass whenever an alarm on campus is rung.

Approximately 50 per cent of the alarms on campus are of this type, and it does not look as if they will soon be replaced by the newer type.

The automatic alarm is installed in Sylvan, Orchard Hill and Southwest residential areas, and the newer academic and administration buildings, but Northeast, Central and older buildings such as Hasbrouck still have the old kind.

When one pulls one of the old alarms, it rings in the building and warns other inhabitants of the building. But to notify the fire department, one must then get to a phone and dial 545-3111, or hope that someone else gets to one.

Hoyle said state funds are needed to install the new type in the rest of campus, and studies are being done to determine cost and consider other factors.

Recent discussion of fire safety on campus has focused on the inability of current Amherst fire trucks to reach any higher than the seventh floor of the high-rise towers in Southwest.

The best solution, Hoyle said, would be to install complete sprinkler systems in tall buildings on campus such as the towers and the library. However, he said a study done by his office to determine cost last year revealed that the cost of installing such a system in Kennedy Tower alone would cost a quarter of a million dollars.

The state doesn't have that kind of money, he said, and therefore the installation is, at best, an improbability.

The next best solution is a combination sprinkler system in high-risk areas and heat and smoke detectors in other areas, Hoyle said.

He said there is currently a sprinkler system in the trash rooms and mechanical rooms of the towers, and in the basement of the Campus Center, as well as the concourse.

And the trash piles? They, too, are numerous around campus and hard to eliminate, Hoyle said. Up until two weeks ago, the Environmental Health and Safety Office only had one person making building checks for adherence to state regulations. Now there are three, but Hoyle said they have other duties as well, and can't keep up with the ever populous illegal trash and storage piles.

CC desk provides services; helps building run smoothly

By ARNOLD WARSHAW
Collegian Staff

Sitting behind the desk at the Campus Assistance Center (CAC) on the Campus Center concourse, there are people who every day are expected to answer such mind-boggling questions as: When's the next bus to Belchertown?' or "What's going on at the Blue Wall this week?"

"There isn't any question that's asked most frequently," said James Muldoon, night manager of the Campus Center. "The questions vary."

Some of the more common questions though, concern bus schedules, movie times and Campus Center events.

But the CAC has information on a wide range of topics in the five college area.

"And if we can't give them an answer to a question, we'll give them a referral to someone else," said Muldoon.

Some of the questions that are asked, are at times naive.

"Some people ask you where the Campus Center is," said Muldoon, continuing, "I've also been asked, 'is 904 on the ninth floor?' "

Then there are those people who are not satisfied with the answer they are given to a question.

People will get upset when you can't sell them a ticket to a sporting event at Madison Square Garden," said Muldoon. "That happened to me once."

The busiest time of the year for the CAC is September when 6000-8000 people a day have inquiries, according to Muldoon. With school just starting, people have a lot of questions to ask, and they ask them.

Another important feature of the CAC, which is open from 7 a.m. to 2 a.m., seven days a week, is that besides disseminating information, it also assists in the operation of the Campus Center.

During the day, the concourse vendors, the lost and found, and the operation of the music room come under the control of Christine Wise, of the CAC.

At night, when the building's other offices are closed, the CAC takes overall charge of the entire Campus Center complex.

Muldoon and some of the other people who work under him, must make sure that everything runs efficiently.

"We have to handle any emergencies, make sure building regulations are complied with, work with conferences, and break up fights," said Muldoon.

Though there is more general rowdiness on the weekends, the busiest night of the week for the CAC is Thursday, Muldoon said. More things are scheduled for the Campus Center on that day than on others. Also, Thursday is the day that bands start their weekend run and there are often a lot of audio-visual problems. "There's a lot of confusion," said Muldoon.

Betty "Boop" McGilvray, bereaved by broken "bank-box", begs benevolence from an Arcon Guide at Campus Center Assistance Desk. (Staff photo by Geoffrey Cohler)

Bill to ban smut defeated

SWA votes to permit pornography

By LARRY COHEN
Collegian Staff

In a surprise move last night, the Southwest Assembly (SWA) defeated by a vote of 14-7 a proposal which would have banned pornographic movies from being shown in Hamden Student Center.

The original bill which passed last semester was voted unconstitutional by a three-member Student Government Association (SGA) judiciary board because of its vagueness. The board recommended guidelines for the new proposal which would fall within SGA constitutional boundaries. That proposal called for a 14-member review board to vote on films to be shown in Hamden Student Center, if challenged by a Southwest resident within one week of the film date.

Opponents of the bill cited Fifth Amendment rights and "freedom of choice" as some of their reasons for voting against the proposal.

Main opponent Albert Sparks, president of Baroque Enterprises, said, "We would like to have the members of Southwest decide whether or not they would like to see a movie, rather than Southwest Assembly."

SWA President Chris Durkin commented on the decision, "To put it mildly, I'm very disappointed that a group which claims to be anti-sexist would allow sexist material in Hamden Student Center. But it seems to be the will of Southwest."

Albert Sparks was happier over the outcome. "I am delighted," said Sparks. "We plan to start showing movies within two weeks. We won't come in with hardcore stuff like "Deep Throat" and "Behind the Green Door." I would rather show films like "I am Curious (Yellow)" and "Naked Came the Stranger."

Paul Yanowitch, who represented the petitioner who had the original SWA bill reviewed for its constitutionality, said the defeat of the new proposal was a commendable act on the part of SWA.

"In an educational environment, we should not attempt to censor particular views, regardless of their popularity. Instead, we should try to educate the community to understand the problems inherent in these types of films," Yanowitch said.

SWA passed a proposal last night which states that no group outside of Southwest is allowed to use Hamden Student Center for profit. This does not affect Southwest dormitories, Centers, or other SW groups from using Hamden. This bill would not stop Baroque Enterprises from showing movies in Hamden, as long as it is co-sponsored by a Southwest Dormitory or other SW group.

In other business last night, the Assembly unanimously passed a proposal allocating $375 for a Washington Tower Women's Room. This room, to be located on the 19th floor of Washington tower, will feature programs and literature dealing with sexism, women's health issues, racism and women, and other women-related issues.

Also passed unanimously was a proposal sponsored by the Men's Center allocating $200 to send a representative to Washington at the end of March.

The meeting last night featured a special presentation by Robert Earl Brown, a UMass student convicted of the August 7, 1974 armed robbery of the Hadley McDonald's. The presentation consisted of a short film and speech by Brown, asking assembly members to urge SW residents to sign petitions, write Congress, and to financially and morally support the Brown-Gethers defense efforts.

In another presentation, Brian J. DeLima, speaker of the SGA, asked for SWA's support in a bid to raise the Student Activities fee from $57 to $64. DeLima cited declining enrollment and cost of living increases as reasons for the $7 fee hike. Even with the increase, the SGA will be short $1000, DeLima said. The Assembly's reaction seemed favorable, assuring their support of tonight's reconsideration of the fee increase.

In its final business last night, SWA considered a proposal to allocate $350 for a 2-day cultural event on the Elimination of Racism in Cuba, to be held in late March. The proposal, co-sponsored by Marea Wexler and Mackimmie Humanity House and endorsed by the Civil Liberties Committee was tabled until next week. Mackimmie House has already allocated $150 to go towards this event.

SOUTHWEST
SOUTHWEST
SOUTHWEST

A Thank-you to Black Affairs

Last week I read in Black Affairs, about LUTHER and his friends. It wasn't until this Monday that I got my first glimpse of this new comic strip. I think it's about time America stepped aside for Dick Tracy, Mutt and Jeff, and Peanuts to make room for new talent and new ideas that deals with reality.

Thank you Brumsic Brandon Jr., for bringing some real humor to the pages of the Collegian.

Julie Hall

Thank you Julie.

It is not often enough that someone takes the time and effort to let us know what they think of our efforts at Black Affairs of best representing the Community. Whether one has praise or criticism we would like for people like yourself to write to us and let us know how you feel. Thanks again Julie.

The Staff of
Black Affairs

Coming, 2000Black:

A look into the future

By VUKANI MAGUBANE
Black Affairs Staff

On February 26, 1977 the Orchard Hill Third World Center will present the play 2,000 Black, performed by the Spectrum Theatre Company. The show will be at Bowker Auditorium beginning at 8:00 p.m. The admission price is $2.00. The Spectrum Theatre Company is a Queens based group under the direction of Carl Clay. The company's theme song entitled "2,000 Black" has been recorded and distributed on Roy Ayer's latest album, "A Tear To A Smile".

2,000 Black is an hour and a half presentation answering the question "Where are we going". It is based on various political, social, economic and cultural projections on the year 2000. It delves into questions such as, What will the increased shortage of Black men mean for Black women and What will be the future effects of "partying". The messages presented in 2,000 Black are not just directed to Black People; as the title suggests but to the whole range of human experience and behaviour. The themes of the play deal with the positive aspects of Black existence. In these days of super-black entertainment, the Black Spectrum Theatre Company is a true "grass-roots" operation. 2,000 Black is a view of life in the Black community in the year 2,000.

Tickets for the play will be on sale at the Campus Center beginning this week and continuing throughout next week.

Miguel Rivera. (Photo by Nummo News, e.)

HOLLYWOOD: Natalie Cole, daughter of the late Nat "King" Cole, is shown with her husband, record producer Marvin Yancy, whom she secretly married last July 31st in Chicago. The couple just announced their marriage. Miss Cole was recently named 'Singer of the Year'. (UPI photo)

Cole discloses marriage

By ANGELA THOMAS
Asst. Black Affairs Editor

Singer Natalie Cole, a former UMass student and daughter of the late Nat "King" Cole, disclosed recently that she has been married to her producer since last July 31.

Cole 25, said she and Marvin Yancy 31, who co-produces her albums were married in Chicago. Miss Cole appeared at the Fine Art Center at UMass last October 28, before a sell-out crowd to close out Homecoming '76.

A graduate of UMass '72, Cole first performed as a vocalist at The Pub in Amherst in 71. After leaving Amherst, she pursued her musical career following the footsteps of her legendary father, the late great Nat "King" Cole.

Last year her first album "Inseperable" and the hit tune "This Will Be" won her two Grammy Awards for Best New Female Vocalist Rhythm and Blues and Best New Artist of The Year.

Miguel Rivera speaks on Puerto Rican statehood

By VUKANI MAGUBANE
Black Affairs Staff

Just prior to the end of his term, former President Gerald R. Ford surprised the nation by putting forth before Congress a bill recommending that Puerto Rico be turned into the 51st state of the Union. Here to comment on why the U.S. took this move and to bring forth the true feelings of the Puerto Rican people on the issue of statehood is Miguel Rivera of the Puerto Rican Socialist Party.

CAN YOU BRIEFLY GIVE A HISTORICAL BACKGROUND ON THE RELATIONSHIP THAT HAS EXISTED BETWEEN PUERTO RICO AND THE UNITED STATES?

Puerto Rico's political activities have been related to the North American political environment ever since the war for the independence of the 13 colonies. Ever since the beginning of the 19th century, the U.S. has been interested in Puerto Rico. In 1867 the first open declaration by the U.S. was declared to take over Puerto Rico. In 1898 as a result of the so-called Hispanic-American war, Puerto Rico became a possession of the United States by the Paris treaty. Prior to this however, Spain had granted Puerto Rico autonomy (self-government), therefore the U.S. military invasion and the Paris treaty were violations to the international law which states that any country which is self-governing has a right to decide its own future. Actually Puerto Rico was given away by a third country (Spain), which had no connections to it breaking yet another international law. In 1917, against the will of the people, the Puerto Rican people were forced to become U.S. citizens.

WHY HAS THE UNITED STATES SUDDENLY DECIDED TO CHANGE THIS RELATIONSHIP AND HAVE PUERTO RICO BECOME A STATE RATHER THAN KEEP ITS FORMER STATUS OF A COLONY?

For many reasons, the first being the commonwealth colonial status failed — economically, politically and socially. Independence growth sentiments in the last 20 years have been growing and in the last elections, the pro independent forces got the highest number of votes in the last two decades. Another reason is that Puerto Rico is a very important strategic military position for the United States in the Caribbean. Economically speaking, Puerto Rico is a paradise for U.S. multi-corporations — they receive 100 per cent tax exemptions, cheap labor and they don't have to spend their profits in Puerto Rico. Also Puerto Rico has been termed by the U.S. as their "breech" to Latin America and lastly Puerto Rico has recently been found to be rich in oil, copper and nickel.

CAN YOU DESCRIBE THE POLITICAL SITUATION IN PUERTO RICO AND EXPLAIN WHY THE PEOPLE VOTED FOR THE PRO-STATEHOOD PARTY?

There are four important political parties in Puerto Rico. The popular Democratic Party (affiliated w-the democrats in the U.S.), the New Progressive Party (affiliated w-the U.S. republicans), the Pro-Independence Party which is a social democrats party and the Puerto Rican Socialist Party (Marxist-Lenin). From 1972 to 1976 the PDP was ruling the country but having fallen into economic crisis and immoral behaviour, the people rejected them and voted for the New Progressive Party. This clearly shows that the people voted for the pro-statehood party, not on the basis of its status position but on the mere basis of it being the lesser of two evils. The people have shown openly to be against statehood as by the 1967 referendum on statehood which was defeated.

WHAT STEPS HAVE BEEN TAKEN IN OPPOSITION TO THE ISSUE OF STATEHOOD AND HOW MUCH SUPPORT HAS IT RECEIVED FROM OTHER COUNTRIES?

The case of Puerto Rico will be discussed this year at the decolonization committee of the United Nations. Many countries have expressed their opposition to the statehood for Puerto Rico in telegrams sent to ex-President Ford and President Carter. Congressman Ronald Dellums (D-Cal), has presented a bill asking Congress to grant Puerto Rico immediate independence.

TO BRING IT CLOSER TO HOME, WHAT CAN THE AVERAGE UMASS STUDENT DO TO HELP THE PUERTO RICAN PEOPLE IN THEIR STRUGGLE FOR LIBERATION?

First they must study and read about the Puerto Rican situation, they must take the message of the national resistance of the Puerto Rican people to the people of the United States. This can be done by writing letters, and articles in newspapers around the country expressing the atrocity of denying a country of its right to freedom. They can organize small talks with friends to inform more thoroughly of the possibilities for action. They must be present in the activities celebrated by organizations fighting for the independence of Puerto Rico.

Black Affairs

Troubles in Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia [AP] — A wave of arrests by Ethiopia's leftist military government has followed last week's violent power struggle in which the chief of state and 10 others died, diplomats in the Ethiopian capital report.

Bolstered by well organized rallies of tens of thousands of Ethiopians throughout the nation, the government has also started arming members of Urban Dwellers Associations, which handle local community affairs.

These steps follow a government vow to crush a militant underground opposition party after seven senior members of the ruling military council, including the chairman, Brig. Gen. Teferi Bante, were shot and killed last Thursday. The government said they were part of "rightist" attempt to eliminate "progressives" within the council.

The deaths consolidated the position of Lt. Col. Mengistu Maile Mariam as strong man of Ethiopia's revolution. The struggle also took the lives of four Mengistu supporters.

Major targets for the government attack are the Ethiopian Peoples Revolutionary party, a leftist political organization opposed to the government, and the right-wing opposition movement, the Ethiopian Democratic Union.

Since last Thursday's killings Western diplomats in the Ethiopian capital have reported a number of street assassinations in which EPRP supporters, some of them students, have died. No accurate number of deaths is available but diplomats believe around 20 persons may have been killed.

THIRD WORLD PROGRAMMING

on WMUA 91.1 FM

MONDAY	7:00 - 10:00 P.M.	CONCEPT LATINO
TUESDAY	9:00 A.M. - 12:00 NOON 10:00 P.M. - 2:00 A.M.	BRO. JOSE TOLSON PROGRESSIVELY BLACK BRO. KWEKU DJATA
WEDNESDAY	12:00 NOON - 3:00 P.M. 7:00 - 10:00 P.M.	WHAT IT IS? SALSA SOUL MEDICINE SHOW
THURSDAY	10:00 P.M. - 2:00 A.M.	VOICES OF THE 3RD WORLD BRO. FELIPE NIEVES
FRIDAY	9:00 A.M. - 12:00 NOON	THE BLACK EXPERIENCE BRO. NORMAN MORGAN
SATURDAY	2:00 - 6:00 P.M. 6:00 - 10:00 P.M. 10:00 P.M. - 2:00 A.M.	THE BLACK EXPERIENCE BRO. RICK GRANT BRO. BRUCE POPE BRO. KEN ADAMSON

BLACK NEWS
MON. 7:00 - 7:15 P.M.
WED. 7:00 - 7:15 P.M.
SAT. 7:00 - 7:15 P.M.

PRODUCED BY THE BLACK MASS
COMMUNICATIONS
PROJECT

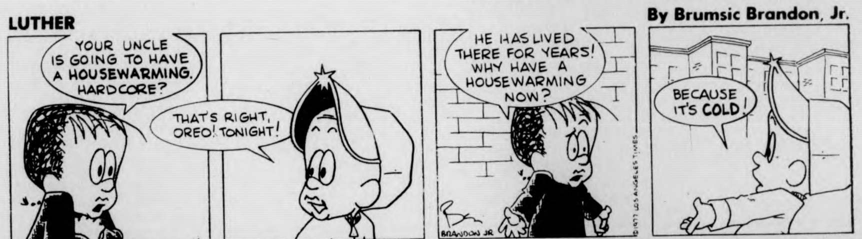
Graduating seniors

Black Affairs today starts paying tribute to graduating seniors. One of them is a lady who has won many-a-hearts, admiration and tributes for being the person she is. This lady, who is a household name, or should I say, a "dorm-hold" name is one of the kindest, sweetest, most thoughtful people to come this a-way.

The lady is Lujuane Elizabeth Crockett. Lujuane, a senior and a sociology major, comes from Danville, Illinois and graduated from the towns' high school. She spent her first year in college attending Illinois State before transferring to UMass. Illinois State blew a good thing. When it came to doing things in the interest of the community, Lujuane is in the forefront. Her credentials are mind-boggling. She is Co-Coordinator and secretary: of the Malcolm X Center, member of the Board of Directors of CCEEBS, a CCEEBS Councilor, member of the Southwest Assembly, on the Craeman Gethers Defense League and a Resident Assistant of Crampton. The lady is a gem and an asset to the Third World Community. The staff of Black Affairs wishes her luck in the future.

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.



YOUR UNCLE IS GOING TO HAVE A HOUSEWARMING. HARDCORE?
THAT'S RIGHT, OREO! TONIGHT!
HE HAS LIVED THERE FOR YEARS! WHY HAVE A HOUSEWARMING NOW?
BECAUSE IT'S COLD!
BRANDON JR
©1977 LOS ANGELES TIMES

Exclusive!

Exclusive for Black Affairs. The picture tells the story. Shot just seconds before UMass basketball star Mike Pyatt tore a ligament in his left hip. He was released from the hospital Monday night. (Photo: Nummo News, e.)

Happy Birthday, Connie

adventura's
SUNSHINE FLIGHT SALE

Boston-Miami	$159
Bradley-Orlando	$143
Bradley-Daytona	$155

SAVE UP TO $75. Convenient direct day flights. Prices are roundtrip, including tax. Flights depart March 18, return 25th. Seats are limited. Contact us today.

549-1256
ADVENTURA TRAVEL
233 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst Carriage Shops

CHEQUERS
Wednesday is
Mich Nite
Happy Hour never stops!
4→closing
Cheese and Crackers early
hot dogs and sauerkraut late
COME AND ENJOY!

WEDNESDAY EVENING

Get On Your Horses ●●●●●●●
and come to BUD NITE at the BLUE WALL
30¢ draughts $2.00 pitcher
Live entertainment - Fun - Prizes

Announcements:

Hey Everybody! The Afro-American Student Society is planning its first recruitment meeting for Wednesday 7:30-8:30 Feb. 16, 1977 in New Africa House Lounge. We are about seriously planning programs and working in the interest of Black Students.

Everyone is invited to come on down and check it out. You mig. like it.

Orchard Hill Third World Center Presents 2,000 Black by the Spectrum Theatre of New York at Bawker Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. February 26, 1977.

Thoughts:

A madman is no less of a musician than you or myself — only the instrument on which he plays is a little out of tune.

— Kahil Gibran

$65 Worth of TM

By: Alan Shepard

By ALAN SHEPARD
Collegian Staff

I promised myself during intersession that this semester I would check out the Transcendental Meditation (TM) program that they offer at UMass. I had heard a lot about it from friends that had taken it, and finally I broke down and admitted that there was room for self improvement in my life.

I was looking for something to do a feature on. When I saw an advertisement for the TM program, it presented itself as a good story and something I was interested in finding out about.

I interviewed two people from SIMS (Student International Meditation Society) who were quite accommodating. They filled my backpack up with all sorts of literature and research informtion. The scientific data was impressive to even these layman eyes.

They explained it as a non-profit organization which teaches the TM technique so one can reach their full potential as an individual. It improves clarity of perception, develops creative intelligence, expands awareness and enables one to enjoy living in the sustained freedom of increasing achievement and fulfillment. It can be learned easily and by everyone, with absolutely no exceptions.

It was all presented smoothly and they left little room for doubt for they had all this scientific verification to back it up. They said the only reason why more people are not doing it is lack of understanding and ignorance. I was a prime example.

One of the questions I wrote down to ask them was whether or not the Maharishi Mahesh Yogi taught any of the class himself. (He was on the UMass campus in the summer of 1972 teaching a "Science of Creative Intelligence" course which is the follow up of the basic program.)

A few days later I decided to do a follow-up story on the people that took the TM program that week to see what they thought of it.

One woman say, "I took it to help with my schoolwork." She was still skeptical of the organization. "I guess it's my American background," she explained, "but I want to make sure I'm getting my money's worth."

"It's a fantastic job of salesmanship," said Bob, one of the students," it is one of the most beautifully packaged products that I ever came across in this capitalistic country."

"I think I got my $65 worth," he continues, "I didn't expect to get as much personal attention as I did."

Jeff, one of the instructors, resented this talk of big business. "It's something that has worked and done a lot for me, and it's a joy to be able to teach it to others," he said.

"All the money that comes from the course fees all go to perpetuating the program. It makes it available for those people that can't afford it, in underdeveloped countries."

I spoke to David Thebodo who works at the Amherst TM Center. He told me about the current trend of middle age meditators.

A lot of this had to do with two programs Merv Griffin did with Maharishi Mahesh Yogi. Well knowns like Clint Eastwood, Mary Tyler Moore and Joe Namath talked about how meditating has helped in their lives. This brought the TM program into the living rooms of these middle age people.

David also spoke about the many doctors and lawyers in the Amherst area that meditate. There was a letter from Judge Luke F. Ryan from the District Court of Hampshire who writes how meditation has improved his life.

He showed me a pamphlet that contained letters from inmates in Folsom prison who have found prison easier to cope with since they started to meditate.

"I'm much calmer," said Mark Brenner, "I don't get as up tight as much."

The few that I found that had taken the course and stopped meditating either couldn't fit it in their schedule at the specified time or planned to take it again soon.

Richard Bogartz who is a professor of psychology at the university has been meditating for four years. His wife and his two sons, ages nine and twelve also meditate.

He explained that people wouldn't feel the need for alcohol or drugs as much. That when you're meditating, you feel good about life and you're much more sensitive to the effects that these things have on you. People won't be having as many tension headaches and as high a blood pressure which causes heart disease.

He claims that your personal relationships will improve a lot. "People are always looking for someone who can fulfill their needs. If you need a lot, you take a lot. When you meditate, however, you need less from others because you find more in yourself, thus you have more to give," said Bogartz.

He believes we will eventually reach a time when meditation will become a part of everyday life. Someday people will look upon history and wonder how we survived without it.

I found all the people I talked to who meditated very friendly, open, and quite willing to share their experiences.

The difference that they notice in themselves was the same that I found in talking to them in comparison with other people. They seemed a lot more together, sincere, more organized, and it was enough to convince me that it was meditation that made the difference.

The $65 now seems insignificant compared to what stands to gain by this program. If you still have your doubts as to where the money goes, The Washington Post (remember them?) sent someone to investigate the organization. After spending three months going through the books, the reporter suggested that the instructors unionize as he felt they were being exploited by the program.

It became very frustrating when I couldn't dig up any negative aspects of the Transcendental Meditation program. I gave it a good attempt, and although I may have failed as a reporter to present both sides of the story, I may have found something more important along the way.

IWY Commission Report:

Women and mass media; friend or foe?

By KAREN O'ROURKE
Collegian Staff

The series of articles to follow, based on the 400 page International Women's Year [IWY] Commission report, will address the finding of the IWY Commission on problems related to employment, public office, sex discrimination, law enforcement, and minorities, and will also take a look at the recommendations the IWY Commission has made to solve those inequalities.

As Jill Ricklehaus, presiding officer of the IWY Commission points out, "Despite all the courage and dedication of many women, unsung in our country's history, there exists a common misconception that the women's movement began in 1960. The truth is that since the founding of the nation, there has been a strong impetus to gain a greater role for women than the narrow one prescribed for them by custom, tradition, and law."

For example, did you know that one of the first women's rights meetings was the Seneca Falls Convention of 1848? It was there that 250 women and 40 men demanded opportunities for women in education, trade, the professions and rights in property, free speech, and guardianship of their children. They even dared to ask for suffrage! Did you know that in 1870 black men achieved suffrage through the 15th Amendment, and that it took another 50 years before all women won the right to vote?

THE COMMISSION

International Women's year, proclaimed by the United Nation's General Assembly for 1975 calendar year, employed the theme of equality, development, and peace.

The U.S. Commission created to participate in International Women's Year was established by Executive Order 11832 in January 1975 and has been extended through Marcy 1978.

The IWY Commission's primary goal has been to adopt recommendations aimed at eliminating the inequities that still linger as barriers to the full participation of women in our nation's life. It has set up work committees and an interdepartmental task force for obtaining information through interviewing, public hearings, and research and for the implementation of IWY projects within governmental departments.

Thirty-five commission members were appointed by the President and two each were appointed by the Senate and by the House. All serve without compensation. Previous fundings came from staff services or money contributed by Executive Branch agencies as their share in the government's observance of International Women's Year. Congress, in its extension of the IWY Commission, allocated $5 million for state conventions and for a national Women's Convention to be held some time this year.

WOMEN AND MASS MEDIA

Let's look at the IWY Commission's finding on the media.

Did you know that:

Ninety-seven per cent of all homes in the U.S. have television sets?

Americans on the average tune in about 6 hours a day, or 2400 hours a year?

Between the ages of 2 and 65, the average person will watch nine full years of television?

Stop for two minutes and quickly flash back to your last six hours of television. Do you see women portrayed with obsessions for shiny floors, clean toilets, and spotless ovens? How about the advertisements for good tasting coffee? Mr Clean? Have you noticed that 87 per cent of announcers and narrators are male? IWY Commission, in the monitoring of 5,353 straight news stories, only produced 523 news stories on women.

More information is still needed to determine the impact of television on sex role imagery. Recommendations have been made by the IWY Commission to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to undertake a study to determine the impact of television and advertising on sex discrimination and sex role stereotyping to determine the extent to which television causes and reinforces sexism.

Employment discrimination exists in media behind the scenes, especially in policymaking positions. Federal Communication Commission employment figures for 1975 shows women hold 26.3 per cent of the positions in the broadcasting industry. In the top four job categories, (managers, professionals, sales, and technicians), females were in only 13.1 per cent of the positions. Policy making positions were occupied by women in only 5 per cent of the available jobs.

The fight against sex discrimination in the media has recently reached such newspapers as the Washington Post and the New York Times. Formal IWY Commission recommendations here have also been directed to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission urging the EEOC to seriously attack sex discrimination practices in major media corporations, especially commercial television.

cpf

THE RECOMMENDATIONS

In finalizing their recommendations, the IWY Commission recognizes freedom of the press but feels this independence which is essential today should be used more responsibly and accurately. The ten guidelines presented by the IWY Commission are:

1. The media should establish the employment of women in policy-making positions in proportion to their participation in the labor force.

2. Women in the media should be employed at all job levels and paid equally for work of equal value in addition to being given equal opportunity for training and promotion.

3. The definition of news should be expanded to include more coverage of women's activities: locally, nationally, and internationally. In addition, general news studies should incorporate their impact on women; for example, the impact of public transportation on women's mobility, safety, and ability to take jobs.

4. The news media should make special sustained efforts to seek out news stories of women.

5. Placement of news should be decided by subject matter, not sex. Wherever news of women is placed it should be treated with the same dignity, scope, and accuracy as is news of men.

6. Women's bodies should not be used in an exploitive way to add irrelevant sexual interest to any medium.

7. The presentation of personal facts when involved in a story; sex, sexual preference, age, marital status, physical appearance, dress, religion, or political orientation, should be eliminated for both men and women.

8. A person's right to determine his-her own title should be respected without slurs or innuendos.

9. Gender designations are changing and should be subject to periodic review. For example, fire-fighter, letter carriers.

10. Women's activities and organizations should be treated with the same respect accorded men's activities and organizations. Such as the terms, "Black libber," "Symbionese libber," or "Palestine Libber," are not used, the term, "Women's libber" should not be used. Coverage of women's conferences often center on a "split" in factions, where a similar men's conference report may refer to it as a "serious policy debate."

As Patricia Carbine, chair of the Commission Media Committee and publisher and editor-in-chief of MS. magazine concluded, "Our hopes, our dreams, our own lives are profoundly shaped by the presentation of us by the media. What women are demanding from this powerful, persuasive industry are accurate images and the right to participate fully in their dissemination."

Rep denies vote fraud

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Freshman Rep. Richard Tonry, D-La., asked a special House panel yesterday to throw out charges he won his seat through a vote fraud in a Democratic primary.

Rep. Mendel Davis, D-S.C., chairman of the three-member House Administration subcommittee, said the group would take Tonry's motion to dismiss the complaint "under advisement."

Tonry, 41, defeated James Moreau by 184 votes in an October primary, and won election by 5,000 votes in November to fill the seat vacated by former Rep. F. Edward Hebert.

The Louisiana Supreme Court upheld Tonry's election, but 15 poll commissioners subsequently pleaded guilty to stealing 390 votes for Tonry. Another has admitted stealing votes for Moreau.

Davis gave no indication when the subcommittee expected to hand down its decision. Another half dozen vote fraud challenges are awaiting action in the House although they do not concern primaries.

Tonry was sworn in to the new Congress and took his seat on Jan. 4 pending the hearing on the fraud claims. He sat behind his attorney, John Martzell, throughout the 2½ hour session on Tuesday, smoking cigarettes, smiling occasionally and whispering advice.

Martzell admitted the House, under the Constitution, is the "final judge" of its members, but said primary elections have been in the jurisdiction of states. He said the panel would set a "most serious precedent" if it investigated the Tonry-Moreau primary contest.

Martzell said if the panel conducts an investigation "then it must pursue it to every one of the 100,000 votes cast."

WASHINGTON: Freshman Rep. Richard Tonry, D-La. (left), beset by law suits and charges he won his seat by vote fraud, went before the House Administration Committee which is considering his ouster. James Moreau, a former New Orleans councilman, who lost the close election to Tonry (right) was also at the hearing. (UPI)

Negative reports on Conn bottle bill

HARTFORD [AP] — The fight against the bottle bill in Connecticut received more ammunition Monday as the State Labor Council AFL-CIO issued a report saying the proposed law would cost nearly 1,900 jobs in Connecticut.

But David Pinsky, a University of Connecticut economist who conducted the study, said 150 jobs would be created by the bill requiring a deposit on beverage containers and banning the sale of cans with detachable pulltops.

That compares with 1,015 jobs that would be lost direct and 875 jobs that would be lost through the "ripple effect" of a bottle bill, Pinsky said.

The hardest-hit areas, he said, would be the Danielson, Hartford and New Haven areas, each having bottling companies or major bottle or can manufacturers.

The bottle bill, defeated in the last three General Assembly sessions, has sparked several studies which predict conflicting results from the proposal.

Pinsky also is a member of the Governor's Council of Economic Advisors, which voted Monday to oppose the bottle bill because of possible job losses and the necessary heavy capital investment for plant conversions.

The industry now employs 10,670 persons - directly in 1,200 companies. The payroll loss would represent a net loss in the state of about $10 million if the law were passed, Pinsky said.

Appearing with Labor Council President John Driscoll, Pinsky told reporters that the bottle bill has not produced the expected lower prices of soda and beer. He said a survey of six stores in Vermont, which passed a bottle bill in 1973, showed no significant difference from Connecticut soda prices. Beer was cheaper in Connecticut, he said.

Driscoll said the report would be among the documents used to oppose the bottle bill at a public hearing Thursday at the state Capitol.

Pinsky said none of the Vermont stores he surveyed hired extra workers to handle the returnable bottles but they did increase the hours of some employes.

A bottle bill in Connecticut could be expected to lead to increases in hours for Connecticut workers, representing the equivalent of about 700 employes, he said. But he predicted that few new workers would be hired by the retail stores.

BUS FOR WORCESTER
$2.50 one way
Via Route 9. Every Friday, Saturday & Sunday
Purchase Tickets at Student Union Ticket Office
Also Serving
Belchertown, Ware, Brookfields, Spencer & Leicester
CHARTER A BUS Deluxe Coaches
Tel. 584-6481
WESTERN MASS. BUS LINES

THE SALT BOX
16 Main Street
Amherst
Our famous sweater collection on sale 20% off
(size 40 only , 30% off this week only) sale ends Saturday Feb. 19
all sales final
cash checks master charge

THE red Pantry Playroom
presents
WEDNESDAY
FAT
Fri.-Sat.-Sun.
NRBQ
with
Hot Calypso Key
202 & 21
Belchertown

R. D. Laing
'INVESTIGATIONS'
Performed by
Threeater
Tuesday, February 22,
8:00 p.m.
Student Union Ballroom
Admission Free
Sponsored by the Program Council

A SERIES OF 9 ANIMATED FILMS
ON THE HISTORY OF WESTERN CIVILIZATION
FROM THE MIDDLE AGES
TO THE PRESENT TIME
WHAT FANTASTIC REVIEWS!
THE HISTORY BOOK
HISTORY LESSONS
FOR BOTH YOUNG AND OLD
THAT ENTERTAIN WHILE THEY INFORM
thursday feb 17
herter auditorium
7:30 & 10
$1.00

Liz Taylor awarded 'Woman of the Year'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. [AP] — It wasn't all roses Tuesday when the Harvard Hasty Pudding gave actress Elizabeth Taylor its woman of the year award.

There was that awkward moment before the award presentation on the ancient Hasty Pudding stage when the president of the undergraduate club, Mark Szpak of Manchester, N.H., blithely recalled a previous winner had been Debbie Reynolds.

Szpak was probably not old enough to remember that Miss Taylor took Miss Reynolds' spouse, Eddie Fisher, in the fourth of her seven marriages.

That moment came after a tuneful episode when members of the audience whistled loudly what some claimed was Miss Taylor's theme song: "I'm Getting Married in the Morning."

Asked what she thought of screen nudity, she stretched the neckline of the green knit dress which fetchingly concealed her body lines and squealed, "O-o-o-o-w."

She then concluded that nudity wasn't necessary because one can suggest as much sex with a subtle shake of the shoulder.

She also rejected the suggestion the movies exploit women as sex objects.

"You don't have to be a sex object unless you exploit yourself as one," she said. "If you want to become one, of course you can, if you're a woman.

FREE
LARRY
FLYNT

COLUMBUS, O.: Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt tries on a welcome home gift from his staff with the help of secretary Gail Hollenbaugh as he returned to his office after being released on bail in Cincinnati. Flynt is appealing his convictions of pandering obscenity and engaging in organized crime while out on $55,000 bail. (UPI)

No clues in deaths of four brothers

HOLLANDSBURG, Ind. [AP] — Police worked through a "mountain of information" yesterday in search of a clue to the killers of four young brothers in the farmlands of western Indiana.

The officers said one of the clues was a description of the slayers they said could fit almost any young men.

The investigation centered on the possibility that the shotgun killings were the work of a small gang of youths who terrorized and robbed two couples from a neighboring county within the past week. The slayings here, early Monday, came after intruders robbed the victims of about $30.

At Indianapolis, State Police Supt. John T. Shettle said the investigation was making "definite progress" and has top priority "until we have the perpetrators behind bars." He said police were sifting "a number of leads and a mountain of information."

He revised that later to say "we're working a mountain of general information, hoping to find a clue. But we don't have a specific clue."

Officers on the scene said they were baffled, with no leads and no suspects.

"I have no information that would indicate we have any concrete leads that would enable us to crack this case in the very near future," said Sgt. Robert E. McClure, commander of the Indiana State Police post at Terre Haute.

"We may never know why it happened," McClure said. "We'll find out who, I'm sure. Somebody knows something somewhere. It's just a matter of finding them."

The only sure clue lay in a Terre Haute hospital bed, under constant guard. Betty Spencer, 43-year-old mother of one of the victims and stepmother of the other three, has been heavily sedated since she was taken to Union Hospital Monday with shotgun wounds in her back and shoulders.

Investigators tried to speak with her yesterday morning, but did not disclose what they learned, if anything.

Asked if he thought she needed protection, McClure said, "Let me put it this way: she is the only living person who was an eyewitness to the homicide. Although we don't fear for her life, we will provide her with all the necessary security."

McClure denied published reports that Mrs. Spencer could identify three of the four men.

A description of the attackers Mrs. Spencer gave police "is so general it would fit any young male in this day and age," McClure said. "With the information we have, that would mean anyone in their 20s."

SEMINAR!
MALE-FEMALE RELATIONSHIPS
from the teachings of Yogi Bhajan PRESENTED BY:
M.S.S.
Gurushabd Singh Josephs, D.Ed.
Eastern Regional Director
KUNDALINI RESEARCH INSTITUTE
MARCH 12 & 13
UMass Campus Center, Room 917
10-2:30 EACH DAY
ADVANCE REGISTRATION
CALL: 256-8470 OR 253-2889

Five College Summer Flight
Boston-London round-trip only $325. June 14 - August 19, Pan American 707. Early sign-up urged. Contact: INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMS, 239 Whitmore,
Tel. 545-2710, for application. The only authorized Five College flight.

MIKES
WESTVIEW
The Two Bitter
10 oz. glasses Old Milwaukee Beer 25¢
large pitchers $1.95.

POSITION OPEN
Legislative Research Staff Assistant responsibilities include: Typing, Research, Liaison, Information Resource Coordination, and ability to be in Boston at a moments notice. Applications available. Student Senate Offices, 420 S.U., must be returned by Thurs., Feb. 17 at 5 p.m.
STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOC.
Equal Opportunity — Affirmative Action Employer

National Ski Patrol System
UMass Ski Patrol
recruiting members for next year.
Meeting Thurs., Feb. 17
CC 811 7-9 pm

Test Prep Services
358 N. Pleasant St. Amherst 549-5136
LSAT
6, 4-Hr. meetings covering cases & principles, practical judgement, evaluation of facts, various logic sections, data comparison, writing ability, new question types.
Meeting times: Thurs. 1:30-5:30, 6:00-10:00
MCAT
6, 4 Hr. meetings covering biology, chemistry & physics as well as the new MCAT skills analysis question types.
Meeting days and times Wed., Thurs. 6:00-10:00 p.m.
Sat. classes scheduled for April
TPS' flexible programs permit you to arrange classes around your schedule, not vice versa. Most courses are held continuously throughout the year and all make-up sessions are LIVE. Weekend crash courses scheduled the two weekends prior to each exam. You can always count on a TPS program to meet your needs. Our 24-Hr. courses, plus 11 hrs. of extras lets you take advantage of 35 hours of live instruction with a top-scoring specialist.
Call to reserve a place in our weekly
FREE INTRODUCTORY CLASS
Held every Tues. evening 6:30 to 9:30

CARIBBEAN FIELD TRIP
Spend Spring Break in Cartagena, Colombia
on an escorted field trip sponsored by the Hotel, Restaurant, and Travel Administration Department.
INCLUDES: 1 credit (HRTA 386) for those who qualify.
7 nights — 8 days (3-19 - 3-26)
Air—Ground transit, Hotels
Meals excluded
All for $313.00
ACTIVITIES: Recreation
Sightseeing
Tourism Seminars by Local Officials
Reasonable Free Time
For details and registration
call HRTA 545-1389

News in Brief

'Sunshine girl' fights gay rights

MIAMI [AP] — Anita Bryant says she will continue fighting a gay rights ordinance even "if my livelihood is stripped away from me."

"I will not be moved," Miss Bryant said in an interview yesterday. "I'd rather have the love of God and be making this a better place to live for my children and other children."

She has helped organize a group called "Save our Children Inc." because she believes the local gay community is "trying to recruit our children to homosexuality."

Gay rights leaders call her efforts "bigoted" and "fanatical." They have tried — unsuccessfully — to pressure the Florida Citrus Commission, for which she has advertised orange juice since 1968, into taking her ads off the air, and they talk about a possible boycott of Florida citrus products.

Carter names GSA administrator

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Robert T. Griffin, a Somerville, Mass. native and veteran of 33 years in federal government, yesterday was named acting Administrator of the U.S. General Services Administration by President Carter.

Griffin was most recently special assistant to the administrator of the GSA, and federal coordinator of the proposed John F. Kennedy Library. The GSA employs more than 37,000 people. It is the property manager and procurement arm of the federal government.

Griffin was the assistant administrator — the third ranking official in GSA — from 1961 to 1969. He has been with the government agency since its inception in 1949.

He was formerly New England administrator of the War Assets Administration, GSA's predecessor.

Program pushes solar heating

BOSTON [UPI] — Secretary of Consumer Affairs Christine Sullivan yesterday announced a state program to help market solar energy heating units.

"If three per cent of the energy used in Massachusetts turned solar, 100,000 jobs would be created," she said at a cabinet meeting.

Meanwhile, Lt. Gov. Thomas O'Neill said the federal government next month would narrow down to seven the number of sites under consideration for the proposed national Solar Energy Research Institute. O'Neill said he expected New England to remain in the running. A final decision is expected this summer.

Bailey to receive court hearing

PROVIDENCE, R.I. [UPI] — Convicted felon William H. Bailey's battle to be seated in the Rhode Island Legislature gets a full hearing March 11 before the state Supreme Court.

Bailey, 40, was excluded from the House last month because of a felony record that includes larceny convictions in Massachusetts, Michigan and Pennsylvania. The state constitution bars felons from voting or holding office.

The Providence Democrat contends Secretary of State Robert F. Burns was legally bound to swear him in on Jan. 4 because his November election was certified.

In a brief order released yesterday, the Supreme Court said it would hear arguments March 11 on the merits of Bailey's case. It asked for extensive written briefs from both sides in advance of the hearing.

The Bailey suit specifically asks that Burns be ordered to give him the oath of office so he can be seated in the legislature.

Kiritsis appears in court

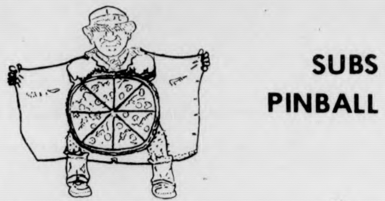
INDIANAPOLIS [UPI] — Anthony G. Kiritsis, who seized a real estate man and wired him to a shotgun during three days of terror last week, yesterday appeared as his own lawyer, assisted by two attorneys.

Arraignment in Marion County Criminal Court 1 was postponed for two weeks by Judge Kenneth Cady, who ordered mental examinations by Drs. Louis Nie and Frank Countryman, psychiatrists.

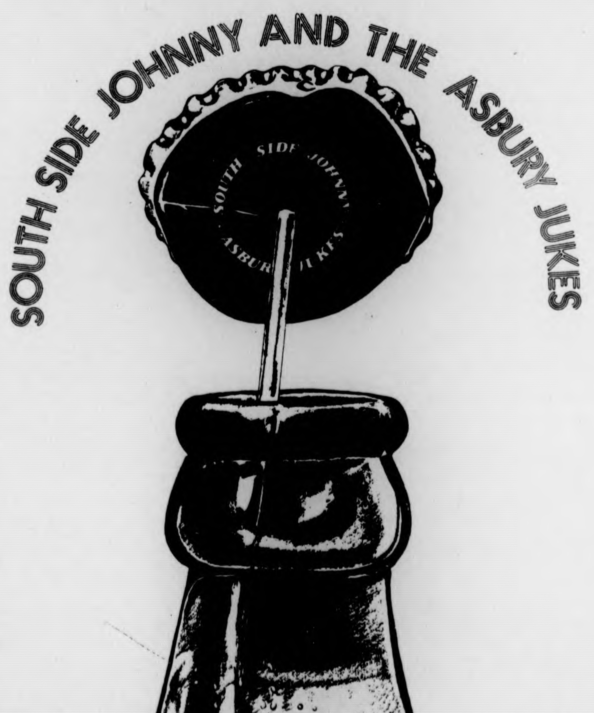
Kiritsis appeared without handcuffs, wearing the light green short-sleeved shirt in which he was arrested Thursday night.

He sat at the defense table with his lawyers and his brother Jimmy Kiritsis and half-brother George Urgo, occasionally whispering with defense attorney Owen Mullin.

The Advocate Program needs advocates to provide foster care homes for youths in need of support and guidance. If you live off-campus and are willing to devote your energy to a "troubled" teenager, call R.M. Winston, Director, Advocate Program, 383 Hills South, 545-3626. Salary and academic credit are available.

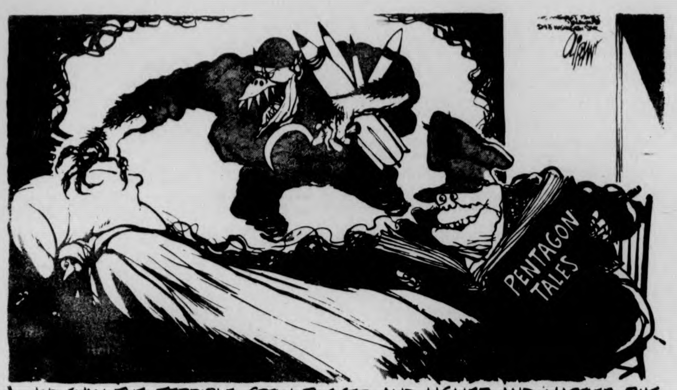


EXPOSE YOURSELF
PIZZA
ICE CREAM
SUBS
PINBALL
TO UNIVERSITY PIZZA
CALL 549-5592 FOR DELIVERY (ON CAMPUS)
COME IN AND WARM YOUR TOES
BY OUR FIREPLACE
☆ TRY OUR STEAK AND CHEESE SUB ☆
☆ AND GET A FREE COKE WITH THIS AD! ☆
OFFER GOOD FEB. 14-17
Across from Southwest Dorms to assure a hot and quick delivery!



SOUTH SIDE JOHNNY AND THE ASBURY JUKES
SOUTH SIDE JOHNNY ASBURY JUKES

Also Appearing
ELEKTRA-ASYLUM
RECORDING STAR
ANDREW GOLD
Wednesday
Feb. 23, 1977
8:30 p.m.
in the
S.U. Ballroom
Tickets on sale Feb. 16-23, 1977
In front of Hatch, Faces of Earth, Sun, Music.
A Program Council Music Committee Production
University of Massachusetts



"... AND IVAN THE TERRIBLE GREW BIGGER AND UGLIER AND NASTIER, BUT THE POOR PENTAGON HAD NO MONEY TO STOP HIM..."

commentary

The need for a bank

By ARIANE SAINS

I have already gotten my Finast courtesy card. Better, I thought to get it now than to wait until the rush that will start when Finast is the only place left that will cash personal checks.

The way I figure it will go is this:

First, Robert [illegible] Mishol, Bursar, will declare that Whitmore can no longer handle the volume of student check-cashing and will discontinue the service. This will leave no place on campus to cash checks, but at least the administration will have solved the original problem of relocation of check-cashing and the subsequent problem of overcrowding at Whitmore in one easy step.

When that happens, though, it will mean that the nearest place to cash a check will be at one of the banks in town. Banks, being shrewd conservative business institutions, are not known for their generosity. Most will not cash a check unless you have an account with them, because that means providing a service for which they get no financial return, and that is not good business. Besides, when the flow of students starts, the banks, like our Bursar, are not going to want to bother with all the paper work involved in cashing ten dollar checks from home. Exit the banks.

So, we come to Finast. It is inconvenient to get to, except when the buses run there on weekends, it is horribly crowded with shoppers, you cannot cash a personal check unless you have a courtesy card, but at least it is a place to cash a check. That is, as long as it's not a two party check.

Mishol has said that what is needed at UMass is a commercial bank and he is right. The Campus Center Board of Governors is ideologically opposed to such a bank. Idealism is fine, except when it interferes with practicality. Practically, the fact is that there are 25,000 students on this campus and that makes UMass a city. As a city, a check-cashing-banking system is a vital necessity in order to keep the flow of cash going. If students cannot cash checks on campus, then it follows that they will not spend their money on campus either. They will spend it wherever they happen to be when they cash their checks.

The Administration, even if it doesn't care about providing a service to students, who are paying customers of the University, should certainly care when it sees student money going off campus. The question is, why should students care enough to bring their money back when the administration didn't care enough to keep it here in the first place.

Ariane Sains is a Collegian Commentator.

letters

A warning to NOPE users

To the Editor:

A week ago, I was the victim of an unsolicited sexual confrontation in the women's locker room at NOPE. Since that time, several other incidents of varying intensity — including assaults — have occurred. The frequency of these attacks indicates at least two things: 1] that all patrons of the women's locker rooms are potential victims of similar attacks, and 2] the irresponsible lack of action by the P.E. Dept. and the campus police in preventing such incidents from recurring.

The P.E. and police depts. know of these occurrences. But they have taken inadequate action, and are therefore leaving us to protect ourselves. All university women should be aware of the danger of using the locker room, particularly when there are few other women in the area. Women must be cautious in using the facilities. Don't go alone — bring a friend or two — and carry an object for self-defense, like a rock or mace [mace is illegal in Mass. but so is rape]. Most important, if you are accosted in any manner, REPORT IT to both the police and P.E. dept. They can't continue to ignore their own statistics for long.

Teresa Morgan

Amnesty position: A sickening yellow

To the Editor:

Mr. Nollet's editorial claiming that amnesty is unfair [Feb. 11] is not only laced with unwarranted assumptions, but also presents itself as a painfully invalid logical argument to the aware reader.

To begin with, there does not exist a "lesser American" in our democracy as you have stated. We are equals in this debate. A difference of opinion concerning obligations to the selective service does not dictate that one is a lesser American, no matter which side of the coin he or she may argue.

And from where does it follow that most Vietnam Conflict resisters would have "gladly participated in World War II and that they would have [illegible]gly [illegible]mitted themselves to be processed [illegible] see how you derive one from the other.

Furthermore, you mislead yourself when you assume that all draft evaders and resisters are very moral people who would never break the law. You speak in generalities that are not universally true.

Good heavens, do you really believe that very moral people do not break some of the laws some of the time?

Obligatory moral actions must be separated so as to be distinct from legal obligations. Hence, I do not accept that the legal obligation to serve in the Vietnam Conflict became a moral one in the 1960's and early 70's.

Your journalism is showing it's true color [to borrow your expression], "a sickening yellow".

Steven K. Nieminen

letters

A common goal

To the Editor:

I wish to clarify my quote in Friday's Collegian regarding student participation in faculty collective bargaining. My cautionary statement regarding students' role at the faculty-administration bargaining table was merely to point to the historical fact that management has, on other campuses used student participation at the table as a wedge against the faculty while providing no tangible benefit to students.

MSP has taken no position regarding student unionization or students role in collective bargaining. The Society is not opposed to students bargaining with the administration over the terms and conditions of their relationship with the University.

As the framework for such bargaining develops, we look forward to working with the students involved. Providing the best possible education at this University must be our common goal, and all bargaining, whether by students or faculty, is only successful as it contributes to that goal.

Larry S. Roberts
President

Taking a stand on checking

To the Editor:

The administration has decided to close the check cashing service in the student union. And this is from the people that are against Dukakis' budget cuts.

This cut in service follows in the wake of a long line of tuition increases, fee increases, cuts in staff and faculty. With one hand they're grabbing for more of our money and with the other they cut our services.

Enough is enough. Whenever there is a "fiscal crisis" and no money [read "no money — unless we cut into our profits"] the people have to pay. We should not and will not pay for this "fiscal crisis".

At the present time there are two check cashing facilities on campus, one in Whitmore and one in the Student Union. The administration has said that they are going to close the check cashing service in the Student Union for a variety of reasons. The same problems that exist in the check cashing service now, also existed last semester.

Last semester the answer that the administration gave to this problem was not to move [or do away] with the check cashing service, but to put a commercial bank in the student music room. This was met with overwhelming student opposition against the bank. The closing of the check cashing service, on top of being an incredible inconvenience to the students, is a poorly veiled attempt to bring a commercial bank on campus, which would not solve the check cashing problem.

An alternative site has been found in Goodell Library for the Bursar's Office and check cashing services. However Goodell will not be ready for the Bursar's office at least until September of 1978. This will mean that there will only be one check cashing service — at Whitmore. The administration has allocated no money in the upcoming budget to expand the check cashing service at Whitmore. That means for one year we will all be forced to cram into the line at the already inadequate check cashing service at Whitmore.

If the check cashing service must be moved, we demand that the renovations be done first, and we demand that there be no cuts in services in the check cashing services. We urge all students to sign the petition in opposition to the closing of the check cashing service that is being circulated by the Revolutionary Student Brigade. We urge all students to be present in Whitmore on Thursday at noon when the Revolutionary Student Brigade presents the petition to the administration. It is time that we students make a stand. This is it.

Joel Weissman
Peter Kracht
Chuck Pooler
The Revolutionary Student Brigade

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-1500

BOARD OF EDITORS — RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in-Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; NASSER H. EGA, Black Affairs Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; JAY A. SARET, Photo Editor; MARK A. LECCESE, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS — Christopher J. Bourne, Teresa M. Hanafin, Night Managers; Paula Strollo, Wire Editor; Lisa E. Melilli, Assistant Executive Editor; Gerard F. Rogers, Kevin C. Turcotte, Stephanie H. Aronson, Ann C. Treneman, Assistant News Editors; Angela P. Thomas, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Michael A. Berger, Richard W. Eckel, Assistant Sports Editors; E. Patrick McQuaid, Deborah S. Schafer, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Melanie J. Johnson, Women's Coordinator; Heidi S. Berenson, Feature Coordinator.

BUSINESS — Steve N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; Leslie Nearman, Finance Manager; Laurie Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Heath C. Wheeler, Jr., Linda Crowell, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Leo Murphy, Doug Surette, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steve Polansky, Circulation Manager; Linda S. Vene, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

richard caplan

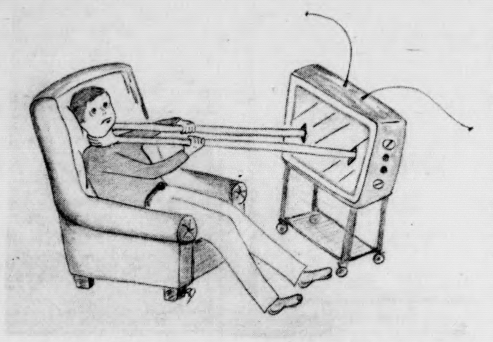
For the violent at heart

As most people would agree, L.O.V. (lovers of violence) is taking over America. The members of L.O.V. are those people who would sell their soul for a good Charles Bronson-Clint Eastwood movie. They're the people who get cardiac arrest when they have to choose between Starsky and Hutch and a Billy Jack flick on the tube.

One of the main sources of violence for these addicts (other than following fire engines or waiting for a car accident) is television. But alas, even television is letting them down. With more and more so-called comedies on the air, violence addicts have been going through heavy withdrawal.

So, it is with this in mind that I present a listing of new programs that should be the thrill of every violence lovers' heart.

Let it be known that the V.C. (violence co-efficient) is much higher than normal in each program. (For those of you who don't happen to be violence freaks, the violence co-efficient is the number of total characters in a show divided by the number of murders plus the number of emotional breakdowns). So, without further ado, "TV shows for the violent at heart".



WELCOME BACK, MURDER

Legalized violence returns as the death penalty is reinstated with lucrative television contracts for all nationally ranked prisons.

CHARLIE'S FAMILY

Violence that all ages can enjoy. Good old Charlie leads his family through one thrilling slaughter after another.

BITCH

A special team of police operatives holds a small group of innocent by-standers in an interrogation room for three days while screaming obscene threats at them. (There will be an announcement before this program stating that there might not be enough violence in it for some

REVELATIONS 9

The never-ending story of how God tries to destroy the world. Since floods, disease, fire and a premature glacier age have all failed, the Lord encloses the entire known world into a very large plastic baggie and sells it to another galaxy. The street value alone would be worth more than a million dollars.

DEATH FOR A DAY

A new execution is planned "live" from different parts of the world. This week Michael Dukakis is "dormed" to death as he spends the night at a local college campus. (This is a pilot for a new weekly series).

WIDE WORLD OF WARTS

Each week the cameras travel to different parts of the world to watch someone die slowly of a painful disease.

SANDFORD AND BUN

A man's search for the perfect hamburger ends when he realizes that he's been eating horsemeat. He promptly kills the owner of the diner and has the nerve to walk out without paying the check.

CRAPPY DAYS

A gas company executive gets fired and tried to make a living mining coal. He finally goes beserk and stows away on an oil tanker only to die when the boat rams a power generator in Arizona.

S.M.A.S.H.

The "emergency" fire truck smashes into the S.W.A.T. armored van. All are killed.

CAPTAIN AND TENILLE

The captain goes bananas and shoots Donny and Marie Osmond. A jury decides it's "justifiable homicide".

YOU BET YOUR LIFE

A typical day in the life of any New Yorker.

SHOWCASE

A P.B.S. special. Tonight Steven Stills sings a collection of his hit songs including "Love the one you whip".

SATURDAY NIGHT DEAD

Chevy Chase returns, with a submachine gun.

Richard Caplan is a Collegian Commentator.

paul bradley

Dealing with the Duke

Governor Michael S. Dukakis is said to be on his way to UMass, ready to spend two glorious days getting the feel of this place that most of us call home.

It's no surprise that most of the arrangements thus far have been veiled in secrecy. The last time the Governor appeared before students here, he not only got the cold shoulder, but encountered some outright hostility as well.

Observers of that 1975 scene doubted with good reason whether the Governor would ever come to UMass again. He was the bringer of bad news then, and students did not appreciate his explanation of the state's financial blight.

The Governor has once more brought bad news to UMass. Dukakis, who is a crafty if unassuming politician, has said that UMass must live on its old budget. Level funding, he calls it.

His request has spurned many bad puns about not being on the level, and some legitimate concerns about the future of the University.

The point made by Chancellor Randolph Bromery that a university cannot withstand massive budget cuts, as well as other state agencies, is well taken. Continuity means a better school, and continuity requires money.

Over the past year, Dukakis has gained many sympathizers to his meat cleaver approach to government budgets. He is probably stronger politically now than he ever has been. Public cries to scale down the government — and the spectre of new taxes — has won the governor at least grudging support from many quarters.

Legislators too hear the cries. UMass, which once had a free hand with the legislature, may find that many of its former State House friends are no longer there.

The real problem is how to absorb pay raises negotiated over the summer by the State Workers Alliance, as the Governor has ordered all state agencies to do. If the pay hikes are absorbed, then there is no level funding at all. The loss of 600 to 700 jobs is not level funding.

Couple that with the new found power of the Massachusetts Society of Professors, and one has to wonder where all the money will come from. It can be expected that there will be no new taxes, if only to insure the political survival of the Governor and the legislators.

When the Duke does get here, we might do well to show him what the problems are without trying to shout him down. A shouting match is sure to bring the meat cleaver, because, I am told, the Governor takes those kinds of things to heart.

The students, like the politicians, must be ready to compromise. Because like it or not, state funded higher education is indeed a political issue.

Paul Bradley is a Collegian Columnist.

lisa melilli

The Male Ego

Allow me to introduce myself. I'm 5'3", blue eyes and brown hair, won't answer to cat calls, typical product of an all girls' Catholic high school and raised upon the principle that to get a man, a woman must play up to his ego. You know, take men the way they are — don't criticize their ways — even to yourself, because then you will behave "critically" and a guy's ego won't stand for that.

"That's the key, their ego," I can almost hear my mother saying many years ago. "Look for their good points and make a point to tell them about this and this only. Don't talk about yourself unless asked. Ask about them, and be 'free' with complimentary responses and actions; smile a lot."

But with my years of experience, all I can say is it's awfully hard to play up to a facade. A facade? — yep, because don't you see, that's all a male ego is, a facade.

Maybe because this past Monday was Valentine's Day I decided to write about this or because I met up with a crew of flirtatious men at a party this weekend. But, nonetheless, what I've got to say is quite simple. Men. Have a liberation of your own. Liberate yourself from your male ego for a while and you might find yourself (your male ego self) saturated with compliments after you've done it.

Liberation? — says the man in the back row. Yes, liberation. You see women have it hard. They have society telling them to be less than what they really are. Women need liberation. But men have it even harder. Men have society telling them to be stronger than what they are. They need liberation even more.

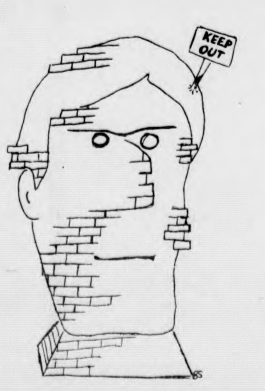
We all know what kind of people men are, or ought to be. Strong, virile, tall, nice hairy chests, won't cry, strong muscular shoulders. Play football anyone? Leaders all and degenerates. You know, getting high or drunk or both late at night or in between classes (if they go at all) since junior high. Want a lift? — ask a man for help. Locker room talks and high potency levels. All parts of this facade, this male ego.

Got an ear? But first make sure it's attached well. It may fall off as a man proves his masculinity.

But, underneath the hardness, the coolness, the impersonal voice is the need to be loved. But can't let that out. Must not or else the male ego will break. The Male Ego won't be refueled with compliments.

But gentlemen, here I am a woman and can I let you in on a well-guarded secret of life? Don't play the macho image or think you have to. Give yourself a break, a vacation. I know that underneath all this talk all this acting is a delicacy, a fragility that no one would refuse to pamper. Let it show.

Trying so hard to impress, to prove to himself that he's as good as he's trying to sound, as good as he ought to be being a male. Sometimes this listener may misconstrue and think herself less. Saturate the image, the insecurity with compliments, as my mom would say.



Recently my mother tried to tell me again how one gets a man. She's added a new line: "Forget about women's lib. Succumb to stereotypes. You act like guys are our enemies. NOT TRUE."

And I agree, men aren't our enemies. But men, keep up this stereotype act fulltime without ever breaking down and you become a threat, an enemy and no woman's ego will stand for it. She'll crack it herself if you keep it up long enough.

Life doesn't have to be a game all the time. And by being yourself, sincere and uncertain as you really are, the best game of life can be best enjoyed. Don't be afraid. No one will try to break you when you're soft, only when you're hard. I'm a woman. I know. Playing up to a man's ego is easy and natural when the facade is drawn down — even if it's just once.

Lisa Melilli is a Collegian Columnist.

Notices

AGAINST THE WALL AGAIN

Next Wed. at 7:30 p.m. the Student Senate is preparing to eliminate Resources Judaica (which is an RSO group funded to help promote Jewish awareness). Please come to room 407 of the SU to help us mobilize, or pass the word around next Wed.

ANTHROPOLOGY UNDERGRADS

Don't forget the MEETING tonight at 7:15 in Machmer W 17 or if you can't make it, tomorrow, Feb. 17 at 4 p.m. in Machmer W-15.

ASTRONOMY CLUB

Meeting tonight in Hasbrouck 22 at 7. We'll go to the observatory if clear.

ATTENTION NURSING STUDENTS

All nursing students are urged to attend the SNO meeting tomorrow, Thurs., Feb. 17 in CC 162 at noon.

A BEAUTIFUL POWERFUL EXPERIENCE

Classes M-F from 4-6 p.m. in Rm 917 of the Campus Center, Kundalini Yoga as taught by Yogi Bhajan. Call 256-8470 for information.

BUDDIST MEDITATION

Sitting meditation followed by study and discussion of Buddist psychology with students of Chogyam Trungpa, Rinpoche tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Rm 915 CC. For further info please call John Gorman at 549-5663.

CAMPUS SCOUTS

Come to a meeting tomorrow night at 7 p.m. in rm 178 CC. See you there!

CASIAC INFO

Student counselors will be staffing the Registrar's Office between 10-4 regularly throughout the semester.

GOOD HUMOR ELEVATOR

We're back again at 9. Be on any floor in Washington tower and enjoy Valentine Sundaes. Ask about the GHE Fan club Membership Cards!!

FOUND

Contact lenses in case, No. Village Parking lot. Call 549-6539.

JOURNEY: A MYTHICAL MUSICAL

Production meeting for JOURNEY will be held today, Feb. 16 at 5 p.m. at the BDIC conference room, Goodell Library. Production staff and anyone else interested in working on any aspect of the production are asked to attend.

JUGGLERS FIND THEMSELVES

Together tonight and every Wed. night, 7:30 first floor CC. You'll never have a better chance to learn this fine craft than in these free weekly workshop meetings.

LOST

Necklace — small gold rose on fine gold chain. Sentimental value. Reward. Call Kathy, 546-5860.

LOST

Blue Daypack. Left on Belchertown bus Friday, p.m., Feb. 11. Reward. Call Chris 6-5027 after 6 p.m.

LOST

Help! Yellow lg. size manilla envelope containing several term papers and a blue spiral plastic binder lost on Friday, Feb. 11. Desperate. Reward.

LOST

Keys on silver ring lost around Jan. 24. Copper clip and piece of leather on ring. If found please call Laurie at 256-0677.

MYSTICAL JEWISH CLASS

Tonight at 8 p.m. at the Chabad, 30 N. Hadley Rd. (near Prince Dorm, SW). Rabbi Deren conducts his continuing class in the mystical and spiritual philosophies in Judaism. All are welcome.

ROISTER DOISTER MEETING

There will be a meeting at 5:30 in CC 177 tonight. Elections for business manager and publicity co-ordinator will be held. All members, new and old, are urged to attend.

SAILING CLUB

We will be having a meeting on Tues., Feb. 22 at 7 in CC 801. We will be discussing plans for the upcoming trip to Florida over spring break and the regatta in early March.

SEARCHING FOR WRITERS

The Coalition of Alternative Agriculture and Self-sufficiency is soliciting interested person to convey their message — alternative energy, ecological farming, cooperative food production and service ad inifinitum. Current student interest research and rejuvenation of the abandoned university orchard. Apply your skills to a purpose. Credit is available. Contact SCER, 406 Student Union.

SPECTRUM MEETING

Important for all staff members to attend. New Personnel also welcomed. 6:30 tonight at 106 CC (by the Collegian).

STRATEGIC GAMES CLUB

Meeting Wed. 3-12 p.m. in 804-808 Campus Center. Thirty Years War and Napoleon. What's your fancy? New people welcome.

VIDEO SIDEWALK

Two videotapes shown on the CC Concourse. 11:30-2 p.m. this week. "The Irish Tapes" and "Twilight Cheat". Free as can be!

VOLUNTEERS WANTED

Mount Saint Vincent Nursing Home in Holyoke, Mass. is looking for volunteers to visit some of its residents. No special talent is required; our only requirements are that the volunteer have a warm heart, a talkative nature, and a soft touch. If interested please contact: Richard Rubin, Volunteer Director, Monday-Friday, 8-4:30. Thank you.

WILDLIFE SOCIETY

Jack Swedberg will speak on wildlife photo techniques tonight at 7 p.m. in CC 904. Refreshments. New members welcome.

WMUA NEWS MEETING

A meeting for all underpersons will be held tonight at 7 at WMUA Studios. All interested newspeople are invited to attend.

LOST

A silver key chain around NOPE and Dwight area, Mon. nite. REWARD. Please call Myrna, 6-6970 after 10 p.m.

Technical Students
Want summer, free lance, independent employment, higher money for your skills, send for Free brochure describing The Contract Engineering Handbook a necessity for all technical students.
MUTUAL PUBLICATIONS
102 Charles Street
Boston, Mass. 02114

Poor Richards
WEDNESDAY
50c DRINKS ALL NIGHT

SPECIAL
3 for 2
Cleaning Offer
Your Garments Receive The Same High Quality Drycleaning—Only The Price Is Lower ACT NOW
SEND 3 GARMENTS PAY FOR 2 GARMENTS GET 1 FREE!
SEND 6 GARMENTS PAY FOR 4 GET 2 CLEANED FREE
(Least Expensive Garment In Order Is The Free One All Suits Considered As One Garment)
Hurry! LIMITED TIME ONLY!
Braff's Royl Cleaners
103 N. Pleasant Street
(across from Louis's Foods)
430 Federal St., Greenfield 130 Main St., Greenfield 256-8288

THE PUB
THURSDAY
NEW FOR 1977
DOUBLE TIME
8:30 til 11
(Most Drinks & Beer TWO for ONE)
FEATURING
The Fabulous
FARQUAHR
2 SHOWS
$1.00 Cover with UMass I.D.
EATING & DRINKING
AMHERST

AMHERST Cinema
Amity St. 253-5426
Robert Altman's
"BREWSTER McCLOUD"
and
Roman Polanskis
"The Fearless Vampire Killers"
Vampire Killers 7:20
Brewster McCloud 9:00
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

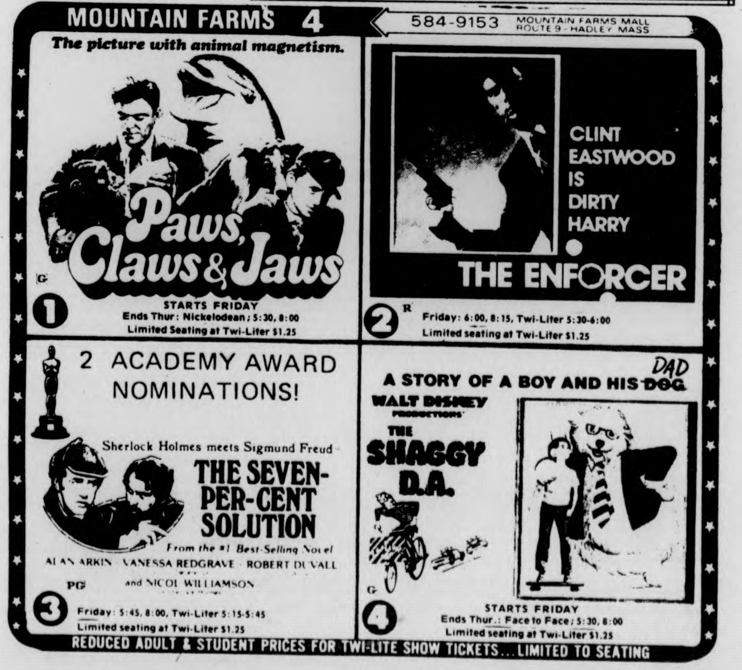
Work-Study position open for 1st or 2nd year Southwest resident at SW Women's Center. Responsibilities include: work with SW Feminist Curriculum Comm. organizing Dorm Workshop Program assisting with needs assessment of SW women.

Long term commitment preferred. Applications at Student Affairs Office, Washington Lobby, and S.W.W.C.

Last date for appl. Feb. 18.

roister doister drama society
presents
Flowers for Algernon
by David Rogers
February 11, 12, 13, 18 & 19
8:00 p.m.
Bowker Aud.
Stockbridge Hall UMass.
Tickets on sale now at Bowker Box Office
Reservations — 545-0783 — Information

He gave his soul to the sea and his heart to a woman. Their love will arouse you. The story will disturb you. The ending will startle you.
Sarah Miles
Kris Kristofferson
The sailor who fell from grace with the sea
Thurs. Feb.17, 7, 9, 11 $1.00 C.C.A.



MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 - HADLEY MASS
The picture with animal magnetism.
Paws, Claws & Jaws
G ① STARTS FRIDAY
Ends Thur: Nickelodean; 5:30, 8:00
Limited Seating at Twi-Liter $1.25
CLINT EASTWOOD IS DIRTY HARRY
THE ENFORCER
R ② Friday: 6:00, 8:15, Twi-Liter 5:30-6:00
Limited seating at Twi-Liter $1.25
2 ACADEMY AWARD NOMINATIONS!
Sherlock Holmes meets Sigmund Freud
THE SEVEN-PER-CENT SOLUTION
From the #1 Best-Selling Novel
ALAN ARKIN · VANESSA REDGRAVE · ROBERT DUVALL and NICOL WILLIAMSON
PG ③ Friday: 5:45, 8:00, Twi-Liter 5:15-5:45
Limited seating at Twi-Liter $1.25
A STORY OF A BOY AND HIS ~~DOG~~ DAD
WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS' THE SHAGGY D.A.
G ④ STARTS FRIDAY
Ends Thur.: Face to Face; 5:30, 8:00
Limited seating at Twi-Liter $1.25
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS... LIMITED TO SEATING university of massachusetts arts council

presents
PILOBOLUS
DANCE THEATER
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 26 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets now on sale! $5, 4, 3. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
The Intimate P.D.Q. BACH
with Professor Peter Shickele
SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 27 8 PM
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Tickets now on sale! $7, 6, 5. UM/A students - half price, senior citizens and other students $1 discount.
F.A.C. BOX OFFICE 545-2511 & Ticketron Locations

What's Happening

Agriculture coalition meeting tonight

The Coalition for Alternative Agriculture and Self-sufficiency is meeting tonight at 7:30 in Campus Center 917. The main purpose of the organization is to initiate a food cooperative system at UMass, providing students with the opportunity to get involved in the production of the food. The coalition needs people to get involved in publicity and fund raising activities, as well as people who are just interested in alternative agriculture and energy. Our goals are broad and flexible; we are looking for new people and ideas.

Photo appointments now being made

The photographer has arrived and appointments are filling up fast. Only people with appointments will be taken. Make yours now by calling 545-2874 or going to the 9th floor Campus Center. You won't regret being a part of your yearbook.

Draft violators' pardon not all-encompassing

By J. MICHAEL MURPHY JR.

Although President Carter's first official act after his inauguration was to announce a pardon for Vietnam-era draft resistors, it should be noted this pardon does not affect veterans or those liable to violations of military law; it covers only draft violations that occurred between August 4, 1964, and March 28, 1973. Violations involving "force or violence" were not pardoned nor were "related violations" of law, such as bail-jumping.

WMUA blood drive accepting donations

Those wishing to support the WMUA Blood Drive this week should make an appointment at the Campus Center Assistance desk any time today or tomorrow. Donations will be accepted at the UMass Blood Donor Center from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. today and tomorrow. The Center is on the ground floor of the UMass infirmary.

Articles sought for economics journal

The Undergraduate Economics Journal is looking for articles for its next issue. Articles are needed in areas such as women and Third-World issues, environmental problems and political economics.

Last semester's papers are welcome. DEADLINE: Feb. 18. A meeting will be held tonight at 7:30 in Thompson Hall to discuss editing and layout.

Presentation today on women in Vietnam

Cora Weiss, the first American to visit unified Vietnam, will speak and show slides in a presentation of "Women in Revolutionary Society," today at 4:30 p.m. in Mahar Auditorium. She will bring information from her most recent four-week visit to Vietnam. Her presentation will also be based on her experiences as the National Coordinator of Friendshipment, a people-to-people aid organization for Vietnam, and the liaison person for POW's and their families. Weiss

TURN TO PAGE 14

MAGIC, MUSIC, JUGGLING & COMEDY
FRIDAY FEB.25 8:30 p.m.
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
TICKETS $2.00 ADVANCE
$2.50 AT DOOR
AVAILABLE ON C.C. CONCOURSE

WHY DID THEY NAME A VEGETABLE AFTER A CULTURAL SOCIETY?

Coffee house
with
CHEAP TRILLS
traditional Irish tunes-swing-jazz
Wednesday, Feb. 16 8:30P.M.
Commuter Lounge (S.U.) admission $1.00
sponsored by PCMC with Earthfoods

MCAT LSAT
Classes offered in:
AMHERST!
Call or write us at
25 Huntington Ave.
Boston 02116
(617) 261-5150
or better yet call our local Rep!
Susan Taub
542-3392 after 2.
Also DAT. GMAT, GRE, SAT, OCAT VAT, National Medical Boards
Our 38th Year
Stanley H. KAPLAN
EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION
SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938
Branches in major US cities

AIR FORCE ROTC
The facts of the matter.
With something as important as your future being discussed, it's very urgent that you get and understand all the facts. Air Force ROTC can be an important part of your future, and we'd like to take this opportunity to outline some of the main facts of that matter and invite you to look further into the subject.
The U.S. Air Force needs highly qualified dedicated officers. Both men and women, and we need people in all kinds of educational disciplines. Air Force ROTC offers 4-year, 3-year and 2-year scholarships with $100 monthly tax-free allowance, and contrary to what some people think, there is no military obligation during the first two years of the Air Force ROTC.
Upon college graduation you'll receive a commission in the U.S. Air Force and the opportunity to compete for a challenging job with advanced educational opportunities.
Let's get together and discuss Air Force ROTC further. We'll give you all the facts and clear up the fictions. It could be one of the most important talks you've ever had with anyone.
Call Major Richardson at 545-2437
Air Force ROTC

MAKE IT EASY ON YOURSELF!
FILL OUT THIS SPEEDY
COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED AD FORM.

CUSTOMER INFORMATION NEEDED:

NAME:

ADDRESS:

DATE(S) AD TO RUN:

(MUST BE RECEIVED TWO -2- DAYS BEFORE PUBLICATION)

★ PAYMENT ENCLOSED:

TEL. NO.

CHECK HEADING WANTED:

FOR RENT WANTED FOR RENT ROOM WANTED ROOMMATE WANTED TO SUBLET LOST FOUND FREE
MISCELLANEOUS FOR SALE AUTO FOR SALE MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE PERSONAL SERVICES INSTRUCTIONS
RIDE WANTED RIDERS WANTED WANTED HELP WANTED ENTERTAINMENT TYPING

PLEASE INSERT ONE CHARACTER, SPACE, OR PUNCTUATION MARK PER BOX

COST: If your Classified Ad Is:

★ To run less than a week: 40' for each two (2) lines above, multiplied by the number of days ad's to run.

★ To run one week, but less than a month 35' for each two (2) lines above, multiplied by the number of days ad's to run.

★ To run for a month or longer, 25' for each two (2) lines above, multiplied by the number of days the ad's to run.

★ NOTE: Ad content must meet Collegian policy.

RETURN ★ WITH PAYMENT ★ TO THE COLLEGIAN
VIA CAMPUS MAIL - REG. MAIL - OR IN PERSON!

IF YOU NEED MORE SPACE FOR YOUR AD,
PLEASE COME TO THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE FOR ASSISTANCE!

Everbody's Market Place

CLASSIFIED ADS

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8 30a m and 3 45p m Monday thru Friday The deadline is 3 45p m. two days before your ad is to appear

The rates are
Daily · 40' per line
Weekly · 35' per line
Monthly · 25' per line
(two lines on MDC form approximate one line)

IF YOU CAN'T COME TO THE OFFICE, CLIP OUT AND MAIL OUR 'SPEEDY CLASSIFIED AD FORM'

FOR SALE

Refrig. 5 cu. ft. Ex. cond. $100 549-1391.

F slalom ski outfit & nvy Hd jack., sz. 10. 665-4188.

Gift Idea: Have your portrait drawn. Call Dennis Delap, 256-8732.

New ski boots. Italian imports, polyurethane with flo-form linings. Most sizes, $35. After ski boots, $25. Call Sue 256-8641 evenings 7:00-10:30.

FOR SALE

4.5 cu. ft. refrigerator. $80. Pr. Frye boots, $25, sz. 8½m. Mike 253-9034.

1 pr. of men's Bauer hockey skates, size 10. Call 6-8960.

Sony TC-124 portab cassette with AC adaptor for home, stereo mike $45; Caber ski boots, men's size 10, never used, $40; San Marco women's ski boots, size 6, never used, $45. 253-7125.

Ski boots, sz. 8½, ex. cond. $50. 549-1879.

Minolta SRT 101, ex. cond., $150 w case 6-4441.

Guitar Yamaha F160. Eves. 665-2563.

8 trk. car stereo with F.F., F.T. Rep & 2 200Z. 6x9's. 527-2804.

1976 CZ400 factory moto-xer, mint, 3½ hours total time, $2000 invested, sell for $1100. Call 247-9431.

Yamaha FG-180, Guitar $125 or B.O. Call Daniel 3-7 p.m. 253-3887.

AUTO FOR SALE

'72 Toy Corolla 1600, 4 dr., snow tires, very gd. cond. $1200. 586-1370 aft. 6.

'68 Rmblr, 25 mpg, runs great, body gd., new tires, well mntaind. 617-544-3779 aft. 8 or 546-6558 aft. 8. Lv. Mssge. $700 negot.

Datsun 510, '71, Vgd. cond., radials. Call 586-1177 evenings. $950. Keep trying.

VW, engine exc. $150 or B.O. 532-1380.

AUTO FOR SALE

'68 Ford, gd. transp., body gd. $100 or B.O. Dave 6-9416.

'66 VW Bug, runs well, bd. fair. 549-6951.

Jeep Wagoneer, 1968, very good condition. Has a class 3 hitch. $1600. Call 247-9431.

'68 Catalina, hi mi. but runs well and reliable. $350. Peter Dwight 224. 5-2304.

'67 Dodge Step Van, body sound, runs well. $1000. 268-7913 after 5. Keep trying.

ROOMMATE WANTED

1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. apt. for lease. $125—mo., utilities inc. Call 665-4235. Sunderland (female).

Own room, $100 + util. M or F, on busline. Furn. Call 665-3493.

Own room. Share mod. apt. w fml senior. $125 incl. util., sec. dep. Lease. A-cond. 549-1741 or 549-1352.

F roommate-own room in 3 bdroom house near Amh. Center and bus rt. $100 mo. Call after 6 p.m., 253-9640.

Roommate own room, $74 rent, $25 and utils. Sec. dep. w 2 oth. Guys Rvrgld. Bus Rte. Rich 253-3690 Mssg.

Male to share 2½ rm. apt. share lg. bedroom, stove, refrig., Cbl. T.V. furnished. Lease to 5-31 $110 mo. Call 546-4177.

Sunderland — Co-op house. $85 incl. util., wood & oil heat. Close to bus — Room. 665-4854. Michael.

FOR RENT

Hatfield — 1 rm. · $75; 1 rm. · $90 mo. 247-5527.

University Women: Close to campus sorority is taking boarders. Great food. Call Liz or Dawn at 253-9215.

WANTED

Wanted: One hockey goalie. If you want to play Tues. night in Greenfield, call 6-6154 or 6-6143.

RIDE WANTED

Ride wanted to Genesis Concert or Boston Thurs., Feb. 24. Will pay $. 6-8394.

TO SUBLET

To sublet 2 bedroom Riverglade. $220 month. Call 253-2795 or 253-9866.

HELP WANTED

Alan Goldberg Tennis Pro needs assistant pro for part time summer employment. Teaching exp. required. Call nites 253-3683.

International women's week needs people power for publicity committee and children's programming! For more info. call Irene 545-3600.

Male voluntrs. w normal color vision for psych experiment at Mt. Holyoke. 1½ hrs. of time required. Rosemary 538-2203 immediately.

LOST

Lost — 1 aquamarine (blue) birthstone, square shape in gold setting. Any info please call 546-9620. Reward.

INSTRUCTION

Low cost indoor tennis lessons. Individuals or groups, 253-7971.

PERSONALS

Astrology: Humanistic charts & readings. Member American Council of Astrologers. Louis Neubel 549-6425.

For Rent: 3 bedroom apartment, wall to wall carpeting, dishwasher, air conditioning. On UMass bus route — five minutes from campus. Will rent for months of June, July, August, with option for following semester. Call 256-6205, evenings.

Harunk. For every year you are today, have a G & G on us today! Happy B-day!

Michelle M. Get well soon; the camera-readys are piling up! Collegian Bus. Office.

To: The Wren Hi Q.T. "The Stef loves the Wren". Always remember that. Love, "The Stef".

B.S. Sorry it's late. Stanley Kowolski, you are T.B. Happy (late) V. Day. Love, Stella K. alias Sarah Miles.

To KAR — Have a nice day. Love "Babes."

SERVICES

Valley Typing — Expert typists & proof readers. Rush jobs, IBM Selectrics. Call 256-6736.

Pregnant & need help? Feel alone & scared? Someone cares. Help is just a phone call away. Free pregnancy testing & other services are confidential. BIRTHRIGHT 732-6104. Non-profit & non-denominational organization.

Job and application photos done. Exp. with art portfolio slides. Portraits for your Valentine. Contact: Steven at 546-9653 for an appt.

TYPING

Typing — Reasonable rates — Dissertations, resumes, papers, etc. 549-6772.

AUDIO

Quality audio components — over 130 lines including high—end; good advice, reasonable prices. Call Peter 665-2920.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators has low prices! All T. I. warr by me for 1 yr. SR-52 $199.95; SR-56 $84.95 ($10 rebate off this pr.); SR-40 $34.95, bus anal $34.95 — All HP's avail. HP-67 $389.95. Call and check our PR's. Call Bob Or Linda 549-1316!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

TRAVEL

Europe '77. No frills, student, teacher, charter flights — Global Travel, 521 5th Ave., N. Y., N. Y. 10017. 212-379-3532. Group rates.

What's Happening

CONT. FROM PAGE 13

is a leader in Women Strike for Peace and has visited Cuba and other revolutionary societies as well as Vietnam.

A potluck supper will be held in Farley Lodge after the presentation. The visit of Cora Weiss to this campus is sponsored by the Legal Studies and Women's Studies Programs.

Music ensemble to perform in FAC

The UMass Department of Music and Dance will present its contemporary music ensemble, "The Group for New Music," in the Bezanson Recital Hall at the Fine Arts Center today at 8 p.m.

Codirected by music faculty members Wayne Abercrombie and Robert Stern, the Group will perform a variety of chamber works written by leading 20th century composers and also by faculty and students of the department. The concert is open to the public free of charge.

Russian linguists sought as escorts

The Citizen Exchange Corps, a nonprofit and non-political organization, is looking for faculty and students who are fluent in Russian and-or East European languages to escort our person to person exchange groups to these countries.

If interested, call (617) 742-0105 or send your resume to 145 Hanover Street, Boston, MA, 02108.

Food stamp worker taking applications

Patricia Lemon, food stamp outreach worker for the Franklin Community Action Corporation, will be at the Shelburne Falls Cowell Gymnasium from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and the Charlemont Town Hall from 2 to 4 p.m. today to accept food stamp applications, recertifications, and to answer inquiries.

The Franklin Community Action Corporation is a private organization funded by various government grants.

Coolidge sponsors health workshop

There will be a four-part "Women's Health" workshop series for Third World and other interested women. The workshops will include: women's health, contraception, mental health, and alcohol (drug abuse).

The first part of the workshop series will be Feb. 22 at 8 p.m., 19th floor Coolidge on womens health. Areas covered include pap test, and self-breast examinations. The discussion will explore the hows and whys of the various medical procedures. The presentation will be supplemented with audio-visual aids.

Come and join us. This is where you will have an opportunity to have some of your questions answered.

Charter flights guide is now available

The Council on International Educational Exchange (CIEE) has announced the publication of "The 1977 Charter Flights Guide", listing more than 150 flights to Paris, Amsterdam and London.

This guide includes charters designed and operated by CIEE especially for students, teachers and University staff, enabling them to travel abroad for part or all of their summer vacation or to spend a full semester or sabbatical year abroad. Summer round trips range in length from four to 12 weeks, while the academic year flights extend from four to 12 months.

Information and applications for the CIEE charter flights are available at the International Programs Office, 239 Whitmore.

DC menu

TODAY

LUNCH — Grilled cheese, lazy Golompki; Basics: California Quiche, Grilled Cheese.

DINNER — Beef Pot Roast with Jardinere Sauce, Swiss Turkey Sandwich; Basics: Swiss Turkey Sandwich, Soybean Loaf.

TOMORROW

LUNCH — SPECIAL: Grinders by the Inch, Fish Cones; Basics: Veg. Grinders by the Inch, Fish Cones.

DINNER — Baked Ham, Spaghetti with Meatballs; Basics: Baked Fish, Whole Wheat Spaghetti with Tomato Sauce.

Artist to lecture on ice sculpturing

Canole, artist in residence at Butterfield House, will give an introductory lecture on ice sculpturing tonight at 8:00 in Campus Center 162.

Canole will be creating a sculpture a day until the end of the semester. The first series of sculptures will see Canole using snowballs, icicles, ice and snow blocks on the human body.

There will be a photo documentary of Canole's residency here as well as his past work at the Fine Arts Gallery, March 8 to 18.

Feb. 17 — Thurs. — 8 p.m.
"DEMOCRACY
and the Struggle for SOCIALISM"
Profs. Herb Gintis
and Sam Bowles
Thompson Hall, Rm. 104
UMass.
Sponsor:
SOCIALIST EDUCATION COMM.
(Graduate Economics Students - UMass)

ARE YOU RENTING ?
ARE YOUR CONTENTS INSURED?

IF NOT, CONTACT TOM LYONS
AT LYONS INSURANCE IN
NORTHAMPTOM FOR A LOW COST
RENTOR'S PACKAGE POLICY 584-1998

Open Rush
at
Kappa Sigma
Wed. Feb 16 at 8:00
and
Thurs. Feb 17 at 9:00
See for yourself
what fraternity life
is all about.
'The only fraternity on campus.'

APPEARING
TUES AND WED
DOC WATSON
THURS-SUN
MITCH CHAKOUR
AT
The rusty nail Inn
RTE 47
SUNDERLAND
665-4937

THE TRY-SKIING PACKAGE $9.85

A simple starter kit that includes everything you need – skiis, boots, poles, beginner's slope lift ticket and a two-hour ski lesson with an experienced Mt. Tom instructor. Our Try Skiing Package is for beginners only and is available Saturday and Sunday nights starting at 7:00 p.m. and Monday and Tuesday mornings starting at 9:30 a.m. (Not available during holiday periods). Skiing is Fun. This package is easy and cheap.
Make this your winter to try skiing!
For Further Info Please Give Us A Call

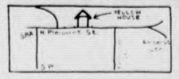
Mt. TOM
Ski Area Holyoke
when you're up for some fun!
Rte. 5
Tel. 536-0416

Listen for the latest Mt. Tom Ski Reports daily on WHYN-AM, Monday thru Saturday at 7:45 a.m.

DON'T READ THIS...
UNLESS YOU WANT TO FIND OUT MORE ABOUT UMASS' ONE and ONLY CO-ED FRATERNITY
Sigma Alpha Mu (ΣAM)
395 N. Pleasent St.

ΣAM is a unique house. The brothers and sisters are as different as their names. Our interests are varied but the good times are plentiful. Home-cooked meals . . . a place to be a part of.

Come Visit and Judge For Yourself
— REFRESHMENTS SERVED! —
FEB. 15, 16 8:PM →



FOR RIDES + INFO
545-0845

FOR RIDES + INFO
545-0845

THE HUNGRY-U
PIZZAS & SUBS
"We Deliver"
call
256-0473
103 N. Pleasant St.

FREE CHEESECAKE & SODA
with purchase of Large Combination Pizza
FREE SODA WITH A SMALL PIZZA
Offer Good Mon. 2-14 - Fri. 2-18
DELIVERIES ONLY

J15 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Gallon Jug Stop & Shop Bleach 29¢
Good thru Sat., Feb. 19. Limit one jug per customer 265
Grocery

J21 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Ajax Laundry Detergent 49 oz. box 79¢
Good thru Sat., Feb. 19. Limit one box per customer 271
Grocery

J17 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Free! 20 oz. loaf Big Daisy Sliced White Bread
Good thru Sat., Feb. 19. Limit one loaf per customer 267
Bakery

J20 With this coupon
SAVE $1.00 on Film Processing
on any roll or cartridge of Kodacolor C-110, C-126, 127, 620 or 35mm prints brought in to be developed before Feb. 26, 1977. Coupon expires March 12, 1977.
Limit one roll per customer 270
Kodak paper. For a good look at the times of your life.

J19 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Stop & Shop Salad Dressing 32 oz. Jar 59¢
Good thru Sat., Feb. 19. Limit one jar per customer 269
Grocery

J22 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Stop & Shop ½ Gal. Natural Ice Cream Asst. Flavors 89¢
Good thru Sat., Feb. 19. Limit one ctn. per customer 272
Frozen

dairy We make sure these are good and fresh
Breyers Yogurt All Natural Asst. Flavors 3 8 oz. cups 89¢
Tropicana Orange Juice 39¢
Stop & Shop Premium 1 lb. package
Margarine ¼ lb. sticks 39¢
Hood Cottage Cheese $1.29
Pillsbury Crescent Rolls 39¢

"I love my job in the bakery department at 'my store'."

"We can almost tell who's coming in at 10 minutes to 10, or who will be here at 9:30. You have rather close relationships with your customers, and mine tell me how much their families like our baked goods.

"I know why. Because our baked goods are always so nice and fresh. And because of what we put into them at the Stop & Shop Bakery. Only the best vegetable shortening, fresh butter, eggs, fruit, nuts, honey—the same kind of ingredients little family bakeries use. For our Jewish friends, it won't be long 'til all Stop & Shop baked goods are Kosher.* Look for the Kosher symbol on our packages.

"When you stop by the bakery department at my store, it's like going shopping in your little neighborhood bakeshop ... except our prices are lower."
Lil De Chesser
Bakery Dept.
West Hartford Stop & Shop

bakery Rushed from our own ovens ... quality baked goods.
Stop & Shop Daisy Donuts Plain or Sugar Good eating... 2 11½ oz. pkgs. of 12 $1
Blueberry Muffins 65¢
Stop & Shop Fudge Cake 99¢
Stop & Shop Cherry Pie 22 oz. pkg. 99¢
Chocolate Eclair Pie 89¢
Valentine Cupcakes 89¢
Stop & Shop Sandwich Rolls Lunch time treat ... great with our own ground beef! 3 12 oz. pkg. of 8 $1

Frozen Stock your freezer with these delicious foods!
Stop & Shop French Fries Regular or Crinkle Cut 3 16 oz. boxes 89¢
Boston Bonnie Donuts 49¢
Jeno's Pizza Snack Tray 99¢
LaChoy Egg Rolls 69¢
Chicken Chow Mein 89¢
Lender's – Plain or Onion Bagelettes 11 oz. pkg. 69¢
Chinese Vegetables 59¢
Fried Shrimp Taste O Sea 6 oz. pkg. $1.19
Morton Donuts Family Pack Glazed 12 oz. package 89¢
Mrs. Smith's Apple Pie 26 oz. pkg. 79¢
Rhodes Bread Dough 5 lb. pkg. $1.19
Louise's Round Ravioli 13 oz. pkg. 89¢
Sara Lee Dessert Cake 99¢
Banana, Chocolate, Orange or Devils Food
Rich's Coffee Rich 4 16 oz. ctns. $1

health & beauty aids Add these family needs to your list, and save!
Crest Toothpaste Regular or Mint 7 oz. tube 89¢
Bufferin 100 ct. Bottle 99¢

ONE OF THE STOP & SHOP COMPANIES
Stop & Shop SUPERMARKETS
It's 'my store' to more people...
Because you have a choice of over 150 Stop & Shop baked goods.

Stop & Shop "Big Eye" Pork Sale!
big eye pork Center Cut Pork Chops or Roast $1.39 lb
You'll easily see the quality difference in the larger, meatier eye on Stop & Shop pork chops.
Pork Loin Roast Rib Portion 89¢ lb
Assorted Pork Chops ⅓ Center Chops ⅓ Sirloin Chops ⅓ Blade Chops $1.09 lb
Countrystyle Pork Ribs Loin $1.09 lb

"Quality Protected" Stop & Shop "Great Beef"
Chuck Roast Boneless $1.09 lb
M-m-m, roast beef for Sunday dinner. This will make a flavorful pot roast, simmer long and slowly 'til fork tender. Great eating . . . good price, too!
Stop & Shop GREAT BEEF Quality Protected USDA CHOICE
Chuck Cube Steak $1.49 lb
Stewing Beef Beef Chuck $1.29 lb
Boneless Blade Steak Beef Chuck $1.49 lb

Smoked Pork Shoulder Roll $1.19 lb
Water Added
Ideal for a boiled dinner for a small family. Use your favorite receipe . . . and enjoy!

produce The freshest of the fresh!
MUSHROOMS SNOW WHITE 12 oz. pkg. 99¢
Arizona Tangerines 135 Size 12 for 69¢
3 lb. bag McIntosh Apples U.S. #1 2¼" min. 79¢
Idaho Potatoes A size US #1 5 lb bag 79¢
Sunkist Lemons Jumbo 75 Size 8 for $1
Celery Hearts California pkg 69¢
Marmalade Fancy Fruit Farms Orange - 14 oz. jar 59¢

self service deli Great meats for every meal!
1 lb pkg Stop & Shop Beef Franks Hot Dogs or Extra Mild Franks 79¢
Swift Premium Beef Franks 1 lb pkg 89¢
Swift Premium Meat Franks 1 lb pkg 89¢
Schickhaus Beef Franks 1 lb pkg 99¢
Brown & Serve Sausage Frozen 79¢
Swift Premium - 8 oz. package
Sizzlean Breakfast Strips $1.29
Swift Premium - 12 oz. package
Corned Beef Brisket per lb $1.69
Swift Premium - for oven roasting
Bologna or Salami Morrison & Schiff 12 oz. roll $1.09
Stop & Shop Cold Cuts 1 lb pkg 99¢
Bologna, P&P or Spiced Luncheon Loaf

corner deli All meats are sliced fresh to your order. Available at stores with Service Deli.
Stop & Shop – Cooked Corned Beef Brisket Qtr. lb. 79¢
Stop & Shop Baked Ham Qtr. lb. 79¢
Potato Salad Stop & Shop Reg. or Oil & Vinegar per lb 49¢
Stop & Shop Tuna Salad per lb $1.69
Deutschmacher Bologna Lunch time sandwich fixings. $1.09 lb.
Deutschmacher Liverwurst per lb 99¢
Gem Polish Style Loaf lb $1.09
White American Cheese per lb $1.49
Mini Sahara Bread 8 oz. pkg 59¢

Stop & Shop kitchen
Fresh Cheese Pizza Large 1 lb. size 99¢

seafood Enjoy light, delicate fish. Low in calories.
Pollock Frozen Fillets 79¢ lb.
Smoked Cod Fillets Frozen per lb $1.39
Cooked Shrimp Stop & Shop - Frozen Extra Large 8 oz pkg $2.69
3 lb. Box Squid Calamari Frozen $1.49
Cooked Fish & Chips Stop & Shop 2 lb. pkg frozen $1.79

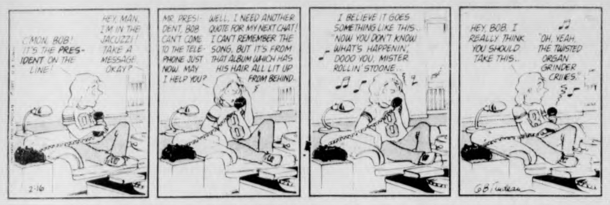
J23 With this coupon
Save 40¢ on Fresh Chicken Pie Large 24 oz. size 273
Good thru Sat., Feb. 19. Limit one pkg. per customer
Meat

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

Doonesbury by Garry Trudeau

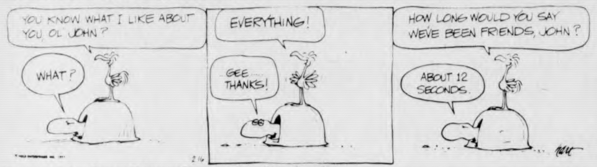
sponsored by

Valley
23 S. Pleasant St.
Tel. 256 6736
M-F 10-6 S 10-2



C'MON, BOB! IT'S THE PRESIDENT ON THE LINE!
HEY, MAN, I'M IN THE JACUZZI! TAKE A MESSAGE, OKAY?
MR. PRESIDENT, BOB CAN'T COME TO THE TELEPHONE JUST NOW. MAY I HELP YOU?
WELL, I NEED ANOTHER QUOTE FOR MY NEXT CHAT! I CAN'T REMEMBER THE SONG, BUT IT'S FROM THAT ALBUM WHICH HAS HIS HAIR ALL LIT UP FROM BEHIND.
I BELIEVE IT GOES SOMETHING LIKE THIS... "NOW YOU DON'T KNOW WHAT'S HAPPENIN', DOOO YOU, MISTER ROLLIN' STOONE..."
HEY, BOB. I REALLY THINK YOU SHOULD TAKE THIS..
"OH, YEAH, THE TWISTED ORGAN GRINDER CRIIES."
2-16
GBTrudeau

B.C. by Johnny Hart

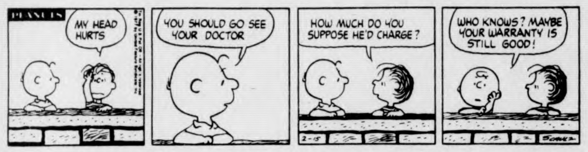


YOU KNOW WHAT I LIKE ABOUT YOU, OL' JOHN?
WHAT?
EVERYTHING!
...GEE... THANKS!
HOW LONG WOULD YOU SAY WE'VE BEEN FRIENDS, JOHN?
ABOUT 12 SECONDS.
2-16
hart

Peanuts by Charles M. Schulz

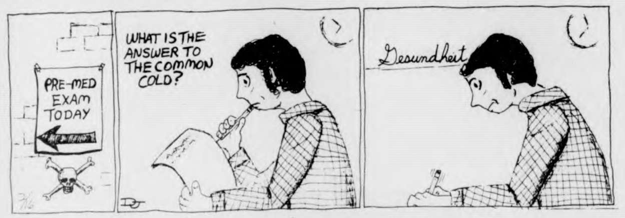
STYLES BY DEBORAH
PERSONAL STYLE CUT $5.00
TELE 549 5610

sponsored by



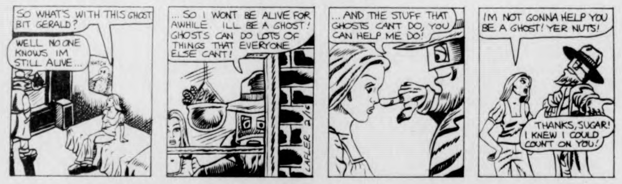
PEANUTS
MY HEAD HURTS
YOU SHOULD GO SEE YOUR DOCTOR
HOW MUCH DO YOU SUPPOSE HE'D CHARGE?
WHO KNOWS? MAYBE YOUR WARRANTY IS STILL GOOD!
2-15
SCHULZ

What Next? by Dick Janssen



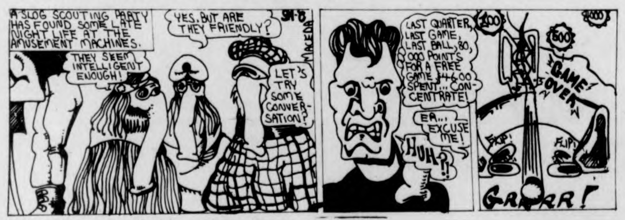
PRE-MED EXAM TODAY
WHAT IS THE ANSWER TO THE COMMON COLD?
Gesundheit
2/16
DJ

Aluminum Ghost by Steve Lafler



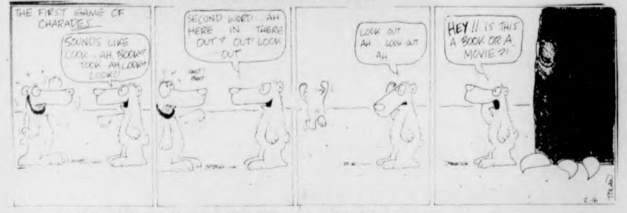
SO WHAT'S WITH THIS GHOST BIT GERALD?
WELL NO ONE KNOWS IM STILL ALIVE...
...SO I WONT BE ALIVE FOR AWHILE. ILL BE A GHOST! GHOSTS CAN DO LOTS OF THINGS THAT EVERYONE ELSE CANT!
LAFLER 2/16
...AND THE STUFF THAT GHOSTS CANT DO, YOU CAN HELP ME DO!
IM NOT GONNA HELP YOU BE A GHOST! YER NUTS!
THANKS, SUGAR! I KNEW I COULD COUNT ON YOU!

U.Mutations by Marty Maceda



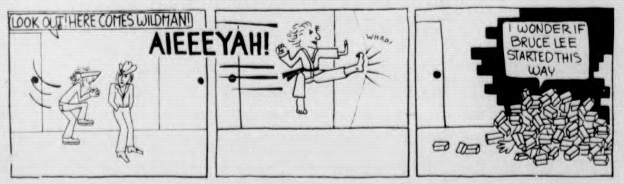
A SLOG SCOUTING PARTY HAS FOUND SOME LATE NIGHT LIFE AT THE AMUSEMENT MACHINES.
YES, BUT ARE THEY FRIENDLY?
THEY SEEM INTELLIGENT ENOUGH!
LET'S TRY SOME CONVERSATION?
MACEDA
LAST QUARTER, LAST GAME, LAST BALL, 80,000 POINTS FOR A FREE GAME, $46.00 SPENT... CONCENTRATE!
ER... EXCUSE ME!
HUH?!
GAME OVER
FLIP!
FLIP!
GRRRR!

The Scent of Man by Peter Tolan



THE FIRST GAME OF CHARADES
SOUNDS LIKE COOK... AH, BOOK? TOOK AH, LOOK? LOOK!!
PANT! PANT
SECOND WORD... AH HERE IN THERE OUT? OUT! LOOK OUT
LOOK OUT AH... LOOK OUT AH
HEY!! IS THIS A BOOK OR A MOVIE?!
2-16
TOLAN

The 210 Club by Marks and O'Connell



LOOK OUT! HERE COMES WILDMAN!
AIEEEYAH!
WHAP!
I WONDER IF BRUCE LEE STARTED THIS WAY

Local Television

8:00 3 MONTE CARLO CIRCUS
8 40 WONDER WOMAN "Wonder Woman in Hollywood"
22 30 GRIZZLY ADAMS "Blood Brothers"
32 BOSTON CELTICS BASKETBALL
57 NOVA "Hunters Of The Seal"
9:00 3 CBS WEDNESDAY NIGHT MOVIE "A Man Called Horse"
8 40 BARETTA "The Runaways"
22 30 CPO SHARKEY "Rodriguez And His Mamacita"
24 MEETING OF THE MINDS
38 MOVIE "Crash Dive"
57 GREAT PERFORMANCES "Childhood"
9:30 18 THE PTL CLUB
22 30 THE McLEAN STEVENSON SHOW "What Makes Mac Run"
27 SERGEANT BILKO "Reunion"
10:00 8 40 CHARLIE'S ANGEL "Murder On Ward One"
22 30 TALES OF THE UNEXPECTED "Devil Pack"
24 GREAT PERFORMANCES "Childhood"
27 NEWS
56 LOVE, AMERICAN STYLE
57 ROCK SONATA FOR PIANO AND AMPLIFIED CELLO
10:30 27 BIG MONEY
57 BOOK BEAT
11:00 3 8 22 24 30 40 NEWS
27 MOVIE "Target Zerro"
38 THE HONEYMOONERS "The Worry Wart"

56 DARK SHADOWS
57 MARY HARTMAN, MARY HARTMAN
11:30 3 CBS LATE MOVIE "The FBI Versus Alvin Karpis, Public Enemy Number One"

Your Birthday By Stella Wilder

Wednesday, February 16— Born today, you have excellent taste in all things, but most particularly in your choice of companions. You never choose a friend whose principles clash with yours -- and should you discover with the passage of time that a friend's principles have changed, that his behavior or the behavior he tolerates in others is not what it once was, you are not adverse to terminating the relationship. You believe in love and loyalty and will live by your belief in them -- but only to the point where to continue to do is to compromise your own principles to such an extent that you can garner nothing but personal unhappiness.

You are an excellent critic of the times. Indeed, you can almost sniff which way the political, economical, and social winds are blowing. You would, it should go without saying, make an excellent public servant -- but whether such a life would suit your need for periods of isolation from others is another question. There are times when you almost desperately need to be alone to court, consider and perhaps to nurse your own thoughts. Should such times be denied over any lengthy period, you would suffer from great spiritual restlessness and very possibly be unable to perform your duties and responsibilities.

You are advised to employ caution in affairs of the heart, for you are an intensely emotional individual and quite inclined to be carried away by the attachment of the moment.

* * *

Thursday, February 17

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Take care that your reputation for having a fiery temperament doesn't spoil a chance for advancement. Control your emotions.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Family ties may cause some distress today as you try to fit more into the available time than is possible.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Take care not to speculate with money that does not belong to you. You may ruin what could be a fine relationship if you do.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — You would do well to stand on the sidelines today -- quietly. Others can take the chances you thought were up to you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Guard your own interests on the employment scene. New employees may not be as generous as you are; protect your own advancement.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Your one-track mind may cause you difficulties in the late afternoon as a number of issues cry out for attention.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — A happy morning filled with the kinds of contacts you had hoped for. Employment-scene possibilities broaden with each passing hour.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — This may well be a chaotic day for the Virgo who fails to take things into his own hands on the home front. Confront problems bravely.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — A lazy, easy-going exterior may well hide an intensely emotional nature. Look beneath the surface when dealing with a friend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — With more than one activity scheduled for every time slot today, you may well fall into bed exhausted. Gains should prove worth it, however.

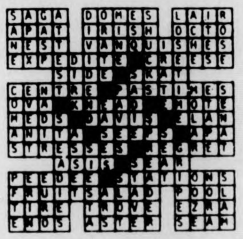
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Impress upon another your enthusiasm for a suggested activity and you may be able to become profitably involved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Reactions and responses are such today that there may be adverse criticism of you in the offing. Be prepared to rebut fault-finding.

Copyright 1977 United Feature Syndicate Inc.

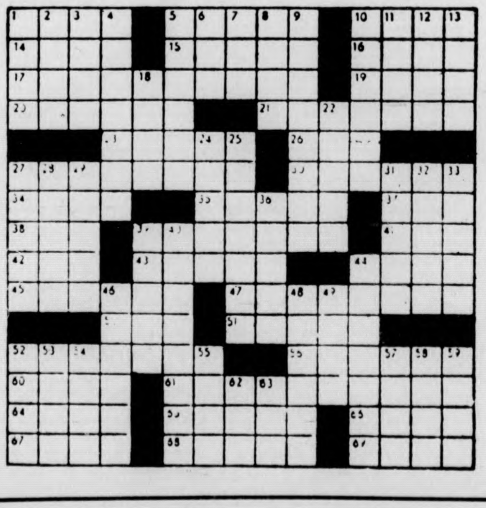
Today's Crossword

ACROSS
1 Whetstone
5 Drums cymbals etc
10 Tolerably
14 Winglike
15 Oppose authority
16 Stratagem
17 Furnish new inhabitants
19 Customary function
20 Written in verse
21 ------- Folly Alaska
23 Resisting motion
26 Animal s foot
27 Eurasian waterbody 2 words
30 Isolated land mass
34 Latvian city
35 Kind of germ informal
37 --- blimey' Brit oath
38 Adjective suffix
39 Vacillates
41 Palm leaf Var
42 Chemical suffix
43 Place in a grave
44 Tatter
45 Recited again
47 Moscow natives
50 Peggy or Pinky
51 Taper a timber
52 Apple
56 Subordinate
60 Melody
61 Akron product 2 words
64 Milk Prefix
65 Transgression
66 Citrus drinks
67 Animal joint
68 College officials
69 Exchange membership



SAGA DOMES LAIR
APAT IRISH OCTO
NEST VANQUISHES
EXPEDITE CREESE
STIDE SKAT
CENTRE PASTIMES
OVA KNEAD EMOTE
WEDS DAVIS ELAN
ANITA SEEPS APA
STRESSES NEGRET
ASIS SEAN
PEEDEE STATIONS
FRUITSALAD POOL
TIRE TROVE EZRA
ENDS ASTER SEAM

DOWN
1 Instrument
2 Oil Prefix
3 Scruff
4 Love poetry
5 Peace agreements
6 Reluctance unit
7 Attys group
8 Fits of anger
9 More drowsy
10 Develop irregularly
11 Swan genus
12 Delivered for money
13 Town-crier's call
18 ---- lemonade
22 Insects
24 Position differently
25 Reduces to shreds
27 Prickly shrub
28 Climbing vine Var
29 Lace end
31 Greek assembly
32 Actor Lloyd -----
33 Carts
36 TV filler
39 Floor pieces
40 Made beloved
44 Celebrations
46 Ester of Oleic acid
48 Nestegg amassers
49 Pole used as a mast
52 Go on foot
53 Asian country
54 Attractive
55 Clean
57 Team
58 Field of study
59 For fear that
62 Garment informal
3 Good French



Finast SUPERMARKETS

Values from Meat Street U.S.A.!

Miracle Whip Salad Dressing
Kraft quart jar 68¢
With this coupon & purchase of $7.50 or more. Limit one. Valid February 13-19 H-696
Finast FN

Fab Laundry Detergent
49 oz pkg 88¢
With this coupon & purchase of $7.50 or more. Limit one. Valid February 13-19 H-695
Finast FN

Campbells Pork & Beans
Stock-up & Save! 4 16 oz cans 99¢

Chunk Light Tuna
Richmond 6½ oz can 48¢

Green Giant French Style Green Beans or Cream Style & Whole Kernel Sweet Corn 3 17 oz cans $1

Finast Ketchup
Stock-up & Save! 3 14 oz btls $1

Beer and Wine Shoppe!
Beer case of 24-12 oz cans
Budweiser case only 5.99
Bock Beer Pabst Blue Ribbon While supply lasts case 24 12 oz btls 5.99
Lasalle Rosé Wine.... 24 oz btl 1.99
Labrusca Henri Marchant .... 24 oz btl 1.99
Wines Almaden Mountain Chablis Sauterne and Nectar Rose ... magnum 3.99
Folonari Wines Valpolicella, Lambrusco, Bardolina ... 67 oz btl 3.69
Available only in Finast of Hadley

Fresh or Smoked Pork Shoulders
Arm Picnic Water Added 68¢ lb

Finast Value Trim is Your Value!

Finast Welcomes FOOD STAMP CUSTOMERS

Center Cut Pork Chops
Tender, flavorful Bone In 1.38 lb

Hip & Center Cut Chops Bone-In
Assorted Pork Chops 1.08 lb
Pork Loin Rib End
Country Style Pork Ribs 1.08 lb
Fresh Pork Butt
Boneless Pork Roasts 1.08 lb
Tender, flavorful, Bone-In Fresh Pork Blade Steaks 1.18 lb
Frozen Tender
Young Ducklings 88¢ lb
Fresh Roasting Chickens
Perdue Oven Stuffers 68¢ lb
Hygrade Big Value From Meat Street U.S.A.
1-lb All Beef Franks 1 lb pkg 65¢

Pork Kabobs Boneless Fresh (Pork Butt) . lb 1.48
Pork Loin Boneless Rib Side ...... lb 1.68

Treat your family to... Mr. Deli favorites!
Virginia Style Baked Ham
Freshly Sliced to order 1.99 lb

Amer. Cheese Land o Lakes White or Yellow lb 1.39
Swiss Cheese Imported ... lb 1.99
Kielbasa Hillshire Farms .... lb 1.39
Carandos New England Luncheon Sausage ... lb 1.59
Kahns Liverwurst A/C .. lb 89¢
Dandy Loaf Carandos ...... lb 89¢
Pepperoni Carandos ...... lb 1.99
Available Only in Finast Stores with Mr. Deli Depts.

Corned Rounds..... lb 1.18
Bnls. Chicken Breast lb 1.78
More Meat Values from Finast!
Perri's Italian Style Hot or Sweet all natural Pork Sausage .. lb 1.38
Finast Sliced Bacon 1-lb pkg 1.18
Finast Franks Big Beef .... 1-lb pkg 78¢
Bologna Finast Meat or Beef ...... lb 88¢
Wieners Oscar Mayer all Meat or Beef ... 1-lb pkg 1.18
Variety Pack Oscar Mayer ... 12 oz pkg 1.48
Kirschner Smoked Sausage ...... lb 1.48
Claussen Sauerkraut. qt jar 99¢

Seafood Favorite!
Frozen Dressed Smelts 59¢ lb

In-Store Bake Shop Features!
Fresh Hard Rolls ... 6 for 59¢
Fresh Italian Bread 4 7 oz lvs 1.00
Cookies Home-Style Large Old Fashioned Asstd. ... doz 99¢
Available Only in Stores with In-Store Bake Shops

LARGE ECONOMY PACK!
Whole Boneless Beef Shoulder
custom cut into: Shoulder Roast Steaks and Beef Kabobs
USDA CHOICE Whole Beef Shoulder 1.38 lb
Beef Rib Eye Boneless 8 to 10 lbs Whole Untrimmed ... lb 2.18

"Crock Pot" Specials!
Beef Short Ribs
USDA CHOICE Bone In Lesser amounts lb 98¢ 4 lbs or more 88¢ lb
Beef for Stew
USDA CHOICE Boneless Lesser amounts lb 1.18 4 lbs or more 1.08 lb

USDA Choice Beef!
Chuck Pot Roast Boneless Beef Underblade . lb 1.08
Chuck Steak Boneless Beef (Underblade) ..... lb 1.18
Top Blade Steak Bnls 4 lbs or more Lesser amts lb 1.58 lb 1.48
Full Cut Sirloin Steak Bone In . lb 1.68
Porterhouse Steak Tail-less Extra Trim . lb 1.98
Beef Rib Eye Steaks Bnls .. lb 2.78

YOUR KEY TO SAVINGS
Look for special Colgate Key Savings display for details on $3.50 Refund Offer... And Save on:
88¢ 7 oz tube
88¢ 6 oz tube
69¢ 11 oz can
99¢ each
59¢ box of 30

Finast Frozen Food Values!
Richmond French Fries 5-lb bag 99¢
Finast Pot Pies
Beef, Chicken, Turkey Macaroni & Cheese 4 8 oz pkgs $1
Boil in Bag Meat Entrees Finast ... 4 5 oz pkgs 1.00
Bread Dough Richs Brand ..... 5 lb pkg 1.09
Finast Waffles ..... 5 5 oz pkgs 1.00
Sara Lee Cakes .... 14 oz pkg 99¢
Coffee Lightener Finast .. 2 32 oz ctns 89¢
Turnovers Finast Raspberry Apple Blueberry .... 12 oz pkg 69¢
Mrs. Smith Coconut Custard or Apple Pies .... 25 oz pkg 98¢
Hendries Fudgsicles ... pkg 12 89¢
Breyers "all natural" Ice Cream all flavors half gal 1.59

Fresh Baked the Finast Way!
Big Round Top White Bread
Fresh from the Finast Bakery 3 20 oz lvs $1
Hot Dog Rolls or Hamburg Rolls .. 3 pkgs 8 1.00
Granola Bread .... 1-lb loaf 49¢
English Muffins .... 3 pkgs 6 1.00
Fresh Donuts Plain or Sugar ... 2 pkgs 12 1.00
Bakery Items Available Tuesday thru Saturday Only

Sunrise fresh Dairy Values!
Richmond Qtrs Margarine 3 1-lb pkgs 89¢
Light n' Lively Yogurt . 3 8 oz ctns 89¢
Cheese Food Finast Slices ...... 12 oz pkg 99¢
Finast Cream Cheese.. 8 oz pkg 49¢
Biscuits Finast Buttermilk .... 8 8 oz pkgs 1.00
Cinnamon Rolls Finast .. 2 9 oz pkgs 89
Axelrod Ricotta Whole Milk ... 2-lb pkg 1.8
Not Responsible for Typographical Errors

Iceberg Lettuce
For your Favorite Salad or Sandwich hd 39¢
FIRST O' THE FRESH

Delicious Apples
Golden Fancy Wash. State U.S. No. 1 3 lbs $1
Fresh a Dessert favorite
Pears Western Anjou 10 for 79¢
Great for Salads Delicious
Tomatoes Cherry 59¢ lb
Fresh a Salad favorite
Cucumbers Green 6 for $1

Prices effective February 13 thru February 19, 1977
We Reserve the Right to Limit Quantities

510 Parker Street, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.
Mountain Farms Mall, HADLEY, MASS.
191 East Main Street, WESTFIELD, MASS.
278 Mohawk Trail, GREEN FIELD, MASS.

Gymnastics teams prepare for Civic Center appearance

By NICK KOTSOPOULOS
Collegian Staff

After a year of planning and hard work, the University of Massachusetts women's and men's gymnastics program takes a giant step forward this Sunday afternoon when both teams get the opportunity to showcase their talent in the Springfield Civic Center when they meet arch-rival Springfield College in a double-dual meet.

Not only will this mark the first time UMass is bringing its gymnasts to the Civic Center, but it also marks the first time the Civic Center is staging such a gymnastics program.

Ironically, the originator of this gymnastics extravaganza, Dr. Vivian Barfield, former women's athletic director, is no longer at this university. During her short reign at UMass, one of Barfield's main objectives was to present to the public the UMass athletic teams that are overshadowed constantly by the basketball and hockey teams, some of which are tops in the nation.

So last year, Barfield embarked onthe idea of bringing the UMass women's gymnastics team, ranked seventh in the country last year, and the men's team down to Springfield where they would mmet long-time foe Springfield College in the spacious Civic Center, so that people from all over the Western part of the state could enjoy some great gymnastics.

So for those of you who have nothing to do over the long weekend, and really enjoy gymnastics, your boat has arrived because this Sunday you will be able to witness four of the top teams in New England.

Perhaps the strongest team at the double-dual meet will e the UMass women's gymnastics team, perenially one of the nation's bestteams, and currently 4-1 this year.

After an early season loss to Penn State, the Minutewomen have just been fantastic, according to coach Virginia Evans.

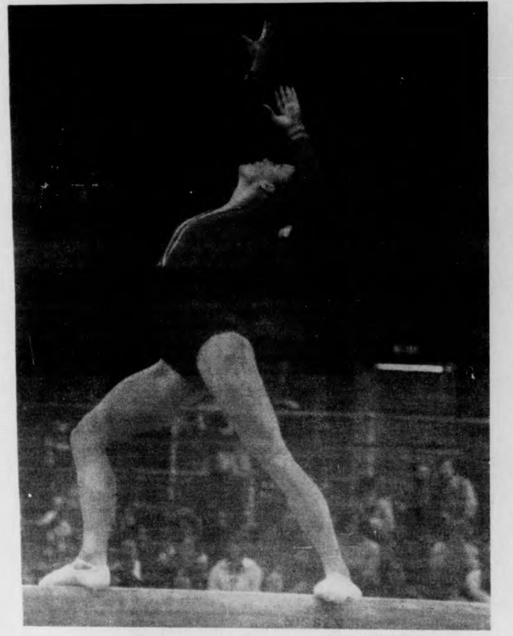
"We may not have any Nadia Commeneci's," Evans said, "but we have some outstanding women gymnasts here at UMass.

"In our last meet against Temple, Jill Heggie scored a 37.25, which is just phenomenal at the collegiate level and right behind her weas Stephanie Jones who scored 36.75 in the all around as a junior."

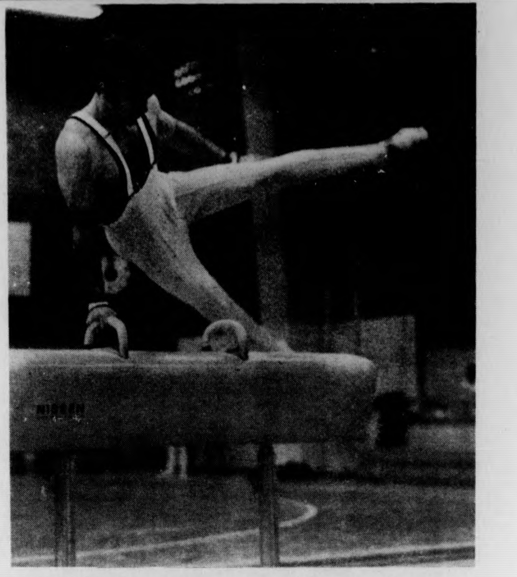
Not only did the Minutewomen receive outstanding performances, but the team broke the all-time scoring record when it reached 143.25 against Temple.

"It's a shame a lot of people on this campus don't know that this school has one of the top gymnastics team in the country," Evans said. "We are constantly living in the shadows of the basketball and hockey teams."

The Minutewomen have held their home meets at the Curry Hicks Cage this year, a place that certainly isn't very suitable for a gymnastics meet. So the jewel of the UMass athletic department, the women's gymnastics team-will leave the dark and dingy Cage this Sunday and perform in the warm, spacious and clean Civic Center.



The men's gymnastics team will be showcasing many of its diverse talents at the Springfield Civic Center this weekend. (Staff photo by Dave Rosenthal)



The women's gymnastics team has the form and grace to be ranked seventh in the country this year. (Staff photo by Rob Carlin)

For the UMass men's gymnastics team, things haven't been quite as spectacular, but the Minutemen have surprised a lot of people under first-year coach Dick Swetman.

The Minutemen are currently 5-2 on the season and very few people thought that this budget-slashed team would be where it is today. For the UMass men gymnasts, it's a matter of pride more than anything else.

Just because the athletic department wants to cut their budget in half, that doesn't mean these gymnasts have half as much desire. In fact, desire has brought them to their 5-2 standing.

"It's a little bit hard," said Mike DiMuro, a member of the team, "when you get totally pshched-up for a meet and then take to the floor and see that the stands are just about empty. It really disappoints the team.

"Unlike everywhere else where teams have strong, vocal support from a jam-packed crowd, we have to psych ourselves up for every meet because we know that we don't have aay large crowds cheering us on."

It certainly will be a big experiment for the UMass athletic department this Sunday afternoon. Either there will be nobody there because nobody really cares, or there will be a good-sized crowd because a lot of people do appreciate a good collegiate gymnastics meet.

But the Umass women's gymnasts will finally have a place to show-off its very talented team and the UMass men's gymnastics team may finally get that roaring crowd support it has been looking for all year.

Tickets are still on sale for the double-dual meet in the Boyden Ticket Office. The meet begins at 2 p.m.

Hayden paces women skiers to third straight meet victory

By RICHARD MOORE
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's ski team is becoming too predictable: the Minutewomen have competed in three Women's Intercollegiate Ski Conference meets this year, and three times the results have shown UMass on top.

Red hot Nancy Hayden's second place finish in the meet's only race, a downhill, led the Minutewomen to a four tenths of a second victory (118.5 to 118.9) over Boston University last weekend at Tenney Mt., in Plymouth, New Hampshire.

"Nancy is skiing real well," coach Steve Tonelli said. "She was one of the league's best last year, and she's at the top again this year. Nancy is an aggressive skier who likes to go fast, so she does well in the downhill and giant slalom, because they're fast races."

Hayden finished with a time of 38.6, only six tenths of a second behind winner Tracy Newlove of BU. Liz Childs of UConn and Denise Gallant of BU tied for third at 39.1. The next three racers across the finish line were Minutewomen: freshman Barbara Reynard in fifth at 39.8, Kathy Clarke sixth at 40.1, and co-captain Kathy Donovan seventh at 40.2.

"Barbara has been a nice surprise," Tonelli said. "It's her first year on the team and she doesn't have all the technique some of the other girls do, but she likes to ski fast. "Kathy Donovan and Kathy Clarke are both skiing very consistently."

Co-captain Kathy Shinnick fell and bent a ski in a practice run and finished a disappointing ninth on a pair of skis borrowed from teammate Hayden.

